DOBERMAN PINSCHER NAMED BEST IN FAMOUS NEW YORK DOG SHOW

By HENRY R. ILSLEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Acclaimed by 15,000 dog show enthusiasts, the Doberman pinscher Ferry v. Rauhfelsen, owned by the Giralda Farms of Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge of Madison, N. J., last night won the title of best in the sixtythird annual exhibition of the Westminster Kennel Club. McClure Halley handled the winner, an imported dog.

Immediately after this award there came the presentation of the James Mortimer Challenge Trophy for the best American-bred dog in the exhibition. The massive cup was taken by the black cocker spaniel Champion My Own Brucie, bred, owned and shown in the ring by Herman E. Mellenthin of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The main ceremony was drawn out to a degree. George S. Thomas of South Hamilton, Mass., was the arbiter in the final judging. After the award, Mr. Thomas said that the group judges had been very good to him in sending up a sextet of as fine quality as he ever had seen.

No second choice is ever made in this type of competition and, naturally, Mr. Thomas would not indicate which dog he would have put up next to the Doberman. There seemed little question in the minds of the experts, though, that the smooth foxterrier, Champion Nornay Saddler, was the runner-up.

A SEARCHING TEST

No final contenders in the Garden ever had received a more severe trial. Time after time Mr. Thomas sent one after another up and down the ring, crosswise and diagonally, viewing each from every possible angle.

Then Mr. Thomas waved all the dogs to the side of the ring and moved toward the scoreboard to get his judge's book. Accompanied by Gerald M. Livingston, president of the Westminster Kennel Club, he went to the middle of the ring, motioned to Halley and as the handler and his charge moved forward an enormous outburst came from the crowd.

The beautiful piece of plate offered by the club was handed to Haliey and a horde of photographers broke into the ring. Flashlights popped and a score of friends of the winner crowded about the successful handler.

The presentation of the trophy for best American-bred was somewhat of an anti-climax, although none of the spectators made a move to leave until My Own Brucie and his big handler had moved off triumphantly.

In the absence of Mrs. Walton Ferguson of Fishers Island, N. Y., who was ill, the gun-dog group was passed upon by Enno Myer of Milford, Ohio. In this breed, at least, prognostications did not go far awry. As had been predicted, the final contest was between the cocker spaniel and the Labrador retriever.

The winner was the arresting black cocker Champion My Own Brucie. He always was asking for his ribbon and topped a lot of noted winners.

LABRADOR PLACED SECOND

Brucie received his stiffest competition from the Labrador, Champion from the Labrador, Champion Earlsmoor Moor of Arden, but in the final analysis it could not have been very close, as Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Milbank's dog was showing far from his best. Third was the inveterate winner among the Irish setters, Champion Milson Top Notcher, owned by the Milson Kennels of Harrison, N. Y., and handled by Harry Hartnett.

One of the most thorough and deliberate pieces of terrier judging done in a long time was conducted by Robert Sedgwick of New York. The least of the group candidates was given every opportunity and the ton flight ones had to show everything they had before the judge waved them to the positions indicating the final awards.

Once again predications were confirmed when Champion Nornay Saddler, the smooth foxterrier from the Wissaboo Kennels of James M. Austin of Westbury, L. I., was placed at No. 1. Len Brumby handled, of course, and Saddler appeared at his best.

The Cnoc Luing Kennels' famed Kerry blue Champion Bumble Bee of Delwin was placed second, while third went to the Scottie Heather Select, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Stalter of Hohokus, N. J.

There was a comparatively small attendance during the early hours, but as the morning progressed more and more enthusiasts drifted into the Garden, and by the time Mrs. William Thompson of New York had the toy breed winners lined up for final inspection there was a crowded ringside. And what seemed more unusual at a morning session, the boxes held an impressive crowd of socialities.

MISS WYNSUM HAS FINE GAIT

It is not too much to say that the toy winner is the finest specimen of the bred we have seen. Mrs. Thompson could not go wrong in the first award, which went to the famous Yorkshire terrier Champion Miss Wynsum, owned by Arthur Mills of Roseland, N. J.

Experts have gone into superlatives commending this mite of dogflesh, more especially as to the perfect blue coloration and the distinctive tan markings. Furthermore, Miss Wynsum can move, showing that perfection of gait that indicates soundness, although this little one is immeasurably handicapped by the profusion of coat. Rarely does a Yorkshire come into the ring displaying a coat that defies the closest inspection.

Miss Wynsum was best in show at the Progressive Dog Club's exhibition of toys, won at Newark, in the Bronx and at Baltimore. Surely that is a record of victories which establishes present-day quality.

The whole history of the ancient hunting breeds was spread before the spectators when the hound group was judged by Chetwood Smith of Boston, son of an illustrious hunting man at the ringside visualized the significance of the breeds represented.

All the hounds that have hunted by scent or sight from as far back as history goes were presented, going back with the Afghans and the salukis to biblical times and before. The latter were the dogs of the Bedouins and the Afghans, unlike any other hound that hunts with a coat that withstands any climate and feet that can climb any mountain, were the hunting dogs of one of the wildest hunting countries of the world.

FOXCATCHER BEAGLE FIRST

Yet a beagle gained he chief award, comparatively modern as he is, but going back to the progenitors of all the smooth-coated hounds as they are now known. The winner was Champion Meadow Lark Draftsman, owned by the Foxcatcher Beagles of Wilmington, Del., and shown in the ring by Mrs. William du Pont. Bred by Louis Batjer of New Brunswick, N. J., Draftsman is an inveterate winner and always may be depended upon to show at his best.

Furnishing the contention was the Afghan Rudiki of Prides Hill, owned by Quincy A. Shaw McKean of Prides Crossing, Mass. This homebred is one of the most striking representatives of his breed ever to show in the Garden, a beautiful light red that presented all the noble bearing that is the result of generations of selective breeding. He was always showing, and it must have been a close decision.

Third was the veteran greyhound, Champion White Rose of Boveway, stair of the Windholme Kennels of Harry T. Peters Jr. of Islip, L. I., a bitch that has won in her breed regularly since her first appearance in the Garden and has been best in her group.

Surprisingly, little Herman Rinkton was only fourth. Having fought it out to the bitter end in the American-bred competition of the American Kennel Club and having been an outstanding contender in every exhibition in which he had been a participant, he had been figured as a bidder for that final rosette. Yet the red dachshund champion lost nothing in the estimation of his adherents for his lowly placing.

Seven finalists appeared to contest the group prizes among the non-sporting dogs. Following the tense battle among the poodles during the second day, there was somewhat of a let-down in the feelings of supporters of the breed, most of whom felt that the original victory presaged a group triumph.

That was almost a foregone conclusion and Champion Blakeen Jung Frau from the Blakeen Kennels of Mrs. Sherman R. Hoyt of Katonah, N. Y., eventually took the rosette. Mrs. Hoyt handled, as usual.

One of the largest matinee audiences in recent years crowded the ringside and filled arena boxes and tiers for the judging of the working dogs. There was a brave array of those animals who have come down to present day types from the olden breeds that worked with sheep and cattle, that came back at night to become the guardians of the home, the folds.

GLEBE JUDGES GROUP

It was almost a foregone conclusion that the Doberman pinscher would go to the top, following his victory in the breed. G. V. Glebe of Bryn Athyn, Pa., was assigned to judge the group and brought a wide experience to the task.

Ferry v. Rauhfelsen landed in New York on Jan. 20. Halley touted his great find and his judgment has been confirmed.

Ferry absolutely is of the correct size. He has conformation, bone, substance and all other attributes that istrike the connoisseur of working form, and he hasn't a coarse hair in his superb coat.

Then came an interesting interlude, during which the sled dogs competed in their pulling competitions. Preceded by a Scottish bagpipe band, although the connection was not immediately apparent, the teams came into the ring and went through their contests to the great delight of the spectators.

Probably the obedience test opened more eyes to canine mentality and susceptibility to training than any feature that has been introduced in the Garden in recent years. It was illuminating, inspiring at times, to the spectators as they witnessed evidences of complete accord and devotion between trainer and dog.

Keio-Waseda Tennis Tourney Slated Apr. 15-16

The semi-annual Spring tennis tournament between Waseda and Keio universities, which was feared would be cancelled because of the shortage of balls, will be held as originally scheduled on Saturday and Sunday, April 15 and 16, at the Keio University courts at Hiyoshidai. It will be their 31st clash.

New balls will be changed after every 10 games instead of seven games in the past.

Lions Rout Dolfins By 9 to 0 Score

The Lions continued their winning streak Thursday in the only game played of the professional baseball league at the Korakuen stadium by running roughshod over the Dolfins by a 9-0 score. Due to the strong wind, the two other scheduled games were postponed.

Pitcher Isami Fukushi of the Lions was in good form and held the Dolfins to five scattered hits while his team-mates clouted the offerings of two moundsmen for 11 hits.

CANADIENS ROUT RANGERS, 3-1 IN BIG UPSET

By JOSEPH NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK Feb. 27—Undermanned and underrated, but not at all uninspired, the Canadiens of Montreal contributed one of the biggest upsets of the waning National Hockey League season by shutting out the New York Rangers at Madison Square Garden last night. The revivified Flying Frenchmen made the most of the few opportunities presented to carve a 3-to-0 triumph over the New Yorkers, who bowed to the Canadiens for the first time this campaign.

Only thirteen Habitants dressed for the battle and of these Babe Siebert, defense stalwart, failed to play. In addition, the Rangers, with four victories and two ties over the Northerners in their six previous meeting, were top-heavy favorites at 5 to 17.

But the Canadiens flashed a brand of hockey that certainly endeared them to the 9,862 fans, despite the fact that they were skating against the popular home aggregation. The visitors waged a sound, well-grounded battle outskating the usually fleet Rangers in the critical moments.

With the Black Hawks losing to Boston, the Canadiens emerged from the league cellar, passing Chicago by one point.

BLUE SHIRTS FAR FROM PEAK

For the Rangers, who made a gallant attempt to stem the rampant Frenchmen, it must be said that they were far from the top of their game. Besides having to play minus the services of Captain Art Coulter, out with a cold, the New Yorkers had to contend with the rigors of a schedule forcing them to play five games in nine nights. The assignment proved a little too big and they were palpably tired as they faced the onslaughts of their foes.

Claud Bourque played goal for the Canadiens, in place of their regular net-tender, Wilfie Cude, who was suffering from an eye injury. Bourque, who had not appeared to particular advantage in his previous visits to this city, gave an excellent exhibition to earn his shutout.

The rookie goalie uas roundly hailed by the crowd and his teammates when the battle was over. He came up with a number of sparkling saves, and handled his position all through with the aplomb of a veteran.

Walter Buswell, Johnny Gagnon and Paul Haynes scored the goals. Buswell's came in the first period when the Rangers were short handed, but Gagnon and Haynes tallied in the middle chapter with the teams at full strength. Toe Blake, left forward, kept his place at the head of the scoring procession in the league by earning assists on all three goals.

HELLER SENT OFF FOR TRIPPING

At the outset the Frenchmen charged heavily, but they were unable to do anything against Davey Kerr in the New York cage until Ott Heller was banished for tripping Hayes. Then the visitors swarmed around the Ranger goal and Buswell poked in the rubber on passes from Blake and Gagnon in 13:39.

After that the Rangers charged mightily through the rest of the period, but with no success. They sent five men forward in the middle frame, but this move turned out to the liking of the Habitants, who struck twice for tallies. Gagnon drove a long, straight shot past Kerr in 12:47, with Haynes and Blake assisting, and Haynes registered in 15:53, with the aid of Blake and Gagnon.

Through the third period the hode forces skated in on Bourque time and again, but the latter played his position faultlessly and roused the crowd to cheers frequently with his acrobatic blocking.

Federation to Invite Italian Swimmers

On the heels of the conclusion of the Agreement on Cultural Cooperation between the Japanese and Italian governments Thursday, the Japan Swimming Federation Thursday night decided formally to invite several middle and long distance freestyle swimmers to compete in a Japan-Germany-Italy tri-nation swimming meet in the coming Summer. The Federation was promised support by a Foreign Office official to realize the visit of the Italian swimmers.

Six German swimmers, including breaststroke, backstroke and freestyle performers and a diver, have already been invited by the Federation to compete in the Japanese national championships to be held at the Meiji Shrine pool in Tokyo next August.

N.Y. Times

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 27—Dartmouth's string of Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League victories was abruptly checked before 3,500 cheering fans tonight as Cornell staved off a desperate rally by the Indians to win, 37-36.

It was Cornell's seventh victory in ten circuit games and Dartmouth's first defeat in ten. The crowd virtually mobbed the Cornell players as they left the floor, for the Ithacans had prevented the invaders from clinching the league title and also had increased their second-place margin over Columbia.

INVADERS TAKE TIME OUT

Leading, 37-32, with two minutes to go, Cornell saw Gus Broberg, the league's high scorer, cage a long shot, and Joe Cottone, aggressive forward, steal the ball and score unmolested. Then Cornell held off Dartmouth rushes despite two time-outs for the Indians in the last minute, the final one four seconds before the gun.

Ramsey's four field goals, all pushed in from under the basket, kept Cornell ahead of Dartmouth in the first ten minutes of the game, after the Indians had gone out to a 4-0 lead on goals by MacLeod and Broberg. Dartmouth finally tied the score at 16—all after fourteen minutes on Batchelder's long shot.

Foertsch of Cornell came through with two field goals, in close, as Dartmouth pulled Dudis and Cottone out of the game. Cornell led at the half, 20—16.

BROBERG STARTS A RALLY

Broberg, scoreless in the opening half, dropped a basket to start a rally that sent the Indians into a 24-20 lead after the first five minutes of the second period. With seven and a half minutes left, Cornell, once 6 points behind, trailed by only 30—28, Foertsch having made 4 points in a row.

Bennett's goal tied the score, and Batchelder and Foertsch converted free throws for 31—all with three and one-half minutes left. Foertsch cut in for two baskets and Cornell led, 35—31, with three minutes to play.

Cornell went ahead, 37—32, but Broberg and Cottone, the later on a sleeper, netted goals to cut the Indians' deficit to 1 point with a minute left. Then Cornell withstood Dartmouth's last desperate efforts.

PRINCETON TOPS PENN IN SWIM FOR 4 STRAIGHT

N.Y. Herald Tribune

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25—Princeton's undefeated varsity swimming team easily disposed of Pennsylvania in Hutchinson Pool today, 53 to 22, lowering two tank records in its fourth straight league triumph.

Capt. Dick Hough, winning the 200-yard breast stroke from his teammate, Frank McCarter, in 2:24.5, lowered his own mark of 2:30.8, made in 1937.

Al Vande Weghe, the Tiger backstroke specialist, turned in a dazzling 1:37 to capture the 150-yard race from Levisk Tolan, of Penn. The previous pool record was 1:38.8, made by Bob Burns, of Pale, a year ago.

One of the surprises was the defeat of Paul Williams, Penn captain, in the 100-yard free style by Ned Parke and Hank Van Oss, both of tigers. Williams took the fifty-yard free style by a scant touch from Van Oss in 0:34.4.

Princeton's freshman team easily defeated the Red and Blue freshman, 60 to 15.

The summaries:

300-yard medley relay—Won by Princeton (Al Vande Weghe, Ted Huenger, Herb Moeller); Penn (Levick Tolan, Lafe Weeks, George Jack), second. Time, 3:06.4.

220-yard free style—Won by Ned Parke, Princeton; Art McClure, Princeton, second; Sam Tator, Penn, third. Time, 2:20.9.

50-yard free style—Won by Paul Williams, Penn; Hank Van Oss, Princeton, second; Jim Green, Princeton, third. Time, 0:24.4.

Diving—Won by Francis Gosling, Penn, 91.06 points; Robert Logan, Penn, 76.08, second; Dick Mead, Princeton, 74, third.

100-yard free style—Won by Ned Parke, Princeton; Hank Van Oss, Princeton, second; Paul Williams, Penn, third. Time, 0:54.4.

150-yard back stroke—Won by Al Vande Weghe, Princeton; Levick Tolan, Penn, second; Scotty Scammell, Princeton, third. Time, 1:37 (new pool record).

200-yard breast stroke—Won by Dick Hough, Princeton; Frank McCarter, Princeton, second; Lafe Weeks, Penn, third. Time, 2:24.5 (new pool record).

440-yard free style—Won by Shef Halsey, Princeton; Sam Tator, Penn, second; Ralph Binns, Princeton, third. Time, 5:15.9.

440-yard free-style relay—Won by Princeton (Charles Boozan, Jim Green, Art McClure, Hank Van Oss); Penn (Charles Smith, Tony Moore, George Jack, Paul Williams), second. Time, 3:43.7.

RIGGS WANTS EXPERIENCE AT WIMBLEDON

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Fighting off the Australians in the Davis Cup Challenge Round next Summer is going to be hard because Bobby Riggs, No. 1 U. S. singles player, hasn't done a thing about putting more teeth in his game.

It may be recalled that Bobby, after unknown Gilbert Hunt in the last National championships, said he was going home to Chicago to rest up and remodel his game in preparation for defense of the big cup this Summer.

He realied, he said, that he would have to develop a much more aggressive game if he was to play Jack Bromwich, the Australian wonder boy, on even terms. So he was going to move himself off that baseline and become a rip-snorting, smashing net player. He was going to get a good professional to teach him that kind of game and make him play it.

Well, it turns out that Bobby hasn't done anything except rest up. He has played practically none at all, he admits, but he does say he feels well rested. He's here now, getting in a little practice before competing in a tournament at Nassau—his first since last Summer—and he still clings to that backline.

"Maybe I did say something like that," he grinned. "I was awful tired of tennis about that time. But all I'll say now is that I'm going to play the kind of tennis that will win every match, if I can. Maybe I will get more aggressive, if necessary.

"Furthermore," he continued, "You may quote me as saying that those Australians are going to be mighty hard to beat, and that our team should be chosen carefully and given every consideration."

"Yes, go on."

"Well, they should be sure to pick the best men both in singles and doubles, because this is going to be a tough Challenge Round. And then they should give us every consideration.

"What do you mean—every consideration?"

"Well, I mean we ought to be sent to Europe to play at Paris and Wimbledon. So we can get international experience.

"They ought to send me and Gene Mako and Wayne Sabin and Jack Tidball, anyway. They ought not to send me unless they send a doubles partner along. I think I'll team up with Sabin in doubles. Wayne must be playing fine tennis—winning five tournaments in a row."

Riggs says he is not quite 21 yet, and he hasn't been to Wimbledon, the fountain-head of tennis. Sabin, who looks like playing the No. 2 singles right now, says he is 22, and he caught only a fleeting glimpse of Wimbledon two Summers ago. Mako alone of the three most prominent candidates has been and seen and done, and he has played no important international singles.

Disturbing is the news that Australia has placed the veteran Jack Crawford on its challenging team, along with Bromwich and Adrian Quist. Crawford only a few years ago was the world's first or second best tennis player. If he has recovered his form he probably will replace Quist as a singles player in the Challenge Round, and that would give Australia more tennis team than seems lawful.

KONGO FIGHTS OTSU TO DRAW OVER 12 ROUNDS

Tokyo fight fans saw one of the best bouts in many weeks when Iwao Kongo, up and coming flyweight of the Usuda Boxing Club, and Shoichi Otsu, recognized bantamweight champion of Japan, fought to a 10-round draw Friday night before 2,000 fans at the Hibiya Public Hall auditorium.

It was the first really tough fight for Kongo, who has been bowling over the pugilists in his division one after another. He fought at a 5½ pound weight disadvantage, tipping the scales at 110 pounds as against Otsu's 115½ pounds.

BATTLE ROYAL

The bout was a battle royal from the opening gong. No sooner had they shaken hands than Kongo, true to his usual tactics, rushed at Otsu. The latter, however, cleverly sidestepped and as Kongo tried to recover his balance, Otsu landed two powerful punches with a full swing on Kongo's face and jaw and down went Kongo. But he was up without a count.

Kongo appeared greatly excited at the turn of the bout and seemed to take too many of Otsu's blows in his face. Otsu tried desperately for a knockout with his right in the second and third rounds. He couldn't put it over and from the third round on saw Kongo staging a rally that was to put Otsu on the defense throughout latter half of the bout. He scored with lefts and rights to the face and a right uppercut to the body.

Kongo's infighting forced Otsu against the ropes in the fourth and fifth rounds and he showered punches on Otsu, who covered his face with both hands and clinched at every opportunity. He rallied however toward the latter part of the fifth and rocked Kongo with another stiff punch to the jaw.

Otsu was considerably in danger in the sixth but he beat Kongo to the offensive in the seventh and scored with lefts and rights to the head and body. Kongo came out of the furious mixing bleeding from the left side of his face.

KONGO STRONGER

Kongo proved the stronger of the two physically and he piled up points in the last few rounds of the bout. A low blow in the 12th round spoiled his chance for the decision.

The judges' decision for a draw was loudly protested by both sides. The judges deliberated again and sustained their decision.

Goro Kikuchi of the Shinko Club, 124 pounds, took the decision over Takeo Hayafusa of the Usuda Boxing Club, 120 pounds, in the eight-round semi-final.

Putting Vital Factor In Golf Tournament

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 18—Golf's professional forces, fighting it out nearly every week for those checks, mince no words about what part of the game brings the pay-off reward.

It's the same tale from all of them—"putting."

The trusty putting blade of tall Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., got him out in front today through 36 holes of the 72-hole argument for the top $2,000 of the $10,000 Crescent City open.

Picard, one of the big money winners in the game, played with Gene Sarazen, the Connecticut squire, yesterday when he reeled off a neat 69, three under par, to take the lead at the halfway mark with 141 blows.

While Picard was putting together nines of 33-36 to take a one-stroke lead over the field entering the last 36 holes, Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., ran into "putter trouble" that cost him a chance to go up to the front.

After matching Picard's outgoing 33, four under par, Snead took 38 blows in the stretch to wind up in a tie with three others for seventh place with 145.

Slugger Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., and young Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., got down their share of putts to reach the halfway station with 142s, just a stroke back of Picard.

The prize performance of the two opening rounds came from Harry Nettelbladt, slender, red-faced professional from Framingham, Mass.

Nettleladt breezed around the wind-swept course in 67 strokes to equal the layout's record held jointly by Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., and Sammy Byrd, the former major league baseball star from Philadelphia. Despite a first-round of 76, he was tied for fourth place with Ralph Guldahl of Madison, N. J., the National Open Champion, at 143, two strokes back of the leader.

Just back of the open champion and Nettleladt came another young pro, Zell Eaton of Oklahoma City, Okla., who posted a pair of 72s. In the bracket of 145 were Snead, Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles, Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., and W. A. Stackhouse of Sequin, Texas.

Invitations Mailed For Penn Relays

PHILADELPHIA.—Invitations to compete in the 45th annual University of Pennsylvania Relay Carnival April 28 and 29 have been mailed to 952 colleges, preparatory schools and high schools, H. Jamison Swarts, Carnival Manager, announced.

In addition to the regular program of championship relays and track and field contests one or two special events for some of America's outstanding trackmen will be presented during the two-day competition, Swarts said.

The invitations went to 246 colleges, 562 high schools and 144 preparatory schools in every section of the nation. High and preparatory schools were asked to enter only those teams able to run the medley relay in at least 8:20, the two-mile relay in 8:30 and the quarter-mile relay in 45s.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STUDIES FEASIBILITY OF BID FOR 1944 WINTER OLYMPICS

By FRANK ELKINS

N.Y. Times

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 28—With New Hampshire, for many years a Mecca for snow and ice enthusiasts the world over, seriously considering making a bid for the 1944 Winter Olympics, it was learned today that the State Legislature would determine, in less than three weeks, the feasibility of conducting the quadrennial games in the White Mountain area. Then the Legislature will act accordingly.

Because of the rapid growth of Winter sports and the excellent facilities already existing in the Granite State, Representative Lawrence C. Ellery of Keene introduced in the House several weeks ago a resolution asking that the New Hampshire Planning and Development Commission be requested to consider the potentialities of holding the Winter Olympics.

The resolution met with the wholehearted approval of the legislature, which immediately requested the commission to look into the matter and recommend to it not later than April 2 the advisability of staging the game. Nine of the State's outstanding Winter sports figures were named to the commission's Advisory Committee, of which John P. Carleton, former Dartmouth coach and the only man to represent America in the Winter Olympics of 1924, is the chairman.

AN EXTENSIVE SURVEY

This committee has spent considerable time getting figures on past Winter Olympics and investigating places that might be considered as good sites by the International Olympic Committee. Whether the members feel that New Hampshire is capable of staging the events and can raise sufficient money to defray the expenses of such a gigantic undertraking will be known in about ten days.

According to Don Tuttle, secretary for the advisory committee, the group has figures from Lake Placid and Germany on the 1932 and 1936 Olympics and also the budget which Japan had set up for the 1940 events before relinquishing them to Switzerland. Communications have been sent to influential sports figures and organizations such as Avery Brundage and the American Olympic Association, asking their advice. Inasmuch as Detroit is planning to bid for the 1944 Summer games, New Hampshire feels that it is in a good position to hold the Winter contests.

This observer spent considerable time seeking Winter sports leaders of New Hampshire and getting their opinions. While some were keen on the proposition, many more thought the idea "fantastic" at this time. They brought out that accommodations and transportation facilities were not sufficient for the great number of athletes and spectators who would be attracted.

One of the leading supporters of the project is Alf Halvorson of Berlin, Nansen president and National Ski Association official, who worked with Representative Ellery in getting action on the resolution.

Asked where New Hampshire could find sufficient facilities, not too far scattered, he outlined the possible sites on a map. The southernmost point would be Laconia, about fifty miles south of the White Mountains; the northernmost, Berlin, about ten miles north of the White Mountains, with the western side bounded by Franconia and the eastern by Conway.

DISTRIBUTION OF EVENTS

According to his plans, there would be slalom and downhill races at Franconia on Cannon Mountain, where the State already has one of the finest tramways in the world; the ski jump and cross-country at Berlin, the figure skating at Conway, speed skating at Lake Winnepesaukee and the bobsled races on either Mount Madison or Mount Gunstock in the Belknap Mountain Recreational Center.

Iceboat racing would be held also on Lake Winnepesaukee, where it would be necessary to build a grandstand somewhere along the lake, in front of which the speed skating also would be staged on one long course so that thousands of spectators on the banks could easily watch it. Inasmuch as sled-dog racing is popular around Laconia, Gilford and Tamworth, it also could be introduced into the games and held somewhere in that section, Mr. Halvorson contended.

Whether America would be able to gain the approval of the International Olympic Committee to hold the Winter games so soon after staging them in 1932 is doubtful. Italy has requested the 1944 contests at Sestrierres and it is more than likely that it will obtain sanction. However, if New Hampshire improves and enlarges its already vast Winter sports terrain it could be the scene of many international races as well as the world skiing championships.

Memorial Service For Sugimura Planned

The Japan Amateur Athletic Federation, at its regular meeting of its directors Friday, decided to hold a memorial service for Dr. Yotaro Sugimura, former Ambassador to Italy and France, who died at the Keio University Hospital Friday morning. Whether it will be in the form of an athletic meet has not yet been decided.

Dr. Sugimura was a former member of the International Olympic Committee, and was active at the I. O. C. meeting at Oslo in the year preceding the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936. It was his brilliant work that prevented the I. O. C. from awarding the Games to Helsinki. The decision to defer selection of the site resulted in the I.O.C. vote in favor of Tokyo at the Berlin meeting the next year.

MAPLE LEAFS TIE AMERICANS 1-ALL ON ICE

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, March 1—The third-place Americans retained their slim margin over the Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League race by playing a 1-all tie with the Northerners at Madison Square Garden last night. Late in the third period the New Yorkers seemed on the road to victory when they contributed the first score, but the Leafs soon evened the count and sent proceedings into overtime. Nothing more was done in the extra session, however.

The spangled skaters remained 2 points ahead of their rivals, making it almost certain that the Americans and Leafs will oppose each other in the third and fourth place play-offs for the championship next month. The rival sextets have to meet only once more during the regular campaign, but the Americans have the series well in hand with four victories to two defeats and the single stalemate.

Although the contest promised a preview of a post-season clash, it attracted a comparatively small crowd of only 7,000 fans. And there was very little to excite the onlookers, save for the two scoring thrusts. Lorne Carr contributed the first, when he drove a long left-alley shot past Turk Broda, but this advantage was short-lived indeed, for Gus Marker beat Earl Robertson with a short thrust less than two minutes later.

RIVALS TAKE FEW CHANCES

Both teams were hesitant to take chances except when absolutely necessary, with the result that action was rarely sustained. In the main the rival sextets were content to send one, or at the most two, skaters ahead with the puck, to try a desultory shot and then skate swiftly back to defensive territory.

At the start the Leafs tried to catch Robertson off guard with a pair of long shots, but the goalie was on the alert and capably handled the drives. The puck seesawed back and forth for some minutes until Red Horner of the visitors took a penalty for interfering with Joe Jerwa. Then the Americans carried on a five-man attack, but so closely did the Leaf skaters check that Broda was not called on to make a single save while Horner was out.

The Leafs had an opportunity when Wilf Field was sent off for interfering with Doc Romnes, and they, too, rushed five strong. They had a little more success than the Americans inasmuch as they got a couple of shots on Robertson's stick, but that was all. Near the end of the period the Americans once more had an advantage in man-power, with Marker going to the fence, but again they failed to find the way to Broda's cage.

FINE SAVE BY ROBERTSON

In the second period each team missed several good chances. Dave Schriner skated in on the cage alone, only to lose the disk before he could shoot. Buzz Boll slipped around the Spangled defense on the left and moved close to Robertson, who came up with a nerve-tingling save.

The Americans showed a little more aggressive spirit in the third period, firing at Broda from all sides. Most of these shots were long ones, though, and the Northern goalie experienced little trouble.

Still the Americans persisted, and at length crashed the scoring column when Schriner and Hooley Smith carried the disk into Toronto ice to set it up for Carr. Carr released a forty-foot drive that flew past Broda's unprotected side into the cords in 13:48.

Immediately the Leafs gambled all on a five-man rush, and tied the count in 15:12 when Marker converted relays from Horner and Boll.

DOLFINS STOP WIN STREAK OF GIANTS

The Dolfins from Nagoya scored a royal upset in the professional baseball league's triplicheader Friday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here by trouncing the Giants by a 3 to 2 score. It was the Giants' first setback of the season in five games.

Centerfieder Tsunesuke Sasaki led the Dolfins to victory with a homer into the left field bleachers, first up in the first half of the first inning.

The Senators nosed out the Tigers, 1 to 0, in the last half of the 10th inning. Shortstop Yanagi, a newcomer, was the hero for the Senators with a hit through second to bring in Left Fielder Aoki from second for the winning run. Aoki had gone to first on his third hit of the day and advanced to second on Backstop Monzen's passed ball.

The summaries follow:

		R	H	E
Dolfins	100 101 000	3	8	4
Giants	101 000 000	2	7	2

EIGHT PLAYERS SUSPENDED BY BRITISH I.H.A.

LONDON, Feb. 18 (CP Cable)—Eight Canadian members of the Streatham Hockey Club last night had virtually decided to return to Canada after the club was expelled from the National League by the British Ice Hockey Association.

These eight were suspended as individuals. Bill Woodward, defenseman from Kitchener, Ont., was banned until the end of the 1940-41 season for starting a free-for-all in a game Wednesday against Wembley Monarches.

Suspensions until the end of 1939-40 season were given Goalie Louis St. Denis and Wingman Gordon Day, both of Ottawa. Five others suspended for the balance of the current season were Jules Blais of Victoriaville, Que., Bill Moran of Ottawa, Skipper Bean, Listowel, Ont., John Mahaffey of Montreal and Dan Tomalty of Montreal.

Still eligble for play in British hockey are Henry Hayes, Montreal, Bobby Beaton of New Glasgow, N. S., and Charlie Turner of Hamilton, Ont.

Streatham announced its withdrawal from the league last Monday in protest against suspension of three players by the B. I. H. A. The three, who played in a league game after having been declared on the suspended list for rough play, were St. Denis, Day and Blais.

Shortly before Wednesday night's game between Streatham and Monarchs, the Association modified its order and allowed the three to play because six other Stream players were out of action due to injuries. Streatham defeated Monarchs, 3-2.

A readjustment of the National League Schedule is being made as a result of the Feb. 17 suspensions. Harringay Racers, scheduled to face Streatham next, will play Wembley Lions instead.

Referee Hank Wilson of Calgary was principal witness at th ecouncil meeting which decided on the suspensions. He was slashed by Woodward with his stick in the Wednesday night game. Wilson then gave Woodward a match penalty.

There has been a suggestion the Streatham Club may be included in an outlaw league made up of Provincial clubs, unless most of the players return to Canada. Streatham was in fourth place in the league standing.

Italy Wants Tennis In Olympics Program

From the Italian Lawn Tennis Association has come a request to the Japan Lawn Tennis Association for support in the former's movement to have tennis returned to the official program of the Olympic Games. It has been 15 years since tennis was omitted because of the annual international Davis Cup competition and the Wimbledon matches.

The matter will be formally presented to the general meeting of the International Olympic Committee at London next June by the Italian delegation.

The local Association will meet shortly on the Italian request.

DUROCHER OPTIMISTIC ABOUT DODGERS

By ROSCOE McGOWEN

N.Y. Times

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 28—Leo Durocher is starting his first major league managerial campaign as a Grade A optimist. The Florida sun that beat down upon his new Dodgers—and a lot of them are brand-new—as they romped through a two and one-half hour workout today was no brighter than the sunshine in the soul of Lippy Leo.

"I've got a great bunch of boys," orated Leo as he sat beside the clubhouse with a towel wrapped snugly around his salary wing. "Greatest spirit in the world. Eeverybody working alike and no aces among 'em.

"Look at the shape some of those pitchers are in!" he exclaimed. "Take Whit Wyatt and Ira Hutchinson, for instance. Why, those fellows were throwing faster in batting practice today than mediocre pitchers will be tossing them in midseason."

This seemed true enough. Hutchinson faced the hitters first, followed by Wyatt, and both hurlers had the boys swinging late much of the time until the pitchers eased a trifle.

SOME PRAISE FOR MOORE

What did Mr. Durocher think of Gene Moore?

"Now, I'm glad you asked me that. I've been waiting for somebody to mention him. I'm tickled to death about Moore. Did you see him running to first and did you notice anything wrong? I should say you didn't," Leo answered himself before his questioner could draw a short breath.

He'll play right field. Tuck Stainback will be in center and Ernie Koy in left. I can tell you without waiting any longer, and I guess that's pretty fair outfield," he remarked with great self-satisfaction.

Durocher said he would carry three catchers, six infielders and probably ten pitchers. Reminded that they added to only twentyfour, he revealed that he was after another player.

"What I want," he explained, "is a guy like Pat Crawford (the chap who played such a fine utility and pinch-hitting role with the Cardinals several years ago). I've got the fellow in mind, but I can't tell you his name now."

Pepper Martin may be nearest to answering Durocher's specifications on both utility and disposition. The Wild Horse isn't as wild as of yore, but still a bad hombre for any pitcher to face in a pinch.

DRILL OPENS WITH CALISTHENICS

The calisthenics drill opened the day at 10:30 A.M. Pepper games, ball tossing, batting, bunting and infield practice followed, with the workout ending about 1 P. M.

Jim Winford is the first casualty with a badly sprained right ankle, suffered when he stepped into a hole while chasing a fly ball.

Durocher rates Johnny Hudson a valuable utility infielder. Pete Coscarart has the inside track for second base, provided he can hit as much as .280.

The curfew hour, now and throughout the season, is midnight. "In bed," Leo said, "and not even beer is permitted until the first exhibition game. After that they can have some beer, but no hard liquor at any time."

Only Theory

Ah Ling, the bank clerk, was explaining, for his wife's instruction, exactly why the bank rate stood at its present figure, why the economic depression existed, and how it could be cured.

"It seems wonderful," the wife said at last, "that anyone could know as much about money as you do and have so little."

Inquisitive Eh?

Willie: "What is a sinking fund, mother?"

Mother: "It's Pa's bank account when the bills begin to come in."

Ex-Convict: "Not when you consider my long familiarity with the pen."

A Bit of Exaggeration

Father—And there, son, I have told you the story of your daddy and the Great War.

Son—Yes, daddy, but what did they need all the other soldiers for?

HORIGUCHI WINS AGAIN

A flash taken of the Horiguchi-Amino fight on Saturday night at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku. Amino's low crouch (on left) led later to his low punches which caused stoppage of the bout in the fifth round in Horiguchi's favor.

AMINO FOULS HORIGUCHI IN 5TH ROUND; 20,000 FANS HOWL FOR BOUT TO GO ON

The police had a busy time preventing a riot at the Kokugikan wrestling bowl at Ryogoku Saturday night when Matsuo (Tiger) Amino's low punches proved too much for the referee and he awarded the scheduled 12-rounder to Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi on a foul in the fifth round.

Horiguchi, Japan's featherweight king, was out to become the Henry Armstrong of this country, taking on hard hitting Amino, welterweight, and the ballyhoo attracted 20,000 fans to the bowl. The spectators felt themselves robbed with the bout stopped after 33 seconds of action in the fifth round. They showed signs of getting ugly, so much so, that police encircled the ring to protect the fighters and the officials.

GIVES AWAY 18½ POUNDS

Sporting his opponent an 18½ pound weight advantage, Horiguchi fought a cool battle, though at the outset of the bout he was being pushed back by Amino's superior weight. By far the faster of the two, Horiguchi consistently piled up points and when it seemed as if he would fight his way to a decision, the bout was abruptly halted in the fifth because of Amino's low blows. Horiguchi weighed in at 128½ pounds and Amino at 147 pounds.

Amino was determined to make short work of Horiguchi for he came swinging with lefts and rights to the head and body as the fight opened. But Horiguchi cleverly blocked them with his arms and stepped in and scored with a two-fisted attack from close range. Amino was dangerous in the second round when he connected with some stiff punches to the head and body but there was no question that Horiguchi was more than holding his own against the much heavier fighter. As a matter of fact, it appeared that as early as the third round he had gained confidence of beating his opponent. His straight lefts and rights set back Amino on his heels on several occasions as the crowd clamored for the killing.

Finding himself on the defense and unable to beat Horiguchi to the punch, Amino changed his tactics in the fourth round. He resorted to a body attack with the hope of landing a knockout blow in the solar plexus. He effected a low crouch and began shooting his punches upwards. A left uppercut landed below the belt. Then he landed another low punch as the round ended.

AMINO HITS LOW

No sooner had the fifth round started than Amino hooked another low punch and Referee Ogata, apparently of the opinion that it was deliberate on the part of Amino, stopped it and awarded victory to Horiguchi on a foul.

Amino's great mistake was not keeping up his rushing tactics which he showed at the outset of the first round because that was his only chance for victory. With his weight, any blows that he landed would have punished the lighter Horiguchi severely. Horiguchi, on the other hand, showed plenty of ring generalship. Instead of resorting to his usual rushing attack with a relentless, two-fisted attack that has proved the end of many a fighter in his division, he decided to outbox his slower opponent. He fought carefully and slipped in lefts and rights to the head and body with too much speed for Amino.

English Crickelers Win in S. Africa

PIETERMARITZBURG, South Africa, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press).—The touring Marylebone cricket club today defeated Natal by nine wickets. In the three-day contest the home players obtained 295 and 219, the Englishmen replying with 407 and 110 runs for one wicket.

William Edrich, young Middlesex professional, was the star. He had made 150 in the M. C. C.'s first venture at the wickets and followed with 45 not out. In the second innings Douglas Wright, Kent spin bowler, captured six wickets for 55.

ADELAIDE, Australia, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press)—South Australia won the Sheffield Shield, Australia's premier cricket trophy, today for the sixth time since inauguration of the competition in 1892. They finished with 21 ponts, one more than Victoria, to capture the championship held last season by New South Wales.

Queensland took third place with 13, but New South Wales obtained only two points in six matches.

Victoria needed only first innings points against South Australia to win the championship, but rain ruined the contest started last Friday and it ended in a draw. At the close Saturday the home team had 207 for seven in reply to Victoria's 321. No play was possible yesterday or today.

Nisei Captures U.S. Wrestling Title In 118-Pound Class

Domei Tsushin

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26—Six Nisei (American-born Japanese parentage) competed in the national A. A. U. wrestling championships held here last night at the Golden Gate Exposition. Four were eliminated in the first round.

Tom Imoto of the Fullerton Junior College, California, won the 118-pound title by pinning Willis Scribner of Sherman Institute, California, in 41 seconds.

Michihiko Fujioka of the University of California was second in the 112-pound division, being decisioned by Herbert Farrel of Rosseller Park High School, New Jersey, in the final round.

Emilio Bruno, who has made two trips to Japan, was defeated by Walter Jacob of the Ithaca Y.M.C.A. New York, in the 158 pound division final. Jacob won by a fall in 6 minutes 45 seconds.

HARVEY BEATS LARRY GAINS BEFORE 8,000

LONDON, March 16—At the Harringay Arena, in a disappointing and whistling by a crowd of 8,000 spectators, Len Harvey, winning nearly every round, regained the British Empire Heavyweight Championship, which he lost to Jack Petersen in 1934, by beating the 37 year old Canadian Negro Larry Gains.

Larry Gains, who was badly battered, retired at the end of the 13th round with two badly cut eyes.

Harvey scaled 203 lbs. at the weighing-in time this afternoon, his heaviest of his career, while Gains' weight was 201½ lbs. Both boxers looked extremely fit but there was a sharp contrast in demeanor, Harvey smiling and confident while Gains looked deadly serious. Harvey was a 3 to 1 favorite in the betting.

It was only the referee's untiring effort in making the men break that prevented a fiasco through too much clinching and wrestling. It always appeared, however, to be a battle between veteran masters of ringcraft and this was undoubtedly responsible for the slow tempo of the fight, which showed only occasional glimpses of action.

Harvey, boxing confidently, landed almost as he pleased with stinging right swings while he repeatedly jabbed his left in Gains' face. Gains was cumbersome and slow and was unable to counter Harvey's attack but he must be credited for his success in slowing down the fight and frustrating Harvey's efforts to tire him out.

Harvey was generally the aggressor and scored frequently with vicious right hooks, which opened up an old cut under Gains' left eye in the 8th round and further damaged it in the 11th with a vicious right swing.

Harvey's relentless punching damaged Gains' right eye in the 12th and 13th rounds, and drew blood from both his eyes and nose, after which Gains wisely retired at the end of the 13th.—Reuter.

LEWIS TO MEET HARVEY

LONDON, March 17—John Henry Lewis has signified his willingness to defend his world cruiser-weight title against Len Harvey, the British Empire heavyweight champion, in England.

The probable date of the contest is May 23, on the eve of the Derby.

MICHIGAN WINS U.S. COLLEGIATE SWIM TITLE

Domei Tsushin

ANN ARBOR, Michigan, March 26—Michigan won its sixth consecutive title with 65 points as the 16th annual National Intercollegiate Swimming championships closed here today.

Ohio State was second with 58 points and Princeton third with 22 points. Other scores were: Yale 14 points, Texas, Harvard, Southern California, 8 points each, Northwestern 4, Columbia, Iowa, Iowa State, 3 points each, Illinois, Florida, Kenyon, Franklin and Marshall, 2 points each.

Paul Wolfe of Southern California and Charles Barker of Michigan raced to a dead heat for first place in the 100-yard freestyle in 52.9 seconds. William Quayle of Ohio State was third and Waldemar Tomski of Michigan fourth.

Richard Hough of Princeton swam to a new world record in the 200-yard breaststroke in 2 minutes 22 seconds. John Higgins of Ohio State and Justin Callahan of Columbia were second and third. Higgins pressed Hough all the way.

Tom Haynie of Michigan won the 440-yard freestyle in 4 minutes 49.7 seconds. James Welsh, a teammate, was second and Harold Stanhope of Ohio State third.

The Michigan team, comprised of Barker, Hutchins, Haynie and Tomski, won the 400-yard relay in 3 minutes 33.5 seconds. Ohio State was second and Yale third.

Al Patrick of Ohio State retained his title in the 3-meter fancy diving with 161.32 points. Earl Clarke and Earl Benham, both of Ohio State, were second and third.

SETS NEW RECORD

Domei Tsushin

ANN ARBOR, Michigan, March 24—Led by Albert Vande Weghe, Princeton's medley relay team tonight set a new meet record in the 300-yard medley event during the opening of the 16th annual National Collegiate Amateur Athletic swimming championships. The time for the event was two minutes, 54.5 seconds.

Princeton also vied with Michigan, the national champions, for first place in many events. Albert Vande Weghe, besides being the mainstay of the medley team, took first place in the 150-yard backstroke, nosing out William Beebe, rising Michigan star.

Michigan, however, took first and second places in the 50-yard freestyle, first in the 220-yard freestyle, and third in the medley. Ohio State's swimming team vied for third place, placing first in the 1,500-meters and the one-meter springboard.

50-yard freestyle:—Charles Barker, Michigan. Time:—23.5 sec. Waldemar Tomski, Michigan; Paul Wolf, Southern California.
150-yard backstroke:—Albert Vande Weghe, Princeton. Time:—1 min. 35.1 sec. William Beebe, Michigan; Joseph Burns, Yale.
220-yard freestyle:—Tom Haynie, Michigan. Time:—2 min. 11.7 sec. William Quayle, Ohio State; James Welsh, Michigan.
300-yard medley:—Princeton (Vande Weghe, Hough and Parke). Time:—2 min. 54.5 sec. Ohio State, Michigan.
One-meter springboard:—Al Patnik, Ohio State; Earl Clarke, Ohio State; Earl Benham, Ohio CState.

13,000 Watch Bruins Crush Canadiens, 6-2

BOSTON, Feb. 28—The Bruins tonight advanced another step toward clinching the National Hockey League championship by overwhelming the Canadiens, 6—2, in a wide-open game before a crowd of 13,000 at the Boston Garden.

That crushing setback was the first the crippled Dugald-Siebert forces, now resting in the sixth place play-off berth, and suffered since they entertained the Bruins in Montreal five games ago.

While gaining their thirtieth triumph of the forty-eight-game season, six Boston players caged goals and five others were credited with assists. Dit Clapper opened the scoring in the first period and Gordon Pettinger, Jack Crawford and Mel Hill counted during the middle frame.

The Canadiens, who made a brave stand throughout did not get their second counter until the last minute of play, when Toe Blake, the circuit's highest scorer, knocked in a puck fed him by Haynes and Babe Siebert. Bill Cowley had ended the Boston scoring a minute before.

The line-up:

	Boston (6)	Canadiens (2)
Goal	Brimsek	Bourque
Defense	Portland	Buswell
Defense	Shore	Wentworth
Center	Schmidt	Haynes
Wing	Dumart	Blake
Wing	Bauer	Cagnon

Spares

Boston—Pettinger, Hill, Conacher, Clapper, Crawford, Hollett, Getliffie, Welland, Cowley.

Canadiens—Mondou, Summerhill, Trudel, Smith, Drouin, Lorrain, Sieber.

5 Homers Feature Pro Loop's Triplebill

Five homeruns featured the triplecheader of the professional baseball circuit Sunday at the Korakuen stadium here. All games scheduled for Saturday were postponed because of the rain.

Rightfielder Nakajima, who led the league in homers last fall, and Pitcher Stalphin hit four base clouts for the Giants but the Senators took the long end of a 5-4 score by a rally in the last half of the ninth.

First Baseman Minoru Yamashita and Matsuki of the Hankyu and Tigers respectively poled homers into the bleachers. The Tigers won 7 to 5.

Catcher Hattori aided Nagoya to a 5-4 triumph over the Eagles with a homer off Ted Kameda in the seventh inning.

JEREMIAH HAPPY COACHING COLLEGE HOCKEY

By WEB MORSE

Christian Science Monitor

Glad to be out of pro hockey, but still of the belief that he might have continued longer and played under different conditions, is the opinion of Eddie Jeremiah, Dartmouth hockey coach. Jeremiah coached Dartmouth to the Quadrangular Hockey League championship last year and has practically won the title again this year.

Every so often he gets an opportunity to watch a pro game and each occasion brings back memories. Eddie began his hockey activity at Somerville High, continued at Hebron Academy, and gained prominent recognition while at Dartmouth. At Hebron he played on the team with Danny McFayden, pitcher for the Bees.

In professional hockey Jeremiah had a whirl with New York Americans in the National Hockey League, New Haven, Philadelphia and the Bruin Cubs in the Canadian-American Hockey League and finished a short hectic career of ups and downs with Cleveland in the International League.

Like so many other American born and bred players, the professional hockey road, almost entirely monopolized by Canadians, was rough and rocky. Although short of stature and weighing only 160 odd pounds the Somerville boy did pretty well as a defenseman. His work at New Haven earned him a chance with Americans, but in those days players came and went from Amerks as often as ants in a hill.

He was stuck on the forward line and played center. While he would like to have gone back to defense he was given little time and never approached the stardom stage. His stay with the Bruin Cubs was equally brief for the local minor league club during Jeremiah's stay was loaded with defensemen. He had good seasons with New Haven and Philadelphia, but a falling out with Herb Gardiner abruptly terminated his Philly stay.

While coaching at Hebron, after abandoning the pro hopes, Eddie received a wire from Cleveland to finish the season there. He rekindled his hopes and wound up the season playing defense in something like 18 games in 27 days. When the last puck had been fired and he took off his skates he decided pro hockey was a career, but he could do better elsewhere.

During his playing days he always pleaded with managers to permit him to play defense. Because of his short stature and lack of weight the managers for the most part were reluctant to let him. At that time he thought legislation was against him for defense but today, from the coaching angle, he can understand why the little man on defense is the exception.

"The one thing those managers did not realize," said Eddie, "is that, while small, I was solid and tough." His final decision to abandon professional hockey as a player was influenced by a Boston newspaperman's advice. He went back to coaching at Hebron, then took over the Boston Olympics and through the late George V. Brown received the Dartmouth opportunity.

Today he is a favorite among the coaching element in the Hills of Hanover and is happier helping youngsters to enjoy sport than he could have been continuing to meet the disappointments of professional hockey.

FENSKE BEATS CUNNINGHAM IN MILE RUN

Domei Tsushin

CHICAGO, March 26—Charles Fenske defeated Glenn Cunningham tonight in the one mile for the second time in the indoor season in the third annual Chicago relays which is the year's last indoor carnival. The time was 4 minutes 12.8 seconds.

Fenske came from behind to move up in the last lap and overtake Cunningham less than 25 feet from the tape. Gene Venzke was third.

Earle Meadows, 1936 Olympic champion, established a new world indoor record in the pole vault, clearing the bar at 14 ft 6½ inches, bettering the height by Warmerdam of the San Francisco Olympic Club established at New York this year.

Allan Tolmich bettered the world indoor record in the 40-yard high hurdles, being clocked at 5.1 seconds.

Charles Beetham of New York won the 600-yard special race in one minute 11.2 seconds, only a tenth second off the indoor record established by Jimmy Herbert of New York, who was a poor fourth. Beetham broke the tape a couple feet ahead of Wallace of Fordham University.

Tolmich also equaled his own world record in the 60-yard high hurdles of 7.3 seconds which he established at Chicago last year. He also won the 50-yard high hurdles in 6.2 seconds.

Wilbur Green of Michigan State won the 50-yard dash in 5.3 seconds for a new meet record. He also took the 40-yard dash in 4.5 seconds. Perrin Walker of College Park, Georgia, the former record holder, was fourth.

John Borican of the Shore A. C., sensational Negro athlete, won the 1,000-yard run in 2 minutes 10.6 seconds, a half second behind the record, beating Howard Borck of York by ten feet.

Don Lash of the Indiana State Police A. C. won the 2-mile run in 9 minutes 5 seconds for a new meet record.

Fenske, Cunningham, Meadows and Tolmich were all members of the All-American track and field team that competed in Japan several years ago.

FINLAND HAS GOOD RECORD IN OLYMPICS

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON—The greatest satisfaction is felt in Helsingfors, so I learn, at the decision of the United States to take part in every possible event at the 1940 Olympic Games, which Finland is so busily organizing at the present time. This decision was conveyed in a letter received from F. W. Rubien, Secretary of the American Olympic Committee, by Jukka Rangell, Chariman of the Organizing Committee.

Like most of the people connected with the big enterprise now in hand, Rangell is a man of long practical experience in sport. Dating back to a time when sport in Finland was anything but the national habit that it is today, Rangell's scholastic authorities had no time for athletics and would not allow him to take part in public competition. One day he eluded their vigilance, however, traveled to Turku, where the Finnish championships were being held, took part in the hop step and jump, then went back to school. As his teachers did not read the sporting columns of the Press, they never knew that one of Finland's athletic heroes was their 18-year old Rangell of the class-room. Rangell is now a Director of the Bank of Finland.

TWICE CHAMPION

Another prominent member of the Organizing Committtee is Urho Kekkonen. And last Summer he gave the inhabitants of Kuopio the exceedingly unusual experience of seeing a Cabinet Minister leaping around the place in shorts. He is the Minister of the Interior. And twice he has been champion of Finland for the running his jump.

One of the most complex aspects of organizing modern Olympic Games is the disposal of tickets, and over this work presides in the present instance Lieut. S. O. Lindgren. He has several times been a world champion in shooting.

Right down to the youngest typist, it would seem, the organizers of the 1940 Olympics are practical sports folk, and they are resolved to make the forthcoming festival absolutely one of the smoothest-running in the series which has brought Finland so much athletic distinction since 1912. That was the year in which Finland came into her own as an athletic nation. Since then successful Olympic participation has been to the Finns almost a matter of duty to the State, discharged with all the patriotic intensity and thoroughness that are a part of the national character.

69 GOLD MEDALS

The Finns are able to draw upon a population of only about 3,500,000, but it is figured that in the games they have enjoyed, proportionately, about 80 per cent greater success per million citizens than the United States. Since first taking part in the Olympics in 1908, Finland has collected 69 gold medals for first places; 66 silver for seconds and 69 bronze for thirds. The bulk of these awards being for distance running, in which Finns hold nine of the world's records, field events—throwing the javelin, especially—wrestling and Winter sports.

All along, it has been Finland's great ambition to act as host at an Olympic celebration, and the first opportunity came when the Japanese felt themselves obliged, for political reasons, to give up the task entrusted to them of putting on the Olympics next year at Tokyo. Altogether, sixty nations have been invited to compete at Helsingfors, July 20 to Aug. 4, and the way the acceptances are rolling in is most encouraging.

Spring Practice At Fordham Draws 58 Candidates

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, March 1—Fifty-eight candidates reported to Coach Jimmy Crowley and went through a two-hour drill in the gymnasium as Fordham's Spring football practice got under way yesterday. Ed Franco and Nat Pierce, the newly appointed successors to Frank Leahy, along with the other aides, Glen (Judge) Carberry, Earl Walsh and Ed Kosky, supervised the session, which was devoted mainly to group work and fundamentals.

Eighteen returning lettermen, led by Captain Bill Krywicki, were included in the squad, which was divided according to next Fall's class listings into seventeen seniors, fourteen juniors and twenty-seven sophomores. Twenty-seven backs, including such tried veterans as Dom Principe, Steve Kazlo, Leonard Eshmont, Pete Holovak, Ralph Friedgen, Harry Zarik and Angelo (Butch) Fortunato, put in an appearance.

Other lettermen were Vince Dennery, Ray Riddick and Alex Yudikaitis, ends; John Kuzman and Joe Ungerer, tackles; Pete Carlesimo, Jim Hayes and Marty Petroskes, guards; Lou DeFilippo and Jim Haggerty, centers. Riddick, Kuzman, Hayes and DeFilippo, along with Krywicki, Principe and Kazlo, were regulars last season.

"We lose valuable men in Harry Jacunski at end, Mike Kochel and Russ Monica at guard, Paul Berezney and Bill Stanton at tackle and Mike Hearn at right halfback," said Crowley. "However, the situation looks promising. We have several veterans returning and a good crop of freshmen. There are some problems to be coped with at the ends and at right tackle before we'll be ready for Alabama, Tulane, Pitt and those other breathers."

The Old Horseman seemed to pay particular attention to next year's sophomores. Jimmy Blumenstock, halfback, was called aside and put through a special drill with Eshmont, in which both practiced running and cutting to their left. Crowley will try Blumenstock at left halfback and Eshmont at right once the weather permits the squad to drill out of doors.

Some of the other promising freshmen were Del Davis, Henry Reis and Claude Pieculewicz, backs; Al Bazis, Ray Metrulis, Jack Hannon and Tony Poniatowskie, ends; Steven Dudacek and Russ Leinhart, tackles; Larry Sartori and Al Semanek, guards. Poniatowskie, completely recovered from his kidney injury last year, was shifted from center.

Australia Sending 30 Athletes To Helsinki Games

Australia is sending the following team to Helsinki in 1940:—athletics, 8 men and 3 women; swimming, 3 men and 3 women; cycling, 6 men; rowing, 3 men; boxing, 2 men; wrestling, 2 men.

Further acceptances include Argentine, Brazil, Estonia, Haiti, India, Iceland, Latvia, Malta, Hungary and Finland.

Notifications of acceptance were received last year from the following 18 countries: Belgium, Costa Rica, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Holland, Italy, Jugoslavia, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, Norway, Palestine, Portugal, Rumania, Sweden, and Switzerland.

Kansai is favored to win for the seventh straight year.

Kubota Wins Students Invitational Golf Play

Mizuho Kubota of Meiji University, No. 1 golfer in Japan's intercollegiate circles, shot the low gross score of 151 to win the 1939 Students Invitational tourney, 36 holes medal play, at the Kontazawa links Monday. He registered a 77 in the morning round and a 74 in the afternoon.

The best net score was turned in by Kubota's younger brother, Yutaka, student of the Musashi Higher School, who shot a gross of 159 for a net 147.

KANSAI VARSITY BALL LEAGUE STARTS APR. 15

KYOTO, March 27—The All-Kansai University Baseball Spring season will start at the Kyoto Municipal Nishi-Kyogoku Stadium on April 15 under the auspices of the Kansai University Baseball Federation.

Tripleheaders will be played from this year on as follows: 10:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.

The schedule follows:

April 15 and 16: Kwansei Gakuin University vs. Kyoto Imperial University; Ritsumei-kan University vs. Kobe University of Commerce; Kansai University vs. Doshisha University.

April 29 and 30: Ritsumei-kan University vs. Kyoto Imperial University; Kansai University vs. Kwansei Gakuin University; Kobe University of Commerce vs. Doshisha University.

May 6 and 7: Kansai University vs. Kobe University of Commerce; Ritsumei-kan University vs. Kwansei Gakuin University; Doshisha University vs. Kyoto Imperial University.

May 13 and 14: Kwansei Gakuin University vs. Doshisha University; Ritsumei-kan University vs. Kansai University; Kobe University of Commerce vs. Kyoto Imperial University.

Bromwich Tries To Improve Service, His Weak Point

By JOHN BROMWICH

(Australian champion, who was ranked No. 2 among the world's amateur tennis players for 1938)

Sydney Morning Herald

One feature of my play to which I have devoted a good deal of thought during the present season is my service.

Both in Australia and abroad, there seem to be a good many people who look upon my service with something like contempt. Fortunately, not all of them are my opponents. On the other hand, some enthusiasts have been good enough to tell me that the placing and guile of my service made up for anything else it lacked.

For my part, I must say that I have been conscious of the fact that my service constituted a weakness in comparison with the rest of my game. It was lacking in both speed and length. I have concentrated this season upon improving my service, and I am glad to say that I believe I have been obtaining better results in more recent matches. My service is still not fast, but it has improved in length and the ball has been keeping somewhat lower.

I have been given much advice concerning my service. I have been told that I throw the ball up too high; I have a round-arm action; I stop in the middle of my swing; I hit my trouser leg when going through with my racquet; I don't go through far enough.

Maybe, it's not quite as bad as all that, but it has caused me a good deal of concern.

AMERICAN'S OFFER

When I was in the United States last year I was told by Jack Tidball, a leading Californian player whose service is noted for its severity, that he thought he had found out just what was wrong with my service, and he offered to put me right if I could stay on after the tour was over and practice with him. I would willingly have accepted his generous assistance, as I believed that thorough practice with somebody who knew just what was needed would do me the world of good; but, of course, it was not possible.

Now there is a chance that Tidball will be a member of the American team that will defend the Davis Cup, so I don't suppose I can expect much assistance from him this year.

BAN ON BOXING FROM SHRINE GAMES FAVORED

Because of its alleged professional taint, boxing was recommended for removal from the list of events of the Meiji Shrine Games to be held in the Fall at a meeting of the sports committee of the Welfare Ministry Monday.

Other reasons were that boxing is yet not widely popularized in this country and that there is Judo similar to it and which has been known in Japan for many centuries.

Members of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation are at a loss to understand the decision reached by the committee and President Hiroshi Shimomura was to see Bureau Director Sasaki of the Welfare Ministry today to ascertain the reasons.

The committee moved also to cancel the professional sumo (Japanese wrestling) tournament, which has been one of the big features of the Games, because of its professional factor. Managing Director Fujishima of the Japan Sumo Federation said Monday night that the Association had not yet been notified by the Welfare Minister, but he personally could not see why the appearance of the professional wrestlers should be banned. He added that the wrestlers took great pride in competing in the Games held in honor of the Emperor Meiji and hurried back to Tokyo from distant parts of the country wherever they were on exhibition at their personal expense.

Wrestling and fencing, on which a decision by the Games Committee had been pending for several years, were turned down again.

The fate of yachting, hockey, table tennis, weightlifting and canoeing was left to the general meeting of the judges' committee. The indications, however, are that in the final decision, they will be included as usual in the program.

LINERS TO SOLVE ACCOMMODATION AT HELSINKI

Olympic News Service

The question of accommodation for visitors has raised one of the most difficult problems with which the Organizing Committee has had to deal. Briefly, the position is that Helsinki, a town of about 310,000 inhabitants, has to face the probable arrival of some 100,000 people during the period of the Games. It would, however, now seem that the Committee will be more successful in dealing with this perplexing question than was anticipated last Autumn.

It is of course manifest that only a small fraction of visitors can be provided with hotel accommodation, Helsinki having no more hotels than any other town of similar size, and it has therefore been arranged for rooms in private houses and apartments in the city and surrounding districts up to a distance of 35 miles to be placed at the disposal of the Committee. It will be recalled that a similar procedure was adopted at Berlin in 1936 and at the Coronation of King George VI in London.

The fact that Helsinki is a coast town is going to facilitate matters considerably. Anchorage space for at least 20 liners can easily be found either in the various harbors or between the many islands of the archipelago outside the town and conferences have already been held with the leading shipping companies with a view to arranging for as many passengers as possible to live on board during their stay in the capital.

In addition, a number of schools, barracks, and other large buildings have been reserved to fulfil the needs of those visitors compelled by modest incomes to make their stay as inexpensive as possible.

All countries will be receiving during February or March application forms for the preservation of accommodation. The latter has been divided into different classes, that of the hotels and private luxury apartments being at the top. Then follow the rooms volunteered by private house and flat owners, prices of which naturally vary in accordance with the class of accommodation offered. It may be mentioned that a first-class single room costs 150 marks and a double room 225 marks per day (approximately 13/6 and £1, or $3.50 and $5, respectively) Second-class is fixed at 100 marks single, 150 marks double (9/—& 13/6, $3.50), and third class 50 marks single, 75 marks double (4-6 and 6-6, $1 and $1.50) respectively. Extra beds can be supplied at specified charges.

Application forms can be obtained from the same source from which tickets of admission to the Games are ordered.

Finland Practices Hard at Canoeing

Canoeing as a sport is already about 50 years old in Finland. Up to the end of the last century, however, its practice was confined to excursions and pleasure trips, and it was not until 1925 that the first canoe club was founded in Helsinki. This was followed by a second in 1930 and the next year saw the advent of the present controlling body of the sport in Finland, the Finnish Canoeing Association.

Great pains are being taken over the Olympic races. A special course of instruction for the officials will be held in the Summer, at the end of which they will have their first opportunity of putting theory into practice at the Finnish Canoeing Championships, to be organized along similar lines to the Games and contested over the 1940 course, on August 5th and 6th of this year. Further practical experience will be afforded them at the match between Finland and Sweden in July and an international invitation regatta fixed for August 13th., after which conferences will be held to discuss fully the more important problems emerging from these events.

Finnish canoeists are already practising hard at the Helsinki indoor swimming baths.

COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR
By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Enko Vaccari

THE LONDON TIMES
LITERARY SUPPLEMENT
. . . . this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.

A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.

TIGERS STOP WIN STREAK OF LIONS, 7-5

The Osaka Tigers stopped the winning streak of the Lions in the professional baseball league Tuesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium by trouncing them by a 7 to 5 score. As a consequence, the Senators, who were idle Tuesday, moved up into first place with the Lions in the team standings with an .800 mark.

Scoring one run off Pitcher Nishimura on a passed ball in the second inning, the Lions forged into a 2-0 lead in the fourth when Rightfielder Mizutani swung at Nishimura's first pitch for a homer into the right field bleachers.

KIKUYA WEAKENS

Kikuya had been silencing the Tigers with his fast ball in the first four innings but he began to weaken in the fifth. Hondo started the ball rolling for the Tigers when he walked after two outs in that frame. Horio rolled a grounder to third and just about broke Kikuya's heart by beating it out to first for an infield hit. Heavy hitting Kageura came through for the Tigers with a sizzling hit through third and short to bat in Hondo. By fast sprinting, Horio went all the way to third on the same hit. Then with Misonou at bat, Horio romped home on a passed ball to deadlock the count at 2-all.

The Tigers then pounced on Kikuya for a 2-run lead in the sixth inning. Igauye, Matsuki and Hondo bombarded Kikuya with timely hits. They then clinched victory by scoring one more in the seventh and a brace of runs in the first half of the ninth inning.

Nankai, the latest team to be admitted into the league, managed to break into the scoring column by turning the tables over Nagoya, 2 to 0. Tsuruoka of Hosei University, championship batter of the Fall season of the Tokyo Six University league, made his first appearance with the Nankai squad as a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning.

It was a tough game for Pitcher Matsuo of Nagoya to lose as he held the Nankai batters hitless up to the fifth. As a matter of fact, he allowed only two hits in the entire game but poor support on the part of his teammates and a hit he yielded helped the Nankai men to score their winning two runs in the sixth. He was somewhat to blame himself as he walked the first man, Yamao who advanced to second on a sacrifice. Then the inexperienced Amano messed up Kobayashi's grounder at short, sending Yamao to third. Things went from bad to worse when Backstop Hattori failed to stop the first pitch to Okamura and Yamao scored. Okamura then nicked Matsuo for a hit to center to bat in Kobayashi.

HANKYU HITS HARD

Registering 13 hits on the scoring board, Hankyu blanked the Dolfins, 5 to 0, in the first game of the day. Third Baseman Kuroda climaxed the attack with a homer into the left field bleachers in the ninth inning.

The summaries follow:

Oxford Beats Cambridge In Dual Track Meet

LONDON, March 18—Oxford beat Cambridge by 76 points to 41 in the annual inter-varsity athletics, contested over thirteen events at the White City today.

Excellent performances were seen in the hurdle events, in which one 'varsity record was broken, while another was equaled, both efforts being by members of the Dark Blues.

Running in the 220 yards low hurdles, J. N. Irwin of Oxford came first in the new inter-varsity time of 24.5 seconds.

T. L. Lockton, also of Oxford, won the 120 hurdles in 14.9 seconds, hereby equaling the inter-varsity record.

Australian Cricketers Cancel Trip to Canada

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 18—A proposed tour of Canada by an Australian all-star cricket team this Summer has been cancelled, according to R. V. L. Johnston, secretary of the British Columbia Mainland Cricket League. The League, he added was attempting to complete arrangements for a 1940 tour.

"In view of various considerations, including lengthy time in correspondence between here and Australia" said Mr. Johnston, "the B.C.M.C.L. has decided that prospects for the tour would be considerably more favorable in 1940, by which time it is hoped that the proposed Canadian cricket authority will be functioning."

Cricket leagues throughout Canada, he said, were considering the formation of a central board of control, which would handle such tours as the proposed one.

Oregonians Swamp Ohio State, 46-33, To Win Cage Title

Domei Tsushin

EVANSTON, Ill., March 27—The University of Oregon's crack cagers tonight walked off with the National Collegiate Athletic Association's basketball crown by defeating Ohio State University, eastern champions, by the lopsided score of 46 to 33. The game was played in the Northwestern University gymnasium.

Leading the whole way, Oregon piled up a 21 to 16 lead by half-time and went on to outscore Ohio State 25 to 17 in the second half.

SOUTH AFRICAN HAS FLAIR FOR PUBLICITY

LONDON—It is difficult to analyze the qualities in a man which, sometimes against his will, inspire publicity. What is it that causes one individual to appear in the headlines day after day, while another of equal or greater attainments remains in respectable obscurity The happy knack of making unfortunate statements, the luck to photograph well, a liking for the company of pressmen, a wisecrack here and there; they all help, but they are not alone responsible, writes Henry Longhurst in a Home paper whose article follows:

"Some people whose most trivial utterance seems a matter of public comment have none of these things. They are careful what they say, they are not particularly handsome, they shrink from publicity and those who purvey it. They simply have greatness thrust upon them.

DISCOVERS HAPPY KNACK

"A quiet, shy South African golfer is the latest to have discovered the happy knack—whether against his will or not I don't know—of taking his place daily in the news. A. D. Locke has, in fact, begun to rival Henry Cotton.

Whether he likes it or not, this flair for publicity will stand him in good stead, measured in terms of pounds, shillings and pence. As an amateur he had a most undistinguished career in the British Amateur Championship. In the Open he defeated other amateurs, but finished well behind a number of professionals whose names we never read except in the list of results. Yet this is the man upon whome the attention of every golfer happens to be focused. He will play Cotton for a small fortune; he wil not pay Cotton. He will tour the world with Padgham; he will not tour the world with Padgham. At the moment it seems that he will in fact play Reginald Whitcombe for the small fortune instead. In the end one begins to wonder if any one cares.

There is only one challenge match I want to see in this country, and I daresay there are a good many who feel the same. I want to see the Open champion play his immediate predecessor. I want to see Reginald Whitcombe play Henry Cotton over 72 holes for five hundred pounds, the thousand pounds—anything they like. Until then the rest can wait.

"As a matter of fact I was rather surprised to see that Whitcombe had accepted Locke's challenge, because the Professional Golfers' Association, of which he is captain, are strict in their principles regarding ex-amateur players. These principles are the sole cause of the refusal by Cotton, who is a member of the P.G.A.'s committee, to play Locke. In standing firm, he is losing a probable £500 and a share of a handsome "gate," as well as laying himself open to a charge of being afraid to play the match for fear of losing.

"One can sympathize with the P.G.A.'s point of view when they say that it is comparatively easy to work one's way to the top as an amateur but unfair for a man, having done so, to step in near the top of the ladder among the professionals, whose path has been much harder.

RULES TOO STRICT

"One the other hand, I am of the definite opinion that their rules err on the side of being too strict. Five years is a long time for a man to remain in the wilderness—or three if he attaches himself as assistant to another professional. Jack McLean, as it seems, turned professional a long, long time ago, but he has not yet served half his "sentence" and he may be reaching the end of his prime by the time that he is at last able to take part in professional tournaments. Locke need have no such fears, for he is only 21, but his career will be hampered by his inability to play competitive golf in Britain except in occasional challenge matches. It strikes me that two years would be a fairer probationary period."

OLYMPIC VILLAGE AT HELSINKI FINELY SITUATED

Olympic News Service

A bare mile and a half from the Olympic Stadium, the Helsinki Olympic Village is much more favorably placed in this respect than either Los Angeles or Berlin. As the Village is equally close to the swimming and riding stadiums, the football ground, and the Exhibition Hall where the boxing, weight-lifting and wrestling will be held, it can truthfully be said that at no previous Games have the athletes had such conveniently situated living quarters as in the Finnish capital. Furthermore, on top of these advantages, the Velodrome, scene of the cycling contests, is just beside the Village.

The Olympic Village is in the suburb of Kapyla which, although it is clearly separated from the residential districts of the town, is nevertheless within the city boundaries The surrounding landscape, of a type reminiscent of the vast forest areas with which such a large portion of the country is covered, will serve as an interesting illustration to the occupants of those conditions in which Finland's many fine athletes have been developed, particularly her world-famous long-distance runners.

FAST WORK NECESSARY

Immediately it was known in the Summer of 1938 that the Games were coming to Finland in 1940, consultations were held on the subject of the erection of the Village. Since only two years were left for preparation and construction, the need for haste was obvious.

It was resolved right from the start that the Village should be such that it could be put to some other use on conclusion of the Games and, with this end in view, three different proposals were put forward. The first was that it should be placed at the disposition of the Army; the second, that it should subsequently be turned into a student home for undergraduates; the third embodied transformation into small apartments in Kapyla.

As a thorough consideration of all these proposals was necessary, it was not until November that a final decision in the matter could be reached.

In November of last year road construction was commenced and a start was made with the levelling of the site. Planning difficulties caused a slight delay but last month building work was put in hand. It is now proceeding at full speed and the Village will be completed in its entirety by the Summer of next year.

The Olympic Village area is divided into two by a highroad, named Makela Street, running northwards. on the east side of which are the dwelling houses and grounds. The dimensions of the whole unit are about 875 yards by 300 yards. The number of houses is about 30 and they will provide accommodation for some 3,000 athletes, although this number can be increased if circumstances demand it. The buildings are three-storeyed in type and construction work is in the hands of a cooperative building society, which will later rent them as apartments to the general public. Each flat has two or three living rooms and a bathroom, and is furnished with central heating. It is proposed to lodge from one to three athletes in each room. There is of course also an administrative building. A final decision has not yet been reached on the problem of the catering arrangements.

Immediately to the east of Makela Street and in the southwest portion of the Olympic Village there is a practice ground approximately 575 yards long and 475 wide, round the border of which runs a circular track 1,000 meters in length for pony-trotting races. It is here proposed to construct a 400-meter running track of usual type. Practice facilities will be arranged for other branches of sport in the following proportions; broad jump, 2; hop, step, and jump, 2; high jump, 2; pole vault, 2; shot, 4; javelin, 6; discus, 6 hammer, 3. There will also be a steeplechase course with water jump.

The Velodrome is in the south corner of the practice ground

ADDITIONAL ACCOMMODATION FOR ATHLETES

The senior members of the visiting teams, and some of the other athletes also, will be boarded elsewhere than in the Olympic Village.

Amongst other projects is a plan to lodge the oarsmen and paddlers taking part in the rowing and canoeing races in the new Civic Guard quarters now under construction at a spot little more than a quarter of a mile from the course at Taivallahti Bay. It is also proposed to accommodate 300—400 contestants in the future Cadet School to be erected about 3 miles outside the town.

As already explained, all the women athletes will live in a new building subsequently destined to be a Nurses' home. It will be built at Meilahti in the north-east part of Helsinki at a distance of less than a mile from the athletic stadium. The nurses will not of course take possession until after the Games.

Von Cramm Plays In Cairo Tourney; Loses to McNeill

CAIRO, March 19—Baron Gottfried von Cramm, the German tennis ace, who has been absent from the courts for a year owing to his imprisonment in Germany, returned to tournament tennis here yesterday. Playing for an international team, he beat the Egyptian tennis player, A. Najar, by 6-0 and 6-1. He was beaten today by the American, Donald McNeill, by 6-3, 3-6 and 7-5. America won the tournament.

Shimomura Asks Retention of Boxing In Meiji Shrine Games

A request that boxing and all other sports that have been included in the program of past years of the Meiji Shrine games be retained in the ninth games scheduled for the coming Fall was made by Dr. Hiroshi Shimomura, president of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation, at his meeting Tuesday afternoon with Director Sasaki of the Athletic Department of the Welfare Ministry.

The sports committee of the Welfare Ministry last week had recommended removal of boxing and professional Sumo (Japanese wrestling) from the list. The requests of the Japan Amateur Wrestling Association and Japan Fencing Association to have the two sports adopted were also turned down.

PERRY, VINES, BUDGE TO PLAY IN ENGLAND

LONDON—It looks as if some of our football clubs will make good money out of the Perry, Vines, Budge visit to this country next Summer. They will do so entirely through the generosity of the Lawn Tennis Association.

Let us consider the facts. As you may have read, Jack Harris is bringing Fred Perry, Ellsworth Vines, and Donad Budge to England primarily with the intention of competing in a professional tournament at Wembley. This tournament, however, is but a stage in a courageous tour.

When the three of them reach this country they will almost certainly be joined by William Tilden. I say "almost" because Jack Harris in the first instance offered Tilden worse terms than he did the other three, and not surprisingly Tilden said "No."

My information recently, however, was that this difficulty is being overcome, and that Tilden is virtually a certainty for the fourth place.

Right. After the Wembley tournament the troupe will be touring the big provincial towns—Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, Dublin, Belfast, and so on—until the Wimbledon championships in June, when they will take themselves off to the Continent.

Finally they will come back to England in August and conclude with a tour of the seaside towns.

Now this is the point. At no town during their tour of Great Britain will they be able to play one single game on the court of an amateur tennis club affiliated to the L.T.A.

Why? Because the Lawn Tennis Association say that in no circumstances will they allow the four greatest professional tennis players in the world to use the courts of amateur clubs.

They give no reason at all. They just say no, and in so saying they are robbing poor clubs of financial help which they dearly need.

So what does manager Jack Harris do? He has to arrange for matches to be played in halls and on football grounds. And, of course, he has to arrange for a wooden court to be transported about and put down on the football pitches.

What is going to happen? These fortunate football club are going to make money for themselves in the close season, not out of football, but out of tennis.

The amateur tennis clubs, on the other hand, who really require the money to improve their courts and to get coaching for their members, cannot have it.

Neither can their members see the finest players in the game, for the L.T.A. seem to think they should not be afforded such chances of improving their tennis.

In Paris, however, the French L.T.A. will welcome the Big Four to the Roland Carros Stadium, where France's amateurs play and where the Davis Cup has been staged.

The whole position is iniquitous. Here are impoverished amateur tennis clubs being deprived of heaven-sent opportunities of making money while rich football clubs will be able to sit back and rub their hands as fresh gold pours in.

WILD SCENES FEATURE SYDNEY SMOKER

Sydney Morning Herald

SYDNEY, Feb. 25—Sensational scenes reminiscent of the bare-knuckle days of fighting, with nearly a score of infuriated people engaged in a hectic fight in the ring, marked the concluding stages of the boxing contest between the Australian, Fred Henneberry, and the American, Red Farmer, at the Sports Arena last night.

The match ended in the fourth round, when Henneberry was awarded the decision on a foul, Farmer having been disqualified for butting his opponent. He had been warned twice previously.

Then the storm burst. In a moment the ring was alive with a number of onlookers the boxers and their seconds, and officials. The struggling figures engaged in a regular "Donnybrook," The boxers were protected by their seconds while the wild scenes went on.

Blows were swung freely, and it was only after the most strenuous endeavors that the police succeeded in quelling what must have been one of the most extraordinary scenes ever witnessed in a boxing ring in this or any other country.

But the storm did not subside for some time. Cheering and hooting swept the arena, and at one stage the lights were lowered. Another contest was staged immediately, but the passions roused by the principal contest were still simmering, and it was only the firm action of the officials that prevented another unrehearsed fight out of the ring.

Both Henneberry and Farmer were given ovations, but were also the subject of hostile demonstrations as they left the ring. This was no new experience for Henneberry, who has figured in many unsatisfactory endings.

EARLY ROUNDS DULL

The early rounds were dull, but the third and fourth rounds were packed with dramatic incident Henneberry, a taller figure, regarded as a slow starter, followed his customary tactics of smothering up and seeking to get to close quarters.

It was thought that Farmer, a stocky individual, with powerful shoulders, would attempt to force the battle in the early stages, but he was content to learn something about the methods of his rival, and for the first two rounds there was little to stir the big crowd.

Early it was apparent that it was only a question of time before the boxers' heads came into collision. Henneberry has the habit of keeping his head well down. Farmer was aware of the danger of injury, and often for minutes at a time the pair stood head to head, like a pair of bulls about to clash.

In the second round, Henneberry fought very strongly, but in the third round Farmer surprised him with a couple of powerful and well-placed blows, and at the end of the round blood was beginning to trickle from the Achilles' heel in Hanneberry's boxing armor—an old injury above his left eye.

The exchanges were heavier in the fourth round, both warming to their task. Twice in this round Farmer was cautioned for "butting," though anything was likely to happen with the way they were weaving and seeking to come to close quarters.

REFEREE ACTS

Near the end of the round, Farmer hit Henneberry with a powerful body blow, and immediately after a wild struggle on the hopes the referee, Mick Lacey, stopped the contest and spoke to Farmer. Henneberry's eye was bleeding profusely.

For a time it seemed as if the referee was about to order the men to continue. He walked across to Henneberry's corner, while the seconds of both men hurled advice to him. Then he lifted Henneberry's hand as a token of victory.

Then the melee started. Farmer's manager jumped up and angrily advanced into the center of the ring. In a few seconds the ring resembled an agitated ant hill. The boxers, their seconds, and outsiders were engaged in a wild struggle, which was terminated by the police.

BOXERS SHOOK HANDS

Later, Farmer went to Henneberry's dressing-room and the boxers shook hands. Farmer said afterwards that he was aware of Henneberry's methods, and he knew that if he did not keep his own head well down he would have been injured in a collision. He thought he could beat the Australian, and was ready to meet him in a return contest. It was the only time he had ever lost on a foul.

THE PRELIMINARIES

The preliminary contests resulted:—Six rounds: Billy Wiseman (12-4) and Billy Connelly (11-12) provided a stirring, hard-hitting contest, which was declared a draw. Onlookers appreciated the bout, as, at the end, they showered the ring with coins. Les Sloan (10-8) outpointed Bluey Burns (9-13½).

Four rounds: Mick Murphy (11-2) beat Harold New (10-10), the referee stopping the contest in the third round. Lloyd Woods (8-12) beat Herb Ross (8-12), the referee saving Ross from further punishment in the second round. Woods had a nasty cut over his right eye, but his heavy punching and aggressiveness was too much for Ross.

Six rounds: Norm Lawler (8-6), after having the worst of the first two rounds, had Allen Ross (8-6) on the floor three times in the third round, and the contest was stopped, with Lawler the winner.

Standards Raised In Qualifying Rounds In Helsinki Games

The following standards have been adopted by the I.A.A.F. for the qualifying rounds, of the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki. In several cases they are considerably more severe than at Berlin. In order to qualify for the competitions proper the following minimum standards must nevertheless be attained by competitors:

	Cms.
High jump	187	(Berlin 185)
Broad jump ...	720	(„ 715)
Pole vault	390	(„ 380)
Hop, step & jump	14.50	(„ 14.00)
Discus	45.00	(„ 44.00)
Javelin	65.00	(„ 60.00)
Hammer	49.00	(„ 56.00)

There will be no elimination round in the shot. Instead, the event will take place simultaneously in three different circles. Even in the events where a qualifying standard has been imposed, 12 competitors at least will take part in the final round, irrespective of whether they have all attained the requisite standard or not. Thus, supposing that ony 9 men were successful in throwing 65 meters in the javelin, the three next best competitors would nevertheless be admitted to the final round.

In order to prevent long drawn out contests in the high jump and pole vault events, the I.A.A.F. Committee has also specified the successive heights to which the bar shall be raised. The high jump will therefore start at 170 cms and thereafter be raised as follows: 180, 190, 195, 198, 201, 204, etc. Similarly the pole vault starts at 360cms, and continues at the following heights: 380, 395, 410, 420, 430, etc.

TONY GALENTO RECOGNIZED AS CONTENDER TO LOUIS

NEW YORK, March 19—Tony Galento, the burly beer-drinking, cigar-smoking bartender from New Jersey, is considered as the world's leading heavyweight contender for the championship held by dusky Joe Louis, according to the quarterly rankings of the National Boxing Association issued today.

The squat fighter who acts as host at his bar-room when he is not fighting continued to top all other heavyweights in the N.B.A. ranks despite failure to obtain similar recognition from the New York State Boxing Commission, the other major boxing group in the United States.

Galento is to meet Louis in a title bout in June, but final papers for this clash are still to be signed.

Bob Pastor, the fighter who earned fame as the lad who lasted the whole distance against Louis to break the champion string of knock-out wins a few years ago, is ranked as No. 2 contender by the N.B.A. Pastor remained on his feet against Louis by dashing around the ring away from Louis.

Lou Nova, rising young California heavyweight who is to clash with Max Baer, to determine which of the two should get a crack at Louis and his title, is down as No. 3 contender. Baer is fourth in the list and is followed by Red Burman, Maurice Strickland of Australia, Nathan Mann, Roscoe Toles, Johnny Paychek and Tony Musto. Toles is a negro.

LIGHT-HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE-HOLDER

Despite the fact that John Henry Lewis is not considered the light-heavyweight champion since the New York Boxing Commission forced the negro to relinquish his title when he fought Louis recently and was knocked out in the first round, the National Boxing Association continues to list him as champion.

Lewis, who was prevented from meeting Dave Clark, because of the discovery of his being partially blind as a result of the terrific beating from the thundering fists of Louis is considered as through with boxing for some time. Melio Bettina, is listed as the leading challenger.

Solly Krieger continues to be middleweight champion in the eyes of the National Boxing Association which places Freddie Apostoli, who is champion according to New York, in the spot just below the title-holder. Al Hostak, who lost the title to Krieger, according to the N.B.A., is next in line.

Henry Armstrong, negro co-title-holder, heads the welterweight division. He is followed by Charley and Fritzie Zivic, neither one of whom rates so high in other rangings.

The lightweight category is led by Armstrong, who is threatened by Lou Ambers, who lost the title to the negro. Davey Day is recognized as the second leading contender.

AMONG THE SMALLER FELLOWS

No champion is listed in the featherweight class, with Leo Rodak as No. 1 contender and Petey Scalzo No. 2.

Sixto Escobar is recognized as the world bantamweight champion with Johnny Morgan and George Pace as the lads next in line for the title.

Although Peter Kane is generally recognized as world flyweight champion he is only the leading contender in the N.B.A. rankings. The title is vacant, according to the N.B.A. Little Rado of Manila is placed just below the British scrapper.

CANZONERI ANXIOUS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18—Tony Canzoneri has been warned of winding up walking on his heels and mumbling to himself, but he was determined today to fight his way back to a title match with Henry Armstrong and regain the light-weight crown.

A little older and a little heavier than when he was called the fightingest little man in the ring. Tony does not believe he will end up in slap-happy land.

"I've told Tony about the disastrous endings of other comebacks," his manager, Sammy Goldman, said, "but he is determined. He wants a shot at Armstrong. He has studied Armstrong's style. We've gone over motion pictures time and again. Now we're going after Armstrong."

Canzoneri echoed his manager's words.

Tony has convinced Goldman he can regain the 135 pound crown he lost to Lou Ambers and which Ambers lost to Armstrong.

"Tony has beaten the best in the country in his time," he said. "He has a peculiar knack of solving any style of offense. That goes for Armstrong, too. Henry makes all his opponents fight his way, and that helps a lot in whipping them. With Tony it would be different. He'll fight his own way.

"Bud Taylor was a close-in body puncher, murderous when he got inside, but what happened when he met Canzoneri! Tony stopped him. Kid Chocolate was one of the finest boxers of his time, a real artist in this game, and Tony beat The Kid. Jimmy McLarnin could nail as sure as shootin' any opponent who rushed in. Tony figured out how to beat him and did it. Billy Petrolle was one of the straightest and hardest punchers who ever lived, but he was no match for Tony. What's Armstrong got that this gang didn't show Tony?"

"This is no hit or miss comeback," Tony said. "We've thought the whole thing out. I've felt better after each fight, and I'm punching just about as hard as I ever did. I'm getting in tip-top condition fast, and it won't be long before I'll be ready for Armstrong."

Detroit Is Candidate For 1944 Olympic Games

Detroit, Michigan, where the Ford and other famed automobiles are turned out, is a candidate to organize the 13th Olympic Games in 1944.

An invitation to participate in the Games there has been received by Prince Iyesato Tokugawa and Count Michimasa Soyejima, members of the International Olympic Committee.

Detroit already has plans for for the construction of a main stadium accommodating 110,000, a swimming stadium seating 15,000 and an outdoor theater for 55,000 spectators, according to the invitation received.

NEW WORLD MARK SET IN CRICKET

DURBAN, March 14—A new world record for first class cricket was established today when England, in the 10th day of play in the Fifth Test Match against South Africa, took her score for the 2nd innings past the 572 runs mark, which represents the highest score ever to be made in fourth innings, and was established by New South Wales against South Australia over 30 years ago, in the 1907-1908 season.

Splendid efforts by Hammond, who scored 140 runs and Paynter, who contributed 75 runs, took England to within reach of a remarkable victory over South Africa. Two batsmen were associated in a third wicket partnership which produced 154 runs.

At the tea interval, England's score was 654 for five wickets, with victory only 42 runs away and five wickets in hand.

THREATENING SKY

The sky looked threatening, indicating the possibility of rain, when play was resumed this morning on the tenth day of the Fifth Test Match between South Africa and England.

The wicket was wearing at the ends, but was easy. The position upon the resumption was England 496 runs for three wickets in her second innings, with Hammond (58) and Paynter (24) not out.

England's score soon reached 500, after the innings had lasted 620 minutes.

The partnership between Paynter and Hammond realized 100 runs in 142 minutes.

Paynter obtained his half-century after having batted for 144 minutes, at which time he had hit two boundaries.

Melville, the South African skipper, pinned faith on pace bowlers, but they failed, however, to have any impression on the batsmen, who did not take the slightest risks.

A new world record score for 4th innings was established just before the interval for lunch when England's score passed the previous highest total of 572 runs, scored by New South Wales against South Australia at Sydney in 1907-1908.

Earlier in the morning, the record for the highest Test score against South Africa was broken, when Hammond and Paynter took the total beyond the old record of 559 runs for nine wickets declared, established in Cape Town during the present tour, on January 3.

At the luncheon interval, England's score was 578 runs for three wickets, with Hammond (93) and Paynter (68) not out.

HAMMOND'S CENTURY

There were 1,500 spectators present and the sky was dull when play resumed after lunch.

Hammond soon obtained his century, which he did after having batted for 273 minutes.

England's score reached 602 in 748 minutes.

Just when South Africa was looking disconsolate, like a beaten side, Paynter edged a delivery off Gordon into the hands of Grieveson, the wicket-keeper (611 for four).

Paynter's contribution was 75 which he scored in a session lasting 213 minutes. He was very aggressive, driving well. He scored five boundaries.

Rain thereafter caused a couple of stoppages.

Hammond was stumped by Grieveson, off Dalton for 140 runs (650 for five).

England's skipper gave a classic innings, driving splendidly. He batted for 349 minutes and scored seven boundaries.

At the tea interval, England's score had reached 654 for five wickets, with Ames (14) and Valentine (4) not out.

Hungary Defeats Irish Footballers

CORK, March 19—Eire and Hungary drew in their soccer match today with a score of 2-2. A crowd of 20,000 watched the previously unimpressive Irish forwards rush fiercely to the attack, and equalize at the last minute. The Irish defence was also strong, Turner being outstanding at center-half.

The positional play of the Hungarians was superior, but the Irishmen were faster. Bradshaw, the Irish center-forward, opened the score for Ireland, and Zengeller replied for Hungary in the second half to even the score.

Kolleh scored Hungary's second goal, and just when it seemed that the match was to end with the Irishmen one goal behind, Carey, inside left, scored Eire's second goal to make the final score even.—Reuter.

ENGLAND BEATS SCOTLAND AT RUGBY, 9-6

MURRAYFIELD, March 18—Brilliant kicking by Heaton, who scored three penalty goals, enabled England to beat Scotland in the final match of the International rugger series here today by the score of 9-6. This win, the second successive victory for England at Murrayfield, not only enabled her to regain the Calcutta Cup, but it also resulted in a three-way tie, between Ireland, Wales and England, in the championship, each team having won four points. Scotland, without a single success in the series this season, is at the bottom, with no points.

Seventy-thousand spectators saw England dominate play on a muddy pitch. Scotland fared well enough in the first half, when the scored two tries in a row to lead by 6-0. Two penalty goals by Heaton, however enable England to equalize 6-6.

The English three-quarters handled the ball confidently, making well coordinated movements which never failed to threaten the Scottish defense.

FORWARDS SUPERIOR

Their forwards proved to be superior to the Scottish, getting the better of the scrums, in addition to giving the hard-worked Scottish defence plenty of trouble in the loose.

England, however, failed to gain the ascendency until after Scotland had led by six nil, though Murdoch scoring a try in the 19th minute. Heaton retaliated with two grand penalty goals from 35 yards for England to bring the score to 6-6 at half time.

England maintained her superiority after the resumption, and harassed the Scottish defense.

Heaton scored his third penalty goal following a scrum infringement, giving England the lead at 9-6.

Only the grand Scottish defense, in which Roberts, the fullback, was oustanding, prevented a heavier defeat.

The final standings in the International rugger series are as follows:—

	P.	W.	D.	L.	Pit.
England	3	2	—	1	4
Ireland	3	2	—	1	4
Wales	3	2	—	1	4
Scotland	3	—	—	3	—

It was raining when the match got under way. The rain made the pitch very soft and it was cut up midway through the first half.

Scotland introduced a last-minute change Murdoch replacing Fyfe, who was ill.

The Scottish side kicked off and early in the game made several attacks, after which England settled down.

The English three-quarters handled confidently. Scotland was getting the ball more often from the line-outs, but England was better in the scrums, while their fine work in the loose troubled the Scottish defense.

Murdoch scored a grand try in the 13th minute, to put Scotland in the lead. Crawford's attempt at conversion was disallowed, apparently the ball was touched.

England heeled well from the scrums. Following a scrum in English territory, in the 19th minute, Shaw crossed over for Scotland's second try, which was unconverted.

SCORE EQUALIZED

Three minutes later, Heaton kicked a penalty goal from 35 yards. He managed to equalize with another splendid kick in the 35th minute, bringing the score to 6-6 at the interval.

England attacked strongly upon the resumption, getting the ball from a set of scrums.

Apart from occasional flashes, Scotland was forced to be on the defensive. Only Robert's magnificent play repeatedly saved the situation for Scotland.

England began to gain the ascendency, but Scotland stood up to the intensified attacks spiritedly.

The English went ahead when Heaton scored his third penalty goal, following a scrum infringement by the Scottish pack.

Shaw then went to the stand-off half position in an effort to revive Scottish hopes, but Scotland saw little of the ball.

England was a worthy winner of the match.

Farr No Longer No. 1 Drawing Card in England

LONDON—Tommy Farr, the former British heavyweight champion, has returned to England for "business and family reasons." He has not yet made it clear whether he intends seeking contests in this country.

Several prominent English promoters, notably Sydney Hulls, are very keen to sign up Farr for a fight in London. Possible opponents put forward include Eddie Phillips (Bow), George Games (Wales), and Tommy Martin (Deptford).

There is no doubt that following his two recent defeats in America against Lou Nova and Clarence Burman, Farr's box-office value on this side of the Atlantic has fallen tremendously.

Formerly Farr was the dictator of term to British promoters, but now the boot is expected to be on the other foot. Nevertheless, there are plenty of fight fans in this country who would go a long way to see Tonypandy Tommy in action, although now he will be deprived of the right to pick and choose his opponent.

Five successive setbacks in America have seriously affected Farr's drawing power.

Italy Formally Asked To Send 2 Mermen

Through the Italian Embassy, the Japan Swimming Federation Wednesday sent a formal invitation to Italy to send two Italian swimmers to compete in the national swimming championships scheduled at the Meiji Shrine pool in Tokyo next August, provided Germany accepts the bid already sent to dispatch six mermen to the same competition.

If negotiations materialize, the German and Italian swimmers will arrive at Kobe on the Hakozaki Maru on August 3. Besides the national championships, they are expected to appear in two or three exhibitions.

INFIELDERS WANTED IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Christian Science Monitor

BRADENTON, Fla., March 4—Warren Giles, who general manages the Crosley-owned Cincinnati Reds and who presently is located at Tampa, a few miles north of this Boston Bee training base, said recently "I've got $50,000 to spend on a good infielder, and I can't find one that's for sale."

Mr. Giles had the right idea. With better protection through the middle of the infield, the Reds would probably walk into the 1939 World Series. But the club rosters prove that outstanding infielders are scarcer this Spring than high-salaried ball players on the Cardinals. And the scarcity will hurt more than one contending outfit.

One of the better infield graduates 1 owned by the Bees. They paid a fancy price for Eddie Miller, the Kansas City shortstop. Formerly property of the Cincinnati organization, Eddie was the best short fielder in the American Association—has a fine arm, moves fast on double plays and drives a ball far for a small man. The Reds looked at him late in 1937, but gave up on him. When Willard Hershberger, the catcher, was bought by Giles, he sent Miller outright and Les Scarsella on option to the Newark club. The Yankees, who own both Newark and Kansas City, shifted Eddie to the American Association.

The Athletics are bringing in Bill Lillard, Lefty O'Doul's latest development. Last season with San Francisco in the Pacific Coast League young Bill batted a cool .335 in the first 81 games and then was on the sidelines for the remainder of the campaign with an injury. O'Doul says the boy is faster and more spectacular than any shortstop he has seen come out of the Coast League, including Frank Crosetti. Young Bill must be good.

The Cleveland Indians have recalled Oscar Grimes from Milwaukee and expect him to play second base. Jack Stury, from Rochester, is jockying for an infield berth with the Cardinals. Detroit has brought in Benny McCoy from Toledo and Frank Croucher from Beaumont. But grouping the new talent together, the list is surprisingly small.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who figure to be a contender again this season in the National League, are not over-burdened with reserve infielders. Study their roster: they are carrying only one shortstop and one second baseman. If anything happened to Arky Vaughan at short, or Pep Young at second, Pie Traynor will need to shuffle three quarters of his infield. The New York Giants are crying for infielders who can keep them in the thick of the flag race. They will certainly need a limber second sacker to tour that territory in the direction of first base. Zeke Bonura plays on a dime.

The Cardinals had infield trouble all last season and apparently are no better off this Spring. Over in Sarasota the Red Sox are trailing along with a rookie at third, but Jim Tabor should have the ability. The Sox have run the youngster through their farm chain and declare he finally is ready. Joe Cronin hopes so. Every one of the second division clubs is experimenting around the inner defense and would part with a generous lump of cash for a first-class shortstop, second or third baseman.

Brooklyn's Dodgers own a young man who seems headed for stardom. Pete Coscarart, another Pacific Coast League rookie, is back after schooling at Nashville. The Cincinnati Reds offered Larry MacPhail $50,000 for Pete, but Uncle Larry just shook his head. "If he's worth that much to you, he's worth twice as much to me," grinned the Dodger general manager.

SENATORS BEAT LIONS, 7 TO 6 TO LEAD LOOP

The Senators forged into the lead of the professional baseball circuit Wednesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here by nosing out the Lions by a 7 to 6 score. A three-run rally in the last half of the ninth turned the trick.

Pitcher Kikuya, who had been sent in to relieve Kondo in the seventh by the Lions' bench to hold on to a 6-4 lead, got into trouble in the ninth by walking Yokozawa and Karita. The two came in to deadlock the count at 6-all on hits by Iyemura and Kitamura. Omoda then walked to load the bases with none away. Manager and Second Baseman Karita succeeded in having the winning run brought in after one out on Asaoka's fly to right field.

The Lions looked good when they hit Kaneko all over the lot to score six runs in the first half of the second inning.

Center Fielder Omoda homered into the left field stands for the Senators in the last half of the second inning.

A homer by Second Baseman Hondo after First Baseman Matsuki had doubled, both off Pitcher Mochizuki, in the third inning helped the Tigers to bump off the Eagles, 4 to 3.

Nankai won its second game of the season holding on to an early lead to defeat the Dolfins, 7 to 5. Leadoff Man Hirai of the Nankai nine smashed Furutani's first pitch for a homer into the left field stands.

NEW YORK STATE HAD BANNER YEAR IN RACING

NEW YORK, March 18—Thoroughbred racing in New York State enjoyed its most prosperous year in 1938 since it came under control of the State Racing Commission in 1934, the annual report reveals.

Although there were three less days of racing than in 1937, the attendance figures jumped from 1,489,493 in 1937 to 1,494,932 in 1938; the receipts from $4,207,167 in 1937 to $4,556,357 in 1938; the purse distribution from $1,916,280 in 1937 to $1,964,500 in 1938; and the State's revenue from $586,707 in 1937 to $595,858 in 1938.

In comparison with 1938, the year before wagering was legalized in New York, the attendance was 2½ times greater in 1938, and the gross receipts 3½ times more.

The report, issued by the Chairman, Herbert Bayard Swope, and his Associate Commissioners, John Hay Whitney and John Sloan, showed that New York State contributed 12 per cent of the nation's attendance at the race tracks, 19 per cent, of the gate receipts, 16 per cent of the purses and 15 per cent of the horses.

SEVEN REFORMS

The Commission pointed out that it had instituted seven reforms during the year. They were:—

1.—Experiments for the detection or drugs with live horses under racing condition.

2.—A test for drugs by urinalysis, supplementing the saliva test.

3.—A blood test in indicated cases.

4.—Public notice of the plating of all horses racing.

5.—A revision of the weight scale upward.

6.—A system for the absolute identification of horses by anatomical charts and photography.

7.—An increase in the number of races for horses of three years old and up.

Only four cases of drugging in the year were shown out of 525 cases analyzed.

PITT GRIDIRON HOPES FADE AS COACHES LEAVE

PITTSBURGH—Once-powerful Pitt has lost another member of its coaching staff and the question heard 'round the campus was: "Who's next?"

Alex Fox, one of the smallest and one of the best of many good guards who played football at Pitt, is the fourth member of Coach John Bain Sutherland's teaching staff to leave the university since the close of the 1938 campaign.

Rumors immediately got into the wind that the next to leave might be Sutherland himself, but there was no one who professed to know anything definite about the situation. Sutherland repeatedly denied similar reports, but expressed discouragement over next season's prospects.

OFFER RUMORED

The Sun-Telegraph said there was an unconfirmed report that Sutherland "received and is considering an offer to take over the head coaching post at Mississippi State College." To which Sutherland replied, "There's hardly anything to that."

Whatever happens, any prospect that existed at Pitt for a traditionally strong eleven next season seemed to be dimming.

Fox was a good right arm to Sutherland, helped him build those powerful lines. He quit to go sell cement.

Before him, End Coach Eddie Schultz departed; then Josh Williams, backfield mentor, and Mike Milligan, freshman coach, both of whom took positions with the University of Florida.

So far Sutherland has failed to set a definite date for the opening of Spring practice. Some sources said that might be the lack of eligible players, although a checkup disclosed 47 gridders on the eligible list.

PROSPECTS INELIGIBLE

More than a score of prospects are ineligible because of class-room difficulties. Among them are five gridiron 'varsity holdovers. Larry Peace of Bradford, the best fullback prospect, and Quarterback Billy Goldberg, sophomore brother of the famed mad Marshall Goldberg, both are ineligible for Spring practice.

Who will fill the assistant coaching vacancies remains to be decided. Only Frank Souchak, one-time star Pitt end—the successor of Schultz—has been appointed. Don Hensley, center coach; Mike Nicksic, backfield coach, and John Michelosen, coach of the quarterbacks, remain from last Fall's staff.

Helpful

Jones was peeved because his wife failed to keep the buttons sewed on his shirt. One day, when he was about to go shopping with her, he remarked: "Oh, by the way, remind me to get some needles and thread when we're out, dear."

His wife gave him a dazzling smile.

"You silly boy," she cooed. "You can always borrow mine, you know."—Tit-Bits.

HOWARD'S KAYAK II CAPTURES $100,000 SANTA ANITA HANDICAP

By HENRY MCLEMORE

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

ACADIA, Calif., March 4—Hidden by the dust of his hot-footed rivals the early running, Charles S. Howard's Kayak II gamely fought his way to the top in the home stretch and pulled away today to win the fifth running of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

When he crossed the finish line, with Johnny Adams in the saddle, the South American four-year-old was a length in front of the Canadian-owned Whichcee, and going away. In third place was Louis B. Mayer's Main Man, and in fourth position was Specify, the early pace-setter, which wilted in the run for home.

Kayak II, which picked up the burden of the Howard stable when his stablemate, Seabiscuit, went lame two weeks ago, ran the mile and a quarter in 2:01 2-5, smashing the track mark of 2:01 3-5, established by Stagehand in winning the same race a year ago.

Coupled with Sorteado, another Argentine importation, Kayak II went to the post favored by the 66,000 spectators. He paid off at the rate of $8, $4.40 and 4. Whichcee returned $6.20 and $4.80, while Main Man made $9.60 for those who liked him to show.

BIG CROWD

The crowd was the mightiest in the history of this track. It began gathering at 10 o'clock in the morning, when 5,000 persons rushed the gates at opening time for the unreserved seats.

Every one of the 20,000 reserved seats was taken when the field went to the post and the grandstand terrace which extends the full length of the stretch, was jammed with whooping customers. The overflow of thousands swarmed into the flower-filled infield and scrambled for vantage points near the rail and on the benches.

The swarming throng pushed $375,685 through the mutuel machines on the big race, and more than a million and a quarter dollars on the eight-race card.

In winning the handicap Kayak II made money faster than a counterfeiter. In little more time than it takes to thread a needle, he had blazed around the racing strip to win $91,100 net for his owner. The victory brought his 1939 winnings to $103,350, and his lifetime earnings to $106,730.

Whichcee, property of Maj. Austin C. Taylor, of Vancouver, won $20,000 for chasing the South American home. Main Man added $10,000 to the already fat wallet of Louis B. Mayer by finishing third. Specify, running in the silks of Bert Baroni, saddler of the 1936 winner, Top Row, was paid $5,000 for coming in fourth.

Townsend Martin's Cravat, second in the betting at 9 to 2, never was a contender. He finished seventh, ten and a half lengths off the pace. The entry of Today and Gosum, held at 7 to 1, also was a disappointment. Today got no better than fifth, and Gosum, fourth to Stagehand a year ago, was a poor eighth.

The finish, after the first four horses, was: Today, Jacola, Cravat, Gosum, War Ministrel, Quick Devil (coupled with Main Man), Heelfly, Frexo, Congressman, Thanksgiving, Sorteado and Melodist.

Purchased for $7,500 as a yearling in Buenos Aires two years ago, Kayak II, under the expert handling of Adams, 1937 riding champion, ran perfectly. Held off the pace, he answered with a blazing burst of speed when Adams gave him his head and set him flying for the finish line.

Tenth at the start, he was breathing the dust of the leaders when the cavalcade, bright silks gleaming in the sun, thundered past the judges' stand the first time around. As the field careened into the first turn and headed for the loam of the back stretch, Kayak II made a slight move. Not a startling one, but enough of one to pick up a few stragglers and put him in seventh position.

Adams must have felt the power that was behind him, because a few second later he gave the Argentine another shot at the front runners, and again the brown-coated fellow had the answer. He laid back his ears, dug in, and rolled forward.

FOURTH AT HALF-MILE

His stablemate, Sorteado, was the first to be passed. Then he went by Congressman like a midnight freight. Thanksgiving was the next to hear him clatter by, and when the half-mile mark was reached he was boiling along in fourth position, with only Whichcee, Specify and Main Man out ahead.

His great drive was apparent to every one in the vast throng. Scorning the short way home, Kayak II swung to the outside and started running around the leaders. Main Man was collared and passed. The next to fall behind was Whichcee, who was tiring a bit. Then, with a quarter of the home stretch covered Kayak II set his sights on Specify. Within a stride or two Specify quit and began fading back.

When he returned to the jockeys' room, Adams was a poor conversationalist. Too excited to talk, he could only repeat again and again, "What a horse, what a horse."

It was reported that he and Ralph Neves, who rode the other Howard contender, Sorteado, had made a pre-race agreement to split the $10,000 that goes to the victorious jockey if either won.

Kayak II ran a much more impressive race than Stagehand did in winning a year ago. He not only broke the track record, but he packed 110 pounds, ten more than the Maxwell Howard horse. The handicap today was his twelfth race in North America and he has yet to finish out of the money.

Wakabayashi Helps Tigers To Beat Dolfins

The sports committee of the Welfare Ministry at its general meeting Thursday sustained the recommendation made by its subcommittee to scratch boxing and professional sumo from the program of the Meiji Shrine games to be staged next Fall.

Decision was reached to hold the games, comprised of 24 events, for five days with the chief attractions on November 3.

Boxing is considered by the committee as an imported sport which has not yet been fully appreciated by the Japanese. And sumo by the professional wrestlers too tinged with professionalism to have no place in the amateur program.

CUNNINGHAM WINS 2-MILE, BEATING LASH

By STANLEY WOODWARD

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

NEW YORK, March 5—Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas, ran his first serious two-mile race in Madison Square Garden last night and beat the three best two-mile racers in the country just as he has been beating all comers in his specialty, the mile, during the last two years.

Jumping Don Lash, champion at the distance, a lap and a half from home, the Kansas Cyclone delivered the same tremendous kick which has characterized his mile running and held on to the finish with the Garden in an uproar, beating the pride of the Indiana State Police by four feet. Greg Rice, University of Notre Dame, was a hot third, not more than a yard behind Lash. Tommy Deckard, record-holder in the two-mile steeplechase, wore down badly in the sprinting finish and came in thirteen yards back of Rice.

The race among these four, arranged as an added attraction in the midst of the intercollegiate meet, was run in 9:11.8, slow time for such performers, and yet the race was one of the greatest in the memory of the oldest track fan.

SOME BELIEVE LASH WAS FOULED

The bitter duel over the last lap and a half made it so, and there are perhaps some in the crowd who will claim as long as they live Cunningham fouled Lash, slightly but definitely, on the second last turn.

At the start of the second last lap, Lash jumped Rice and Deckard from close corners and Cunningham sprinted with him. They charged down the back stretch with Cunningham closing in. He went wide on the turn and was in the lead as they turned into the straightaway. Still he didn't have enough room to take the pole until he reached the turn. As he turned to the inside of the track, Lash reached out and pushed him. The maneuver cost the two-mile champion two yards.

Lash challenged again in the final backstretch, but Cunningham carried him a little wide and held on. He tried once again on the last turn but couldn't go around the flying Kansan. As they straightened out for the tape, every one knew that Cunningham had the race won and a tremendous howl of acclamation went up.

Those who had been able to keep their equanimity during the final fireworks seemed agreed after the race that the two-milers did not handle their "muscler-in" with any semblance of correct strategy in the early stages of the race. With Deckard leading, the mile was clocked in 4:29, as against Lash's 4:24.6 when he set a world indoor record of 8:58 two years ago.

Cunningham paced off that mile in about 4:31, twelve yards off the pace. A mile like that is nothing for the world's 4:04.4 miler. He just took it as an ordinary human being would take a Sunday afternoon stroll and then started out to run another mile race.

Deckard had done most of the pace-setting for the first mile. Lash took the lead on the thirteenth lap, at which point the field closed in so tightly that a blanket would have covered all four. That's the way Lash, Cunningham and Rice ran the rest of the race.

The last of these stayed up with his illustrious competition like a true champion. He took the lead on the seventeenth lap and held it until the beginning of the twenty-first.

MOST SPEED IN LAST HALF

Then commenced the duel which several thousand had come for and the result that most of them apparently wanted to see.

Most of the speed of the race was in the last half-mile, which was turned off in 2:12. Cunningham was officially timed for the last quarter in a minute and three-tenths of a second. The times by quarter-miles follow: Quarter, 65.6; half-mile, 2:12.6; three-quarter-mile, 3:20.6; mile, 4:29; mile and one-quarter, 5:43.8; mile and one-half, 6:59.8; one mile and three-quarters, 8:11.2.

UPSETS MARK ENGLISH SOCCER TILTS

LONDON, March 4 (Canadian Press)—The English Football Cup will find a new home this season. Two upsets marked sixth-round matches today, Preston North End, holder of the trophy, bowing by 1—0 at Portsmouth, while Grimsby Town downed Chelsea, 1—0, on the Londoners' ground at Stamford Bridge.

Sixty thousand crowded Molineux Park to see the Wolverhampton Wanderers gain semi-final status through a 2-0 victory over Everton, league leader. The Wolves are now prime favorites to win the cup for the first time. Huddersfield Town and the Blackburn Rovers battled to a 1-1 stalemate on the former's ground.

The replay will take place this week at Blackburn and many experts favor the chance of the Lancashire team, sole survivor of the second division in the cup tournament.

CUP GAMES DRAW 200,000

Played in fine weather the cup quarter-finals held the interest of the soccer fans and the aggregate attendance was estimated at 200,000.

Arsenal's supporters were given a surprise by the announcement that Wilfred Copping, International half-back, had been transferred to Leeds United, where he played five years ago. It is understood the Yorkshire Club paid £5,000 ($23,500) for the player, about £3,000 less than it received for him at the first exchange.

Another surprise was the announced resignation of John Cochrane, secretary-manager of Sunderland since 1928.

The upset-a-round tradition that has crept into Scottish Cup competition the past few years, remained intact as Motherwell recorded an unlooked-for 3-1 victory over the favored Celtic team.

RANGERS STRENGTHEN LEAD

The sudden-death tournament now enters the semi-finals with Motherwell, Aberdeen, Clyde and Hibernians left to fight it out.

Five games were played in the league and the Rangers' 2-0 decision over the Raith Rovers, practically clinched the championship. The Light Blues need only 3 points in their remaining seven matches.

The four cup contests attracted a total attendance of 120,000. The best crowd of the day, 34,000, saw Aberdeen, now established as favorite, half Queen of South, 3—0.

Henry Tadashi Wakabayashi, former star pitcher of Hosei University, helped the Tigers of which he is captain, to an 8 to 0 triumph over the Dolfins in Friday's tripleheader of the professional league at the Korakuen stadium here. He checked the Dolfins to three hits in seven innings and then turned the job over to Shoichi Aoki with an 8-0 lead.

Pitchers Matsuo and Fukushi of Nagoya and the Lions engaged in a duel which was halted at the end of the 11th inning with the count 2-all to make way for the Eagles versus Hankyu game. The latter routed the former 8-0.

COLUMBIA BEATS PENN FIVE, 30-27

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

PHILADELPHIA, March 4—Columbia, showing better team play and foul shooting, defeated Pennsylvania in a hard-fought Eastern Intercollegiate League game at the Palestra tonight, 30 to 27.

The crowd of 3,500 fans were treated to plenty of action, especially in the second half, when the rivals matched field goals for several minutes.

By the victory the Lions still remained in the championship race, with seven victories and three defeats, moving to second, ahead of Cornell, which lost to Princeton.

The defeat was Penn's fifth setback against five victories, and put them in a fourth-place tie with the Tigers.

Penn got off to a 2-to-0 lead in the first minute on Tony Mischo's backhand field goal, but Naylor's foul toss, another by Medvedeff, and Naylor's lap-up field goal soon enabled the New Yorkers to pull ahead. They were still in front, 15 to 12, at the half.

The Red and Blue put on a spurt after five minutes had elapsed in the last half when Brickley, Schreiber and Pearce put together four field goals making it 23 to 22 in Penn's favor. Then the Lions went to work again, and aided by the accurate shooting of Medvedeff and Myers, won out.

Medvedeff was high with three field goals and two fouls, followed by Myers, who had two double-deckers and five fouls. Naylor also played well before being banished on personal fouls just before the final gun.

As usual, Mischo excelled for Penn with two field goals and a pair of fouls, but he was guarded closer than usual under the basket.

PRINCETON TOPS HARVARD, 45-30 AT SWIMMING

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

PRINCETON, N. J., March 4—Performing, with one exception, strictly according to form, Princeton's undefeated swimming team defeated Harvard, 45 to 30, in Brokaw pool today and entered the final week of the third annual Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming League round-robin with only Yale to beat to claim its first circuit championship. It was the Tigers' fifth consecutive league victory and the first tournament setback for the Cantabs, who won the title for the last two years.

Yale may take a lot of beating on Wednesday at New Haven, but today the Tigers showed that maybe they can give it. Harvard took one more first place in individual events, four to three, but Princeton showed exceptional balance as well as power in the events it was expected to win and then surprised by capturing the 400-yard free-style relay in 3:40.1, the best time made in league competition this year. Princeton won the medley relay easily, as expected.

TIGERS TAKE FOUR SECONDS

The Tigers clinched the meet before the free-style relay, last event on the program, was run. In addition to their three first places—in the 220, the back stroke and the breast stroke—the Tigers took four seconds and six thirds and it was, of course, their ability to pick up these auxiliary points that gave them the meet.

The engagement produced only one double winner, Harvard's Jim Curwen, who won both sprints. The other Cantab winners were Capt. Russell Greenhood, intercollegiate champion, in the fancy dive, and Eric Cutler, who scored in the quarter-mile. Princeton's individual winners were Capt. Dick Hough in the breast stroke, Al Vande Weghe in the back stroke and Ned Parke, the sophomore, in the 220. According to their performances throughout the campaign, these victories were exactly according to form.

But it was the performance of the Tiger second and third place men that won the meet.

Princeton picked up unexpected points in the 50, where Bill Shand finished third; in the 220, where Vande Weghe, competing here as well as in the back stroke and the medley relay, outsprinted Cutler, who had been beaten only once this season in this event, for second place; and in the 440, where Ralph Binns, scored a very important point, in fact, that clinched the meet.

FREE-STYLE EXCITING

The most exciting event of the day's card, contested before a crowd that literally hung to the rafters (there were spectators perched on every girder supporting the roof), was the free-style relay.

Harvard's first two swimmers, Curwen and Frank Powers, gave their team a lead of a yard over Princeton's Vande Weghe and Herbert Moeller. But then Jim Green, the big Tiger sophomore, finished the third leg a touch in front of Fred Griffin. Parke and the Crimson's Lonnie Stowell, on the anchor, battled neck and neck for fifty yards, Parke slowly opened up water and finished in front by ten feet.

There were 700 persons jammed into natatorium, which has a normal capacity of 500.

The time of 3:40.1 was almost two seconds and a half faster than the previous test, made by a Yale foursome earlier this season.

The Summaries:

300-Yard medley relay—Won by Princeton, (Cott Scammell, Richard Hough, James Green); Harvard, (Craig Moore, Albert Waldron, Fred Griffin) second; Time 3:02.3.

220-Yard free style—Won by Edward Parke, Princeton; Albert Vande Weghe, Princeton, second; Eric Cutler, Harvard, third. Time 2:17.5.

50-Yard free style—Won by James Curwen, Harvard; Henrick Van Oss, Princeton, second; William Shand, Princeton, third. Time 0:24.7.

Dive—Won by Russell Greenhood, Harvard, 123.93 points; George Dana, Harvard, 95.53 points, second; Russell Adams, Princeton, 84.60 points, third.

100-Yard free style—Won by James Curwen, Harvard; tie for second between Edward Parke and Henrick Van Oss, Princeton. Time 9:53.7.

150-Yard back stroke—Won by Albert Vande Weghe, Princeton; Arthur Bosworth, Harvard, second; Scott Scammell, Princeton, third. Time 1:42.9.

200-Yard breast stroke—Won by Richard Hough, Princeton; Albert Waldron, Harvard, second; Frank McCarter, Princeton, third. Time 2:27.6.

440-Yard free style—Won by Eric Cutler, Harvard; Sheffield Halsey, Princeton, second; Ralph Binns, Princeton, third. Time 5:05.9.

400-Yard free style relay—Won by Princeton (Vande Weghe, Herbert Moeller, Green, Parke); Harvard, (Curwen, Francis Powers, Griffin, Lonnie Stowell), second. Time 3:40.1.

MANHATTAN BAGS I. C. 4-A. TITLE; GOTHAM STARS CAPTURE 9 EVENTS

By JESSE ABRAMSON

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

NEW YORK, March 5—With an inspirational team surge that netted thirty-six points in eight events, three individual titles and the only record-breaking performance, the Jaspers of Manhattan flattened the opposition of twenty-seven rivals in the eighteenth annual Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championships recently in Madison Square Garden.

Thirteen thousand spectators, the largest crowd that has ever seen the I. C. 4-A meet, whooped and roared through the tumultuous night of exciting varsity competition. And the Manhattan cheering sections, aided and abetted by the Manhattan band that furnished incidental music, went crazy as one Jasper after another surpassed himself.

The high point and the clincher of the Manhattan team fight came in the two-mile race when Bob Conkling, retaining his title, led a Green parade, with Andy Neidnig second and Gene McCabe third, that brought eleven points. Bob Hoolahan, shifted into the mile at his own request, won it, with Joe Moclair third. Artie Byrnes set an I. C. 4-A. record of 6 feet 6¼ inches in retaining his high-jump crown.

JASPERS NET HUGE TOTAL

Joe Zeitler, coming from behind, snatched second in the 600. Tom Garland, a sophomore sleeper, ran third in the high hurdles, in which Jay Shields, of Yale, tied the I. C. 4-A. record of 7.4 seconds for sixty yards over four hurdles. The Manhattan two-mile relay, with Hoolahan, Moclair and George Sheehan doubling up, ran third. Sheehan picked up a gravy point in the 1,000, and the mile relay added another for one of the highest scores in intercollegiate annals. Manhattan, the favorite, regained the team title after a two-year interval, repeating its triumphs of 1934, 1935 and 1936.

New York, the host to the meet since it was started, cleaned up as never before. N. Y. U. finished second with 20 points in five events. Fordham was third, with 15 points in three events. Princeton led the Ivy contenders with 14¾ points in fourth place, followed by Yale, 12 1-5; Rhode Island State, 11 1-15 Penn State, 10 2-5; Dartmouth, 10 1-5, and Columbia, 10.

GOTHAM STARS WIN 9 EVENTS

That was not all for Gotham's standard bearers. They won nine of the thirteen varsity events and also the non-scoring freshmen medley relay. New York University swept every relay on the program, the varsity mile and two-mile relays and the freshman event. Lionhearted Jim Herbert, who can't buy himself an individual victory this year, ran a spine-tingling 48.1 second anchor quarter in taking the mile relay by a yard in 3:20.3 after his mates, Jimmy McPoland, George Hagans and Harold Bogrow, held the lead all the way.

The Violet two-mile foursome of Martin (Piccolo) Witte, David (Frenchy) Urbach, Myron Bresnick and Curtis Giddings brought down the house with a one-yard victory over Harvard in 7:53 as Jimmy Lightbody jr., son of a four-time Olympic champion, ran a 1:53.6 anchor half mile for the Crimson in a memorable bid after the Harvard lead-off man dropped the baton at the start. And with Leslie MacMitchell reeling off a 4:21.6 mile, the N. Y. U. freshmen won their event by eighty yards.

FORDHAM BAGS TWO TITLES

Fordham bagged two titles as expected, Wesley Wallace winning the 600 in 1:13.2 by seven yards and Frank Slater and Walter Cary running one-two for the Ram in the new 1,000-yard test. Columbia, losing the team title, won two titles, too, with Francis Ryan in the shot-put and Dick Ganslen in the pole vault.

The intercollegiate relays produced their traditional frenzied races. In the closing mile relay fixture, N. Y. U. led throughout, with Holy Cross ever in close pursuit. Herbert got away a step in front of Charles O'Donnell, the Purple sophomore anchor, and held the lead in a terrific drive all the way. O'Dennell, challenging again and again, drove to Herbert's shoulder, and Herbert fought him off with head and heart and legs. Pitt, the defending champion dropped the baton at the very start, lost twenty yards and came back to take third, ahead of Georgetown and Manhattan.

In the crowded fields on the narrow Garden track incidents were happening all night long. Joe Bradley dropped the baton for Harvard at the very outset of the two-mile relay, lost twenty yards, and then fought his way back into the race, reaching third position.

But N. Y. U. had command of the race from the start. Going into the last 880 leg, N. Y. U. led Manhattan by two yards, with Lightbody, of Harvard, touched off fifteen yards away. The blond-haired flier with the noble footracing heritage, running his first 880, overhauled the leaders and bolt to the front with two laps to go, only to see Giddings, the N. Y. U. captain, nail him with a tremendous spurt down the homestretch. Behind Manhattan came Princeton and Fordham, the Ram's runners unable to retain their title after earlier individual efforts of Slater and Cary.

Anson Perina, of Princeton, subnormal in the broad jump this Winter, suddenly discovered that he was wearing shoes too large for him. He changed to the right size and jumped 24 feet, missing his I. C. 4-A. record by two inches and barely fouling a record leap as he retained his title and made it a clean sweep for the four individual defenders—Perina, Ryan, Conkling and Byrnes.

WALLACE WINS 600

Wesley Wallace gained a second title for Fordham when he ran off with the 600-yard race in 1:13.2, beating his field by seven yards. Joe Zeitler, of Manhattan, putting everything he had into a stretch drive, snatched second place from Rhode Island's Robert Dixon by inches as Jim Herbert, of N. Y. U., ran fourth and John Nevius, of Cornell, fifth.

The 600-yard racers had a harrowing time of it all day. Wallace was knocked down in the first ten yards of his afternoon qualifying heat; the recall gun barked at the command of Rupert Thomas, referee. Wallace then won the re-run of his heat. Robert Thum, of Princeton, a high-ranking contender, fell in his heat and Jim Herbert, drawing an outside position on the very rim of the track as nine men ran in each heat, was forced to come from last place to get a qualifying berth by inches.

Even with only six in the final the narrow Garden track wasn't wide enough for the varsity fighters. There was considerable shoving and pushing for a lap. Nevius then bolted to the front. Wallace went out with his whirlwind sprint a furlong from the end and won going away as Zeitler came from behind to get second. The Jasper rooters swooned with joy.

HOOLAHAN WINS MILE

Bob Hoolahan, of Manhattan, who convinced his coach that he could win the mile and was switched from the 1,000-yard race at his own request, went out and made good. Running through a mob scene of twenty-two starters on the narrow Garden oval after starting from the second line on the complete outside, Hoolahan raced up from the rack, went to second at the half mile, moved to the lead with two laps to go and fought off his challengers in a driving finish.

Hoolahan's time was 4:25.2, which must be considered excellent, considering the traffic conditions. He defeated Frank Maule, of Penn State, by three yards, as Manhattan's favorite, Joe Moclair, the I. C. 4-A. outdoor two-mile champion, placed third, three yards behind Maule. Harold Wonson, of Dartmouth, and Weymouth Kirkland, of Princeton, were fourth and fifth in the huge field. Despite the cumbersome entry, class told; the men who figured to score come through. Maule was a surprise only because he had not shown in competition this Winter.

SHIELDS CAPTURES SPRINT

Jay Shields, of Yale, took over the sixty-yard four-hurdles championship won last year by his classmate, Ted Day, currently ineligible. Shields equaled Day's intercollegiate indoor record of 7.4 seconds in a thrilling final wherein he bolted off the last hurdle and overhauled Miller Frazier, Penn State captain. Inches separated the two as the Blue star lunged for the tape in a diving, driving finish that almost sent him on his face. Manhattan rooters went wild as Tom Gardland, a sophomore who came out of nowhere this Winter, catapulted into third place for a windfall of three points, beating Yale's Hunt Ethridge, Bowdoin's Neal Allen and Penn's Hughes Cauffman. Shields went through the heats unbeaten.

The sixty-yard sprint was another close thing with Kenny Clapp, the favorite, giving Brown its first I. C. 4-A title in ten years. Clapp won by inches from George Kroupa, Pennsylvania sophomore, with Fred Vietor, Williams sophomore, third. Clapp was clocked in 6.4 after doing his heat and semi-final in 6.3 and 6.4 Francis Zeimetz, of Boston College, was shut out in the semi-final by a narrow margin, and Marty Glickman also went out in the semi-final.

FORDHAM STARS ONE-TWO

Fordham emerged from the first running of the 1,000-yard championship with a magnificent one-two. Francis G. Slater, senior, and Walter Cary, sophomore, outfooted the field in the final as Curtis Giddings, the N. Y. U. champion, running a poor tactical race, placed third, a yard away. Slater's time was 2:15.2, which becomes the I. C. 4-A. record in the absence of any previous time.

This was a jockeying duel wherein Alfred Holt, of Rhode Island; George Sheehan, of Manhattan, and Jim Stanton, of Holy Cross, all set the pace until Slater moved up with two laps to go. But Slater took back and was third on the last turn, with Cary leading. In the sprint for the tape, Slater beat Cary by two feet. Giddings, pocketed in fifth place on the last lap, never had clear running for his belated sprint and had to be content with third prize. Holt was fourth and Sheehan fifth.

RYAN RETAINS SHOTPUT TITLE

Columbia's Frank Ryan retained his shotput title, heaving the sixteen-pounder 50 feet 8⅞ inches, improving by two inches his best qualifying toss. The surprise was Ed Swenson, of Boston College, whose qualifying effort of 49 feet 10½ inches earned him runner-up honors by the smallest margin possible over the two N. Y. U. stars, Danny Taylor and Howie Brill. Taylor, moving up from fourth to third, was a quarter of an inch back of Swenson and an eighth of an inch ahead of Brill. John Bazyk, of Pitt, who beat 50 feet in the N. Y. A. C. meet, was shut out in the afternoon with a 46:8¾ performance.

William W. McKeever, Cornell's track captain and star tackle, climaxed a year of remarkable development as a hardware heaver by winning the 35-pound weight with a near-record toss of 57 feet 3⅛ inches that is the third-best ever recorded. The Big Red athlete, who could not place a year ago, cut-classed his rivals by nearly seven feet, and became the first Cornell man to win the weight in nine years. Stanley Johnson, Maine's only I. C. 4-A. entry, and William Barlow, of Rhode Island State, placed second and third, both beating 50 feet. Rhode Island picked up two more points with Hugh Torchia.

SHALLOW, BOULTER FAIL

The surprise of the weight was the elimination of Harvard's Bill Shallow, runner-up last year and 55-foot favorite this Winter, and Bowdoin's Carl Boulter, a 52-footer. Both fouled on all their four qualifying tries. McKeever had four measured throws over 51:10½, and any one of them was good enough to win the title.

Columbia's Dick Ganslen, champion in the pole vault two years ago and runner-up last year, cleared 13 feet 6 inches in regaining the title. George Bailey, of Dartmouth, vaulted 13 feet for second, and five men tied for third at 12:6, Bob Clark and George Jackson, of Penn State among them. Yale's Tom Lussen victim of an accident while he was warming up, was scratched.

Not Contagious

Willie ran in all out of breath with the news.

"Mummy! They have a new baby next door, and the lady is awfully sick."

"Well, Willie, go over and see her."

"No, I won't, because she is so sick and I don't want to be afflicted with the same disease."

Kiefer Sets World Mark In 150-Yd. Backstroke

Adolf Kiefer, world's greatest backstroke star who competed in the Japanese national championships at the Meiji Shrine pool here in 1935 and smashed all national records, set a new world's record for the 150-yard backstroke when he negotiated the distance in one minute 32.2 seconds Thursday in the American national A. A. U. indoor swimming championships at the Ohio State University pool at Columbus, according to a Domei dispatch.

Taylor Drysdale, who also has appeared in exhibitions in Japan, was second.

Peter Fick of New York, well-known to Japanese swimming fans, splashed his way to victory in the 100-yard freestyle beating Johnson of Yale University by a touch. His time was 52.3 seconds

STILL IN LIMELIGHT

Eleanor Holm, whose conduct aboard ship across the Atlantic bounced her off from the American delegation to the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936 and hence was barred from competition at a time when she was the world's greatest woman backstroke swimmer, is still going strong. She will appear in the aquacade at the New York World's Fair. Here she is pictured as she inaugurated a large swimming tank in the stage show of Radio City Music Hall recently.

Y.S.C. PLAYERS TO PLAY IN KOBE

The Yokohama Sport Club's soccer eleven and a table tennis quartet left by the Tsubame express this morning for Kobe to play the Catholic Young Men's Association and the Kobe Regatta & Athletic Club in Interport Games.

The Y. S. C. table tennis squad will face the C. Y. M. A. team at 7:30 p.m. today at the K.R. & A.C. gymnasium. The contest will be to secure the best out of five matches comprised of four singles and one doubles. The Y. S. C. players are C. F. Fernandes (Captain), D. Fernandes, J. M. Fernandes and B. Thorpe, and for doubles D. and J. M. Fernandes. The table tennis interport games between the Y. S. C. and the C. Y. M. A. were inaugurated in 1938 when Yokohama won by a score of 3-2 This year the chances are in favor of Yokohama winning again.

The same Y.S.C. table tennis players, under the same conditions, will take on the K.R. and A.C. line-up on Sunday at 4 p.m. This year's match is the first between these two clubs. The K.R. and A.C. will be represented by Maratschi, Schnell (Captain), Baikie and Mogra. In the doubles, Maratschi and Schnell will probably pair up. Here, the opposing players are well matched and the outcome is quite intriguing.

The Y.S.C. soccer team is comprised of B. Thorpe, A. Arai, E. Sisikin, M. Zapasnik, F. Ishikawa (captain), M. Kikuchi, F. da Rosa, P. Fujii, J. Nishigori, F. Kondo and W. Blamey (vice-captain); reserves, C. F. Fernandes, D. Fernandes and J. Asahina. In soccer the Y.S.C. will play the C.Y.M.A. team only, on Sunday at 2 p.m. The soccer interport matches between these two clubs were also started in 1938, when Kobe won by a score of 2-1. The contest this year is expected to be another very close fight.

GIANTS SHARE LEAGUE'S LEAD WITH SENATORS

The Giants put themselves in a tie position with the Senators for the lead in the professional baseball circuit Friday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here by running roughshod over the Eagles 9 to 1 in their first clash of the 1939 season. Each has five victories with two setbacks for a .714 average.

Burly Rightfielder Nakajima, who led the league in homers last year, took the punch out of the Eagles right in the first inning by leaning on a slow pitch by Ted Furukawa and slammed it high up into the left field bleachers with two men on. The Eagles never had a chance after that.

Third Baseman Mizuhara also poled one into the right field stands in the third inning off Furukawa.

First Baseman Nakagawa's hit through third brought in the Eagles' only run in the first half of the first inning. Scoring was Terauchi from third.

The Nankai squad and the Tigers each garnered 12 hits but the former was behind by an 11 to 6 score at the end of the game. Second Baseman Kunihisa of the Nankai club was the heaviest sticker of the game with four hits out of five times at bat, one of them a homer in the eighth inning. Two big innings, the first and the seventh in which four runs each were registered, won for the Tigers.

Nagoya turned the tables over the Senators, 3 to 0, in the other game. Pitcher Muramatsu was in good form and checked the Senators to five hits. His fast ball had the Senators puzzled all afternoon.

Nagoya scored the first run in fourth frame when Right Fielder Kato swung at a high ball after one away and connected for a three bagger to left center. He came in on Osawa's timely hit to right.

The summaries follow:

Nankai	002 020 020	6	12	2

Armstrong Stops Pacho In 4th Round at Havana

HAVANA, March 4—Henry Armstrong, world's welterweight champion, retained his crown by defeating Bobby Pacho, of California, tonight on a fourth-round technical knockout in a scheduled fifteen-round fight. More than 10,000 saw the fight. Pacho weighed 147 and had a thirteen-pound advantage.

Late in the first round Armstrong caught Pacho off balance with a right that sent him to the floor. He was up without a count, but walked into a left hook that bounced him against the ropes. Another right floored him again, but he arose without a count.

The second round was closely fought with honors evenly divided. Pacho carried the fight to Armstrong in the third round.

In the fourth Armstrong backed Pacho against the ropes and slugged him Pacho's hands fell and he slowly slid to the canvas.

Jim Braddock, referee, stopped the fight and dragged Pacho to his corner after 1:10 of the round.

The Oldest Volunteer

The oldest man ever to enlist in the American Army was Henry Francisco, born in France in 1686. When he enlisted as a private in Captain Burroughs' Company, Colonel Warner's Regiment of the Continental Army, on January 15, 1777, the old soldier was 91 years old. He was discharged April 20, 1778 and survived for another 42 years, dying on October 25, 1820, in Whitehall, New York, at the age of 134 years. He had been present at the coronation of Queen Anne of England. Twice married, he was the father of 21 children. His last child was born when he was 82. Altogether one of the most amazing Americans of all time.

Pitt Upsets Georgetown In Basketball, 44 to 39

WASHINGTON, March 4—Georgetown lost an opportunity to clinch the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball Conference basketball title tonight in losing to Pittsburgh, 44 to 39.

Pitt, at the bottom of the Conference standings, took an early lead and held it most of the way.

The line-up:

Pittsburgh (44)	G.	F.	P.
Stroloski, lf.	5	0	10
Reeves	1	0	2

CAMBRIDGE BEATS OXFORD IN BOAT RACE

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, April 1—Avenging two successive defeats at the hands of Oxford, the Cambridge University rowing team today beat Oxford by four lengths to win the 91st annual boat race between the two schools.

The Cambridge crew, rowing beautifully together and well within themselves, led all the way, finishing the 4¼-mile race in the official time of 19 minutes and 3 seconds, the best record set by any British team since 1934.

Oxford was rowed out at the finish line. The losers were two lengths behind at the mile post, two and a half lengths at the two-mile mark and three lengths at the three-mile post. During the next mile, Oxford diminished the lead Cambridge was holding, but was unable to keep up with the spurt the winners put up in the last quarter mile.

With weather and water conditions ideal, hundreds of thousands lined up the banks of the Thames to witness the brilliant Cambridge victory.

Since 1900, Cambridge has won 24 out of 30 contests.

MEDICA WINS 500-YD. SWIM

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, March 6—Setting the pace throughout the race, Jack Medica of the New York A. C. easily captured the men's 500-yard New York State free-style championship to feature the swimming meet held yesterday in the Park Central Hotel's 25-yard pool.

Medica, who won the 400-meter Olympic crown in 1936 and holds ten world's records, was clocked in 5:56.8 in leading his clubmate, Ray Mullane, by about fifteen yards. Mullance defeated Irwin Goodman of the Park Central A. A. by seven yards. The latter engaged in a close duel with Joseph Lucas of the St. George Dragon Club for third and took that place by a touch.

In the 200-yard breast-stroke event, Harry Chanas of the Lenox Hill A. A. scored by two yards over Parnell Callahan unattached.

Miss Betty Menzel of the Women's Swimming Association of New York triumphed by four yards in the 100-yard free-style race for novice girls. Miss Mary Cunningham of the St. George Dragon Club had a four-foot lead over her nearest rival in winning the 100-yard back-stroke handicap for girls that was closed to the Associated Swimming Clubs of New York.

THE SUMMARIES

500-Yard New York State Free Style Championship—Won by Jack Medica, New York A. C.; Ray Mullane, New York A. C., second; Irwin Goodman, Park Central A. A., third; Joseph Lucas, St. George Dragon Club, fourth. Time—5:56.8.

200-Yard Breast Stroke Swim—Won by Harry Chanas, Lenox Hill A. A.; Parnell Callahan, unattached, second; Edward Sidwa, Newark A. C., third; George Muntz, St. George Dragon Club, fourth. Time—2:35.5.

100-Yard Free Style Swim for Novice Girls—Won by Miss Betty Menzel, Women's Swimming Association; Miss Eleanor Reich, Women's Swimming Association, second; Miss Peggy Ribble, Park Central A. A., third; Miss Sue McGeachin, Shelton Dolphins, fourth. Time—1:10.5.

100-Yard Back Stroke Handicap Swim for Girls (closed to Associated Swimming Clubs of New York)—Won by Miss Mary Cunningham, St. George Dragon Club (8 seconds); Miss Ferne Bramhall, Shelton Dolphins (3 seconds), second; Miss June Stirling, Bayville A. C. (10 seconds), third; Miss Sue Hernsdorf, Shelton Dolphins (1 second), fourth. Time—1:25.

Mako Says Riggs In a Class by Himself

NEW YORK—As doubles partner to Don Budge the last two years and finalist in the 1938 National singles, Gene Mako could be excused for feeling he has priority rights to a place on the defending Davis Cup Team this year. But Mako needs no such excuse. The square-jawed, square-shouldered Californian believes only one man is entitled to special consideration, and that's Bobby Riggs.

"Bobby's in a class by himself," Gene said. "His record proves that. Over the last three years, he's lost only two bad matches. As for the rest of us, when it comes to playing singles there are about 10 I'd rate on even terms."

In that group Mako places Wayne Sabin, Elwood Cooke, Sidney Wood, Frank Shields, Frankie Parker, Bitsy Grant, Frank Kovacs and, incidentally, Gene Mako. He sees very little to choose between any of them now, with no chance of settling supremacy until the racketers move out onto the grass courts again this Summer.

Only when it comes to picking a Davis Cup doubles team does Mako feel he may have an edge on the others. That's due more to the confidence he has in his new partner, Jack Tidball, than to any high regard for his own ability.

Just off the Southern circuit, Mako is getting a big kick out of his first National Indoor Tournament.

BATTLED FOR MIDDLE SCHOOLS CHAMPIONSHIP

POINTS ABOUT PLACEMENTS IN FIGURE-SKATING CHAMPIONSHIPS

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON—A word today about the Marks Brothers. If one may attach a title so suggestive of whimsicality to those deep-thinking characters, the judges of figure-skating championships. The graceful art, in the profundities of which they are so intimately versed, is a beautiful spectacle which draws the general public everywhere now in crowds far bigger than ever before. But the general appreciation of the masses is for aesthetic qualities, not abstruse technical ones, and spectators, as a whole, probably give little thought to the complicated statistical process by which results are determined. Hence the surprise expressed by more than one person because Hedy Stenuf, U.S.A. (she is by origin an Austrian) took second place to Megan Taylor, Great Britain, in the 1939 world's championships at Prague, although she—meaning Hedy—had a smaller total of points than the girl who was given third place, the 14 years old British hope, Daphne Walker.

FINAL SCORES

Here are the final scores of the three skaters mentioned:

1. Megan Taylor, Great Britain, 373.22 points (5 placements).

2. Hedy Stenuf, U.S.A., 358.09 points (14 placements).

3. Daphne Walker, Great Britain, 359.74 points (15 placements).

From which it will be gathered that placements mean more than points.

To find how these scores are arrived at we must attempt to comprehend exactly what the judges have been about, with their score-sheets and pencils. So let us try.

The public awarding of points is obvious enough, under the method of scoring in force for international championships since 1936, because while each competitor is skating, the judge stand around on the ice, armed with little boxes, containing two sets of numerals, one black for whole numbers, the other red, for decimal points. The competitor having finished, the judges then turn their backs to each other, the referee blows a whitle and each judge holds up to general view a couple of figures, say, a 5 and a 7, meaning 5.7. Which makes things much more interesting to beholders than the old method under which each judge wrote down his award on a sheet of paper and nobody but the judge and the referee had a real idea of how the competition was making out. The judges wear large numbers on their backs, so the public can judge them, too, if you know what I mean.

FREE SKATING

In the case of free skating (the rendering to previously selected music of a sequence of skating movements welded into four minutes' individually devised and continuous display) two sets of marks are given—for the difficulty of the program attempted and for the manner in which it is carried out. These are multiplied by what is termed the factor for free-skating and the product is added to the marks gained by the competitor previously in the other half of the complete test of merit—the skating of compulsory figures.

The considerations which guide the judges in connection with the compulsory figures, always skated first at a separate session, are the correct tracings of set designs with the blade of the skate on the ice, carriage, swing, boldness, speed, and movement; approximately accurate covering of the tracing in a treble repetition; and the size of the outline traced. The marks awarded for each figure are multiplied by the factor set down for it in the international regulations. Free skating, on the other hand, is marked for difficulty and variety, harmonious composition and rhythm.

VITAL TWIST

But that is not the end of the mathematical story. Now comes the vital twist. For each judge is required to place the competitors in the order of merit which he considers their entire performances deserve. In doing this, he is, of course, guided by the marks he has given. Thus, in the world's championship, Megan Taylor, placed first by five judges, totals five placements.

But if a certain competitor has been marked generously in some quarters and less generously in others, the aggregate of the judges' placements (by adding which the final placing of the contenders is determined) may put a skater with x points ahead of a skater with x + y. Which is just what happened in the case of Hedy Stenuf and Daphne Walker in this year's world's championship for women.

Cunningham Beats Lash In Mile at Portland, Ore.

Domei Tsushin

PORTLAND, Oregon, March 31—The peerless Glenn Cunningham, formerly of the University of Kansas, today beat his old-time rival, Donald Lash, barrel chested long distance star from Indiana, by ten paces in the featured Cunningham Mile of the Hill Relay Carnival here. His time was 4 minutes and 24.4 seconds.

Leading a brilliant field of milers, the former Kansas flash was challenged only twice during the race. Once on the seventh lap, the current Negro sensation from the Shore Athletic Club, John Borican, challenged Cunningham by taking the lead, but wilted badly in the driving finish, when both Cunningham and Lash ran a chest to chest race to the finish line.

Cunningham's victory over Lash was his second this month, having beaten the Indiana star in a special two-mile race by a stride during the opening of the 18th annual indoor intercollegiate national championships at New York on March 4.

TOHO CAPTURES MIDDLE SCHOOL BASEBALL TITLE

Before an overflowing crowd of more than 60,000 enthusiastic fans, the Toho Commercial School ball tossers from Nagoya bumped off the Gifu Commercial School nine, 7 to 2, in the final of the 16th annual All-Japan picked middle school baseball championships, sponsored by the Osaka Mainichi, Sunday afternoon at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka. Toho emerged victorious after a seven-day series in which 20 teams competed.

Toho clinched victory by scoring three runs in the fifth inning after Pitchers Matsumoto and Oshima of Toho and Gifu respectively had engaged in a scoreless pitching duel for four innings.

Gifu rallied to push over a run in the last half of the sixth but Toho went on a scoring spree of three more runs in the seventh to kill whatever hopes Gifu had.

Toho outhit Gifu by 11 to 8 hits. One of them was a three bagger by second baseman Hattori.

In the semi-finals on Saturday, Gifu had eliminated Chukyo Commercial, last year's champions, 6 to 5, while Toho had routed the Shimada Commercial nine by 6 to 1.

TORONTO STOPS PRINCETON SIX BY 6-1 SCORE

N.Y. Times

TORONTO, March 4—A smooth and powerful University of Toronto team defeated a hard-fighting Princeton squad by 6-1 today in a scheduled International Intercollegiate League hockey match. The Princeton team had its share of the territorial play for the first two periods, but lacked the finish around the net necessary to produce goals.

The triumph broke a triple tie with Queens and Dartmouth for the runner-up position in the league. Toronto now is second, trailing the leading McGil six by 2 points.

The stubborn game was without a penalty until the last seconds of play when Toronto was awarded a goal after Fraker, Princeton defense man, threw his stick in an effort to halt Dick Craig's goalward rush. Cochrane's individual play on the Princeton forward line was outstanding, while Bordley, Turner and Wyer built up several dangerous plays. Johnson in goal played a steady game.

Coach Ace Bailey's Blue team divided the scoring honors evenly, with Craig and Maynard of the forwards and Maclachlan and Bill L'Heureux on the defense playing standout games.

TORONTO FIRST TO SCORE

Princeton carried the play for the first half of the opening period, but at the 12:42 mark Craig slapped Callon's pas behind Johnson for the initial goal. Boddington followed two minutes later with a goal from a pile up in the mouth of the Princeton net, but the score was disallowed.

Princeton carried the play once more as the second period opened and threatened on several occasions before Turner took Bordley's accurate pass in the goal mouth and drove it into the net over Caswell's prostrate body to tie the score. The play was even throughout the period and it was not until eighteen minutes had passed that a Toronto push by Wood and Maynard outskated the Princeton rearguard and the latter tallied, after Wood's hard drive bounced off Johnson's pads. The period ended with the Blue team leading 2-1.

CASWELL HALTS WYER

Princeton threatened to knot the score once more as Wyer bore in alone as Caswell after Bordley's pass had eluded the defense, but Caswell came out of the net to save.

L'Heureux increased the Toronto lead when his hard drive from inside the blue line caught the corner of the net. Captain Maclachlan added another when, in a melee before the Princeton goal, he drove the puck through the maze of players and past Johnson. Cassells took Boddington's pass for the sixth goal of the game with only forty-three second to go. Toronto was awarded the final goal, making the score 6-1 with thirty-five seconds to play, when Fraker threw his stick.

The line-up:

Toronto (6)		Princeton (1)
Goal	Caswell	Johnson
Defense	Maclachlan	Jurnell
Defense	L'Heureux	Miller
Center	Maynard	Cochrane
Wing	Callon	Barnicle
Wing	Craig	Robbins

Medwick Will Sign For $20,000, He Says

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4—Joe Medwick, the Cardinals' slugging outfielder, was willing today to end his holdout siege and sign his contract for exactly what he received last year.

He made this admission as he loafed around the club's hotel, appearing perturbed over the fact that President Sam Breadon and General Manager Branch Rickey had made no effort to talk terms and dotted lines to him.

"I stayed around the hotel Thursday and yesterday," Joe explained, "and nothing happened. I'm here any time they want to talk me."

Joe had expected a modest increase in salary this season, even though his batting average did shrink 50 points in 1938. He led the National League in batting year before last.

His salary last year was about $20,000. The club wanted him to take a cut—reported to be $5,000.

But Joe squawked and said: "That's not a cut, it's a stab."

"Just the amount they tried to stab me for I don't want to say," he added. "I don't like to do my negotiating in the newspapers. I like to battle that out with the club."

But no signs of such a "battle" were in the air. Rickey left the training camp for St. Louis and Breadon went on about his business, which did not involve the bronzed Medwick.

日本語會話文典
COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR
By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Enko Vaccari

THE LONDON TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT
. . . . this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.

A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.

AN EASY METHOD TO LEARN CHINESE-JAPANESE CHARACTERS
By Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Vaccari

This new and unique publication is indispensable to students wishing to learn Chinese-Japanese characters methodically and quickly.

Every character, printed in large size in handwriting style on one side of a card, is given, in printed style, in combination with other characters, which combinations reproduce the essential Japanese compound words that are necessary to know in order to understand Japanese newspapers and books.

The compound words are given a progressive number, and on the other side of the cards the numbers are repeated with the pronunciation in Roman letters and the English translation of the compound words under consideration.

The cards are contained in a specially designed box.

MAIN FEATURES

1. The first publication showing how Chinese-Japanese characters are written with the brush (fude).
2. Containing 7000 compound words used in modern Japanese.
3. All characters have been given in the order of the progression of the number of their strokes, which is indicated on the upper edge of the partitions that divide the cards in the box.

Size of the cards 4 x 2¾ inches
Size of the box 9 x 6 x 4½ inches

HIS FOURTH STRAIGHT PENNANT IS GOAL OF JOSEPH McCARTHY

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4—His fourth straight pennant, something unparalleled in American League history, in his ninth year at the helm of the Yankees! That is the goal of Joseph Vincent McCarthy, the thought underlying every move he makes at Huggins Field.

It is the objective that constitutes his unspoken though eloquent reply to the rumble throughout baseball for dismantling of the Yankees because they are so good.

For four days now Marse Joe has been looking over his pitching and catching talent, together with some of the veteran and rookie infielders and outfielders. Starting tomorrow, he expects to have his entire squad under observation here.

Today the Yankee skipper, still modest as field marshal or a squad that has won four American League flags under him, three of them in a row, and under his leadership has never lost a world series for which it qualified, won three of the classics in a row and has finished no lower than second with him at the helm—this reticent leader looks forward with justified assurance to the championship season that will be under way almost before the nation's fans realize it.

FARMS BUILD YANKEES

McCarthy and his Yankees, to all intents and purposes, are "set." Because they are so fortunate, or appear to be, the suggestion is pressed that the club be broken up. Colonel Jacob Ruppert had an emphatic answer to this before his death. He invested some of his millions in a far-flung farm system that leads from the Class D leagues to the majors. The material from this farm system provides the groundwork for Yankee greatness.

McCarthy cannot suppress the enthusiasm he feels. "I have only been with the club four days—my wife's illness delayed my arrival—but I have looked at some of the best young material ever assembled at a major league training camp," he said today. "Keller and Gallagher and Rosar look ready, unless I miss my guess.

"Of course, it is too early as yet to make decisions. The entire squad isn't in camp. And there's no rush anyway. But I've seen something that commends each of them even at this early stage of training; they seem to have something the Yankees can use.

"I don't know yet what the make-up of the team will be. We need little replacement material. The veterans are all right and the rookies are available. That's a source of consolation. But I don't know yet whether I'll carry five or six outfielders, ten or eleven pitchers. It all depends on what I see in the camp and in the exhibition games leading up to April 17."

IN CAMP ONE WEEK

For a week now the Yankee regular pitching line, with the exception of the ace, Charley Ruffing, and the stricken Spud Chandler, has been working out under a broiling sun and McCarthy is satisfied. Chandler, from last reports, is lost to the team until June or July because of a broken right leg.

With Ruffing there will be Lefty Gomez, Monte Pearson and, perhaps, Oral Hilderbrand, obtained in a Winter trade from the Browns, as starting pitchers. Johnny Murphy will head the relief brigade, as usual, with Wes Ferrell, Bump Hadley and Steve Sundra stand-bys.

Four starting hurlers are needed, along with repalcements on the relief line. Hildebrand was a good pitcher in Cleveland before going to the Browns. A trade for him was discussed in mid-season last year when the Yankee hurlers were stumbling, but his acquisition was delayed. Ferrell was a starter of established ability with the Red Sox and the Senators until his right elbow went bad. He or Hildebrand may get the fourth starting role.

For his relief replacements the Yankee pilot will choose from a rookie harvest that includes Joe Beggs, Atley Donald, Marvin Breuer, Jack Haley, Albert Piechota, George Washburn and Marius Russo.

BEGGS A 1938 STATER

Beggs was a starting pitcher for the Yankees early last season until Marse Joe decided he needed seasoning and shipped him back to Newark. There he won six games and lost three after winning three and losing two for the Yanks.

Donald was sent back to Newark last year because of the twenty-three-player limit and won sixteen and lost seven for the Bears, fanning 138 batters.

Haley was the pitching star of the International League last year, winning seventeen and losing two with Kansas City, where he broke even Newark. Breuer was recalled from in twenty-four games, with a strike-out mark of 108. Piechota broke even in twenty games for Kansas City last year, has excellent control and is a valuable relief man.

Washburn won twelve and lost four with Kansas City University graduate who has had two good years with Newark, a particularly good one last year, and may be the long-sought companion southpaw for Gomez.

The Yankee catching will undoubtedly be strengthened this year by the addition of Rosar, recalled from Newark, where he batted .336 in 1937 and led the league last year with .387. He likely will work as second-stringer to the veteran Bill Dickey, with Arndt Jorgens again the man in reserve.

The Yankee outfield provides the only other unit which needs refurbishing. And there are six athletes fighting for the one vacant position—left field. Tommy Henrich doubtless will be in right and Joe DiMaggio in center. This leaves the left field berth a question among the veterans, George Selkirk and Jake Powell, and the rookies, Joe Gallagher, Charley Keller, Walter Judnich and William Matheson.

Keller had been sought by almost every club in the major leagues. With Newark he was an International League batting star in his two years as a professional. He batted .365 last year, leading the league with 149 runs and 211 hits and driving in 129 runs.

Gallagher, with Kansas City last season, led the American Association with 200 hits, drove twenty-four homers, was second with 119 runs driven in and stole twenty-three bases. His average was .343. He has the further recommendation of a great throwing arm.

The Yankee infield will be intact, unless all signs fail. The old "Iron Man," Lou Gehrig, will be at first, Joe Gordon at second, Frankie Crosetti at short and Red Rolfe at third. The veteran Bill Knickerbocker will be available to jump in as replacement at short or second and Babe Dahlgren is ready in case Gehrig slips.

And, if Dahlgren falls short of requirements, McCarthy may convert Henrich into a first-baseman.

McCarthy crossed up the athletes at today's workout, which crowded three hours of activity into half that time. Instead of the customary walking race or leapfrog as the finale he held a running relay between eleven-man teams. Great sprinting by Selkirk and Keller on the anchor leg made a photo finish of this race.

Johnny Allen, former Yankee pitcher, was a visitor. . . . He joins the Indians in New Orleans next week. . . . Powell hit the daily double at the dog races last night for $80, then went to find burglars had taken $20 and his wife's watch. . . . Gomes has a kink in his left shoulder . . . Using "stuff" too early. . . . Gordon was out for the first time. . . . Slimmer in his baseball togs.

Gehrig almost twisted his right ankle missing a swing but shook it off. . . . A foul bunt struck Arndt Jorgens on the right cheekbone. . . . Dicked donned catcher's harness today for the first time. . . . Only for the photographer. . . . He expects to put it on for his first serious work Monday. . . . First scrub game is scheduled for Thursday, first exhibition with the Cardinals for next Saturday. . . . The Yanks will be ready.

President Ed Barrow will be a spectator. . . . Ed Roush was back at Huggins Field, having rejected a minor league offer from Larry MacPhail. . . . Hildebrand, Bump Hadley, Pearson, Beggs, Peichota, Haley and Paul Schreiber pitched today.

Perry Downs Budge In Latter's Home Town

Domei Tsushin

OAKLAND, California, April 3—Playing before thousands of admirers who packed the Oakland Auditorium to the rafters, Donald J. Budge, California's greatest contribution to the tennis sport, tonight lost a heart-breaking three set match to Frederick Perry, in the 16th contest of their transcontinental playing tour. The scores for tonight's match were 6-0, 4-6, 6-3.

By his victory over the red-headed Californian, Perry now has won four matches against 12 piled up by Budge.

PACIFIC COAST STARS COP NET INDOOR TITLES

By ALLISON DANZIG

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, March 5—For the first time within memory, both the the men's and women's national indoor tennis championships passed simultaneously to the Pacific Coast yesterday.

Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., and Miss Pauline Betz of Los Angeles are the new titleholders. They succeed Donald McNeill of Oklahoma and Miss Virginia Hollinger of Dayton, Ohio, neither of whom defended.

In the final round of the tournament at the Seventh Regiment Armory, Sabin quelled the bombarding and at times dazzling attack of Frank Bowden of New York, 6—3, 5—7, 6—3, 6—1. It was the third successive year that Bowden had finished a runner-up, McNeill and Frank Parker having turned him back in 1938 and 1937.

MISS BETZ REGAINS STRIDE

Miss Betz, playing in the East for the first time and unseeded in the draw, overcame the soft-ball tactics of 17-year-old Miss Helen Bernhard of this city. It was not until she had made the mistake of softening her own game and barely earned a division of the spoils in the drawn-out first two sets that the blonde, 19-year-old California girl committed herself definitely to the bold attacking measures for which she is so well equipped and took command to win, 7—5, 4—6, 6—1, after almost two hours of play.

Sabin, who appears destined to figure prominently in American tennis this Summer and may gain his Davis Cup spurs, played masterfully for a good part of his match with Bowden, but he spoiled the excellent impression he made by slumping badly after he appeared to have the New Yorker at his mercy and letting the second set slip away.

Japanese Pro Wrestler Visitor from America

One of the best known Japanese professional wrestlers in America, Shunichi (Killer) Shikuma, is a visitor in Tokyo. He arrived last Saturday on the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Asama Maru. Yesterday, he called on the sports staff of the Asahi, and made known his presence in the capital.

Six feet tall, 200 pounds and 33 years old, Shikuma has taken on most of the outstanding wrestlers in America. He battled Champion Jim Londos in two bouts, and though beaten on both occasions, he forced Londos to over an hour's efforts in both bouts. Against Ali Baba, he claims a victory and one setback in two meetings.

Man Mountain Dean, who is well-known to movie fans here, Shikuma claims two victories.

2 NORWEGIANS TIE IN U.S. SKI JUMPING

By FRANK ELKINS

N.Y. Times

LACONIA-GILFORD, N. H., March 5—Two Norwegian jumpers, Reidar Andersen and Torger Tokle, tied for class A and open honors as the annual United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association's two-day title competition ended today under wretched conditions. Each amassed an impressive total of 227.2 points to create a situation unique in American skiing.

Six thousand enthusiastic onlookers ranged alongside the slide cut out of the eastern section of Rowe Mountain, ignored a pelting rainstorm to see riders in action. While they were interested in observing the competitors in general, the spectators concentrated their attention on the 19-year-old Tokle and his more illustrious compatriot, Andersen, both of whom have been sweeping everything before them since their arrival to these shores.

They had anticipated, however, that the tall Andersen, winner the past three Winters of both the Norwegian and famous International Holmenkollen, would have things pretty much his way, for until Torger's arrival in New York six weeks ago, he had been unknown in major competition.

ANDERSEN UNITED STATES CHAMPION

To place further emphasis on Andersen's claim to being one of the world's most stylish riders, if not the best, Reidar had added the National and Canadian championships to his imposing list of North American achievements this season. On the other hand, the ever-smiling Tokle had taken six of seven previous meets, but none with a title involved.

Tokle fell in the New York State championship for the lone blemish on his record. The Norwegian youngster has established four hill records, including his remarkable flight of 220 feet here, two longer than the old mark which another Norwegian visitor, Sigmund Ruud, had set two years back.

Andersen and Tokle have contrasting styles. In grace and balance, Reidar is overwhelmingly ahead of his countryman, for the former's style in the air and upon the transition is second to none in the world.

Only through his long jumps was Torger, bearing the Norway S. C. colors, able to bring about the deadlock. After his leap of 220 feet, the youngster cleared 210. The favored Andersen, not getting his customary lift at the take-off, achieved 210 and 204.

Tokle's second flight created the tie, for Andersen was ahead on points, 114.4 to 114.3, after the opening round. Torger received 112.9 to 112.8 for Reidar on the second leap.

FEW JUMPERS TAKE SPILLS

The skiers in general performed nobly, despite the elements and slow condition of the hill. Spills were few, only two occurring in Class A and five in Class B.

Johnny Litchfield, bespectacled Dartmouth star, who has been doing superb skiing this season, twisted his knee in the trials and was unable to continue. What momentarily appeared a disastrous spill happened during the opening round in Class B, with Roland Chivers, who lost the take-off completely, the victim. He was knocked out for ten minutes, but seemed none the worse for his misfortune when revived.

New Hampshire and his party, as Governor Francis P. Murphy of well as Mayor Edward Gallagher, braved the rain. Both executives expressed their appreciation of the competitors' skill and courage in the face of severe handicaps, and remained till the finish.

The Class B event had a distinct Lake Placid Club Sno Birds' tinge as Art Devlin was first with 184 and 188 feet for 202.3 points and Jay Rand followed with 196 for 174 and 177-foot leaps. They are 16 and 17 years of age, respectively.

The combined championship in Class A went to Howard Chivers, who succeeded his brother, Warren, the runner-up this time. Winner of the intercollegiate crown last week, Percy Rideout, added the Class B laurels.

Canadians Will Play All-Manchoukuo Five

The Canadian basketball team that is scheduled to arrive at Yokohama on July 4 aboard the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Hikawa Maru for a series of games in Japan and Chosen will also play a game at Hsinking against an All-Manchoukuo contingent, it was announced on Tuesday.

Nine games already have been scheduled for the Canadian champions in Tokyo, the Kansai and Keijo.

BULL LEA WINS $50,000 WIDENER CUP

By MURRAY TYNAN

HIALEAH, Fla., March 4—Warren Wright's Bull Lea turned on Stagehand, his conqueror of two weeks ago, with a savage burst of speed this afternoon and while a startled crowd of 21,000 looked on in an amazed silence, won the $50,000 Widener Cup on the closing day of a fine Hialeah meeting. The gallop had been considered a virtual setup for Col. Maxwell Howard's fine thoroughbred after War Admiral was withdrawn and, though Stagehand made up ten lengths, the best he could do was third, beaten a half length for second by Marshall Field's Sir Damion.

A saddened crowd that had backed him at 7 to 20 expected so much of him. Here was the unheard-of colt that went to California last year and defeated Seabiscuit, that came here two weeks ago and smashed through all opposition, including Bull Lea, and which now couldn't get up in the stretch when put to pressure. The winner paid $15.20, nearly 7 to 1.

Almost speechless with joy, and perhaps with surprise, Wright was only able to smile after the race and murmur:

"What a nice race. What a nice field to beat."

CLASS IS ESTABLISHED

This was the same Bull Lea that disappointed in the Derby and the Preakness last year, that then went on to beat Stagehand in one race and to be beaten by him in another, and finally to wind up an indifferent season. The class of the son of Bull Dog from Rose Leaves by Ballot is now definitely established, and turfmen will be able to point to him with pride and call him a good colt and a stayer.

Bull Lea ran ten furlongs in 2:02 2-5, three-fifths of a second behind the record, and added $46,450 to his earnings. Victory did not lift him into the $100,000 class, but third place put Stagehand a shade over $200,000. Bull Lea now has $94,825 to his credit, while the $4,000 for third placed Stagehand at $200,110. The latter carried top weight of 126 pounds, and conceded seven pounds to the winner and twelve to Sir Damion.

This was a different Bull Lea and a Stagehand that lacked the terrific zip in the stretch that carried him to a neck victory in the McLennan Memorial two weeks ago. That day Bull Lea stopped and Stagehand came on. In this race Bull Lea kept going after he passed Sir Damion and Stagehand hung in the stretch when it seemed as though he would get up. Irving Anderson was driving at the finish, although Bull Lea was three lengths ahead of Sir Damion at the end.

'NO EXCUSE,' SAYS SANDE

Watching sadly from the press box, Earl Sande, who trains Stagehand, could only whisper, "no excuse" before he fled down to the ring to make certain his horse came back in good condition. Watching from the Warren Wright box, big Frank Kearns, trainer of the winner, smiled abroadly, and then ran to the winner's circle to give his colt a pat on the shoulder. Kearns drew down an extra award of $5,000 from the Association for training the winner.

The race was something of a repitition of the McLennan Memorial except that this time Bull Lea was content to be rated along in second place instead of fighting for his head and the right to take the lead. Stagehand again was last all through the early stages, and after a brush betwen Darby Dan Farm's Francesco and Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart's Pasteurized, which finished last.

All through this early running you instinctively felt that Bull Lea could take the lead from Sir Damion when he was ready, but also felt that Stagehand, fifteen lengths back in last place, would not stay there long. You were eminently correct on both counts. Bull Lea slipped past Sir Damion at the head of the stretch, and rounding the turn Stagehand began to cut down the horses in front of him.

STAGEHAND STARTS TO MOVE

Jimmy Stout brought his whip down on Stagehand when they started around the turn and that brought a flare of excitement in the packed stands. Two weeks ago that was the signal for Stagehand to come on, and he responded gamely this time. Moving on the outside, he passed the others until only Bull Lea and Sir Damion were in front of him. The stage was set for Stagehand's thrilling close, but this time he simply wasn't there.

Bull Lea meantime had taken the lead and expecting to have Stagehand come up alongside of him like he did two weeks ago, Anderson was anxious. He hustled the winner along every step of the way. Don Meade, on Sir Damion, also kept pumping away, trying to avoid being nipped for second. In the case of Sir Damion it was all for the best that the race ended there, because Stagehand would have been second in two or three more strides.

The fractional times, with Sir Damion setting the pace, were as follows: 0:24 1-5, 8:48, 1:12 3-5 1:36 1-5 for the mile and 2:02 2-5.

PINCHHITTER HITS HOMER AS EAGLES WIN

The Eagles of Tokyo, unusually in the cellar position of the professional baseball circuit, roused themselves from their sluggishness Tuesday afternoon and nosed out the Senators, also of Tokyo, 4 to 3 in a battle that went to two extra innings at the Korakuen stadium here.

Pinchhitter Suga won the game for the Eagles in fiction like style when he walked to the plate to open the 11th frame and smashed one of Kaneko's pitches for a homer into the left field bleachers. Up to Tuesday, Suga had been used as a pinchhitter four times by the Eagles this season and he had come through on three occasions with hits to show his effectiveness in a pinch. Pitcher Kaneko of the Senators apparently did not have this in mind. His first pitch was a curve that cut the heart of the plate. Suga looked it over with the bat on his shoulder. Kaneko then elected to pitch a fast ball, a little high, and Suga hit it on the nose for the four-base clout into the left field stands.

Ted Kameda, who hails from Honolulu, hurled the whole game for the Eagles and allowed nine hits.

A homer by Manager-Captain Karita of the Senators in the fifth inning deadlocked the count at 3-all. Shortstop Yamada of the Eagles had nicked Pitcher Asaoka for a homer in the second to give the Eagles a 3-2 lead.

The Senators had a chance to even the count in the last half of the eleventh. Kameda walked two men after one out. Yokozawa singled to right and Moriguchi dashed home from second but was thrown out on a fine peg by Ota.

The Giants went wild and routed the Dolfins 16 to 0 in the other game. Pitcher Nakao had another good day and checked the Dolfins to three hits while his team-mates garnered 16 hits off three Dolfin pitchers.

Koshien stadium, near Osaka, will be the next scene of the games. The teams will begin traveling to the Kansai to open the series there on Saturday.

Ritsumeikan Nine Beats Teidai, 6-5

Tokyo Imperial University's ball tossers scored four runs in the third inning for a 4-0 lead but they were stopped cold by Pitcher Okayama, who replaced Nakatani in the fourth, during the rest of the game and Ritsumeikan University of the Kansai came from behind to win, 6-5, in their exhibition game Tuesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

The Tokyo varsity players had a chance to win the ball game in the last half of the ninth when Okayama walked the first three men. But Okayama tightened up and retired the next three men.

One reason for the Tokyo club's setback was the fact that it retired its ace pitcher, Yutani, at the end of the fifth with a 4-0 lead. Kida, who took over the pitching burdens, proved easy hitting for the Kansai players.

The summaries follow:

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

Johnny Appleseed, Patron Saint of American Orchards

John Chapman was born near Springfield, Mass., in 1774 and died near Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1845. So famous was he for his devotion to the planting of apple seeds, that he was better known as "Johnny Appleseed" than by his own name. For fifty years he wandered through the West carrying out his self-appointed mission. Every Spring he would set out with sacks of appleseed, gathered at the cider mills the previous fall, and sow them in any likely spot he could find. He frequently visited the orchards he had sown to prune the trees and sell seedlings to farmers. He covered the area between Pennsylvania and Missouri north into Michigan and south into Kentucky.

NEW LINE-UP SEEN IN JAPAN'S I.O.C. MEMBERS

A complete change in the Japanese representation on the International Olympic Committee at its general meeting at London in June was predicted today by the Yomiuri Shimbun.

Prince Iyesato Tokugawa and Count Michimasa Soyejima are expected to retire. The death last May of Professor Jigoro Kano while en route home from the I. O. C. meeting at Cairo has left a vacancy yet to be filled.

Matsuzo Nagai, who was secretary-general of the Tokyo Olympic Committee, had been recommended last year prior to the abandonment of the 12th Olympic Games as a successor to Professor Kano. After Tokyo's cancellation of the 1940 Games, Mr. Nagai was reported to have decided not to serve on the I. O. C. But the latest reports, according to the Yomiuri, are to the effect that he has been persuaded by Prince Tokugawa and others to accept the post when offered by the I. O. C.

As successors to Prince Tokugawa, who has been ill now for a long time, and Count Soyejima, who stated his intention to resign last Summer after the abandonment of the Tokyo Games, are mentioned Dr. Hiroshi Shimomura, president of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation, and Dr. Itsutaro Suehiro, president of the Japan Swimming Federation.

A decision is expected in time by the arrival next week of Avery Brundage, American member of the I. O. C., aboard the Tatuta Maru from San Francisco. Mr. Brundage is en route to London to attend the I.O.C. meeting. He will be here for two weeks.

Inasmuch as Count Soyejma is unable to go to London, and Prince Tokugawa is ill, the indications are that Mr. Nagai will represent Japan. He will have the primary business on reporting circumstances for Tokyo's abandonment of the 12th Olympic Games.

BORICAN WINS 600-YARD RACE

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK March 8—A driving finish that staved off a desperate challenge by Sanford Goldberg brought John Borican a thrilling 600-yard victory in the commendable time of 1.13.6 in the featured event of the 102d Engineers A. A. track meet last night at the uptown drillshed.

Each man held the lead twice until the Shore A. C. star, who possesses the national A. A. U. 1,000-meter championship, forged to the front again in rounding the final turn. The long homestretch ahead made it appear that Borican would triumph easily, but Goldberg was not to be counted out without a struggle.

In a flash the Millrose A. A. middle distance ace, most of whose time off the track is spent fighting fires, was pressing the Negro hard. Together they stormed toward the tape, with inches separating them. About twenty yards from the finish Borican, running in the middle of the track, forced Goldberg to run wide in an effort to pass him.

The fireman had no success in his effort to gain the lead and Borican proceeded to snap the worsted by the slimmest of margins. It was a matter of inches at the end.

BEETHAM FAILS TO APPEAR

Charley Beetham, the national titleholder, announced as a starter in this event all week, was not on hand, for some unexplained reason. His presence would have added something to the race.

Passing Phil Graves on the back stretch, Leslie MacMitchell, the N. Y. U. freshman, won the limited handicap mile run from scratch in 4:15.5, the fastest eight furlongs ever achieved on this floor and the fastest mile ever turned in by MacMitchell.

MacMitchell, running a sparkling 0:59.1 final quarter, triumphed by two yards going away. Graves, who started with sixteen yards, was caught in 4:15.8, while George Sheehan of Manhattan, who had a thirty-yard handicap, wound up third.

Large fields caused the handicap 1,000-yard run to be contested in two heats, with the fastest three times McGilvray of Montclair Teachers, who started from the 7-yard mark, captured the second heat in 2:13.4 and took the top prize, beating Walter Cary of Fordham, the scratch man, by fifteen yards.

COORDS DEFEATS GIDDINGS

In the first heat, Joe Coords of the New York A. C., former Perkinson Junior College athlete, staved off a closing bid by Curtis Giddings of N. Y. U., running from scratch, and won by a step in 2:14.3 Coords who was allowed 35 yards, was second in the final placing, with Giddings third in 2:14.5.

Twenty-seven men started in the handicap two-mile run. Bob Conkling, Manhattan College's intercollegiate champion, was back man, starting from minus 70 yards, 20 yards behind his team-mate, Andy Neidnig. Both finished in the middle of the pack.

The winner of this test was Sy Glickman of the Sixty-ninth Regiment A. A., who was allowed 40 yards, in 9:28.7. Gene McCabe of Manhattan was second and Herb Pirkl, Millrose A. A., third. McCabe and Pirkl were allotted 40 and 65 yards respectively.

CANZONERI BEATS BRINK IN 10-ROUNDER

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, March 8—Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champion of the world, moved a long step forward on his comeback trail last night when he registered a neat victory over Irish Eddie Brink of Scranton in the feature eight-round bout at the New York Coliseum before a crowd of close to 15,000.

Fresh from his Western tour, Canzoneri, who started his return march last August, was in fine fettle as he took command from the outset. Brink was game and aggressive, but made little headway against an opponent who was too experienced for him.

Brink kept trying all the time in a bout that was fast and interesting all the way. But, repeatedly, the Scranton boy found himself missing as Canzoneri outsmarted him.

FORCES RIVAL TO RETREAT

Canzoneri's best weapons were his lefts to the head followed by vicious rights to the face and jaw. He made his rival step back frequently under these assaults.

In the second, fourth and final sessions the fighters stood toe-to-toe in furious slugfests, and it was Canzoneri who came out ahead in each. Brink was forced to take two punches for his one. Canzoneri weighed 140½ pounds, and Brink 139½.

The next step for Canzoneri now will be his meeting with Norment Quarles in the main ten-round bout at the Hippodrome next Tuesday.

In the six-round semi-final, which followed the main bout, Mickey La Marr, 133¾, Bronx, beat Tony Ciello, 135¼, Yorkville.

AMBERS GETS TITLE BOUT

The New York State Athletic Commission revealed yesterday that Eddie Mead, manager of Henry Armstrong, has decided to accept a fight with Lou Ambers this Summer, in which Armstrong will defend his lightweight championship of the world. The decision was sent by Mead from Florida, and contained the further information that he and Armstrong would attend the commission meeting next Tuesday to sign formal articles.

No date was mentioned in the announcement, but it is believed that Mike Jacobs will stage the fight as an outdoor attraction in New York this Summer. Armstrong will make his next appearance in this city on March 31, when he defends his welterweight championship of the world against Davey Day of Chicago in Madison Square Garden.

Amino Challenges Horiguchi to Return Bout

Matsuo (Tiger) Amino, rugged welterweight, who lost to Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, featherweight, in the fifth round on a foul of their scheduled 12-rounder on March 25 at the Kokugikan wrestling bowl at Ryogoku, has issued a challenge for a return fight. They are expected to meet early next month at the Kokusai Theater at Asakusa.

Meanwhile, Amino will take on Mitsuyama, Chosen welterweight, in a ten-rounder at the Hibiya Public Hall auditorium next Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

VAN MUNGO REPENTS, SIGNS FOR $5,000

By ROSCOE McGOWEN

N.Y. Times

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 6—For the fourth consecutive day, Van Lingle Mungo, Pageland, S. C.'s most famous son and Larry MacPhail's greatest headache, occupied the spotlight in the Dodger training camp.

But this should be the concluding instalment of the Mungo "serial," for the Brooklyn club's bad boy today signed a contract calling for only $5,000, with no bonus clauses or any other promises attached, donned a uniform and went through the entire workout, calisthenics and all.

Van posed for pictures with MacPhail, the club's executive vice-president, and Manager Leo Durocher in front of the clubhouse, using a bat trunk for a desk, upon which was laid his smallest salary document, except for his first year. He signed it and Secretary John McDonald later showed it to writers to prove it was for $5,000 and without a bonus clause.

ADVISED BY CLARK

There is a story behind today's story, in which Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis and Watson Clark, former Dodger southpaw and Mungo's friend, are leading characters.

It was the earnest Clark who pleaded with Mungo to take his medicine and then prove his worth. The venerable Landis talked to Mungo "like a Dutch uncle," with the result that it was a chastened Mungo that came to MacPhail and surrendered unconditionally.

MacPhail, sitting at a table in the Belleview-Biltmore Hotel at Belleair with Judge Landis, Mrrs. Landis, Coach Chuck Dressen, Treasurer Joe Gilleaudeau and the writer, gave the details of Mungo's visit to him.

"You could have knocked me over with a feather," MacPhail said, "when that boy came to me and just naturally 'ate crow' to the limit.

WRONG ATTITUDE ADMITTED

"'I've been thinking a lot. I've listened to my best friend (Clark) and to Judge Landis,' he told me, 'and I've concluded I've been wrong for several years.

"'I want to start all over and I want that man (Landis) to think well of me,' he said, and he was almost crying. 'I want you to manage me and I'll sign for whatever you say, even $4,000, if you want.'

"Now," concluded the Dodger boss, "I want to say this to you, judge, and I think Mr. Gilleaudeau will back me up: If Mungo comes through as he promises, I'll guarantee that he doesn't suffer financially through signing a $5,000 contract."

"Sure, I'm with you 100 per cent on that," confirmed Gilleaudeau.

The commissioner listened without comment, but did tell the writer later when Mungo's remark that Landis was "a fine man" was relayed to him:

"I'm glad he feels that way. I hope he keeps on feeling that way."

Mungo's capitulation removes all Dodger hold-out problems, as Luke Hamlin, Tot Pressnell and Whit Wyatt all signed late last night. Bill Crouch has agreed to terms, although he has not signed, and Charles George, the rookie catcher, is not regarded as a problem.

McGill Retains International Hockey Title

MONTREAL, March 7 (Canadian Press)—McGill University won its third straight International Intercollegiate Hockey League title tonight by defeating Dartmouth, 4—1, for its ninth victory in ten starts. The Redmen previously had captured the Canadian intercollegiate crown.

The Indians, here for a two-game stay, gave McGill its toughest opposition on home ice this season until late in the third period, when the Redmen broke through for a pair of goals, less than a minute apart. Anton led the scorers with three goals.

The line-up:

	McGill (4)	Dartmouth (1)
Goal	Emerson	Goding
Defense	Dickison	Campbell
Defense	Anton	Feeley

20,000 WITNESS GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS IN N.Y.

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, March 7.—Nearly 20,000 persons filled Madison Square Garden last night for the finals of the thirteenth annual Golden Gloves boxing tournament staged by The Daily News Welfare Association. Many of the outstanding amateurs, in the metropolitan district sought laurels in every division from flyweight to heavyweight, with competition divided into two groups, open and subnovice.

From the outset action never lagged, giving promise of a series of interesting three-round (or less) encounters involving the city's leading of Simon pures. Of particular interest was the 112-pound open championship which brought together Benny Feuer of the Pastime A. C., who had scored three consecutive preliminary knock-outs, and Basil Jones, unattached.

Jones, displaying a two fisted attack, carried off the decision of the judges and referee in a lively fracas. Scoring repeatedly with a hard left hook to the jaw, Jones gained an early lead, having Feuer in trouble late in the second round. The later made a strong finish in the last stanza, but Jones's advantage in the first two rounds enabled him to triumph.

DI COSMO FLOORED TWICE

The first champion to be crowned was Felice Corvino, unattached, in the 112-pound subnovice class. Flooring his opponent for counts of 7 in the second and 9 in the third, Corvino easily outpointed Joseph DiCosmo of the Police Athletic League.

A pair of fast-stepping, hard-hitting bantamweights gave a neat exhibition in the 118-pound subnovice final, with Jack Pembridge of the Police Athletic League earning a popular verdict over Tony Graniela, unattached. Both were clever and boxed nicely, but Pembridge's body attack was more effective and he punished Graniela frequently at close range.

Edward Forsner, McKenna Post 118-pounder, triumphed over Orland Montiel, unattached, in the open final. Forsner, a southpaw, landed enough overhand lefts to the head and jaw to prove his superiority. Montiel was eager to mix, but found his rival's unorthodox style too puzzling. The crowd did not like this decision, but there could be no question regarding Forsner's margin.

There was much interest in the 126-pound class subnovice final, in which Lawrence Aglialoro of the Roman Sporting Club, who had gained five straight knockouts in the preliminaries, made it six in a row. His victim was Anthony Leo Murawski, unattached, who was counted out in 2:59 of the first round.

Aglialoro, a wild swinger, tore into his man immediately and soon had him on the floor. After taking a count of nine, following a volley of blows to the head, Murawski was dropped again by a left hook to the body, taking the full count on his knee.

BUTCH KNOCKS OUT SILVERMAN

The heavyweights in both divisions were called upon to fight semi-finals before the last round later in the evening. The subnovice big fellows performed satisfactorily as Nat Wolcoff of the Roman Sporting Club defeated Bill Walsh of the Good Shepherd A. C. and Charles Butch, unattached, knocked out Robert Silverman, unattached, after 2:18 of the first round.

In the latter contest the men threw all sorts of punches blindly. Both were soon exhausted, but Butch connected more often and Referee Frankie Morris intervened as Silverman hung limply over the ropes, too tired to lift his arms in self-defense.

Buddy Moore of the Salem-Crescent A. C. and Enzo Avondaglio of the C. Y. O. were the open-division victors. Moore impressed considerably by the manner in which he outpunched Henry Moroz of the Roman Sporting Club, while Avondaglio outlasted Ernie Petretti, also from the C. Y. O., in a dull bout.

The summaries:

16,000 SEE BRUINS BEAT RANGERS, 5-3

N.Y. Times

BOSTON, March 5—After coming from behind three times to tie the score, the Boston Bruins rapped in two quick overtime goals to defeat the New York Rangers, 5—3, tonight in their Stanley Cup dress rehearsal before an overflow crowed of 16,000 at the Boston Garden.

The triumph, the fourth the Bruins have gained over the speedy Blue Shirts in seven games, put them within a single point of clinching the National Hockey League championship.

Bill Cowley pulled the Bruins even at 2-all after Clint Smith and Alex Shibicky had scored in the first and second periods.

Cecil Dillon, taking a neat pass from Lynn Patrick, gave the Rangers their third lead in the third frame, only to have the Bruins' famous Sauerkraut Kids save the game during the last minute of regular time. Little Bobby Bauer caused the third deadlock, with Woody Dumart and Milt Schmidt cooperating.

FINAL GOAL BY CONACHER

The latter caged the winning goal, with Bauer's aid, exactly at the third minute of extra play, and Roy Conacher, the sensational freshman wing, made it doubly certain by registering his nineteenth goal of the season in the sixth minute.

The triumph stretched the Bruins' lead over the second-place Rangers to 13 points. Lester Patrick's players, however, have seven more games to play, two more than the pace-makers.

The game was fast and bruising throughout and the most prominent culprit was Murray Patrick, husky son of the Rangers' pilot, who drew a match misconduct penalty when he charged Referee Clarence Campbell after being waved off for a minor sentence.

The teams started at a terrific pace and both sides made a half dozen thrusts during the first three minutes of play. Three of the Bruins' drives ended against Dave Kerr's pads. After the goalie kicked out his third puck it went to Smith inside the Rangers' defense. Smith jumped off at high speed, carried the length inside of Dit Clapper, blasted a high shot through Goalie Frank Brimsek to put his mates in the lead at 3:05.

The Bruins had an opportunity to throw all of their famed power against the Blueshirts at the five-minute mark when Pratt was ousted for board-checking Conacher. The Rangers, however, tightened their defense and held firmly until they regained full strength.

The Rangers held their lead for seven minutes until Clapper launched a power play that sent his mates storming into enemy ice. There was a lively scrimmage in front of Kerr's net and, after the goalie turned back Conacher's close-up shot, Cowley rapped in the rebound to tie the score at 1—all.

SHIBICKY FINDS CAGE

It took the Rangers ten minutes to get a second-period shot at Brimsek, made by Smith from four feet out to end a five-man rush. During that interval, Kerr was tested by three Bruins.

The Bruins drew a penalty at thirteen minutes when Clapper cross-checked Watson. Before the Rangers could get organized Shore and Hiller scuffled and both went off. Shibicky and the Colvilles then put on a neat passing attack through the three mobile Bruins and the former fired a direct hit into Brimsek's cage while that goalie's vision was blocked.

Again Cowley pulled the Bruins even by slapping in a three-footer to end a play launched by Clapper from the right corner of the Rangers' blue line.

Lynn Patrick poke-checked Bauer deep in New York territory in the third period, rounded his own net and worked his way through the Boston defense and into the left corner, where he passed to Smith. The latter relayed the rubber to Dillon, who rapped home the Rangers' third goal from the corner of the crease, at 5:25.

With five minutes to go, the Bruins cut loose with all of their might and came from behind, for the third time, when Bauer poked in a rebound after Dumart and Schmidt had blasted Kerr with close-range shots, 48 seconds before the final bell was due.

The line-up:

Triple-State Log Cabin

At Missoula, Montana, there still stands the homestead cabin of the pioneering White family. In the same room, three sons were born, yet each was born in a different state! This circumstance was due to changes of boundaries. When George White was born in 1862, the cabin was in Washington territory. It was included in Idaho territory when "Chick" White was born in 1864, and in Montana when Dick White came into the world in 1866.

Rae Paces Michigan In Defeat of Indiana

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 4—Playing an inspired game, Michigan's in-and-out-quintet accomplished one of the major upsets of the Western Conference basketball season tonight, crushing Indiana, 53 to 45, and blasting the Hoosiers' chances of sharing the championship with Ohio State. The Buckeyes won a clear claim to the title by walloping Purdue, 51 to 35, at Columbus.

Jim Rae was Michigan's hero, scoring six field goals and three free throws in the first half, and two more baskets in the second.

Indiana scored first a few seconds after the game opened when Bill Johnson sank a sideshot, but Michigan rolled up six points before the Hoosiers again found the range. At the half it was 32 to 29 for Michigan.

Early in the second period Indiana went into the lead on goals by Paul Armstrong, substitute forward, and Marvin Huffman. The Hoosiers held the advantage until the last five minutes of play when an overhead shot by Charles Pink put Michigan ahead to stay.

BUDGE ROUTS FRED PERRY IN 49 MINUTES

By ALLISON DANZIG

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, March 11—Any lingering doubts as to Donald Budge's world supremacy on the tennis courts were entirely set at rest last night as the giant Californian administered the most crushing defeat suffered by Fred Perry since the former world's amateur champion from Great Britain came into international prominence.

On the same court in Madison Square Garden where he made his professional debut against Ellsworth Vines with a decisive 6—3, 6—3, 6—2 victory in January, the Oakland red-head buried the black-haired Briton under an avalanche of drives and volleys to win by the overwhelming margin of 6—1, 6—3, 6—0.

In exactly forty-nine minutes after H. Levan Richards had launched the match, the first of a series that will take them across the country, Budge had exacted submission from the player who defeated him in four out of six meetings in amateur competition and who, too, had humbled Vines on the occasion of his (Perry's) professional bow at the Garden in 1937.

FROM CORNER TO CORNER

A crowd of 8,000 spectators, approximately half the number who attended the Budge-Vines match, looked on as the stalwart Californian ran Perry mercilessly from corner to corner with his superior ground strokes and volleyed and smashed overhead with ruthless finality.

The ease with which Budge had handled Vines, then regarded as the world's No. 1 player, probably accounted in large part for the slimness of the turnout. That impressive performance, coming on top of the Californian's unprecedented conquests as an amateur in 1938 when he became the first in history to score a grand slam, undoubtedly hurt last night's match at the turnstiles, and Budge struck his current tour a heavy blow by the ruthlessness with which he dispatched Perry.

Possibly Perry was at a disadvantage in his lack of match play to prepare him for this meeting, just as was Vines in January. The chances are that he will do better after he has had the benefit of a few matches to tune up his strokes. But the former British and American champion will have to improve vastly to meet the Budge of last night on even terms.

ROARS OF APPLAUSE

As onesided as was the play, Budge's tennis was so superlatively fine as to bring roars of enthusiastic applause from the crowd and compensate it for the brevity of the performance. The California giant was a far more formidable figure than he was against Vines.

There were some who fancied that he would be stale and off form after his long tour with Vines, which ended Monday night in Montreal with Budge winning the series, 22-17. Instead, Budge played one of the greatest matches to his credit and today he stands as the colossus of tennis, without a rival the world over, just as did William Tilden in his heydey.

Perry last night was not the player who held forth invincibly at Forest Hills and Wimbledon when Budge's game was still in the formative stage and short of maturity. The Briton could get little pace off his backhand, and his running forehand failed him time and again as he sought to reach the net, while his volleys went astray time and again in the early stages.

But while Perry failed to measure up to his best standard, the explanation lies not so much in his own deficiencies as in the pressure to which he was subjected to provoke mistakes from his ordinarily firm, unwavering hand.

The Budge he met last night was a more confident and more accomplished opponent than the 21-year-old youth he last had met in 1936. Perry can thank no one but himself for a part of that improvement, for it was to him that Budge went for help (and got it) in improving his forehand and his volleying attack.

WITHIN INCHES OF THE LINE

Budge's forehand stood up far more steadfastly than it did in his meeting with Perry in the 1936 final at Forest Hills, in which the Californian led at 5—3 in the fifth set. From both the forehand and his matchless backhand, the world's foremost player hit with a depth, pace and accuracy that kept his opponent under pressure and straining to get to the ball on the run. Such was his control that Budge could put the ball within inches of the line regularly and the angle of his shots, as well as their length, made Perry's plight an unenviable one.

Behind these forcing drives, Budge went to the net to volley and smash with absolute deadliness. The fury of his overhead game brought down the crowd time and again and its finality stood out in marked contrast to its wabbliness against Vines.

Perry played brilliant tennis in spurts, but it was always a defensive fight he was waging. He made a fine stand in the second set, only to draw down the thunder of Budge's net attack. After that, as his forehand buckled, he was prepared for the worst. He got only twelve points in the final set and his weak double fault that ended the match spoke eloquently of the totality with which hope had been crushed out of him.

In the opening singles match, Walter Senior of San Francisco defeated Ben Gorchakoff, professional at the Los Angeles Ambassador, 6—2, 6—3. The concluding doubles between Budge and Senior and Perry and Gorchakoff was won by the former pair, 6—3, 7—5.

The receipts were estimated to be $14,000.

WHERE DOGDOM BATTLES FOR ITS CROWN

WIDESPREAD INTEREST SHOWN IN DOG SHOWS

By HENRY R. ILSLEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, March 5—During 1938 there were held in various sections of the United States a total of 336 dog shows, an increase of nineteen over the previous year, according to figures released yesterday by the American Kennel Club. Some of these new exhibitions drew unexpectedly large entries, considering their locations and the fact that they were initial ventures.

Thus the Wildwood Kennel Club's event at Saratoga Springs, N. Y. attracted 702 dogs, a figure well above the average for the country. At Teaneck, N. J., the Kennel Club of Northern New Jersey benched 678 individuals. The Western Pennsylvania Kennel Club of Pittsburgh showed 658, the Suffolk County Kennel Club at Great River, N. Y., 500, and the Villa Duchesne Kennel Club at Clayton, Mo., 460. Eleven other new shows had entries of 250 to 343.

Old established shows in all parts of the country were favored with increased entries, with larger attendances, evidence of a growing interest in pure-bred dogs.

THIRTY-FIVE IN TOP BRACKET

There were seven exhibitions benching from 1,000 dogs upward, headed by Morris and Essex with 4,213 and Westminster with 3,093. Six shows benched between 800 and 999, and twenty-two events had between 600 and 799 on exhibition. There were thirty-five exhibitions in this top bracket, compared with thirty in 1937, twenty-four in 1936 and twenty-one in 1935.

The greatest number of all-breed shows in the United States fall into the classification between 200 and 399 entries, there having been 99 events in that range. Forty-two shows had between 400 and 599. The smallest show in the country open to all breeds had an entry of 88 dogs.

Specialty exhibitions ranged in size from 184 dogs benched by the Cocker Spaniel Breeders Club of New England to 11 judged at the show of the Mid-West Afghan Club. Of the total of 123 specialty shows, 41 drew 60 or more dogs.

Dog shows in this country are on a higher plane than ever, due to the close supervision of the governing body. The fly-by-night events conducted for the profit of the promotors are things of the past. Substantial cash prizes and trophies are offered to exhibitors, who no longer are asked to compete for candy, flowers and trinkets contributed by local merchants.

LICENSE RULES STRICT

The present-day exhibitions have the backing of responsible breeders and substantial businessmen of their communities. Not every one can give a dog show nowadays. Only a regularly organized club may receive a license and before that is granted there must be filed with the A. K. C. a copy of the constitution and by-laws and a list of officers and members. All are carefully scrutinized.

There must be deposited $75, of which $50 is the license fee and $25 a deposit, which is fortfeited if no show is given or the strict rules are not lived up to. Every dog show must pay its advertised prizes, its superintendent and all other bills; otherwise, it will not receive a license in the future.

It is a fine commentary on the integrity of shows and their officers that of nearly 400 exhibitions and field trials in 1938 only one or two failed to meet their obligations promptly.

Rikkyo Nine to Play Ritsumeikan Saturday

Tokyo baseball fans will have an opportunity to size up Rikkyo University's team for the Spring season of the Tokyo Six University league when it meets the Ritsumeikan University aggregation of the Kansai in a pre-season game at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

Waseda was to take on the Kansai University team at 2 p.m. today at the Totsuka grounds.

Both games were scheduled for Thursday but were postponed because of the rain.

U.S.-BRITAIN TRACK MEET SLATED IN JULY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, March 9—The first dual track and field meet between the United States and Great Britain in New York City since 1895 will take place late in July, it was announced yesterday by Judge Samuel E. Hoyt, president of the A. A. U. And there still is a chance that Canada will be included to make this a triangular affair.

The possibilities of this meet are tremendous since the mighty Sydney Wooderson, holder of world 880-yard and mile records, will be in the British party along with Godfrey Brown, probably the world's best quarter-miler, who was runner-up for the Olympic 400-meter championship, and Don Finlay, runner-up for the Olympic high hurdles title.

This engagement may produce the first clash between Wooderson and Glenn Cunningham, since the leading American athletes will be chosen to form the United States squad on the basis of performances in the national A. A. U. championships at Lincoln, Neb., on July 3 and 4.

There will be only one meet in the United States between the British and American teams. Both will sail for Europe shortly afterward for a return engagement, with the American combination continuing on a swing over the Continent on the same competitive tour basis as in the past. Other homebred stars probably will be added to the picked team for the jaunt across the Atlantic.

12 to 14 EVENTS PLANNED

Present plans call for a ten-man British contingent, similar to those that America has sent to England in the past, although on those occasions they competed in a full-fledged international set of games instead of dual engagement. The New York City program will consist of from twelve to fourteen events.

ARMY BEATS ANNAPOLIS, 48-27 IN SWIMMING

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 4—With considerable chagrin, the Navy, contesting in its own element, lost to the Army, 48 to 27, this afternoon in the first swimming match between the service academies, but the middies won notable victories in fencing, wrestling and rifle shooting.

The swim victory of the Army was decisive. It won both relays and took first in five of seven individual events. Bob Garrett, who won the 100-yard free style and was anchor man in both relays, was the Army hero.

GIBSON TAKES DIVING HONORS

Captain Ed Gibson, of Navy, gave a remarkable performance in winning the fancy diving. His score, 141.3, was announced as the highest made by a league swimmer this season.

Navy took the big share of the fencing honors. It won the three-weapon and two of the three individual championships. Its captain, Vincent De Poix, took first honors with the foil. Best of all to the Navy was the fact that in the dual match it won from the Army, 16 to 11.

Harvard won the team championship with the foils. Allen Rorick, of Army, took the saber title and Captain Bernard Caulkins, of Princeton, won with the epee.

Navy wrestlers won from Kansas State, 16 to 12, closing their season with five victories and two losses. Captain Chuck Leigh, of Navy, wrestling in the 145-pound class against Ben Tempero, scored the only fall of the afternoon.

RIFLEMEN SCORE DOUBLE VICTORY

Navy riflemen won a double victory over Maryland with the small-bore rifle and kept their record clean. The varsity won, 1,398 to 1,381, and the plebes won over the freshment, 1,353 to 1,325.

Jack Dempsey, refereeing the boxing match this evening when the Navy won from the University of Toronto, 4½ to 3½, dealt gently with the college boxers and stopped two fights when a contestant seemed to be in bad shape.

Captain Gene Fairfax gave his opponent, Ted de Wolfe, a bad beating in the first round, and Dempsey awarded him a technical knockout early in the second. In the 175-pound class, Al Wallace recived a cut eye from Church McLean and the fight was brought to a close just five seconds before the regular ending.

The visitors failed to bring a heavyweight and forfeited that doubt.

Star Middle School Swimmer Enters Waseda

Waseda University's swimming team for 1939 has been strengthened considerably with the entrance into the university of Shigeru Miyamoto, leading freestyle swimmer in the middle school circles. He hails from Tadotsu Middle School in Shikoku, the home town of Masanori Yusa, 100 and 200-meter freestyle national champion up to a year ago.

The Father of 10 Revolutionary Officers

Col. George Taylor (1711-1792) of Orange County, Virginia, was the father of 12 sons. One of these sons died years before the Revolution and another was too young to take active part in it. The other ten all served as commissioned officers in the Revolutionary Army and Navy. They were James, officer; Jonathan, lieutenant; Edmund, captain; Francis, colonel; Richard, captain; John, navy lieutenant; William, major; Charles, surgeon; Reuben, captain, and Benjamin, midshipman. In view of the rank of these Taylors, it has been said that the services of this family can hardly have been exceeded by any other in the records of the American Revolution.

Derails 13 Railroad Cars in Motorcycle Crash

H. E. Crawford of Fruitvale, Calif., saw, when it was too late, that he couldn't beat the freight train to an intersection at Bakersfield, Calif. He could not stop in time, so he "layed it down"—he threw his feet against the seat of the motorcycle, and gave a shove. He came to a stop 18 inches from the tracks, but the motorcycle went under the first car and derailed thirteen. Crawford escaped with hardly a scratch to show for his narrow escape.

'IRON MAN' TAKES HIS CUT

Lou Gehrig, veteran first base man of the New York Yankees, slams out a hard one during Spring training at St. Petersburg, Fla. He appeared in exhibitions in Japan several years ago.

YANKEES BEAT CARDINALS IN FLORIDA

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11—The Yankees got off on the right foot at Waterfront Park today before a capacity crowd of 5,110 tourists and natives as they opened their 1939 exhibition schedule.

Without benefit of Frankie Crosetti or Red Robert Rolfe, the club's die-hard holdouts, the world champions overcame the ball club Ray Blades assembled out of the fifty-four Cardinal regulars and rookies he has in camp here. The count was 6 to 4.

Back of the eight-hit pitching of three Yankee rookies, Atley Donald, Marius Russo and Albert Piechota, the hitters in Marse Joe McCarthy's troupe, swinging from their heels in a style reminiscent of the regular season, blasted Bob Bowman, a St. Louis rookie; Clyde Shoun and Fiddler Bill McGee for fourteen explosive blows that held everything, even the first home run of the year. The outburst led one Missourian to forecast an early settlement of the American League pennant race.

UNFURLS SPLENDID THROW

Joe DiMaggio led the assault with a triple, double and single. Buddy Rosar, destined to be a Yankee catcher, exploded the home run; Babe Dahlgren, filling in for Rolfe, smacked a double and two singles; Bill Knickerbocker, replacing Crosetti, connected for two singles, and Joe Gallagher celebrated his first Yankee game with a double and a bit of outfield defensive play that was a caution. In the Cardinal eighth Joe's rifle-bullet throw to Dahlgren completed a double play that turned back the losers as they threatened to overhaul the champions.

Their success in teeing off on Bowman gaeve the Yanks the spoils. DiMaggio's triple arrived in the first after Gallagher walked with two down. In the second Rosar exploded his homer, high over the head of Enos Slaughter against the wind that blew in from right field, after Dahlgren had smacked a single to center.

The Cardinals never made up this deficit. Donald turned them back in two innings, but in the third walked three. These passes, with a double by Terry Moore, permitted the National Leaguers to score two on infield outs. That was as close as they ever got to the champions.

POWELL BATS FOR DONALD

Dahlgren's double greeted Shoun in the fourth and Babe sneaked home as Jake Powell, batting for Donald, scratched a single. In the last three innings the Yanks gauged up on McGee for six hits, scoring again in the seventh and eighth.

Russo, off to a shaky start in his major-league debut, and handicapped further by Knickerbocker's error, was the victim of an unearned run in the fourth, but he tightened thereafter and passed through two innings unscathed.

In the seventh Piechota came on the scene to dazzle the onlookers with hurling that claimed four strikeout victims. He was jarred loose from a run in the eighth when Johnny Mize doubled, Sam Narron scratched a single and Stu Martin doubled, before Gallagher came up with his toss to nip the rally.

OFFICIALS WATCH CONTEST

KANTO ROUTS KANSAI, 10-3 IN ICE HOCKEY

Altogether too speedy on their skates for their opponents, Kanto routed Kansai, 10 goals to 3, in their first annual ice hockey clash Sunday night at the Shibaura rink. The game was sponsored by the Kanto Skating Federation with the support of the Asahi Shimbun.

The forward combination of Koyanagi and Kamei worked the puck through the Kansai defense and scored again and again.

Playing the game on the same day of their arrival by train, the Kansai stickwielders tired after the first period in which they held the Kanto six to a one-goal advantage. Kanto went on a scoring spree in the second, registering four goals while they held their opponents scoreless, and added four more goals in the third session.

A feature of the game was the brilliant teamwork of the Kanto players, notwithstanding the lack of workouts as a combination.

The line-ups were:

KANTO: Tsutsumi, Kamei, Koyanagi, Dazai, Furuya, Matsushima, forwards; Hirabayashi, Sudo, Shioda, defense; Ono, goalie.

KANSAI: Fujino, Bessho, Fukuyama, Tsuda, Komatsu, Hamada, forwards; Funasaka, Saito, Yamashita, defense; Senmura, Tsumura, goalies.

'BIG SIX' NINES WIN EXHIBITION TILTS EASILY

Four member teams of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league won exhibition games on Sunday.

Blasting out 17 hits, Waseda ran roughshod over Kansai University, 11 to 4, at the Totsuka grounds to make it two straight over the Kansai collegians.

Pitchers Ogusu and Sakai checked the Kansai batsmen to four hits.

Keio, reportedly a strong contender for the championship of the Spring season which opens next Saturday, had little trouble disposing of the Doshisha Higher Commercial School aggregation, 6 to 2, at the Meiji Shine stadium. Shiraki and Takagi, twirlers on whom Keio is depending to clinch the pennant, allowed only four hits. Nezu, who is filling the post in left field occupied for several years by Chikaki Honda, now a member of the Domei sports staff, led the Keio stickers with three hits out of five times at bat.

Meiji, champions for the last four seasons of the Tokyo varstiy league, routed Chuo University of Tokyo, 13 to 2, at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Fujimoto and Ono, two recruits, pitched good enough ball to win.

Tokyo Imperial University swamped the Nihon University aggregation, 14 to 0, at the former's grounds. The winners collected 11 runs in the sixth inning.

VITT STRESSES SECOND BASE COMBINATION

NEW ORLEANS, March 11—The Cleveland Indians are a shrieking contradiction to the old baseball axiom that the club ahead on July 4 will go on to win the pennant. They were on top last Independence Day, but wilted when the Yankees turned on the heat and finished third, thirteen games out of first place.

The Indians lost their lead July 13 and then went into a tailspin. While they were hot they threw a scare into Joe McCarthy. At one time during Cleveland's winning days McCarthy was frantic and reading the riot act to the Yankees.

What caused the Indians' collapse last year and what's been done to remedy those causes? Let Oscar Vitt, the tribe's big chief, tell you.

VITT EXPLAINS COLLAPSE

From out of a few thousand words, more or less, the following seemed to be the highlights of "old Oss's" remarks:

"I'll tell you what happened to us last year. First off, we didn't have the necessary second base combination and I knew it all the time. But I was hoping strength elsewhere migh make up somewhat for weakness in the middle.

"And we were doing all right until Johnny Allen hurt his arm in the All-Star game, pitching to Medwick. Before that game Allen had a record of twelve and one. After that he lost seven straight and won only two games for us from July 8 until the end of the season. Now what do you think would have happened to the Yanks if they'd lost Ruffing at the same time we lost Allen?

"Another big blow was the showing of big Moose Solters. He hit 201 for me against 323 the year before. If he had hit like he did in 1937 what a difference that would have made. There were plenty of other factors, but those were the big ones.

NOT SO HOT ON ROAD

"We weren't so hot on the road in the East last year. We won only eleven games in New York, Boston and Washington, dropping twenty-two. We won only three games in Yankee Stadium, but that was a 200 per cent improvement over 1937 when Cleveland copped only one there. The Yanks busted our pitching wide open in New York. We kept making runs, but the Yanks outscored us in those 16—9, 12—8 and 9—7 battles.

"Looking ahead to this season, I do not say the Yanks have the pennant in the bag. They can be beaten. The Indians, Tigers and Rex Sox all will give them trouble. The Yanks' trouble may be with their pitching. Right now I wouldn't trade my pitching staff for the Yanks'.

"Our big problem is again around second. We are going to try everything to patch up that keystone combination. We thought we had some deals all lined up to help us there, but they fell through.

"The deal in which we got Chapman was to have been the forerunner of several other deals, but the other clubs backed out. We still have hopes of getting reinforcements at short and second.

"We are counting on Allen's operation straightening out his arm trouble, and if he's right we have the necessary pitching. Our punch is satisfactory. We have three of last year's first six hitters, Heath, .343 Chapman, .340, and Trosky, .334.

"As I say, give us a neat second base combination and this club will be right annoying to the Yankees or anyobdy else."

12 Students to Be Sent To Vienna Track Meet

Twelve athletes will be sent to the International Students Track and Field Championships to be held at Vienna next Summer, it was formally decided by the Japan Students Track and Field Federation at its meeting Sunday afternoon.

The members of the team will be selected by the first week ending in June. Leaving Japan about the middle of June, they will compete in Italy and Germany before competing in the Vienna championships. They are scheduled to return to Japan early in October.

The program decided for the year includes the following:

September 23 and 24: East versus West students meet at Koshien.

October 21 and 22: All-Japan students meet at Koshien.

PITT STUDENTS KICK AGAINST LOSING COACH

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, March 10—A wild student demonstration today at the University of Pittsburgh against losing Dr. John B. Sutherland as football coach turned the Cathedral of Learning into a bedlam.

Undergraduates walked in and out of the classrooms, interrupted professors and called on other students to join the protest. In the Commons Room a crowd of 500, A. W. O. L. from their classes, sang "Hail to Pitt" and burst into sporadic cheers.

Somewhere a bugle kept blowing "taps" as the "funeral knell" of bigtime football.

First fights broke out in halls and classrooms between what seemed to be two student "camps," those trying to stage a general strike and those opposed to the demonstrations.

Dr. James C. Charlesworth, instructor in political science, battled with a group who invaded his lecture hall and, aided by his students, barricaded the doors.

LECTURE HALL INVADED

Dr. Charlesworth said he told the demonstrators:

"I have a class going on here and I won't have it disturbed. Kindly confine your parading to the hall."

He said he "pushed" one of the boys, but denied that any one had struck him.

"They beat each other on the heads with their signs," he said.

Doors were pulled off hinges in several of the melees. Some teachers continued despite the din, while others suspended classes as soon as the paraders entered.

Adding to the tense feeling was the campus report that fraternity houses were called last night and members warned to take no part in today's demonstration. The source of the alleged warning was not revealed.

The protest, aimed at Chancellor John G. Bowman and the business manager, John Weber, for what The Pitt News called their "bungling" of the athletic situation at the university, started when students in the dental and engineering schools appealed to students in the cathedral to leave their classes.

Leaders, perched on the shoulders of their followers, harangued passing students and led cheers. Then the strike proponents broke into groups to go through the building and invade the classrooms. In some rooms students walked out with them, but in others the demonstrators were booed.

ABOUT 500 STUDENTS INVOLVED

Three police cars from the Oakland station were called to the cathedral to keep as much order as possible.

Some of the placards carried by the marchers read:

"We will trade our Lowa poison ivy for a wee bit of Scottish heather."

"Big John and Little John must go."

The references to Iowa were inspired by the fact that both "Big John," Chancellor Bowman, and "Little John," Mr. Weber, came to Pitt from the University of Iowa.

Unofficial estimates were that only about 500 of the school's more than 5,000 day students "struck."

Dr. Bowman was not on hand to witness the demonstration, having gone to New Brunswick, N. J., to address a Rutgers University dinner.

Dr. Sutherland also was out of the city. The former coach, who quit after fifteen years here because he said conditions had become "intolerable," was in New York, where he spoke last night to Pitt alumni.

In 1935 the institution was the subject of a legislative inquiry regarding academic freedom. The inquiry followed the action of the American Association of College Professors in blacklisting the school as failing to provide tenure in office. This charge came after several "liberal" professors were dropped.

The Legislature ultimately approved a $1,200,000 appropriation for the university, but only after it was agreed to change the make-up of the board of trustees to allow for "more democratic" representation.

YALE MERMEN DOWN HARVARD BY 45-30 SCORE

N.Y. Times

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 11.—Sweeping all but three firsts, Yale's varsity swimming team annexed the Eastern Intercollegiate League Swimming League title by downing Harvard, 45—30, in the indoor athletic building pool tonight. Victory left Yale undefeated in league competition. Harvard's two year monopoly thus was ended.

Yale easily took the 300-yard medley relay race. Ed Gesner opened fifteen yards on the breaststroke leg, and despite a slow freestyle performance, Yale's time of 3 minutes 1.6 seconds was only 1.6 seconds slower than the dual meet record set by Harvard two years ago.

Captain John Good followed with an expected first in the 220-yard race but was forced to hustle to beat Eric Cutler by less than a yard. Frank Powers took third for Harvard by a yard.

ELIS SWEEP 50-YARD RACE

Yale made an unexpected sweep of the 50-yard dash. Russ Duncan barely defeated Eric Perryman for the 5 points. Jim Curwen was third.

Captain Russ Greenwood of Harvard scored 137.02 points to annex the dive. His total was the highest ever scored by a Harvard diver, a fitting climax to his three years of varsity competition.

In the century free style Curwen was again nosed out by Good. The finish was as close as in the shorter dash and this time Curwen took second from Yale's Bill Moonan. Yale's continued predominance in the top brackets left Harvard little chance for victory.

Joe Burns took an eight-yard decision over his Yale team-mate, John Brueckel, in the 150-yard back-stroke and Pall Metcalf of Yale led Ed Gesner in the 200-yard breast-stroke, with Phil Walter of Harvard third, well back. With the latter event Yale clinched the victory.

FLI FRESHMEN VICTORS

Yale's freshmen team swamped the Harvard yearlings, 53—22, in the preliminary meet to end its season undefeated. The Elis limited the opposition to two firsts and two seconds.

Captain Dave Stearns figured in both of the Crimson's firsts. Stearns took the 50-yard dash by two feet and anchored the 400-yard relay team to five-yard triumph.

All the yearling times were fast, but Yale's medley relay trio hung up the evening's only record, setting a new dual meet mark of 3 minutes 4.6 seconds in the opening event. This superseded the time of 3:12 set by Yale freshmen last year.

THE SUMMARIES

Varsity Meet

300-Yard Medley Relay—Won by Yale (John Brueckel, Ed Gesner, Bill Moonan); second, Harvard (Craig Moore, Max Kraus, Fred Griffin). Time—3:01.6.

220-Yard Free Style—Won by John Good, Yale; second, Eric Cutler, Harvard; third, Frank Powers, Harvard. Time—2:14.7.

50-Yard Free Style—Won by Russ Duncan, Yale; second, Eric Perryman, Yale; third, Jim Curwen, Harvard. Time—0:24.1.

High Broad Diving—Won by Russ Greenhood, Harvard. 137.02 points; second, G. W. Dana, Harvard, 116.13 points; third, Bud Twining, Yale, 89.96 points.

100-Yard Free Style—Won by John Good. Yale; second, Jim Curwen, Harvard; third, Bill Moonan, Yale. Time—0:53.7.

150-Yard Back-Stroke—Won by Joe Burns, Yale; second, John Brueckel, Yale; third, Coly Stowell, Harvard. Time—1:40.7.

200-Yard Breast-Stroke—Won by Paul Metcalf Jr., Yale; second, Ed Gesner, Yale; third, Phil Walker, Harvard. Time—2:31.2.

440-Yard Free Style—Won by Eric Cutler, Harvard; second, Howie Spendelow Jr., Yale; third, Clive Jaffray, Yale. Time—5:02.9.

400-Yard Relay—Won by Harvard (Frenk Powers, Craig Moore, Coly Stowell, Jim Curwen); second, Yale (Van Sant, Power Good, Jones, Higgins). Time—3:47.2.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"- by Ripley

The Father of Captains

James Blanchard, Maine shipbuilder, was the father of, 1. William H., 2. Raymond, 3. Jubilee, 4. Elbridge, 5. Lock, 6. James, 7. Shepard. All seven sons were ship captains and all were lost at sea. Of his four grandsons who were likewise ship captains, one, Fred. P. Blanchard was also lost at sea.

Numerous other bearers of the Blanchard name were shipmasters, being more distantly related to the subject of my cartoon.

Cows that Eat Fish

In August 1938, Ed. C. Kirby of Houston, Texas, observed and photographed cattle at Bird Island, near Corpus Christie, Texas, eating fish caught along the beach. This followed a long period of high north winds that drove the fish in close to shore. It is thought the cows may have been seeking salt through their unusual diet.

TITLE RETAINED BY NOTRE DAME IN TRACK MEET

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 11—Notre Dame retained its Central Intercollegiate Conference indoor track crown today by scoring in all eleven events to win the thirteenth annual meet.

The Irish piled up forty-five points, thirteen more than Marquette, runer-up. Dave Reidy, Notre Dame junior, turned in the outstanding individual performance of the day.

Reidy, the only two-time winner, tied the conference 60-yard high hurdle record in 7.5 seconds and the Notre Dame low-hurdle record in 7.2, upsetting Bob Shurilla, of Marquette, with a last-second leap to the tape in the latter event.

Pittsburgh's team finished third with twenty-eight points and Michigan State was fourth with seventeen. Michigan Normal made 10½; Butler, 8½; North Central, 6; Toledo and Kansas State, 4 each; Western State, 3; Drake, 2, and Wayne, 1.

Notre Dame took four first places. Captain Greg Rice won the two-mile and Ted Leonas leaped 6 feet 4½ inches, to take the high jump.

The summaries:

High jump—Won by Leonas, Notre Dame; second, Washington, Western State Teachers; third, Arrington, Michigan State; fourth, Burke, Marquette; McDowell, Pittsburgh, and Simmons, Wayne, tied for fourth and fifth. Height, 6 feet 4½ inches.

Shotput—Won by Bazyk, Pittsburgh; second, Faymonville, Notre Dame; third, Beiner, Notre Dame; fourth, Hathaway, Michigan Normal; fifth, Bolten, Michigan Normal. Distance, 47 feet 10¾ inches.

Mile run—Won by Southworth, Butler, second, Rice, Notre Dame; third, Wickersham, Marquette; fourth, Vanauken, Michigan State; fifth, Papaga, Marquette. Time, 4:17.9.

Sixty-yard dash—Won by Greer, Michigan State; second, Shelton, Marquette; third, Coughlin, Notre Dame; fourth, Black, Marquette; fifth Saggau, Notre Dame. Time, 0:06.3.

440-yard dash—Won by Ohl, Pittsburgh; second, Woodruff, Pittsburgh; third, Wagner, North Central; fourth, Halpin, Notre Dame; fifth, Carr, Marquette. Time, 0:49.6.

Sixty-yard high hurdles—Won by Reidy, Notre Dame; second, Hotchkiss, Kansas State; third, Newman, Pittsburgh; fourth, Marshal, Butler; fifth, Scales, Michigan State. Time, 0:07.5. (Ties C. I. C. and Notre Dame record).

Two-mile run—Won by Rice, Notre Dame; Francis, Marquette, second; second; Hess Western State, third; Zemper, Michigan Normal, fourth; Frey, Michigan State, fifth. Time, 9:25.

Pole vault—Won by Stohlberg, Marquette; tie among White, North Central; Fried, Michigan Normal, and Dean, Notre Dame, second, third and fourth; Grafton, Michigan Normal, and Hiatt, Butler, tied, fifth. Height, 13 feet.

880-yard run—Won by Woodruff, Pittsburgh; Fehr, Michigan State, second; Hester, Notre Dame, third; Quinn, Michigan Normal, fourth; Pruski, Marquette, fifth. Time, 1:56.6.

65-yard low hurdles—Won by Reidy, Notre Dame; Shurilla, Marquette, second; Schwope, Marquette, third; White, Drake, fourth; Marshall, Butler, fifth. Time, 0:07.2 (ties Notre Dame indoor record).

FAMED ATHLETES TO SEE BRUNDAGE AT TEA PARTY

At least 30 of the leading Japanese athletes will be invited to a tea party next Wednesday afternoon to meet Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee and American member of the International Olympic Committee, who arrived with Mrs. Brundage on the Tatuta Maru on Thursday.

Officers of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation and members of the Japanese Sportswriters Club will also attend the tea party which will be held at the Seiyoken restuarant in Uyeno Park, now the Mecca of hundreds of thousands of Tokyo residents because of the cherry blossoms there in full bloom. The starting time is 4 o'clock.

Among the athletes, who have written their names across the pages of athletic history, to be invited include:

Jiro Kumagai, Kasuo Fukuda and Tamio Abe, former Davis Cup players; Jiro Yamagishi and Fumiteru Nakano, last year's Davis Cuppers.

Takenaka, who won a name for himself because of his sportsmanlike conduct in the 5,000-meter run in the 10th Olympic Games at Los Angeles in 1932; Ryutoku Yoshioka, the fastest sprinter in the Far East.

Ki Tei-son, winner of the prized Marathon at the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936.

Kusuo Kitamura, winner of the 1,500-meter swimming championship at Los Angeles; Yasuo Miyazaki, victor of the 100-meter freestyle title at Los Angeles; Reizo Koike, breaststroke star, Shozo Makino, freestyle, Masanori Yusa, freestyle, and Tomikatsu Amano, who last Summer shattered Arne Borg's 11-year standing record in the 1,500-meter swim; Mrs. Hideko Hyodo, nee Hideko Maehata, who won the women's 200-meter breaststroke title at the Berlin Olympic Games.

Lieutenant-Colonel Kido, representing the equestrian sport.

Cho, Matsui and Munekata, representing basketball.

Sakai, representing field hockey.

Asao, Sekiguchi and Kikuchi, skiing.

After their first night in Tokyo on Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Brundage Friday morning registered their names at the Imperial Palace, and then worshipped at the Meiji Shrine and the Yasukuni Shrine.

Mr. Brundage then paid his respects to the offices of the Municipality, the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation, the Board of Tourist Industry, Welfare, Foreign and Education Ministries.

At 4 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Brundage attended a tea party given in their honor by Vice-Foreign Minister and Mrs. Renzo Sawada. At 7 p.m. they were guests of honor at a dinner given at the Maple Club jointly by the Board of Tourist Industry and the Athletic Federation.

GIANTS FIND CURE FOR HURLERS' ILLS

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

BATON ROUGE, La., March 17—It is the firm belief of Pancho Snyder, first lieutenant to Colonel Bill Terry of the Giants, that the chief cause for ailing pitching arms lies not in the arms but in the legs of the pitchers.

It all sounds a trifle inconsistent and needs explaining. But Pancho apparently has explained it satisfactorily to his chief, for Terry is thoroughly sold on the theory. What is more, the pitchers are wholly in accord, with the result that as the Giants continue their routine drills there is put on display each day an extraordnary series of maneuvers by the mound staff off in one corner of Louisiana State University's vast playing field.

"Develop a pitcher's legs," says Pancho, "and you cut down the chances of injury to his arm 100 per cent. The reason is clear enough when you stop to figure it out. If a pitcher has weak legs or has something wrong with one of them, he naturally puts more strain on his arm to get his stuff over.

PRESSURE IS DISTRIBUTED

"Strengthen his legs and what happens? The strain comes off the arm and becomes equally distributed in a smooth body action. So we're strengthening their legs. Just watch."

The method itself is quite novel. Ordinary running around is not Pancho's idea of doing the trick.

So out in this morning's cool breeze the Giant staff of moundsmen grouped themselves at the extremity of the right field foul line, well beyond reach of the batting and fielding activities on the diamond. In left center, alongside the fence, Pancho stationed himself with a fungo bat. Then he let fly, but the flies were not hit in haphazard fashion.

Each pitcher took his turn chasing one. At the start the flies were hit far to his left, and as Pancho can drop a fungo fly on a dime 300 paces away, he invariably managed to force the pitcher to run all out in order to get under the ball. When any tried to sneak a head start Pancho deftly poked the ball a little farther.

Anchor Instead

Sailing a small boat off the Isle of Wight, a fisherman fouled his anchor in some rocks off Fishbourne at high tide.

He made the cable fast to shore and sailed home light, intending to collect the anchor at low tide.

In the evening he cycled the three miles from Ryde, put the 30-pound anchor over one shoulder and the cable over the other, and set off back.

At the top of the hill he met a fellow cyclist coming in the opposite direction. The cyclist took one look at the anchor, another at the overloaded cycle, and then said in tones of awe: "Lumme, mate: Ain't yer got no brakes?"—London Evening Standard

GIANTS CRUSH INDIANS, 10-2, WITH 18 HITS

By HARRY CROSS

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW ORLEANS, March 25—Zeke Bonura came back to his home town today in a flurry of big-league excitement. Seeing him for the first time in the raiment of the New York Giants, the home folks saw Zeke perform in real major-league fashion as the Terry men cuffed the Cleveland Indians around, 10 to 2. A hailstorm of eighteen hits revealed the Giants as something resembling a batting menace.

Bonura met his new owner, Horace Stoneham, today and what happened was something like this. Bonura slapped the Giants president on the back and said: "Hello, Horace, say you're pretty young, ain't you? You ought to be playing ball yourself. My mother is the best cook of Italian food in New Orleans. Come on down to the house tonight and get a good dinner. Horace, this is a great ball club you got, if I do say so myself."

KAMPOURIS HITS HOMER

Harry Danning, Bob Seeds, Burgess Whitehead and Alex Kampouris were the big siege guns for the National Leaguers, the Greek infielder connecting for a two-run homer in his only time at bat.

Hal Schumacher, Clydell Castleman and Johny Lohrman held the Indians in check throughout, the trio limiting the opposition to eight scattered safeties.

The Giants nicked Mel Hader in the second, Ott doubled to left and scored on Bonura's single to center. Zeke scored on Danning's triple to the left center-field fence. Danning came in on Seeds' out at first. Oscar Grimes singled in the same inning with one gone and went to second on a passed ball. After Keltner walked Hemsley rolled to Myatt, who made a bad throw to second in an effort to start a double play, and Grimes tallied on the messy toss.

Schumacher pitched himself out of difficulty in the third. Webb walked and weatherly singled. Both advanced on Chapman's sacrifice. After Heath fanned, Grimes was thrown out at first by Myatt, Bonura digging the ball out of the dirt.

Danning and Seeds singled in the fourth with one out. As Jurges fanned, Danning and Seeds negotiated a double steal, Danning scoring on Hemsley's low throw to third. Ripple, hitting in place of Schumacher, singled, scoring Seeds.

WHITEHEAD AGAIN SINGLES

Whitehead got his second hit, a single off Humphries in the fifth, and went to third on Moore's double. After Ott skied to Shilling, Whitehead scored on Bonura's sacrifice fly. Moore scored on Danning's single.

With one gone, Weatherly singled off Castleman in the fifth and Chapman's long drive was nipped by Moore after a hard run, Weatherly being doubled up when he failed to touch second on his journey back to first.

With two gone in the sixth, Whitehead singled and went to third on Moore's single. Ott pushed Whitehead home with a single to center. Doubles by Grimes and Pytlak gave the Indians one in the same inning. Alex Kampouris drove a home run over the left-field fence in the ninth off Joe Dobson

Mitsuyama Draws With 'Tiger' Amino

Ichiro Mitsuyama, Chosen scrapper, and Matsuo (Tiger) Amino, welterweights, fought to a listless draw over 10 rounds in the main event of a smoker Friday night at the Hibiya Public Hall auditorium. Mitsuyama weighed in at 147 pounds and Amino at 145 pounds.

Mitsuyama got off to a good start and with effective body blows scored a knockdown in the fourth round but Amino rallied to a draw.

FENSKE BEATS CUNNINGHAM IN MILE RACE

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, March 25—Charles (Chuck) Fenske, former University of Wisconsin star, defeated Glenn Cunningham, veteran Kansas miler, tonight for the second time of the indoor season, but Earle Meadows's record-breaking pole vault performance stole the show in the third annual Chicago relays.

Fenske moved up in the last lap to overtake the great Cunningham less than twenty-five feet from the tape. Fenske's winning time was 4:12.8, considerably above the best time of either performer.

Gene Venzke, former Pennsylvania ace, was third. Walter Mehl of Wisconsin was fourth and John Munski, University of Missouri, fell in the last lap and did not finish.

Meadows, formerly of Southern California and co-holder of the world outdoor record in the pole vault, cleared 14 feet 6¼ inches, bettering the recognized world indoor record.

Meadows's performance was an eighth of an inch above the height cleared by Cornelius Warmerdam of the San Francisco Olympic Club in an earlier indoor track meet this year in Boston.

The indoor record is 14 feet 4⅞ inches, held by George Varoff, University of Oregon, and was established in 1937 at Boston.

Allan Tolmich, hurdle star of Detroit, clipped three-tenths of a second off the 40-yard high hurdle world indoor record.

Tolmich negotiated the distance in 5.1 seconds, beating the 0:05.4 mark established in 1910 by T. N. Richards. Elmer Gedeon, University of Michigan, pushed Tolmich to the tape, losing by inches. Ed Smith, University of Wisconsin, was third.

Tolmich spread-eagled the field in the high hurdle series run at 40,50 and 60 yards, taking first in each event. Gedeon finished second in the series, with Larry O'Connor of Toronto third. Tolmich's 4.3 seconds in the 60-yard event equaled his own indoor record.

Charles Beetham of New York was only a tenth of a second off the indoor record in winning the 600-yard special run. He hit the tape a couple of feet ahead of Wesley Wallace of Fordham University. Harold Cagle, Oklahoma Baptist University, was third, with Jimmy Herbert of New York, the record holder at 1:11.1, a poor fourth.

John Borican of Elberon, N. J., beat Howard Borck, New York, to the tape by ten feet in the 1,000-yard run, covering the distance in 2:10.6, a half second behind the record. Mel Trutt of Indiana was thrid.

Don Lash, formerly of Indiana, defeated Greg Rice of Notre Dame by less than a foot in the two-mile race. His time was 9:05. Tommy Deckard, another one-time Indiana star, was third. Lash won the event at this meet last year in 9,10.7.

Wilbur Greer of Michigan State took top honors in the sprint series at 40, 50 and 55 yards. Greer was first in the 40 and 50 yard dashes, Perrin Walker of College Park, Ga., winning the 55-yard event. Walker was second in the series, with Myron Piker of Northwestern finishing third.

Bob Diefenthaler of Illinois won the high jump, leaping 6 feet 5 inches, the same height attained by Dave Albritton of Cleveland, but the former had fewer misses. Orville Wanger of North Central College, Naperviller, Ill., took the unversity 600-yard run in 1:15.9.

FREEMAN WINS AMERICAN TITLE IN BADMINTON

By AL LANEY

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK March 26—Young Dave Freeman, the Pasadena, Calif., tennis player, became the national badminton champion last night by defeating Walter Kramer, of Detroit, 15—9, 15—4, in the final round at the 69th Regiment Armory. Freeman, who also holds the national junior tennis title, dethroned the defending champion with unexpected ease and succeeded to the title Kramer has held ever since it came into existence in 1937.

A new women's champion also was crowned when Miss Mary Whittemore, of Boston, defeated Miss Helen Gibson of Westport, Conn., 11—1, 2—11, 11—4. This was a more normal result, for Miss Whittemore already had registered one victory over Miss Gibson in winning the Eastern title. Miss Gibson reached the final by defeating the defending champion, Mrs. Del. Barkhuff, on Friday.

Two of the three national doubles titles changed hands. Mrs. Rog Bergman and Miss Gibson, holders of the women's title, were dethroned by Mrs. Barkhuff and Miss Zoe Smith, of Seattle, the champions of 1937, 15—8, 15—5.

Freeman tried for the triple crown but was unsuccessful. In the men's doubles, he and C. R. Hutchinson were defeated by the defending champions, Richard Yeager and Hamilton Law, 18—17, 9—15, 15—11.

Freeman and Miss Whittemore likewise were unsuccessful in their effort to gain the mixed doubles title. They were defeated by Miss Smith and Yeager, 15—9, 7—15, 15—5.

FREEMAN A VIGOROUS PLAYER

Freeman is a sturdy young man full of vigorous strokes and adroit footwork. He covers court with large and violent movements and gives voice both to his satisfaction and his disgust with himself. He pulled away from Kramer in his first hand and by reason the deft skill of his short game and his accurate smashing he was never caught.

Kramer used a deft backhand drop shot as a reply to Freeman's shorter smashes but he was inclined to overdo it. Freeman was prepared for it and often got his kill with a neat little cross shot to the forehand. The new champion was very quick about the court and accurate with his clearing shots, especially when it mattered most. So Kramer's challenge was ruined when early in the second games he let the shuttle fall inside the lines three times. Not that Kramer went down without having scored some fine winners of his own, but he could never conduct the match on even terms.

Having won the first game with surprising ease while her opponent was finding her touch, Miss Whittemore went right off her game, allowed herself to be upset by happenings outside the court and was presently in grave danger of losing by an overwhelming margin.

Miss Gibson is a splendid player and she recovered well from a disastrous start. After having won only one point in the first game, she needed only five hands to take the second, at the end of which it appeared that she would win if Miss Whittemore did not settle down. The third game was interrupted several times while attendants tried to discover where a strong draft was coming from. The girls sat down and waited and when play was resumed Miss Whittemore quickly reestablished her earlier ascendancy.

She was now serving so high as to give Miss Gibson a pain in the neck and with the severity of her smashing, and her discernment of the long and short game she kept her adversary on the run all the time. She was checked momentarily but went out from 6-4 in the deciding game.

MEIJI NOSES OUT TEIDAI, 11 TO 8; KEIO ROUTS RIKKYO BY 8-1 SCORE

Tokyo Imperial University, perennial cellar champions of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league, can hardly hope to win any game depending only on one pitcher. Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium in the second game against Meiji, Teidai (Tokyo Imperial University) scored seven runs in the fourth inning but failed to hold on to the lead with Pitcher Yutani battered mercilessly by the Meiji players in the sixth and eighth innings. The consequence was that Meiji finally eked out an 11 to 8 victory.

Keio, beaten 3 to 1 on Saturday, made it an even series with Rikkyo for the Spring season by winning convincingly, 8 to 1, in the curtain-raiser. Despite a cloudy sky from early morning, a capacity crowd of more than 50,000 fans took in the doubleheader.

Pitcher Yutani, who had hurled Teidai to a 3 to 3 draw against Meiji on Saturday, engaged in a pitching duel with Shimizu, the Meiji ace southpaw, for three innings. Then he seemed well on the way to victory when Shimizu went to pieces in the fourth frame.

SHIMIZU KNOCKED OUT

Kawai opened the fourth for Teidai with one too hot for Shimizu to handle. It was the first hit off Shimizu. Shortstop Mizutake lashed a double to left center to bring in Kawai. Ota grounded to short and Shortstop Oki of Meiji pulled off the prize boner of the day. He had plenty of chance to kill Mizutake who had dashed off second for third but he pegged to first instead. Shimizu lost his control completely and walked Yamamoto, Tajima and Hibino in a row to force in Mizutake. Yutani then came through with a timely Texas Leaguer to center and Yamamoto romped home. Fujimoto, a new right hander who had given a creditable account of himself on Saturday, relieved Shimizu. Backstop Kitano, however, greeted him with a hit to center and Tajima tallied. Tobita worked Fujimoto for a walk and Hibino trotted home. Kawai registered his second hit in the same inning, a nice bingle down the left field foul line, and Yutani and Kitano checked in to give Teidai a 7-run lead. There was no more scoring when Mizutake flied out to right and Ota grounded out to second.

Shortstop Oki's double and the opposing shortstop's wild peg to first gave Meiji a run in the fifth. And Meiji came to life in the sixth. Kodama, Ase and Fujimoto rapped Yutani for clean hits and Matsui doubled to bring in two runs. Kameda popped to right but Oki singled to center and scored Fujimoto. Oki was caught off first but Yano doubled to right and brought in Matsui. Meiji was now only three runs behind.

Kameda's tunneling of a slow grounder by Ota after two outs, plus a hit by Yamamoto and two free tickets issued by Fujimoto, gave Teidai a run in the seventh.

TEIDAI INFIELD CRACKS UP

Teidai might have won the game, enjoying an 8 to 5 lead as Meiji came to to bat for the eighth, but the infield went to pieces. Kamei, batting for Kameda, walked. Oki rapped a grounder to short and Mizutake pegged to second but Tobita was much too slow in covering the bag all hands were safe. Then it was Yano who grounded to second. Tobita scooped up the ball perfectly but his underhand toss to Shortstop Mizutake was a bit too short and Oki was safe. Kamei scored as Ito grounded out to short. With the count 1 and 3, Yutani essayed a slow ball against Kato, who timed his swing perfectly and smashed a hit to left to bring in Oki and Tobita to deadlock the count at 8-all. Mizutake messed up Kodama's grounder. Ase walked Fujimoto doubled to left to clean up the bags, and Meiji was three runs ahead.

Pitcher Shiraki contributed largely to Keio's victory in the first game, allowing only two hits.

Keio clinched victory by scoring four runs in the third inning off Saigo. Shiraki singled to left and went all the way to second on the fielder's error. Kawase rolled a grounder to third but Kiyohara pegged high to first and Shiraki counted. Nezu was safe on First Baseman Sakurai's error. Miyazaki walked to clog the bases. Odate forced out Kawase at the plate. Saigo uncorked a wild pitch with Kusumoto at bat and Nezu scored. Kusumoto walked. Iijima doubled over the center fielder's head and brought in Miyazaki and Kusumoto.

GORDON HOMERS TO AID YANKS TO BEAT CARDS

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25—Joe Gordon constituted himself chairman of an unofficial committee of welcome to Paul Dean at Waterfront Park today and did a job which would have been a credit to Grover Whalen.

With a home-run blast that sailed over the left-field fence into Tampa Bay in the second inning, the Flash knocked in three runs that convinced the younger of the Deans that he was a welcome sight to the Yankee sluggers. What is more, the Gordon smash gave the world champions a one-run lead that they carefully maintained thereafter, providing the big punch in their 5-4 triumph over the Cardinals.

The McCarthymen now cannot lose the six-game Spring series here against St. Louis. The count is three games to two in their favor, with the finale set for tomorrow.

JOE HALTS AT THIRD

The indefatigable Joe DiMaggio and the Old Iron Man, Lou Gehrig, were on the committee that greeted Dean in his first outing here this year. DiMaggio showed the way with a rousing double into the left-field bleachers. Gehrig looped a single into right center, on which DiMaggio halted at third, and then Gordon larruped one out of the lot, his first of three blows.

It was the one outburst in three innings that young Dean suffered. He had a perfect frame in the first and another in the third. But that three-run cluster enabled the Yanks to overhaul the Cardinals and fortified the champions against the packing that St. Louis did at Yankee hurling thereafter. Two more runs at the expense of Martin Cooper, last season's strike-out king of the Texas League, in the fifth inning, completed the scoring against the Cardinals.

Steve Sundra and Bump Hadley did the hurling for the Yanks and were reached for eleven hits. This was two more than the Yanks accumulated. But five of the New York blows were for extra bases and, with the champions going in for distance bumping in this fashion, the result was inevitable.

MEDWICK IN FIRST GAME

Joe Medwick, recent deserter from the holdout ranks, got into his first game. But, aside from the cheers he attracted and one chance he accepted in the outfield, Ducky was an inconspicuous figure for the three innings he played.

It looked like a Cardinal afternoon in the first. His arm showing some of the benefit of his last year's exile to the minors, Dean set the Yankees down one-two-three, while Terry Moore's double paved the way for a Redbird run.

The three Yankee blows of the second more than squared this run. In their half the Cards counted again at the expense of Sundra on Joohnny Mize's double and Frank Crespi's single.

But the losers never got any closer. In the fifth Buddy Rosar singled, Sundra tripled and Charley Keller doubled, for two runs off Cooper and the result was assured. The Cards clustered three hits on Sundra in the fifth, but had to be content with one run, and in the eighth Pepper Martin's double with Mize's single gave them their last marker.

1936 ICE CARNIVAL BY NEW YORK CLUB SAID BEST OF ALL GIVEN TO DATE

By JESSE ABRAMSON

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK March 26—The public response to the annual ice extravaganzas of the Skating Club of New York brings its own reward to the public in the form of bigger and better shows each year. The sixth charity carnival, which had its second of four performances last night in the frappeed ballroom setting of Madison Square Garden, was enacted before a capacity throng that was even larger than the fashionable attendance of Friday's premiere.

The show was more swiftly paced and more polished last night, and yet the demand of the spectators for encores for most of the twenty numbers could not be altogether satisfied owing to the limitations of time and the desire of the management to finish before midnight. Even three hours of the thrilling spectacle fail to surfeit the figure-skating followers.

That the latest production of the Skating Club is the finest yet is the opinion not only of the figure-skating maestros who had a part in it but also the public, which may be less critical, but knows what it likes.

GROUP NUMBERS IMPROVED

The skilled and artistic and comic contributions of the skating virtuosos from England, France, Sweden, Switzerland, Canada and this country elicited the greatest applause. The quality and quantity of these outstanding skaters and the wide variety of their performances make the current show a classic. But it is in the elaborate and skillfully executed group numbers, with their stunning settings, beautiful lighting effects and handsome costumes, that the 1939 carnival tops its predecessors and enters the must-see category of Winter events.

The Garden is only one stopping-off place for many of the featured performers, who will exhibit in shows in Boston, Cleveland, Toronto and other skating centers. To the participants in the big group numbers, the contributions of the members of the Skating Club, this is their only performance of the year, for which they have rehearsed five weeks or more. It is fun for them and for the spectators when everything clicks according to the blueprint.

FORTY-THREE SKATE IN BALLET

Blueprints in actual fact are part of the preliminary preparation of Miss Katie Schmidt, of the Skating Club's teaching staff, director and choreographer, with the aid of Mrs. Daniel F. Secord, of "Le Lac des Cygnes," the Swan Lake number that opens the second half of the carnival in a setting that brings ohs and ahs from the crowd. Forty-three men and women participate in this, considered the finest presensation on a ballet on ice. All of them are members of the Skating Club with the exception of Oliver E. Haupt jr., of St. Louis, national figure skating runner-up, who enacts the featured role of the Prince to Miss Audrey Peppe's Princess.

Most of the painstaking presentation for the carnival, of course is taken up in this elaborate number and the opening scene, the Sleeping Princess, the children's number which was presented for the first time last year and is being repeated. This is also under the direction of Miss Schmidt.

Miss Schmidt complacently watched her numbers from a promenade seat last night near the corner where Leon Leonidoff stands and directs the entire production, while she related to a curious reporter the complicated steps leading up to the finished product which the crowd enjoys. Having devised the idea for the ballet or the dance number, she makes a blueprint of it, arranging the groups, devising the steps and figures so that they conform to the theme and measures of the music. The first practice is devoted to arranging the group units—swans, butterflies and hunters, as in the Swan Lake number. This is done off the ice, and so is the second practice, when the company walks through the act to music. Five weekly sessions at Iceland brought the necessary rhythm and timing.

JOAN TOZZER, FOX STAR IN PAIR

On the other hand, Miss Joan Tozzer and Bernard Fox, of Boston, United States and North American pair champions, arrived at the last minute for the final dress rehearsal. Their part in the carnival has been rehearsed for years, for it is their pair number from competition trimmed down for carnival presentation, stressing rhythm and timing with a few lifts and spectacular maneuvers.

Miss Tozzer and Fox have set the 1940 Olympics as their goal. Miss Tozzer is also the United States women's singles champion. How they came together makes an interesting story. It happened in London, where both had done for Summer skating under the teaching of Willie Frick, of the Skating Club of Boston. Miss Tozzer had suffered a broken leg falling from a horse, and she did not want to lose a year of skating. Fox had been a hockey player at the River School in Brookline. He had no ambition to become a champion figure skater until he saw a carnival in Boston. He thought the sport was effeminate and was bored by it until he saw the late Gillis Grafstrom, of Sweden. Fox decided to go in for figures too, and he went to London to pursue his new sport career without delay. He has made rapid progress in the five years since he took up the sport. He believes that his hockey play helped to give him body control for his figure skating. They make a youthful and appealing duo, Miss Tozzer and Fox, who are appearing in the New York carnival for the first time.

Another debutant, the sturdy, athletic Frederick Tomlins, of England, runner-up for the world, European and British championships, finds the Garden surface almost too small for his vigorous presentation. He has power with his art.

BRUINS PLACE 4 ON ALL-STAR HOCKEY TEAM

TORONTO, March 25—Down through the years Art Ross has built his Boston Bruins around Eddie Shore, the Alberta wheat farmer, and this season that policy has brought Ross not only the National League championship but recognition as the ablest coach of the Winter. The Bruins are favorites, moreover, to win the world championship in the current Stanley Cup series.

The ninth annual all-star teams of The Canadian Press were announced today, bringing Ross and three of his players, including Shore as usual, first-team positions. A consensus of the ballots of thrity-four hockey writers in N. H. L. cities named Ross coach, Frank Brimsek in goal, Shore at right defense and Aubrey (Dit) Clapper at left defense.

TWO TORONTO FORWARDS

Following are the teams:

Pos.	First Team	Alternate Team
G.	Brimsek (Bost.)	Rob'son (Amer.)
R.D.	Shore (Bost.)	Seibert (Chicago)
L.D.	Clapper Bost.)	Coulter (Rang.)
C.	Apps (Toro.)	N. Colville (Rang.)
R.W.	Drillon (Toro.)	Bauer (Bost.)
L.W.	Blake (Canad.)	Gottselig (Chi.)
Coach	Ross (Bost.)	Dutton (Amer.)

Every team is included but Detroit whose Tiny Thompson just failed to get the alternate goal-tending post in competition with Earl Robertson, of the New York Americans. Last year, with Boston, Thompson was first-team goalie.

It was the seventh time Shore had been named to the team. In 1934 he made only the alternate team and in 1937 injuries kept him out of the running altogether.

Never has he been more valuable than in this campaign, one of Boston's greatest. After holding out at the start, he regained his stride quickly and took under his wing Jhonny Crawford, recruit defenseman, who quickly developed into stardom.

BRIMSEK FIRST RECRUIT NAMED

Brimsek is the first rookie in the history of the ballot to win a first-team place. The writers recognized that the Bruins' fast-breaking style left frequent openings for the opposition. Almost as soon as Brimsek went into goal, he scored a sequence of three shutouts. Later he scored three more in a row.

Dave Kerr, of the New York Rangers, actually got more alternate team votes than Robertson, but the American's great blocker won the position on the basis of three points for a first-team ballot and one for a second-team ballot.

On the same basis Ross got the call for first-team coach over Mervyn (Red) Dutton, of the Americans. Dutton was named coach for the first team by fifteen writers, and Ross by fourteen, but fourteen picked Ross for the alternate squad and only four named Dutton. For the first time Lester Patrick, of the Rangers, failed to win either coaching berth, but his name was the only one considered beside those of Ross and Dutton.

Drillon and Apps will get $2,000 each as bonus money from the Leafs for being chosen to the team, while their linemate, Bob Davidson, will draw $1,000. Davidson was promised his share if Drillon and Apps made places.

Can Japan reconstruct China without foreign help?

HERE are data from which but reader can furnish his own answer.

A consul of His Imperial Majesty out writing in his private capacity, the author provides the data by examining such subjects as the national wealth, of which his own estimate is published for the first time; industry, and foreign trade.

Japan may have to make sacrifices for continental reconstruction. An indication of her capacity and willingness to do so is given in discussion of living standards, of labour and of sources of tax revenue.

The "Open Door" is judged on its own merits, that is, what it has done for those who applied it and those to whom it has been applied. And the author likewise offers with complete frankness his opinion of what Pax Japonica is and what it means to East Asia and the world.

Through statistics and observations, Mr. Asahi presents a vivid picture of Japanese industry since 1930, specially emphasizing the China-Affair years. It is a picture of swift change—of newly risen industries, of trends in production and trade away from bases once considered almost immutable.

Much of the factual material herein is now made available for the first time to those who do not read the Japanese language. All of it is conveniently arranged, and in every case the sources of data are cited. The student will obtain valuable assistance from a bibliography which is included.

FOOT-RACING HISTORY

His face reflecting the intense effort he is making, John Borican, sensational negro runner of the Shore Athletic Club, New Jersey, is shown breasting the tape to set a new world mark for the 800 yards at Dartmouth college meet on March 15. Borican's time was 1:49.8, former mark of 1:51.4 was set by Lloyd Hahn in 1928.

BORICAN SPEEDS TO NEW WORLD MARK OF 1:49.8 FOR 880-YD. RUN INDOORS

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

HANOVER, N. H., March 15—An attack on the record book met with more than moderate success as John Borican, the Negro ace, and Fordham's brilliant one-mile relay team made foot-racing history tonight.

Over the springy, seven-year-old spruce wood floor, regarded as the fastest indoor track in the world, Borican sped to a new world record for the 880-yard run in the amazing figures of 1:49.8, completely shattering the existing indoor standard of 1:51.4, made by Lloyd Hahn back in 1928. En route, of course, Borican bettered Hahn's mark for 880 meters, which point he passed in 1:49.2.

Fordham's mile relay quartet of Ralph St. Pierre, George Leary, Frank Slater and Wesley Wallace accounted for another new world indoor record, turning the tables on New York University in a thrilling test completed in 3:15.2, well under the mark of 3:17 created by the University of Pennsylvania four of Johnny Edwards, Howie Jones, Bill Carr and Jimmy Healey in 1933. Incidentally, the Violets, beaten by less than a yard, also were under the record.

1,500 AT INVITATION MEET

That Don Lash, the Indiana State policeman and record-holder for two miles indoors, failed in his attempt to lower the figures for his specialty, and that the two-mile relay, in which N. Y. U. conquered Fordham by inches, did not wreck Georgetown's 7:41.6 standard was completely forgotten by 1,500 persons who witnessed the second annual invitation meet at Dartmouth.

Lash, leading a handicap field in 9:01, was five seconds over his objective, but still negotiated the fastest two miles of the season. A 1:05.5 opening quarter, followed by a 1:03.5 second quarter, perhaps was to blame for the Hoosier policeman's failure to create a new mark. Starting the final quarter, the national champion was in a position where a 62-second quarter could turn the trick, but a fatigued Lash just could not make it, being five seconds over that.

It was a year ago that Glenn Cunningham achieved his 4:04.4 mile here. The track, which measures six and three-quarter laps to the mile, is highly banked and quite narrow. What makes it such an ideal set-up is the fact that the boards, laid lengthwise on the long straightaway and across on the turns, rest on a soft dirt floor.

It is impossible to see more than half a race here because the track in the Davis Field House is built around a brick house, with the result that both straightaways run through a tunnel. However, spectators on both sides of the house were content to catch glimpses of the speeding athletes.

FOUR PACEMAKERS FOR BORICAN

Borican's performance was a great one, to say the least. The powerfully built Shore A. C. man, with four Dartmouth youths having handicap allowances ranging from 10 to 95 yards as pacemakers, passed the quarter in 0:52.4. Right then and there it became virtually certain that Hahn's eleven-year-old record would be eclipsed.

Burning up the spongy boards, Borican then steamed all the way home and the only question became by how much he would break the record. At 800 meters, approximately five yards from the tape, he was caught in 1:49.2 and it was all over but the shouting, of which there was plenty.

Oddly enough, all three official timers at the finish of the race stopped their watches at exactly 1:49.8, so that there could be no possible chance of a slip-up. Furthermore, the alternate timer's watch showed 1:49.8.

For a man who never before had done better than 1:56 for a half mile, Borican's feat was all the more impressive. Still breathing heavily from his effort, the Negro star voiced the opinion that he could have run two seconds faster if any one had pushed him.

"I slowed down a bit on the back stretch and before I could do anything about it I had reached the finish," he said.

N. Y. U. VICTORY A SURPRISE

Earlier in the night Fordham and N. Y. U. met in the first of the two match relay test. N. Y. U. was the surprise winner of this two-mile race in 7:44, the Violets using Martin Witte, Myron Bresnick, Jim Herbert and Curits Giddings against Leary, Wallace, Walter Cary and Slater. The first two legs of this race, each over 1:57, ruined the record chance.

After an hour's rest the rival New York schools returned to the track and thrilled the onlookers with the fastest mile relay ever run indoors. About fifteen yards from the tape Herbert was in front of Wallace, but the latter, with a tremendous spurt, overcame the slight advantage and won by less than a yard.

Running for N. Y. U. were Jimmy McPoland, Witte, Giddings and Herbert. The first three men were caught in approximately 49 seconds for their individual quarters, while both Wallace and Herbert were well under 48 seconds on the anchor leg.

Since Herbert was in front at the 1,600-meter point, it was indeed unfortunate for N. Y. U. that there were no timers stationed at that point. It goes without saying that both he and Wallace were under the record for that distance, some ten yards short of the mile, but, of course, the Violets will get no recognition.

Although the crowd possibly had been expecting too much, Lash's failure to produce a new record was somewhat of a disappointment. Many felt that the Hoosier was a cinch to come through, but those aware of his sometimes mysterious pacing had their fingers crossed.

Aiming at 8:50 for the two miles, Don did not do himself much good with that 1:03.5 second quarter. But when he completed the first mile in 4:25.5 the outlook did not look too glum. However, he started the second mile with a 1:10 quarter and followed with a 1:11 effort.

Lash, like Borican, ran with four handicap men, but they were unable to force him to any extent. Still, Don was within striking distance of the record with 440 yards to go, only to finish with a 1:07 quarter. He appeared to be all in at the finish.

THE SUMMARIES

Two-Mile Relay—Won by N. Y. U. (Martin Witte, Myron Bresnick, James Herbert, Curtis Giddings); Fordham (George Leary, Wesley Wallace, Walter Cary, Frank Slater), second. Time—7:44.

880-Yard Handicap—Won by John Borican, Shore A. C., Elberon, N. J. (scratch); Robert W. Unagst, Dartmouth (95 yards), second; Robert Williams, Dartmouth (30 yards), third. Time—1:49.8 (new world indoor record; old record, 1:51.4, made by Lloyd Hahn in 1928. Borican also set new world indoor record for 800 meters of 1:49.2; old record, 1:51.4, made by Hahn in 1928).

Two-Mile Run—Won by Don Lash, Indiana State Police (scratch); Bert MacMannis, Dartmouth (50 yards), second; Fred Upton, Dartmouth (220 yards), third. Time—9:01.

One-Mile Relay—Won by Fordham (Ralph St. Pierre, George Leary, Frank Slater, Wesley Wallace); N. Y. U. (James McPoland, Martin Witte, Curtis Giddings, James Herbert), second. Time—3:15.2. (New world indoor record; old record, 3:17, made by Penn in 1933).

LARGEST CROWD AT BOSTON SEES HOCKEY MATCH

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

BOSTON, March 26—Seizing the many opportunities presented them by their rivals' defensive lapses, the Boston Bruins handed the New York Rangers a 4—1 set-back in the resumption of their series tonight.

The Blue Shirts, sworn to risk all in a tremendous offensive drive that would enable them to hope, at least, for survival in the Stanley Cup play-offs, could do practically nothing against the closely knit Boston defense, and in essaying a completely aggressive game left the way open for the local forces to score at least once in every period.

An all-time attendance record for a hockey game in this city was set by the throng that turned out to see the teams do battle in the Boston Garden. A crowd of 16,081 watched the struggle, and that number shattered the previous high mark of 16,702, set when the same teams met last Thursday night.

NO CHECK WAS MADE

A larger crowd may have seen the first National Hockey League game ever played in Boston, eleven years ago. On that occasion the eager fans broke down the doors to witness the contest and consequently no check could be made on the attendance.

Tonight's defeat just about crushed the Rangers' chances of playing for the Stanley Cup, which is emblematic of the hockey championship of the world. The battle was the third of the four-out-of-seven series between the teams which finished one-two in he regular National League race, and it was the third straight victory for Boston. On Tuesday the series will be transferred to New York.

In encompassing their triumph the Bruins played their characteristically sound and calculating defensive game. They disdained to rush except when the opportunity was brightest, and contented themselves mainly with forcing the Rangers to come to them.

MAKE FEW HARD SHOTS

Teep in their own ice, the Bruin guards so muffled the Ranger forwards that the Blue Shirts were able to get off comparatively few dangerous shots at Frank Brimsek, guardian of the Boston goal. Although Brimsek made twenty-three by official count, a good number of his stops were on drives that could hardly be called dangerous.

On the other hand, Bert Gardiner, substitute Ranger goal-tender, was credited with twenty-nine saves. Boston, while admittedly following a defensive policy, had so many chances to break away from the five-strong Ranger rushes that Gardiner put in a busy evening indeed. His work was brilliant, and time and again he made rapid stops on successive shots sent at him by both members of a two-man Boston break.

Gordon Pettinger, erstwhile Ranger forward, made the first score of the game when he rapped home a drive off George Allen's chest midway in the first period. This contribution was followed by one from Milt Schmidt soon after the second session started.

The Rangers cut part of this lead in the same frame when Babe Pratt scored on a freak drive from the Boston blue line, and this counter kept the Ranger chances alive until the third period. Then Schmidt scored again to put the Bruins 2 up, and Bill Cowley counted to seal the outcome.

COWLEY'S PLAY OUTSTANDING

Cowley's forward play, incidentally, has been the finest individual performance of the series. The Boston center has shown himself a master of stick-handling and playmaking, and his passes have contributed as much as any other single factor to his teams' success.

The first Boston goal was definitely of the freak variety but that was counterbalanced by the one made by Pratt, which was considerably more unusual. Aside from these counters, though, there was no question of the Bruins' superiority, and the Rangers certainly could offer no excuse for their downfall.

When the game got under way the New Yorkers swarmed over their rivals, and fired frequently.

A penalty against Murray Patrick early in the fray did not even draw the Bruins off defense. Instead they checked the Rangers' charges deep in Boston ice, waiting for a spot. It arose when Flash Hollett and Ray Getliffe dashed away with the disk to set it up for Pettinger near the Rangers' penalty-shot line. There Pettinger seized it and released a high drive that hit Allen's chest and then bounced past Gardiner's unprotected side in 7:38.

Charging furiously, the visitors thrilled the fans repeatedly but there was no getting to Brimsek through the period. Carrying their charges over to the second frame, the Rangers got a face-off in Boston ice. Here Porky Dumart stole the rubber and raced for New York's zone, accompanied by Schmidt. As they neared the New York cage Dumart passed to his team-mate and Schmidt had an easy task beating Gardiner. The goal was scored only 25 seconds after the period started.

The Rangers persisted in attacking, as they could do nothing else at this stage, and after countless repulses finally beat Brimsek. Pratt intercepted a blind, backward pass from Cowley just inside the Boston blue line and let fly with a perfunctory shot. The rubber hit Jack Portland's stick, then glanced off Brimsek's left skate to slide into the goal, in 13:06.

A little while later Neil Colville made a sensational dash down the center alley to split the Boston defense. He drew Brimsek completely out of the net and had an open cage to shoot at, only to miss the target with a short right-alley thrust.

In the final frame the blue-jerseyed skaters rushed frantically into Boston's zone, with all five skaters. This strategy only placed a heavy burden on Gardiner, who was called on frequently to turn back goal bids by the fast-breaking Bruin forwards. He was unable, however, to block a lightning solo shot sent at him by Schmidt in 10:00.

A second penalty called on Murray Patrick paved the way for the fourth Boston goal. With their one-man advantage, the Bruins sent Cowley ahead with the puck, and Bill, speeding along the center alley, gained a clear path about 25 feet out and drilled a straight shot into the cords in 12:06.

The line-up:

MICHIGAN CONTINUES REIGN IN U.S. COLLEGIATE SWIMMING

N.Y. Times

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 25—The University of Michigan's rule of the college swimming world continued tonight as the Wolverines scored their sixth consecutive triumph at the sixteenth annual National Collegiate Athletic Association championships.

Michigan, tournament favorite, won the 400-yard free-style relay, concluding event of the two-day program, to run its point total to 65, 7 more than Ohio State was able to tally. The Buckeyes, outscored principally in the free-style events, fought gamely to the end, forcing the Wolverines to a new pool record in the relay.

From the beginning the meet was a dogfight between Michigan and Ohio State. Princeton was third with 22 points mainly because of the brilliance of Richard Hough and Albert Vande Weghe, star back stroker.

Yale was next with 14 points, while the other points were well scattered. Texas, Harvard and Southern California scored 8 each, Northwestern 4, Columbia, Iowa and Iowa State 3 each, and Illinois, Florida, Kenyon and Franklin and Marshall 2 apiece.

HOUGH RETAINS TITLE

Sharing honors with the well-balanced Wolverine team during the final night's program of five events was Hough, who pushed all existing records for the 200-yard breast-stroke into the discard with an amazing 2 minute and 22-second performance.

Until tonight the N. C. A. A. and world mark was 2 minutes and 22.5 seconds, set in 1936 by Jack Kasley of Michigan. Hough was the defending champion in his favored event, havinng won a year ago in 2 minutes 23.4 seconds.

A trophy was awarded to Hough as the "outstanding swimmer of the year" by the N. C. A. A. at the conclusion of the program.

In the 100-yard free-style Charles Barker of Michigan and Paul Wolf of Southern California fought a tie in the good time of 52.9 seconds. William Quayle of Ohio State was third and Waldemar Tomski of Michigan fourth.

Hough was pressed all of the way in the 200-yard breast-stroke by John Higgins of Ohio State. Justin Callahan of Columbia, Eastern Intercollegiate League individual medley champion, was third.

Michigan practically clinched the meet in the 440-yard free-style when Tom Haynie and James Welsh, Wolverines, finished one-two, respectively. The victory regained for Haynie the title he lost to Bill Kendall of Harvard in 1938.

OHIO STATE ACE REPORTS

Another defending champion to repeat was Al Patnik, 20-year-old Ohio State junior, who captured the three-meter (high board) fancy diving championship, with his team-mate, Earl Clark, second. Patnik and Clark finished in the same order in the one-meter (low board) fancy diving yesterday.

Patnik totaled 161.32 points tonight, thirty-two more than Clark counted,, and far outclassed the field.

Michigan's clinching relay victory was scored in easy style, the Wolverine anchor man,, Tomski, finishing more than a length in front of Bill Quayle, Ohio State's fourth man.

Hough's spectacular performance in the 200-yard breast-stroke produced the second N. C. A. A. record of the meet. Yesterday the Princeton medley relay team covered 300 yards in 2:54.5 to break by two-tenths of a second the mark it established last year.

Michigan, in the course of rolling up its title-winning point total, took four championships outright and won a share in the fifth when Barker tied Wolf in the 100-yard free style. Princeton and Ohio State took three titles apiece.

THE SUMMARIES

100-Yard Free Style—Paul Wolf, Southern California, and Charles Barker, Michigan, tied for first; third, William Quayle, Ohio State; fourth, Waldemar Tomski, Michigan; fifth, John Good, Yale Time—0:52.9.

200-Yard Breast-Stroke—Won by Richard Hough, Princeton; second, John Higgins, Ohio State; third, Justin Callahan, Columbia; fourth, George Haldeman, Iowa State; fifth, John Haigh, Michigan. Time—2:22 (breaks all existing N. C. A. A. records and sets new world record, breaking record of 2:22.5 set by Jack Kasley, Michigan, in 1936).

440-Yard Free Style—Won by Tom Haynie, Michigan; second, James Welsh, Michigan; third, Harold Stanhope, Ohio State; fourth, Adolph Kiefer, Texas; fifth, George Lowe, Illinois. Time—4:49.7.

Three-Meter Fancy Diving—Won by Patnik, Ohio State; second, Earl Clarke, Ohio State; third, Hal Benham, Michigan; fourth, E. R. Greenhood, Harvard; fifth, William Brink, Texas.

400-Yard Free Style Relay—Won by Michigan (Charles Barker, Edward Hutchins, Tom Haynie and Waldemar Tomski); second, Ohio State; third, Yale; fourth, Northwestern; fifth, Franklin and Marshall. Time—3:33.5.

N.C.A.A. SWIM CHAMPIONS

50-Yard Free Style—Charles Barker, Michigan.

MICHIGAN LEADS

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 24—The University of Michigan's favored squad shot into the lead in the sixteenth annual National Collegiate A. A. swimming championships tonight when Charles Barker and Waldemar Tomski finished one-two in the fifty-yard free style, opening event of the night's program.

Barker covered the distance in 23.5 seconds to register an upset triumph over his team-mate, who previously had won the Western Conference championship in this event. Paul Wolf of Southern California was third in the blanket finish, while St. Elmo Acosta of Florida was fourth.

Albert Vande Weghe of Princeton retained his 150-yard back stroke title, by scoring a 12-foot victory over William Beebe of Michigan in the final.

Joseph Burns of Yale was third, with William Griffin of Kenyon, fourth, and Albert Armbruster of Iowa, fifth. The time was 1:35.1, nine-tenths of a second over Vande Weghe's own national collegiate record.

Harold (Curly) Stanhope, Ohio State sophomore upset the field in the 1,500-meter free style, with his team-mate, Elwood Woodling placed fourth. Michigan failed to place an entry in this event.

Stanhope, Western Conference back-stroke champion, shook off the challenge of Harvard's Eric Cutler in the last fifty yards to win in 19:53.8. Adolph Kiefer, University of Texas, was third.

THE SUMMARIES

1,500-Meter Free Style—Won by Harold Stanhope, Ohio State; second, Eric Cutler, Harvard; third, Adolph Kiefer, Texas; fourth, Elwood Woodling, Ohio State; fifth, George Lowe, Illinois. Time—19:53.8.

50-Yard Free Style—Won by Charles Barker, Michigan; second, Waldemar Tomski, Michigan; third, Paul Wolf, Southern California; fourth, St. Elmo Acosta, Florida; fifth, Roger Adams, Iowa State; sixth, Russell Duncan, Yale. Time—0:23.5.

150-Yard Back Stroke—Won by Albert Vande Weghe, Princeton; second, William Beebe, Michigan; third, Joseph Burns, Yale; fourth, William Griffin, Kenyon; fifth, Albert Armbruster, Iowa. Time—1:35.1.

220-Yard Free Style—Won by Tom Haynie, Michigan; second, William Quayle, Ohio State; third, James Welsh, Michigan; fourth, Adolph Kiefer, Texas; fifth, Edward Hutchens, Michigan; sixth, H. A. Curwen, Harvard. Time—2:11.7.

Louis Knocks Out Roper In First of 10-Rounder

Domei Tsushin

WRIGLEY FIELD, Los Angeles, April 17—Twenty-five thousand spectators including many famous Hollywood stars tonight saw Joe Louis pound Jack Roper into submission in the first round of a scheduled 10-round title match.

The end came only two minutes 20 seconds after the opening bell. After a slow start, the Brown Bomber hooked a stiff left to Roper's jaw. The game contender staggered but came back with both hands flying. Louis waited patiently for an opening and when it came threw another left hook which opened a cut above Roper's right eye. As Roper wobbled, Louis took the offensive, battering his opponent to the canvas with a flurry of jarring rights and lefts.

Louis was in perfect shape and had little difficulty in disposing of his weaker and less experienced opponent. Tonight was the sixth time Louis has defended his heavyweight crown.

Philippine Boxers Coming Here in June

Dates for the Japan versus Philippines amateur boxing meets in Japan this year were announced by the Japan Amateur Boxing Federation Tuesday afternoon.

The Philippine team, to be invited, will make its debut at Keijo on May 27. In Japan Proper, they will take on the Japanese team on June 4 at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka, and fight in Tokyo on June 9. The date for one other meet has not been set.

The Japanese team for the bouts with the Filipinos will be picked from tryouts on May 13 and 14 at Meiji Shrine wrestling grounds.

Compliment

A friend once asked Joseph H. Choate the following question: "If you couldn't be yourself, who would you rather be?"

"Mrs. Choate's second husband," was the instant reply.

BRUNDAGES ARE HONORED AT MEETING

Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee and member of the International Olympic Committee, and Mrs. Brundage were honored at a "sportsmen's meeting" held at the Seiyoken Restaurant in Uyeno Park Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation.

Present were a number of athletes who had competed in the 10th Olympic Games at Los Angeles in 1932 and the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936. They included Mrs. Hideko (Mayehata) Hyodo, winner of the women's 200-meter breaststroke championship at Berlin, Tetsuo Hamuro, winner of the men's 200-meter breaststroke event at Berlin and Masanori Yusa, member of the championship 800-meter relay team at Berlin, from the swimming circles; Ryutoku Yoshioka, who competed in the sprints both at Los Angeles and Berlin, from the track and field world; Sakai, field hockey, Cho, Sudo and Furuya, skating, and Kikuchi and Sekiguchi, skiing.

Meeting Mr. and Mrs. Brundage also were Mr. Kashio, Japan's first representative in Davis Cup competition, and Kanaguri, old time Marathon star.

Introduced by Matsuzo Nagai, chairman of the International Bureau of the Federation, President Dr. Hiroshi Shimomura greeted Mr. and Mrs. Brundage. Thanking Mr. Brundage for his support given to Japan in the past, he hoped that both Mr. and Mrs. Brundage would be in Japan again when Tokyo would be the scene of the Olympic Games.

Responding, Mr. Brundage said the hospitality and courtesy he and Mrs. Brundage have been receiving is one of the happiest memories of his 30 years activity in sports, according to Domei. He recalled the amazing development of Japan in sports since her small group of athletes competed for the first time in the Olympic Games at Stockholm in 1912, when he was a member of the American track and field team, to the tremendous success of the Japanese delegations at Los Angeles and Berlin. He predicted that it is not impossible that the day might come when the Japanese athletes might monopolize all the Olympic medals. But he hoped that some of them, at such time, might be left for the other 60 competing countries. He hoped he would have the opportunity of coming to Japan again.

As a souvenir of his trip, Mr. Brundage distributed to the athletes present American Olympic medals which he had brought with him.

Shoichiro Takenaka, who competed in the 5,000-meter run at Los Angeles in 1932, toasted the good health of Mr. and Mrs. Brundage in behalf of the athletes present.

A tea party followed at which time Mr. and Mrs. Brundage personally met the officials and athletes present.

Following the tea party, Mr. Brundage went to the Tokyo Imperial University indoor pool where for half an hour he witnessed candidates for Japan's Olympic swimming team in training.

Mr. and Mrs. Brundage left by train this morning for the Kansai via Hakone. They are en route to London where Mr. Brundage will attend the general meeting of the International Olympic Committee.

52 HOCKEY PLAYERS ARE SELECTED TO TRY FOR UNITED STATES OLYMPIC SQUAD OF 14

The first major step in the organization of the 1940 United States Olympic hockey squad was taken recenly by the American Olympic Ice Hockey Committee. Meeting at the Yale Club here, after spending the week-end in New Haven viewing the national championships, the committee, which is headed by Rufus J. Trimble of New York, drew up a list of fifty-two Olympic "prospects."

Representatives of twenty-five of the leading college and club sextets in the country are included on the list, which is the result of a nation-wide canvass. From it and what additions there may be made before next Winter, thirty players will be invited to New York around Jan. 1 to try out for places on the fourteen-man Olympic squad.

The Boston Olympics placed seven men on the list for the largest representation from any one group. Six players were named from the Brook Hall H. C. of New Haven and the same number from the University of Minnesota Gophers. Five were picked from the St. Nicholas H. C. of New York, while the Cleveland American Legion team, newly crowned national champion, placed three.

Besides the St. Nicholas delegation of Goalie Tom Stockhausen, Bob Burke, Bob Nilon, Fred Moseley and Bill Elliott, Jack Ritter of the New York A. C. were New York players who are to be considered for Olympic berths.

The selections:

Goal—Harnaday, Southern California; W. Emerson, McGill; Stockhausen, St. Nicks; Falk, Minnesota; Goering, Clinton H. C.; Valenze, Lake Placid Club; Moore, Boston College; Rennicke, Brock Hall; Polish, Loyola (Calif.); Jones, Colgate.

Right Defense—Moe, Cleveland; Burke, St. Nicks; McFarland, Messena; Lynch, Boston Olympic; Allen, Boston Olympics; G. Emerson, Boston College; Meiklejohn, Wisconsin.

Left Wing—Nilon, St. Nicks; Anderson, Minnesota; Dondi, Brock Hall; Thompson, Brock Hall; Lewis, Boston Olympics; Byrne, Northwestern; Elliott, St. Nicks; Cochrane, Princeton.

Center—Dumont, Woonsocket; Young, Brock Hall; Chaisson, Woonsocket; Nicholson, Cleveland Rebeon, Southern California; Moseley, St. Nicks; Lampton, Minnesota; Pudvas, Brock Hall; Harding, Harvard; Foster, Dartmouth; Ford, Boston Olympics; Carvelli, Boston University; Ritter, New York A. C.; Underwood, Meriden, Conn.; St. Vincent, Minnesota; Wyer, Princeton; Fortin, Colby.

Finns Make Progress In Olympic Planning

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, March 24—Urho Toivola, chairman of the press committee for the 1940 Olympic Games at Helsingfors, who is visiting the United States to explain Finland's Olympic set-up, tendered a press reception yesterday at the Hotel Barclay. He reported that progress was being made so rapidly in the preparations that Finland will be all ready for the 1940 show.

The greatest difficulty that Helsingfors will have, he said, was that of housing some 100,000 visitors in a city of only 300,000 inhabitants. The various stadia and the Olympic Village already are completed or near completion. But the housing is something else.

A district has been set aside within thirty-seven miles of the capital and householders in that area, including those in the city, will turn over their apartments to visitors. In addition, twenty-one steamships have received the privilege of anchoring in the harbor and, hence, serving as "floating hotels."

Hotel prices in the city, Mr. Toivola pointed out, will be no more than $3.25, a strtling contrast to Berlin, where they were three and four times that.

Finland had only one year and ten months in which to prepare for the Olympics, he said, but had its organizing committee appointed two days after it received notice from the I. O. C. J. W. Rangell, a director of the Bank of Finland, is its president. A sub sports committee is headed by Urho Kekkonen, the Minister of the Interior and an ex-national champion, and a sub general committee by Eric Frenckell, a director of the city of Helsingfors.

The ticket distribution will not be on a season basis such as at Los Angeles and Berlin but will be separate for every performance. This will permit a total of 1,900,000 spectators if different persons go each time. Only half of the Olympic Stadium seats have been reserved for the Finns, the other half being for foreign visitors. Ticket prices will range from less than $5 to less than 20 cents.

Pennant for Cards Predicted by Rickey

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 26—Branch Rickey walked right out on the proverbial limb that broke with him last year by boldly predicing today that the St. Louis Cardinals will win their next National League pennant not later than next season.

Perhaps they might win it this year, he added.

"We are on the verge of another championship," Rickey said in glowing terms at a beach dinner party he gave for the players.

"We have problems now, and they are centered chiefly on the infield, where first base alone is secure. Whether we are to solve these problems this year I don't know, and so I say we may win the pennant this year or we may finish seventh.

"We cannot finish last, but we may finish seventh.

"However, I repeat that we are on the verge of another championship and that we will win our pennant not later than 1940."

Last Spring General Manager Rickey gave the baseball world something to talk about by declaring that the Cards of 1938, barring the pitching, were the best in twelve years. The team then proceeded to finish sixth.

Now Rickey forecasts a flag by 1940 in an address which again proves he not only is a brilliant and eloquent orator but a courageous one.

MACK DREAMS OF DEVELOPING CHAMPIONS

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 22—Rocking placidly on the porch of an ancient hotel here is that kindly old gentleman of baseball, Connie Mack, dreaming his dreams of other years, before millionaires and wealthy merchants took over the game he loves and left him holding the sack.

His eyes as keen and blue as ever under their snowy brows, he tells you he is building up another team, one that in time may recapture the glory of the old Philadelphia Athletics. But it seems that he talks with just a shade less assurance than a year ago. The writer thinks Connie realizes now that he has wrecked one too many teams, and that he'll never wave his famous scorecard in another World Series.

Up in his seventies, Connie finds himself without a ball club, and with no real prospects of building another pennant contender. He has built up no farm system like most of his rivals possess, and he no longer can reach down and buy up a batch of great players like he once did. Every avenue has been closed to him and he knows it.

Not, mind you, that he will admit it for a minute. Connie still insists that the woods are full of fine young players, only waiting to be found. In fact, he says there are more of them than ever. But he's bound to be aware by this time that the big chains—the Yankees, the Cards, the Giants and the others—have the promising young stars of the country indexed right down to their choice of movie stars.

Connie bought that last great team he had, the one "Pepper" Martin of the Cardinals stampeded in the 1931 World Series. He paid a big price for such players as Bob Grove, Rube Walberg, George Earnshaw, Max Bishop, Jimmy Dykes, Mickey Cochrane and the others. Jimmy Foxx was about the only member of that team who was discovered and developed by Mr. Mack.

When he was through with them, Connie sold them at even a greater price, the Red Sox being his best customers. He won three championships with them and made money on the re-sale. The bulk of that money must still be in the Athletics' treasury, so it's not as though Connie couldn't afford to buy himself another team. He's far from an object of charity. He simply can't buy that sort of players any more. They're all bespoken by one of his more foresighted rivals.

Rocking on the same veranda with Connie, and full of good, bracing food, are a couple score of the young men he is working with. Among them are perhaps a half-dozen big league ball players. Bob Johnson, Wally Moses and Lou Finney, for instance, form an outfield trio that several American League teams would love to have, especially Detroit. But outside of that the team strictly is eighth place.

There's no hope for its pitching, outside of Lynn Nelson and George Caster. The catching is extremely sketchy, if at all, and the infield lost it's guiding light when Bill Werber was sold to Cincinnati last week. Connie's only important purchase during the Winter was Bill Lillard, a shortstop for whom he shelled out a reported $30,000 to San Francisco. He got all but $5,000 of that back on the Werber sale.

BRITISH KING TO BE INVITED TO N.Y. RACES

By BRYAN FIELD

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Mar. 24—The King and Queen of England are to be invited to attend the New York races on the occasion of their visit to the World's Fair this Summer, it became known at the Jockey Club yesterday where the stewards held one of their periodical meetings.

It is well known by Jockey Club members that the plans of the King and Queen usually are made long in advance, down to the smallest detail, but it was felt by the racing leaders that courtesy, and a deep interest which the King has in the sport made it desirable to extend the invitation.

The present Duke of Windsor and former King attended the races at Belmont Park in 1923 when Zev faced Papyrus in the famous special event. Many of America's turf leaders race their horses and William Woodward, chairman of the Jockey Club, has in Foxborough the current favorite for the Epsom Derby.

IN THE BEST OF SPIRITS

Mr. Woodward yesterday made his first appearance since his recent illness and was congratulated on all sides. He is leaner, looks fitter, and was in the best of spirits.

He and his fellow stewards, John E. Cowdin, George H. Bull, H. W. Maxwell, A. H. Morris and Walter Jeffords, put in a hard day's work. Mr. Jeffords acted in the absence of Joseph E. Widener. A total of 127 licenses for trainers was approved, this being a record number for any one meeting. In addition the applications of fourteen riders were approved, that of Don Meade not being in the number. He has made no application as yet to ride in New York.

The matter of the invitation yesterday caused more than a little scratching of heads as to the proper form. No one, even in the august Jockey Club, had ever extended a formal invitation of a public nature to a king. Finally the British Consulate was called upon, developing the fact that correct procedure provided that the invitation should be sent to the British Ambassador at Washington.

OFFICIALS ARE NAMED

Other business transacted was the approval of the Delaware race dates, May 30 to July 4, which are under Jockey Club jurisdiction, and the approval of officials for that meeting. The Jockey Club representatives who will serve in the stewards' stand during the five metropolitan meetings are George H. Bull, P. A. B. Widener, H. W. Maxwell, A. H. Morris and F. S. von Stade, respectively, for Jamaica, Belmont, Aqueduct, Empire City and Saratoga.

Licenses were granted as follows:

'IT MUST BE LOVE,' SAYS CAMERA

Before Len Harvey steeled himself to knock out Larry Gains of Canada, to win the vacant British Empire heavyweight title at the Harringay Arena, London, March 16th, the two boys engaged in a bit a waltzing, which was captured by the camera in this unusual shot. Larry, the negro boy, seems quite overcome by emotion as his arms steal gently around the willing, and resting Len.

MCCARTHY'S METHOD OF TRAINING STRONG FACTOR IN YANKS' SUCCESS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 29—When Bill Dickey came into the Yankee dugout and began to buckle on his shinguards, Lou Gehrig looked over at him and said, jestingly:

"Why, Bill! You don't mean to tell me you're really going to catch a ball game? I thought you were just down here for a vacation."

Marse Joe McCarthy grinned and took over the conversation from that point.

"Well, you see, said Marse Joe, "you have to train these ball players differently. Now, Gehrig and fellows like that they need to take off some weight and they have to work themselves into shape. Dickey's one of those skinny fellows. You have to hold him back from running down to skin and bones. Gomez—you've got to hold him back, too. If I worked Dickey and Gomez down here the way I work some of these big fellows they'd be burnt out before we reached the Yankee Stadium."

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

"Then there's another thing," went on Marse Joe. "Who's going to do all my catching next Summer? Dickey. All right. If I start him with all these exhibitions games down here, carrying that heavy harness and running around on these sandy diamonds, well, it would make it a long, hard year for him. And Bill's one of my big bets. I can't waste him. I just give him enough work so that he'll be in shape for opening day. I'm not going to kill my good pitchers down here, either. Gomez and Ruffing—they'll be carrying us in July, August and September—I'm not going to make them carry us through this league.

"But you take fellows like—well, Red Rolfe will do as an example. Of course, he's late reporting this year, but that won't make any difference. He'll go in there and play a lot and look perefectly terrible, as usual. He has to work himself into shape and you have to use him as much as you can. Anybody seeing Rolfe down here wouldn't give you a nickel for him. They'd say a fellow who looked like that wouldn't be worth his pancakes and coffee in a Class D league.

"Well, I don't know whether it bothers Rolfe or not, but it never bothers me, because I know the boy—know how he works—know what he can do—and will do when the bell rings. But it's the same old story down here—he can't throw—he can't hit—he boots the ball around. But when things count up there in the pennant race—well, tell me where a manager would find a better third baseman?"

ON THE IRON HORSE

"For that matter," continued the Yankee manager, "Gehrig is like Rolfe. He needs a lot of work—and usually he looks bad down here. Kicks the ball around—can't get the ball off the handle of his bat——falls away from a pay-off ball through the middle.

"Well, what of it? Just look over his record. Why should I sit up nights worrying about the way Lou is looking down here? All I've got to do is look at the record book and turn over and go to sleep.

"I like to win—I'd like to win every ball game we play. I don't enjoy it when Lou messes up a double-play grounder or pops up with the bases loaded. I know how the fans feel, too. They say 'Is that the great Gehrig we read so much about? Why, he's a bust.' It's no fun seeing or hearing things like that. But you've got to remember that we're here to get the club in shape and that's the only way we can do it. We've got to keep men like Gehrig and Rolfe in there and though it would look better from the fellows like Dickey out of there, grandstands for the time being if we just reversed the system.

"Combs and Lazzeri—there were two more fellows I had to keep out. You had to nurse Pennock. But the Gehrigs, Rolfes and DiMaggios, you have to keep them working."

A FIELDING PROGRAM

"By the way," said Marse Joe, "we lost a ball game to St. Louis the other day on a play we practice all year. Yes, sir, a pitcher going over to cover first base. It was Beggs who didn't make the play the other day. But I'm glad it happened, because it proves again just how important that play is.

"You see, Gehrig went after the ball and didn't get it, but Gordon came up with it—and Beggs didn't get over to cover in time and we lost the game. We've drilled our pitchers down here on that play and we drill them all through the season. Do you know, we won two world series games with that play.

"Yes, Sir, Pearson made two of those plays in world series games against the Giants—one in 1937 and one the year before. One game was at the Polo Grounds and the other at the Stadium. If he didn't make those plays the chances are that we'd have lost both games.

"Why, when Pearson pitched that no-hit game against Cleveland at the Stadium last Summer he made two of those plays in the first inning—two corkers."

ABOUT JOE GALLAGHER

"I hear the Red Sox think pretty well of Ted Williams," said Marse Joe, switching to a different field. "Well, he led Joe Gallagher in batting average, but he was in a short park— a short right field, anyway—and if they switched parks I figure Gallagher would look better in the averages. And Gallagher is faster and has a better arm.

"That Williams is a nice hitter, all right. Takes a good cut. But when you figure out the parks they played in I still think it makes our man look like the better hitter and I'm pretty well satisfied he's got Williams on speed and throwing. Joe's a boy from my home town, you know. They're all rooting for him up there. If Gallagher makes good on a team managed by McCarthy, maybe they wont be asking so often 'What became of the Irishmen in baseball?'"

GOOD TIMES REGISTERED IN SWIMS

Some exceptionally good times were registered Thursday afternoon in races against time as the second training period for candidates for the men's Olympic swimming team came to a close at the Tokyo Imperial University's indoor pool. The workouts began on April 5 with between 60 and 70 swimmers in action daily.

Tetsuo Hamuro, Olympic 200-meter breaststroke champion who returned recently from a trip to the Philippines, swam the distance in the fast time of 2 minutes 41.8 seconds.

Shigeo Arai of Rikkyo University, national 100 and 200-meter freestyle champion, negotiated the century in 58.4 seconds.

Yasuhiko Kojima of Keio splashed through the tank in the 100-meter backstroke in 1 minute 9.4 seconds.

Tomikatsu Amano of Nihon University, who last year broke Arne Borg's 11 year standing record in the 1,500-meter distance, was unable to register better than a slow 5 minutes 32.8 seconds in the 400-meter freestyle. Suffering from appendicitis shortly after his return recently from Manila, he had little time to train.

Best time in the 200-meter freestyle was registered by Kiichi Yoshida, Waseda's well-known backstroke swimmer, in 2 minutes 18.6 seconds. He seems to be attempting to do what Adolf Kiefer, world's backstroke champion, has been doing in freestyle competition.

Todomu Baba of Nihon University swam the 400-meter in the freestyle in 5 minutes 5.4 seconds for the day's best time.

Today marked the opening of the group training of Olympic water polo candidates at the Teidai pool to continue to the end of the month daily.

Group training for women swimmers will start at the Prefectural Girls Sixth Higher School on Sunday.

JACOBS THINKS TELEVISION WILL HELP BOXING

NEW YORK, April 9—Mike Jacobs, the leading American fight promotor, is much impressed by news which has just reached his ears about the stunt recently carried out in England of televising the Eric Boon-Arthur Danahar fight to people outside the stadium, when a sell-out prevented more from attending the bout.

He considers that television opens up some interesting possibilities for fights of the future, and believes that it will bring "gates" of anywhere from five to ten milion dollars.

After hearing of the success of the English stunt, Mike repaired to the National Broadcasting Company's television headquarters in the Empire State Building to investigate the new wireless wonder. He came away much impressed.

He told members of the press today that the way he "doped it out," big championship fights, when television comes in in this country, will be held in small halls, seating between 2,000 and 5,000 people.

"Tickets will be $1,000 each," he explained, adding "don't laugh. Experience shows there are enough folks who want to be seen at the ringside to grab up that many tickets at any price.

MILLION DOLLARS

"That will be a million dollars or more right there. Then we can get together with the broadcasting company and arrange some kind of plan like that one in England—charge each theater for television privileges.

"Suppose, for argument, we should charge a theater $1,000 to receive the television broadcast like they did over there, and suppose four or five thousand theaters took it.

"Figure it out for yourself. Then there are the regular radio broadcasting rights, too. They will bring a nice piece of change. And so will the movie newsreel privileges."

"And as for you fight writers," concluded Jacobs, "those covering these blue ribbon shows will get for admission a solid gold badge, worth maybe a hundred dollars."

"Yeah, Uncle Mike," chimed in one sportswriter, "but you'd better give us tickets too, because by the day of the fight every one of those badges will be in the pawn shop."—

Waseda Nine Favored To Down Hosei Saturday

Waseda and Hosei will make their debut Saturday in the Spring season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league which got under way last week. They will clash in the first game of a doubleheader at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Because it is a better hitting team, Waseda is slightly favored to win.

Meiji, out to win its 82th straight championship, will take on Rikkyo in the second game. If Southpaw Shimizu is in form, Meiji should win. In his debut for the season last Sunday, he had little speed and was knocked out by the lowly Tokyo Imperial University team.

On Sunday, Meiji and Rikkyo are scheduled to play in the curtain-raiser starting at 12:30 p.m.

NELSON BEATS HORTON SMITH BY 2 STROKES

N.Y. Times

PINEHURST, N. C., March 23—Coming within one stroke of the record for the tournament, Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., won the annual seventy-two-hole North and South open golf championship over the No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club today with a score of 280. He was the only contestant to crack par on every round.

Nelson, 1937 American Ryder Cup team member, entered the last two rounds today with 71, 68—139 and shot a 70 in the morning and 71 on the final eighteen holes.

Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., finished in second place, two strokes behind Nelson. He posted 68 and 72 today.

CLOSE AFTER FIFTY-FOUR HOLES

At the completion of fifty-four holes, Nelson maintained a one-shot advantage over the field with a total of 209. Smith's 68 gave him 201 and Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., followed with a 7 for 211. Their nearest rival at this stage was four shots back of Snead.

The best card of the day was credited to Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., who posted 34, 33—67. He scored a 71 in the afternoon for an aggregate of 287. Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., who won the event last year with a record-breaking 278, was far back with a total of 297, his rounds today being 74 and 76.

Tied for third place at 286 in the final standing were Snead and Dick Metz of Chicago. Wood, Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Harry Cooper of Chicopee, Mass., trailed with 287 each. The Hershey professional was the only player besides Smith and Wood to better 70 today. He had a 69 this morning.

COOPER GOES INTO SLUMP

Entering the final day's play only one stroke behind Nelson, Cooper eliminated himself by taking a 75 and completed the tourney with a par 72.

Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., the P. G. A. champion, improved considerably with a pair of 71's for a total of 291, which placed him in a tie with Sam Byrd of Philadelphia and Gene Sarazen, former United States open, British open and P. G. A. ruler. Sarazen posted a 73, then a 71.

Ralph Guldahl of Madison, N. J., 1937 and 1938 American open champion, finished with 297.

BRUNDAGE URGES JAPAN TO SEND OLYMPIC TEAMS

The hope that Japan would send athletic delegations to the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki and the 5th Olympic Winter Games at San Moritz next year was expressed by Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee and member of the International Olympic Committee, before he and Mrs. Brundage said farewell to Tokyo on Thursday.

Mr. Brundage stressed the importance of Japan in continuing without a break her participation in the Olympic Games since her first entry in 1912. He pointed out that the United States would dispatch a giant delegation of about 400 persons to Helsinki.

In his farewell message, Mr. Brundage expressed complete satisfaction with the high caliber of amateur spirit in Japan. By his observation of the training of the Japanese athletes, he said he saw the secret to their brilliant success in the Olympic Games. He predicted added triumphs for Japan in other sports than those in which they have already won world honors.

The attention paid to the development of sports was interpreted by Mr. Brundage as one of the principal contributory factors to the nation's great development in other fields of activity.

The Brundages spent Thursday night at Hankone and were expected to go to the Kansai today, where Mr. Brundage will make an inspection of sports facilities and meet sports leaders before embarkation on the Suwa Maru from Kobe on April 27. He is en route to London to attend the general meeting there of the International Olympic Commitee in June.

GIANTS LOSE TO ATHLETICS IN EXHIBITION

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

BATON ROUGE, La., March 23—Playing their concluding engagement with the Athletics today, the Giants for the second successive afternoon were able to draw comfort only from what the future may hold in store for them.

They lost the ball game again, this time by a score of 9 to 7, and with this went all the margin they had gained on their American League rivals when their exhibition campaign began. The four-game series with the Mackmen ends with each side in possession of two victories.

However, to soften the blow of this second straight reversal, Bill Terry had the eminent satisfaction of seeing two more of his front-line moundsmen, Cliff Melton and Harry Gumbert, turn on six more rounds of gilt-edged pitching to match those of yesterday by Carl Hubbell and Hal Schumacher.

DOUBLE PLAY ERASES PASS

Melton in his three innings held the Mackmen hitless and runless, gave one pass and wiped that off with a double play, so that only nine men faced him. Gumbert in the next three frames allowed one hit, a triple by Sam Chapman, and a lone run.

It was on young John Wittig that the Athletics concentrated their batting power in the closing three rounds to stalk off with the game. The Giant regulars, in fact, had built what promised to be a comfortable 4—1 lead when the Mackmen suddenly broke loose from their bonds and battered Wittig in quite lively fashion.

Aided by a pair of homers by Bill Nagel and Earle Brucker, the American Leaguers tallied twice in the seventh, five times in the eighth and once more in the ninth.

NELSON ROUTED IN EIGHTH

The best the Giant jayvees could do against this blazing stretch drive was to rout Lynn Nelson with three runs in the eighth. But then George Caster clapped down on them and the attack petered out.

The towering Melton was positively magnificent in his three innings. He retired the first three Mackmen on ground balls struck feebly down the pitching runway. He walked Bob Johnson in the second, after which came two more slaps to the mound which Melton handled without a slip, the second tap being converted into a double play.

Against Gumbert, Chapman with his triple in the sixth was the only Mackman to get on base. He scored on a sacrifice fly.

DOUBLES WITH INFIELD IN

The usually observant Giants apparently forgot which league they were opposing in the eighth when, with Mackmen on first and second and Pitcher Nelson at bat, they confidently moved in for a bunt. Great, therefore, was their consternation when Nelson teed off with a double to right.

The first head to fall in Terry's annual Spring pruning was that of Tom Winsett, who was sold outright to Jersey City. Tom's last official act for the Giants was an infield pop-up as pinch hitter in the ninth.

Varsity League to Keep Czech Minister's Trophy

The perpetual Czechoslovakian Minister's Trophy presented each season to the winner of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league will not be at stake in the current Spring season of the circuit but will be kept permanently in the trophy room of the Federation at the Marunouchi Building.

Because of Germany's annexation of Bohemia and Moravia, putting an end to the Czechoslovakia State, considerable interest had been shown in the disposition of the Czechoslovakian Trophy.

FELLER STILL IS ANNOYING TO GIANTS

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

NEW ORLEANS, March 26—Bob Feller, Cleveland's pride and joy, today put his gifted talents on display for the first time against the Giants this year and, so far as the Terrymen could make out, the young man is still a great source of annoyance to them.

Feller literally shoved a run on them with a couple of passes, fanned four and held them to a lone single in five innings. Then the Iowa pitching prodigy stalked off the field amid the plaudits of 4,500 onlookers who, after the second frame, spent forty-five minutes seeking shelter from an itinerant thunderstorm.

But once the rain, as well as Feller, passed, the Giants returned to the business of making life pretty miserable for Ossie Vitt's Indians by walloping the Tribe for the second successive afternoon, 7 to 4. Incidentally, it marked the eighth straight victory for the Giants over their American League rivals in these Spring exhibitions.

LOBS BALL ACROSS PLATE

By way of giving further embellishment to the triumph there again was six brilliant innings of pitching by Terry's two ace left-handers Carl Hubbell and Cliff Melton. Hubbell, unmindful of the 45-minute interruption after the second, hurled three hitless and scoreless innings in which he scarcely seemed to do more than lob the ball across the plate. Then before retiring from the conflict, he stung Feller for the only Giant hit off the Indians' prize infant.

Melton literally blazed through the final three rounds and, though he allowed three singles, was so overpowering it took all of three errors to enable the Tribe to score one run.

Manuel Salvo burled the middle three innings and stumbled for three runs in the fifth when a costly error by George Myatt shoved him into a deep hole.

A TYPICAL EXHIBITION

Feller, for his part, gave one of his typical exhibitions. He passed the first two Giants, allowed Myatt and Burges Whitehead to spring a double steal and saw the former score on an infield out. But after that Bob did high grade work for his five innings. Aside from Hub's single in the third and a pass to Zeke Bonura in the fourth, no other Giants reached first.

A four-run rally off Tom Drake in the seventh clinched the battle for the Terrymen. Whitehead's second single of the day along with a line single by Bonura with the bases full provided the highlights of this decisive attack. Zeke to date is batting .522 and has driven in thirteen runs in nine games.

CARLETON STILL LEARNING

Tex Carleton, former Card and Cub right-hander, who was shunted off to the minors the past Winter, passed through here today on his way to report to the Milwaukee Brewers in Florida.

"Well, I'm back in the minors," was Tex's cheerful comment, "but I'm still learning. Because I didn't show up at once they wired me, 'You are indefinitely suspended without pay.' I replied that if I'd known they pay salaries in the minors for Spring training I would have reported at once."

Hubbell appeared to be in slight difficulties in the third until Feller obligingly got himself trapped off third. But if young Bob looked a bit foolish on being caught sound asleep he had some excuse. His manager, directly behind him on the coaching liness, was positively snoring.

LABRADORS WIN PRIZES FOR RETRIEVERS

By HENRY R. ILSLEY

N.Y. Times

SANDS POINT, L. I., March 26—Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Belmont appropriated the prizes today in the amateur all-age stake of the field trial meeting for all retriever breeds on the estates of Mrs. William Guggenheim and W. Averell Harriman.

Mrs. Belmont's Labradors quite "wiped the eyes" of all other contestants in the second Jay F. Carlisel Memorial trial under the auspices of the Labrador Retriever Club. She gained first place with Echo of Arden and third with Gorse of Arden, both bred by Mr. Harriman.

Mr. Belmont came in for fourth money with his Chesapeake Bay, Blemton Just Ted. The only placing out of the Belmont family was second, which was awarded to the Labrador Meadow Farm Night, owned by Charles L. Lawrance of East Islip.

Certificates of merit were given to Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Milbank of New York for their noted bench winner, Earlsmoor Moor of Arden, handled by Dr. Milbank; Middlecote Endeavor, owned and handled by Franklin B. Lord of New York, and Jericho Paul, owned and handled by Dr. Inglis F. Frost.

SPECTATORS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

The second and final day of the Spring meeting was far more interesting than the first. Most of the dogs competing today had started in the open event yesterday. They had behind them a full day of competition and were keener in every department of field trial work. Moreover, there was an enthusiastic crowd that put the amateurs on the toes of their hunting boots, and the spirit seemed infectious.

Furthermore, there was variety, as the puppies ran in the first event on the day's card. They were under the handicap of dense fog, which almost blotted out the landscape in the upland work, and in the water ducks were quite out of sight a few fathoms off the beach.

Only two puppies figured and they were outstanding. First and second prizes, respectively, were earned by Landorwater Rip Tide and Landorwater Marker, both owned and handled by C. Arthur Smith of Oyster Bay.

These two Chesapeake Bay puppies, which will not be a year old until May 10, are litter brothers by Smith's Flood Tide Pete and out of the noted Princess Anne. They did everything that could have been asked of youngsters in the way of marking, speed, handling and latent ability. They are puppies of the greatest promise and surely will be heard from later.

BIRD WORK IS GOOD

Echo of Arden, with Mrs. Belmont on the end of the lead, was the last dog down this morning in the first series of the amateur all-age stake. She did everything that could have been asked with her single bird.

She clinched her place for the final test in the water by her work in the second series during the afternoon in the upland work. She marked her first bird and brought it to hand.

Her second was a running hen pheasant which she had to go after. The judges, Mrs. Walton Ferguson Jr. of Camden, S. C., and Francis J. Squires of Norwood, Mass., let her go on, and when she came in to deliver to hand faultlessly it did not seem possible that she could be defeated, barring a contretemps in the water. Then, when it came to the water, the bitch made good with her two ducks.

She is by the famous imported champion Drinkstone of Pons of Wingan, her dam being Babe of Arden. She was bred by Mr. Harriman and was whelped Sept. 17, 1934.

President Lawrance of the Labrador Retriever Club was ill and unable to see his Meadow Farm Night run. The dog was handled by Robert Morgan, who bred him, he being by Champion Banchory Varnish and out of Cheverell Diana. Gores of Arden is by Champion Chesacroft Newt and out of Chesacroft Gypsy.

Scent held well throughout the upland work, which greatly appreciated by the crowd.

KOBE QUINTET BEATEN, 30-22 IN SHANGHAI

N.C.D.N.,

SHANGHAI, April 9—The Canadian Academy basketball team of Kobe suffered its first defeat at the hands of Chinan Middle School, champions of the S.A.S. Invitation Basketball League, in the School gymnasium last night by a score of 30-22. The visitors started the game with an enviable record of three straight victories but had to bow in defeat to a faster and more elusive Chinese team.

Throughout the contest the winners kept the upperhand. The boys from Chinan displayed fine form and handled the ball well. The beginning saw Chinan score a foul shot and then a field basket by Chow and Wong respectively. Shively countered the Academy's first goal with a beautiful toss. Johnny Clark, the captain and star guard, converted a foul throw to tie the score.

Liu broke away following a series of short passes to tally a sitter. Yui registered the next basket but before the first eight minutes concluded Eugene Clark gained a foul shot to make the score read 7-4.

Ahrens opened scoring for the Kobe side with a shot via the foul line. Liu netted from the side of the floor and as the visitors rallied Chinan broke down to allow Kawajee and Johnny Clark to sink two baskets in a row. The latter increased the margin to 10-8 with a foul shot.

Calling time-out, Chinan talked things over. On the resumption the Chinese regained the advantage by scoring half a dozen points and led by 14-10 at half-time.

The start of the second half saw Chinan continue to dominate. Playing a smooth passing game, the boys found numerous openings and within this quarter of eight minutes succeeded in building up a comfortable lead of 23-15. Every member of the team participated in the scoring.

Liu, playing left-forward, was outstanding. In spite of his lack of height, he accounted for four field goals and two foul shots. Yui, right-forward, also did well. Besides making three goals, he had Johnny Clark well marked. The Academy star was able to tally but four goals.

VISITORS BEAT GIANTS

The Giants proved too small for the Canadian Academy in their game last Thursday at the Foreign Y.M.C.A. and lost by a big margin of 38 to 17.

Shively and Johnny Clark were the chief scorers, the former getting six field goals and the latter obtaining five. The game started with the Giants losing a 4-0 lead through fouls. At the end of the first quarter the visitors were ahead by 8-6. When half-time arrived the score stood at 18-11.

S.A.S. DEFEATED

Playing their second game against the Shanghai American School, the Kobe team again relied upon Shively and Johnny Clark to do most of the scoring, winning by 39 to 33.

The School team fought with dogged determination and started off successfully to gain an advantage of 6-0 when goals were scored by Jorgensen and Freeman. The visitors called time-out and managed to catch up. The Schoolboys played a fast game, using short passing to good advantage and led at half-time by 14-13.

FRED PERRY SEES DAVIS CUP TO AUSTRALIA

NEW YORK April 4—Frederick J. Perry, now engaged in a series of professional matches with Donald Budge, predicts that the United States will lose the Davis Cup to Australia this year.

"Budge's loss to the American team," said Perry in an interview with the press, "makes Australia the favorite. Last year the United States could count on two matches before the play began, just as England could before her. Now it's Australia that can count on two.

"I can't see John Bromwich of Australia losing either of his matches. He should be the world's amateur champion in 1939. I don't believe Bobby Riggs can beat him. Riggs is like Bunny Austin. His game is to attack his opponent's backhand. Against an opponent with a strong backhand, like Budge for instance, he doesn't do so well.

"Bromwich won't give Riggs a weakness on the backhand. He shifts his racquet to the left hand and has a forehand on each side. Whoever is the United States' second singles player, I can't see him defeating Bromwich, so Australia can count pretty much on two matches to begin with. That is a big mental handicap for the other team."

Perry predicted that either Germany or Yugoslavia would win in the European Zone, and said that he had had a letter from Roderich Menzel, saying that he would play for Germany now, instead of for Czechoslovakia.

New Breaststroke Mark

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 20—Patty Aspinwall, 12-year-old Indianapolis Athletic Club acquatic star, set a new American senior women's record for the 300-yard breaststroke in a meet at the I. A. C. pool here last night.

Patty, who is being groomed for the 1940 Olympic trials, was timed in 4m. 30.5s. for the distance by five stop-watches. Paul Jordan, Chairman of the Records Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union was present also.

The previous American record of 4m. 37.2s. was set by Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson at Miami, Fla., in 1932.

Nanking Would Hold Far Eastern Olympics

Revival of the Far Eastern Olympic Games has been proposed by the New China Athletic Association of Nanking, according to a Domei dispatch.

It is expected that the Association will approach the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation on the subject toward realization.

The plans would include Japan, Manchoukuo and China as the nucleus with invitations sent to the Philippines, Siam and India.

Skating Federation Set on Sending Team to San Moritz

The All-Japan Skating Federation at its meeting of national representatives on Sunday afternoon at the Chuotei Restaurant in Marunouchi is expected to adopt a resolution strongly urging the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation to send a team to the 5th Olympic Winter Games scheduled at San Moritz next year.

Meanwhile the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation is expected to make a definite announcement next month in connection with participation in the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki and the Winter Games at San Moritz.

Means to popularize figure skating will be one of the chief items on the agenda at Sunday's meeting.

BUDGE, PERRY, VINES MAY PLAY HERE IN 1940

The world's three greatest professional tennis players—Ellsworth Vines, Fred Perry and J. Donald Budge—may be seen in action in Japan either in March or May next year, according to a letter Vines has written to the Yomiuri Shimbun.

Together with Bill Tilden, Vines performed at the Yomiuri stadium at Denyenchofu two years ago and amazed Tokyo tennis fans with his bullet service.

Vines, who was reported several months ago as having quit professional tennis to turn his attention solely to golf, wrote the Yomiuri not only has he no intention of retiring soon but with Perry and Vines, he would go on a world tour, starting play in England.

After winding up their exhibition tour in the United States in April, the three players would go to London early in May and while there, with Tilden and others, participate in a world's professional championship tournament at the famous Wembley stadium. All four have made history at the Wimbledon championships and it is expected that they should attract a record crowd to the matches.

After exhibitions in the various cities in Europe, Vines, Perry and Budge plan to go to South Africa in October. Thence, they will go to India and to Australia in February next year. Their itinerary will then take them to Manila, Hongkong and Shanghai. Vines wrote they expected to be in Japan either during the latter part of March or early in April on their way back to the United States.

Vines had much praise for Budge in his letter, describing him as one of the world's greatest players. He also predicted that their exhibitions would do much to encourage all tennis players.

LOUIS, GALENTO TO BE 'LOADED' FOR THE KILL

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Apr. 6—Joe Louis and Two-Ton Tarzan Galento won't use blackjacks on each other when they tangle up for the world heavyweight championship in June, but they might just as well, for two good punchers are going to be in there against each other this time with their hands virtually "loaded" for the kill. The loading is going to be quite in order, under the rules of the boxing commission.

They can't use plaster of Paris or lead in their bandages to obtain a little extra oomph either, this being prohibited along with the blackjacks, sashweights, handy lengths of lead pipe and other such blunt instruments. However, they will be given almost unrestricted use of handwrapping and they ought to succeed in knocking some feathers off each other. Not only feathers, but some pieces of pelt, too.

Champion J. Dark Destroyer Louis hasn't met a good puncher since the commission amended its rules to permit 10 yards of two inch gauze and six feet of 1½ inch surgeon's tape on each hand. But he is meeting a good thumper now in the person of old Tarzan, even if the latter can't fight much, and neither of them will be pulling any punches. The thing ought to be interesting no end, once they begin cracking down and especially so, if old Tarzan can manage somehow to lay one on the champion's notoriously weak chin.

WHAT RULES STIPULATE

Until the Fall of 1936, bandages were limited to six feet (not yards) per hand and two feet of tape. This then was changed to seven feet (not yards) and the same two feet of tape. Last September another amendment was deemed necessary with the resultant regulation for 10 yards (yes, 30 feet) of bandage and six feet (instead of two) of tape.

A better idea would be to let them fight it out in a telephone booth with hachets.

The rules say, of course, that the reinforcements shouldn't be placed directly over the knuckles and everybody agrees that too much wrapping might be a handicap instead of vice versa. But all I know about it is that Jack Blackburn of the champion's stable of advisers and Muscle Jacobs, Galento's brain, will not be at a loss to utilize the equipment at hand to best advantage.

When those properly bandaged and taped hands are clinched into fists, drawing that liberal covering snug and taut, they will be a pair of weapons stout enough to ram bricks out of a wall. All this should be all right with Galento for, despite his lack of artistry, he probably hits as hard with a left hook as Louis himself.

Briefly, this amendment to the regulations about to be tested for the first time, should contribute to a sudden termination of the festivities—perhaps bringing the finish down to a punch or two.

Nan Juitsu, 28, of the Keijo Electricity Company, whose record of 97.5 kilograms in the two-hands military press in the featherweight class for weight-lifting, established in the Third All-Japan championships in December last year, was recently recognized by the International Weight-Lifting Association in Paris as a new world record. The former record was 96.5 kilograms established by George Liebsch of Germany in 1937.

INDIANS AGAIN QUESTION MARK IN 1939 RACE

By WILLIAM G. GAUDET

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 5—Always a team of great potentialities which, unfortunately, never have been quite realized, Cleveland's 1939 edition is again the big question mark of the American league.

If Oscar Vitt, now in his sophomore year as manager, can find the solution to a couple of pressing problems, the tribe may go places this year. Or it may be a repetition of last year when the Indians set the pennant race until well past the Fourth of July only to fade in the stretch.

A chipped bone in the pitching arm of eccentric Johnny Allen was the main cause of that mid-Summer collapse. Today, however, Vitt and trainer Max Weisman are agreed that Allen now is well on the road to complete recovery.

As yet Johnny hasn't put his wing to a severe test. That will come soon. Right now Allen has contented himself with brief limbering up exercises and feels no really bad effects up to this point.

Problem number two concerns itself with the much discussed second base spot. The big hope is that Sammy Hale will be fast enough to fill the bill. Next in line is a promising rookie, Ray Mack, up from Fargo, N.D., and of him Vitt said:

"He looks like a kid who can hit, field and run."

Vitt thinks he has another budding star in Lou Boudreau, the university of Chicago third baseman and also visioned future greatness for a couple of New Orleans rookies—particularly outfielder Clarence Campbell of Tarboro, N.C., and Mel Hoppe, an envangeline league southpaw.

NEW RULE WILL HELP BOB

Talk veered to husky Bob Feller, the Van Meter, Iowa, speed-ball sensation. Feller did not flash his best form last year, but Vitt is of the opinion that 1939 should see Bob blazing them by hitters at a merry clip. Vitt thinks the new rule permitting a pitcher to place only one foot on the rubber before making his delivery a distinct advantage to Feller.

"Bob always did sort of step back off the mound now the extra leeway will certainly help him," Vitt said.

Feller himself was optimistic, stying: "My old soup-bone is okay and the couple of season must surely have added to my experience."

Asked to name a probable starting lineup for the made scramble to overhaul the ruthless Yankees, Vitt said:

"Your guess is good as mine. We have Lyn Lary at shortstop, Bruce Campbell, rightfield; Sam Hale, second bases; Jeff Field, left field; Earl Averil, center; Hal Trosky, first base; Ken Keltner, third base; Rollie Hemsley and Frank Pytlak, catchers, and Johnnie Humphries, Zuber, Milner, Harder, Hudlin, Allen and Feller as pitchers."

Cetrulo to Fence At 1904 Olympics

HANOVER, N. H., March 20—Diaz Cetrulo, captain of the Seton Hall College fencing team, will be a member of the United States 1940 Olympic team.

His selection was announced yesterday by Georgio Santelli, coach of the Olympic saber team, shortly after Seton Hall fencers won the Eastern Fencing Conference title for the second consecutive year. After an exhibition bout with Cetrulo, Santelli described him as "the outstanding collegiate fencer I have seen in many years."

In two days of competition at Dartmouth College, Seton Hall fencers amassed 101 points. Their nearest rivals were Dartmouth and William and Mary, tied for second place with 71½ points each. Dartmouth's score gave the Big Green the New England championship for the second year in a row.

Other point scores: Hofstra College 66½, Lehigh 64½, Panzer 61, University of North Carolina 59, Buffalo 56½, Long Island University 55½, Fordham 41, Norwich 39, Wagner 37, Bowdoin 36⅛, and Boston University 25½.

VANDER MEER CITES LUCK AS MAJOR FACTOR

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

TAMPA, Fla., Apr. 5—A pitcher has to be "darn lucky" to hurl a no-hit, no-run game.

So says John Vander Meer, southpaw star of the Cincinnati Reds. He should know. He pitched two no-hit, no-run games in succession last season—a feat never before accomplished in the history of base ball.

Chatting with young Vander Meer, as he took time out from practice with the Reds today, you were impressed first of all with his modesty.

"I'll probably never get another no-hitter," said Vander Meer. "I'm two up now."

The 24-year-old, unmarried ball player pitched the two consecutive no-hit games on June 11 last against Boston and on June 15 against Brooklyn, both games being played on the enemies' grounds.

"I didn't know I was nearing a no-hitter in the first game until the seventh inning," said Vander Meer. "I was pitching for a shutout. I always pitch for a shutout, rather than for a record.

KNEW IT FROM BEGINNING

"In the second game I was conscious of the situation from the very first inning. As inning by inning went by and I got by without Brooklyn making a hit I began to tighten up. Toward the end I was forcing, trying too hard. I walked three men in the ninth, you know."

Manager Bill McKechnie, one of the great veterans of the game, interjected a little inside talk into the discussion.

"In that first game in Boston I was fidgeting up and down the bench," related McKechnie. "I didn't know what made me nervous. I wasn't thinking about hits. I was thinking about the score and how to hold our lead. 'Spud' Davis turned to me in the ninth and said: 'Don't you know what is happening? The kid is pitching a no-hitter.' I really didn't know. He came through nicely.

"Then at a night game in Brooklyn four days later I started John again. This time I was aware from the first ball he pitched that he was going for a no-hitter. Everybody was wondering when, and if, they would get a hit off John. As inning by inning went by and the Dodgers didn't get the hit the tension became terrific. Even the Brooklyn fans were pulling madly for him. You should have seen us fellows on the bench.

WOULD HAVE 'SHOT' DUROCHER

"When John walked three men in the ninth, I ran out on the diamond and stopped the game. I said to John: 'let's cool off, John. The heck with a no-hitter. Be natural. Just fire that ball in there as you always do.

"There was one down. Koy hit to third for the second out. Up came Durocher, a tough man in a pinch. He belted a line drive but it was foul, with the count two and two. The strain was almost unbearable. Then he flied to center for the final out and John had his second straight no-hitter.

"Durocher told me later: "I never tried to make a hit so hard in my life.' I said: 'Leo, if you had made a hit that time I would have shot you.'"

POLO SEATS IN AMERICA TO BE SLASHED

NEW YORK, April 8—Polo, international competition's most expensive event and the Sport of Kings, will be staged this year at the lowest prices to the public in the history of the game.

This was revealed when Robert E. Strawbridge, Jr., chairman of the U.S. Polo Associatioin, announced the seat prices agreed upon for the Westchester Cup matches between Great Britain and the United States next June.

Reserved seat prices follow directly along the lines of the "polo for the public" campaign inaugurated last year at Meadow Brook's International Field, when the greatest crowds in history flocked to see the Open Championship.

For the International Cup play thousands of reserved seats will be placed at the disposal of the polo public at the price of $2.25 (approximately nine shillings) in the East Stand, and $3.30 (approximately 14/-) in the West Stand.

UP TO $7.75

Prices will grade upward to $7.75 (about 31/-) in the East Stand and to $11.00 (about £2-11-6) in the West Stand. As in former years, of course, mid-field boxes will be available to subscribers.

Orders for reserved seats are already pouring into the Head Office of the Polo Association in New York, not only from America but from England too.

In revealing the prices Mr. Strawbridge said:

"The most notable development in polo in many years has been the enthusiastic manner in which the general public seems finally to have discovered the spectacular thrills in the game.

"That was proved last Summer more than ever before. Although our international games with England have always attracted tremendous throngs, and would do so at almost any prices, the Polo Association is definitely committed to a 'polo for as many as possible,' and we have worked out our plans for the June series with that in mind.

"In a word, our idea is to keep faith with the people, who, in the last few seasons, have been supporting polo so regularly and enthusiastically at the gate."

Twinbill Scheduled By 'Big Six' on Tuesday

No games having been played on Saturday and Sunday because of rain, the Tokyo Six University Baseball league will stage a doubleheader on Tuesday at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

Meiji will take on Rikkyo in the first game at 12:30 p.m. and Waseda and Hosei will clash in the nightcap.

Waseda and Hosei were scheduled to meet this afternoon at 2:30.

Meiji and Rikkyo will end their series so far as the Spring season is concerned on Wednesday afternoon.

BETTER PITCHING EXPECTED TO AID ST. LOUIS CLUB

By DAVE PARK

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 5—Frank Shellenback is the key man of the St. Louis Browns and one of the leading reasons why the downtrodden Brownies expect to show improvement this season. Frank is the new coach, a comparative youngster for such a position, but he is long on experience.

Here at the training camp Shellenback is teaching promising rookie pitchers the secrets which enabled him to win 295 victories in the minors. Since he was a spitball hurler he never got to perform in any higher grouping than the Pacific Coast League because of the Major League ban on that pitch, but baseball fans in Hollywood can tell you about Shellenback as a pitcher. And fans in San Diego, where he was manager the past three seasons can tell you about him as a handler of the temperamental members of the tribe.

For years the Browns' pitching staff has varied from mediocre to terrible. Last year the club finished second in fielding and fourth in batting. It was the hurling that put them in seventh place. A 25 per cent improvement here is the outlook and packing that much difference the "other team" in St. Louis is likely to turn out to be "the team."

You can hand some credit to manager Fred Haney too. He is young, also knows how to handle men and is giving the youngsters a chance.

Pitchers Harry Kimberlin, Billtrotter, Bill Miller, Ewald Pyle and Louis Tost, all rookies, have been turning in creditable performances this Spring.

COLE BEST IN CAMP

Eddie Cole is the star hurler in training camp. The two other stars are Buck Newsom who won 20 and lost 16, and Howard Mills who won 10 and lost 12. They are down for regular assignments. Then there is Johnny Marcum who won 5 and lost 6 for the Red Sox and claims his arm is well again. He, Jimmy Walk- up and Russ Van Atta may get the call for other starting jobs.

Number one catcher is Joe Glenn, New York Yankee reserve backstop for the past few years; with Harold Spindel as understudy.

In the infield you can count on George Quinn to handle first without complaints. Last year he hit .326, which won't hurt if he can repeat. Harold Clift is guardian of the hot corner.

Around second the competition is tight. Don Heffner and Roy Hughes and shortstop Ralph Kress have a job holding the starting position there. Rookies are also working hard for those berths.

Additions to the outfield are Myril Hoag, another Yankee acquisition; Mel Almada, secured from Washington, and Joe Grace, who left Mehphis for St. Louis the latter part of the season. Other fly chasers are Beau Bell, who had his first mediocre year with the bat in 1938 and Mel Mazzera, a slugging lefthander.

AUSTRALIA HOPES TO WIN

LONDON, April 1 — Australia's team for this year's Davis Cup tournament, which Norman Brookes is certain will after twenty years, take the Cup back "down under," will consist of J. H. Crawford, A. K. Quist and J. Bromwich with H. C. Hopman as manager and captain.

Bromwich is the youngest member of the team, being twenty years of age, while Quist is 25, Crawford 30 and Hopman 33. The last-named will doubtless be called on in an emergency.

Crawford's inclusion is something of a "come back" for the former Wimbledon champion, who was not picked last year when Australia reached the challenge round.

America won that match, which was played at Philadelphia last September, by three matches to two. Australia's team on that occasion consisted only of Bromwich and Quist.

Bromwich recently succeeded Budge as Australian champion, by defeating Quist in the final of the men's singles championship at Melbourne in straight sets. Bromwich has been ranked No. 1 in Australia for the past two years.

Australia's first match in this campaign is against Mexico, whom they meet in the first round of the North-American zone.

A surprise omission from the team is that of J. M. Gilchrist, who has been playing with great success this Summer in Australia. The selectors apparently are again relying on experienced players in the tournament, as another young star, C. F. Long, of Victoria, is also omitted.

The Australian President, Norman Brookes, with characteristic boldness is reported to have said that the odds in favor of a Commonwealth victory are 3 to 1. This of course, is far too sanguine an estimate. It is not even 3 to 1 that Australia will survive the eliminating contest.

TIGERS, DODGERS HAVE LEADING ROOKIES ON ROLL

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Apr. 7—To make one of the best human interest stories ever to be enacted on the baseball diamond all we need is for rookie pitcher Fred Hutchinson of the Detroit Tigers to fail and rookie infielder Pete Reiser of the Brooklyn Dogers to succeed. That, too, would be a striking example of dame fortune at her wire-haired worst and also would prove all over again that the price tag attached to a ball player isn't always indicative of his true worth.

It may be that all this will be spoiled through the simple expedient of Hutchinson coming through as a Tiger and Reiser failing as a Dodger, but as of today the indications run lightly to the contrary, even admitting that Spring workouts do not make or break a star.

Briefly, Hutchinson is the most ballyhooed rookie to hit the big show since Bob Feller and his blazing fast ball joined the Cleveland Indians. Hutch won 27 games and lost only five with Seattle in the Pacific Coast league last season and, after being passed up by several major league clubs, was bought by the Tigers for $50,000 in cash and four players. He is 19 years old. Stands six feet, two and weighs 200 pounds.

Up to now his pitching for the Tigers in the Spring training games has been so bad that some observers wonder how he ever got into the park. He has plenty of control, but very little stuff, and has been belted freely. He may and probably will improve, of course, but the point is he hasn't, while Reiser, whose presence wasn't even suspected at first, has come on to clinch beyond rebuttal all honors as the most sensational rookie of the year.

Reiser, like Hutch, is 19 years old, but there similarity ends in almost every respect, the Dodgers obtained him last season virtually free of charge after he and several other oilers in the St. Louis Cardinal chain gang were declared free agents by Commissioner Landis. He wound up in a class D league with a .302 batting average and ultimately slipped into the Dodger camp, then finally into the lineup.

At last reports opposing pitchers still were attempting to devise a dependable means of getting him out. He made eight straight hits before they could stop him, slumped for a couple of skirmishes while he nursed a pulled tendon and came back later with a home run that gave the Dodgers their only run and one of their three hits against the New York Yankees.

He now is a definite possibility to open the season at second base for the Dodgers, according to manager Leo Durocher. The latter sees such promise in the youngster that he is doing everything conceivable to help him along and even went out and bought Reiser a new pair of baseball shoes to supplant the worn $2.50 shoes he brought to camp.

STANDOUT ROOKIE

NEW YORK, Apr. 7—The man of the week in sports—Harold "Pete" Reiser.

This is the Brooklyn Dodgers' rookie shortstop—he was only 19 March 17—who startled the baseball world by getting eight straight hits, including three home runs—against six Major league pitchers.

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals chain system, took him out of a St. Louis Municipal league two years ago and shipped him off to such spots as New Iberia, La., Union Springs, Ala., and Newport, Ark., for short periods in 1937.

Then Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball, declared him a free agent in a sweeping decision that took several players away from the Cardinals.

The Dodgers stepped in and grabbed the young man and sent him to Superior, Wis., in the Northern league, a class D organization. There he hit .302 in 95 games, making 117 hits, 55 of which were for extra bases and 18 of which were homers.

He showed up at the Dodgers' camp in Clearwater, Fla. But nobody gave him a tumble. Then, manager Leo Durocher benched himself and sent Reiser in at short to see what he could do. Well, the youngster fielded sensationally and hit as aforesaid against Cardinal and Reds pitchers and now the Dodgers are in a quandary.

They don't know whether to send him to Elmira, as originally planned, or to a class AA league or to keep him. It seems certain he will at least make a faster league than the one Elmira is in.

Washington Huskies In Spring Workout

SEATTLE, Wash., April 5—With additional recruits today bringing his squad to approximately 100, Coach Jimmy Phelan of the University of Washington Huskies is in the thick of a football practice of the Spring session.

Phelan, target of some alumni critics last season, is definitely on the spot this year—the last year of his present contract, and must produce a winning combination if he is to be given another opportunity to sign on the dotted line as Husky mentor.

"It will be some time before I can tell just what our prospects are," Phelan said. "The right half position, development of dependable guards and fullbacks and adequate reserves are the immediate problems."

Among the newcomers, Sam Coris, who was ineligible last Fall, is expected to stand out. He is rated as top candidate for right halfback.

WASEDA BEATS HOSEI NINE BY 5-3 SCORE

Timely hitting by Third Baseman Minamimura, Shortstop Murase and Right Fielder Kimura helped Waseda to open its Spring season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league Monday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium with a 5 to 3 victory over Hosei. Both teams were making their debut and an unusually large crowd for a week day took in the game, despite the cold wind that swept across the field.

Southpaw Akaneya, big Hosei twirler and its best bat, proved a disappointment to his supporters, who believed he was in top form and would get off to a flying start for a banner season. He lacked control, his curves failing to cut the plate, and accordingly he was forced to resort to cut down on his speed. Yielding one run in the first and two more in the second, he was replaced at the outset of the third by Sato. The latter hurled a brilliant game but for the fifth when Waseda put over its winning two runs.

ISHIGURO STARTS

Waseda too started with its best pitchers, Ishiguro, a right hander who made a name for himself by stopping Keio in the Fall season last year. He too gave way to Kondo, veteran southpaw, after he had been bombarded for three runs in the first half of the third inning.

It was interesting to see Waseda playing Matsui, a promising left-handed pitcher, at first base to take advantage of his hitting ability.

Akaneya got into trouble right in the first inning by walking Matsui after Miyoshi had grounded out to first. Matsui went to second as Murase was tossed out at first. Minamimura rifled a hit through short to bat in Matsui. Kimura also singled through third but Asai rolled out to third.

Hosei put two men on the bags after two outs in the second when Matsushita came through with a Texas Leaguer to center and Akaneya smashed one through short but Takino fanned to retire the side.

Waseda got two more in the last half of the second. Tsujii walked. Ishiguro was out on a foul fly. Kakijima grounded out to short as Tsujii went to second. Miyoshi leaned on a fat one for a double down the right field foul line and Tsujii scored. Matsui walked again. Murase singled through short and Miyoshi romped home.

With a three-run lead, things seemed easy for Pitcher Ishiguro of Waseda but he ran into plenty of trouble when he walked Karazawa, first up, in the third inning. Tagawa flied out to right but Murakami lashed a double against the right field fence on a bound. Suzuki followed with a hit to left and both Karazawa and Murakami tallied. Yoshida kept up the bombardment with a hit through second to advance Suzuki all the way to third. Takeda too followed with a Texas Leaguer to right and Suzuki scored to deadlock the count at 3-all. Ishiguro was sent to the showers and Kondo replaced him. Matsushita grounded to Kondo and Yoshida dashed for home from third but he was thrown out, Matsui to the plate, for a doubleplay, that stopped the rally.

WASEDA SCORES

Sato stopped Waseda cold in the third and fourth innings, facing but three men in each, but he lost his game in the fifth. Matsui walked for the third time and went to second on Murase's sacrifice bunt. Minamimura singled down the right field foul line and Matsui tallied to give Waseda a one-run lead. Minamimura stole second. He came home a minute later on Kimura's timely hit to left field.

Hosei had an opportunity to score in the first half of the fifth when it filled the bags on walks issued by Kondo. But Matsushita rolled a hopper to third to force out Yoshida at third for the third out.

HOLDEN WINS CROSS-COUNTRY RUN IN ENGLAND

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

WORSLEY, Manchester—Over a course of 10 miles—no, I think it would be better to say, in a course of 10 miles, right up to his ankles in it—Jack Holden, of the Tipton Harriers, won the 1939 English national cross-country championship in 63m. 32½s., with a comfortable lead of 9½s. from the second man, A. E. Tyrer. Though really it is rather absurd to use the word "comfortable" in connection with anything to do with this semi-aquatic endurance contest, waged in heavy, unceasing rain.

By the time 800 feet had ploughed their way two or three times round the landscape at Grange Farm, Alder Forest, it looked rather as if someone had tried to cut a canal there. Which, incidentally, would be a feat quite in accordance with local traditions, since it was right here, at Worsley, that England's first canal was cut, by command of the Duke of Bridgewater to the design of one James Brindley. That, however, is by the way. Like a good many of the cross-country runners were by the time the good Mr. Holden was taking his customary "breather" during the fourth mile.

CAREFUL SCHEDULE

Holden, who won the National championship for the first time last year after eleven unsuccessful attempts—that tells what kind of a man we are discussing—is one of those people who run their races to a restrained and carefully calculated schedule.

In the inevitable helter-skelter for the lead at the start, Holden concerns himself simply with not being boxed in or left too far behind by those who contend together vigorously in the vanguard. Thus he often loses considerable ground in the early stages. But this does not worry him: He develops that smooth, machine-like action of his until he is, so to speak, in top gear, and usually, by the end of two miles or so, this has sufficed to take him up to the men in front. As a rule, Holden tests out these gentlemen with a tentative sort of challenge, just to see their reactions to pressure of peace. Then, more often than not, he feels justified in taking a "breather" before attempting to take command of the situation.

Holden's policy from that point forward is to go away gradually from the opposition. "Gradually" being the operative word. He never tries to open out a sudden lead, as Tyrer did this year soon after Holden had caught him up. Holden seems rather to welcome such tactics on the part of the opposition. He, himself, just keeps on keeping on, and usually you find him coming up in the last mile, looking fresher and fresher as the people he is overhauling look less and less so. That was precisely how it worked out this year. Tyrer, of Sutton Harriers and Athletic Club, had nothing left to give in the last half-mile, and the same observation is true of the third man, F. H. Reeve, Slough A. C., who was 22½ seconds behind the winner.

CAPABLE OF A GALLOP

The fact that we are talking in seconds about the finish of a ten-mile race over plough, meadow land, fences and what-not may suggest that Holden had nothing much to spare at the end. But you would have thought quite the opposite if you could have seen him striding unconcernedly through the last half-mile of mud, obviously capable of a real gallop to the tape if such a thing had been necessary. Mr. Tyrer, on the other hand, looked as if he might not get there at all.

While the absorbing contest for the individual championship was in progress, there was proceeding, back in the forties and fifties, a keen struggle among the sixth men of Belgrave Harriers, Birchfield Harriers and Mitcham Athletic Club. Six a-side score in the reckonings for the team championship, and the line-up was such that these sixth men of the three clubs mentioned were all close together in the final stages. They finished in the order in which I have named their clubs, the points totals of the sides being 122, 124 and 183.

Trials for Track Team To Germany Slated May 20

The trials for the selection of track and field athletes to be sent to Germany and to compete in the international track and field championships in Europe this Summer will be held at the Meiji Shrine stadium on May 20 instead of the Koshien stadium as originally scheduled.

This was announced Monday by the Japan Track and Field Federation and the Students Track and Field Federation.

ENGLAND BEATS SCOTLAND, 2-1 IN SOCCER TILT

GLASGOW, April 15—Before a huge crowd of 150,000 spectators, among whom was the Duke of Gloucester, England snatched a 2-1 victory from Scotland in the final soccer international match of the season.

Two minutes from the end, England scored the winning goal when Lawton headed in the ball, thereby giving England her first victory at Hampden Park since 1927.

Before the start of the match, the teams were presented to the Duke of Gloucester.

Scotland outclassed England for most of the game, the English defense being overworked. The Scottish forwards showing greater speed.

CLEVER FOOTBALL

In spite of the continuous drizzle and the soft turf, the game produced clever football.

Scotland scored 20 minutes after the start when an English depender made a bad blunder. He kicked the ball back to the English goalie and when the latter fumbled, Dougal dashed in and scored a gift goal.

Scotland led by 1-nil at the interval, and it was not until 20 minutes after the resumption that Beasley equalized for England.—Reuter.

SURPRISE WIN

GLASGOW, April 16—England defeated Scotland two to one in a football match played at Hamden Park yesterday before more than 100,000 spectators. The score at the end of the first half was 0-1. The winning point was scored by Lawton during the last minute of the game.

The victory came somewhat as a surprise as Scotland had been conceded favorable odds.

England, Scotland and Wales are now tied with four points each in the international series.—Transocean

SPORTS FOR SPORTS SAKE, AIM OF FINNS

NEW YORK—The Finns, notable in America as long distance runners and folk who come up with folding money when the war debt installments come due, are preparing for the 1940 Olympiad. They promise it will be free from politics and propaganda, a direct return to the sports for sports sake.

Uhro Toivola, Director of the Press Bureau of Finland's Ministry of Foreign Affairs, is here and when he says every Finn will have a direct interest in the games he is not joking. The Government has granted rights to make Olympic ties, boots, and sweaters to Finnish firms. Everyone in Finland is buying the articles and two per cent of the profits goes to the Olympic fund.

"We have appropriated $6,000,000 for the games," Tiovola said. "The Government of Finland gave two-thirds of it.

"I want to point out that this doesn't seem a great deal contrasted with the budgets for the Los Angeles and Berlin Games. But I must emphasize the Finnish Committee and the Finnish peopel want to come as close as possible to the old Olympic idea of sports for sports sake."

The Finns aren't planning a mammoth stadium. It will have a capacity of 63,000. The other stadia for swimming, rowing, riding, and the other minor Olympic sports also will be smaller than usual.

"But stands of 150,000 would be too small, too," said Toivola, "because everyone in Finland wants to see the games, and especially the track events. Half the tickets will be reserved for foreign spectators. We expect 100,000 visitors—that's a lot for Helsinki (Helsingfors), a city of 300,000, but we expect to take care of them. The highest priced seat will be about $5, the lowest about 20 cents. There will be no season tickets sold."

"We are not going to make a money-making holiday out of it. We are going to have accommodations for everyone. They won't be what you say ritzy but they will be cheap, clean, and comfortable. And everyone is taking lessons in English to welcome the Americans."

3rd Annual Daimai Series for Pro Nines To Start on Apr. 29

The third annual Osaka Mainichi sponsored chamionship series for professional baseball teams will be held at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka on the four days between April 29 and May 2.

The drawing follows:

Saturday, April 29: (A) Dolfins vs. Giant, 10 a.m.; (B) Senators vs. Nankai, noon; (C) Tigers vs. Hankyu, 2 p.m.

Sunday, April 30: (D) Lions vs. Nagoya, noon; (E) Eagles vs. winners of (A), 2 p.m.

Monday, May 1: Winner of (B) vs. winner of (C) 2 p.m.; winner (D) vs. winner of (E), 4 p.m.

Tuesday, May 2: playoff for third place, 2 p.m. finals, 4 p.m.

GIANTS, HANKYU TIED FOR TOP IN PRO LEAGUE

The Giants and Hankyu forged into a tie for top place in the professional baseball circuit by beating the Dolfins, 9-2, and the Lions, 4-2, respectively in the doubleheader Monday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here. Each has 12 victories and five setbacks for a .706 mark.

Pitcher Stalphin of the Giants was in fine form and checked the Dolfins to four scattered hits. Of the eight hits registered by the Giants off two Dolfins moundsmen, one of them was a homer by First Baseman Kawakami, who lashed out three hits in four trips to the plate.

The summaries were:

		R	H	E
Giants	410 010 102	9	8	1
Dolfins	010 000 001	2	4	1

Batteries: Stalphin and Yoshiwara; Nakayama, Furutani and Nagashima.

CHICAGO—Mello Bettina is the latest of the left-handers to reach the top in sports.

In olden days wise men said southpaws were handicapped because the left side was ordinariily inferior in muscle, strength, readiness and skill to the right.

But that theory has been exploded. The best of the southpaws have more than held their own with right-handers in sports.

Bettina is the world's light heavyweight boxing champion, New York version. He recently knocked out Tiger Jack Fox.

Young Corbett III is another portsider. He was world's middleweight champion in 1933. Only a few months ago he lost to Freddie Apostoli in a championship bout in New York.

Several top-flight tennis players swing from the wrong side. Among these are Britain's Charles Hare, a Davis cup star, and the Misses Kay Stammers and Margot Lumb.

One of Army's best football players last year was "Huey" Long. His left-handed passes caused confusion among the sailors as Army beat Navy in their annual battle.

Baseball has seen few greater pitchers than Lefty Grove, Carl Hubbell and Lefty Gomez. And a guy named Ruth set a home-run record while swinging from the left side.

There's never been a champion left-handed golfer, but the links have seen many a good southpaw player. Such as Ben Richter of St. Louis. He shot tournament rounds of 67-74-69-69 for a 72 hole total of 279 and that's top golf in any league.

Same Francis won a national collegiate discus championship and a flock of shot-put medals with left-handed throws. He also caused plenty of havoc with his left-footed kicks in football. Portsider Bill Miller of Stanford was an Olympic pole-vaulter a few years back. Portsider Fred Etchen was a champion trap-shooter.

Southpaw boxing champions in recent years include Featherweight Freddy Miller, Welterweight and Middleweight Lou Brouillard and Middleweight Jimmy Wilson. Wrongsider Lew Tendler never won a championship—because lightweight Benny Leonard happened to be around—but Tendler was one of the greatest fighters of this century.

Left-handers are outnumbered but they're certainly not classed.

COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR

By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Enko Vaccari

THE LONDON TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT

. . . .this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.

A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.

Grammar: 15 x 22.1 cm, Pages 538, ¥12.00 and Postage (with two large maps, one of Japan, and one of Tokyo)
Supplement: Pages 280, ¥5.00 and Postage

AN EASY METHOD TO LEARN CHINESE-JAPANESE CHARACTERS

By Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Vaccari

This new and unique publication is indispensable to students wishing to learn Chinese-Japanese characters methodically and quickly.

Every character, printed in large size in handwriting style on one side of a card, is given, in printed style, in combination with other characters, which combinations reproduce the essential Japanese compound words that are necessary to know in order to understand Japanese newspapers and books.

The compound words are given a progressive number, and on the other side of the cards the numbers are repeated with the pronunciation in Roman letters and the English translation of the compound words under consideration.

The cards are contained in a specially designed box.

MAIN FEATURES

1. The first publication showing how Chinese-Japanese characters are written with the brush (fude).
2. Containing 7000 compound words used in modern Japanese.
3. All characters have been given in the order of the progression of the number of their strokes, which is indicated on the upper edge of the partitions that divide the cards in the box.

Size of the cards 4 x 2¾ inches
Size of the box 9 x 6 x 4½ inches
NET WEIGHT 6½ lbs.

Price of the set ¥12.00 and postage. Postage abroad U.S.$1.25

WASEDA ROUTS HOSEI, 7 TO 2; MEIJI AND RIKKYO DRAW, 2-2

Registering 14 ringing hits on the scoreboard, Waseda's peppery baseballers routed Hosei, 7 to 2, to make it two straight over the latter in the nightcap of a Tokyo Six University league's doubleheader Tuesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

Meiji, out to win its fifth straight championship, suffered another setback when it was held to a 4-all tie by Rikkyo. The game was called off at the end of the ninth to make way for the Waseda-Hosei clash.

The standings follow:

	G	W	L	T	Pct.
Waseda	2	2	0	0	1.000
Meiji	3	1	0	2	0.667
Keio	2	1	1	0	0.500
Rikkyo	3	1	1	1	0.500
Teidai	2	0	1	1	0.250
Hosei	2	0	2	0	0.000

Hosei sent its big southpaw, Akaneya, to the plate once again in an attempt to stop Waseda, but he was knocked out in the fifth after he had allowed nine hits and six runs. Sato, who relieved him, yielded a run but he checked Waseda without a score from the sixth inning on.

KONDO PITCHES

The bespectacled Kondo, also a left hander, of Waseda, on the other hand, was in good form and was touched for only six scattered hits. His team-mates were charged with four errors but they played scintillating ball in the pinches.

Waseda got off to a flying start by scoring one run in the first frame. Miyoshi singled to right center, went to scored on Matsui's sacrifice, stole third and then romped home on Murase's two bagger to left.

Waseda got another in the second after Hosei had failed to score in the first though the bags were loaded after two outs. Fleet-footed Asai was safe on the shortstop's error and then pilfered second. He advanced to third as Tsujii grounded out to first and then beat the throw home on a fielder's choice on Kondo's hopper to first.

But Hosei deadlocked the count in the last half of the second. Matsushita started the fireworks with a bingle through short. Akaneya grounded out to third but Torimaru lifted a Texas Leaguer back of short and Matsushita scored. Torimaru took second on the throw-in and then went to third on Karazawa's short hit to right. Tagawa forced out Karazawa at second but Torimaru scored on the same play.

Waseda's batting rally clinched victory in the third inning after two outs. Matsui had walked but Murase grounded to short into a doubleplay. Minamimura, the day's heaviest sticker with three hits, singled to left and scored on Kimura's two bagger over the left fielder's head. Asai also lashed a double to left, alongside the foul line, and Kimura tallied. Then it was Tsujii who singled down the right field foul line to bring in Asai for the third run. Kondo ended the rally by whiffing.

Hosei got a man each on third and second in the fourth when Karazawa doubled to left after Torimaru had walked but Tagawa flied out to right to retire the side.

MEIJI'S FIELDING POOR

Meiji's usually fine fielding team had a bad day, committing five errors, else Pitcher Shimizu might have earned a victory instead of a tie game.

It was a see-saw game up to the fifth when Meiji deadlocked the count at 4-all, the contest then developing into a pitching duel between Shimizu and Ishida of Rikkyo.

Rikkyo scored in the first inning on Kitahara's hit to right which brought in Yuki, who had walked and gone to second when Fukumura was hit by a pitched ball.

Meiji forged into a 2-1 lead in the second. Triples by Shimizu and Matsui and Kameda's fly to left accounted for them.

But Rikkyo tallied three times in the third for a 4-2 lead after one out. On top of it, Kobayashi's slow grounder to third, which should have been easy for the second out, tunneled through Ase's legs to start the damage. Slow fielding by Kato was responsible for Kitahara, on first, to romp all the way to third. With Kiyohara at bat, the squeeze play was called. Shimizu fielded the bunt in good style but Catcher Matsui dropped the peg and Kitahara scored. Sakurai also bunted and Kobayashi counted. To make matters worse, Shimizu pegged wild to first and Kiyohara scored.

Kodama's double through third brought in Kato for Meiji in the third.

Meiji dealocked the count at 4-all in the fifth. It was Kodama's hit again, this time to right, that brought in Ito, who had gone to third on Kato's hit to left.

Lehman Returning To Germany as Holder Of 4th Rank in Judo

Helmut Lehman, highly talented amateur wrestler from Germany who has won the fourth rank in judo since his arrival here in July last year, will return to Germany by the 8 p.m. train from Tokyo Station today.

He took his judo lessons from Kinnosuke Sato, of the 7th rank, in Setagaya.

The German wrestler is the first foreigner ever to be awarded the fourth rank by the Kodokan, Japan's highest judo organization.

GREER RUNS 100 YARDS IN 9.5 SECONDS

AUSTIN, Tex., April 1—Baldish Wilbur Greer, of Michigan State, tore into a brisk cross wind on a 100-yard sprint today that left him flirting with a world record in the feature of the Texas relays, kick-off of the national outdoor season.

The squat sprinter, pushed by Freddie Wolcott, of Rice Institute, scrambled to the tape in 9.5 seconds, one-tenth of a second off the world record and the Texas relays most prized mark.

Greer got away ahead of Wolcott, who seemed to falter at the start, and staved there all the way. His fine dash fell one-tenth of a second short of the accepted relays mark of 9.4 set in a memorable dead-heat finish in 1935 between Ray Neugass, of Tulane, and Harvey Wallender, of Texas.

Relay meet records were made in the shotput, university 440-yard relay, junior college mile relay, junior college 440-yard relay, university sprint medley and the broad jump.

Beefy Elmer Hackney, of Kansas State, national intercollegiate shotput champion, made the best heave of his competitive career, 52 feet 3¼ inches, and smashed the old mark held by Sam Francis, former Nebraska fullback at 51 feet 11¾ inches.

The Rice Institute 440-yard relay team, composed of Blagg, Steakley, Sanders and Wolcott, clipped one-tenth of a second off the old mark they jointly held with Texas as Wolcott stormed in on the anchor with a five-yard margin. The new time was 41.4.

Rice's sprint medley team, made up of Turney, Jones, Blagg and Bell, built up a bare margin for Bell, great middle distance runner, and he coverted it into a rout to finish the distance in 3:28.4, bettering the old mark of 4:29.6, set by Rice in 1947.

Texas's Jud Atchison bettered his own broad jump record by one-quarter of an inch in a leap of 24 feet 8 inches.

Two fine junior college performances in the relay events stood out. The University of Texas freshmen, anchored by Lonnie Hill, who warmed up with an outstanding 9.6 sprint in the 100 yards, cracked the national junior college record for the quarter-mile relay with its mark of 42.1 seconds. Pasadena Junior College holds the accepted national mark at 42.4 seconds.

The North Texas Teachers College freshmen burned up the junior college mile relay with 4:19.6 time that fell four-tenths of a second shy of the national record but broke the relays mark by 6.2 seconds.

AMERICAN AT NO. 5 AIDED CAMBRIDGE IN DEFEATING OXFORD BY 4 LENGTHS

By FRANK R. KELLEY

N.Y. Times

LONDON, April 1—A husky Cambridge crew with an American pulling at No. 5 swept triumphantly over four and a half miles of the meandering Thames today and inflicted a smashing defeat on Oxford in the ninety-first boat race between the universities.

Half a million Londoners flocked to the river banks to make carnival of one of the city's greatest free shows. The collegiate atmosphere of Poughkeepsie in June was conspicuously absent as usual, but there wasn't a Cockney clinging precariously to his perch who did not vote the race "the best run ever," even though the Light Blue oarsmen from Cambridge took command from the first and had not trouble in scoring up their forty-eight victory in the long series. Oxford has won forty-two of the races and there was one dead heat, in 1877.

Cambridge's winning time of 19 minutes 3 seconds was nowhere near the record of 18:3 but was fast enough considering the little help afforded by an upriver tide from Putney Bridge to the finish just past Mortlake Brewery. Oxford was never in it after the first mile, but kept on doggedly, chasing the ever receding stern post of the Cambridge shell.

CONDITIONS PERFECT

Oxford had prayed all night for choppy water, but daybreak brought perfect conditions—a flat river, a slight following wind and an even temperature, with a misty, murky atmosphere.

Oxford's only luck was in winning the toss. The Dark Blue immediately threw away this advantage by electing to row on the north or Middlesex side of the river, in the hope of leading over the first mile, without undue effort. It was a blunder which subsequent steering by Hart Massey, coxswain, son of Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in London, was to make worse.

Cambridge was quicker and cleaner off the mark and in no time developed the rhythm and effortless run that foretold the end of the race. Oxford labored and attacked the water as if heading into a fresh westerly gale. As a result the shell bogged and lunged, losing valuable momentum between strokes.

Cambridge's only American sweep puller, Hugh Parker, gave a good account of himself at No. 5. A graduate of Tabor Academy and now at Trinity Hall, Cambridge, Parker put to good use his previous knowledge of the Thames which he gained at Henley in 1937 as a member of the Tabor crew which captured the Thames Cup.

Parker's flat style today was typical of the Cambridge crew as a whole. The Light Blues never seem to struggle. They started beautifully, but methodically, and rowed a faultless race to the finish.

From the gun C. B. Sanford, Cambridge stroke, set a firm, solid pace, whereas J. R. Bingham, of Oxford, who had been in the varsity boat only eight days, seemed undecided whether to keep his men spurting or whether to lengthen out. Yet, when he did settle down at 31 the damage had been done—Cambridge was well in front and rowing at a slightly higher rate.

The Cambridge cox, H. T. Smith, wisely kept his boat on the full tide. Whereas Massey crossed over behind him to save distance at the expense of a push from behind. When the mile post was passed there was more than a length of daylight between the boats.

After Hammersmith Bridge, which the police took over today following its bombing by Irish terrorists, Oxford hopes were gone. Both were rowing 30, but Oxford's stroke was sticky to an extreme.

Oxford spurted past Chiawick Steps and reduced the gap to two and three-quarter lengths but it was a thirty-two-stroke to Cambridge's twenty-nine and the grind soon told.

At Barnes's Bridge, Cambridge was ahead by three lengths. Sanford never let his men slacken, even in the lead, allowing them the time on the swing forward that was essential for comfort, pace and run.

The final struggle was worthy of the best traditions of the race. Oxford put in a last bid that clipped off a length. Sanford bided his time and when Oxford's drive had faded he took his men home past the Mortlake Brewery at 34—25—36, finishing four lengths ahead.

Tonight London's West End, with Picadilly Circus as the hub, was once again the scene of traditional boat race revelry. Unmindful of the rain, crowds poured into the streets from theaters and restaurants and toward midnight gave the police plenty of work.

U.S. Polo Team To Play Britain Presents Problem

By TOM REILLY

Although the United States has four ten-goal polo players—Mike Phipps, Cecil Smith, Stewart Iglehart and Tommy Hitchcock—they might not all be named on the American team which will meet England in an International Series, at Meadow Brook, June 4, 11 and 18.

Ten goals is the highest rating a man can achieve in polo, but such a rating does not necessarily guarantee him a position on the United States team. On the word of the selection committee, the team will be chosen on performance in the May test matches and also on the suitability of each player to fit into a team.

Naturally it would be unwise to send players into the game who are strange to their postions. Such procedure would be just as inconsistent as putting five catchers around the infield of an All-League baseball team, simply because they were the five best baseballers in the league.

With these facts in mind some polo people are wondering just what the selection committee will do in the case of Hitchcock and Iglehart, both of whom are outstanding at Number Three. If Hitchcock should decide that he will try only for the Number three position it might be a very tough blow to Iglehart.

Here's the dope: Phipps and Smith are almost certain to ride at No. 1 and No. 2. If Hitchcock should design to play at back, then Iglehart would be a certainty to ride at No. 3. But perhaps Tommy might like to ride at No. 3.

Hitchcock has proven his ability to ride at back. To Iglehart, however, this position might prove strange and uncomfortable.

Hitchcock would be a ball of fire at No. 3. This is the position around which all polo teams rotate. If Hitchcock were to play back and allow Iglehart to ride at No. 3, the latter evbiously would be the star of the series. He would be in every scoring play, while Hitchcock stayed back to defend the American goal.

The current situation is made no easier by the fact that the defeat of the British is almost a certainty. The tragic death of Pat Poark has practically sealed the doom of the invaders. If England were to offer serious opposition there would be no argument at all about who would play where. America's selection committee, which consists of Robert Strawbridge, Jr.; Devereux Milburn, C. V. Whitney, John Hay Whitney and Hitchcock, would immediately pick the strongest team possible.

But now the British defeat is almost a certainty. Consequently, there is some talk of Hitchcock resuming his old position at No. 3, with Raymond or Winston Guest riding at back.

ISHIDA YIELDS ONE HIT TO AID HANKYU VICTORY

Pitcher Ishida of the Hankyu professional baseball team hurled a one-hitter against the Dolfins to aid his squad to a 2-0 victory Tuesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here. Only Dolfin to nick him for a hit was Furutani.

Robbing Ishida of a no-hit no-run game was First Baseman Furutani, who rifled a hit through first and second in the seventh inning.

By virtue of this victory, Hankyu forged into the league lead with a .722 mark, followed by the Giants with .706.

The Lions had a busy day at bat, registering 11 hits, and blanked the Senators, 4-0 in the second game.

RACING CAREER OF GREYHOUND DRAWS TO CLOSE

By MURRAY TYNAN

AIKEN, S. C., April 1—Sep Palm, the tall, lean horseman from the Middle West who developed the great Greyhound, 1:55¼, for E. J. Baker, passed through this sporting center today and among other things said that harness racing might see little of the gray flier this year. Greyhound, it now appears, will do a number of exhibitions, sort of one-night stands like Peter Manning did in his day, but he will not race.

"In the first place," Palin said, "there isn't much that he can race for, and in the second we feel that he has had enough of it. He is seven years old and has an easy time coming to him. We'll try to see that he gets it, but at the same time we'll let people see him in exhibitions against the watch and that sort of thing. We may yet send him after the mile straightaway record on the sand at Daytona Beach, and if we do I'll guarantee you that he will hang up a mark that you and I will not see broken."

TROTTERS MUST WIN EARLY

Like the crack trotters of other days, Greyhound is in a peculiar position in that there are few races for him. If a harness horse doesn't get into the big money as a two or a three-year-old, he will never do it afterward. That is one respect in which harness racing and thoroughbred racing differ widely. A thoroughbred may be a dud as a juvenile or a three-year-old and then win a fortune, but not a trotter.

The case of Sun Beau, leading money winner with $376,744, serves as an excellent illustration of the plight of the aged trotter. Sun Beau won only one of four starts as a two-year-old and earned $1,150. As a three-year-old he picked up $79,909, and then he really went to town. Racing at an age when trotters or pacers of the same years had little or nothing to go after, Sun Beau earned $79,755 as a four-year-old, $105,005 as a five-year-old and $110,925 when he was six. The case of Seabiscuit, which was nothing much as a two or three-year-old, is almost identical.

Palin and many other harness racing men look at these figures and shake their heads sadly. The powers that be in harness racing have tried to solve the problem and provide adequate and really worth while competition for the older horses but as yet they have not succeeded. Many years ago the runing horse men found that the handicap was the answer to this question, but the business of handicapping in harness racing is something else again.

In the thoroughbred sport they took the attitude that weight will stop a train, and so they brought horses together by assigning weights according to ability. Weight in a saddle doesn't quite answer the purpose with trotters, nor does giving head starts, as in foot racing. A head start for a trotter of less speed than Greyhound is probably all right in theory, but it doesn't work out in practice. A horse supposed to get fifty yards may wind up with only twenty by the time the starter gets them off.

USELESS FOR BREEDING

"It seems a pity that something can't be done about it," said Palin, "but that's the way it is and we must be philosophical. Since Greyhound is a gelding we cannot use him for breeding. So we will just go along giving exhibitions here and there and letting the public see him. People love the horse and they come out to see him going against the watch with just as much enthusiasm as though he were racing.

"I wouldn't be surprised if Greyhound lowered his record this year. He is just as good as ever. I had him over to Daytona Beach to test out the going and found it fine. It did not break away from under him as much as I expected, not nearly so much as on some dirt tracks. Going straight on the sand I look for him to get down to 1:52½, maybe 1:52 flat. Some people think he will go faster, especially if we should catch a tail wind, but 1:52 is plenty fast for a trotter, even a Greyhound."

As Fair for One as the Other

"Well, Pat, how are ye these days?"

"Bad, mighty bad, sure; 'tis starvation starin' me in th' face."

"Faith and it can't be very pleasant for either of yez!"

ISHIDA PITCHES RIKKYO TO 5-4 WIN OVER MEIJI IN 12 INNINGS

Meiji, already with the two ties for a half point each out of three games, suffered a jolting setback in its campaign fo a fifth straight championship in the Tokyo Six University Baseball league Wednesday afternoon when it was beaten, 5-4, by Rikkyo after a 12-inning tussle.

Hero of the victory was Pitcher Eio Ishida who twirled the entire 12 innings and checked Meiji to six hits. His shift to slow balls in the fourth inning kept the Meiji batsmen, with a strong preference for speed, at bay throughout the rest of the afternoon. Thus it was that Ishida came through with a brilliant performance of hurling 21 consecutive innings, having chucked the previous day when the first game between the two teams was called a draw at the end of the ninth inning.

Southpaw Shimizu was sent to the plate again by Meiji but he lacked control. So much so that he pitched only four strikes out of 16 consecutive pitches in the first inning when Rikkyo tallied four times. He finally gave way to Fujimoto in the fourth after walking the first man, Ishida, on four straight pitches.

RIKKYO WINS

Fujimoto pitched a good game but he faltered in the twelfth. Kiyohara, first up, lifted a Texas Leaguer to center and went to second on Sakurai's sacrifice bunt. Ishida walked. Yoshimura, pinchbatting for Nagasaki, rose to the occasion with a short hit to center and filled the bases. Ito, sent in to bat for Machida, worked Fujimoto for a walk and Kiyohara trotted home for the winning run in the season's hardest fought game to date. The game also took 3 hours 27 minutes, something unknown in professional circles.

Shimizu, who earlier this year had been reported to have signed a ¥10,000 contract with the Nankai professional baseball team, got into plenty of trouble right in the first inning when he walked Yuki and Fukumura in a row. They both advanced a bag on Kitahara's bunt down the third baseline. Kobayashi also walked to fill the bases. Kiyohara nicked Shimizu for a timely single over short and Yuki romped home. Sakurai leaned on Shimizu's first pitch and lashed a double down the left field foul line to clean up the bags. Ishida was tossed out at first by Shimizu and Sakurai, dashing for third, was thrown out at the hot corner for a doubleplay to retire the side.

But Meiji tied the score in the second after two outs. Kodama had flied out to left and Ase had grounded out to short. Matsui started the fireworks with a bingle to left. Shimizu redeemed himself with a double to right and Matsui tallied as Yuki was a bit slow in retrieving the ball. Kameda came through with a hit through short and third to bat in Shimizu. Both Oki and Yano walked to fill bags. Ito singled through short and Kamei and Oki checked in. Kato forced out Ito at second for third out but Meiji had deadlocked the count at 4-all.

Machida doubled to left in Rikkyo's portion of the second after one out but Yuki fanned and Fukumura grounded out to Shimizu. Kitahara hit a two bagger to left field to start the third but Shimizu tightened up to prevent a score.

RAIN HALTS GAME

Rain began to pour heavily in the seventh inning with Rikkyo at bat to halt play for eight minutes.

Rikkyo had a chance to score in the last half of the eighth when Fujimoto walked Ishida to load the bags after two outs. Saigo was sent in to pinchhit for Tsunajima but the best he could do was to fly out to left.

TRAYNOR'S CASE 'SOUR GRAPES', SAYS CATCHER

By ARTHUR E. PATTERSON

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

CLEARWATER, Fla., April 1—It was All Fools' Day, but Al Todd, the burly catcher just acquired by the Dodgers, wasn't fooling them. In reference to the 1938 collapse of the Pittsburgh Pirates, he said:

"It certainly is unfair of Traynor to blame that on me. You know no one player can be blamed. When we got together in the Spring Traynor introduced me as his heavy-duty, heavy-hitting catcher and said he had the best defensive catcher in baseball in Ray Berres.

"Now, if he really felt that way about it I don't know why Berres wasn't in there when we started to collapse. I'm not going to pop off the way I'd like to, but you can say it certainly is sour grapes to blame the Pirates' collapse on me. I didn't mind being trade to the Bees and I'm happy to be here, but trading is one thing, blaming me for losing the pennant is another."

It seems Todd is not alone in his antagonism to Traynor's remarks. At least one Pittsburgh baseball writer, after the trade and Traynor's oration, wrote a personal letter to Todd, telling him how badly he felt about the whole matter. Todd is slow to anger and would rather laugh this thing off, but there can be no denying his feeling against Traynor and the Pirates, too, for that matter.

PROMISE TO 'BURN' TRAYNOR

"I know where the blame for that collapse belongs," he said, "but I'd be pulling some sour grapes stuff myself if I told how I felt about it. I'll get a chance to burn him (Traynor) and I'll burn him good. The club finished better every year I was there and I gave Traynor what he admitted was the best catcher-punch Pittsburgh had acquired in years. I was third on the club in runs batted in even last year and I don't think I hurt them when they were out in front. But forget it. I don't see the Pirates winning many games from big-league clubs this Spring, and I have my fingers crossed."

So it would seem the Dodgers, acquiring Todd, also have picked up a potential feud with the Corsairs, one of the pennant favorites of the year. If Todd can spread this feeling throughout the club there should be some lively times in Forbes Field when Brooklyn moves into Pittsburgh and perhaps some real fireworks when the Corsairs come to Brooklyn. Todd, you will recall is the gentleman who quieted Jerome Herman Dean (but temporarily) in the Texas League with a well directed right hook, and his wrestling match with powerful Lee Grissom wasn't exactly a tea party. Woe to the poor Pirate who comes into the plate with spikes high when Todd is the guardian.

RAIN CANCELS GAME

Rain caused the cancellation of a Dodger exhibition game for the first time this Spring. The Tigers were in town. They really could have played, but Del Baker and Leo Durocher wisely decided to take no chances on the wet going. Instead both clubs participated in a fly-shagging drill, and there were so many players running around the outfield a traffic cop would have been a handy addition to avoid collisions.

Too bad the game couldn't be played, at that. The Dodgers, in morning and afternoon batting practice sessions, were in a walloping mood. Dolf Camilli removed the neighboring lot with a liner over the name sign, "Green Field," from a right field wall. Immediately Larry MacPhail went into consultation with himself regarding more thorough protection for inhabitants of the eastern side of Bedford Avenue. Ernie Koy rammed one 430 feet from the plate against a Negro church beyond left field and Tony Lazzeri and Babe Phelps slammed several shots against the barriers.

JAPANESE WON SWIM FAME IN AUSTRALIA

By WALLACE HIRAI

The Nippu Jiji

HONOLULU, April 12—Swimming is dandy, and even divine, especially when you make a trip so far as Australia and Samoa, meeting nice people and being treated royally wherever you go without having to spend a single dime.

While he didn't say so, Kiyoshi Nakama of Maui returned from "down under" this morning with this grand feeling.

"I'm happy to be back. Gee, everything was so fine, I don't know how to express myself."

He was full of joy even as his shipboard cronies bid him adieu. The very next minute after he had said goodbye to his new acquaintances, he was greeting and being greeted by old-time hometown pals. Coach Soichi Sakamoto, the fellow who is credited with bringing Nakama along, was out at the dock with his entire Maui squad that is to participate in the indoor meet which opens tonight at Punahou.

Are you going to swim in the indoors? Someone asked him.

"I don't know. I didn't know the trials were on tonight. Maybe I'll try, though I didn't get a lick of workout during my entire trip back because there was no water in the ship's swimming pool."

With all the swimming you did there,, weren't you tired?

"Yes, I was, very much so. I swam almost every other night The program was quite heavy for a small man like me. I dropped 10 pounds."

Before a barrage of questions, the lone traveler had this story to relate:

He broke three Australian national records, in the 400 meters at 4:51.2, 440 yards at 4:52 and 880 at 10:12. He met Australia's middle distance champion, Robin Bidulph, nine times in all. Bidulph won once, in the 220 freestyle which was held in open water.

He showed in every Australian state, swimming in 23 "meet" events and numerous other exhibitions. Contrary to the reports that were received here, he did not swim in New Zealand.

What probably is most dear to him now is the list of Australian championships he has in possession. In all, he won six national championships.

Of Bidulph, Nakama had this to say: "He's a big fellow, a six-footer weighing over 200 pounds. He's a great swimmer, also a great competitor.' In spite of the fact that Bidulph was his keenest rival in Australia, Nakama thinks nothing but the best of the Australian star.

All through his Australian tour, he received numerous souvenirs. Even when the Mariposa paused in Samoa for a brief spell, the Hawaiian champion received gifts.

One Australian, before leaving the ship, had this remark to pass on Nakama: "There goes a great boy whom we all think highly of. I hope he thinks the same of us."

Playing Safe

Pat, in his eager endeavor to learn how to swim, was nearly drowned. "Faith," he exclaimed, "I'll never touch water again until I know how to swim!"

Which Is Easier.

"What makes you think it is easier for a rich man to land in society than it is for an immigrant to enter this country?"

"In the former case the literacy test isn't required."—Pasadena Post.

JACOBS BLAMES GAMBLING FOR BOXING SLUMP

By CASWELL ADAMS

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, April 2—Mike Jacobs was in an angry mood yesterday, indignant enough to issue a lengthy typewritten assault on gambling at the fights staged by him. Jacobs had realized that the long odds quoted weeks in advance on many of the fights this season in Madison Square Garden, and not borne out in the ring, have been hurting the turnstile trade.

The promoter announced that he would refunnd ticket money to all gamblers he spots at his shows in the future, declaring they are the evil influence in the sport. He said that when the gamblers made Henry Armstrong a 1-to-6 favorite over Davey Day, they kept people away from the Garden, for fear of seeing a much too one-sided affair.

SHOW STOLEN BY DAY

On Friday night only 11,000 fans turned out to watch Armstrong defend the welterweight championship of the world against Day. No one gave Day a chance. But Day stole from Chicago stood up against Henry's wallops for twelve rounds and slit the Negro's eye, before fatigue caught up with the Chicagoan. Henry finally brought Davey down late in the twelfth with a terrific barrage, and a final shot to the ribs.

Henry's ailing hands had not been thoroughly diagnosed late yesterday, but the left was in a cast, Despite the painful arsenal, Dr. Vincent Nardiello said that Armstrong's hand would mend quickly and there's no reason why he shouldn't sail on the Queen Mary this week, and fight Ernie Roderick in London for that $47,000 on May 22. There were skeptics, however, who held that Henry will cancel the trip and rest until he faces Lou Ambers in defense of the lightweight toga, Aug. 9.

BOTH FIGHTERS REST

He rested yesterday, as his manager, Eddie Mead, collected the booty at the Hippodrome, and Day, his head swollen and his right eye still closed, also stayed in bed, letting Sam Pian, his manager, pick up the check.

Day's next appearance will be in the Garden, May 3, against either Tony Canzoneri or Pedro Montanez.

Pall Lee was ruled unsuitable as a foe for Petey Scalzo at the Coliseum Tuesday night, and Vince Dell Orto probably will take the walloping instead . . . . It will be a dull week, with the Jewish holidays and Holy Week. . . . Walter Woods, mildlewight, just back from Australia, will battle Paul Mahoney, fresh from Buffalo, in the ten-rounder Thursday night at the Hippodrome.

ARMSTRONG K.O'S WELTERWEIGHT OF CHICAGO

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 1—Henry Armstrong battered the courageous Davey Day to the canvas at Madison Square Garden last night and in so doing successfully defended his welterweight championship of the world. Armstrong, who holds the lightweight title as well as the 147-pound crown, knocked out his Chicago challenger in 2 minutes and 49 seconds of the twelfth round of a scheduled fifteen-round affray.

Although the double titleholder was a top-heavy favorite in the betting, he encountered no little difficulty with his rival until the latter began to sag as the result of the brisk pace set by Hammering Henry. Before the fight Armstrong was the choice at 1 to 7 to win, and 1 to 2 to stop the Chicago warrior.

Day waged a stubborn battle, and though he never threatened the champion, still he confounded Armstrong by his amazing power to absorb punishment and his willingness to fight back until he just could not continue further.

ONLY KNOCKDOWN OF BOUT

The punch which ended the fight was a solidly delivered right to the body, a blow which caused Day to slump to the canvas for the only knockdown of the contest. Referee Billy Cavanagh dispensed with counting over the fallen warrior, but instead lifted him to his feet and helped him to his corner.

Before he was sent to the canvas Day had taken many punches which were much harder than the final one. But each of these almost innumerable blows took its toll of his strength and prepared the way for his ultimate downfall.

Armstrong, who weighed 135 pounds to Day's 136, waged his usual two-fisted fight, moving forward incessantly and halting in his forward progress only when his rival locked arms with him and held him.

The crowd, which numbered 10,028, was preponderantly in Day's favor, and his every effort was cheered to the rafters. This proved of little value to the challenger, however, nor did it cause to swerve Armstrong from his inexorable aggressiveness.

RIGHT TO JAW STAGGERS DAY

At the start Armstrong lashed his left hook into Day's jaw, but the latter came back to shoot a number of short rights to the head. He appeared well on the road to taking the opening round when Armstrong clipped him with a right to the jaw which almost spilled him.

In the second the champion again staggered Day with lefts to the head, but the latter came up strong for the third, which he took with a sustained right-hand fire to the head.

Armstrong swarmed over Day in the fourth, firing a devastating body attack. He continued along the same lines in the fifth, but one of his blows was wild and it cost him the round. The champion was not at all disconcerted by this loss and pummeled Day about the head and body without stint in the sixth.

Day surprised the gathering by rushing out in the seventh and driving several effective right upper-cuts to the jaw. But Armstrong cut the rally short by taking charge of matters in the eighth, in which he closed Day's right eye with a succession of lefts.

NOT BOTHERED BY CUT

In the same round, however, Armstrong suffered a cut over his own left eye, but the wound did not bother him as the bout progressed.

The champion swarmed over his challenger through the ninth, tenth and eleventh, but he lost the last-named because of a low punch.

Day was plainly exhausted as he came out for the twelfth and could offer no resistance to Armstrong's merciless attack. The latter punched away at his foe's head until Day bent over, then he whipped across the right to the body that ended matters.

The gross receipts for the card amounted to $29,008.

In the eight-round semi-final Johnny Bellus of New Haven defeated the Yucatan Kid, a Mexican lightweight now making his home in Miami. Bellus's better punching and abler boxing earned him the award over his willing but light-hitting rival. The weights were 134¾ for Bellus and 134¼ for the Yucatan Kid.

WINS IN FIRST UNITED STATES START

Milo Theodrescu, a Rumanian welterweight, making his first start in this country, received the decision over Quentin (Baby) Breese of Manhattan, Kan., in an eight-rounder. Theodrescu carried the fighting to his rival from the opening bell. Breese boxed well at long range, but could not handle the Rumanian's steady body attack. The weights were 146½ for the winner and 140 for Breese.

In a close six-round bout Larry Kellum of Oneonta, N. Y., pounded out a decision over Victor Dellicurti, Harlem. The battle was a wild-swinging affair in which Kellum's more frequent punches earned him the award. He weighed 154¼ pounds as against 152½ for Dellicurti.

The four-round opener went to Joe Iannotti of New Haven, who stopped Tommy St. Angelo of the Bronx in 2:37 of the last round. Iannotti scaled 125¼ pounds and his rival 120½.

OHIO STATE 'U' FIRST EVER TO WIN U.S. INDOOR SWIM FOR 2 IN ROW

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 1—Ohio State University, only college swimming squad ever to win the National A.A.U. indoor championship, gained that title tonight for the second straight year.

The Buckeyes, scoring in nine of the ten events, piled up 38 points, to 23 for the second-place New York Athletic Club, and 19 for the Medinah Club, of Chicago.

In addition to taking the team title, the Buckeyes furnished the meet's only double-champion, with Al Patnik capturing both the one and three-meter board crowns for the third year in a row.

Patnik and Earl Clark, his Ohio State teammate, finished one-two in the high board diving, clinching the team laurels for the Bucks, who added two more points to their total with a fourth place in the final event, the 400-yard medley relay, which went to Princeton's world record-holding trio.

In the other event, Ralph Flanagan of Austin, Tex., successfully defended his 500-yard free-style title in the long-awaited duel with Jack Medica, of the New York A. C., holder of the world record. Although Medica boasts the world mark of 5:16.3 for the route, he was at least eight yards back of Flanagan as the latter won in 5:30.7, almost a quarter of a minute off the record pace.

The team totals: Ohio State, 28; New York A. C., 23 Medinah Club, 19; Detroit A. C., 16; Princeton, 15; Yale freshmen, 10; Yale, 5; Fremont (Ohio) High School and Mercersburg Academy, 2 each.

A year ago Ohio State, in breaking the monopoly of the athletic clubs on the title for the first time, piled up 41 points; more than double the 19 Michigan scored for second place. The New York A. C. scored only 5 points in 1938.

Patnik, leading the meet in scoring with 10 individual points, furnished the most thrilling chapter of the meet. As a high school diver he was unable to earn a letter, but he stayed out of college for a year, due to financial difficulties, and divided his time between his job and the diving boards. The result was enough money to start to college, and enough skill to become the nation's No. 1 diver.

Princeton's great medley relay team of Dick Hough, Al Vande Weghe and Hal Van Oss, holder of the world record of 2:51.9, turned in a 2:52.5 performance in the final event, scoring by a convincing margin over the Detroit A. C. The Medinah Club, with Adolph Kiefer turning in a 58.8 effort for his 100-yard backstroke contribution, finished third, a notch ahead of Ohio State. Yale's No. 1 and No. 2 teams finished fifth and sixth, in that order.

Vande Weghe climbed out of a sick bed, where he was ordered last Tuesday following an influenza attack, to pace the Tigers to victory.

The summaries:

500-yard free stye—Won by Ralph Flanagan, unattached, of Austin, Tex.; Jack Medica, New York A. C., second; Andy Clark, Detroit A. C., third; Harold Stanhope, Ohio State University, fourth. Time—5:30.7.

Three-meter fancy diving—Won by Al Patnik, Ohio State, 160.12; Earl Clark, Ohio State, 151.22, second; Al Greene, Medinah Club, 145.38, third; James Cooke, Yale University, 138.9, fourth.

300-yard medley relay—Won by Princeton (Hough, Vande Weghe and Vanoss), Detroit A. C. (Drysdale, Kasley and Tomski), second; Medinah Club (Jacobsen, Jaretz and Kiefer), third; Ohio State (Higgins, Quayle and Stanhope), fourth. Time—2:52.5.

NEW YORK CLUB SCORES

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 31—The New Work Athletic Club's fine relay team set a world record of 3:31.3 for the 400-yard free-style event tonight in the national A. A. U. swimming championships, giving the Gothamites a three-point lead for the team championship, now held by Ohio State University.

The New York A. C. ripped a tenth of a second off the 3:31.4 world mark set in 1937 by the University of Michigan and beat Yale University's freshmen by five yards. The Yale varsity was third and Ohio States's defending champions fourth.

The relay victory, in which Tod McDermott, Jim Reilly, Walter Spence and Peter Fick represented the New York A. C., gave that club 20 points for the first seven events, 3 ahead of Ohio State. Fick paced the quarter with an 0:51.4 performance. Spence's time was 0:52.2, and McDermott his in 0:54.5.

TWO CHAMPIONS DEPOSED

Ohio State, in losing the relay crown, was the second defending champion deposed tonight. In the 220-yard free-style Jack Medica of the New York A. C. splashed to victory in 2:12.7, defeating the defending titleholder, Ralph Flanagan of Austin, Texas. R. R. Hough of Princeton won the 220-yard breast-stroke crown in 2:39.5.

The team standing, with three events to go: New York A. C., 20; Ohio State, 17; Medinah Club of Chicago, 13; Yale freshmen, 9; Detroit A. C., 8; Princeton, 5; Yale varsity, 4; Fremont (Ohio) High School, 2; Mercersburg Academy, 2; Providence Boys Club, 1, and Fairmount Hotel S. C. of San Francisco, 1.

Medica's time was far off the 2:07.9 world record pace he set in 1935, and he beat Flanagan by only an inch or two as he came from behind near the finish.

Dave Tyler, 20-year-old Mercersberg Academy star, was third, and Bill Quayle of Ohio State fourth.

JARETZ PLACES FIFTH

Otto Jaretz of the Medinah Club of Chicago took fifth place, while Gus Sharemet, University of Michigan freshman, finished last after leading through the first 100 yards.

Hough, national intercollegiate champion and holder of the world 200-yard breast-stroke record, beat Johnny Higgins of Ohio State, 1937 champion, for the breast-stroke title. Jack Kasley of Michigan, world record holder and defending champion, did not compete. Hough's time was 1.1 seconds off the world-record pace.

Bernard Hayes, 15-year-old Fremont Ross (Ohio) High School sophomore, making his first start in big-time competition, finished third, a yard ahead of Ohio State's Al McKee. Meyer of the Yale freshmen and Gibbons of Brown University were the other qualifiers.

Adolph Kiefer holder of virtually every back-stroke swimming record, decided today to compete for the Medinah Club. His decision aided that organization in the race for the 1939 team title..

Kiefer won the 150-yard back-stroke championship last night and his 5 points went to Medinah.

Ed Kirar, free-style star, was ruled ineligible for participation as a member of the Medinah Club because of the residence regulation, and that club's 400- yard free-style relay team was withdrawn, no substitute for Kirar being available.

The summaries:

220-Yard Free Style—Won by Jack Medica, New York A. C.; second, Ralph Flanagan, unattached, Austin, Texas; third, Dave Tyler, Mercersberg Academy; fourth, Bill Quayle, Ohio State. Time—2:12.7.

220-Yard Breast-Stroke—Won by R. R. Hough, Princeton; second, J. Higgins, Ohio State; third B. Hayes, Fremont (Ohio) Ross High School; fourth, Al McKee, Ohio State. Time—2:39.5.

400-Yard Free Style Relay—Won by New Yord A. C. (McDermott, Reilly, Spence and Fick); second, Yale freshmen (Johnson, Kelly, MacLeman, Pope); third, Yale varsity (Duncan, Good, Moonan, Sandberg); fourth, Ohio State Johnson, Hartlein, Howard, Quayle). Time—3:31.3 (new world record; old record, 3:31.4, established by Michigan, April 9, 1937, at New Haven, Conn.).

KIEFER WINS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 30—Adolph Kiefer of Texas, holder of virtually every back-stroke swimming record, won the 150-yard title tonight as the annual National A. A. U. indoor championship meet got under way at Ohio State University.

Kiefer, swimming unattached for the present because the Texas Aquatic Club and the Medinah A. C. of Chicago could not decide which he should represent, won the event by three yards in 1:33.2, a half-second over the world record he set in 1936 at Chicago.

Taylor Drysdale of the Detroit A. C. was second, and inch ahead of Francis Heydit of Ann Arbor, Mich., unattached. Bob Stanhope of Ohio State was fourth, giving the defending team champions their first point. Joseph Burns of Yale and Harold Henning of the Lake Shore A. C. made up the remainder of the title heat.

Jack Medica of the New York Athletic Club, holder of world records in the 220 and 500-yard free style events, failed to qualify for the 100-yard free-style race.

Medica finished second to Waldemar Tomski of the Detroit A. C. in the first qualifying swim but couldn't stand the hot pace in the final heat leading to the title race.

Al Patnik, Ohio State's grandslam diving champion, led twentyone divers through the qualifying round, in which seven won places in the championship flight.

Kiefer succeeds Albert Vande Weghe of Princeton as 150-yard back-stroke champion. Vande Weghe, confined here with influenza, was unable to compete.

Peter Fick of the New York A. C., joint holder with Johnny Weissmuller of the 100-yard free style world record of 51 seconds, successfully defended his "century" crown against a stellar field with a 52.3-second performance.

Howard Johnson, Yale freshman, had the edge until the last few feet, but Fick's great last-second splurge beat him by an incor or two. Otto Jaretz, Chicago Medinah Club youngster, was third and Gus Sharement, unattached, of Ann Arbor, was fourth. Ed Kierar of the Medinah Club was fifth and Waldemar Tomski of the Detroit A. C sixth. Only four places count in the scoring.

4 U.S. College Ring Crowns Taken By Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis., April 1—University of Wisconsin fighters tonight won four of the eight individual championships in finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's fifth annual tournament.

The other four championships went singly to Loyola, of New Orleans; Idaho, Catholic U., of Washington, and Louisiana State.

The champions — all new — are Sewele Whitney, of Loyola, at 120 pounds; Ted Kara, of Idaho, at 127; Gene Rankin, of Wisconsin, at 135; Omar (The Assassin) Crocker, of Wisconsin, at 145; Woodrow Swancutt, of Wisconsin, at 155; Frederick Stant, of Catholic U., at 165; Truman Torgerson, of Wisconsin, at 175, and Rene Trochesse of Louisiana State, heavyweight.

Crocker's victory was the most vicious of the eight bouts. After meeting a man who would willingly exchange blows with him—and successfully for the first round—the Badger straightened Anthony Guida, of Temple, midway in the second round with a smashing right hand to the jaw spun him halfway around with another series of punches and finally dropped him. It was Crocker's twelfth knockout in sixteen straight victories.

The summaries:

120 pounds—Sewele Whitney, Loyola of the South, outpointed Al Michael, Louisiana State.

127 pounds—Ted Kara, Idaho, outpointed Carl Eckstrom, North Dakota.

135 pounds—Gene Rankin, Wisconsin, outpointed Henry Davis, Mississippi State.

145 pounds—Omar Crocker, Wisconsin, knocked out Anthony Guida, Temple, 1 minute 9 seconds, second round.

155 pounds—Woody Swancutt, Wisconsin, outpointed Heston Daniel, Louisiana State.

165 pounds—Frederick Stant, Catholic University, won on a technical knockout over Ed McKinnon, Washington State, 1:43 of second round.

175 pounds—Truman Torgerson, Wisconsin, outpointed Americo Wojciesjas, Syracuse.

Heavyweight—Rene Trochesset, Louisiana State, outpointed Nick Lee, Wisconsin.

Waseda Plays Rikkyo On Saturday, Sunday

Baseball fans of Tokyo are in for a rare treat Saturday and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium with Waseda and Rikkyo universities clashing in the Tokyo Six University league. Keio is favored to beat Tokyo Imperial University in the other part of the twinbills.

Waseda's batting attack downed Hosei twice this week, while Rikkyo held Meiji, past four season champions, to a 2-all draw in their first encounter and then won 5-4 after a 12-inning tussle in the second. If Pitcher Fukashi Ishida of Rikkyo is in any form, Waseda will be in for plenty of trouble. The breaks should decide the winner.

Keio will meet Teidai in the first game on Saturday and play the first game on Saturday and play the nightcap on Sunday.

PRINCETON NINE BEATEN IN DEBUT BY C.C. N.Y. 9-8

N.Y. Times

PRINCETON, N. J., April 1—C. C. N. Y. pushed across four runs in the ninth inning to defeat Princeton today, 9—8, in a game that lasted three hours. It was the first game of the Spring for both baseball teams.

Trailing the Tigers from the fourth inning, the Lavender reached Ray Schweizer, relief pitcher, for two singles in the first half of the ninth and scored four times, with the aid of three Princeton errors. Paul Graziano, who held the Orange and Black hitless in the last two frames, was credited with the victory.

The New Yorkers made eleven hits, seven off Dawson Farber, veteran left-hander, who was on the mound for six innings. It was not until the final frame, however, that the City College batsmen, who left fifteen men on bases, made the most of their opportunities.

COZIN DRIVES SINGLE

Syd Cozin, first man up in the ninth, singled to center and went to third when Stan Pearson, Tiger third-sacker, threw Mike Grieco's grounder wide of second. Cozin scored on Hy Friedman's safety and Grieco followed him home as Captain Brud Harper juggled the ball in center field. Bill Mayhew walked, then he and Friedman came in as Pearson, making his second miscue of the inning, flung the ball wide of first on Al Soupios's blow.

These three errors gave Old Nassau a costly total of six for the game.

In the fourth inning the victors recorded their first three runs on two singles and a Tiger misplay. Grieco hit safely to left field and came around when the Princeton second baseman, running out toward center field, dropped a fly from Friedman's bat.

Friedman reached home when Milt Weintraub drove a one-bagger, and Weintraub scored when Mayhew hit safely. Harper, in center field, ended the frame when he caught a highly fly, one of several that he handled nicely.

TIGERS GET FIVE RUNS

Princeton, which had gained a one-run lead on two singles and an error in the opening inning, again moved out front at the end of the fourth when five tallies came across. Three walks, three hits and a balk by Pat Brescia brought home Harper, Harry Powers, Dick Purnell, Farber and Ed Powers.

The Tigers made another run in the sixth and their eighth marker two innings later. City College tallied two more runs in the seventh.

Brescia, starting hurler for C. C. N. Y., allowed five hits in three and two-thirds innings and Arky Soltes was reached for four more.

KEIO, WASEDA ALL SET FOR BOAT CLASSIC

The 11th annual boat classic between the Keio and Waseda universities' eight-oared crews is slated for 4 p.m. Saturday on the Ara river between the Kajiwara Crossing at Ogu and the Otake Bridge over a 3,200-meter course.

Both crews have been in training now for several weeks and are reported in the pink of condition for the blue ribbon event in Japan's rowing circles.

Waseda won the race last year for the first time in six years and is keen on making it two years in a row for its fifth victory in the dual competition. As such, it started group training of the rowers on March 15. Keio was a week behind to commence its workouts.

Average weight of the Waseda crew is 155 pounds as against 165 for Keio. Six members of the Waseda crew will be rowing for the first time in the classic as compared with three of Keio in similar category.

Close observers of both crews are of the opinion that if Keio wins, it will be by a considerable margin, while on the other hand if it is a Waseda victory, it will be a nip and tuck affair. In other words, Keio is a slight favorite to win.

The crews follow:

Waseda: Yamada, stroke, 5 ft. 3 ins., 149 pounds; Goto, No. 7, 5ft. 5½ inches, 149 pounds; Morishita, 5 ft. 9½ inches, 149 pounds; Takahashi, No.5, 5 ft. 8 inches, 161 pounds; Shiga, No. 4, 5 ft. 8 inches, 149 pounds; Okabe, No. 3, 5 ft. 7½ inches; 145 pounds; Tomi Takahashi, No. 2, 5 ft. 9 inches, 161 pounds; Matsushiro, bow, 5 ft. 8 inches 136 pounds; Matsuo, Coxswain, 5 ft. 2 inches; 110 pounds.

Keio: Iwatani, stroke, 5 ft. 8 inches, 157 pounds; Tanaka, No. 7, 5 ft. 8 inches, 157 pounds; Hamatake, No. 6, 5 ft. 8 inches; 145 pounds; Kyo, No. 5, 5 ft. 9 inches, 165 pounds; Koyama, No. 4, 5 ft. 7 inches; 161 pounds; Iijima, No. 3, 5 ft. 7 inches; 161 pounds; Yoshiama ,No. 2, 5 ft. 8 inches, 140 pounds; Yamada, coxswain, 5 ft. 7 inches 145 pounds.

Army Engages Logan As Athletic Trainer

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 1—Roland Logan, former University of Kansas athlete, and head trainer at the University of Pittsburgh, has been engaged to act as head trainer of the Army athletic squads, at West Point, it was announced today by Lieut. Col. Louis E. Hibbs, graduate manager of athletics.

Logan, who will report here immediately to take over the position, was graduated from the University of Kansas in 1930, when he received his Bachelor of Science degree in physical education. Upon his graduation he accepted a position as head coach and assistant football coach at Kansas, remaining there until 1933, when he accepted a similar position at George Washington University. In 1935 he became head trainer of the Boston Red Sox, of the American Baseball League, occupying that position until 1938, when he was engaged by Pitt. He has taught athletic injuries and physical education at all three of the universities with which he has been connected.

In addition to his regular activities, Logan has been Glenn Cunningham's trainer and physical adviser intermittently for the last nine years, passing part of the Winter of 1937 in Florida with the famous runner, prior to his greatest indoor season.

Brundage Praises Athletic Facilities At Koshien Park

Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee and member of the International Olympic Committee, and Mrs. Brundage inspected the athletic facilities at Koshien, near Osaka, on Thursday.

The baseball stadium is in no way inferior to the Yankee Stadium, Mr. Brundage said. The facilities at the swimming pool can be said to excel any in the world. Certainly, there is no pool with better facilities, he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Brundage were honored at a luncheon given by the Koshien International Tennis Club at its new building.

Responding to greetings by Vice-President Ishii of the Club, Mr. Brundage promised to exert all his efforts in support of Tokyo when she is a candidate for organization of the Olympic Games in the future.

To Mr. Brundage, the club presented a silver cigarette case and an album as souvenirs, and to Mrs. Brundage, a handbag.

Mr. and Mrs. Brundage were also voted in as honorary members of the club.

YALE OR CORNELL FAVORED TO WIN BASEBALL CROWN

By IRVING T. MARSH

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, April 2—Columbia needs pitchers, Pennsylvania needs pitchers, Princeton needs a catcher, Harvard needs pitchers, Dartmouth is waiting for its infield to develop. Only Yale and Cornell seem set in every department. And Yale and Cornell look like the teams to beat in the tenth annual championship tournament of the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League, which will get under way Saturday at Philadelphia when Pennsylvania and Cornell clash at Franklin Field.

But even though Yale and Cornell appear, on paper, to be well fortified in every position, the race still looks wide open, with Dartmouth, especially, likely to be in the thick of the fight. Princeton, with a balanced combination of veterans and outstanding newcomers, is the league's dark horse.

Here, in condensed form, are the prospects of each team, listed in the order they finished in 1938:

Dartmouth (won 9, lost 3), will be strong in pitching, including on its staff (Hal (Chief) Wonson, who scored eight victories, tying the league record, and pitched eighty-two innings as a sophomore last year; Bill Maxson, a reserve in 1938, and three good sophomores, Johnny Lendo, George Sexton and Ed (Left) Hughes. The big problem is the infield. Osmo Linden, who played second and outfield last year, will probably be at first, with Gus (Swede) Broberg, who set a league basketball scoring record, also a possibility. Jack Orr, a sophomore; Joe Cottone, a senior, and Everett Woodman, a senior, probably will make up the rest of the infield. George Hanna, Will Pitz and either Broberg or Tuffy Reeves, will be in the outfield and Captain Joe Urban is set at catcher.

PRINCETON NEEDS CATCHER

Princeton (won 7, lost 5), needs a catcher to replace Ed Givens, named to the all-league team last year. The pitching staff, is headed by Dawson (Lefty) Farber, who had the best earned-run average in the league, 2.21. Other hurlers are Ray Schweizer, Pete Murphy and Dan Carmichael, sophomore. John Coleman, hockey goalie, is being tried at first with John Gefaell. John Knowles, a letterman, at third; Dick Purnell, hockey captain-elect, at short and Fritz Foote at second comprise the rest of the infield. Captain Brud Harper, Mark Hill, Bill Moore and Norman Cosby, freshman captain in '38, are the outfielders.

Harvard (won 8, lost 4), needs pitchers. The Cantabs still have Tom Healey as their No. 1 hurler, but more will have to be developed. Other possibilities are Hal Curtiss, a veteran; and John Schwede and Charles Brackett, freshman pitchers a year ago. The Crimson's greatest strength will be its hitting, with Ulysses Lupien the leader in this department. He dominated league batting last Spring, winning the Charles H. Blair Bat, making the most hits in the league, the most homers and most total bases. He will play at first. Captain Art Johns will be at second, Dick Grondahl at third and Fred Keyes, freshman captain in 1938, at short. Outfielders are plentiful, including six lettermen — Bob Gannett, Rud Hoye, Joe Soltz, Frank Foley, Don Prouty and Don Hall. Bob Fulton and Elliot Bacon are the catching veterans. Harvard has a new coach, Floyd Stahl, who came from Ohio State.

Yale (Won 6, Lost 6), has an excellent pitching staff, possibly the best in the league, with Veterans John Crosby, Dud Humphrey, Horace Schell, Al Stevens and, most important, Moe Jubitz. In addition there is Joe Wood jr., son of the coach, who won six and lost one for the freshman team. Tony Mott, who returns after a year's absence, and Bill Poole, are veteran catchers. Al Alter, Captain Eddie Collins, Roger Hazen, Harrison Holt and Bill Loveday fortify the infield and Greg Doonan, Gordy Grayson and Tony Mendoza probably will make up the outfield.

CORNELL MEN EXPERIENCED

Cornell (won 5, lost 7) also will have an experienced unit, the pitching staff, with Walter Sickles, a sophomore, and Bill Bensley and Jim Young, both veterans, is strong. The infield is fast and steady, with Bill Mogk, Walter Scholl, a sophomore, George Polzer and Frank Finneran, another sophomore. Kenny Brown and Walt Matuszczak, both football players, are in the outfield and Captain Bob White and Mike Ruddy, another footballer, are the catchers.

Columbia (won 4, lost 8) needs pitchers. Only two veterans, Hector Dowd and John Cerny, are left, but George Smith a sophomore, son of the George Smith who pitched for the New York Giants, may develop. Bill Stickel, Sid Luckman and Frank Murphy are the infield veterans, with Pete Lambert probably filling the vacant spot. Captain Art Radvilas, best hitter last year, and Bob Stortz, veterans, and Ken Pill, a sophomore, will make up the outfield. Jack Desmond, also a veteran, will be first choice catcher.

Pennsylvania (won 3, lost 9) likewise faces a pitching problem, but has at least two better-than-average players for every other post. Two sophomores and three holdovers from last year, none of whom won a letter, will form the hurling corps. They are John Horrocks, Lin Fawley, John Schmidheiser, Tony Caputo and Ralph De Frehn. Payson Brickley, a starting pitcher last year, will be out for a month. But the rest of the team shapes up well. Herb Ogden, Dick Trexler, Bill Koepsell, captain Chuck Diven, Bob Patridge and Bernie Sachs are among the infield standouts. Frank Reagan, the football star, is the most promising catching candidate. The outfield will be all-veteran with Bob McDonald, William Dignan and Fred Raffetto.

ONE DIES, 20 HURT AS STAND CRASHES DURING ENGLISH RUGBY LEAGUE MATCH

ROCHDALE, England, April 1 (Canadian Press). —With a crash like an explosion, a section of the grandstand on the grounds of the Rochdale Hornets, English Rugby League club, collapsed today, causing the death of one man and injury to about a score of others. The collapse occurred during a cup semi-final match between Salford and Wigan, played before a crowd of 50,000 spectators.

Fully half of the occupants of the grandstand, which accommodates 1,500, were thrown to the ground and many who had climbed to the roof to watch the play were dashed headlong among those below.

Of twenty persons taken to hospital, one died in an ambulance soon after he was picked up. Five remain in the hospital, the others being allowed to leave after medical attention.

The game was held up while players and spectators joined police in helping to remove the injured.

Salford won the contest, 11—2, and will now meet Halifax in the Rugby League Cup final. Halifax defeated Leeds, 10—4, in the other semi-final at Bradford.

WANDERERS GAIN POINT

LONDON, April 1 (Canadian Press)—The Wolverhampton Wanderers gained a point on Everton in the duel for the English Football League championship today. While the Wolves downed Chelsea, 2—0, at Molineux Park, their Lancastrian rivals were held to a 1-1 tie by Stoke City at Goodison Park.

With 50 points, Everton holds a four-point margin over the Wolves. Derby County stayed in the battle for the runner-up position by scoring the only goal of the game with Leeds United.

The Blackburn Rovers, second league pace-setters, increased their margin to 5 points with a 3-0 victory over West Bromwich Albion.

One of the biggest surprises of the day was provided at Highburv, home ground of the colorful Arsenal eleven. The Gunners were beaten, 2—1, by Middlesbrough.

The game at Highbury marked the first opposition victory since Nov. 5. Arsenal's amateur international, Joy, was badly hurt in the second half.

The representative Scottish team to tour Canada and the United States during the Summer may not include J. Delaney, Celtic's international winger. The clever outside-right suffered a fractured arm in the victory over Arbroath, 2—0.

Students Not Making Grades to Be Barred

Students failing to make their grades will be barred from competition for the next succeeding space of one year, it was formally decided by the All-Japan Students Ice Sports Federation Friday.

A suggestion was made to hold the speed skating, figure skating and ice hockey championships at one place but final decision was postponed to the next meeting.

All events will be held outdoors, it was decided.

U.S. Sports Leaders Will Try to Get Von Cramm Over

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, April 8 — American leaders of amateur and professional tennis will try to smooth the rocky comeback road for Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany whose brilliant court career was blighted temporarily by prison bars.

I learned authoritatively that officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association department to help the big blond German ace admitted to our country this Summer.

Such pressure will be needed because foreigners who have suffered prison sentences or who come under the clause of "moral turpitude" are banned entrance to our shores.

The USLTA brass hats are quite set upon having Baron von Cramm visit here this Summer. They need him for the five important grass tourneys, and particularly as a drawing card for the nationals at Forest Hills—now that Don Budge is carving out a quick hundred grand as a pro. They've got to have a big name for the gate.

And there is no greater name in amateur tennis today than that of von Cramm, who stands out as the world's No. 1 simon pure performer since the commercial shift of Budge.

Not only are the USLTA officials concentrating on the German baron, but Promoter Jack Harris of the professional tours also is casting big eyes at the Teutonic blond.

Harris admittedly recognizes in von Cramm the only tennis player in the world who may be used as a foil for Budge in a big-time American professional tour next Winter.

Harris says, "Budge beat Ellsworth Vines in the first half of the current tour. And Budge will beat Fred Perry of England in the last half of the tour. Next Winter we'll have to have von Cramm as an opponent for Budge, or we won't have any tour.

"No, I haven't negotiated with von Cramm yet about his turning professional, but Budge corresponds with him regularly, I believe everything will work out all right."

NAGAI TO GO TO I.O.C. MEET AT LONDON

Matsuzo Nagai, who served as executive secretary of the Tokyo Olympic Organizing Committee and was recently named a director of the Society of International Cultural Relations, will represent Japan at the forthcoming meeting of the International Olympic Committee at London in June.

It was feared for a time that Japan would be without a representative at the meeting as Mr. Nagai up to shortly had declined the request of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation to accept nomination as a member of the I.O.C., succeeding the late Professor Jigoro Kano.

The other two members from Japan, Prince Iyesato Tokugawa and Count Michimasa Soyejima, have announced their resignations. It is expected that their successors will not be named in time for the London meeting of the I. O. C.

Mr. Nagai, who also attended the Cairo session of the I. O. C. in March last year, is expected to sail on the N. Y. K. liner Tatuta Maru from Yokohama on May 11 which is the last boat by which he can reach London in time for the meeting.

The importance of sending a representative to the London I. O. C. meeting was emphasized recently by Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee, while in Tokyo en route to the I. O. C. meeting.

16,630 SEE RANGERS TOP BRUINS, 3-1

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK April 2—Profiting on their rivals' penalties, the New York Rangers struck for two goals in the third period and conquered the Boston Bruins at Madison Square Garden last night, 3 to 1. The local skaters, after yielding the first score to their foes in the middle chapter, tied matters up in that frame and went on to snare the victory on tallies by Bill Carse and Alex Shibicky in the final.

By their success, the Rangers managed to square matters with the Bruins in the teams' National Hockey League post-season series, with three victories apiece. They are engaging in a best four-out-of-seven-game playoff, and the final encounter will be staged in Boston tonight.

The winner will then meet the Toronto Maple Leafs in a best four-out-of-seven series for the Stanley Cup and the hockey championship of the world.

A SENSATIONAL COMEBACK

In moving into a tie with the Bruins the New Yorkers effected one of the most sensational comebacks in hockey history. Their chances were slim indeed a week ago tonight, when they lost the third straight game of the series to the Boston athletes. Prohibitive short-enders, at almost any price at all, the local skaters were accorded little chance to survive the round, but they confounded all expert opinion by coming through to win three games in a row themselves.

A throng of 16,630 fans packed every available inch of the Garden to see the Rangers make what could very easily have been their dying stand against the sturdy Boston puck-chasers.

And for a time it appeared as though it was truly a dying stand that the Blue Shirts were making, as they yielded an easy goal to Mel Hill midway in the second period. This tally came when the sides were at full strength as regards manpower and seemed to be the very goal the Bruins needed to restore their somewhat shaken morale.

RANGERS SOON DRAW EVEN

The Rangers, though, refused to accept the situation without fighting. They tore after their Massachusetts rivals savagely and quickly evened matters when Phil Watson swung around Eddie Shore to blaze what looked like an impossible shot past Frankie Brimsek into the Bruins' cage.

With this score both teams were content to play cautious hockey, and though there were several nerve-tingling solo rushes turned in by each side, play in the main was featured by close checking. It resolved into a case of waiting for the breaks, and the Rangers did just that.

Early in the third frame Hill was detected holding Mac Colville illegally, and he was sent to the fence. While their rivals were thus short-handed the New Yorkers piled all their skaters into Boston ice and snapped the tie when Carse neatly converted passes from Clint Smith and Art Coulter into a goal.

Several minutes later the Bruins again were forced to fight short-handed, as the result of a penalty called on the redoubtable Shore. Once more the blue-jerseyed skaters crossed Boston's line en masse, and once more they capitalized on their opponents' lack of full team strength by counting, Shibicky caging the rubber with the able assistance of Mac and Neil Colville.

Through the rest of the game the Bruins fought bitterly in the hope of whittling the New Yorkers' lead. They themselves had an advantage in man-power when Murray Patrick was sent to the sidelines for interfering with Hill, but, try as hard as they might, the eager Boston skaters could not crack the stubborn Ranger defense, nor could they break down Bert Gardiner, who played splendidly in the Blue Shirts' net.

10-RUN RALLY AIDS RIKKYO TO BEAT WASEDA

Smashing three Waseda pitchers for eight hits that netted 10 runs in the last half of the eighth, Rikkyo scored revenge over Waseda Sunday afternoon in the curtain-raiser of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league's doubleheader at the Meiji Shrine stadium. The final count was 14 to 5.

Captain Tamotsu Kusumoto's timely hit through short brought in Nagara, who had doubled, for Keio's only and winning run over Tokyo Imperial University (Teidai) in the second game, which made it two straight victories for the former.

The standings follow:

	G	W	L	T	Pct.
Waseda	4	3	1	0	.750
Keio	4	3	1	0	.750
Rikkyo	6	3	2	1	.583
Meiji	4	1	1	2	.500
Teidai	4	0	3	1	.125
Hosei	2	0	2	0	.000

SAIGO PITCHES WELL

Saigo's steady pitching contributed much to Rikkyo's victory. Although he was touched for three runs in the third when Waseda deadlocked the count and yielded two more in the seventh to allow Waseda to lead 5-4, he hurled tight enough ball to check the usually heavy hitting Waseda team to four hits, three of which were accounted for by Third Baseman Minamimura.

Ishiguro, Waseda's ace right-hander, started for Waseda but he got into heaps of trouble right in the first inning. Kitahara's hit to left took a bad bound and rolled away for a three bagger, driving in Fukumura, who had forced Yuki at second. Kiyohara squeezed Kitahara for the second run. Sakurai singled to center. Saigo and Kobayashi walked to clog the bases, and Ito singled to center to bring in Sakurai.

Saigo too put himself into a hole by walking Matsui and Murase as the third inning opened for Waseda. Minamimura drove a hot one to center which the center fielder failed to stop and both Matsui and Murase counted. Kimura walked. Asai grounded to third. Kiyohara attempted to force Minamimura at third but he was a bit too slow. Then he pegged to first but his throw was high and Minamimura checked in to tie the count.

Rikkyo forged into the lead in the fourth when Fukumura doubled to left to drive in Tsunajima who had singled to right and gone to second on Yuki's sacrifice.

ISHIGURO KNOCKED OUT

Ishiguro was sent to the showers in the fifth after Sakurai, first up, had singled to center. Kondo, bespectacled southpaw, took over the mound duty. He retired the side and seemed well on the road to victory when his team-mates registered two runs in the seventh to give him a 5-4 lead. But he blew up in the eighth though it must be said he was given ragged support on the part of his team-mates.

Yamashita, batting for Kobayashi walked and Yamagata was sent in to run for him. Machida rolled a hopper to third but the throw to first was a bit too low and all hands were safe. Tsunajima nicked Kondo for a hit through short and third and Yamagata scored. Tsunajima stole second. Matsui, playing his first season at first for Waseda, scooped up Yuki's grounder, but instead of touching the bag for a putout, pegged to the plate anticipating a dash by Machida to score. The latter however held his bag and the bases were loaded without a man away. Fukumura fanned but Kitahara sent a screaming double through third to drive in Machida and Tsunajima. Ogusu was sent in to pitch for Kondo. Kiyohara walked to fill the bases again. Murase messed up Sakurai's grounder to short and both Yuki and Kitahara scored. Saigo singled over second to clog the bases. Yamagata hit safely over first and Kiyohara checked in. Machida was out on a foul fly to the catcher but Tsunajima singled to right center and Sakurai and Saigo tallied. Yuki then singled to left and Yamagata and Tsunajima scored. Fukumura drove a single to right and Kawamura was sent in to relieve Ogusu. Kitahara fanned to stop the heavy scoring.

Waseda put two men on the bags in the ninth but Minamimura, who had already registered three hits, fanned to end the game, which took the lengthy time of 3 hours 20 minutes.

Shiraki, slim right hander, worked the entire game for Keio and hurled masterful ball, checking Teidai to four hits. Yutani, lanky righthander, too pitched good ball for Keio but again he suffered from the impotency of his team-mates at bat.

Teidai's best chance to score came in the third. Tamaki walked. Kida fanned but Goto doubled to left. Kawai walked to fill the bases but Kitano popped to second and Mitsutake, the team's heavy hitter, fanned.

BOSTON PLAYER WINS FAMED CALDER TROPHY

Canadian Press

TORONTO, March 29—Frankie Brimsek, young shutout artist of the Boston Bruins and a National Hockey League all-star in his first campaign, won the Calder Trophy awarded annually to the best National Hockey League rookie, it was announced tonight.

Brimsek, a 22-year-old from Hibing, Minn., was the choice of thirty-four hockey writers who balloted on the best crop of rookies the N.H.L. has seen in years Roy Conacher, sensational young left-winger of the Bruins, ran a close second to his goal-tending clubmate.

The writers listed their three preferred rookies in order and three points were given for first choice, two for second and one for third.

THE FINAL POINTS STANDING

This was the final point standing:

Brimsek, Boston	70
Conacher, Boston	66
Roy Giesebrecht, Detroit	44
Jack Crawford, Boston	10
Wilf Field, Americans	6
Bill Summerhill, Canadiens	3
George Allen, Rangers	2

Winning of the best-rookie trophy awarded by Frank Calder, league president, is just one of Brimsek's startling accomplishments his season. His first and most astonishing achievement was chasing the great Tiny Thompson out of Boston's goal.

Brought up to the Bruins by Manager Art Ross for the opening game when Thompson was shelved with an injury, Brimsek was so hot he never went back to the Providence farm club. Thompson was sold to Detroit and Brimsek was instaled officially.

He allowed fewer goals than any other N. H. L. netminder this season, winning the Vezina Trophy for that feat. He also led in shut-outs with ten. Hockey writers voted him on The Canadian Press first all-star team.

These stirring records in the nets won the Calder Trophy for Brimsek by only 4 points from Roy Conacher, brilliant young brother of Lionel and Charlie. Conacher led all league scorers with twenty-four goals in his first big-time season.

CONACHER WELL BACKED

Thirty of the thirty-four writers participating in the poll had Conacher on their lists, twenty-eight had Brimsek and twenty-seven had Roy Giesebrecht, brilliant center of the Red Wings. But Brimsek was named for the top spot by eighteen of his selections and Conacher by only twelve.

The Calder award was first won in 1937 by Sylvanus Apps of the Toronto Maple Leafs. The winner last year was Cully Dahlstrom of the Chicago Black Hawks.

U.S. NAVY TEAM WINS FIVE FENCING TITLES

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 2—Navy blades carved such a tremendous slice out of the Intercollegiate Fencing Association championships yesterday that the fortysixth annual tournament at the Seventh Regiment Armory had the most nautical tinge in its history. In an unprecedented sweep the midshipmen took five of the seven crowns, a larger share than any team ever had gathered before.

Both the three-weapon championship and the Little Iron Man, emblematic of the team foil honors had been clearly earmarked for the lads from Annapolis on the basis of their performances of the day before. Navy took them both in stride. But totally unexpected was a triumph in team epee as well.

Still the midshipmen were not done. Vincent de Poix of Hartsdale, N. Y., stabbed his way to the individual foil laurels and Abraham Campo of Manila slashed through to the saber crown in a fence-off with Alan Rorick of Army.

CADET MANZO EPEE WINNER

The service touch that this tournament had was not finished with the five navy triumphs. Salvatore Manzo of Army won the individual epee championship until the only thing that escaped the Army-Navy sweep was the team saber event, in which Columbia turned back the cadets in the deciding match, which was also the finale of the two-day show.

The Navy trio of John Howland, Phile Glennon and Jim McPherson did a grand job with the epee to dart past a Princeton team that had been the favorite. Glennon, fencing in the third pool, compiled a record of 9½ victories in his eleven bouts, which was sufficient to decide the championship.

Howland captured 7½, a half point away from tying Manzo, his Army rival, for the individual crown. He had that his grasp, too, only to stumble when faced with his biggest opportunity.

The cadet and the midshipman double-touched when they clashed and Howland won his other three bouts before he stepped on the strip against Berwin Cole of City College, an epee man with no imposing record.

COLE STOPS HOWLAND

According to all the form charts the Navy man should have won and hence annexed the championship. Instead he was beaten in this, his last bout, and the title fled right away, Manzo winning with eight victories and three setbacks.

The foil competition had a similar upset, but it came too late to make any difference, de Poix had taken his first nine bouts when he encountered Charles Lowenfeld of Cornell. Then a left-hander whose very left-handedness had given him a big advantage over all foes found the pressure too great and bowed, 5 to 4.

At the moment it looked like a serious lapse. Max Goldstein of City College had dropped only two bouts and still had a mathematical chance of advancing to fence-off, especially since the midshipman still had the formidable Silvio Giolito of N. Y. U. to meet.

But that opportunity collapsed of its own weight. The Beaver duelist immediately was beaten by Leon Seltzer of Columbia and the Navy man was in.

As the afternoon saber competition moved on apace an intriguing situation arose. At one point four men were even—Campo of Navy, Rorick of Army, Welles of Columbia and Jim Castello of N. Y. U., all with records of eight and two, with a bout each still to come.

Castello was toppled first when Herbert Spector of City College whisked him out of the picture, 5 to 2. Then Campo ran into trouble with Nat Batchelder of Harvard. He led, 3 to 0, then was tied at 4—all. But the midshipman from the Philippines staggered past that obstacle. Twice in a row he drove through winning touches only to have the judges miss them. The third time, however, he came through with a counter ripost that could not be missed.

That merely added to the complications. Had he been defeated, then the Rorick-Welles encounter at night would have decided the championship. As it was, it merely meant that the winner of it still would have to tackle the midshipman in a fence-off.

MIDDIES EXCEL WITH FOIL

The best job of the entire tournament by far was that by the navy foil team of de Poix, Dan Appleton and John Henry. Of their first thirty bouts, de Poix lost only one, Appleton none and Henry two, probably the closest any team has ever come to a clean sweep since the three-pool system was installed half a decade ago.

There was just nothing to the three-weapon competition all day. In past years the column on the scoreboard that handled the all-round standings were watched avidly by the fencing enthusiasts. Yesterday the blank spaces were not even filled in and no one minded it.

Navy went into the second day with far too great a lead in this phase. And when the Navy saber men continued to hold up very well the last lingering traces of doubt were swept away.

The midshipmen, in fact, were doing better than any one had anticipated until late in the afternoon when they were called upon to clash with Army and Columbia in succession. The Cadets swept to a 3-to-0 triumph and Middies and Lions divided their first two matches.

So the match was decided in Pool C, in which James Dare of Navy met Leo Wise of Columbia. The Annapolis youngster scored the first three touches and Columbia hearts sank into Columbia boots. But suddenly Wise came to life and ripped off five touches in a row to give the Lions a one-point lead over Army as the two teams went into the evening part of the show with the saber team championship hinging on their bout.

Darkness Stops Budge-Perry Match

LOS ANGELES, April 2—A 19-all fifth set in doubles, called off on account of darkness, left contestants Don Budge, Fred Perry, Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill and 3,000 thrill-jaded tennis fans limp after three hours of play at the Los Angeles Tennis Club today. It was nerve-wracking.

Vines and Gledhill broke Perry's service in the first set to win, 7—5. The affair then settled down to a first-class match between the world's best professionals, with the Oakland redhead and his English partner taking the second set, 6—3. Vines and Gledhill duplicated their first set score in the third, while Budge and Perry breezed through the fourth to win easily, 6—1.

The fiercely contested fifth set found the wear and tear of battle taking its toll on all four players.

Budge, who has been troubled with cramps, began to limp.

Vines, dashing desperately after a smash from Don's racquet, crashed into the backstop and injured his back.

Gledhill, who had appeared almost ready to faint for an hour, looked haggard and drawn, while even Perry reached the point of weariness.

Game after game found the players on the verge of dropping service, only to pull through with a spectacular volley or a devastating smash. Finally, with the score deadlocked at 19—all, they decided to call it off.

Victory apparently could not possibly have been won by any margin of skill, so it seemed better to quit than to have a winner triumph solely by exhaustion.

The day started placidly enough with Gledhill and Bill Weissbuch dividing a couple of well-played singles sets, and Budge continuing his assault on Perry with a decisive 6—1, 6—2 victory.

Foretells the future with the facts of today!

GULDAHL WINS MASTERS' PLAY WITH A 279

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON

N.Y. Times

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 2—Thwarted in his two previous attempts to win the Masters' tournament, one of golf's most coveted honors these days, Ralph Guldahl, national and Western open titleholder, today played one of the greatest rounds of all time to capture the event.

Finishing with a brilliant 69 on the famous Augusta National course, building as a sort of memorial to Bobby Jones' past achievements in the golf world, the big, droop-shouldered Braidburn pro snatched the victory away from Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., by a 1-stroke margin with a record-shattering seventy-two-hole total of 279.

Until today the record for the 6-year-old tournament stood at 282, the figure at which Gene Sarazen and Craig Wood tied in the event's second year. Today two broke it Guldahl and Snead, who finished with 280. Two tied it—Billy Burke, Cleveland veteran, and Lawson Little, former king of the amateur.

WOOD FINISHES SIXTH

Sarazen, maker of the famous double-eagle here in 1935, when he played off with Wood, finished fifth today with 283, while Wood, the new Winged Foot pro who captured second money in 1934 and 1935, was sixth with 284.

After them came Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., winner two years ago, with a total of 287; Henry Picard, last year's winner, with 289; Ben Hogan, young assistant pro at the century Country Club, with 290, and big Ed Dudley of the home club and Tony Penna of Dayton, Ohio, tied for tenth with 291.

The last to finish in the money were Tommy Armour of Chicago, Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., and Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., whose totals for the four rounds were 293.

Jones, the man in whose honor the tournament is staged annually and who confines his competitive golf to this one event, tied for thirty-third place with a score of 304.

JONES IN GOOD COMPANY

Bobby was in good company, however, his companions being Light Horse Harry Cooper, Walter Hagen and Jimmy Demaret, the Texan.

The best round Jones had in the entire tournament was the last when he came home in 34 for a 73. His other rounds were 76, 77 and 78.

At the conclusion of the third round this morning six of the leading shot-makers in the land-Guldahl, Sarazen, Snead, Nelson, Burke and Little—were practically blanketed.

Guldahl with a 70, for a three-round total of 210, had a one-stroke advantage over Sarazen, who needed a 72. The other four were bracketed at 212, Little playing himself up into a contending position with a 68.

By this time it was evident to most of the 8,000 spectators in attendance from near and far that the tournament honors would go to one of the six mentioned. A 76 had thrown Picard overboard.

In the afternoon Burke was the first of the six contenders to round the final turn and his 37, one over par, looked to be too high for further consideration.

NELSON 3 OVER PAR

When Nelson came to the tenth with a 39, three over, everyone knew that his goose was cooked. And so, by this time, it was pretty much of a certainty that the battle would be between Snead and Guldahl, with Little as a threat.

By the time Guldahl reached the turn Snead had finished with 280 and so the big man, who had won two of his last three tournaments—the Miami four-ball when he had Snead as his partner, and the Greensboro open—knew exactly what he had to do on the final nine in order to win the laurels that he had tossed away by a careless tee shot to the No. 12 hole here in 1937.

By this time, however, Little, his playing partner, had popped up as a candidate. As a matter of fact, Little, the reformed amateur, and he were tied teeing off to play the tenth hole for the final time, their 63-hole scores being 246, one more than Snead had at that point.

Where Guldahl shut Little off was at the tenth when he pitched his second close enough to the hole for a birdie 3, while Lawson had to put down a 5 after missing a putt of approximately one yard for his 4.

From there on Guldahl really put on a golf show. His second shot to the No. 11 hole hit a yard from the flag and bounced to the far edge of the green from where Guldahl almost got a 3, his putt lacking only six inches from being in the cup.

On the twelfth hole, over the water—the hole that cost him the tourney in 1937 when his ball landed in the water and forced him to take a 5 while Nelson came along and got a 2—he hit a beautiful pitch up to within six feet, only to miss that one.

And then came the shot of shots, one that will go down alongside the brassie that Sarazen played into the hole for a 2 on the par 5 No. 15 back in 1935. On the No. 13, a dogleg of 480 yards, Guldahl's drive was none too long.

In order to get home in two, which he knew he had to do in order to make sure of catching Snead, he had a terrific carry of 230 yards to make to clear a deep ravine in front and one on the side on which the hole was cut.

Without a moment's hesitation, Guldahl whipped out a No. 3 wood, took the ball off a side-hill lie and sent it whistling home and up to within six inches of the cup.

That was the shot of a master and the shot that won the tournament for him. It was a big gamble, of course, but he never flinched for a moment. It was rewarded a moment later when he holed a curling putt for an eagle 3.

68 ON HIS LAST ROUND

Par from there in would give him a two-stroke margin over Snead, who had finished with birdies on two of the last four holes for a 68 and 280 total.

Guldahl had to work for his par at the No. 14, where he was forced to get down in two from the front edge of the green. He almost snagged another 3 on the par 5 No. 15, and made only one mistake from there on. That was on the No. 17, where he pitched over the green and missed a five-foot putt for a 4 after getting back on.

So now a 4 on the last hole would win and a 5 would tie Snead since Little, taking 5s on the thirteenth and fourteenth, was out of it. A perfectly placed drive to the right-hand side of the last fairway left him with a No. 3 iron shot to the green and, although he was a little strong, sending his ball to the back edge of the green, he putted back to within a foot or so and tapped in the putt that made him the winner.

16,891 SEE BRUINS STOP RANGERS, 2-1

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

BOSTON, April 2—The Boston Bruins recovered from the shock of three setbacks in a row at the hands of the Rangers and defeated the New Yorkers tonight, thus gaining the Stanley Cup playoffs. The game was the seventh of the series, the Bruins having won the first three.

The score was 2 to 1.

At the conclusion of the regular three periods of play the teams were deadlocked at one-all. After a brief intermission the clubs continued in overtime play.

The count remained tied after a first extra session of twenty minutes. Following another intermission, the clubs continued into a second overtime stanza, which also was scoreless.

Hill broke the deadlock in the third overtime period, scoring for Boston in 8:00 of the session Cowley received credit for an assist.

There was another capacity crowd of 16,891 on hand when Schmidt beat Watson to the opening across the New York line. He was unable to shoot, however, and lost possession of the disk in Ranger ice. Watson collared the puck and made a lightning rush into the Bruins' zone and released a long drive that flew harmlessly past the cage.

The visitors kept the play in Boston ice for some minutes after Heller carried the rubber around Shore. But the Boston guards were adamant, and refused to allow their rivals a single shot at Brimsek.

FIRST PENALTY TO HELLER

After Schmidt made another fine advance into New York's sector the Bruins received an advantage in the form of a penalty called on Heller, who was banished for tripping Dumart. The New Yorkers refused to lie back on the defense, however, and they kept the action in the Boston sector for most of the time that Heller was out. Shibicky skated in alone on the center to take a high, fast shot at Brimsek, who blocked. A few moments later Shibicky got in alone again, only to fall just as he had a chance to shoot.

When Heller returned the New Yorkers massed in Bruin ice, where they fired at the cage from all sides. Most of their shots were inaccurate, but a drive by Smith, who took passes from Allen and Lynn Patrick, almost got past the Boston goalie, who stopped the thrust with a sensational save.

The Bruins' speedy line of Schmidt, Bauer and Dumart then stepped into action, and kept things humming in the vicinity of the New York cage, where Gardiner worked at top speed. The tension on the Blue Shirts' goalie was relieved temporarily when Hollett was penalized for tripping Smith. With Hollett out the Rangers attacked five strong, and came within an ace of scoring when Carse, on taking a pass from Smith, grazed the outside of the goal post with a short drive.

GARDINER HALTS SCHMIDT

Boston returned to the attack after Hollett came back, and Schmidt tested Gardiner with a long shot from the center alley. Then Bauer slipped along the right lane and ripped a sizzling drive at the Ranger goalie. In a scramble near the New York net Hextall stole the puck and streaked to Boston's zone, where he missed the goal by inches with a short shot.

Another penalty against Heller caused the Bruins to intensify their rushes, but they had little time to organize, for Clapper shortly joined Heller on an interference penalty. Heller returned to help his team make a five-man advance, but Pettinger intercepted a Ranger pass and skated close to Gardiner's goal to relay to Hamilton. The latter's shot was blocked and Shore, who took the rebound, fired wide just a few seconds before Clapper came back.

At the start of the second period the Bruins moved into New York ice, and Shore lifted a high shot that almost bounced into the goal off Gardiner's chest. The Bruin forwards trained a persistent bombardment on the Ranger cage, but Gardiner covered the drives well.

COULTER CLOSE TO TALLY

Coulter led a Ranger raid across the locals' border, and let fly with a long drive that just missed hopping over Brimsek's stick. The Bruins were not content to allow play near their own net, and sent numerous rushes into Ranger territory. Conacher made a dash along the left wing and passed to Cowley on the center. Cowley made a quick drive, but Gardiner blocked.

Deep in his own ice, Neil Colville took the puck and made a fine solo through the center alley. He deftly stepped around Crawford on the Bruins' penalty-shot line and rifled a high thrust at Brimsek, who made a thrilling save.

Schmidt retaliated with a charge just as cleverly executed as was Neil's. The Bruin center made his way to the length of the ice to a point near the Ranger goal, but he was spilled by Murray Patrick before he could shoot.

In a five-man attack the Rangers skated close to Boston's goal. Smith released a drive that flew through the Bruins' guards and bounced off Brimsek's stick. Pettinger took the disk and carried it well into New York's zone. He made a forward pass to Getliffe, who was standing just outside the Ranger cage, and Getliffe poked the rubber off Gardiner's leg and into the cage in 15:52.

The Rangers quickly retrieved the score when Murray Patrick, after taking a pass from Mac Colville, sent a blue-line shot past Brimsek in 17:45.

The Bruins charged mightily through the rest of the period and missed several good opportunities.

When the third period got under way the Bruins launched a steam-roller rush, and battered away at the blue-jerseyed guards from all sides. Neil Colville turned the play into Boston's sector with a center-alley drive, and passed to Carse. The latter just was able to get his stick on the rubber and slide it toward the half-open Boston net, but his shot lacked force, and the puck stopped an inch outside the goal.

FIVE MEN IN BRUIN ATTACK

Cowley flashed into the New York area alone and drove a straight shot at Gardiner. The Bruins set a terrific pace and kept five men in Ranger ice until Allen broke away. Allen stepped as far as Boston's penalty shot line before passing to Smith, just outside the crease, but Smith drove squarely at Brimsek's

There was no more scoring action and the teams went into overtime.

In the first overtime period the Bruins had the territorial advantage over their foes. Bauer and Cowley tested Gardiner with short drives early in the chapter, and the home team refused to allow the Rangers to charge. Mac Colville and Smith, on individual sallies, made the best Ranger rushes, but neither could reach the net.

Near the end of the period the Bruins sent three men in on Gardiner. Conacher hit a post from the left lane, and then fired wide at an open cage from the right.

The Bruins forced the going in the second overtime period also, with the Schmidt-Bauer-Dumart line breaking through the Ranger defense often. Gardiner had some difficult chances, but he handled them well.

Hill won the game and the series for Boston by caging passes from Cowley and Conacher in 8:00 of the third overtime period.

Butterfly Stroke Barred In Middle Schools

The weird butterfly stroke in the breaststroke, first demonstrated in Japan by John Higgins of the American team several years ago at the Meiji Shrine pool, will be barred hereafter from the middle schools competition, it was decided by the Japan Students Swimming Federation on Sunday afternoon.

The decision was reached to have swimmers in the middle schools to concentrate their efforts on the orthodox Japanese style of the breaststroke which has won championships at the Olympic Games—the 200-meter titles by Miss Hideko Machata and Tetsuo Hamuro for the men at Berlin in 1936.

Field Hockey Dropped From Helsinki Games

Field hockey will be omitted from the 1940 Olympic Games to be held at Helsinki, the Japan Hockey Association was recently notified by the International Hockey Association.

The decision not to include hockey in the program of the next Olympics was reached by the International Hockey Association at the meeting of its committees at Paris last month.

The Japan Hockey Association has however decided to send a Japanese team to the world hockey championships to be held in May next year.

NAGAI ACCEPTS NOMINATION FOR I.O.C. POST

Matsuzo Nagai, who was executive secretary of the Tokyo Olympic Organizing Committee, formally accepted on Monday nomination as a member of the International Olympic Committee. He did so after meeting with Dr. Hirosi Shimomura, president of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation, Dr. Itsutaro Suyehiro, chairman of the board of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation, and Count Michimasa Soyejima, who has announced his intention to quit as a member of the I.O.C.

Mr. Nagai will have the responsible job of reporting to the I. O. C. meeting commencing on June 6 at London on Tokyo's cancellation of the 12th Olympic Games next year. He must also see to it that the door will be left open for Tokyo to stage the Games some years hence.

Mr. Nagai will be elected to the post vacated by the late Professor Jigoro Kano, who died on the Pacific last year while en route home from Cairo where he represented Japan at the general meeting of the I.O.C.

Because of a lingering illness, Prince Iyesato Tokugawa has also resigned as a member of the I.O.C.

It is believed that considerable time will be taken before successors to Prince Tokugawa and Count Soyejima will be nominated.

Mr. Nagai will sail from Yokohama on May 11 aboard the N. Y. K. liner Tatuta Maru for London via America.

Following the general meeting, he will further proceed to Finland with a view to explaining all the circumstances leading up to Japan's abandonment of her right to hold the 12th Olympic Games in Tokyo in 1940, before the Finnish Olympic Organizing Committee at Helsinki.

U.S. NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE'S CARD SHOWS TREND FOR MORE STABILITY

By JOSEPH M. SHEEHAM

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 3—The complete official schedule of the National Football League for 1939, announced yesterday by President Joe F. Carr, is shorter by a week, includes fewer night games and further differs from that of last year in that contests at other than the home fields of member teams have been eliminated. The program thus is seen as reflecting a trend to put the sport on a more stable basis.

Starting Sept. 10, when Pittsburgh visits Philadelphia and the Chicago Cardinals invade Detroit, each of the ten member clubs of the professional gridiron circuit will play eleven games, meeting rivals from the same division twice on a home-and-home basis and also playing single games against three teams from the other division.

The regular season, which includes a total of fifty-five games, will end Dec. 3 with Washington at New York. The championship play-off, to be held in the West this year unless the Western champion exercises its privilege of selecting an Eastern site for the title battle, will follow one week later on Dec. 10.

CARR'S TASK NEXT WINTER

It was only after prolonged and spirited bickering among the club owners that this "streamlined" schedule was completed. All this will be President Carr's personal problem next Winter, for after their last strenuous session, the owners voted to delegate to him the task of drawing up the 1940 program.

Night games were largely a matter of individual option, but it is interesting to note that only four have been booked in comparison with six in 1938 and that one of the nocturnal contests will be played on a Sunday, professional football's traditional day of the week.

The champion New York Giants list six home games, one less than in 1938. After pre-season engagements with all-star combinations in Chicago and New York, the Giants will open at Philadelphia Sept. 24. The Eagles will be the first visitors at the Polo Grounds on Oct. 15, the Chicago Bears and Cardinals. Pittsburgh, Brooklyn and Washington following in that order later. The Maramen go to Detroit for their third intersectional game.

Brooklyn lists night games at home with Pittsburgh and Cleveland on Sept. 14 and 20, respectively. The Dodgers also will entertain Philadelphia, New York, Washington and Green Bay and, like New York, will go to Detroit. Incidentally, for the first time in several years, the interborough rivals will not meet at Ebbets Field Thanksgiving Day, the Giants making their annual trip across the river on Oct 29 instead.

ATTENDANCE OF 1,500,000 SEEN

President Carr is confident that more than 1,500,000 spectators will see National League teams in championship, all-star and special exhibition games this year.

The schedule:

Sept. 10—Pittsburgh at Philadelphia; Chicago Cardinals at Detroit.

Sept. 14—Pittsburgh at Brooklyn (night).

Sept. 15—Cleveland at Chicago Bears (night).

Sept. 17—Chicago Cardinals at Green Bay; Washington at Philadelphia.

Sept. 20—Cleveland at Brooklyn (night).

Sept. 24—New York at Philadelphia; Brooklyn at Detroit; Chicago Bears at Green Bay; Chicago Cardinals at Pittsburgh.

Oct. 1—New York at Washington; Brooklyn at Philadelphia; Cleveland at Green Bay; Chicago Bears at Pittsburgh; Detroit at Chicago Cardinals (night).

Oct. 8—New York at Pittsburgh; Brooklyn at Washington; Green Bay at Chicago Cardinals; Chicago Bears at Cleveland.

Oct. 15—Philadelphia at New York; Pittsburgh at Washington; Chicago Cardinals at Chicago Bears; Cleveland at Detroit.

Oct. 22—Chicago Bears at New York; Philadelphia at Brooklyn Washington at Pittsburgh; Detroit at Green Bay Sleveland at Chicago Cardinals.

Oct. 29—New York at Brooklyn; Washington at Green Bay; Pittsburgh at Cleveland; Detroit at Chicago Bears.

Nov. 5—New York at Detroit; Brooklyn at Pittsburgh; Philadelphia at Washington; Chicago Cardinals at Cleveland; Green Bay at Chicago Bears.

Nov. 12—Chicago Cardinals at New York; Washington at Brooklyn; Green Bay at Philadelphia; Chicago Bears at Detroit.

Nov. 19—Pittsburgh at New York; Green Bay at Brooklyn; Chicago Cardinals at Washington; Philadelphia at Chicago Bears; Detroit at Cleveland.

Nov. 26—Brooklyn at New York; Philadelphia at Pittsburgh; Detroit at Washington; Chicago Bears at Chicago Cardinals; Green Bay at Cleveland.

Nov. 30—Green Bay at Detroit; Philadelphia at Cleveland.

Dec. 3—Washington at New York.

TEMPLE NINE TOPS DARTMOUTH, 6-3

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, March 31—Temple opened its baseball season today by defeating Dartmouth, 6—3, on a windswept field.

Pitchers Norm Harris, Joe Matchett, Ed Fulmer and Bob Nicol held the Indians to five hits. Harris did not yield a safety in his three innings.

Wildness on the part of Bob Dickgeisser enabled the Owls to score four runs with two out in the sixth that decided the game. Dickgeisser made two wild pitches during his flare-up.

In the seventh Jack Orr tripled, Gus Broberg walked and Joe Cottone and Everett Woodman singled, giving the Indians two runs. Hanna's walk, Hein's two-bagger and Orr's infield out put over another in the eighth.

The box score:

DARTMOUTH

	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Hanna, lf.	3	1	0	2	0	0

COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR

By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Enko Vaccari

THE LONDON TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT

. . . .this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.

A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.

Grammar: 15 x 22.1 cm, Pages 538, ¥12.00 and Postage (with two large maps, one of Japan, and one of Tokyo)
Supplement: Pages 280, ¥5.00 and Postage

漢字カード

AN EASY METHOD TO LEARN CHINESE-JAPANESE CHARACTERS

By Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Vaccari

This new and unique publication is indispensable to students wishing to learn Chinese-Japanese characters methodically and quickly.

Every character, printed in large size in handwriting style on one side of a card, is given, in printed style, in combination with other characters, which combinations reproduce the essential Japanese compound words that are necessary to know in order to understand Japanese newspapers and books.

The compound words are given a progressive number, and on the other side of the cards the numbers are repeated with the pronunciation in Roman letters and the English translation of the compound words under consideration.

The cards are contained in a specially designed box.

MAIN FEATURES

1. The first publication showing how Chinese-Japanese characters are written with the brush (fude).
2. Containing 7000 compound words used in modern Japanese.
3. All characters have been given in the order of the progression of the number of their strokes, which is indicated on the upper edge of the partitions that divide the cards in the box.

Size of the cards 4 x 2¾ inches
Size of the box 9 x 6 x 4½ inches
NET WEIGHT 6½ lbs.

Price of the set ¥12.00 and postage. Postage abroad U.S.$1.25

EVERTON VANQUISHES CHELSEA, 2 TO 0; LIVERPOOL TOPS DERBY COUNTY BY 2-1

N.Y. Herald Tribune

LONDON, April 8—Smashing ahead in its drive for the English Football League title today, Everton blanked Chelsea, 2 to 0, at Stamford Bridge. The pacemakers, with fifty-four points, now lead the Wolverhampton Wanderers by eight, Preston overcoming the Wolves, 4 to 2. It was Everton's second victory in the Easter holiday series, but the Wanderers were idle yesterday. Derby County lost an opportunity of overhauling the runners-up by finishing at Liverpool on the short end of a 2 to 1 score.

The victory put Everton within five points of the championship. The Toffeemakers lead by eight points over the Wolverhampton Wanderers who have six more games to play.

Chesterfield and Sheffield United, joint holders of second place in the second division, moved a little closer to the Blackburn Rovers, trounced, 4 to 0, at Norwich. Chesterfield drew, 2 to 2, at Southampton, and Sheffield United and Bury played a 1 to 1 tie. Although the season has a month to go, Barnsley clinched the championship of the third division's northern section by a 2 to 1 verdict over Wrexham.

Putting up a game fight to avoid relegation to junior status, the Raith Rovers edged out a 3 to 2 decision over Aberdeen in Scottish football.

Leading teams were defeated with the exception of the champion Rangers, held to a 1 to 1 draw by Queen of the South at Dumfries. The Hibernians downed Celtic by the only goal scored at Easter Road, while Hearts lost, 4 to 1, at Kilmarnock. Hearts now share fourth place in the standing with Falkirk. In second division play Alloa trimmed Dumbarton, 2 to 1, to go into undisputed possession of second place behind Cowdenbeath, already certain of promotion at the end of the season.

COLUMBIA STUDENT WINS U.S. EASTERN BADMINTON TITLE

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 3—Albert Frost, Columbia University senior, annexed the first Eastern intercollegiate badminton championship yesterday at the Old Sixty-ninth Badminton Club in the 165th Regiment Armory, taking the measure of Francis B. Hamlih Jr., Yale freshman, in the final. The score was 11—15, 15—9, 15—11. A half hour later, Frost and Hamlin paired to capture the doubles crown by defeating Robert Harvey and R. T. Nalle Jr., Princeton freshmen 15—13, 15—4.

Frost's victory in the singles was gained after an uphill struggle. The Yale man smashed his way to a close victory in the opening game and soon enjoyed a 3—0 advantage in the second. Then Frost put on the pressure and counted four successive points to wrest the lead from his opponent.

AN EVEN STRUGGLE

From this point the pair battled on fairly even terms and the halfway mark found them deadlocked at 8—all. Frost broke through with two point and Hamlin took one. Suddenly the Columbia senior changed his attack from the hard, smashing type to a soft, net game and before Hamlin was able to devise some means of stopping him Frost quickly ran four points in a row. After Hamlin had failed to score. Frost clinched the game with a beautiful drop shot.

Following a short rest the youths returned to the court and staged a keen contest, with Hamlin doing most of the smashing and Frost playing the softer game. Even in their services there was a distinct difference, Frost's short service giving a great deal of trouble.

Hamlin again forged into a 3-0 advantage and later in the game was in front by 11—8. But Frost's net and drop shots proved great weapons, as he came from behind and counted 6 points in a row.

PLACEMENT ENDS MATCH

Needing only one more point, Frost was wild with a smash. After Hamlin had failed to capitalize on the opening, however, Frost returned to service and settled the issue with a perfect placement.

In the doubles Frost and Hamlin appeared to possess too much steadiness. Their opponents offered some opposition in the initial game, but in the second Mamlin's smashes and Frost's placements rapidly wore down the Princeton first-year men.

Dr. Edward S. Elliott, director of athletics at Columbia University, was among the spectators. He made the official presentation of the trophy won by Frost.

PENN SET BACK BY DARTMOUTH IN TRACK MEET

By JESSE ABRAMSON

PHILADELPHIA, April 8—Dartmouth's track team, returning from a Southern competitive and training tour, stopped off here to administer a rare defeat to Pennsylvania in their dual meet at Franklin Field this raw, sunless afternoon. The score was 75 2-3 to 59 1-3, the Green clinching the meet in the next to last event.

This was the first dual meet since 1930 between the teams coached by Lawson Robertson and Harry Hillman, one time marvels of three-legged racing. In all the years of their rivalry before 1930, Dartmouth beat Pennsylvania only once, but Penn's track team isn't the power it used to be. To come right out and say so, it is the current doormat of the Ivy League.

At that, this is the best Penn track team in five years. The Red and Blue athletes won eight of the fifteen events, but they were sadly deficient in depth and weak afield. The Green athletes scored ten second places and they mopped up the home forces in the field events, 45 2-3 to 17 1-3 points.

DREBINGER SCORES DOUBLE

Outstanding were the performances of two Penn runners. John Drebinger jr., sophomore star from New York, took the mile and 880, and Ray Bradley, another sophomore, won the 100 and 220 for the day's only doubles.

A scrawny, unprepossessing runner is bespectacled Johnny Drebinger but he runs better than he looks. In the mile he lazed along in third place behind two Green rivals until the last turn and then let loose his kick. He won by five yards, going away, in the mediocre time of 4:31.

A season of quarter-mile running on the mile relay has stepped up the speed of Drebby. Following his easy mile, he ran a 1:58.3 half, which wasn't bad under the wintry conditions. Here he dogged the footsteps of Bob Unangst, of Dartmouth, to the home stretch and then he ran away from the field, opening a ten-yard gap.

BRADLEY'S DOUBLE SURPRISES

Bradley's sprinting was a surprise, for Penn's best dash man was believed to be George Kroupa, another sophomore. Bradley won the century from Kroupa by more than a yard in 10.1 seconds and then snatched the furlong, run around a turn, in the good time of 22 flat. Kroupa was third in this event, behind George Stevenson, of Dartmouth.

Penn won all the track events except the quarter and two-mile. Jud Foster and Jack Horner ran one-two in the 440 in 50.2 seconds, and Dartmouth made a grand slam in the two-mile. Penn retaliated by taking 17 of 18 points in the two hurdles.

Best of the field performances was the jumping. Andy Hunter, or Dartmouth, cracked the only meet record, resurrected from the past, when he cleared 6 feet ⅜ inch in the high jump. Don Blount, the Dartmouth sophomore, cleared 23 feet 1½ inches in winning the broad jump.

The summaries:

By The Associated Press

100-yard dash—Won by Raymond Bradley, Penn.; George Kroupa, Penn., second; Paul Mahoney, Dartmouth, third. Time, 0:10.1.

220-yard dash—Won by Raymond Bradley, Penn.; George Stevenson, Dartmouth, second; George Kroupa, Penn., third. Time, 0:22.

440-yard dash—Won by Jud Foster, Dartmouth; Jack Horner, Dartmouth, second; George Knepper, Penn., third. Time, 0:50.2.

Mile run—Won by John Drebinger, Penn.; Fred Upton, Dartmouth, second; Watson Taylor, Dartmouth, third. Time, 4:31.

Two-mile run—Won by James Malaney, Dartmouth; Bert MacMannis, Dartmouth, second; Cliff Holmes, Dartmouth, third. Time, 10:26.1.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Hughes Cauffman, Penn.; James Adams, Penn., second; DeWitt Jones, Dartmouth, third. Time, 0:15.2.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Warren Wittens, Penn; Hughes Cauffman, Penn., second; Dick Adams, Penn., third. Time, 0:24.5.

Hammer throw—Won by Dick Campbell, Dartmouth, 137 feed 4¼ inches; Arthur Ide, Dartmouth, 129 feet 4 inches, second; Sonny Lavine, Penn, 123 feet 1¾ inches, third.

Javelin throw—Won by Doc Wharton, Dartmouth, 174 feet 6¾ inches; Jack Stewart, Dartmouth, 170 feet 11 inches, second; Ted McKinney, Penn, 148 feet 10 inches, third.

Shot put—Won by Paul Wexler, Penn, 43 feet 10⅛ inches; Bob Nissen, Dartmouth, 42 feet 3¾ inches, second; Robert Schuman, Penn, 42 feet 1⅛ inches, third.

880-yard run—Won by John Drebinger, Penn; Dick Howard, Dartmouth, second; Robert Unangst, Dartmouth, third. Time, 1:58.3.

Pole vault—Won by William Bailey, Dartmouth, 12 feet; Colby Howe, Dartmouth, 11 feet 6 inches second; Joseph Huggins, Penn. 11 feet, third.

High jump—Won by Andy Hunter, Dartmouth, 6 feet ⅜ inches; Donald Blount and Larry Andrews, Dartmouth, and Sam Moore, Penn, 5 feet 10¼ inches, tied for second.

Discus—Won by Robert Schuman, Penn, 128 feet 8½ inches; Murdock Wharton, Dartmouth, 126 feet 8¾ inches, second; Bill Bradway, Penn., 124 feet 2¾ inches, third.

Broad jump—Won by Donald Blount, Dartmouth, 25 feet 1½ inches; Andy Hunter, Dartmouth, 21 feet 8 inches, second; George Kroupa, Penn, 21 feet 3½ inches, third.

Riveira Signs Up With Tokyo Giant

Homerun hitter of the Philippines, A. Riveira, has signed up with the Tokyo Giants and is expected to be a factor in its drive for the 1939 championship of the Japan professional baseball league.

He has already been registered with the Japan Baseball Federation and the Giants expect to start him in the line-up at the Korakuen stadium here on Thursday. He arrived at Kobe from Manila on April 26. Though he found the weather a bit too cold for him, he has been working regularly with the Giants.

Riveira is 5 ft. 9 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds.

PENN ROUTS CORNELL NINE IN OPENER, 6-3

By JESSE ABRAMSON

PHILADELPHIA, April 8—Pennsylvania, cellar occupant in the Ivy circuit last year, opened the tenth championship campaign of the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League by trouncing Cornell, 6 to 3, this chilly afternoon on Franklin Field.

From the opening inning when Chuck Diven and Dick Trexler successfully engineered a double steal, the re-inforced Quakers were never headed. They broke a 1-all tie by scoring three more runs in the fifth and then one each in the seventh and eighth.

Frank Reagan, Pennsylvania's red-headed sophomore, who performs his sports deeds with a flair, was credited with his first intercollegiate pitching success. Coming into the game to start the fifth after Linwood Fawley had yielded four hits and one run, Reagan held the opposition hitless, struck out five, passed three and gave up two runs on a walk, two errors and a passed ball in the sixth. He retired the enemy in order in the last three innings as only one Ithacan drove the Reagan fast ball out of the infield.

CONVERTED FROM CATCHER

Reagan came to Pennsylvania as a catcher with major league ambitions. He did not play freshman ball last year. And now he has turned up as a pitcher. In his varsity debut he did his stuff in the Merriwell manner against the Penn A. C. last Saturday, yielding one hit in five innings and winning the game with his robust hitting.

All three Cornell runs were unearned, four Penn errors and a passed ball giving the visitors their total. For its mistakes afield the home team made amends by timely and lusty stickwork. The Quakers pummeled Mike Stehnach's southpaw offerings for nine safeties, five of them doubles. Herb Ogden made two of them.

Although Penn made a hit in the first inning it did not use it in scoring its run. Diven reached first on an error, stole second and went to third on Mike Ruddy's too-powerful toss to nail him. Trexler then walked and the two runners put on their double steal. Cornell got this run back in the third on singles by George Polzer and Walt Matusczak and an error by Trexler on Kenny Brown's grounder.

QUAKERS TALLY 3 IN FIFTH

In the fifth Penn scored three runs on Bill Koepsell's double, a walk to Diven and singles by Trexler and Billy MacHarg, who knocked in two with his hit to left.

Doubles by Diven and Morris produced another Penn run in the seventh, and Koepsell's Texas Leaguer to right, with the bases filled, scored another in the eighth. But Koepsell did not get credit for a hit because Reagan dallied going down to second and was forced.

Polzer, who belted two of Cornell's hits, had his troubles at second base. He was spiked twice.

The Cornell batting order is loaded with football talent—Scholl, Matusczak, Brown and Ruddy.

Ogden accepted thirteen chances at first without an error.

John Gannett, Cornell lead-off man, fanned four times in a row, once with the sacks loaded in the second.

GIANTS WIN DAIMAI SERIES FOR 3 IN ROW

Pitcher Stalphin, a white Russian from the Hokkaido, hurled sparkling ball and the Tokyo Giants blanked the Osaka Hankyu squad, 4 to 0, Tuesday afternoon at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka, to win their third straight title in the third annual professional teams championship sponsored by the Osaka Mainichi Shimbun. He yielded but three hits.

Rightfielder Nakajima, last year's leading homerun hitter of the pro league, also was a big factor in the Giants victory. He doubled in the first inning to drive in two runs. Then in the fifth, he smashed a triple over the centerfielder's head to score a man from first.

Shigematsu replaced Ishida after Nakajima's triple in the fifth and got by the sixth inning without trouble but he was nicked for a run in the seventh frame. Third Baseman Mizuhara doubled to center to score Stalphin from first.

Stalphin was voted the most valuable player of the series. He held the Dolfins, Lions and Hankyu scoreless in the three games the Giants played.

Left Fielder Kido was the leading hitter of the series with a .417 mark, the result of five hits out of 12 times at bat in three games.

The Lions clinched third place in the series by beating the Senators, 4 to 0, in Tuesday's doubleheader. Pitcher Kondo was in brilliant form and held the Senators to two hits.

The Isolated Courthouse

The Henrico County Courthouse is in Richmond, Va., but, according to the clerk of the court, does not adjoin any part of Henrico County. Richmond, like other Virginia cities over 10,000 population, is considered a county in its own right. The Henrico County Courthouse was not located in Henrico County because most of the county's business was transacted in Richmond.

U.S. YACHTS BEATEN AGAIN BY BERMUDA

By WILLIAM H. TAYLOR

N.Y. Herald Tribune

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 8—Bermuda's sailors overwhelmed the American team in the second race of their international one-design series today, scoring 23¼ points to 13 for the invaders and gaining a 2-to-0 lead in the series. The Bermudians won the opener Thursday, 20¼ to 16.

Sailing the twelve-and-one-half mile course in a brisk west by southwest wind that sometimes reached twenty miles, the home sailors had things almost entirely their own way from start to finish. They were led across the finish line by Jim Pearman's Zephyr, which crossed first in a blanket finish with Bayard Dill's Coquette. Joseph L. Merrill's Feather, skippered by Bill Cox, was the first American boat, finishing third. The first three boats all finished within seven seconds of each other.

WORK SOMERSET SHORE

Starting at Hospital Buoy, the Bermudians soon had the Americans all covered. The fleet split, Coquette, Vincent Frith's Teaser, Feather and Herman F. Whiton's Ginch beating down the east side of Great Sound while the others worked the Somerset shore.

Feather worked her way into the lead among the easterly division of the fleet, but Teaser outsailed Ginch, which was going rather badly. On the other side of Great Sound the Bermuda boats, Zephyr and Roderick Williams's Undine, completely outsailed Donald G. Miller's Brendy and Robert M. Stanley's Grilse.

When the boats converged at the weather mark those from the Somerset side had a slight advantage. Zephyr rounded the buoy first, followed by Feather, Undine, Teaser, Brendy, Ginch and Grilse, in that order. On the two reaching legs, the only change in position shifted Teaser and Coquette.

On the second upwind leg, Cox got Feather going splendidly and finally crossed Zephyr's bow, taking the lead. Pearman put up a hard fight, making frequent tacks which slowed both leaders somewhat and allowed the other Bermudians to gain on them. Feather was the only American boat making a good showing. The others seemed to be thoroughly beaten.

AMERICAN BOAT PASSED

At the second weather mark the order was Feather, Teaser, Zephyr, Coquette and Undine, the three other American boats trailing. On the final run downwind, Cox sailed Feather over the long course, reaching out to the east and making a slow gybe, with Coquette covering her. As a result the Bermuda boats overhauled the American entry.

Zephyr established her lead a few lengths from the finish line and Coquette also passed Feather there. Teaser, skippered by Bert Darrell was only a few seconds behind the leaders.

Brendy gained a point by running home and passing Undine, but it was not enough to make the result anything but a pretty complete rout of the American skippers by the able Bermudians.

The critics who were doubtful of the ability of the Bermudians to win before the series now are predicting a possible four straight victory.

The next race will be sailed on Monday and two are scheduled for Tuesday, which may complete the series.

Zephyr's elapsed time was 1 hour 53 minutes, with Coquette three seconds behind.

YANKEES ARE PICKED TO WIN FOURTH STRAIGHT PENNANT

By RUD RENNIE

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 8—Unless injuries befall them in bunches somewhere along the pennant trail, the defending world champion Yankees should win again and be the first American League team ever to win four consecutive pennants.

The Boston Red Sox is the only team which looms as a challenger to Yankee supremacy. And to make good, the Red Sox must be favored by good fortune and have at least three rookies come through and play like veterans for Joe Cronin.

Woodrow Rich, the highly touted hurler from Little Rock, or Wilfred Lefebre, or somebody, must contribute winning pitching to a staff on which the great Bob Grove no longer can be considered as a certain winner.

Jim Tabor must make good at third; and Ted Williams had better live up to the promise he showed in Spring training.

YANKEES STRONG IN RESERVE

The Yankees, on the contrary, are the only team in the league who are virtually independent of rookie assistance. They have the same team they had last year—a winning combination in itself, strengthened by two good-looking young outfielders, Charley Keller and Joe Gallagher, and a hard-hitting young catcher, Buddy Rosar.

Only in the pitching department are the Yankees doubtfull of added strength.

So the only doubt of Yankee victory lies in the ability of the regulars to go through another hard season.

Much has been made of Lou Gehrig's decline as a hitter and fielder. Everyone, including Joe McCarthy, the manager, who saw Gehrig in action this Spring, agreed he looked terrible. He is the team's No. 1 problem. It is a question whether he can hold his job through the season. This question cannot be answered until the season gets under way.

What step will be taken if Gehrig falters remains to be seen. McCarthy has been experimenting with Tommy Henrich, an outfielder, at first base. But it would seem more natural if and when the time comes to put Babe Dahlgren, a fine fielder, at first especially if the other boys are hitting.

VETERANS' SLUMP WOULD BE COSTLY

Many experienced observers believe the Yankees can win without Gehrig. The worst thing that could happen to the Yankees would be to have Lefty Gomez or Red Ruffing go into a slump and have a bad year. If anything happened to Joe Gordon, the effect would be bad. Or Joe DiMaggio, or Bill Dickey.

The regulars have got to stay in there and play up to their standard. There is better reserve strength in the outfield positions and behind the bat than there ever was. But, broadly speaking, it is the regular who will win the pennant; not the rookies.

The Red Sox have power and a home-run threat in Jimmy Foxx. They should have a good infield and a good outfield. But their catching is far from wonderful—Noe Berg, an old hand, is their most experienced receiver—and their pitching may be the cause of failure. If Grove could be counted on without reservations, it might be different. Bagby, Ostermueller and Jack Wilson form the nucleus of the staff. None won more than fifteen games last year.

RED SOX NEED PITCHING

But if Rich, Auker or a couple of youngsters come through and the Red Sox get good pitching, they may win the pennant.

The Cleveland Indians, a team frequently favored on the basis of their Spring work, haven't got what it takes to win pennants. They aren't made of the stuff of champions.

Not only that, but Oscar Witt, the manager, has collected enough erratic prima donnas to put the average manager in a sanatorium. He has Pytlak, who won't play unless he can catch Fuller. He has Ben Chapman, who changes his batting style every other day, who decides he won't try to steal bases, and who is given to rage in which he kicks over the bat racks and water buckets.

And he has Broaca, a pitcher who disappeared from the Yankees, without a word, and who is full of half-backed theories about how to pitch to the heavy hitters. He has Lyn Lary, who once deprived Gehrig of the home-run crown by going from third to the bench without touching the plate.

VITT HAS HIS TROUBLES

Vitt also has Johnny Allen, a great pitcher, with a convalescent arm, who thinks the Indians lack fighting spirit and says so. And he has Bob Feller, potentially the greatest pitcher in the world, who always has something the matter with him.

Managing the Indians is like being in charge of a store of big firecrackers with uses of different lengths. They go off in all directions, one at a time. They cause commotion, but they don't get anywhere.

The Detroit Tigers, with Del Baker in command for his first full season, have a good infield, a weak outfield, good catching and questionable pitching strength. If Schoolboy Rowe, who has done practically nothing for two years can come back, and if Tom Bridges can return to form, they may not be so badly off.

There is power on this team represented by Hank Greenberg, who nearly equaled Babe Ruth's home run record last year, by Charley Gehringer and Rudy York.

But none of these contending teams, neither the Red Sox, the Indians nor the Tigers can compare with the Yankees when it comes to balancing offensive power and defensive strength.

SENATORS LACK PITCHING

The Washington team has so many Cubans spluttering Spanish to the indignation of the rest of the players, it is more like a rumba band and a swing crew playing different tunes at the same time. The Senators lack pitching, their outfield is weak; their infield is not well balanced, and Joe Krakauskas has been picked to pitch the opening game against the Yankees.

The Chicago White Sox have had hard luck right from the start. Monty Stratton, their best pitcher, is out with one leg amputated. Vic Frasier, up from St. Paul, had his skull fractured while sitting on the bench. So there are two pitchers out of action at the very beginning.

Otherwise, the best pitcher of the lot is Thornton Lee, who won thirteen and lost twelve last year.

The catching is undistinguished. There is strength in the outfield patrolled by Mike Kreevich, Rip Radcliffe, John Rosenthal, Gee Walker on Henry Steinbacher. The infield may be pretty good with Kuhel, Hayes, McNair, Appling and Owen.

MAY REACH FIRST DIVISION

It is possible, if the White Sox are not plagued by further misfortunes, that they may get into the first division.

The St. Louis Browns, champions of the grapefruit league, are not particularly strong in the outfield. But their outstanding need is pitching. This they have lacked for years. If they could get it, the team might pull itself together and do something. Newsom is their best bet. Marcum may help them. And Fred Haney, the new manager, hopes Lou Tost will aid him.

The A's are still the A's with strange people in the infield, a couple of recognizable players in the outfield, pretty good catching and a carload of pitchers, so Connie can have three in every game.

So, at this distance, it looks as if the Red Sox are the only club capable of keeping the Yankees from winning again. And to do it, the Boston club will require help from the Yankees in the form of injuries and general disability.

Definite Decision On Davis Cup Team Expected Shortly

Whether Japan will send a Davis Cup tennis team abroad to compete this year will be definitely decided at a meeting of the Japan Lawn Tennis Association in the near future.

Resident directors of Tokyo discussed the question Wednesday night but decided to postpone action as the circumstances of the tentative players will be definitely known within the next few days.

Indications are that no team will be sent because Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 player, has stated he will be unavailable for play.

PLANS READY AT ST. MORITZ FOR OLYMPICS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 9.—Although the organizing committee for the Olympic Games at Helsinki in 1940 has formerly announced that July 20 will be the date for the opening ceremonies, the organizing committee for the Olympic Winter Games at St. Moritz has been withholding any announcement of the dates for the big Winter show beyond the fact that the period from Feb. 4 to 12 probably will be chosen.

The reason for this is the battle that has been raging between the International Ski Federation and the International Olympic Committee over the definition of the word "amateur." The ski group, the F.I.S., insists that ski instructors be eligible as amateurs. The I.O.C. insists just as strongly that they are professionals and hence barred from Olympic competition.

Neither side in this argument has shown any signs of weakening, but if skiing is to be included on the Olympic program then the ski federation apparently will have to yield. The I.O.C. has said it will not. The St. Moritz Organizing Committee has been waiting to see whether the F.I.S. decides to fall in line at a meeting in the near future before releasing its schedule. Otherwise everything is set.

ST. MORITZ IS READY

For St. Moritz staging Olympic Games will be nothing new. In 1928, when the Winter sports metropolis of Engadine organized the second Winter Olympics, St. Moritz declared itself ready at three days' notice to hold them. Now this sports capital, which has attained world leadership after seventy years of popularizing Winter athletic activities, is merely awaiting the start of competition.

Ordinarily sites for Olympic Games have a full four years' notice. But when Japan turned back both Summer and Winter games, the new countries chosen had only fifteen months in which to prepare. So short was the time that the International Olympic Committee had little choice in awarding the Winter games. It had to be St. Moritz, the best-prepared place in the world.

St. Moritz is unique. Admittedly there are other resorts where the mountains are steeper, where the slopes set the skier more difficult problems, where the ice rink is larger and the hairpin turns of the bobrun are narrow and more thrilling. But few places in the world can match the Swiss resort for all-around excellence.

The ski events will take place in the Corviglia, situated between the Engadin and Val Saluver. Two railways in addition to the regular ski-lifts facilitate the "climb," even right up to the top of Piz Nair. It is on these wide and open slopes, some moderately inclined and others breath-takingly steep, that plans have been made for the Olympic ski races in downhill and slalom, if the I.O.C. allows them to be held.

SLIDE STILL MOST DIFFICULT

For the 1928 Olympics a beacon for ski-jumping contests was built behind the St. Moritz Spa on the shady side of the Engadine valley. This innovation was to become epoch-making as regards the development of jumping technique and the construction of slides. Other structures have been built to assist in making longer jumps, but the one at St. Moritz still maintains its position as the most important and difficult test for the world's best jumpers.

The Ice Stadium was built for the 1928 show on a high, sunny plateau, far above the gloomy inn gorge dividing the upper from the lower Engadine. It is here that the speed skating, figure-skating and ice hockey will take place. The bobsled run that winds down from St. Moritz to Celerina and reaches its climax at Sunny Corner is known to bobsledders the world over.

For the 1940 Olympics St. Moritz will organize the Grand National on the famed Cresta Run, wherr skeleton sleds speed down at mile-a-minute pace; the flying kilometer down the steep slope of Val Saluver, where skiers attain seventy miles an hour, and the St. Moritz horse races on the white "turf" of the frozen lake.

The horse race is considered the most important social attraction of the entire Winter sports season, even in Olympic years.

Gehrig's Consecutive Playing Record Ended May 2 With 2,130 Games

Lou Gehrig's phenomenal consecutive playing record with the New York Yankees over the past 15 years came to an end on May 2 when he was not in the line-up against the Detroit Tigers at the Yankee Stadium, after establishing a string of 2,130 games without a layoff, according to a special dispatch to the Yomiuri.

It was a voluntary move by Gehrig who has been in a batting slump and not on orders of Manager Joe McCarthy, according to the dispatch.

Gehrig's consecutive string at the end of last season was 2,120 games. He had played all eight games this season before he took his rest on May 2.

The former consecutive playing record was held by Deacon Scott, New York Yankees shortstop, who rang up a total of 1,307 games.

NEWCOMERS START WELL IN AMATEUR GOLF

It was a field day for newcomers in the qualifying round over 36 holes of the 32nd annual national amateur golf tournament at the Fujigaya course at the Musashino Country Club. Noriyuki Miyoshi of the Hirono shot a 152 to be medalist. Registering a 76 in the morning round, he broke the course record of 7. He duplicated his feat in the afternoon.

Takeo Harada of the Musashino Club also shattered the course record with a 76 in the morning round. He registered a 78 in the afternoon round to be runner-up to Miyoshi.

Giichi Sato, also of the same club with Miyoshi in the Kansai, who is out to win his fourth straight title, shot a 160 to qualify fourth, right behind of Kihei Narumiya of the Ibaragi club who carded a 160.

Mizuho Kubota, student champion who was a finalist last year, was disqualified when he played an out of bound ball in error on his second stroke on the 15th hole.

Fumitaka Konoye, son of former Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye and captain of the Princeton University golf team two years ago, had been expected to compete but his return to Tokyo from Shanghai has been delayed and he was not among those teeing off Wednesday.

The 16 qualifying for the match play starting today were:

Noriyuki Miyoshi (Hirono)	38-38-38-38—152
Takeo Harada (Musashino)	40-36-35-43—154
Kihei Narumiya (Ibaragi)	37-41-38-43—159
Giichi Sato (Hirano)	41 38-41-40—160

Yutaka Kawasaki (Tokyo)	46-45-38-43—172
Yoji Otaguro (Sagami)	45-42-43-42—172

The match plays over 18 holes scheduled for today were:

Miyoshi versus Kawasaki; Inouye versus Kuriyama; Sato versus Koten; Hirose versus Furudate; Narumiya versus Otaguro; Nabeshima versus Nakano; Harada versus Murayama; Kosuga versus Yamataga.

VIRGINIA BEATS YALE NINE, 8-4

N.Y. Times

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 8—Virginia registered five runs in the last two innings to defeat Yale's baseball team today, 8 to 4, before a holiday crowd.

The Cavaliers collected thirteen hits off Jose Wood, son of the Yale coach, but did not take the lead until the seventh frame, when Sargeant contributed a home run, scoring Gosney ahead of him. Two additional runs were made in the eighth.

Eddie Collins played a spectacular game at second base for Yale, while Wood and Bessee led with the stick. Yale had sixteen men stranded on the sacks.

Virginia used three twirlers.

The Lone Miner

In 1906, William H. Schmidt, a native of Rhode Island, began the greatest one-man achievement in mining history. He had discovered a vein of copper-silver-gold ore in the Black Mountains, 6 miles east of Red Rock Canyon, near Garlock, California. To get his ore to the nearest railroad would have required the construction of many miles of roadway. The tunnel through the mountain, he decided, was a better and more economical solution. Unaided, except by two burros, Schmidt dug his tunnel 2,000 feet through solid granite. He completed the tunnel after 32 years' struggle. He worked for nearby ranchers three months each Summer to earn money for powder, tools and food.

MIYOSHI PLAYS SATO TODAY IN SEMI-FINALS

Noriyuki Miyoshi of the Hirono Golf Club and Takeo Harada of the Musashino Club, newcomers who shattered the course record with a 76 in the qualifying round Wednesday, fought their way to the semi-finals of the 32nd annual national amateur gold championship Thursday at the Fujigaya course.

Miyoshi was to meet Giichi Sato, of the Hirono Club who is out to win his fourth straight title, and Harada was to take on Kihei Narumiya of the Ibaragi Club in the semi-finals over 36 holes today.

No surprises were registered in the second round but Sutekichi Murayama of the Fujigaya Club gave Harada a run for his money. The latter won 2 and 1 in their match over 18 holes.

MIYOSHI SWAMPS INOUYE

Miyoshi was in excellent form in the afternoon for the quarter-finals and swamped Shigeji Inouye, also of the Hirono Club, 8 and 6.

Despite a blister in one of his hands, Sato took the first, third, fourth and fifth holes to lead 4 up early in his match against Jiro Hirose of the Tokyo Club. But Hirose rallied and won the sixth and eighth holes to be only two down going out. Thenceforth, it was a nip and tuck struggle until Sato finally won out on the 17th green, 2 and 1.

The best match of the day was that between Narumiya and Naoyasu Nabeshima of the Tokyo Club in the quarter finals. Narumiya's approach shot fell five feet away from the pin and it seemed as if he would dispose of Nabeshima on the 18th green but his putt fell short and they halved it to necessitate an extra hole. Nabeshima got into plenty of trouble by driving into the left bunker. Then he had the bad luck of topping his bunker shot and he was finally on with a four. Narumiya's tee-shot was straight down the fairway but his iron shot fell into the bunker. He hardly took notice of it by executing a beautiful approach and took the hole to defeat his rival, one up.

HARADA WINS

Harada had little trouble disposing of Ryuzo Kosuga of the Kasumigaseki Club in the other quarter-finals match, 3 and 2.

The results of the second round follow:

Miyoshi (Hirono) defeated Yutaka Kawasaki (Tokyo), 5 and 3.
Inouye (Hirono) defeated Chojiro Kuriyama (Sagami), 4 and 2.
Sato (Hirono) defeated Ryoichi Koten (Sagami), 5 and 4.
Hirose (Tokyo) defeated Rizo Furudate (Musashino), 3 and 2.
Narumiya (Ibaragi) defeated Yoji Otaguro (Sagami), 5 and 4.
Nabeshima (Tokyo) defeated Toshio Nakano (Tokyo), 4 and 2.
Harada (Musashino) defeated Maruyama (Fujigaya), 2 and 1.
Kosuga (Kasumigaseki) defeated Shin Yamagata (Hodogaya), 3 and 2.

HARVARD BEATEN BY NAVY NINE

N.Y. Times

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 8—The Navy nine struck its stride today and defeated Harvard, 9 to 5, with hard and timely hitting in two innings and consistently snappy play in the field.

Jerry Bruckel, on the mound for Navy for the whole route, showed that he was rounding into shape, although he weakened somewhat toward the close. He passed three runners in the seventh and allowed three runs in the ninth on four hits and a walk.

Navy scored six times in the third. Anderson, first up, cracked out a double to center and Bruckel, bunting down the third-base line, beat the ball to first. Thompson scored Anderson on a sacrifice fly, McGuinness was passed, Cooke doubled and Niles walked. Mann's double and singles by Powell and Wooding contributed to the other scores.

CHICAGO POLOISTS GAIN INDOOR TITLE, FIRST TIME THE WEST TURNS TRICK

By ROBERT F. KELLEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 9—For the first time in history the West captured the national senior indoor polo championship as the season came to a close at the Squadron A Armory last night. In the second games of three East-West series, the teams which had triumphed in the first contests came through again, completing the year's championships with straight victories.

The youthful Blue Hill Farms team retained its Sherman Memorial tournament title and Buddy Combs led Pegasus to victory in the junior division, thus giving the East two championships, but the most important crown, the senior, went to the 124th Field Artillery, trio of Chicago, Bill Fergus, Bobby Nichoalds and Jay Secor, who turned back Evergreen Farms again.

The Blue Hill Farms victory was scored at 15 to 9, Pegasus won by 10 to 8, and the 124th Field Artillery seniors, at 14 to 8. Blue Hill Farms and Pegasus also faced teams from the 124th Field Artillery.

In the senior game the hitting and team-play of the winners made them the better team. They led almost from the start of the game, making up their handicap of one goal at the outset, aided by penalties, and maintaining the lead through the rest of the game.

Secor turned in an excellent game at back, covering his position ably and pumping long shots up to his forwards. Up front, Nichoalds and Fergus kept raining shots off the Evergreen end wall and their hitting was distinctly better than that of the others through much of the match.

TEAM-PLAY LACKING

Evergreen never got together as a team and suffered from that fact, its occasional spots of individual brilliance failing to make up for the team lapses.

The Blue Hill aggregation composed of the two young Hayden brothers, Walter and Peter, and the veteran Herbert Swann showed too much speed and balanced team play for its opposing. The winners started with a first-period rush that brought 5 goals to their rivals' 2 and they never relinquished their margin.

Chicago braced in the middle periods and pulled up a bit, but a 4-goal rally by Blue Hill in the third period, with Walter Hayden leading it, clinched the issue.

Pegasus triumphed in a fast and interesting game. Combs had valuable support from Del Carroll at No. 1 and Tommy Lawrence at back. Both hit extremely well and the latter particularly filled his position ably.

SIX GOALS FOR COMBS

Combs tallied 6 of his side's goals, but he did not dominate play as he had in the first game. It was a well rounded team effort that pulled his side through.

The line-ups:

Keio Favored to Beat Hosei Nine Saturday

Keio and Hosei will clash in the curtain-raiser of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league's doubleheader Saturday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Hosei's chance of winning depends entirely on the showing of Southpaw Akaneya. Keio is a slight favorite to win.

Waseda is a heavy favorite to down Tokyo Imperial University in the second game. The latter is the weakest hitting team in the circuit.

Waseda and Teidai will meet in the curtain-raised on Sunday.

PRINCETON BEATS LAFAYETTE, 4 TO 1

N.Y. Times

EASTON, Pa., April 8—Princeton triumphed over Lafayette, 4 to 1, before 3,000 persons on Fisher Field today. Holding Lafayette to six safeties, one of which was a home run, Farber gave only one safe blow after the third inning.

Meanwhile his team-mates, taking advantage of Lafayette misplays, pushed over two runs in each of the fourth and fifth frames. Four Lafayette errors counted toward three unearned Tiger runs.

Harper, who drove in two of the Princeton tallies and scored one, suffered a probable fractured ankle when he was stopped at the home plate in an attempted double steal in the eighth.

Indian Sets Record In N.Y. Marathon

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 8—Plugging along at a tireless pace that killed off competition, Ellison (Tarzan) Brown, Narraganset Indian runner, today won the sixth annual Chittenango-Syracuse marathon and set a new record for the 16.4-mile course.

Brown, winner of the 1936 Boston marathon, took the lead near the halfway mark and never was headed, racing home 200 yards ahead of Bob Rankin, former Canadian Olympic star from Hamilton, Ont., in 1 hour 28 minutes 45 seconds.

Russell George, Onondaga Indian who set a mark of 1 hour 31 minutes 27 seconds in winning the 1938 grind, finished third.

Both Rankin and George bettered the latter's old record, but were unable to keep pace with Brown, who crossed the finish line with a burst of speed.

George led for the first half of the race, but fade rapidly.

Clarence DeMar, 52-year-old, Keene, N. H., veteran who seven times showed his heels to the nation's best distance runners in the Boston marathon, finished fifteenth.

The first fifteen to finish:

First, Brown, Westerly, R. I.; second, Rankin, Hamilton, Ont.; third, George, Nedrow, N. Y.; fourth, Ray Trail, Hogansburg, N. Y.; Fifth, Ed Morton, Hamilton, Ont.; sixth, Robert Lang, Syracuse; seventh, Bob Wilding, Toronto; eighth, Frank Darrah, Norfolk, Mass.; ninth, Walter Liddiard, Syracuse; tenth, William Collier, Georgetown, Ont.; eleventh, Fred Bristof, Toronto; twelfth, Fred McGlone, Norfolk, Mass.; thirteenth, Joseph Wood, Amsterdam, N. Y.; fourteenth, Frank Mann, Norfolk, Mass.; fifteenth, Clarence DeMar, Keene, N. H.

Fick Retains Swim Title

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 8—Peter Fick of the New York Athletic Club and John Macionis of the Big Brothers, Philadelphia, successfully defended their laurels in the nineteenth annual swimming meet of the Hygeia Swimming Club tonight.

Fick, the holder of four world records and national indoor 100-yard free style champion, stroked his way to a brilliant victory in the century to retain the Harry Latz Trophy. The United States Olympic team star covered the distance in 0:53.9.

Walter Kell of Philadelphia finished in second position, with third honors going to Henry Steingast, also of Philadelphia.

Macionis, holder of two Middle Atlantic district records and also member of the American Olympic squad in 1936, registered an impressive triumph in the 220-yard free-style event to retain the Press-Union Trophy.

Howard Mac Adoo of Philadelphia was second and Bill Hooper of the same city was third. Macionis's time was 2:19.4.

NEWARK FACES FIGHT THIS YEAR IN INTERNATIONAL

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, April 9—If the Newark Bears, the kid relations of the New York Yankees, are unable to find more opposition in the International League this Summer than they did the last two years, it will not be the fault of the directors of the seven other teams. Newark's superiority in 1938 was more marked than that of the Yankees in the American League, but this Spring several teams have gone to great lengths to undermine this supremacy.

The player turnover in the International is somewhat similar to the passenger exchanges in a Fifth Avenue bus. At any moment some big league manager may need a hard hitting outfielder, a steady short stop or a new pitcher. Often the International League is the source for these additions.

On the other hand, the International clubs may be strengthened at any moment with refugees from their major league superiors. Many transactions of this nature already have taken place and many more undoubtedly will follow during the regular campaign. It is the hope of its rivals that Newark will be clamoring for aid ere the season passes the halfway point.

BEARS LOSE MANY STARS

Despite this evident enthusiasm on the part of their fellow league members, the Bears remain the favorites to win the championship for a third consecutive year. Shorn of their two best hitters, Charlie Keller and Buddy Rosar, and deprived of Les Scarsella, Merrill May and Herman Schulte, in the infield, Woody Jensen in the outfield and Joe Beggs, Atley Donald and Jack Haley, among others, on the pitching staff, the Bears will present a vastly different line-up than the one which emerged so triumphantly a year ago.

It would seem that huge holes have been created on all sides of this 1938 championship machine yet the Bears are still lined with power and capability. Marius Russo, Nick Strincevich and Frank Makosky are back again. With the addition of George Washburn, from the Kansas City Blues, and several youthful newcomers of potential ability, Johnny Neun's pitching staff seems solid enough.

Neun may not be able to find another Keller or a duplicate of Rosar but the acquisition of Walter Judnich, a star with Kansas City in 1938, has alleviated the outfield problem. Mike Chartak, the team's regular centerfielder, is also available. Art Metheny, reported a bright prospect by a host of scouts, may be rewarded with the third outfield post. Ed Levy, the highly regarded first baseman from Birmingham, Lou Blair, Mike Witek and Leo Norris appear to be the leading infielders.

Of the teams that expect to stop the Bears and their penchant for championships, Syracuse, Buffalo and Rochester seem to have the best chance of supplying a convincing argument.

Syracuse, with a pitching staff comprised of six 1938 regulars and three or four promising new men, may turn up with the best corps of moundsmen in the circuit. Buck Jordan, the former National Leaguer, has been engaged to play first base. Johnny Kroner, a member of the Cleveland Indians in 1938, has also been obtained for an infield position and Dick Porter, the manager, has five outfielders of recognized ability at his command.

Ollie Carnegie, who topped even Newark's mighty sluggers with his forty-five home runs in 1938, is one of the main reasons why the Buffalo management is optimistic about the approaching campaign. With Bill Sodd, John Tyler, Harry Nowak and Carnegie the Bisons will not want for outfield strength.

INDIANS HELPING BUFFALO

Nor is all their power concentrated in the outer garden. This year the Bisons have a working agreement with the Cleveland Indians. They already have three pitchers, Russ Loafman, Will Rucker and Clay Smith, all newcomers, who are destined for Cleveland uniforms in year or two. Eight members of last year's staff have been held over, a situation which makes the Bisons reasonably secure on the mound. Jim Oglesby, Smokey Joe Martin, Greg Mulleavy and Loe Boudreau are the leading infielders.

Rochester, which finished in third place last fall, might climb a little higher with its present roster provided the bosses of the Cardinal chain leave Billy Southworth's club alone. The team is made up of a blend of former major leaguers and a host of likely recruits, the majority of whom have been gleaned from other St. Louis farms.

With the recent addition of Lou Chiozza, Tom Hafey and Tom Padden from the New York Giants, Jersey City appears to be stronger. The club could use a little reinforcement in the outfield and pitching department.

Burleigh Grimes should have more success with Montreal than he did in Brooklyn, considering that the Dodgers finished in seventh place during his two-year regime in Flatbush. If Burleigh can push his team into the first division the Montreal management should ask no more.

Rogers Hornsby and his Baltimore Orioles will be striving to get out of the cellar. With his present material the Rajah may be able to accomplish this. His recent prediction that his ball club would be the peppiest in the loop was not merely idle chatter.

Haguroyama Wins Greatest Promotion

An assistant not so long ago at one of the bathhouses in Ryogoku, across the Sumida river, has won the greatest promotion in the rankings for the Summer season announced at 5 a.m. today by the Japan Sumo Association.

He is Haguroyama, 25-year-old, stablemate of Grand Champion Futabayama. The rankings for the 15-day tournament which opens on May 11 at the Kokugikan bowl find him as a "sekiwake"—fourth rank below a grand champion—on the east side. Thus did he rush past his older stablemate, Nayoroiwa, who is "sekiwake" on the west side. Haguroyama started to wrestle only four years ago.

Although he lost four bouts in the January tournament, Futabayama continues as grand champion on the east side, this undoubtedly due to his 69 consecutive victories over three years up to his defeat to Akinoumi on the fourth day of the January tournament.

Dewaminato, who won the championship in January without a defeat, has been promoted to "komusubi," rank below "sekiwake" on the west side.

COLUMBIA NINE BEATS C.C.N.Y. IN TENTH, 3 TO 2

By IRVING T. MARSH

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, April 29—A home run by John Cerny, pitcher, with one out in the tenth inning gave Columbia's baseball team a 3-to-2 victory over City College at frigid Baker Field yesterday in the opening game of the season for the Lions.

That four-bag blow was a fitting climax to a ball game as well played as the weather was cold. And it really was cold! The situation was worthy of the efforts of Frank Merriwell or any one of the Rover boys when Cerny, the third Columbia pitcher to take his turn, came to bat. The score was tied at 2-all after Columbia had scored both its runs in the first inning and City College had tallied one in the third and tied it up in the eighth.

And Cerny played his role to perfection. With the count two and two, he lifted the fifth pitch over the center-field fence into the Harlem River, 350 feet away, and jogged around the bases with the winning run.

SOLTES HURLS STEADY GAME

City College, however, and especially its pitcher, Aaron (Arky) Soltes, really deserved a better fate. Going the route, Soltes yielded only seven hits, struck out four and walked only one. Between the first and the tenth innings he held the Lions scoreless. Between the fourth and the ninth he held them hitless as well. But Columbia fell on him for three hits, all singles, in the first, combined this with a double steal and scored two runs. And then came the tenth-inning denouement by Cerny.

Soltes actually grew stronger as the game progressed. A right-hander, he relied mainly on speed and a bewildering change of pace.

But while he was holding Columbia in check, his mates could do little with the combined offerings of the Loin flingers. Hector Dowd started, gave up three hits in four innings and yielded his place to the sophomore, George Smith jr., son of the former Columbia great. Smith went two frames and was found for two hits. Then Cerny stepped in and allowed two safeties in the four innings he worked. Among them, the Columbia trio struck out seven and walked three.

Strangely enough for a college game, all five runs were pushed across the plate without the benefit of errors, of which there was a total of five. Columbia's two runs in the first were scored when Frank Murphy, first man up, singled and went to third on Art Radvilas' single. The two runners immediately negotiated a double steal, Murphy coming home and Radvilas going to second, from whence he scored a few minutes later when Sid Luckman singled to right.

TRIPLES SET UP RUNS

City College did not score until the third, and it took a triple by Mike Grieco and a double by Bill Mayhew, the sophomore footballer, to push Grieco across with the tally. The eighth-inning Beaver run that tied the score also was set up by a triple, this one by Sid Cozin, shortstop. Jerry Schlicter, the next hitter, batted him in with a single.

In between these scoring bursts and the final clout that ended the game, only City College had a man as far as third base. That came in the fifth, when the Beavers had runners on second and third with one out, but the next two men were easy outs. Columbia never had a man past second in its scoreless innings, even though it had two consecutive singles in the ninth.

YAMAGISHI JOINS NAVY; OUT OF TENNIS

Jiro Yamagishi, one of the world's top ranking amateur tennis players and Japan's big hope in this year's Davis Cup competition, became a sub-lieutenant in the Navy's paymaster branch Friday. His passing the formal examinations was announced the same day. With two years of active service ahead of him, he became definitely unavailable for Davis Cup play.

The Japan Lawn Tennis Association is expected to meet shortly and decide whether or not to send a team to the American zone this year. Yamagishi and Fumiteru Nakano, members of last year's team which defeated Canada and lost to Australia after a most creditable showing in the final of the American zone, had been picked in January as members of the 1939 team. Hopes had been high for a victory over Australia in the American zone and consequently a chance of meeting the United States in the challenge round, where victory seemed not impossible with the great Donald Budge having turned professional. But such hopes had been centered almost completely on Yamagishi who has the ability of beating the world's greatest amateurs.

There are indications that the Association will ultimately decide against dispatch of a team abroad now that Yamagishi is unavailable. There is none to take his place in Japan's tennis today.

Yamagishi's statement since late last year that he might be unavailable for play, either because of employment or entrance into the service following his graduation from Keio University, has had the Association considering its course of action in such eventuality. One scheme is to select Yasuo Tsuruta, doubles mate of Yamagishi and third ranking player next to Tetsuo Takamuku, who is presently in the Army, as a substitute. Another plan is to select the partner to Nakano after staging a formal tryout tournament.

One section of opinion is that the dispatch of a team abroad would have beneficial results, such as promotion of international goodwill, only when a strong team is sent, and for this reason, it would be better to stay out of the Davis Cup competition this year.

Questioned by the press Friday, Nakano said he is determined on competing in the Davis Cup matches and is accordingly making preparations.

Eikichi Katsuta, president of the Japan Lawn Tennis Association, said Friday that a formal decision will be reached after the directors in the Kansai are also consulted. He expressed the hope that the association's five-year plan toward development of a championship Davis Cup team could be carried out.

Eiichi Kazama, Japan's strongest amateur wrestler, Waseda University graduate, was also among the 100 candidates passing the examinations successfully. He has competed twice in Europe, once as member of the Olympic team, once in the United States proper, Hawaii and the Philippines.

Rivera Fails to Hit In First Appearance

Appearing with the Tokyo Giants for the first time Friday was C. Rivera, Filipino star from Manila. He batted No. 5 but failed to get a hit in three times at bat in the game against the Eagles at the Korakuen stadium. The Giants won, however, on Centerfielder Chiba's clean hit to right which brought in Shiraishi for the winning run in the last half of the tenth. The score was 3 to 2.

The Tigers banged out 12 hits to down the Nagoya contingent, 3 to 1, in the other game.

Over in the Kansai, the Hankyu ball tossers maintained their lead in the standings by blanking the Dolfins, 1-0, at the Koshien stadium.

Nankai bumped off the Senators 5 to 3 in the day's curtain-raiser at Koshien.

Argentine Golfers Will Visit England

The Times, London

LONDON, April 12—It is announced by the Professional Golfers' Association that team of professional golfers from the Argentine will visit England under the auspices of the Association Argentina de Golf, this year. They will arrive on June 1 and will compete in the Open Championship at St. Andrews. The team of six will be Enrique Bertolino, Aurolio Castanon, Marcos Churio, Jose Jurado, Juan Martinez, and Martin Pose.

Jurado and Churio are no strangers to British golf for they made themselves extremely popular on their last trip. In fact Jurado might have been Open Champion in 1931 but for sheer bad luck. It can be recalled that Jurado wanted a 4 and a 5 to finish in the championship at Carnoustie, in order to head T. D. Armour. He finished with a 6 and a 5, being in the burn at the 17th, and to this day many people believe that Jurado was misinformed on the course as to what he need in order to win, and that he played for safety rather than take any risks.

HENRY COTTON TO LEAD BRITISH RYDER-CUP TEAM

Observer

LONDON, April 15—The unanimous appointment of Henry Cotton as captain of this year's British Ryder Cup team is a recognition not only of his outstanding ability as a player but of his position in the game. By sheer force of character he has, at the age of thirty-two, climbed to the pinnacle of fame. Entering the profession at seventeen, he was fascinated by the prospects offered in a universal game which in modern times has produced such great personalities as R. T. Jones and Hagen.

Like them, Cotton has translated his skill as a golfer into hard cash. Recognising that the star of a champion shines only for a little while, he rightly sets a high price on his services. He has twice been Open champion—1934 and 1937—once match-play champion, the holder of several Continental titles, besides being the winner of most of the principal tournaments. His many striking achievements have now been crowned by what is, probably, the greatest honor of all—the captaincy of the British team.

That Cotton will take his position seriously there can be no question. "Our defeat at Southport, two years ago, must be wiped out; we have the players, and a concentrated effort is all that is needed to assure success," he says. Let us hope that his confidence is not misplaced, though, personally, I am not so optimistic on the question of personnel. It is a long cry to November next, when the match against America is to be played on the Ponte Vedra course, Jacksonville, Florida, and it may be that some new talent may meanwhile be revealed.

YOUNG PLAYERS SCARCE

If all the members of the British team were Cottons then, of course, there would be no doubt about the result of the contest; but they are not, the gap in some instances being very wide. At the moment there are scarcely any new young players who can be counted as probable selections, and unless the events of the next six months unearth some "discoveries" we shall be compelled mainly to rely on the men composing the last team.

The co-opting of Cotton on the Selection Committee is an excellent maneuver because it ensures the choosing of the right type of player for the job. No "passengers" will be tolerated; he knows his own mind, and in giving expression to it on a matter of policy he is not afraid of hurting the feelings of other people. "In the endeavor to get the best team possible I do not intend to be side-tracked," says the captain. A similar attitude in the past might conceivably have produced more successful results.

As Cotton himself admits, his appointment will not please everybody, but I think he exaggerates the degree of hostility or jealousy. Because of holding aloof from his brother professionals and going his own way in a game in which there is a good deal of camaraderie, Cotton made many enemies, but their number has now dwindled to such an extent that, as a body, they do not count. So completely have circumstances and conditions changed that Cotton is becoming, if he has not already done so, one of the most popular figures in golf.

PUZZLING AND DISCOURAGING

Because the match is being played at the close of the competitive season when the form of players will be an open book, the team will, more or less, pick itslf. There will be no justification for the making of mistakes. It would be an entirely different matter if Cotton and his soselectors had to sit down now and choose ten men. They would be in the deuce of a dilemma, for the standard of play so far revealed has not only been extremely puzzling, but distinctly discouraging.

At Bournemouth, in the first professional tournament of the season, on a course of 6,500 yards, with a scratch score of 74, scarcely half a dozen of Great Britain's one hundred best players succeeded in breaking eighty in all four rounds, while only seven men averaged seventy-five. True there was a fairly strong wind and the course was difficult, if not, in places, a little tricky, but even so the attack made by the professionals was extremely feeble. Except in absolutely abnormal conditions no professional worthy of the name should take eighty-five to ninety strokes in one round of a tournament.

With an improvement both in the weather and in the condition of the courses I have no doubt that the standard of play will go ahead. The most disappointing feature is the almost complete absence of players of the younger generation to take the places of the men of the older school. With the exception of Rees and, possibly, S. L. King, there is none, at present, likely to gain a position of distinction.

A SPECTACULAR RETURN

A gallant little player and a beautiful putter, Rees is one of the very few certainties for the team. R. A. Whitcombe, the Open champion, is another, and so, perhaps, is Compston provided his health stands the strain of the tournament season. After two years' absence through illness few men could make such a spectacular return to first-class golf as Compston has done, and it is the wish of everyone that the recovery may be permanent.

Three players who have made distinct progress are C. Denny, of Thorpe Hall, Southend; D. Curtis, of Queen's Park, Bournemouth; and E. E. Whitcombe, of Porter's Park, Radlett, the youngest member of a family of famous golfers. During the next six months the progress of each will be watched with interest. W. Laidlaw, of West Hearts, is another promising member of the younger school. At the moment the "Probales" are: Cotton, R. A. Whitcombe, Rees, Padgham, Perry, Lacey, King, Adams, Compston, and R. Burton Among the "Possibles" are: W. J. Cox, C. A. Whitcombe, Denny, Curtis, E. E. Whitcombe, and Laidlaw.

On this occasion there are, from the British point of view, two favorable factors, one the course, and the other the climate. Hitherto the match has been played in Summer heat so overpowering as to make it impossible for our players to do themselves justice. In Florida, in November, the weather should be ideal. The course selected for the closely resembles many of the best British links. Doubtful as to the success of the match from the standpoint of attracting the spectators, Sarazen says, "the galleries will be composed largely of sea gulls." Sarazen, who wanted the match played in San Francisco where big crowds would be assured, must not be taken too seriously, for it is characteristic of the man that he should express a view different from other people.

1939 Kanto Tennis Play Starts on May 13

The Kanto tennis championships for 1939, under the auspices of the Kanto division of the Japan Lawn Tennis Association, will start at the Yomiuri stadium at Denyenchofu on Saturday of next week.

POODLE WINS BEST IN SHOW AWARD

N.Y. Times

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 8—The dog that is generally considered the best moving poodle in America today, International Champion Blakeen Eiger, owned by the Blakeen Kennels of Katonah, N. Y., and handled, as always, by Mrs. Sherman R. Hoyt, crashed through a final field that held plenty of class tonight and went to best in show in the thirteenth annual Springfield Kennel Club exhibition. This was Eiger's seventh such award.

Pressing Eiger closely was Mr. and Mrs. A. Biddle Duke's great English setter Champion Maro of Maridor, handled by Charlie Palmer, who had beaten the poodle at Providence. Maro did well, but few dogs in the world could have trimmed Eiger today.

Providing the rest of the competition were the Kerry blue terrier Champion Bubble Bee of Delwin, handled in fine fashion by Ed Sayers, and the boxer Champion Kurass v. d. Blutenau of Dorick, whom Walter Foster handles for Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Kettles Jr. and who was best of the working group for the third time in his last four starts. Boston terriers led in entries with 45, collies had 38 and obedience-test dogs 36.

SATO NEARS FOURTH GOLF TITLE IN ROW

Giichi Sato of the Hirono Club in the Kansai moved a step nearer to his fourth straight title in the national amateur golf championships by swamping Noriyuki Miyoshi, newcomer of the same club, by 12 and 10 in the 36-hole semi-finals Friday at the Fujigaya course of the Musashino Country Club. He is favored to down Takeo Harada, up and coming star of the Musashino Club, over 36 holes, match play, in the finals today.

Harada kept up his brilliant play of the first two days and eliminated Kihei Narumiya, veteran of the Ibaragi Club, 5 and 3 in the other semi-finals match.

Rounding into form as the tourney progressed, Sato was in top form for his match against Miyoshi. He started brilliantly by taking the third, fifth, sixth and ninth holes that completely broke Miyoshi's morale. The latter, desperate to catch up, played even worse. His usually good putting failed him and he was seven down at the end of the first 18 holes which Saito negotiated in 75, two over par, that smashed the course record of 76 set by Miyoshi and Harada in the qualifying round. The match ended on the 8th in the afternoon with Sato 12 up and 10 to go.

Sinking a 20-yard putt on the ninth was one of the brilliant plays by Harada, who led Narumiya by four holes at the end of the morning round. Narumiya rallied upon resumption of play and cut Harada's lead to one up but he eventually met defeat when he lost the 15th, 5 up and 3.

Andrea Leeds Visits White House

Andrea Leeds, beautiful Hollywood star discovered last season by Samuel Goldwyn, learned a few things most Americans never know during a recent trip to Washington. While lunching at the White House as a guest of Mrs. Roosevelt, she happened to notice that the silver was inscribed "The President's House."

Why, she wondered, was not the silver engraved with the traditional "White House" marking that is given to linen, stationery and other personal items. She posed the question to the nation's First Lady.

It appears, Mrs. Roosevelt patiently explained, the presidential manse was officially known as "President's House" until it was blackened and scorched by invading British soldiery during the war of 1812. Subsequent to the fire, the entire building was white-washed, hence the name which eventually has become conventional, "The White House."

And the silver, of course, had been engraved before the British came to town.

2 HOMERS AID KEIO TO BEAT HOSEI, 6-3

Home runs are rare occurrences in the Tokyo Six University Baseball league but Keio registered two to beat Hosei 6 to 3 to make it two straight over the latter Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

Catcher Inouye, who hit a three bagger with the bases loaded on Saturday to aid his team to a 3-2 triumph over Hosei, registered the first homer in the sixth when his hard hit ball took a bad hop over the center fielder's head. This gave his team a 4-2 lead. First Baseman Iijima poled one into the left enter bleachers with a man on in the seventh to clinch victory for Keio.

A two-run rally in the last half of the eighth enabled Tokyo Imperial University (Teidai) to earn a draw with Waseda in Sunday's curtain-raiser. The game was called off at the end of the ninth with the score 2-all to make way for the Keio-Hosei clash. Although he allowed only five hits, Pitcher Yutani of Teidai suffered the short end of a 4-2 score on Saturday. He hurled another brilliant game on Sunday, limiting Waseda to seven hits.

The standings follow:

	G	W	L	T	Pct.
Keio	6	5	1	0	.833
Waseda	6	4	1	1	.750
Rikkyo	6	3	2	1	.583
Meiji	4	1	1	2	.500
Teidai	6	0	4	2	.167
Hosei	4	0	4	4	.000

Waseda took an early lead over Teidai Sunday by scoring one run in the second when Kimura tripled to left center and came in on Asai's deep fly to center. But Yutani, despite the fact that he had worked nine innings on the mound on the previous day, began to pitch scintillating ball and engaged in a pitching duel with Southpaw Kondo of Waseda up to the eighth.

Yutani, however, lost his ontrol momentarily in the eighth after two outs. He walked Murase and Minamimura in a row to fill the bags. Kakijima had started the inning with a hit through the pitcher's box and gome to second on Miyoshi's sacrifice. Kimura worked Yutani for a walk to force in Kakijima for a two-run lead.

When Kondo seemed well on the way to victory, he weakened in the last half of the eighth after he had put the first two men away. It was Pitcher Yutani himself who started the rally for Teidai with a hit to left. Kawai walked. Goto came through with a Texas Leaguer over second to drive in Yutani. Kimura's bad peg to third allowed Kawai to romp all the way home. Mitsutake walked but Yamamoto grounded out to second to retire the side.

The box scores follow.

FARR DECISIONS BURMAN IN LONDON

Observer

LONDON, April 15—There was a full house at Harringay to see Farr in his first contest in this country since he beat Neusel on June 15, 1937. A large Welsh contingent was present, and "Land of My Fathers" was sung lustily enough, but without the keen enthusiasm with which Petersen was always greeted. Farr is a good, solid boxer, but he will never be a popular idol in the way Petersen and Carpentier were. He won, without doubt, but it is equally certain that he has not improved. He beat Burman because he was the heavier man and had the longer reach. Incidentally he was the better boxer, but he would not have won without his physical advantages. Generally speaking, Farr was the same rather slow, tough boxer that he was when he beat Foord on points, and he showed scarcely a trace of the form we saw when he outpointed Baer and knocked out Neusel.

Both men had a good reception. Farr, at 14 st. 9½ lb., was above his best weight. He looked older and rather drawn in the face, but his body and arms appeared to be in good condition. Burman, weighing 13 st. 4½ lb., was 19 lb. lighter than Farr and a couple of inches shorter. He is a powerful, muscular man, all made in one piece, with a strong neck and paw, but noticeably shorter in the reach than Farr.

The contest itself was interesting, but never exciting. Neither man was ever in danger of a knock-out, or even a knock down and it was always fairly apparent that barring accidents, Farr would win.

THE STRAIGHT LEFT

The contest went throughout on similar lines. Farr did a good deal of crouching, kept his left shoulder well up, and scored nearly all his points with a straight left to the face. Occasionally he would miss with a right or send a left dangerously low at the body. Farr was as open as ever to a left hook, of which he took a great many, with the result that he was bleeding freely from the nose, mouth, and eye as early as the fourth round. He held his own at infighting, however, and his longer reach served him well at outfighting. Burman stood erect and was faster on his feet than Farr, but he could not get through the Welshman's defense with a really damaging blow, though he cut Farr's face a good deal with sharp left hooks. He showed best in sudden flurries of attack, when he seemed able to speed up considerably, but these were few and far between. Personally, I could not see that Burman could be given more than two or three rounds out of the twelve. The remainder were either Farr's or even.

Burman is ranked high in the United States, but on his showing against Farr he would probably be beaten by Harvey, London, Phillips, Gains, and James. He looked about the same class as Delaney, and certainly no better. There is no reason to suppose Farr was unfairly treated in the States when Burman was given the decision. Although Farr was a clear winner this time it would not have taken much to turn the scale.

While everyone would be pleased to see Baer fight here again, it is to be hoped that Farr's next contest will be with a fellow-countryman. We are inclined unduly to depreciate our heavyweights. Apart from Joe Louis, who is in a class by himself, they are probably as good as, though less numerous than, the American heavies, and the way in which Martin, the Deptford boxer, defeated the champion of France shows that they have little to fear from comparison with Continental boxers.

A POOR CONTEST

Danahar made his debut as a welterweight in an eight-round contest with Craster. He won quite certainly, notwithstanding the hooting with which the decision in his favor was received, but if it had not been for the aggressiveness of Craster there would have been no contest. Danahar was throughout on the defensive, and waited for his opponent to lead. He hit hard and straight, and his defense was good, but until he is more aggressive championships will not come his way, clever boxer though he is.

Lawler once more displayed his extraordinary style in a welterweight contest against Odwell. Lawler stands right foot in front, has a long reach, a heavy punch, and a most awkward style. He might beat anyone, but is very open to a right to the jaw. If Odwell's punch had been harder Lawler could not have lasted long.

LAST MINUTE GOAL AIDS ENGLAND TO BEAT SCOTLAND BEFORE 150,000

By J. T. BOLTON

Observer

LONDON, April 16—The last of the International matches of the season, played at Hampden Park, Glasgow, yesterday, before 150,000 people, ended in a victory for England over Scotland by two goals to one. Just how notable was yesterday's success may be judged from the fact that it is twelve years since England were victorious in Scotland, and apart from a "Victory" International game in 1919, that was the only previous occasion since the war in which England triumphed when the encouragement of a mighty throng was in favor of Scotland. Indeed, yesterday's victory was only the third gained by England in Scotland since 1904.

England's win leaves the International championship unsettled to an unusual extent, as England, Scotland, and Wales have each won two of the three games. In 1903, the same state of affairs existed at the end of the season, save that Ireland was then one of the countries concerned in the triple tie. The goal-average system of reckoning does not apply to the International competition. As England won the trophy last season they will be entitled to retain it because no other country has improved on their performances this season. In any case, England have returned the best goal average.

A dusty wind, with occasional rain, made the conditions difficult for the players, and the match is not one which will go down in history by reason of exceptionally brilliant play. England were somewhat fortunate winners, but they must be given due credit for a splendid recovery from a losing position, and for staying the fast pace better than their Scottish opponents. Throughout the first half Scotland were the better team, having so much more of the play that their half-time lead should have been more than one goal. McNab, of West Bromwich Albion, was the most prominent player on the field during the first period, putting in excellent work both in attack and defence from his left halfback position. Despite their mid-field superiority, Scotland owed their one goal to a defensive error—a pass-back blunder in which two Wolverhampton Wanderers players were concerned. Morris attempted to pass the ball back for his colleague Cullis to clear, but as the players hesitated, Dougal slipped in and scored easily.

Several scoring opportunities were missed, the pace at which the ball traveled on the greasy turf beating the men from time to time, and both McSpadyen and Milne failed with good opportunities to place Scotland further ahead. In the second half, however, McSpadyen, the Partick Thistle outside-right, showed real International form, starting many Scottish raids. Gradually England improved, and better combination helped the side to have more of the play. Twenty minutes after the change of ends England drew level. This goal, like that obtained by Scotland earlier, came from a defensive error. Carabine, the Scottish full-back, who had not been in his best form, cleared indifferently, giving Beasley a chance which the outside-left used to full advantage. Thus were England put on level terms by the Huddersfield Town player, brought into the side because Brook, the original choice, was unfit.

Excitement, which had been lacking in the earlier stages, became intense as the England players made their great efforts in the closing stages to win the game and deprive Scotland of the championship. The winning goal came within a matter of seconds of the final whistle, when, from an attack initiated by the Everton half-back Mercer, Lawton shot into the net. The England center-forward finished in the most telling way what was, perhaps, the best combined movement of the whole game.

In much of the Scottish play the traditional skill was in evidence, shown particularly by the inside forwards, Venters and Walker. Ability to finish off the attacks with telling shots was noticeably absent, however, and although Woodley, in the England goal, was kept fairly busy, he was seldom severely tried. McNab's early prominence was not fully sustained, and between the half-back lines there was little to choose. It was noteworthy, however, that the Scottish center-half was more exclusively a stopper than was Cullis in the same position for England.

The strength of England was in the defense, Hapgood, the captain, marshaling his forces with fine judgment, and himself playing with grim determination and intelligent anticipation. Mercer was the outstanding England half-back, while in attack Matthews was scarcely so prominent as had been expected. The Scottish opponents clearly sensed from where the danger to their goal was most likely to come, and Matthews was most persistently covered. The clever touches in the England attack were supplied by the two inside forwards, Hall and Goulden, both of whom play for Second Division clubs. Lawton found Baxter a difficult obstacle, and the duels between the Everton center-forward and the Middlesbrough half-back were among the most interesting features of the match.

The major issues of the League season are now rapidly reaching settlement. Following on the success of Barnsley, champions of the Third Division Northern Section, Newport County have won the championship of the Southern Section of this Division. In this fact there is no surprise so far as the season is concerned, because Newport have held the leading place for several months past. The change in the fortunes of the south Wales club, almost continually among the struggling sides in the past, could scarcely have been anticipated when the season started. Even now, when Newport County are due to be promoted to the Second Division for the first time in the club's history, there are financial difficulties, and possibly litigation, to be faced.

With two players giving assistance to England, Everton failed to beat Preston North End when victory would have assured them the championship. However, their complete success cannot be long delayed. The The question of the two clubs to be relegated from the First Division at the end of the season remains open. Three clubs are involved. Losing at Huddersfield, where their center-half, Salmond, was injured, Chelsea have fallen to the last place but one in the table. They are only one point behind Leicester City, with two matches in hand, but when it is remembered that Chelsea have lost five matches in succession, there must inevitably be anxiety about the future status of the London club.

With a surprise victory at Brentford, Birmingham kept open the narrow road to safety. Birmingham were greatly indebted for their victory at Brentford to the magnificent goalkeeping of Hibbs. The England international returned to the side after an absence of many months, and he gave a display which suggested that, if he had been available throughout the season, Birmingham might not have been in their present plight.

Manchester United, requiring one point for complete relief, came near to getting it against Arsenal at Highbury, where they were beaten when the wind caused the ball to dip into the goal when it seemed likely to pass over the bar. Leicester City played determined football at Derby to secure a valuable point. In a difficult position a little earlier in the season, Blackpool are now quite safe. They gained the biggest victory of the day in the First Division, Dodds, their center-forward, previously with Sheffield United, scoring all four goals for the side in the match against Middlesbrough.

Blackburn Rovers are almost as certain to win the Second Division championship as Everton are to gain the First Division honor. The goal-average of Blackburn is so good as to be worth a point when the final reckoning comes, and a draw in one of their two remaining games will ensure the Blackburn side finishing on top. Unusually complicated, however, is the question which side is likely to be promoted in company with Blackburn Rovers. The onward march of Luton Town continues. They won at Chesterfield, where no team has been victorious since early September, and have stepped into the second place. In contrast, Sheffield Wednesday only drew on their own ground to lowly Nottingham Forest, but Sheffield United won convincingly at Bradford. The latter club may still be involved in the relegation issue. Norwich City's win at Tranmere may prove invaluable, while Swansea Town also did themselves a good turn by gaining both points from Plymouth Argyle.

Harada Beats Sato To Win Amateur Golf

Takeo Harada of the Musashino Club, a newcomer, shot too brilliant golf for Giichi Sato, of the Hirono Club and the latter failed to win his fourth straight title Saturday in this year's national amateur golf play.

Interest was how much of a battle Narada would give Sato who appeared to have reached his top form on Friday in the semi-finals.

Carding birdies on the third, fourth, tenth, thirteenth, fifteenth seventeenth and eighteenth holes, Harada was seven up after the morning's round. He continued his fine play in the afternoon and vanquished the three-time champion on the 12th hole, 7 up with 6 to go. His score sheet for the 18 holes in the morning was a 69, four under par, which has not yet been equaled even by the pros.

MENZEL WINS FOR GERMANY IN DAVIS CUP

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, May 6—Hungary, Germany, Yugoslavia and Poland today led their respective firstround opponents in the European Zone of the annual Davis Cup competitions which got under way yesterday.

Hungary playing against Rumania at Bucharest gained a two to one lead by winning the singles match which was halted yesterday because of darkness, however, dropped today's doubles encounter.

In yesterday's singles matches, Gabory of Hungary won by a default after Schmidt of Rumania wrenched his ankle in the fifth set of the match. Carallulis of Rumania was leading 3-1 in the fifth set of his match with Asboth of Hungary when play was called because of darkness.

Picking up from where they left off yesterday, Asboth came back strong to take five games to his opponent's one, thus taking the set and match. The scores of the Asboth-Carallulis match were 1-6, 6-3, 7-9, 10-8, 6-4.

In the following doubles encounter, Carallulis and Schmidt of Rumania paired together to down the Hungarian couple of Csikos and Dallos in five sets, 6-8, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

At Zagreb, meanwhile, the Yugoslav team scored a commanding lead over the Irish team by taking both opening-day singles matches, Dr. Mitic of Yugoslavia defeated Lyttleton-Rogers of Ireland in five sets, 7-6, 6-2, 3-6, 3-6, 6-3, while his teammate, Ferenc Puncec defeated Egan 6-2, 6-0, 6-4.

Germany, meanwhile, also scored two victories over Switzerland. Playing at Vienna, the brilliant Czech player Roderick Menzel defeated Maneff of Switzerland 6-3, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, while Henner Henkel defeated Fischer 6-2, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Playing at Warsaw, the Polish team had their two-match lead over Holland whittled down to a one-match lead when the Dutch pair of Hughan and Van Swol defeated Tloczynski and Hebda of Poland in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 12-10.

The Blind Hunter

Walter McDonald, blind chairman of the Georgia Public Service Commission, had to give up hunting when he lost his sight at the age of 13. About twelve years ago, he started going on deer-hunting trips with friends. He would take a stand in the woods and wait for the chase to come his way. His patience was rewarded on January 2, 1939, when he brought down a 140-pound buck, with two shots, as it loped ahead of the dogs. The sound of the deer running was his only guide in aiming. He regularly bags game birds, which make lots of noise when flushed and so are good targets for him.

Finnish Sport Picked For Exhibition Game

Pesapallo has been approved by the Helsinki Olympic Organizing Committee as the exhbiition item of a national game. As will be recalled, two such items are allowed on the program of each Olympic Games, one of a national and one of an international sport. An exhibition pesapallo match will therefore be played in the Olympic Stadium between two Finnish First League sides.

Pesapallo is played by two teams of nine players. It was invented by Lauri Pihkala, who also drew up the rules, and is modelled on the American baseball. As it can be played under very primitive conditions, its popularity soon spread to the rural districts, so that today it numbers over 100,000 devotees throughout the entire country.

Horiguchi Accepts Challenge by Gen; To Fight on May 29

Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, Japan's leading featherweight fighter, has accepted a challenge flung by Umio Gen, Chosen battler, who returned recently from a campaign on the Pacific coast of the United States where he met some of the outstanding pugilists and gave a good account of himself.

The two have signed up to battle at the Kokugikan wrestling bowl, which seats 20,000, on the evening of May 29.

It should be one of the best fights staged in years in this country, as both boys are willing fighters and always keep in the best of condition.

Colonial College Wrestlers Win Kanto Sumo Tittle

The Colonial College wrestlers won their third straight title in the Kanto Students Sumo championship staged Saturday and Sunday at the Kokugikan, defeating Meiji University, 3 matches to 2, in the finals.

Kobayashi of Waseda won the individual championship, defeating Akatsuka of Keio in the final.

Tigers Down Giants In Pro Ball League

Pitcher Misonou of the Tigers yielded but five hits and the Giants went down to a 2-1 defeat in Sunday's tripleheader of the professional baseball circuit at the Korakuen stadium. The Giants' only tally was a homer by Shortstop Shiraishi in the last half of the eighth.

The Eagles played two games and won both, disposing of Nagoya 4 to 3 in the curtain-raiser and the same team, 3-0, in the second.

Hankyu continued to lead the league standings with a 7-0 victory over the Senators at the Koshien stadium in the Kansai. But the Tigers are only two games behind now.

The Lions bested the Dolfins 4 to 2 in the other game at the Koshien stadium.

POLO TO BE GUIDED BY NEW INTERNATIONAL CODE OF RULES

The Times, London

LONDON, April 12—The proposed International Code of Rules, to which reference has been made in The Times, has been adopted by the Hurlingham Polo Association, and polo will be played under it this Summer. The Indian Polo Association has also adopted the code and it will be in force next season. In America the proposed rules have met with a favourable reception, but they will not be adopted immediately, and there is certain to be much discussion before they are likely to come into force.

The chief objection to putting the new rules into force appears to be the doubt as to the advantage of centralizing the executive each season as, some argue, there might be some delay in rectifying an abuse owing to the need to refer to the chairman of the International Rules Committee when he is not resident in the country. It will be remembered that it is proposed that the chairman and secretary of the Rules Committee shall be elected annually in rotation from England, the United States, and India. Actually this objection does not seem very serious, as in each country the game, of course, remains entirely under the jurisdiction of the national association, who, accordingly, have full powers to deal with circumstances as they arise. However, the rearrangement and wording of the Rules of Polo have done so much to unify and clarify the existing three sets of rules under which the game has hitherto been played that it can be only a matter of time before they become universal.

The peculiar needs of each country can be arranged for by the suggested Supplementary Rules, which are operative in the country concerned, so that there really seems no possible objection to the eventual acceptance of the rules, possibly modified in some details, within the next year or so. No doubt the matter will be fully discussed in America this Summer, when there will be leading players from all over the world assembled at Meadow Brook to see the international games. Until the United States Polo Association accept this new—or rather rewritten—code it is unlikely that they will be accepted in Argentina.

THE CHIEF UMPIRE

Although the coming London season is likely to be rather quiet it will be most interesting, not only on account of the new rules being in operation, but also because of the system of umpiring by which they will be administered. During the past few seasons one has heard a good deal of complaint, very often not in the least justified, of the quality of the umpiring of the games, especially in London. Naturally it is not possible to please everybody and, moreover, umpiring at polo is a hideously difficult task to accomplish without a mistake. This is not to suggest that the quality of umpiring in England is not possible of improvement, for it is, and of this nobody is more conscious than the umpires themselves. The Hurlingham Polo Association have had the matter under consideration for a long time. They are determined to improve the standard and this, in turn, is bound to improve the game. With all respect to the school of thought which regards punctilious observation of the rules on the part of an umpire as officiousness in detriment of their enjoyment, and would prefer to get on with the games with the least possible "whistle," it must be said that anything that can be done to improve the umpiring and so inevitably the standard of play is worthy of all applause.

For this coming season it has been decided to appoint a Chief Umpire whose duty it will be to take charge of most of the important matches at all three clubs, varied occasionally by sitting with the referee in order to observe how the game is conducted by other official umpires. This, it is argued, must bring a greater uniformity in this most important duty. The umpires already meet twice during the season to discuss various problems that have arisen and now the Chief Umpire, who will have every opportunity to see what goes on, will be of great help to his fellow official umpires, all of whom are as keen as they can be to do their best. The Chief Umpire will work absolutely under the London Polo Committee and will be responsible to that body only, which will strengthen his authority and must be very much to the benefit of the game.

A WISE CHOICE

Not to be too invidious it may be said that, taking it by and large, the umpiring at Roehampton by Lieutenant-Colonel S. V. Kennedy and Major M. Cox during the last two seasons has met with general approval. They have developed a kind of team-work between them and they have, perhaps, avoided more mistakes than any other combination. For this season Major Cox has been selected as Chief Umpire. He will have the confidence of the players. After the London season his services will be at the disposal of the County Polo Association, and this should be of enormous advantage to the game in general. Hurlingham, Roehampton, and the Ranelagh Club, Limited, have each contributed an equal amount toward the retainer for this duty, as also has the County Polo Association.

This marks a really important departure in the conduct of the game and shows that the Hurlingham Polo Association is fully aware of the needs of the game and is determined to do all it can to promote its interests. Moreover it gives a lead to other associations. In America, for instance, contrary to the general belief, the umpiring of the game, except in notable instances, is certainly no better than it is with us. In fact, it was my impression last Autumn that, on the whole, it was not so good. Mr. S. V. Brady, a licensed umpire of the Indoor Polo Association, was in charge of several of the games which I saw at Meadow Brook, and he impressed me as entirely competent. For the rest, however, they relied on active players, who do not always make the best umpires, and there seemed a distinct laxity on frequent occasions, to say nothing of quite a lot of obvious infringements which were allowed to escape unpunished. It is refreshing to know that we in England are not so much behind the times as some would have us to believe and in this important matter we have certainly given a lead which may very likely be followed elsewhere.

20 American Athletes Will Be Invited Here

Twenty American athletes of various categories will be invited to Japan this year by the Board of Tourist Industry as a project toward improving American-Japanese relations.

The board plans to carry out the plan on virtually the same arrangements with which it invited women school teachers of America last year. The expense for an athlete in Japan is estimated at ¥700, which will be borne by the board. Steamer transportation will be paid by the athletes themselves but as the Nippon Yusen Kaisha will grant a 50 per cent discount, it is believed that through the gate receipts of the meets to be staged, the visiting athletes will be reimbursed of their steamer fares.

What athletes to be invited is being considered by the board after consultations with the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation.

ITALIAN-CAR FIRST ENTERED AT INDIANAPOLIS

Christian Science Monitor

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—An Italian-built Alfa Romeo speedster with the veteran Babe Stapp at the wheel and Bill White as the sponsor became the first entry for the 1939 international 500-mile race on May 30 at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

In selecting Stapp as the pilot, White, a familiar figure in the sport for more than a decade, chose a driver whose extensive experience in distance racing makes him an instant threat for a sizable chunk of the $100,000 in awards ready for distribution when the checkered flag has been waved. Records of the Speedway show that Stapp was first graduated to the "big show" in 1927, when a White-entered Dussenberg captured first place in a surprise finish.

ALWAYS A THREAT

The following year Stapp at the wheel of a Miller finished in sixth place and each year thereafter he has been on hand, always a threat but dogged with a streak of hard breaks he hopes this year to conquer. In 11 years of Speedway racing Stapp has driven a total of 1,705 miles in sweepstakes competition and has collected $2,200 in prize money, exclusive of consolation awards.

Over as many years as Stapp has been in the game, Big Bill White has come to be known as one of the most loyal devotees of the sport. With his stable of latest racing creations, White has come to the event each year from his native California intent on demonstrating to the public the best that can be obtained in machines and pilots. Last year he selected Stapp to pilot one of his machines, the McCoy Auto Service Special, but mechanical difficulties placed the car out of the running after 54 laps.

NEW CHALLENGE

As the first entry in the 1939 event, the Italian-built creation to be piloted by Stapp gives the race an international touch and offers a new challenge to the builders of American machines which have dominated the 500-mile field for years. The Alfa Romeo was brought here originally for the Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island and attracted the immediate attention of White.

Last year it was driven here by Rex Mays, California flash, and its capabilities are best demonstrated by the fact that it started in the outside position in the first row. Mays qualified the machine at an average of 122.845 miles an hour for the 25-mile run, which has been reduced to 10 miles this year. The machine is supercharged and of 181-inch piston displacement, just two cubic-inches within the maximum displacement for supercharged mounts. It has eight cylinders in a row, a 3-inch bore and a 3.02-inch stroke. With alcohol as a base fuel the foreign creation is rated as one of the fastest ready to be entered.

STAR'S BROTHER GETS CHANCE IN BASEBALL

MASSILLON, Ohio, April 13—The House of Henrich handed over its No. 2 hopeful to the baseball world today in the person of 20-year-old Charley, younger brother of the New York Yankees' Tommy.

It took him from a boiler factory and sent him eight miles eastward to the nearest organized baseball club—the Canton Terriers, Mid-Atlantic League farm of the Boston Red Sox. Workouts begin Saturday.

SHORTER AND LIGHTER

"They'll give you a chance to play ball," said Edward M. "Pa" Henrich. "Show them what you can do."

Shorter and a little lighter than his elder brother, Charley is a product of Canton and Massillon sandlots. He hit .363 in 40 semi-pro games last Summer. An outfielder, he throws and bats from the left.

"But he thinks right," "Pa" Henrich explained.

By signing with Canton, Charley eventually may get a chance in the same circuit with Tommy, who rose to the American League via Zanesville, Ohio; New Orleans, and Milwaukee. Charley, however, spurned a proffered contract with Akron, a Yankee farm, "because I want to be strictly on my own."

ANOTHER GETTING READY

Meanwhile, another Henrich hopeful—Arthur, 17—raked the lawn and prophesied he'd "be ready for the majors in a year or two."

"Pa" reported No. 3 "looks like a sure-fire baseman."

The other founder of the Henrich dynasty was almost, but not quite, non-committal.

"I hate to see the boys go like this," said "Ma." "But my goodness, they've broken 13 garage windows already this Spring."

PROMISING ROOKIES

CHICAGO—One of the greatest groups of young players the circuit has come up with in 30 years—that's Henry Pierpont Edwards' opinion of the 1939 American League rookie crop.

Edwards, the league's popular public relations counsel, has just returned from his 30th consecutive spring baseball jaunt. The last 10 he made in his present position, and previously he had taken 20 trips to the southland as a Cleveland newspaperman. He's seen hundreds of youngsters "bloom brilliantly" in spring training and fade just as quickly come june or July.

HAS SEEN HUNDREDS

"I've seen too many promising ball players fail to produce once the major-league season started to 'go overboard' on any single player," Edwards said,, "but I'm convinced this year's American League first-year crop is destined to go down as one of the finest in the circuit's history.

"Last year there were about five outstanding first-year men in the league—Jim Bagby, Boston pitcher; Jeff Health, Cleveland outfielder; Joe Gordon, New York second baseman; Joe Krakauskas, Washington pitcher, and Sam Chapman, Philadelphia outfielder. This year we should have twice that number make outstanding showings."

Here are the players Edwards thinks have the best chance of developing into stars: Ted Williams, Jim Tabor, and Woody Rich of Boston; Joe Gallagher, Charley Keller, and Warren Rosar of New York; Frank Croucher and possibly Fred Hutchinson, Detroit; John Berardino, St. Louis, and Walter Masterton of Washington.

NOTES FROM BOOK

A few notes from Henry's rookie book: Connie Mack, Athletics' manager, says Bill Nagel has the finest pair of hands he's ever seen on a young third baseman, and that Nagel is going far. . . . Veteran baseball men believe Dixie Parsons, the catcher Detroit optioned to Toledo for regular work this season, has enough to become a second Bill Dickey. . . . Pitchers John Kramer and Louis Tost, St. Louis, and Henry Pippen of Philadelphia need only experience to make them big league regulars. . . . Outfielder Barney McCoskey has a bright chance of being the first Detroit boy in years to clinch a regular job with the Tigers. He has plenty of power and may be in the outfield when the season opens.

MINAMIMURA LEADS HITTING IN 'BIG 6' LOOP

Although he failed to hit safely in three times at bat Sunday, Third Baseman Minamimura of Waseda is leading the race for individual batting honors in the Tokyo Six University Baseball league. He has a .476 mark, the result of 10 hits out of 21 times at bat in six games.

In second place is Second Baseman Kitahara of Rikkyo with a .400 mark. He banged out 10 hits out of 25 times at bat.

The averages of the leaders follow:

Naismith Frowns On Hoop Changes

TORONTO, April 13—New rules being introduced into basketball "are slowing down the game," Dr. James Naismith, Canadian-born clergyman, doctor, and physical education instructor, who invented the game, told a gathering of coaches and players yesterday.

Dr. Naismith said the game as he planned it included four main principles, designed to eliminate roughness as much as possible. These were: No progress with the ball while it was in a player's possession; horizontal goals to eliminate difficult goal shooting; ball was anybody's while in play to encourage fast movement; and no bodily contact by checking or cross-checking.

"Nowadays just because a rule is new it is thought that it must be good and old rules are sneered at," he asserted. "They are slowing down the game and running counter to nearly every principle we laid down in those early days."

NAGAI'S TRIP TO I.O.C. MEET SAID OPPOSED

Dispatch of a delegation to the general meeting of the International Olympic Committee is unnecessary in view of the current circumstances, in the opinion of the Finance Ministry, says the Yomiuri Shimbun of this morning.

Request of Dr. Matsuzo Nagai, who had recently consented to succeed the late Professor Jigoro Kano as a member of the I.O.C. and to go to the London meeting, for a letter of credit has been turned down by the Finance Ministry's foreign exchange control department, according to the Yomiuri.

The Japan Amateur Athletic Federation already had decided to send a secretary to Dr. Nagai while Tokyo Municipality had arranged to dispatch two persons to assist Dr. Nagai.

With the view to having Dr. Nagai at least represent Tokyo at the I. O. C. meeting to safeguard Japan's position in international sports, Director Sasaki of the Welfare Ministry, after a conference wtih officials of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation, saw Director Nakamura of the foreign exchange department of the Finance Ministry late Monday for special treatment. The latter was expected to make a definite reply this morning. Indications were that the request would be futile, according to the Yomiuri.

Dr. Nagai is scheduled to leave on the Tatuta Maru on Thursday for London via the United States. Unless he boards this liner, he will be unable to get to London in time for the I. O. C. meeting.

It is believed that the Finance Ministry's firm attitude will affect the contemplated dispatch of a track team to the international students track and field championships to be held his Summer at Vienna, and the dispatch of a delegation to the Olympic Games at Helsinki next year as well.

FINNS TRAIN FOR COMING OLYMPIC GAMES

Olympic News Service

HELSINKI—As each Olympic meeting approaches, the task of the coach, whose job it is to bring his charges up to the pitch where ground previously gained can be successfully consolidated and new victories recorded, becomes more arduous.

Other nations can rest assured that Finland is going to spare no effort to keep her athletic performances at the high standard that has won for her an acknowledged place among the world's elite, an achievement that has been responsible for the organization of the 1940 Games being entrusted to her.

In various branches of sport, in particular those upon which the country's reputation is founded, the work of training is proceeding along familiar lines and without arousing special attention. Since Finland is, however, desirous that at these Games her entry shall cover the widest possible field, exceptionally vigorous measures have been taken to develop her weaker categories. For this purpose new gymnasia have been constructed, fresh technical practising apparatus has been procured and a number of foreign instructors have been engaged.

FOOTBALL COACH ARRIVES

Last month Finland's new Hungarian football coach, Gabriel Obitz, arrived. He is 40 years old and has 20 international caps, having represented his country at, amongst others, the Paris Games. He has subsequently been coaching in Turkey, Jugoslavia, Hungary and Czechoslovakia and will remain in Finland until the Autumn of 1940.

The coach to the German rowing team, Hugo Borrmann, was sent here in February by the German Rowing League and made a stay of a few weeks. Mr. Borrmann is 60 years of age and has been a rowing man for the last 40 years. He has just returned to Germany.

The Finnish weight-lifting team will next Autumn have the services of Adolf Wagner, winner of the middle weight class (under 75 kgs.) at the World's Championships held in Vienna in 1938. This German amateur coach will probably pay two visits of about one month each.

The famous Danish cycling coach, Karl Pheiser, is due to arrive in Finland at the beginning of April and for two months will give Finnish cyclists the benefit of his advice. He will also be seen again in Finland later.

During November and December of last year the swimmers were in the hands of a Swiss-Hungarian, Ernst Speissegger. The Finnish Swimming Association will probably engage another coach later for the swimmers and water-polo enthusiasts.

The fencers have not been forgotten either. They are practising under the supervision of a Belgian, Jean-Baptiste Coulon, who will remain in Helsinki some three months.

Finland is, on the other hand, prepared to lend assistance elsewhere in the sports on which her own reputations is based.

COACHING ABROAD

A number of Finnish wrestling coaches are to be found in various European countries. Among them may be mentioned Robert Oksa, a former Finnish champion, head coach to the Swedish team for more than 10 years; Onni Pellinen, another famous wrestler from Finland, who has been coaching the Turks since 1935; and Onni Sirenius, who spent 1934—1936 in Italy preparing her team for Berlin and who has since returned there. Jaakko J. Mikkola has been an athletics coach in U.S.A. since 1920, most of that time at Harvard University. Latvia had for several years the assistance of Veikko Rinne, where amongst his other activities he had in his hands the preparation of Latvia's track and field athletes for Berlin. He has since taken up similar duties in France. Italy has for the last 5 years retained the services of a ski-running coach, Vaino Sares.

The foregoing six trainers are still at their jobs abroad. In addition, it may be mentioned that the chief coach to the Finnish athletic team, Armas Valste, spent two Summers in England as instructor in athletics. Four Finns coached the Italian team for the Berlin Games; Paavo Karikko, Martti Jarvinen (not to be confused with the Olympic Gold Medalist and former world record holder in the javelin, Matti Jarvinen), Veikko Renko, and Ove Andersen. Finns have been active in Norway, too, where instruction to gymnasts has been given by Einari Terasvirta and Tapio Hirsikangas. Finally, Veli Saariaen, winner of the 50 kilometre world ski-running championship at Lake Placid, spent two years prior to the Garmisch-Partenkirchen Winter Olympic Games coaching the German skiers.

The Gift Magnificent

In recognition of many favors received, King Louis XIV of France bestowed upon the rich merchant Antoine de Crozat, as a personal gift, the entire territory of Louisiana "to do with as he willed." It was one of the princeliest gifts ever bestowed upon a mortal, as the territory included a vast region out of which 12 American States were subsequently carved. But Crozat could not make it pay. The expense of running this gigantic estate made such inroads upon his private fortune that he was glad to give it back to the French King five years later (1717).

COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR

By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Enko Vaccari

THE LONDON TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT

. . . .this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.

A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.

AN EASY METHOD TO LEARN CHINESE-JAPANESE CHARACTERS

By Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Vaccari

This new and unique publication is indispensable to students wishing to learn Chinese-Japanese characters methodically and quickly.

Every character, printed in large size in handwriting style on one side of a card, is given, in printed style, in combination with other characters, which combinations reproduce the essential Japanese compound words that are necessary to know in order to understand Japanese newspapers and books.

The compound words are given a progressive number, and on the other side of the cards the numbers are repeated with the pronunciation in Roman letters and the English translation of the compound words under consideration.

The cards are contained in a specially designed box.

MAIN FEATURES

1. The first publication showing how Chinese-Japanese characters are written with the brush (fude).
2. Containing 7000 compound words used in modern Japanese.
3. All characters have been given in the order of the progression of the number of their strokes, which is indicated on the upper edge of the partitions that divide the cards in the box.

Size of the cards 4 x 2¾ inches
Size of the box 9 x 6 x 4½ inches
NET WEIGHT 6½ lbs.

YANKEES AND REDS HAVEN'T WON MAJOR LEAGUES BY ANY MEANS

By JOHN KIERNAN

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 16—According to the A.P. poll, the Yankees and Cincinnati Reds are the pennant choices of the experts in their respective leagues. However, this doesn't clinch it for the clubs named. The race will go on just the same at the usual admission prices.

As far as this observer knows, there is no statute compelling any citizen to register his opinion of how the clubs will finish in each league. It isn't like an income tax and failure to file a return subjects the delinquent to no penalty except that of being called a fraidy-cat.

The plea in avoidance here is ignorance. Not dense, complete, impenetrable and invincible ignorance. The good and bad points about some clubs are known. But this baffled student of baseball felt like going back and starting all over when, for five straight days, Brooklyn bats made the Yankee pitchers think that the world war was on again.

DISTURBING EVENTS

Just when the Giant fans were preparing to unfurl their banners and welcome home their choice for this year's pennant in the National League, Hal Schumacher was bombarded for five home runs by the Cleveland Indians and Colonel William Harold Terry muttered ominously that he didn't expect Carl Hubbell to pitch for a month.

Now, it's obvious that the Giants will have to have more than Zeke Bonura on first and Ike Falk and his cowbell in the grandstand to overpower the other clubs this season. It isn't even sure that "Bananas" Bonura will be at first base for the Giants all season. With Ike Falk and his cowbell it is different. He will be in the grandstand for the Giants every day they play and remain until the last man is out.

Burgess Whitehead, the Giant second baseman, didn't play at all last year. That makes him a problem child in this year's reckoning. Clydell Castleman still remains an unknown quantity for pitching purposes. He eats well, but beyond that even Manager Terry isn't sure of what Clydell will do on any given day.

SHARP SHOCKS

The Cubs were counting on Daredevil Dick Bartell, and after a few grounders Dick came hobbing back to the bench with an ankle swollen like a balloon. Augie Galan became a hospital case. The chances are that Dean's fast ball has gone with the wind. They still have two corking pitchers in Clay Bryant and Bill Lee. Maybe the next news be that Clay is down with a cough and Bill has bowed a tendon.

For the regular line-up the Cubs have three good men in Billy Herman, Stanley Hack and Charles Leo (the Lion) Hartnett, but "one of them is fat and grows old." Still, two good pitchers and three good regulars—that makes the Cubs about as formidable as any starter in the field.

The burying squad was just coming along to take care of Cy Blanton of the Pirates when Cy stepped out of the coffin and pitched a no-hitter against Cleveland in New Orleans about a week ago. Everybody was thinking that Bob Feller would be over his wildness by this season, and through much of the exhibition campaign Feller was exuding passes like a publicity agent for a pari-mutuel dog track.

Marse Joe McCarthy had such a strong veteran pitching staff that he didn't get a chance to test out some fine young material. The next thing anybody knew the great Yankee staff was being made to look like a sand-lot collection by some jovial gents in Brooklyn uiforms, of all things!

TOUCHING THE BASES

Some tourists had it that Lou Gehrig, the Iron Horse, was broken down and that the best thing Manager McCarthy could do was to take his shoes off and lead him behind the barn and destroy him. But the Iron Horse began to feel his oats after a while. He will be at his accustomed station when the band begins to play. That's one cheerful note among all the hospital reports.

Some scouts report that Charley Gehringer, the strong, silent second baseman of the Detroit club, is slowing up. He can slow up a lot and still be a large pain in the neck to seven American League managers any time they see him coming to bat with men on bases.

Cleveland is having shortstop trouble, among other ailments. Catcher Frank Pytlak packed his bag and moved out of the training camp in a pet or a huff. He came in a day or so, but somehow such an excursion by the first-string catcher isn't the thing to inspire confidence in a club. Pie Traynor chased Ed Brandt out of the Pirate camp and read the riot act to big Russ Bauers and maybe one or two more of his merry men. Bill Benswanger said he didn't care whether Paul Waner reported or not and said it so often that finally Paul believed it. So he reported. But that doesn't solve all the Pittsburgh problems by any means.

ON THE FIRING-STEP

Most of those who are picking the Cincinnati Reds to lead the National League mention Lee Grissom as one of the reasons why they favor the Reds. To be sure, they mention Johnny Vander Meer and Whitey Moore and Frank McCormick and Ernesto "Cyrano" Lombardi, too. But they insist on having Grissom in there as a left-hand threat on the mound. Where did Grissom ever bury his dead? This is his fourth year up. He won twelve games in his best season, which was 1937, but he lost seventeen games that same year. Last season he won just two games.

The Brooklyn fans are counting on Van Lingle Mungo, but Van will have to do much better than he did in the past two seasons if he is to pull the Dodgers out of the second division. Baron Poffenberger, late of Detroit, has the old Brooklyn spirit that amuses the populace even if it doesn't win ball games. Maybe he can win games, too, but he has yet to prove that he can do it in quantity.

Manager Joe Cronin of the Fenway Millionaires is hoping that Bob Grove will be all right. But he doesn't know. The whole situation is so confusing and obscure that, after looking over the schedule, all this observer can do with certainty is to pick the Yankees to finish at the Stadium and the Giants to finish on the road.

HARVARD TOPS COLUMBIA NINE IN 10TH, 11-3

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 16—Columbia bolted into the air with the celerity of a released balloon in the tenth inning of its Eastern Intercollegiate League opener with Harvard at Baker Field yesterday and what had been a very tight ball game broke wide apart. The Cantabs batted around, hammered out eight hits, scored eight runs and made off with an 11-3 victory.

For seven frames this had been a very pretty sort of battle. Big Tom Healey of Harvard and Hector Dowd of the Lions were locked in a pitching duel that saw the bespectacled Light Blue twirler in possession of a 3-1 lead.

In the eighth, however, Dowd wavered a bit and was touched for a brace of runs that tied the score. So he was derricked in favor of John Cerny, who retired the side and went through the ninth unscathed. The change in pitchers really looked like a good idea until the tenth frame came along.

LUPIEN BEATS OUT A BUNT

Then it seemed like trying to extinguish a fire by pouring on kerosene. Ulysses Lupien opened by dragging a bunt and beating it out. The logical play was a sacrifice, which Bob Hoye attempted. But Catcher Jack Desmond pounced on the ball and hurled it to center field. So Harvard stuck to its theoretically sound tactics by trying another sacrifice.

Cerny gobbled that one up himself, gazed at third, took a look at second and glanced at first. It was a very orderly survey. Everybody was in position, including the baserunners, and Cerny still had the ball in his hand. Perhaps it was the chill wind that froze his thoughts, but whatever it was the bases were filled as a result of his mental lapse.

So Sam Merrill proceeded to slash a single to right. Chief Boston fanned but Healey and Art Johns hit safely, Bob Gannett doubled, Reino Grondahl walked by way of variety, Lupien, up again, singled and Hoye followed suit.

AN EMPTY GESTURE

In all the confusion eight runs came in and Columbia's final turn at bat was just an empty gesture. The Lions were merely following the rules and going through the formality of finishing up a ball game that was irretrievably lost.

It was really too bad that such a good contest should end on so sour a note. Healey pitched well and fully deserved to win. He allowed only six hits and only one earned run. Dowd also did well, since he yielded only six hits. Cerny gave nine for a full Harvard total of fifteen.

SENATORS TOP GIANTS, 4-2 IN PRO LEAGUE

Aided by the effecting pitching of Kaneko and Noguchi, who between them yielded only seven scattered hits, the Senators defeated the Giants, 4 to 2, in the feature tilt of the professional league's double-header at the Korakuen stadium Wednesday afternoon.

The Senators clinched victory by scoring three runs in the third for a 4-0 lead. Hits in a row by Yokozawa and Omoda brought in Karita who had gained life at first on the shortstop's error. Yokozawa tallied as Third Baseman Mizuhara threw Noguchi out at first. Pitcher Kawakami of the Giants tried desperately to turn back Sato but the latter nicked him for a clean hit to left and Omoda checked in.

Scoring four runs in the second inning, the Eagles bumped off the Dolfins 5 to 1 in the curtain-raiser. Pitcher Nakagawa checked the Dolfins to four hits.

POLAND ENTERS SECOND ROUND OF CUP SERIES

Domei-Tsushin

LONDON, May 7—While Germany and Yugoslavia virtually clinched their series with Switzerland and Ireland by their victories today, Poland and Hungary advanced into the second round of the annual Davis Cup competitions by defeating Holland and Rumania respectively.

Playing its final games at Warsaw, the Polish team administered a convincing 4-1 defeat to the Netherlands team by copping both of the day's singles matches. Tloczinski of Poland defeated Van Swol of Holland, by scores of 13-11, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, while his teammate. Baworowski, swept through Hughan of Holland 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, after dropping the first set 0-6.

Hungary, meanwhile, entered the second round of the Davis Cup matches by eking out a 3-2 win over Rumania. Playing at Bucharest, Caralulis of Rumania defeated Gabory of Hungary, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 7-5. With the series tied at 2-2, Asboth of Hungary won a hardfought match from Schmidt of Rumania, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3, 8-6, 6-3.

At Vienna, Germany virtually settled its series with Switzerland when its doubles team composed of veterans Henner Henkel and G. von Metaxa completely outplayed Manoff and Fischer, winning in straight sets 6-2, 6-2, 6-4. The victory boosted Germany's lead over Switzerland to 3-0.

The Yugoslavian doubles team of Ference Puncec and D. Mitic, playing at Zagreb, defeated the Irish combination of Littleton Rogers and Egan in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2. Yugoslavia now leads Ireland by score of 3-0.

2 From Japan to Go To World's Weight Lifting

The Japan Weight Lifting Federation will send two athletes to compete in the world's championships to be held in Riga, Latvia, on September 9, 10 and 11.

Viscount Mishima, president of the Federation, has been asked to look after the raising of the necessary funds and letters of credit from the Finance Ministry.

DOROTHY EVANS WINS U.S. TITLE IN FREESTYLE

DETROIT, April 15—Two world records were broken and two national champions lost their crowns tonight in an invitation swimming meet sponsored by the Detroit Athletic Club.

Miss Jane Dillard, Austin, Tex., high school girl, clipped nearly two seconds from the women's 100-yard breaststroke record when she won that race in 1:16.6. The existing record was set by Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson, whose best time was 1:18.5.

The amazing young Texas swimmer was brought to Michigan competition by her coach, Julien Robertson, because in previous races in her home state she had broken the 100-yard record but failed to get it certified as a world mark. Her record time made tonight will be submitted for recognition as the world mark, Robertson said.

400-YARD RELAY MARK FALLS

The other world record to be beaten was the 400-yard free-style relay mark, which fell before an all-star team of Western swimmers. Miss Claudia Eckert, of Chicago; Miss Halina Tomska, of Detroit; Miss Emilie Draves, of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson, won the event from an all-star Eastern team in 4:11.5, beating the recognized record of 4:13.4 set in 1936 by the Washington Athletic Club, of Chicago.

The champions to fall were Miss Tomska and Mrs. Thompson. Mrs. Thompson lost her national A. A. U. championship in the 300-yard medley race to Miss Doris Brennan, of Providence. Miss Helene Rains, of New York, was second, and the defending champion third. The winning time was 4:04.5.

Miss Dorothy Evans, seventeen-year-old University of Pennsylvania co-ed, won the A. A. U. 100-yard free style championship by defeating a strong field of feminine swimmers.

In the 440-yard free style race for men. Andrew Clark, Detroit, nosed out Jack Medica, of New York. James Welsh, University of Michigan, was third. Clark's time was 4:50.2.

University of Michigan swimmers swept the 100-yard free-style race. Walt Tomski was first, Gus Sharenet second and Charles Barker third. The time was 52.5 seconds.

Miss Evans, representing the Broadwood Athletic Club of Philadelphiia, won the women's sprint swimming title in 1:02. Miss Tomska, of Detroit, who won the title a year ago, finished fourth in the invitational meet at the Detroit Athletic Club.

MICHIGAN MARK DISALLOWED

A 400-yard free style relay team composed of University of Michigan swimmers broke the world record for that event, but the mark was not allowed because one of the swimmers jumped the gun. The Wolverines—Charles Barker, Gus Sharenet, Bill Prew and Walt Tomski—swam the distance in 3:27.4, nearly four seconds under the recognized world record of 3:31.3 set earlier this year by the New York Athletic Club.

The Michigan team competed against a picked quartet composed of Otto Jaretz, of Chicago; Bill Quayle, of Ohio State University, Ed Kirar, of Chicago, and Peter Fick, of New York. Sharenet disqualified the Wolverines by plunging into the pool a fraction of a second before Barker completed his leg of the race.

In the women's 100-yard free-style championships Miss Claudia Eckert, a former champion, finished second, and Miss Doris Brennan, of Providence, third.

William Beebe, of the University of Michigan, won the men's 100-yard backstroke race in 60.2 seconds. Francis Heydt, of Michigan, was second, and Taylor Drysdale, of Detroit, third.

SUMO STARTS AT 2:30 A.M. FOR RECORD

It was a case of first come, first served at 50 sen a head for the opening day today of the 15-day sumo tournament at the Kokugikan and so great was the rush of the fans that the gates were thrown open at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. The stream of enthusiasts continued, and the tourney got going at the unearthly hour of 2:30 a.m. today for a new record in the sumo annals.

With the tournament extended from 13 to 15 days to meet the mounting demand for seats, and as a further means to please the fans, the directors of the Japan Sumo Federation ruled that even the ringside terraced boxes, which are bought for the whole season, would be made available to the public on the opening day. The opportunity to see the stalwarts at close range, and paying only 50 sen at that per ticket, was the cause for the rush to the ticket windows early Wednesday afternoon.

The tournament did get started at 2:30 a.m. today, five hours earlier than in past years, but it was only the beginners wrestling. Wrestlers in the top ranking circle were not expected to enter the ring for action until about 2 p.m. today. The final bout of the day between Grand Champion Futabayama and Banjaku, he of the great protruding belly, was not expected to get under way until past 7 p.m. All of the wrestlers have the habit of taking undue precaution on the opening day, all with the ambition of starting the tournament with a victory. Hence, the bouts tend to require the full starting time allowed of five minutes for the "juryo" (second ranking group) and 10 minutes for the top ranking circle.

So it is that a large part of the fans will have spent more than 24 hours at a stretch in the bowl. If this isn't enthusiasm for a sport, what is?

CALLAHAN KEEPS A.A.U. TITLES IN SWIM MEET

By L. DE B. HANDLEY

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, April 16—Justin Callahan, of the New York A.C. and Columbia University, successfully defended two of his several Metropolitan A.A.U. senior titles at a carnival in the twenty-five-yard Winged Foot last night.

The stalwart all-around star first won the 300-yard medley championship in 3:38.4, leading by four and fifteen yards Norman Siegel, of the Ninety-second Street Y.M.H.A., and Michael Priano, of the St. George Dragon Club. Later Callahan retained the 200-yard breast crown in conclusive fashion. Covering the route in 2:31.4, he touched eight yards ahead of his brother, Parnell, competing unattached, who secured the place by a body length over George Simihtsi, Columbia University freshman.

Walter Spence, the New York A.C. veteran, scored a close victory in the New York State senior 100-yard free style championship, in 0:54.2, nosing out his clubmate John Vergeichik, the defending titleholder. James Reilly jr., another Mercury Footer, was third one yard back.

The metropolitan senior 300-yard medly relay championship drew entries from the New York A.C. only and lacked interest in consequence. The two composed of Thomas McDermott, Ray Mullance and James McGill, won by half a yard from George Fissler, James Reilly jr. and John Driscoll in 3:19.4.

The summaries:

300-yard individual medley (Metropoli- A.A.U. senior championship)—Won by Justin Callahan, New York A.C.; Norman Siegel, 92d st. Y.M.H.A., second; Michael Priano, St. George Dragon Club, third; Ray Mullane, New York A.C., fourth. Time, 2:38.4.

50-yard freestyle, members' sons, handicap—Won by Donald Guerringue (5 secs.); Julian Roulhac (3 secs.), second; Nelson McCoss (scratch), third. Time 0:39.8.

50-yard dribble race; New York A.C. water polo players—Won by Juan Homs; George Fissler, second; Fred Bassett, third. Time. 0:28.4.

200-yard breaststroke (Metropolitan A.A.U. senior championship)—Won by Justin Callahan. New York A.C.; Parnell Callahan, unattached, second; George Simihtsi, Columbia University A.A., third; Edgar Blackledge, unattached. fourth. Time, 2:31.4.

100-yard freestyle (New York State; A.A.U. senior championship)—Won by Walter Spence, New York A.C.; John Vergeichik, New York A.C., second; James Reilly jr., New York A.C., third; Junius Calitri. 92d Street Y.M.H.A., fourth. Time, 0:54.2.

The First Wedding in 100-Year-Old Church

On October 31, 1937, Margaret Kuhn became the bride of Milton P. Schroeder, breaking the 100-year-old weddingless record of the Tonawanda, N. Y., St. Peter's Church. The lack of weddings in the church is explained by the fact that, until recently, the church had only itinerant ministers, who apparently were not available for nuptial ceremonies.

Three Identical Bowling Scores

Frank De Martino scored three identical bowling games on the night of January 12, 1939, at the Valley Stream, L.I., bowling alleys. In each of these successive games, his score was exactly the same in every frame.

MAJOR UPSETS MARK OPENING OF SUMO

Those fans that stayed through a 27-hour stretch in the Kokugikan sumo (Japanese style) for the opening day of Summer tournament on Thursday had their eyeful of major upsets, such as have never been witnessed in the bouts of any first day.

To list them in the order of their importance:

Champion Mayedayama was thrown after a torrid match by the strong Ryogoku, who sports no protruding belly and could appear in street clothes and have no semblance of a professional sumo man but for his long hair, which he could conceal by wearing a big hat.

HAGUROYAMA BEATEN

Haguroyama, powerful younger stable-mate of Grand Champion Futabayama who had been considered one of the foremost candidates for the championship because he does not meet Futabayama, was a strong favorite over Ayanobori. But the latter, one of the cleverest wrestlers in competition today, executed a neat body throw to win.

Kashimanada, up and coming wrestler who had thrown Futabayama in the January tournament and was considered by the experts a strong candidate for the seat of "ohzeki," a rank below grand champion, proved no match for the more experienced Shachinosato, reputed the most handsome of all wrestlers. The latter took the offensive and threw his opponent with a body throw.

Dewaminato, who although far down in the rank of the "makunouchi" or first ranking circle won 13 bouts without a defeat to win the championship of the January tournament last and was promoted to "komusubi," fourth rank from grand champion, and later took unto himself a bride, was defeated by the veteran Tatekabuto. No sooner had they stood up than Tatekabuto pushed with all his might and out went Dewaminato from the ring without a chance to display his cleverness.

Grand Champion Futabayama, who too like Dewaminato has become a Benedict since the January tournament, showed himself the strongest candidate to go through the current tourney undefeated by his impressive victory over the strong Banjaku. The latter has always been a tough foe for Futabayama, ever since the time Futabayama was in the lower ranks, but he proved no match for the Grand Champion on Thursday. No sooner had they stood up than Futabayama shoved his right arm through Banjaku's defense, and putting his left hand at Banjaku's throat, shoved him out of the ring.

Hishuzan, who lost only one bout in the January tournament and was runner-up to Dewaminato for the championship honors, got off to a bad start by being carried out of the ring by the lanky Fujigadake.

Grand Champion Minanogawa defeated Yamatonishiki with a body throw, but only after a torrid match.

The results of the bouts after the intermission when the grand champions make their formal entry into the ring follow:

Minenobori defeated Fujinosato.
Tomoegata defeated Sagamigawa.
Terukuni defeated Takanobori.
Matsunosato defeated Banshinzan.
Yamatoiwa defeated Hatasegawa.
Dewanohana defeated Aobayama.
Jintozan defeated Saganohana.
Kaneminato defeated Taikyuzan.
Onami defeated Wakashima.
Ayawaka defeated Tsurugamine.
Akinoumi defeated Ohshio.
Itsutsushima defeated Asahigawa.
Fujigadake defeated Hishuzan.
Shachinosato defeated Kashimanada.
Tamanoumi defeated Kasagiyama.
Nayoroiwa defeated Komanosato.
Ayanobori defeated Haguroyama.
Kagamiiwa defeated Ryuozan.
Ryogoku defeated Mayedayama.
Minanogawa defeated Yamatonishiki.
Futabayama defeated Banjaku.

PRINCETON NINE STOPS NAVY, 4-0

N.Y. Herald Tribune

PRINCETON, N.J., April 15—Jim Madison held Princeton's hitters to three scattered singles as Navy downed the Tigers, 4 to 0, this afternoon. The visiting hurler struck out seven and exhibited perfect control in handing Princeton its first shutout of the season.

Fred Rowe performed creditably in the box for Princeton, only one of the Navy runs being earned, but errors, hits and several long flies brought across Navy tallies in each of the first four frames. Three times after that Middies reached third base, but failed to score.

Howie Thompson, Navy shortstop, led off with a single to center and eventually came around with the only earned tally. He stole second, reached third on a clean sacrifice and scored a minute later on Lem Cooke's fly to left. Thompson later made two other safeties to lead both teams in hitting.

Rowe was the only Tiger to get beyond first base, singling with two out in the third and advancing two sacks on Niles's muff of Ed Power's line drive. Madison then handled Gelfaeli's grounder and preserved his shutout.

JANUARY TOURNEY'S CHAMPION IS BEATEN

Considerable interest in the Summer Sumo tournament which opened Thursday for 15 days at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku was what sort of showing Dewaminato, champion of the Spring tournament last January, would make. He got off to a bad start losing to Tatekabuto. Photo shows him at left being pushed out of the ring.

POINTERS TAKE ALL 3 PLACES IN DOG SHOW

By ARTHUR E. PATTERSON

VERBANK, N. Y., April 15—Running a race which would have been sufficiently wide on even some of the far-flung Southern courses, and seeking out cover untouched by any other dogs in the competition, Raymond Hoagland's Tips Topsy Top won the 1939 open all-age stake of the Orange County Field Trial Club today.

Handled by that veteran pilot of bird dogs, George Crangle, this white and orange pointer dog turned in a performance during the sixth brace this cold morning which was the measure against which all other entrants ran the remainder of the day. And none approached it. Some had more bird work, of course, but in quality versus quantity Tips Topsy Top won easily, according to the quail-country judges, Louis M. Bobbitt, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Earnest C. Mead, Richmond, Va.

Once again the Crangle family, those capable handlers from Waynesboro, Ga., cleaned up. While the father, George, was winning for his Cartersville, Ga., client, Jim, one of the sons scored second and third with Jabs Blondie Bimpkins, owned by Perry E. Moore, of Morristown, N. J., and Dr. Jack Rose, the entrant of Dr. H. E. Longsdorf, Mount Holly, N. J. All place winners were pointers in a thirty-one dog stake.

TRYON McTYBE DOES WELL

The judges declined to go out on the limb and pick dogs which pressed this latter pair for their honors, but your mud-spattered correspondent, after trudging the water-logged course afoot, found favorable notes in his book for Edwin M. Berolzheimer's Irish setter, Tryon McTybe; W. F. McCabe's Maplemore Peggy, Clarence F. Gaines's Bills Dr. Ricks, Mrs. W. W. Couperthwaite's Shirley Doone and Perry Moore's Inspector Bimpkins. There were others, too, which were creditable performers.

But there was no denying Tips Topsy Top. This excellent son of Village Boy out of Tips Topsy, breezed for cover and was next seen to the gallery on the far end of a cast fully a mile in length. Still sprinting along the top of the hill at a fast pace, slammed through the wooded section of the course, turned in toward the bird lot at Crangle's call and there froze to point before a quail on which he was steady to both flush and shot. That was his only bird, but the caliber of his work then and his race before scored for him a clean-cut triumph.

Jabs Blondie Bimpkins ran in the last morning brace. She is a white and liver pointer bitch by Ferris Proctor Bimpkins out of Radio Detector and built for ground coverage. Soon after the cast-off she seemed not in the best of form and remained at shooting-dog range but once she warmed to her task she stretched out, blazed a fast pace and coursed into the bird field well ahead of Jim Crangle. There she had two finds and was style personified on both. She snapped into one in a fashion which thrilled the hillside gallery and certainly was steady in both.

DR. JACK ROSE RUNS GOOD RACE

Dr. Jack Rose, white and liver pointer dog by Rose Dale Jack out of Proctor's Frank's Lady, ran a good, vigorous race. He covered considerable course and handled fairly well. Once in the valley, where the birds had been liberated, he went to his job with obvious zest. Like the second-place bitch, he had two finds and was perfect in handling both.

We don't wish to make an attempt to catalog the unplaced dogs, but there were several performances of note. Bills Dr. Ricks, for instance, was on five birds and was the busiest bird finder in the entry. He also was a big-going dog over the course but an unsteadiness in backing his setter brace-mate, Shenvalee Sun Beau, on a dubious find might have cost Dr. Ricks a place.

A most pleasing performer, too, was Maplemore Peggy. This personable Miss was a trifle short in race but had three excellent finds and one of the prettiest points of the day. Jumping a large branch, she came on that scent which makes pointer muscles tighten and whipped into frozen immobility even before her toes returnel to earth. The Irish setter Tryon McTybe had even the English setter fanciers talking, several claiming it was the best-going Mick they had seen. He was an intense worker and seemed to enjoy his work. He had one clean find and dropped to flush on another.

PICTURE POINT BY SHIRLEY DOONE

Shirley Doone turned in the picture point of the day. Shortly after the judges gave the starting word he cast far up a hillside and there came upon a cock pheasant sunning himself near a rock fence. Before even his handler, Jim Crangle, knew what he was up to, Shirley Doone cracked into a figure of solid white against the skyline. It was a sight which made the gallery gasp. Later he was puzzled by two dead birds and may have disqualified himself by going in after one of them.

All in all it was a quality stake and if tomorrow's amateur all-age is as productive of high-grade performances the three-day meet will indeed have been a huge success.

Meiji Nine Favored To Vanquish Hosei

Meiji is a strong favorite to beat Hosei Saturday and Sunday in the Tokyo Six University Baseball league's doubleheader at the Meiji Shrine stadium. With Southpaw Shinizu reported to be in form at long last, Meiji should have little trouble winning. The two meet in the curtain-raiser on Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

If Pitcher Yutani has any hitting support on the part of his team-mates, Tokyo Imperial should give Rikkyo plenty of trouble in the other portion of the twinbill. The two are scheduled to play the first game on Sunday.

THIRD SINGLE BY DEMAREE BEATS BOSTON

By HARRY CROSS

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, April 23—The Giants took some of the sting out of the Boston Bees at the Polo Grounds yesterday, beating Casey Stengel's hornets, 6 to 5. A portion of the hitting power which Colonel Terry's batsmen developed in the Louisiana sun, amounting to seven hits off Milburn Shoffner and Dick Errickson, was in evidence. One of the pokes was a home run by Mel Ott which went into the lower right-field stand over an ice cream sign, 395 feet from the plate.

The Giants' silent pitcher from California, Manuel Salvo, got his first big league assignment and showed that, although he gets into trouble, he has the coolness and poise to get out of it without going to pieces. In five innings the tall sphinx was bruised for four runs and six hits, one of the smashes being a homer by Buddy Hassett with a runner on base. Salvo walked five and fanned four of the Bostonese.

The crowd of 17,386 saw the Giants behave far better than on opening day, when the Bay State wasps harassed them scandalously.

SCORE TIED TWICE

Twice the score was tied and the Bees were not subdued until the last man was out. The ever-present threat kept the Giants on their toes.

Bill Lohrman, the apple farmer from New Paltz, pitched the last four innings and among the trio of hits he gave up was a home-run smash into the upper left-field piazza by Eddie Miller, the Bees' new, accomplished shortstop. Fortunately for the Giants, there was no one aboard at the time or the score would have been deadlocked again. There was a runner on when Hassett and Ott turned on their home-run thunder.

The Boston defense was better than that of the Giants, the Bees ripping off three double plays much to New York's chagrin. The combination of Milller at short and Tony Cuccinello at second is smooth on double killings. Myatt's inexperience at third was evident again, but the pepperbox is learning something every day.

KARITA AIDS SENATORS TO TOP DOLFINS, 1-0

Good base running by Coach-Captain Hisanori Karita won the game for the Senators over the Dolfins by a 1-0 score in the professional league's doubleheader Thursday at the Korakuen stadium.

Karita walked in the fifth and stole second with the count 2 and 2 on Yokozawa. The latter, who had been scheduled originally to bunt, lashed a hit to left and Karita sprinted home for what proved to be the winning tally.

The Giants triumphed over the Eagles, 6 to 4, in the other game that proved to be a see-saw affair up to the fifth with the Eagles leading 4 to 3. Pitcher Stalphin's timely hit brought in two runs in the sixth to give the Giants a 5-4 lead.

DARTMOUTH NINE BEATS PENN, 8-2

N.Y. Herald Tribune

PHILADELPHIA, April 15—Frank Reagan's spell over opposing batsmen came to an end today as Dartmouth defeated Pennsylvania on Franklin Field, 8 to 2, in the Indians' opening Eastern Intercollegiate League game. It was Penn's first setback after winning from Cornell.

The Indians collected eleven hits off Reagan and Lin Fawley, George Sexton leading with three singles. Reagan, who had won two games for the Red and Blue, gave up ten hits before being relieved in the eighth by Fawley. Penn made nine hits off Sexton and Johnny Lendo, who started at shortstop.

Dartmouth got to Reagan for a pair of runs in the fifth. Linden and Sexton singled and Hanna was hit by a pitched ball. After Broberg forced Linden at the plate, Johnny Orr came through with a single, scoring Sexton and Hanna.

Solid hitting enabled the Indians to put over three more in the seventh on Sexton's single, a two-bagger by Broberg into the stands, Urban's single, a balk and Lendo's hit.

Dartmouth tallied three more in the eighth aided by Woodman's two-bagger, Broberg's single, Orr's double and two errors.

A SCINTILLATING VICTORY

CUNNINGHAM WINS KANSAS MILE, BEATING FENSKE BY ONE YARD

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 22—Elmer Hackney, Kansas State's strong man shot putter, bet a teammate a quart of ice cream he could break the record on his final toss today. Then he heaved the pellet 52 feet 1½ inches for one of the three new marks established at the windswept seventeenth annual University of Kansas Relays.

Beefus Bryan, of Texas, cleared the pole vault bar at 14 feet 2 inches on his first trial for a record in that event. He and Don Bird, of the host Kansas team, battled all the way up the ladder, and Bird scraped off the bar with his chest on his third trial.

Wayne and Blaine Rideout, the ground-covering twins from North Texas teachers, collaborated with two teammates to amputate more than 17 seconds from the record in the college distance medley relay. Wayne took the baton for the three-fourths mile leg with a lead of about seventy yards. He extended it to 180 before turning the stick over to brother Blaine, who ankled a 4:13 mile to finish 220 yards ahead of his nearest rival.

The Texans finished in 10:06.9, seven and two-tenths seconds better than Missouri did in winning the university section on the strength of a 4:12 mile by John Munski. The old college record was 10:24.1, set by Wichita University in 1931.

A fourth mark was established by the crowd, which numbered 12,000. The throng saw the great Glenn Cunningham register a hollow victory—his first in three years—in the Cunningham Mile. The time, of almost high school caliber, was 4:29.2. Chuck Fenske his only opponent, took the lead at the outset and was still a stride ahead with 220 yards to go. Glenn forged to the front in the final 100 yards. The Kansan, whose record of 4:12.7 was set in 1934, won by a yard.

The decathlon title went to E. Lee Todd, of Grant, Neb., who rolled up 6,557 points, only five more than the total of Clarence Odell, Oklahoma A. and M. star.

Michigan State's star sprinter, Wilbur Greer, pulled a leg muscle in his "rubber" encounter with Mozel Ellerbee, national collegiate champion from Tuskegee Institute, in the 100-yard dash, and the dusky speedster sneaked just inches ahead of the limping Greer in the final strides.

WOLCOTT WINS EASILY

Even the south wind, blowing at a seven-mile pace at the time, couldn't push Fred Wolcott, of Rice, over the 120-yard hurdles fast enough to create a new record. Wolcott, running with a leg injury, was seven yards in the lead at the finish in 14.3 seconds.

The Rice sprinters retained their championship in the 440-yard relay, and Oklahoma and Oklahoma A. and M. won four of the seven foursomes in the university division. Missouri and Michigan State were the only Northern teams to break the domination of the Southwest.

Michigan State loafed to victory in the four-mile event and finished with a 200-yard lead despite a rousing final mile by 120-pound Bill Feller, of Drake. The Iowans were second, and Kansas State outfought Colorado for third.

Munski and Ray Harris, of Kansas, staged the most interesting race of the day in the University medley relay, alternating in the lead until the final 400 yards when the Missourian opened up a twenty-yard advantage and held it.

OKLAHOMA SPRINTERS SCORE

Oklahoma's swift moving sprinters captured both the shorter relay events, and Oklahoma A. and M. garnered the mile and two-mile affairs. In addition to the success of the Southwestern aggregations in the university division and of North Texas Teachers in the distance medley the tutors also captured the college relay with the Rideouts again in the feature role.

The summaries:

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Wolcott, Rice; Cope, Colorado, second; Wright, Oklahoma A. and M., third; Dreiss, Texas A. and M., fourth. Time, 0:14.3.

100-yard dash—Won by Ellerbee, Tuskegee Institute; Greer, Michigan State, second; Piker, Northwestern, third; Koettel, Oklahoma, fourth. Time, 0:09.5.

College distance medley relay—Won by North Texas State Teachers College (Christman, Bryant, W. Rideout, B. Rideout); Loyola, second; Emporia, third; Pittsburgh Teachers, fourth. Time, 10:06.9. Meet record; old record, 10:24.1, set by Wichita, 1931).

Broad jump—Won by Schmitzky, Missouri, 24 feet 4¾ inches, Arrington, Michigan State, 24 feet ¾ inch, second; Zuber, Arkansas, 23 feet 4 inches, third; Dawson, Nebraska, 23 feet, fourth.

Discus throw—Won by Hughes, Texas, 151 feet 9¼ inches; Shirk, Oklahoma, 144 feet ⅛ inch, second; Wibbels, Nebraska, 141 feet 3⅛ inches, third; Mills, Nebraska, 135 feet 5 inches, fourth.

Invitation college sprint medley relay—Won by Baker (Timmons, Saman, Waite, Williams); Westminster, second; College of Emporia, third; Missouri Valley College, fourth. Time, 3:39.2.

One-mile college relay—Won by North Texas State (Bryant, Chrisman, B. Rideout, W. Rideout); Pittsburgh Teachers, second; Emporia Teachers, third; Oklahoma Baptist, fourth. Time, 3:19.5.

Pole vault—Won by Bryan, Texas, 14 feet 2 inches; Bird, Kansas, 13 feet 6 inches, second; tie for third between Thristlethwaite, Northwestern, and Sargent, Iowa State, 12 feet. (Meet record; old record, 13 feet 11¾ inches, by Bryan, Texas, 1938).

High jump—Won by Schnacke, Iowa State, 6 feet 5½ inches; Stoland, Kansas, 6 feet 3¾ inches, second; tie for third among Scanneman, Washburn; Arrington, Michigan State; Butler, Minnesota; Mehaffey, Kansas State, and Smith, Northwestern, 6 feet 3 inches.

Javelin throw—Won by Waldram, Missouri, 202 feet ¼ inch; Durand, Kansas, 182 feet 9¾ inches, second; Steen, Hutchison Junior College, 179 feet 2¼ inches, third; Finazzo, Iowa, 175 feet 5¾ inches, fourth.

One-mile university relay (first heat)—Won by Oklahoma A. and M.; Iowa, second; Rice, third; Texas, fourth. Time, 3:16.2 Second heat—Won by Iowa Stae; Oklahoma, second; Texas A. and M., hird. Time, 3:21.3. Winner on basis of comparative time—Oklahoma A. and M. (Wright, Metcalf, Stice, Burrus); Iowa, second; Rice, third; Texas, fourth. Time, 3:16.2.

Decathlon—Won by E. Lee Todd, Grant, Neb., 6,557 points; Clarence Odell, Oklahoma A. and M., 6,552, second; Alex Cain, Arkansas City Junior College, 6,418, third; Bob Seymour, University of Oklahoma, 6,310, fourth; W. L. Clapham, Oklahoma A. and M., 6,255, fifth; Eric Frieseu, Bethel College, 6,164, sixth; Vern Sumner, unattached, Emporia, Kas., 6,144, seventh; Leray Floyd, unattached, Still water, Okla., 5,921, eighth; Forrest A. Todd, unattached, Imperial, Neb., 5,874, ninth; Allen Selsco, Tuskegee Institute, 4,752, tenth; Kenneth Cole, unattached, Norris City, Ill., 4,123, eleventh. Donald Dunn, Kansas City, Kan., dropped out at the end of five events.

NO SELL-OUT YET AT CURRENT SUMO TOURNEY

Upsets continued to feature the bouts in the second day Friday of the 15-day sumo tournament at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku.

The overflowing crowds that had been expected by the directors of the Japan Sumo Association, who extended the tournament from 13 to 15 days for the very purpose of accommodating those fans who have complained in the past of not being able to get tickets, have thus far failed to materialize. The tourney has yet to stage a sell-out, which was an every day occurrence during the January tournament.

AKINOUMI WINS

Akinoumi, who stopped Grand Champion Futabayama's winning streak over three years in the January tournament, outsmarted Tamanoumi, ace pupil of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki, by pushing him out of the ring before Tamanoumi had a chance to grasp him.

Ayanobori, stable-mate of Akinoumi and who on the opening day threw Haguroyama for the day's most scintillating victory, registered another "star" win by triumphing over Champion Kagamiiwa. The latter, who will retire in the next year or two, made a good fight of it but Ayanobori threw him over his shoulders, using his powerful arms as lever.

So it is that of the "sanyaku" or stalwarts of rankings above "mayegashira" or those of the select circle, excluding the grand champions, only Nayoroiwa of "sekiwake" or second rank below grand champion, is undefeated. He threw the up and coming Ryuozan.

HAGUROYAMA LOSES AGAIN

Haguroyama, stable-mate of Futabayama, forced Yamatonishiki to the edge of the ring and with his powerful shoulders attempted to lift him out of the ring, but his opponent checked it, and in turn hooked his left leg on to Haguroyama's right and threw him onto the sand.

Dewaminato, champion without a defeat of the January 13-day tourney, suffered his second defeat in as many days. The great protruding belly of Banjaku, who hails from Osaka, proved too much for him. Banjaku started a drive and Dewaminato, at the other side of the charging belly, found himself forced out of the ring.

Grand Champion Futabayama impressed the spectators with his superb strength and his aggressivness. Itsutsushima, who formerly used to give him a battle, was shoved out of the ring with ease. Interest already is mounting as to whether he will be defeated in the tourney that has 13 days more to go.

KOMANOSATO BEATEN

Komanosato, only Tokyo-born wrestler in the top circle, gave a good account of himself by pushing Grand Champion Minanogawa, the largest of all competing wrestlers, to the edge of the ring, but he lacked the extra push necessary for victory. Finally, it was he that was forced out of the ring.

The bouts moved along rapidly and the final match was over by 6:20 p.m., as compared with 7:25 p.m. on the opening day.

The results of the bouts after the intermission follows:

Komatsuyama defeated Banshinzan.
Minenobori defeated Takanobori.
Katsuragawa defeated Tomoegata.
Terukuni defeated Sagamigawa.
Kaneminato defeated Fujinosato.
Hatasegawa defeated Jintozan.
Tsurugamine defeated Dewanohana.
Fujigadake defeated Yamatoiwa.
Matsunosato defeated Asahigawa.
Taikyuzan defeated Aobayama.
Saganohana defeated Wakashima.
Ohshio defeated Ryogoku.
Ayawaka defeated Onami.
Kashimanada defeated Tatekabuto.
Shachinosato defeated Hishuzan.
Akinoumi defeated Tamanoumi.
Banjaku defeated Dewaminato.
Yamatonishiki defeated Haguroyama.
Nayoroiwa defeated Ryuozan.
Mayedayama defeated Kasagiyama.
Ayanobori defeated Kagamiiwa.
Futabayama defeated Itsutsushima.
Minanogawa defeated Komanosato.

'Big Six' Ball Games Washed Out by Rain

Due to the heavy rain that continued from Friday night, the doubleheader of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league scheduled for this afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium has been postponed to Sunday.

Meiji will meet Hosei in the curtain-raiser while Rikkyo and Tokyo Imperial will clash in the second game.

Their second games will be played on Monday and Tuesday, Meiji clashing with Hosei on the former date, both at 2:30 p.m. at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Tickets for Sunday's games will be available on both dates.

Tri-Nation Meet Slated for Hsinking September 1, 2, 3

The Japan-Manchoukuo-China athletic meet, which has been under contemplation for sometime, will be held at Hsinking on September 1, 2 and 3, it was formally decided by the program committee Friday.

The competition will be track and field, soccer, basketball and volleyball.

Japan is expected to send a delegation of 65 officials and athletes.

CHOSEN TO SEE U.S. FOOTBALL TILT ON 27TH

Chosen sports fans will see their first American football game at Keijo on May 27.

Two squads of 16 players each will leave Tokyo Station, May 24, to play the demonstration game there. Captain Azusa Kurahara will lead the Keio players and Captain Akira Nakayama will head the Waseda squad. Masaaki Kajitani, a former star player of Hosei, was appointed by the League to officiate at the game.

Ryozo Asano was reelected president of the League and Paul Rusch as chairman of the league this week by the Tokyo Intercollegiates Football League. Shiro Akaboshi has been reelected adviser, Professor Tokuji Ogawa of Rikkyo, secretary and Shoichiro Matsumoto as treasurer. The League's beard of trustees consists of Teruhiko Yamura, Katsusuke Kano, Yoshiki Araga, Hidesaburo Iwashita and Shoji Uno, all sports writers on Tokyo newspapers, Prof. Takezo Matsumoto, Meiji, Prof. Tokuji Ogawa, Rikkyo, and Masanori Ban, Meiji, Takeshi Hosoda and Matsuo Shimobukuro, Rikkyo students, Taro Todo and Arata Tamura, Keio students, Akira Nakayama and Yasuo Shingu, Waseda, and T. Roku and Masaaki Kajitani of Hosei.

All games for the 1939 season will be played at Korakuen Stadium, the season opening with the Waseda-Hosei game on October 3. The balance of the schedule follows: October 10, Meiji vs Rikkyo; October 17, Keio vs Rikkyo; October 24, Meiji vs Hosei; October 31, Hosei vs Rikkyo; November 7, Meiji vs Keio; November 14, Waseda vs Rikkyo; November 26, Waseda vs Keio; December 2, Meiji vs Waseda; and the final League game, Keio vs Hosei, December 10. The annual Thanksgiving game will be played by YCAC vs Hosei University.

J. Earl Fowler of Rikkyo was again elected head of the Tokyo Football Officials Association. A committee was appointed to translate the rules of Six-Man football, the new game that has taken America by storm, and which is now be played by some 2,000 smaller schools. The game will be studied as a possible game to introduce into Japan's middle schools.

Steps were taken to encourage the formation of American football squads at Tokyo Imperial and Nihon universities. Both universities now have several known American born Japanese players in their student bodies around which it may prove possible to build teams.

The possibilities of inviting a picked team of players from America this Autumn or Winter are being studied. Plans are also under way to send demonstration teams to play in North China and Manchoukuo. Mr. Rusch secured tentative invitations from Yenching, Peking and the Catholic universities in Peking in March to visit North China and demonstrate football. Yenching University attempted to play the game last Autumn.

HARVARD BEATS PENN NINE

N.Y. Herald Tribune

PHILADELPHIA, April 22—A five run splurge in the sixth inning gave Harvard a 9-to-4 triumph over Pennsylvania on Franklin Field today, making it three straight in the Eastern Intercollegiate League. It was the second defeat in three starts for the Red and Blue.

Tony Caputo, a sophomore pitcher, was charged with the defeat, yielding eight runs and the same number of hits during his five and two-thirds innings, as well as walking eight batters. Lin Fawley and Frankie Reagan followed and pitched good ball but the damage had been done.

Harvard solved the trio for eleven hits, Dick Grondahl, third baseman, leading with three safeties. Art Johns, captain, and catcher Heckel each contributed two.

Harold (Slim) Curtiss, veteran right-hander, went the distance for the Cantabs and except for the second inning, when Penn bunched three of its eight hits for two runs, was master of the situation all the way.

During Harvard's big sixth inning Johns, Grondahl and Hoye singled, three others walked and Fortune, who had relieved Koepsell at shortstop, made a wild throw that permitted three of the five runs to score. A double steal also helped the Cantabs.

Harvards got off to a one-run lead in the first inning on Gannett's walk, Grondahl's single, Lupien's pass and Koepsell's wild throw of Tully's grounder. The score:

NAVY DEFEATS PRINCETON IN CREW RACES

By JESSE ABRAMSON

N.Y. Herald Tribune

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 22—Navy's varsity crew, with three oarsmen remaining from its championship eight of last year, opened its season by defeating Princeton by nearly a length after a stubborn battle over a mile and three-quarters of the wind-roughened Severn today.

It was a sweep for the Midshipmen in the two-race regatta, for their junior varsity also defeated Princeton by almost the identical margin over the same course. Both races followed the same competitive pattern. Navy was away to a smart lead and opened up a full length. Princeton raised the beat and closed in on the Midshipmen and then Navy drew away again in the final sprint.

NAVY VARSITY CLOCKED IN 9:51.1

In the varsity race Navy was clocked in 9 minutes 15.1 seconds, Princeton in 9:1. In the jayvee test the times were, Navy: 9:41; Princeton, 9:45.3.

The times tell the story of the water conditions, considering that a strong tailwind prevailed. It was a powerful nor'easter, or maybe a nor'wester that blew over the Severn and kicked up a sea of rollers. Anyway both the Navy and Princeton varsity shells put in at the emergency boat house up near the start and baled out the excess water shipped on their trips up from Navy headquarters. In the jayvee race the water seemed to be lapping at the Navy washboards, and for a spell in the race it seemed that some sea disaster was impending. But the Navy oarsmen are good watermen; they rode through to impressive triumphs over Princeton foes that are considerably improved in this, the second year of Fred Spuhn's coaching.

Buck Walsh, the Navy mentor, was being congratulated on all sides for a job well done in this opening regatta. Sub-chasers and patrol boats, a dozen of them, carried several thousand spectators afloat at the finish line.

A last-week change in the Navy varsity boating brought in Walker, 168-pounder, at stroke in place of Hank Vaughan, 188-pounder, who fell below eligibility requirements. Walker stroked Navy to victory in this race a year ago. He had three Poughkeepsie veterans behind him all on the starboard side, Neal Almgren, No. 7; Fred Kittler, No. 5, and Irvin Peters, bow along with two other jayvees of last year and two ex-plebes

Princeton, in its opening test, presented an even less experienced eight, stroked by its only sophomore member, Randolph Fenninger, who comes from a Princeton rowing family. Fenninger did a fine job of pace-setting and had his crew in the thick of the fight to the last quarter or so. The Nassau oarsmen rowed themselves nearly out in their stern chase.

When Capt. S. A. Taffinder, an old Navy oarsman, who refereed the races, sent the varsity boats away Fenninger had his shell out in front for a few strokes, then Navy forged ahead, rowing 19 strokes in the first half minute to Princeton's 20. Navy never stroked higher than its rival.

Navy, settling down to a 32, opened a quarter-length lead. Both crews hit a beat of 31 strokes to the minute. At the mile Navy had a half length, and at one and a quarter miles the lead seemed to be a full length. Here Fenninger took the beat up to 32, then 34 and finally 36 as Princeton cut the margin in half.

Navy seemed unworried. At least Walker never changed his pace and Navy was rowing no higher than thirty-two at the end as Princeton, its rally ended on a peak of thirty-nine strokes a minute, saw the midshipmen pull away to a length victory.

The jayvee race went much the same way. Navy, stroked by Francis P. Cuccias, a third-class man from Loughlin High School, Brooklyn, with four other "youngsters" in the boat, moved away rapidly from Princeton and had nearly a length of open water at a mile. Princeton made a grand comeback, going up to thirty-six and closing-in more than a length. Navy, without going higher than thirty in the body of the race and up to thirty-two only at the end, won by nearly a length, going away. The boatings:

Navy varsity—Bow, Peterson; 2, Kinney; 3, Kittler; 4, Lucian; 5, House; 6, Spear; 7, Almgren; stroke, Walker; coxswain, Hancock.

Princeton varsity—Bow, Koening; 2, Allen; 3, Merle Smith; 4, Dennison; 5, Carton; 6, Pitney; 7, Bennett; stroke, Fenninger; coxswain, Dalzell.

Navy jayvee—Bow, Benjes; 2, Carr; 3, Clark; 4, Anderson; 5, McConnell; 6, Wheeler; 7, Hooper; stroke, Cuccias; coxswain, Graham.

Princeton jayvee—Bow, Rogers; 2, Rabinson; 3, Burke; 4, West; 5, Bayard; 6, Mahlow; 7, Peterson; stroke, Dale; coxswain, Kafer.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"- by Ripley

In Character

"What are you children doing? I thought you were playing together."

"We are playing at fathers and mothers."

"But you don't need to make all that noise!"

"Yes, we do. She just asked me for a new Easter outfit!"

It Depends

"Is a ton of coal a great lot, Daddy?" inquired a juvenile.

"It depends, my boy," replied the father, "whether you are shoveling it or burning it!"—Montreal Star.

MIGHT HAVE WON GAME

Captain and Third Baseman Kawai of Tokyo Imperial University thrown out at the plate in the first inning of the game against Rikkyo Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. He tried to come in from third as the Rikkyo catcher nabbed Mizutani at first. The game ended in a 3-all tie.

RIKKYO SCORES 1 IN NINTH FOR 3-ALL TIE WITH TEIDAI

It is a fact that Japan leads all other countries in the number of athletes wearing glasses. In the Tokyo Six University Baseball league, the most popular amateur circuit in the country, every third is a bespectacled player. Center Fielder Yamamoto of Tokyo Imperial University belongs to this category, and if he weren't, his team might have beaten Rikkyo University Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium for its first victory of the season in seven starts. It was the first half of the ninth and it was drizzling with Teidai enjoying a 3-2 lead. It looked like a sure game for Teidai but Yamamoto's spectacles were fogged by the rain and he allowed Tsunajima's fly, which ordinarily would have been an easy putout, to go for a double. The consequence was that Rikkyo put over a run later and the game was called off a 3-all tie because of the rain.

It was tough luck for Pitcher Yutani of Teidai, who had been pitching fine ball, limiting the Rikkyo batters to four hits. Ito then walked. Yuki bunted but he did so straight to Yutani, and the latter tossed to third to force Tsunajima. Abe was sent in to run for Ito. Saigo was sent in to pinchhit for Fukumura. He rolled a grounder to second in what looked like a doubleplay. Shortstop Mitsutake, after forcing Abe at second, tossed a bit too wide to first and Abe deadlocked the count. Saigo advanced to second on the play and was in scoring position but Kitahara flied out to short to retire the side.

Teidai came pretty near winning the game at that in its portion of the ninth. Hibino doubled over the left fielder's head after one out. Uyesugi was sent in to run for him. Tobita, batting for Yutani, grounded out to short. Kitano came through with a hit to right but Uyesugi was thrown out at the plate and the ball game was over.

THIRD TIE FOR TEIDAI

It was Teidai's third tie-game, the others being with Waseda and Meiji. These are not replayed in the league, each team getting half a point for each.

The night-cap scheduled between Meiji and Hosei was postponed because of the rain. They were scheduled to meet at 2:30 p.m. today in their first clash of the season.

Anxious to win to remain in the race for the championship, Rikkyo sent its best pitcher, Ishida, to the mound. He worked through the entire game and yielded eight hits.

Backstop Machida's error allowed Teidai to score in the second inning. Tamaki dashed for home from third on Yutani's infield hit to third. First Baseman Sakurai pegged perfectly to the plate but Machida dropped the ball.

Rikkyo tied the count in the third, Kiyohara driving in Fukumura from second on hit to left.

But Teidai forged into a two-run lead in the fourth. Yamamoto walked, Ota was safe on the second baseman's error, and Tamaki walked to fill the bases. Hibino waited Ishida out for a walk to force in Yamamoto. Ota was forced at the plate on Yutani's grounder to second but Kitano laid down a perfect bunt to squeeze in Tamaki.

Kitahara's double to left center brought in Yuki for Rikkyo in the seventh inning. Yutani tightened up in the eighth, however, and he seemed well on the way to victory but for that disastrous ninth already related in the foregoing.

HOCKEY PRIZE GOES TO SMITH OF RANGERS

N.Y. Times

MONTREAL, April 18—President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League announced today that Clint Smith, New York Rangers' center, and Hector (Toe) Blake, Montreal Canadiens' wing, had won the Lady Byng Trophy and Dr. David A. Hart Memorial Trophy, respectively.

The Byng Trophy is awarded for clean play and the least amount of time in penalties, while the Hart Trophy goes to the player judged most valuable to his team. Blake was helped in gaining his prize by leading the league in scoring for the 1938-39 season.

ONE TWO-MINUTE PENALTY

Smith, fourth in scoring with 21 goals and 20 assists to Blake's 24 goals and 23 assists, drew only one two-minute penalty.

Marty Barry, Detroit Red Wing veteran, was second in the Lady Byng voting and Sylvanus Apps of the Toronto Maple Leafs third. Apps was runner-up to Blake for the Hart Trophy, with Johnny Gottselig of the Chicago Black Hawks in third place.

Born at Victoria Mines, Ont., Blake gained his first hockey prominence at near-by Kirkland Lake and was drafted for service with Hamilton, Ont., when that city's Tigers were among the most prominent of senior amateur clubs. Coaches admire his readiness to obey orders and to battle when the going is harded.

WENT TO PATRICK'S SCHOOL

Smith was born twenty-four years ago at Assiniboi, Sask. He moved at an early age to Saskatoon and played junior hockey there until, like so many other Western youngsters, he was summoned to Lester Patrick's Ranger school at Winnipeg. He spent a short period with the Rangers two seasons ago and was called in for the full campaign last Winter.

Blake and Smith joined Frank Brimsek in the season's list of individual trophy winners. Brimsek, goal-tending star of the Boston Bruins in his first season as a big leaguer, won the Calder Trophy as the outstanding rookie and the Vezina Trophy as the leading goalie.

Eddie Shore of the Bruins was the winner of the Hart Trophy last year. Gordon Drillon of the Maple Leafs was the 1938 winner of the Lady Byng Trophy. Drillon was out of action with a broken thumb for six weeks this past season.

FIRST SELL-OUT MARKS SUMO BOUTS SUNDAY

Directors of the Japan Sumo Association were all wreathed with big smiles Sunday for the first sell-out crowd of the 15-day tournament was registered from early morning—but quite slow on their part as it was the fourth day of the tourney.

The biggest upset of the day was the victory of Itsutsushima, stalwart of the Dewanoumi Camp, over Nayoroiwa, of "sekiwake" or third rank below grand champion and younger stablemate of Grand Champion Futabayama. With a firm grip on Nayoroiwa's girdle with his right arm, Itsutsushima forced Nayoroiwa to the edge of the ring and with one strong push, shoved his opponent out of the ring.

It was Nayoroiwa's first defeat and as a consequence, only those without a defeat in the "makunouchi" or top ranking circle are Grand Champions Futabayama and Minanogawa, Akinoumi and Matsunosato.

FUTABAYAMA WINS

The clever Ayanobori gave Futabayama a scare for a moment when he sidestepped to the left as they stood up, and then started attacking with both hands. Twice Futabayama was forced to retreat a few steps but he refused to be excited and finally sent Ayanobori sprawling onto the sand with a downward pull of his powerful arms.

Minanogawa executed a beautiful body throw to beat Hishuzan.

In the day's most looked forward to match, Akinoumi, who stopped Futabayama's winning streak in January, outsmarted the handsome Shachinosato by falling on top of him outside the ring for his fourth straight victory. It was Shachinosato's first defeat.

Champion Kagamiiwa, who is booked to retire soon, virtually defeated himself in his bout with Kasagiyama, former Waseda student. He attempted a leg throw but Kasagiyama was a bit too quick for him and he fell onto the sand, with his leg failing to get a hold on Kasagiyama's body.

SUMMARIES

The results of the bouts after the intermission follow:

Fujinosato defeated Banshinzan.
Sagamigawa defeated Takanobori.

Tentative Card Set For Olympic Games

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 25—The program for the 1940 Winter Olympic Games from Feb. 3 to Feb. 11 at St. Moritz, Switzerland, was announced yesterday by the American Olympic Committee.

Officials here registered surprise when it became known that the Swiss Organizing Committee listed four speed skating events for women, a skeleton (one-man) bobsled race and three skiing demonstrations on the tentative card. The inclusion of the events now awaits only ratification by the governing international sports federations.

There will be little time available for holding trials before the American squad sails next January, for no provision had been made to include the above-named events. Women's speed skating, in which races of 500, 1,000, 3,000 and 5,000 meters are tentatively scheduled, never has been a formal Olympic sport.

Although it was at the suggestion of the A. O. C. that the skeleton bobsled race, last held at St. Moritz in 1938, be added, there is no "cresta" run in this country. As far as is known, the only one in the world is at St. Moritz and the American trials probably would have to be held there.

Skiing, however, has been an integral part of the program. Differences lately between the International Olympic Committee and the Federation Internationale de Ski over the definition of amateurism have left the status as an Olympic sport in doubt.

As for hockey, men's speed skating, women's and men's figure skating and two and four-man bobsledding, also listed on the program, the United States now has considerable data at hand to aid in the selection of squads for these sports.

The program:

Feb. 3—Opening ceremony, followed by first hockey match; bobsled (two-man); hockey matches.

Feb. 4—Slalom (demonstration); hockey matches; ski-joring.

Feb. 5—Hockey matches; bobsled (two-man); men's speed skating, 500 meters; women's speed skating, 500 meters; hockey matches.

Feb. 6—Men's speed skating, 5,000 meters; women's speed skating, 3,000 meters; skeleton, (one-man) bobsled; hockey matches; men's figure skating, school figures; hockey matches.

Feb. 7—Hockey match; skeleton (one-man) bobsled; men's speed skating, 1,500 meters; women's speed skating, 1,000 meters; women's figure skating, school figures; hockey matches.

Feb. 8—Men's speed skating, 10,000 meters; women's speed skating, 5,000 meters; hockey match; men's figure skating, free skating; hockey matches.

Feb. 9—Ski jumping (demonstration); hockey matches, semi-final; bobsled (four-man); figure skating, pairs.

Feb. 10—Ski military race for teams (demonstration); hockey matches, semi-final; bobsled (four-man); figure skating, pairs.

Feb. 11—Hockey matches, finals for third and fourth places; hockey match, final for first and second; closing ceremoney and distribution of prizes.

England and Italy Enter Third Round Of Davis Cup Play

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, May 12—Great Britain and Italy today advanced to the third round of the European zone of the 1939 Davis Cup competitions today by respectively eliminating New Zealand and Monaco. In the second round matches between Yugoslavia and Hungary, the former copped one of the singles matches, but the other remaining match was undecided when rain interrupted the third set with Hungary leading.

Playing at Rome, the Italian Davis cup duo of Vido and Cucello eliminated Monaco from the running when they took the doubles in straight sets; 6-3, 6-1, 6-0. Italy took both singles matches yesterday.

At Brighton, the British Davis Cup squad after valiant efforts successfully eliminated New Zealand when Shayes and Hare took both singles matches. The score for the series stood at 3-2, with New Zealand taking one singles and the doubles event.

Playing a steady game, Shayes, of England, beat Brown, of New Zealand, in straight sets. The scores were 6-3, 6-4, 7-5, while Hare defeated Malfroy in the other British victory by the scroes of 7-5, 6-4, 6-4.

At Budapest, D. Mitic, of Yugoslavia, after being forced to five sets, finally defeated Gabory, of Hungary in the opening singles match of the Yugoslav-Hungarian Davis Cup series. The scores were 6-3, 0-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-1. In the second singles matches, Asboth of Hungary was leading his rival Ferenc Puncec, top ranking Yugoslav ace, but after 11 games in the third set the match was called off because of rain. The scores stood at 7-5, 4-6, 6-5.

Italy Leads Monaco In Davis Cup Play

THE CHOICE OF THE MULTITUDE

JAPAN WON'T COMPETE IN DAVIS CUP

Japan will not compete in the Davis Cup matches this year, it was formally decided by the Davis Cup Committee of the Japan Lawn Tennis Association at a meeting Sunday morning.

Instead, all efforts will be concentrated on developing players and plans were voted for inviting a number of stars from the United States and Australia next Fall for the purpose.

The principal reason for the withdrawal from this year's Davis Cup competition was the inability of Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 player, to compete. Yamagishi this month passed the examinations for entrance into the accounting school of the Navy, and presently is a sub-lieutenant. Without Yamagishi, it was the consensus of the committeemen that there is no use in dispatching a team to America under the current wartime situation.

Due to the fine showing Yamagishi and Fumiteru Nakano made against Australia last year in the finals of the American zone, losing 3 to 2, it was believed for some time that with Yamagishi available, Japan might have a chance of beating Australia this year, then the winner of the European zone, and even vanquishing America in the challenge round, now that the great J. Donald Budge has turned professional.

The Association Sunday wired the authorities in America that Japan would not compete in the American zone this year.

Tentative plans call for the invitation of the four Australian Davis Cup players on their way home and two or three members of the American Davis Cup team, and feature them in the local national championships.

YALE AND PENN TIE, 67-ALL IN TRACK MEET

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 22—The first full Saturday of Spring sports proved rather lean for Yale as the Blue athletes gained a questionable 67½-all tie with the University of Pennsylvania track team and lost to Army in lacrosse, 13 to 2, and to Hofstra College in Rugby, 9 to 0. The home forces scored in tennis, however, defeating the 7th Regiment team, 8 to 6.

It may be several days before the track tangle is straightened out as the Quakers claim a third place in the 120-yard high hurdles at present credited to Dick Osborn, of Yale. Counting first places only, Pennsylvania led Yale, 10 to 5, as the visitors made their best bid in seven years for a track victory over the Bulldogs. Not since 1932 has the Red and Blue beaten Yale in a dual meet.

Two Penn sophomores, George J. Kroupa and John W. Drebinger stole the show in a meet which failed to produce a single record although it saw keen competition. Kroupa captured both sprint events and was first in the broad jump, nosing out Hunt Ethridge by an inch and a quarter with a mark of 23 feet 1¼ inches. Drebinger dazzled the several hundred spectators with a stretch drive that sent him across the finish line before Ben Holderness in the mile and Jimmy Ord in the half-mile.

Yale scored two slams, capturing all three places in the two-mile run, won by Ronnie Clark, and the hammer throw, won by Bill John. Frank Curtis of Yale, won the quarter-mile run, while Walter Wagoner captured the pole vault contest at 12 feet and Alfred Mills took the javelin event with a throw of 176 feet 3½ inches.

The summaries:

TRACK

Yale, 67½; Penn, 67½

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Dave Cauffman, Penn; Jay Shields, Yale, second; Dick Osborn, Yale, third. Time, 0:15.4.

100-yard dash—Won by George Kroupa, Penn; Ray Bradley, Penn, second; Robert Owen, Yale, third. Time, 0:10.2.

Mile run—Won by John Drebinger, Penn; Ben Holderness, Yale, second; William Watson, Yale, third. Time, 4:27.

440-yard dash—Won by Frank Curtis, Yale; George Knepper, Penn, second; Richard Creighton, Penn, third. Time, 0:51.2.

Two-mile run—Won by Ronald Clark, Yale; Alfred Shapleigh, Yale, second; Mather Pfeiffeberger, Yale. Time, 10:17.2.

220-yard hurdles—Won by James Adams, Penn; Warren Wittens, Penn, second; Dick Osborn, Yale, third. Time, 0:24.9.

220-yard dash—Won by Kroupa, Penn; Owen, Yale, second; Rothschild, Yale, third. Time, 0:22.5.

880-yard run—Won by Drebinger, Penn; Ord, Yale, second; Main, Yale, third. Time, 2:02.1:

Hammer throw—Won by William John, Yale, 147 feet 1 inch; Ray Marcus, Yale, 135 feet 1 inch, second; Melchior Jennings, Yale, 128 feet, third.

16-pound shot put—Won by Paul Wexler, Penn, 44 feet 2 inches; Anthony Walker, Yale, 43 feet 9½ inches, second; Robert Schumann, Penn, 43 feet 7½ inches, third.

High jump—Won by Theodore McKinney, Penn, 5 feet 10 inches; Sam Moore, Penn, and Chapin, Brinkley and Brick, Yale, 5 feet 8 inches, tied for second.

Pole vault—Won by Walter Wagoner, Yale, 12 feet; Shefalacqua, Penn, and Lautz, Yale, 11 feet 6 inches, tied for second.

Javelin throw—Won by Alfred Mills, Yale, 176 feet 3½ inches; McKinney, Penn, 151 feet 1 inch, second; Culbert, Yale, 149 feet 5 inches, third.

Broad jump—Won by Kroupa, Penn, 23 feet 1¼ inches; Ethridge, Yale, 23 feet, second; Ferguson, Yale, and Cauffman, Penn, 22 feet 11 inches, tied for third.

Discus throw—Won by William Bradway, Penn, 129 feet 1¼ inches; Culbert, Yale, 127 feet 11½ inches, Zilly, Yale, 121 feet 7¾ inches, third.

The Hairless Man

Charles Kluge posed for his picture on December 1, 1926, with a full head of hair and bushy eyebrows. By the time the photographer delivered the pictures, Kluge had lost every hair on his body, even his eyebrows and beard. Since that time he never has had to shave. His doctors have been unable to explain his sudden baldness, as his health seemed excellent.

The Unusual Collision

What threatened to be a head-on collision of two automobiles, was averted on Route 30, in Bishopville, South Carolina, when one of the cars drove off the road to avoid the other, which zig-zagged crazily. The zig-zagging car came within 100 feet of the ditched car and began to turn somersaults. The third somersault landed the erratic car on top of the other. Two persons were in the top car and one in the bottom car—yet no one was injured.

AN INVINCIBLE DRIVE

Akinoumi (left) pushing Nayoroiwa out of the ring Monday at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku for his fifth straight victory in the current 15-day sumo tournament.

AKINOUMI BEATS NAYOROIWA; ANOTHER SELL-OUT REGISTERED

Another sell-out was registered Monday in the fifth day's bouts of the current 15-day grand sumo tournament at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku. The matches are becoming more interesting each day and the indications are that sell-outs—which did not occur until Sunday although the tourney had been extended by two days to meet popular demand for seats—will be a daily occurrence up to the final day.

Akinoumi who hails from Hiroshima City—the chap that became national hero last January when he stopped Grand Champion Futabayama's winning streak over three years at 69 victories on the fourth day—continued to focus attention by defeating strong Nayoroiwa, stablemate of Futabayama, after a torrid match for his fifth straight victory in as many matches.

AGGRESSOR WINS

No sooner had they stood up than each grasped the other's girdle with his left arm. This is a favorite hold for the shorter Nayoroiwa and the supporters of Akinoumi had plenty to worry. But the latter, one of the deepest students of the game, who believes in winning in the quickest time possible and hence is always an aggressor, maneuvered himself to his left and succeeded in breaking Nayoroiwa's hold. Then he grasped Nayoroiwa's girdle in the front with his right arm, and putting his head at Nayoroiwa's chest, began pushing. Nayoroiwa, now on the defense, attempted a body throw with his arms but he was unable to check Akinoumi's drive and was shoved out of the ring.

Grand Champion Futabayama added another victory to his string by crushing Yamatonishiki out of the ring.

Grand Champion Minanogawa refused to get excited over the charging tactics of Itsutsushima and promptly shoved him out of the ring for his fifth victory in as many bouts.

Komatsuyama, far down in the list of the first ranking circle, defeated the veteran Hatasegawa for his fifth victory.

All of which means that Grand Champions Futabayama and Minanogawa, Akinoumi and Komatsuyama remain the only undefeated wrestlers to date in the top circle.

DEWAMINATO WINS

Dewaminato, who won the championship of the January tournament, finally registered a victory by defeating the clever Asahigawa with a throw, using his opponent's neck to good advantage.

The day's most thrilling match was that between the handsome Shachinosato and Ayanobori. After grasping each other on even terms in the ring, it was Ayanobori who took the offensive but Shachinosato checked his sallies. Then the latter resorted to a drive that finally crushed Ayanobori outside of the ring.

The results of the bouts after the intermission follow:

Katsuragawa defeated Fujinosato.
Komatsuyama defeated Hatasegawa.
Terukuni defeated Minenobori.
Saganohana defeated Sagamigawa.
Kaneminato defeated Yamatoiwa.
Matsunosato defeated Onami.
Dewanohana defeated Takanobori.
Tsurugamine defeated Jintozan.

Shachinosato defeated Ayanobori.
Kasagiyama defeated Banjaku.
Ryuozan defeated Tatekabuto.
Dewaminato defeated Asahigawa.
Tamanoumi defeated Ayawaka.
Akinoumi defeated Nayoroiwa.
Haguroyama defeated Komanosato.
Kagamiiwa defeated Kashimanada.
Mayedayama defeated Hishuzan.
Minanogawa defeated Itsutsushima.
Futabayama defeated Yamatonishiki.

Yugoslavia Leads Hungary in Davis Cup Play, 2 to 1

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, May 14—Despite the loss of a singles match which was left over from yesterday, Yugoslavia, by virtue of a four-set doubles victory, today gained a commanding two to one lead over Hungary in the second round of the European Zone of the 1939 Davis Cup competitions.

Playing at Budapest, the veteran Yugoslav doubles combination of Ferenc Puncec and D. Mitic defeated the Hungarian couple of Asboth and Gabory by the score of 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5.

The first match of the day, in which the Hungarian player Asboth scored an impressive victory over the Yugoslav No. 1 player, Puncec, was a continuation of yesterday's second match which was called because of rain.

Picking up where they left off, Asboth ran out the third set in which was leading yesterday, the final score being 7-5, 4-6, 7-5, 11-9. Yesterday, Asboth and Puncec had each won one set and the Hungarian player was leading 6-5 in the third set when play was called. The Yugoslav ace battled hard to take the fourth set, but succeeded only in drawing it out to 20 games before losing.

At Naples, Italy was credited with a 3-0 series victory over Monaco when officials decided to abandon the playing of the final two singles matches because of poor weather.

Penn State Golf Team Defeats Army, 8 to 1

N.Y. Herald Tribune

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 22—Penn State administered an 8-to-1 defeat to Army golfers today in a match played at the Storm King Golf Club in Cornwall. Al Brown Knocks Out Jaramillo in 4th Round

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 23—Al Brown, 124¾, former bantam-weight champion of the world, knocked out Young Cristobal Jaramillo, 126¾, Puerto Rico, in 1:24 of the fourth round at the Rockland Palace last night. Al Reich, referee, stopped the bout.

In the semi-final six-rounder Harry Massey, 159¾, of New Orleans, defeated Buddy Birch, 159, of Harlem, on points.

In four-rounder, Boddy Hotez, 166, of New York, feated Petie Mike, 164¼, of New York; Larry Noble, 140, of Baltimore, drew with Willie Cheatem, 141, of New York, and Mon Rodriguez, 116½, of Puerto Rico, went to a draw with Joey Puig, 111½, of New York.

TARZAN BROWN WINS BOSTON MARATHON

By GORDON CAMPBELL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, April 20—Ellison M. "Tarzan" Brown, Narragansett Indian from Westerly, R. I., yesterday won the 43rd annual B. A. A. Marathon and set a new world's record for the regulation 26-mile, 385-yard course. Brown covered the ground between Hopkinton, Mass., and Boston in 2h.28m. 51 4-5s., more than two minutes faster than the course record of 2h. 31m. 1 3-5s., set in 1933 by Leslie Pawson of Pawtucket, R. I. The accepted world's figure is 2h. 29m. 19 2-5s., established by Kitei Son of Japan in the 1936 Olympic Games at Berin.

In repeating his 1936 victory, Brown broke the tape on Exeter Street between lines of rain-soaked spectators more than 600 yards in front of second-pace Don Heinicke of Baltimore, Md., who was competing in the affair for the first time. His effort, as well as that of Tarzan's make them both strong contenders for the next U. S. Olympic Marathon team, inasmuch as this race was one of the qualifying marathons. The final tryout will be over the same course next April 19.

YOUNG THIRD

In third place behind Heinicke came Walter Young, of Verdun, Quebec, 1937 winner and first of the strong Canadian contingent to cross the finish line. Young is the runner who entered the race two years ago with the hope of getting a job, and was rewarded by his home-townsmen with a position on the police force.

Pat Dengis, of the Millrose A. A. of New York, finished fourth, just ahead of Les Pawson, last year's winner, whom he passed on the Newton hills. Dengis, the American Marathon champion who finished second last year, suffered his first defeat at the distance in a year. Pawson tore into the lead at the start and headed the field into Framingham and Natick. There Young and Brown caught him, and afterwards he did not figure in the race for first place.

DE MAR 30TH

Claence H. De Mar, the Keene, N. H. printer and seven-times previous winner, wound up in 30th position. This was the 21st race for De Mar, who will be 51 years of age in June.

Johnny Kelley of Arlington, 1935 winner and member of the last Olympic team, finished 13th. All Spring Kelley had been foregoing road races in an effort to be ready for the one yesterday, as he wants to take the trip to Finland in 1940. The rain, which seemed to help the younger runners and aided Brown in setting up a new mark, bothered him as early in the race as Wellesley, where he said he felt tired.

Mel Porter of New York, fourth last year, wanted to compete this year in order to make the Olympic team, but his condition prevented him from entering. Hugo Kauppinen, the New York carpenter, was 22nd, far back of his usual place in the first 10, while Fred Ward of Kimberly, Nev., 10th last year, was 28th.

FIFTH IN HISTORY

With his victory yesterday, Brown becomes the fifth man in the history of the Marathon to win the event twice. Back at the turn of the century, J. J. Caffrey from Hamilton, Ont., won the event in 1900 and 1901. De Mar won first in 1911, and then added titles in 1922, '23, '24, '27, '28, and '30. Johnny Miles, the little Canadian from Sydney Mines, Nova Scotia, won in 1926 and '29, and Pawson turned the trick in 1933 and '38.

Although it had only three representatives, the Marathon A. C. of Verdun, Que., won the team prize with 13 points, with Young in third place, Gerry Cote in eighth, and Lloyd Evans in 15th.

16 Would Be Sent To Winter Olympics

A delegation of 16 persons, including athletes and officials, will be sent to the 5th Olympic Winter Games at San Moritz next year, if Japan is to compete, according to the Japan Skating Federation.

The Federation last Saturday requested the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation to decide shortly whether Japan will compete at San Moritz. It held that if the decision is in the affirmative, the Olympic candidates would have to go through group training during the Summer and the team members leave Japan in December.

ROLFE HOMERS AND YANKEES TOP ATHLETICS

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 25—Proving that brute strength is not their only claim to fame, the Yankees won a tidy little 2-1 game from the Athletics at the Stadium yesterday. The feared Bronx Bombers were held to only three hits, but one was a home run by Red Robert Rolfe, and they made their other run on no hits at all, an item that shows how versatile these lads are.

This was the first appearance of the Philadelphians in New York this year, and the Rifles discovered rapidly that they are the same old Athletics. Monte Pearson made his 1939 debut and spun a gaudy four-hitter, which was sufficient to hold the fort.

In a tight ball game such as this one was, the breaks often decide things. Unfortunately, there was a slight taint to the winning Yankee marker, although, strange as it may seem, brilliance was mixed with the dross.

Here is the way the stage was set for the deciding run. Two batters walked in the seventh. Pearson attempted to bunt but merely forced a man at third. Hence there were still runners on second and first when Frankie Crosetti stepped to the plate.

FINE RUNNING BY GORDON

Crosetti slashed a grounder through the box. Lamar Newsome put his glove on the ball but could not find the handle. Joe (Flash) Gordon started to move at the crack of the bat. Perhaps it was hunger that caused him to keep going, but whether or not it was hope of an early dinner that motivated him, the fact remains that the Flash went all the way home from second on what should have been an infield out. That bit of superb base running settled things.

Nelson Potter was on the hill for the Athletics and yielded only three hits in five and a third innings. Chubby Dean went the rest of the distance without yielding a safety, although he became the losing pitcher because of the Newsome bobble in the seventh.

Prior to that Potter did very well. Rolfe opened the sixth by hitting a ball to the right-field seats, but it was foul by only a few feet. Apparently that was merely part of a carefully conceived plot by Red Robert. He was only getting the range, because he walloped the next pitch a few feet inside the pole, and that was the first run of the game.

The Athletics stepped up to bat and Bob Johnson walked. Dario Lodigiani promptly cracked a double to right to chase his teammate to third. Pearson started to give Nick Etten an intentional pass to fill the bases, but the Yankees changed their strategy in midstream and pitched to him instead. The Philadelphia first baseman was retired on a grounder to Gordon but Johnson brought in the trying run on the play.

GAME ATTRACTS 5,820

Maybe it was only the Monday lull, or maybe it was the Athletics, but the crowd was only 5,820. The fans stayed right to the bitter end.

What caused the removal of Potter in the sixth was not the home run ball he delivered to Rolfe nor the single that Joe DiMaggio dribbled down the third base line. What brought about his exit was a base on balls to Henry Louis Gehrig, whose batting average has reached an alarming state of anemia. Potter departed and Dean came in. The Chubby one immediately retired the side on a double play.

The Rolfe homer kept the Yankee output at the regular rate. The average still is one a game for the new season.

Marse Joe McCarthy started his left-handed hitting outfield of Tommy Henrich and Twinkletoes Selkirk. DiMaggio, of course, would be in there even if they rolled the ball up. When the left-handed Dean moved in, the southpaw batters remained in the Yankee line-up, to the particular chagrin of Joe Gallagher, who would rather play ball than eat, a strange situation for an athlete of his dimensions.

CHEST PROTECTOR NEEDED

Etten had only two grounders hit to him at first base but stopped both with his chest, a good system, but rather rough on the ribs.

Sam Chapman chased Crosetti to the left-field boxes for his long foul in the first. Gehrig sent Frankie Hayes to the boxes for his shot in the eighth. But Hayes is only the catcher, and his shot was only a foul back of the plate.

Two-base hits—Johnson, Lodigiani. Home run—Rolfe. Double paly—Dean, Newsome and Etten. Left on bases—New York 8, Philadelphia 4. Bases on balls—Off Potter 3 in 5 1-3 innings, Dean 0 in 2 2-3. Hit by pitcher—By Potter (Dickey). Losing pitcher—Dean. Umpires—Hubbard, Rommel and Moriarty. Time of game—1:43.

MEIJI DEFEATS HOSEI, 10-9 IN 14 INNINGS

Third Baseman Ase's timely hit to right drove in Yano from second in the first half of the 14th inning to contribute to Meiji's 10-9 victory over Hosei Monday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium in a wild and woolly game that featured heavy scoring in some of the frames.

Meiji, for instance, took the field for the last half of the ninth, leading Hosei with a 9-2 score but Hosei went on a batting rampage to register seven runs and cause the game to go overtime.

MEIJI SCORE 5 IN 5TH

It seemed as if Meiji had clinched the game right in the fifth inning by scoring five runs to lead 8 to 1. Ito started the fireworks for Meiji by singling to center and Tobita beat out a bunt to third. It was a hit but the Third Baseman pegged wild to first and Ito went all the way to third. Kato flied out to left and Ito scored after the catch. Tobita stole second. Kodama worked Sato for a walk and the latter was sent to the showers. Ariuke took over the pitching burden but he fared no better, walking Ase to fill the bases with only one man away. Matsui popped out on a foul to third but Pitcher Fujimoto rose to the occasion with a sizzling double over second to score all three men on the bags. He then came home on Second Baseman Kameda's Texas Leaguer to center.

Fujimoto uncorked a wild pitch to allow a Hosei run in the sixth but it seemed all right when Meiji registered a run in the first half of the ninth on Ase's double to right center which brought in Kato, who had walked to get on.

As most of the fans in the bleachers began leaving, Shortstop Karasawa started the last half of the ninth for Hosei by gaining life at first on Kameda's error at second. Murakami smashed a triple to left, the ball taking a hop into the bleachers, scoring Karasawa. Fukui grounded out to short. Matsushita singled through short to bat in Karasawa. Yoshida flied out to second. Fujimoto lost his control and walked Hibino and Torimaru to fill the bases. Yamatani was sent in to run for Hibino. Tagawa also walked to force in Matsushita. Takeda, batting for Tashiro, singled to center and Center Fielder Tobita made it worse by letting the ball tunnel through his legs. The result was that four men crossed the plate, equivalent to a homer, and the score had been deadlocked at 9-all.

LONG GAME

Morishita replaced Ariuke, who had given way to a pinchhitter in the ninth, on the mound for Hosei and engaged in pitching duel with Fujimoto up to the 14th inning. The game took three hours and 20 minutes.

Rikkyo and Tokyo Imperial University, who battled to a 3-all tie on Sunday, were scheduled to meet at 2:30 p.m. today at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR
By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Enko Vaccari

THE LONDON TIMES
LITERARY SUPPLEMENT
. . . .this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.
A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.
Grammar: 15 x 22.1 cm, Pages 538, ¥12.00 and Postage (with two large maps, one of Japan, and one of Tokyo)

VICTORY AT LONG LAST FOR TEIDAI

Right Fielder Hibino of Tokyo Imperial University denting the rubber for the winning run by a 6-5 score in the eleveth inning against Rikkyo Tuesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Captain Kawai was responsible for Teidai's first victory of the season with a timely hit to right field. The catcher is Ito of Rikkyo.

TEIDAI FINALLY WINS GAME, TOPPING RIKKYO BY 6 TO 5

Tokyo Imperial University's baseball team, commonly known as Teidai, finally won a ball game in the current Spring season of the Tokyo Six University league by trouncing Rikkyo, 6 to 5, after an 11-inning battle Tuesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. The two teams had engaged in a 3-all tie in their first clash on Sunday, a game Teidai should have won easily but for hard luck in the last half of the ninth inning.

Pitcher Yutani of Teidai was hard hit in the first inning to allow Rikkyo three runs but he steadied down after that and his brilliant pitching especially in the latter half of the game contributed much to his team's victory.

Teidai clinched victory after two outs in the eleventh. Tamaki had grounded out to short and Yutani to third. Hibino lifted a Texas Leaguer to left and promptly stole second. Kawai smashed a hit through between first and second and as Rightfielder Saigo, who gave way to Ishida on the mound in the seventh, let the ball tummel through his legs, Hibino romped all the way home for what proved to be the winning run.

RIKKYO LEADS

Rikkyo put two men on the bags in the first inning when Yuki, first up, walked and Kitahara gained life at first on a fielder's choice after Fukumura had failed in an attempt to sacrifice. Both men advanced a bag as Kiyohara grounded out to third. Sakurai came through with a hit to center to drive in Yuki. He then stole second and came in on Saigo's double down the right field foul line.

The game then developed into a pitching duel between Yutani and Saigo until Teidai deadlocked the count at 3-all in the sixth. Kawai walked after one out. Goto singled to center and Mizutake walked to fill the bases. Yamamoto fanned but Ota smashed a timely three bagger to right and cleaned up the bags. Kitano popped out to second to retire the side.

Continuing the rally, Teidai forged into a two-run lead in the seventh. Tamaki doubled to right and Ishida was rushed to the mound, Saigo going out to right field. Yutani walked and Hibino singled to left to bring in Tamaki. Kawai struck out but Goto singled shortly to right to fill the bags. Mizutake rolled a grounder to first and Goto was forced at second, but Yutani tallied on the same play.

INTO EXTRA INNINGS

Rikkyo forced the game to go into extra innings by putting the score on a 5-all basis in the eighth. Saigo walked and stole second after Tsunajima had flied out to center. Nakano, batting for Machida, was safe on first when Second Baseman Goto muffed his fly. Abe was sent in to run for Nakano. Kobayashi, who had been in clean-up position but had been in such a batting slump to be shoved down to last place in the Rikkyo line-up, hit a triple down the right field foul line and both Saigo and Abe tallied.

Yutani was in such fine form when Teidai needed good pitching that he faced but six men in the tenth and eleventh innings. He fanned Ishida and Kitahara in a row to end the game.

HOLDEN WINS CROSS COUNTRY FOR 4TH TIME

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON—At first blush—if you do blush—bringing cross-country runners to Britain might seem to be an accomplishment of the same type as taking coals to Newcastle. For both cross-country runners and coal are peculiar to the soil in those places. But at second and all subsequent blushes it will be seen that the process is by no means futile. Since the French brought to this island the other day some cross-country runners so good that they ran away home with the Lumley Shield, emblematic of the international championship for a sport that used to be considered a peculiarity of the British. Well, now, while still ranking as a peculiarity, except to those who indulge in it, cross-country running is firmly established as a vogue in many lands. Although the country which they cross, in certain countries, is something very different from that encountered by the average English harrier on a Saturday afternoon.

UPS AND DOWNS

Cross-country running in the classic tradition is like the hotel elevator—a thing of ups and downs. And the tendency abroad has been to iron these out. The result being that Continental racers are usually seen at their best when the landscape is innocent of hills and obstacles. In other words, when it is like the setting for the 1939 international championship on the Ely horse race track at Cardiff, Wales.

On former occasions when the Welsh have promoted this contest, the venue has been at Newport and has included a stiff climb at the foot of Mount Caerleon. This time, however, the course was along a fast, flat trail and the Frenchmen almost hugged themselves with glee when they saw it. They hugged each other with glee when they had finished seeing it. For they were placed in second, third, fourth, eighth, ninth and tenth places. To appreciate to the full the merit of this excellent "packing" you need to know that the tenth man came in only 73s. behind the second and as many as four places ahead of England's second scorer.

INDIVIDUAL HERO

But in spite of all the splendid running by the French, the individual hero of this year's race was an Englishman—the renowned Jack Holden, of Tipton Harriers. He won the event for the fourth time and so beat the record number of victories set up by that great French runner of pre-war days, Jean Bouin, in 1911, 1912 and 1913. Holden's triumphs previous to this year were in 1933, 1934 and 1935. He was also the runner-up in 1932 and 1936. As he won the English national championship in 1938, after 11 unavailing attempts, and repeated the victory this year, Jack, at the age of 32, can be written into history as the most successful cross-country runner England has ever produced. Which is saying something.

In the race at Cardiff, Holden varied his customary "waiting" tactics to suit the easy course. He knew that if the leaders got away on such a terrain as this his policy of working steadily up to first place at the half-way mark might not come off. So he, too, made a fast start and was setting the pace at three miles, followed by G. Letisserand, of France, and J. Chapelle, the Belgian, who finished second in the corresponding race at Belfast last year.

ROBOT

From that point Holden always looked like winning. Challenges were made and met and, with a mile to go, there was "our Jack" striding along like a Robot geared to move at a certain pace. It was not a sprint of his that opened out the margin of 60 yards by which he won. It was the relentless consistency of his unvarying speed. His time was 47m. 19s. and the next five men who followed him in were:

	m.	s.
B. El Ghazi, France	47	31
S. Amrouche, France	47	50
G. Letisserand, France	48	—
Oscar van Rums, Belgium	48	12
J. Chapelle, Belguim	48	18

The team ranking was: France, 36 points; England, 95; Belgium, 115; Scotland, 120; Wales, 136; Northern Ireland, 227, and Eire, 227.

Merit is added to the Frenchmen's sweeping victory by the fact that they had to compete without the services of their new national champion, J. Lalanne, and A. Sicard, who was second in the international race of 1937. Vive la France! And, as the gallant Frenchmen themselves said, Vive le Jack Holden!

STANLEY CUP BACK IN BOSTON AFTER 10 YEARS

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, April 17—The famed Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world professional hockey championship, returned to Boston last night after an absence of 10 years.

Before 16,891 expectant hockey fans, the Boston Bruins defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3 to 1, for their third-straight win and a total of four out of the five games played. The Stanley Cup made a total of four such trophies to the Boston hockey collection for the season, Frank Brimsek, goalie, having won the Vezina and the Calder trophies, and the team earlier won the Prince of Wales Cup.

At the conclusion of the game with the crowd and players in more or less of a frenzy, President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League presented the Cup to Art Ross and Weston Adams of the Bruins in mid-ice. The players had gone to the dressing room but were recalled, excepting Dit Clapper, Brimsek and Gordon Pettinger who were in the showers before instructions.

LONG SEASON OVER

The Maple Leafs extended hasty congratulations as the players were leaving the ice and Capt. Red Horner and Conn Smythe made a brief visit to the Boston room before departing for the 11:15 p.m. train back to Toronto. The scene in the Boston club room was one of joy in which the Bruins relaxed after one of the longest seasons on record.

The Cowley line again provided the important goals last night. Mel Hill gave the Bruins a one-goal lead at 11:40 of the first period with Drillon in the penalty box. Cowley and Conacher figured for assists. That goal was tied at 18:40 when Kampman drilled a long one past Brimsek, whose vision was blocked and Hill rested in durance.

DRILLON MISSED

The winning goal came from the stick of Conacher on a play with Shore and Cowley at 17:54. Shore fed Cowley and the latter slipped the puck between Horner and Kampman with Conacher eluding his check, Drillon, to race in, pick up the puck and beat Broda. Just previous to his goal Drillon, high scorer for the Leafs, who has not tallied once in the series, had an opening but was beaten by Brimsek and with that failure seemed to go the hopes of the visitors.

In fact, it was a sad evening for Drillon for he was evaded by Flash Hollett in the final minute of play for the third goal of the night. Schmidt and Jack Crawford received assists. The goal came with Shore and Nick Metz serving penalties.

It was the first time the Bruins had eliminated the Maple Leafs in the play-offs and the fourth time the two had come together in such series.

DORIS BRENNAN TAKES A.A.U. MEDLEY CROWN

Christian Science Monitor

DETROIT, April 17—Two National A.A.U. women's swimming titles changed hands Saturday night in a meet at the Detroit Athletic Club.

Dorothy Evans, 17, of the Broadwood A. C., Philadelphia, won the 100-yard freestyle crown and Doris Brennan, Providence (R.I.) physical education student, captured the 300-yard individual medley championship.

Miss Evans, a University of Pennsylvania student, covered the distance in 1m. 2s. Claudia Eckert, of Chicago, twice champion, was second; Miss Brennan, third and Halina Tomski, of Detroit, the defending champion, was forth.

MEDLEY CROWN

Forty-five minutes later Miss Brennan came back to seize the 300-yard medley crown formerly worn by Katherine Rawls Thompson, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., in 4m. 4.5s. That was 1.3s. behind Mrs. Thompson's American record.

Five feet behind Miss Brennan was Helene Rains, of New York. Mrs. Thompson finished third; eight feet behind the winner. Betty Bemis, of Nashwauk, Minn., was fourth.

CLARK WINS

Andy Clark, Wayne University freshman swimming for the Detroit A. C., won the 440-yard freestyle event in 4m. 50.3s., finishing 15 yards ahead of Jack Medica, 1936 Olympic 400-meter champion and world record holder in the 440. Jimmy Welsh, the University of Michigan's national collegiate quarter-mile champion, was third.

In an exhibition with Miss Brennan, Jane Dillard, of Austin, Texas, surpassed the world record for the 100-yard breaststroke by swimming the distance in 1m. 16.6s. Mrs. Thompson set the mark of 1m. 18.5s. in 1937.

DEFEAT HOST CLUB

The Indianapolis A. C. defeated the Detroit host club in the women's 150-yard medley relay, winning in 1m. 38.8s. Members of the victorious team were Jane Cloyd, Virginia Hunt and Virginia Schakel.

Another world mark was bettered by an all-western team in the women's 400-yard freestyle relay with the time of 4m. 11.5s. Members of the team—Emilie Draves, of Milwaukee; Mrs. Thompson and Misses Eckert and Tomski—defeated the all-eastern team of Elaine Sloane; Patricia McWhorter of Newark, N.J.; Miss Evans, and Elizabeth Ryan of New York. The Washington A. C. set the record of 4m. 13.4s in 1936.

THE CHOICE OF THE MULTITUDE

AKINOUMI IS NEW HERO AT KOKUGIKAN

Akinoumi, 25-year old stalwart of the Dewanoumi Camp, has become the new "dollar"—more properly it should be "yen"—box of the Japan Sumo Association's current tournament at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku, according to the Asahi Shimbun in its description of the bouts on the sixth day of the 15-day tournament on Tuesday. For Akinoumi, the chap that won immortal fame so far as sumo is concerned last January when he stopped Grand Champion Futabayama's winning streak over three years, continued Tuesday to upset the top-notch wrestlers. His victim Tuesday was Champion Mayedayama for his sixth straight victory.

Only four remain unbeaten in the "makunouchi" or top ranking circle. Besides Akinoumi, they are Grand Champions Futabayama and Minanogawa, and Matsunosato far down in the list that he doesn't meet the aforementioned three.

AGGRESSOR WINS

Mayedayama, with strong lifting power with his arms and beaten but once up to Tuesday, was a slight favorite to down Akinoumi. But the latter was ever the aggressor from the moment they stood up. He charged low and though Mayedayama attempted to shake himself away, he was unable to do so and Akinoumi crushed him outside the ring for a scintillating victory.

Grand Champion Futabayama was given his first scare in the current tourney. And the man that did so was Dewaminato, champion of the January tournament who had finally registered a victory on Monday out of five starts. It was he that took the offensive, attempting one throw after another, but they finally clinched each other's girdle, and after a few seconds, Futabayama pumped his powerful legs and began a drive that did not stop until Dewaminato was out of the ring.

The clever Ayanobori was expected to give Grand Champion Minanogawa plenty of trouble but the latter pushed him out of the ring with ease.

Kashimanada, big boy protege of erstwhile champion Kasugano, proved to be no match for Tamanoumi, ace pupil of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki. Tamanoumi thrust his two arms through Kashimanada's defense and shoved him out of the ring.

SIXTH FOR MATSUNOSATO

Sixth victim of Matsunosato was the lanky Fujigadake. Matsunosato used a leg throw to good advantage.

The results of the bouts after the intermission were:

Sagamigawa defeated Banshinzan.
M[illegible]sugata defeated [illegible]
Yamatoiwa defeated Saganohana.
Tomoegata defeated Kaneminato.
F[illegible]sato defeated Os[illegible]

4 REMAIN UNBEATEN IN SUMO TOURNEY

Four stalwarts are still undefeated and continuing in the race for the championship of the 15-day Summer sumo tournament which entered its eighth day today. They are Grand Champions Futabayama and Minanogawa, and Akinoumi and Matsunosato.

Akinoumi stole the show again on Wednesday by defeating the strong Haguroyama, younger stable-mate of of Futabayama, by crushing him outside the ring, or the very way with which he had defeated Nayoroiwa, another stable-mate of Futabayama, on Monday. Thus it is that Akinoumi has defeated all members of the prized "Sanyaku" or ranking wrestlers immediately below a grand champion. Haguroyama and Nayoroiwa are "sekiwake", two ranks below grand champion. Akinoumi's other victims include Kagamiiwa and Mayedayama, "ohseki" or champions next to grand champion, and Tamanoumi, a "komusubi" or third rank below grand champion.

Haguroyama never had a chance, although some had conceded him a winner. No sooner had they stood up than Akinoumi grasped Haguroyama's girdle with his left arm and started a drive. At the same time, he put his right hand at Haguroyama's throat and shoved Haguroyama out of the ring.

Minanogawa was given a great scare by Dewaminato. They fell virtually together and they were made to wrestle it all over. This time, Minanogawa was on his guard and finally threw his much lighter opponent.

Futabayama had little trouble with Komanosato, pushing the latter out of the ring in a second's time.

Matsunosato defeated the young Saganohana.

Ayanobori scored an upset by defeating Nayoroiwa. Here again, the referee's decision, for Nayoroiwa, was disputed by the judges and they had to to fight it out in a new bout.

The results of the bouts after the intermission follow:

Fujinosato defeated Takanobori.
Hatasegawa defeated Sagamigawa
Terukuni defeated Kuganishiki.
Matsunosato defeated Saganohana.
Onami defeated Ohshio.
Tsurugamine defeated Yamatoiwa.
Tomoegata defeated Dewanohana.

Akinoumi defeated Haguroyama.
Hishuzan defeated Kagamiiwa.
Itsutsushima defeated Mayedayama.
Minanogawa defeated Dewaminato.
Futabayama defeated Komanosato.

FELLER FANS 10 AS INDIANS TOP TIGERS, 5-1

CLEVELAND, April 21— Youthful Bob Feller gave only three hits and struck out ten batters today to pitch the Indians to a 5-1 victory over the Tigers in the Cleveland opener before 20,000 spectators.

Dark skies helped Feller in his duel with Harry Eisenstat, Detroit southpaw. Barney McCoskey, outfielder, smacked a home run in the sixth for Detroit's only tally. His eighth-inning single and Rudy York's single in the second were the only other blows off Feller, who gave only two walks.

The Indians scored a run each in the first and third innings and insured victory in the sixth with a four-hit, two-run attack.

Jim Shilling, Cleveland rookie second baseman, was struck on the head as he reached third base on a triple in the eighth inning, but walked from the field unaided.

HARVARD BEATS PRINCETON NINE BY 7-0 COUNT

N.Y. Times

PRINCETON, N. J., April 21—Harvard's baseball team spoiled Princeton's Eastern Intercollegiate League opener today, handing the Tigers a 7-0 trouncing on University Field. It was the Cantabs' second circuit victory.

Big Tom Healey, winning twirler against Columbia last Saturday, limited the Bengals to four scattered singles, while his mates landed on Dawson Farber for a total of thirteen blows to take undisputed possession of first place in the league.

The visitors put the game on ice in the third frame when they jammed two counters across the plate on four hits, a double steal, an error and a base on balls. One run in each of the fifth, seventh and the eighth, and two more in the final inning completed the Cantab total.

Ulysses Lupien, Crimson first sacker, connected with Farber's pitches thrice out of five times up to drive in three runs and pace the Harvard assault. Lupien connected for a double in the ninth to drive home Dick Grondahl, who had just tripled, and then came in himself on a single by Red Tully.

Princeton threatened only once, in the eigth inning, when Stan Pearson, who accounted for two of the four blows yielded by Healey, singled to right. He advanced on a walk to Dick Purnell and went to third on an infield out. Farber flied to Lupien to end the rally.

One-Round Contest Drew $87,697 Gate

N.Y. Times

LOS ANGELES, April 18—The debris was cleared out of Wrigley Field today as Promoter Mike Jacobs counted up $87,697.75 gate receipts and Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis's one-round knockout of Jack Roper took a modest place as another line in the record books.

Post-battle opinions varied, but the consensus was that Los Angeles' first heavyweight title fight was great while it lasted and the outcome was a surprise to practically no one, including the 25,000 spectators.

Louis planned a visit to Chicago before proceeding to New York for his next title defense against Tony Galento. Roper, praised for making one gallant stand, foolhardy though it was, remained at his Hollywood home.

Referee George V. Blake volunteered the opinion that a left hook to the stomach, just before the final bombardment of Louis punches, was the blow that started Roper on the way out.

He also ventured the thought that one of Roper's left hooks to the head "jolted" the champion, which in these days of mediocre heavyweights is something, and added:

"The element of fear most certainly was absent from Roper."

Jacobs said he would like to put on another title fight in Los Angeles this Summer, provided police protection could be assured to hundreds scaled the walls of Wrigley Field and others abandoned their $1 seats and took over the $10 ringside pews.

"I think we would have done $100,000 but for this lack of help from the police," he said.

"As for the fight, I thought it was a good one and I believe had it gone another round it would have developed into another Dempsey-Firpo battle."

31,000 SEE GOMEZ HALT SENATORS, 6-3

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

WASHINGTON, April 21—Frustrated by unfavorable elements last Monday, when they attempted to inaugurate the baseball season, the Yankees came to Griffith Stadium today and helped rip the lid off the 1939 pennant campaign by submerging the Senators, 6 to 3.

A couple of fellows named Joe—DiMaggio and Gallagher—brought defeat to the Griffmen and chagrin to about 31,000 fans who almost taxed the park's capacity on this auspicious occasion.

Vice-President Garner, flanked by Postmaster General Farley and a group of Senators that included Robert Wagner, Pat Harrison, Carl Hatch, Thomas Connally, Robert LaFollette and Carter Glass, hurled the first ball to get the season under way officially.

GOMEZ WEATHERS SECOND INNING

Then, after the Senators had taken a 3-1 lead by hammering the redoubtable Vernon Gomez in the second inning, these two fellows named Joe hit home runs, and in no time at all Marse Joe McCarthy's world champions had their second victory of the early season.

DiMaggio, having knocked in the first Yankee run with a double in the first, poled a home run into the left center field bleachers in the wake of Frankie Crosetti's single in the third to square the count.

And after the Old Iron Man, Lou Gehrig, and the sparkplug, Bill Dickey walked, Gallagher caromed a drive off the front of the stand in distant left, circling the bases for a homer inside the park. This blow was enough for an unsuspecting left-hander named Joe Krakauskas and for Bucky Harris's crew in general.

That was all there was to it. Just DiMaggio and Gallagher, the latter a rookie playing his second major league engagement and, like the story-book hero, covering himself with glory. Anything further would have been superfluous.

LEFTY IN COMMAND NOW

The good Señor Gomez, off to a poor start, was braced by these mighty drives and had the Senators figuratively eating out of his hand for the remaining seven innings.

After tottering under a six-hit hammering in the first two innings that sent Marse Joe's blood pressure soaring and precipitated amazing activity in the Yankee bullpen, Gomez settled down to an exhibition of that pitching grace that customarily is his. He gave the Senators only three singles after the second, one of them a bunt.

Thanks to a seventh-inning double play, one of two clicked off by a sparkling Yankee combination, Gomez pitched to only fifteen men in five of these seven rounds.

Closely paralleling the work of Gomez was that of Pete Appleton, who as Pete Jablonowski once was a member of the Yankee firing line. Taking up the pitching for the Senators in the fourth, Appleton set down the Yankees with only four more hits and never faced danger.

GOOD DAY FOR IT

An ideal Spring day graced the occasion and the crowd was one of the biggest in the history of Washington baseball openings. Sun flooded the field and warmed the stands, making unnecessary the Winter wraps taken along as precautions. An army band entertained before the game.

Members of both teams, marching in single file, paraded to the flagpole in center field for the traditional flag raising.

While the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner," Postmaster General Farley, with the aid of President Clark Griffith of the club, hoisted Old Glory as it fluttered in a brisk southeast wind.

A great cheer rose as the players paraded back to the plate and assembled along the first base foul line. They stood there awaiting the first official pitch from Vice-President Garner. It came amid a roar, was clutched eagerly by Rene Monteagudo, Cuban pitcher, who, 5 feet 4, was the smallest fellow in the struggling group. And then, with another noisy roar, the game was on.

ROLFE OUT AT THIRD

Immediately Mr. Krakauskas was in difficulties. He fanned Frankie Crosetti, then walked Red Rolfe. Jake Powell scratched a single on which Rolfe was caught while trying to make third. And when DiMaggio smacked a double to center, Powell came galloping home.

In the second Gomez was on the skids. He got safely past Buddy Myer, but with blinding rapidity Charley Gelbert doubled, Ossie Bluege singled, Rick Ferrell doubled, Krakrauskas singled and pandemonium broke loose as three runs came over the plate.

But the lead shifted in the third, which Crosetti opened with a single. With two down, DiMaggio larruped his first homer of the year, unnerving Mr. Krakauskas so that he issued the passes to Gehrig and Dickey, and along came Mr. Gallagher to supply the perfect touch with his first major league homer.

MEIJI DEFEATS HOSEI, 4-0 FOR 2 IN ROW

Hachiryu Fujimoto, a newcomer from Shimonoseki Middle School, has turned out to be Meiji University's leading pitcher, instead of Hideo Shimizu, southpaw who early this year had been reported to have signed a ¥10,000 contract with the Nankai professional team. Fujimoto held Hosei to five hits and aided his team to 4-0 triumph Wednesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Monday, he had pitched his team to a 10-9 victory over Hosei in 14 innings.

Southpaw Akaneya, Hosei's best bet, started on the mound but he gave way to Sato in the seventh after he had allowed two runs in the sixth.

Those two runs came after one out. Akaneya was himself to blame when he walked Ito and Yano. Kato flied out to left but Kodama walked to fill the bases. Ase came through with a timely hit over second to drive in Ito and Yano.

Meiji salted the game away by squeezing in a run in the seventh.

GRAND UPSET REGISTERED

Grand Champion Minanogaw a (right) being shoved out of the ring by Ryuozan for the biggest upset in Thursday's sumo bouts at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku.

FUTABAYAMA AND AKINOUMI BATTLE TODAY IN CRUCIAL BOUT

More than 20,000 enthusiastic sumo fans are expected to go into a frenzy sometime about 6 this afternoon at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku, on the east side of the Sumida river, when Grand Champion Futabayama and Akinoumi, stalwart of the Dewanoumi Camp, mount the ring. For at the end of the day's bouts Thursday on the eigth day of the current 15-day Summer turnament, they two alone remain undefeated. One must lose today and the winner will have the best chance for the championship.

Sumo fans will recall that it was Akinoumi who registered what many believed an impossible feat, that of defeating Futabayama in the last tournament in January and thereby stopping his undefeated record over three years. Futabayama's winning streak stopped at 69 victories on the fourth day of that January tourney. Subsequently, he lost also to Ryogoku, Kashimanada and Tamanoumi before the 13-day tourney ended. But Futabayama is happily married now (did so to an Osaka heiress on April 29) and in his bouts to date in the current tournament, he has shown himself to be stronger than ever. Altogether recovered from the appendectomy he had performed in December which made it impossible for him to train as much as he wanted for the January tournament, Akinoumi has stolen the show thus far in the present tourney. His eight victims include two "ohseki", rank immediately below grand champion, two "sekiwake," rank below "ohseki," and one "komusubi," just below "sekiwake." His body is larger and he is expected to put up a good fight against Futabayama. As a matter of fact, many are picking him to repeat his triumph over the grand champion.

LITTLE TO SAY

Both Futabayama and Akinoumi, when questioned by reporters Thursday night about their bout today, had little to say, except that they would try their best. Akinoumi, however, said that Futabayama is much stronger this time, and those at the ringside should be on the alert because the grand champion might throw him clear out of the ring. The experts are of the opinion that the victor will be decided right at the outset of the bout, in other words by the method in which it gets under way.

With his powerful arms, Futabayama lifted Hishuzan clean into the air and deposited him outside the ring for an easy victory on Thursday.

Akinouml's eighth victim was the lanky Fujigadake. With his speed and strong drive, he forced Fujigadake to retreat halfway around the ring and then shoved him out.

MINANOGAWA BEATEN

The biggest upset on Thursday was Grand Champion Minanogawa's defeat at the hands of the up and coming Ryuozan, stable-mate of Akinoumi. It was Minanogawa's first defeat of the season. No sooner had they stood up than Ryuozan started attacking with both hands and Minanogawa doing likewise. They finally grabbed each other's girdle with both hands to be on even terms. When it seemed that the larger Minanogawa would be sure to win under such circumstances, Ryuozan amazed the fans with his strength by starting a drive that crushed Minanogawa outside the ring. Certainly, it was no fluke of a victory.

Matsunosato, the other wrestler far down in the "makunouchi" or top ranking circle who had won seven straight victories, finally tasted defeat. His nemesis was the veteran Ohshio, who will be 40 years old soon. Ohshio stuck his right hand at Matsunosato's throat and pushed until Matsunostao was forced out of the ring.

DEWAMINATO WINS

Dewaminato, who won the championship of the January tournament and thus has his life-size picture hanging from the dome of the bowl with other past champions, turned defeat into victory at the last moment by executing a beautiful arm throw. He did so when Tsurugamine was about to shove him out of the ring. It was Dewaminato's second victory in eight starts.

Kashimanada, almost a duplicate in build of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki, took the ten minutes allowed in getting started in his bout with Haguroyama but lost in no time. He charged and the strong Haguroyama slapped his body down onto the sand.

Nayoroiwa, strong stable-mate of Futabayama, also went down miserably at the hands of Champion Mayedayama. He charged madly and Mayedayama cleverly sidestepped to the left and added to Nayoroiwa's momentum by giving him a shove from the back. Out went Nayoroiwa from the ring to lose.

Tamanoumi, ace pupil of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki, defeated the handsome Shachinosato after a torrid bout. His powerful arms finally accounted for his victory.

The results of the bouts after the intermission follow:

Matsuragata defeated Fujinosato.
Katsuragawa defeated Takanobori.
Minenobori defeated Sagamigawa.
Aobayama defeated Yamatoiwa.
Ohshio defeated Matsunosato.
Banshinzan defeated Jintozan.
Saganohana defeated Dewnohana.

Akinoumi defeated Fujigadake.
Ayanobori defeated Onami.
Asahigawa defeated Komanosato.
Kasagiyama defeated Kanemínato.
Tamanoumi defeated Shachinosato.
Dewaminato defeated Tsurugamine.
Haguroyama defeated Kashimanada.
Mayedayama defeated Nayoroiwa.
Kagamiiwa defeated Itsutsushima.
Futabayama defeated Hishuzan.
Ryuozan defeated Minanogawa.

BOSTON COLLEGE TOPS FORDHAM NINE, 10 TO 7

N.Y. Times

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass., April 21—Boston College made Freddy Maguire's coaching debut a success by pounding Gene Bowe for eight hits and eight runs in the seventh inning to break Fordham's seven-game winning streak and send the Rams down to a 10-7 defeat before a crowd of 2,000 on Alumni Field today.

While the Eagles, who had been threatening to upset Bowe through the first six innings, finally found the range, Sigmund Somy, senior right-hander, employed good speed and a sharp out drop to limit the hitherto unbeaten New Yorkers to six hits, two of which were scratch.

RAMS' RUNS UNEARNED

Somy retired ten on strikes and although eight passes placed him in danger at times, the Rams could not follow up their opportunities. None of the Bronx team's seven tallies was earned.

Fordham led 4—2 when the B. C. storm broke in the seventh. Ed Sawyer opened the big drive with a double to left, Brad Martin singled and Frank Burns tied the score with a tremendous triple to left. Burns counted on Jim Byrne's sacrifice fly to center.

Palumbo drew a walk, Norm Pilote and Bob Cromwell singled and when Bowe threw Principe's return into center field in an attempt to nail Pilote off second. Palumbo tallied. Somy, John Buckley and Sawyer followed with three more singles, which brought three more tallies and Buckley registered the eighth run on Martin's fly to Hearn.

FORDHAM RALLY CHECKED

The Maroon put on a three-run rally in the eighth on two walks, an error, a fielder's choice and singles by the Hearn brothers, Mike and Jack, but Somy fanned Principe to end the threat. Fordham's first two runs came in the first on Mike Hearn's double, two outfield errors and a double steal. Two more came across in the third on a walk, McGurk's single, an error and a fielder's choice.

GOOD YEAR SEEN FOR BRITISH FIELD HOCKEY

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

The Christian Science Monitor

LONDON—Field hockey circles being incontestably the correct place for wise cracks (highly technical joke for those conversant with the game), I am moved to observe that activity prevails there no longer. The pan-Britannic international tournaments have ended in what the writers-up of election results describe so tersely as "No change," since England won the women's championship and Ireland the men's; the inter-Services competition has been decided to the complete satisfaction of His Majesty's Army; and the energetic Blues of Oxford and Cambridge have flattened each other on the Beckenham turf with all their customary gusto, the Light Blues winning by the odd goal in five.

JAMBOREE

In short, the close season is now upon us. Bringing talk of 1939-40 which promises to be in Britain a particularly interesting Winter for field hockey players, especially those of the fair sex, who expect to be organizing next October the greatest jamboree of feminine stick-wielders ever seen in this country.

The way things are shaping up, it seems not unreasonable to anticipate that the United States, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Denmark and the four "home" countries—England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales—will all then be represented by teams in a super-tournament at Bournemouth. And afterwards, if I understand the plans correctly, the visitors are to go on tour for matches in various parts of the country.

If such things come to pass, we may expect to see further proof of one of the few sporting generalizations that continue to ring true through the passing years. Namely, that the best woman field hockey players are the English.

'INTERNATIONAL ERA'

Since the dawn of what you might term the "international era" in this highly popular sport, England's ladies have pitted their strength against the national sides of the United States, South Africa, Australia, Denmark, Germany, Holland, France, Scotland, Ireland and Wales. Yet they have been beaten only six times—thrice by Ireland, twice by Scotland and ounce by South Africa.

During the season just ended the Englishwomen won all three of the international matches they played, defeating Scotland by 4 goals to 3; Ireland by 3-2; and Wales by 8-1. As Scotland drew with Ireland, 1-1, and beat Wales by 5-0, and Ireland won against Wales by 2-0, the final standing worked out like this:

	W	D	L	Goals For	Goals Agst	Pts
England	3	0	0	15	6	6
Scotland	1	1	1	9	5	3
Ireland	1	1	1	5	4	3
Wales	0	0	3	1	15	0

In men's hockey a leading topic of conversation today is still the remarkable consistency of the Irish national eleven, which has now gone through two seasons without having a single goal scored against it. As a matter of fact, goals seem extraordinarily hard to obtain in men's international matches these days. The average score was 2 1-3 per match for the six games in the championship series and only two were registered by losing teams.

STEREOTYPED

At first glance, this state of affairs might appear to be a handsome tribute to the rock-like qualities of modern defense. But the critics are rather of the opinion that it really shows a decline in the general level of forward play, due to attacks having become stereotyped and therefore easy to anticipate and frustrate.

For the third year in succession the Irishmen gained the mythical emblem known as the Triple Crown. That is to say, they defeated outright all the other three participants in the international competition. The details of which are summarized thus:

The Standing

	W	D	L	Goals For	Goals Agst	Pts
Ireland	3	0	0	5	0	6
England	2	0	1	5	2	4
Scotland	1	0	2	2	4	2
Wales	0	0	3	2	3	0

The Results

Ireland defeated England, 1—0.
Ireland defeated Scotland, 2—0.
Ireland defeated Wales, 2—0.
England defeated Scotland, 1—0.
England defeated Wales, 4—1.
Scotland defeated Wales, 4—1.

As a sort of postscript to the season proper, the Englishmen entertained a team from Holland at Luton and defeated it by three goals to nil. The English ladies were also to have had a match with Continental opposition—they were scheduled to play against Germany in Berlin, April 16—but the match was called off owing to the tension that arose after Germany's operations in Czechoslovakia.

Meiji, Keio Nines Meet In Crucial Series

Meiji and Keio universities will meet in a crucial series Saturday and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium which may decide the championship of the Spring season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league now nearing a close.

Keio is presently leading the standings with five victories and one defeat with an .833 percentage, while Meiji is in third place with three victories, one defeat and two ties. With four games left, Meiji must win at least one game from Keio to remain in the running for a chance to win its fifth straight title. In second place is Waseda with four victories, one defeat and one draw.

Meiji has been woefully weak in its hitting, and besides it has suffered with the inability of its southpaw ace, Hideo Shimizu, to round into form. If Right-hander Shiraki is in any form, Keio should win. The two will meet in the curtain-raiser on Saturday.

Tokyo Imperial University for once is a favorite to down Hosei in the other portion of the doubleheader.

U.S. POLO CHAMPIONS WILL DISBAND

BOSTON, April 21—A new American Open champion in polo will be crowned at the Meadow Brook Club when the curtain falls on the annual title tournament next September.

This information was revealed today when C. V. (Sonny) Whitney, captain and organizer of the Old Westbury four which has won the Open Championship for the past two seasons, announced that the powerful Old Westbury quartet will be disbanded, opening the field once again to prospective champions. Whitney has notified his three teammates, Stewart Iglehart, Michael Phipps, and Cecil Smith, of the sudden move.

STRONG TEAM

Whitney, who is rated at six goals by the United States Polo Association, has built his team up to be one of the strongest combinations in polo history outside of the International Cup Competition. The three forwards of the quartet, Phipps, Smith, and Iglehart, are three of the four Americans handicapped this season at the top figure of 10 goals, Tommy Hitchcock being the fourth 10-goaler. Whitney has generally played back position on the team. Mike Phipps, who was elevated to the top perch of 10 goals last year by virtue of his brilliant play in the Open Championship, is one of the outstanding candidates for the International defenders team that will meet Great Britain at Meadow Brook in June. Cecil Smith and Stewart Iglehart are also slated to fill berths in the American team.

Whitney's sound play at back was also a potent factor in the team's success. In the final victory over the Greentree four, a team organized by John Hay (Jock) Whitney at Meadow Brook last September, Whitney contributed one of the most courageous performances in the history of the title play.

CONTINUED PLAY

Injured early in the game by a flying mallet, Whitney continued in the game to the finish. His fine play at back was a definite help in obtaining the 16-to-7 victory over the Greentree attack led by Tommy Hitchcock.

Writing to his teammates and notifying them of his decision, Mr. Whitney declared that he had hoped to lead his team to three straight victories in the Open Championship—a feat never before accomplished by any team. Unfortunately, he continued, work has interfered with polo playing and precluded the possibility of making definite plans for this season.

SHIFT CAMP

Meanwhile the British challenging squad, which has been rather consistently winning exhibition games in California during the past three months, has shifted camp to Aiken, S. C., where they will begin intensive training on May 1. The American squad, scheduled to train at Meadow Brook beginning May 1, has also been training unofficially at Aiken.

Eleven of the best British mounts were shipped from San Francisco for Aiken two weeks ago. They will join a dozen or more of the fleet mounts that were loaned by Indian polo enthusiasts that have been wintering in Aiken. Thirty-six other British mounts were to be shipped this week, to complete a string for excelling any that a British challenge squad has possessed.

Bob Skene, Great Britain's Cinderella star, who has been making such a fine showing in the California games this Winter, is headed headed for a berth on the International team. His long experience with polo in India and Britain promise to elevate him to international prominence if his California showing is to be so judged.

Gerald Balding, the British team captain, and John Lakin, an Oxford polo star, are also expected to lend better than strong support. Humphrey Guiness, a veteran of the Hurlingham Club in London, is on duty with his regiment, the Royal Scots, in Palestine, and his ability to participate in the International matches is problematical.

ST. JOSEPH'S HAS SUCCESSFUL FIELD DAY

Special to The Japan Times

YOKOHAMA, May 17—Saint Joseph's College 38th annual athletic contest was successfully held today. The agreeable weather, the splendid spirit and cooperation of the student competitors, and the support and encouragement of numerous benefactors and spectators were instrumental in bringing this event to a most auspicious issue. The initiation at 9 a.m was a parade with a flag-raising ceremony.

Among the dignitaries present were His Excellency John A. Chambon, D.D, Archbishop-Bishop of Yokohama, M. E. Gallois, French Consul-General and A. Ferrari, Consul-General of Panama. M. Gallois offered a beautiful wrist watch to the athlete who had garnered the greatest number of points, and also made all the awards, whilst Mr. Ferrari donated a special trophy and gave a speech in which he recalled his own sporting days and rejoiced to see such a display of energy and interest in athletics at the College. M. J. B. Caschy, president of St. Joseph's College, presented prizes to the minims.

Before the distribution of awards a pageant similar to that of the morning concluded the events of the day.

The following are the final results of the various events:

Senior Group—A. Albeck, 25 points, that is, 5 first places, which merited a watch, a loving cup, and a shield given by the Yokohama Sport Club; J. Gomes, 18; G. Janson, 13; F. Planas, H. Yoshida, and J. Krantz, 10 each; G. Graham and H. Okano, 7 each.

First Junior Group—E. Gordes, 20 points; K. Miyagawa, 17; K. Tishkin, 16; D. deBritto, 14; and G. Quint, 13.

Second Junior Group—N. Petroff, T. Mukhi, and G. Mirenko, 16 each; S. Faure, 14; D. Alexeeff, 10; and R. Yamamura and T. Y. Yip, 9 each.

Third Junior Group—J. de Silva, 21; N. Sequeira, 19; G. Mitchell, 9; and T. Premsing, 6.

In the Second Division there were three contesting teams that finished with these standings: (1) The Rockets (Red), 127 points; (2) The Wolf Cubs (Blue) 115; and (3) The Kangaroos (Yellow), 100.

Among the Reds the leaders were: L. Chong, 132 points; W. Low, F. Quinl; K. Chang, V. Voskressensky, 126 each; the Blues—A. Ferrari, 119; H. Donker, 118; and R. Verleysen, 116; the Yellows—B. Cheremiskin, 103; and A. Sikos, 100. F. da Silva, 43; G. Gregorhoff, 35; S. Tang, 32; and B. Federoff, 30, were the Minims Champions.

Brown Is Hailed As Track Sensation In United States

BATON ROUGE, La., April 21—Billy Brown, the "baby" member of the 1936 United States Olympic team, may be the sensation of the current track season.

Brown was a spindling high school lad of Baker, La., just 17 years old, when he went to Berlin to represent Uncle Sam in the hop, step and jump. He was the youngest member of the American team.

Brown's finest leap in that event, was 49ft. 10in. Good enough to have won points in the Olympics, but when he performed before Hitler the best he could do was 47ft. 1in., for eighteenth place.

NOW A SOPHOMORE

Now he is a sophomore at Louisiana State University, training under Coach Bernie Moore, who tutored the world's record breakers, Glenn Hardin, in the 40-meter hurdles, and mammoth Jack Torrance, shot putter.

Brown has made only one appearance as a varsity competitor for L. S. U., in the triangular meet with Rice Institute and the University of Texas last week, but his record there stamped him as a standout performer.

His best effort was a prodigious broad jump of 25ft. 4¾in., good enough to win the event in almost any competition, and a little more than a foot under Jesse Owens' remarkable world record of 26ft. 8¼in.

RAN 100 IN 9.6s.

He won the 100-yard dash in the good time of 9.6s. and tied for first in the high jump at 6ft. 3in. He and a teammate were the only ones left in the high jump at that height and they didn't try for a better mark. Brown also anchored L. S. U.'s winning 440-yard relay team.

Brown, growing fast and now standing 6ft, 3in and weighing 160 pounds, has done the 220-yard dash in 21.2s. and the 220-yard low hurdles in 24.2 Coach Moore said he would perform next in the Drake relays at Des Moines April 28-29.

Moore startled the nation in 1933 when he took a six-man team to the intercollegiate meet in Chicago and captured the national championship, largely through the efforts of Hardin and Torrance. Hardin is now a salesman and Torrance, after a dismal trial as a professional fighter, is custodian of the old Capitol here.

FUTABAYAMA VANQUISHES AKINOUMI

Grand Champion Futabayama, still 28 years old and one of the handsomest of all the long-haired sumo wrestlers, now free from the admiration of the weaker sex since he is happily married to an Osaka heiress, just about clinched the championship of the 15-day Summer tournament at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku Friday on the ninth day. He did so by avenging his defeat of the January tournament at the hands of Akinoumi, who up to Friday had been the only undefeated wrestler along with Futabayama. The 30,000 rabid fans who jammed the bowl from early morning refused to leave until this bout was over at 6:25 p.m.

POLICE KEPT BUSY

Notwithstanding the fact that the pillars of the bowl are plastered with signs from the Ryogoku Police Station warning against throwing of empty bottles and cushions (this happened on the fourth day of the tournament in January when Akinoumi stopped Futabayama's winning streak over three years at 69 consecutive bouts in the official semi-annual bouts), along about 5:30 in the afternoon, six matches preceding that of Akinoumi and Futabayama, ushers cleared the galleries of the second, third and fourth floors off empty beer, sake and soda bottles, teapots and sake cups, lest these be thrown in the excitement over the Akinoumi-Futabayama bout and those in the bowl be injured. Then before the bout, special policemen took their places in the balconies with their backs towards the ring to spot any violator of the police warning. As a consequence, though Futabayama and Akinoumi engaged in the most thrilling bout of many a tourney, not a single bottle was thrown.

Poker-faced as usual, Futabayama was calmness itself in the "shikiri" or process of getting started in which a maximum time of 10 minutes is allowed. Akinoumi looked a bit pale. But he rushed at Futabayama after five false starts (usually there are 12 to 13 when the maximum time is consumed) and the latter, like a true grand champion, instead of demurring, stood up to take him on. With lightning speed, Akinoumi thrust his two arms through Futabayama's defense and grasped his girdle in front with both hands. Then he commenced a powerful drive which forced Futabayama to the edge of the ring (the very tactics which had defeated eight other stalwarts) but Futabayama checked it, and maneuvering himself to the center of the ring, grasped Akinoumi's girdle in the back with his right arm. Then he attempted two body throws but Akinoumi valiantly checked both attacks. But Futabayama's girdle became loose and Akinoumi's grasp lost its effectiveness. At the same time, Futbayama encircled Akinoumi's right arm with his left and put all the pressure he could that Akinoumi's body was fairly wrenched to one side. At this opportune moment, Futabayama started pumping away with his powerful legs and gradually forced Akinoumi to the edge of the ring. Akinoumi made a gallant attempt to throw Futabayama by hooking his right leg onto Futabayama's left but the latter with one final push, forced him out of the ring for a well-earned victory.

With this victory, the experts are of the opinion that none will be able to defeat Futabayama during the remaining six days of the tournament.

MINANOGAWA BEATEN AGAIN

Grand Champion Minanogawa suffered his second defeat in two days when the up and coming Kashimanada, one of the four who defeated Futabayama in January, outpushed him and shoved him out of the ring.

Nayoroiwa, younger stable-mate of Futabayama, defeated Tamanoumi, ace pupil of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki, after a torrid bout. Nayoroiwa won just when he was about to be thrown out of the ring by Tamanoumi.

The results of the principal bouts after the intermission follow:

Fujinosato defeated Tomoegata.
Sagamigawa defeated Matsuragata.
Terukuni defeated Yamatoiwa.
Dewanohana defeated Banshinzan.
Onami defeated Jintozan.
Saganohana defeated Taikyuzan.
Tatekabuto defeated Matsunosato
Wakashima defeated Takanobori
Ayawaka defeated Ohshio.
Ryogoku defeated Aobayama.
Hatasegawa defeated Yamatonishiki.
Ayanobori defeated Fujigadake.
Kasagiyama defeated Asahigawa.
Kaneminato defeated Komanosato.
Tsurugamine defeated Itsutsushima.
Ryuozan defeated Shachinosato.
Banjaku defeated Hishuzan.
Nayoroiwa defeated Tamanoumi.
Haguroyama defeated Kagamiiwa.
Mayedayama defeated Dewaminato.
Kashimanada defeated Minanogawa.
Futabayama defeated Akinoumi.

GRAND CHAMPION FUTABAYAMA AVENGES DEFEAT

Shonosuke Kimura, highest ranking referee, at left, looks on as Grand Champion Futabayama (left) forced Akinoumi out of the ring Friday afternoon at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku to avenge his defeat in January. By virtue of this victory, Futabayama remains the only undefeated wrestler after nine days of the current 15-day tourney. It was Akinoumi's first setback.

FIRST AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPION OF U.S. DIES

N.Y. Times

SOUTHAMPTON, L.I., April 21—Charles Blair Macdonald, stockbroker and the first amateur golf champion of the United States, died here today at 9 a.m. at his home, The White House. Ill for the last six months, Mr. Macdonald had returned from his Bermuda home last Sunday. He was 83 years old.

Mr. Macdonald's only immediate survivor is a daughter, Mrs. Henry J. Whigham of New York and Southampton, L. I. His wife, the former Miss Frances Porter of Chicago, died six years ago.

Charlie Maconald, as he was known to several generations of golfers, was one of the earliest proponents of that ancient game in this country. Of Scottish ancestry and educated at the university at St. Andrews, Scotland, site of the world's most famous golf course, he came naturally by his love for the game.

Although his parents were naturalized Americans, he was born at Niagara Falls, Ont. After his education abroad he entered the stock brokerage business, in which he was engaged all his active life. In Chicago and on Wall Street he was known as a daring speculator, especially back in the palmy days of the Exchange when the great figures of the Street gambled in tens of thousands of shares in a single sale.

CLAIMED CHICAGO CLUB OLDEST

It was as an amateur golfer and a golf-course designer that he was best Chicago Golf Club, which he founded at Belmont, near Chicago, was the oldest club in this country. Others made this claim for St. Andrews Club, Hastings, N.Y., which was founded by John Reid. Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Reid were for years friendly rvials over this claim.

In 1894—the year before he won the first championship—Mr. Macdonald's Belmont club was moved to Wheaton, Ill, and there he laid out what is considered the first real golf course. During the next forty years Mr. Macdonald devoted his life to the advancement of golf, and was instrumental in the founding of many clubs and the designing of many courses.

His greatest achievement, which helped revolutionize the ancient game in this country, came in 1907, when he had the idea of producing an ideal golf course with every one of the eighteen holes a first-rate test of golf. Previously such a course had never been constructed, either here or abroad.

In Britain the best courses were creations of nature, mostly laid out on the dunes along the coast. Although each course boasted twelve to fourteen magnificent holes, even St. Andrews and Prestwick had several indifferent holes. When Mr. Macdonald broached his idea of improving on nature to Horace Hutchinson at a Hoylake championship meeting, the famed English golfer was frankly skeptical.

COPIED BRITISH COURSES

Mr. Macdonald, however, toured all the English and Scottish courses and surveyed their finest holes, making blueprints of them. He built, upon his return, the National Golf Links of America on the Shinnecocks Hills on Long Island, but he did not lay out a course of eighteen reproduced holes, because he found that nature on Long Island made some better than he could have imported.

Seven of the National holes are copied, or partly copied, from holes abroad. These include the famed Redan of North Berwick; the Eden and the seventeenth of St. Andrews, and the Alps of Prestwick. Each hole of the eighteen devised by Mr. Macdonald presents a golf problem, whether imported or not.

The fame of the National spread, and soon Mr. Macdonald became in great demand as a consultant.

"I do not think he ever turned a request down," his son-in-law, H. J. Whigham, said yesterday, "but it was physically impossible for him to lay out all the courses, so he generally put the matter in the hands of Seth Raynor, a surveyor of Southampton, who had never seen a links or swung a club before he helped read the blueprints of the National for Mr. Macdonald."

BUILT FAMOUS COURSES

Mr. Macdonald's courses stretch from Long Island to St. Louis and from the Green Mountains to Florida. Perhaps the most famous are Lido at Long Beach, Piping Rock and the National Links, all on Long Island; the great course at Yale, and the remodeled course of the Chicago Club at Wheaton, Ill.

Another outstanding achievement, and his last, was when Mr. Macdonald persuaded the Furness Withy Steamship Company to buy a stretch of beach at Bermuda and lay out the Mid-Ocean Golf Course, one of the world's most beautiful.

Mr. Macdonald's championship came to him in 1895, the year after the United States Golf Association was formed by Theodore A. Havemeyer, Mr. Macdonald and others. The match was played at Newport, R. I., and Mr. Macdonald defeated C. E. Sands, 12 and 11. In 1894 two unofficial tournaments were held—a 36-hole medal play event at Newport won by W. G. Lawrence and a match play event at the St. Andrew's Club, in which L. B. Stoddart defeated Mr. Macdonald 1 up.

In 1928 he published a book of reminiscences, entitled "Scotland's Gift, Golf."

France Leads China, 2-0 In Davis Cup Play

Domei Tsushin

PARIS, May 18—France today gained a commanding lead over China in the second round of European play in the Davis Cup competition when Christian Boussus and Destremeau defeated their respective Chinese opponents.

Kho Sin-kie, who faced the youthful Destremeau, lost a heart-breaking five-set match by the scores of 5-7, 6-3, 1-6, 7-5, 6-0. Boussus had little trouble in disposing of Choy in four sets, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

Kho Sin-kie, it was recalled, recently won the British Hard Court Championships.

YATES IS OFF FOR ENGLAND TO DEFEND TITLE

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 22—America's annual golf invasion of Great Britain began yesterday when youthful Charlie Yates, Atlanta bank employe, sailed on the Queen Mary of the Cunard White Star Line.

Accompanying Yates, who was hailed as "Bonnie Prince Charlie" following his triumph over his Irish opponent, Cecil Ewing, in the British amateur championship at Troon, Scotland, last year, were Trailer Bill Holt of Syracuse and Francis Ouimet and Bill Danforth of Boston.

They will be followed shortly by another formidable candidate for the honors Yates will be defending at Hoylake, Liverpool, during the latter part of May. Dick Chapman of Greenwich, who went to the quarter-finals of the British amateur two years ago and was a semifinalist in the United States amateur last year, expects to sail on May 3.

OUIMET NOT TO PLAY

Of those who departed yesterday, only Yates and Holt expect to play in the championship. Ouimet, twice winner of the American title and captain of last year's Walker Cup team, which was downed for the first time in history, plans to be a spectator this year.

Yates's triumph in last year's championship made history, for it marked the first time that an American had ever been victorious on his first attempt.

At the time he sailed last year as a member of the Walker Cup team, Yates's prospects of returning with the cup were regarded as remote by most golf observers, who expected the winner would be Johnny Goodman if it was to be anybody on the team.

But as the week of the championship wore on, one after another of the Americans was eliminated until finally only Yates was left. And then, in the final, he beat Ewing and became the fifth representative of American golf to win the title, the others being the late Walter J. Travis, Jess W. Sweetser, Bobby Jones and Lawson Little.

POPULAR WITH SCOTS

Perhaps no other victory was ever as popular as that of Yates, who amused the Scottish galleries with his ever-ready wit, his Southern drawl and his method of play.

He takes little or no time at all to play his shots, and nothing seems to disturb him. So far as he is concerned, golf is still a game and not a grim business.

Prior to sailing yesterday he would make no predictions as to his chances in this year's championship.

So far the only American who has repeated in the British amateur is Little, who did so in 1935.

BENTLEY WINS ENGLISH AMATEUR GOLF CROWN

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT
The Times, London

LONDON, May 1—A. L. Bentley beat W. Sutton in the final round of the English Amateur Championship by five up and four to play over 36 holes at Birkdale on Saturday.

It was not by any stretch of imagination a great match because Sutton, usually the sternest and most rugged of fighters, was far below his best form. He depends a great deal on his ability to bob up at a crisis with a pitch and a putt, and this time the pitches would not go dead and the putts would not go in. Bentley played, on the whole, very steadily and more than well enough to win. He is not very long, but he hits the ball with plenty of dash; he is a good iron player and a most trustworthy putter in a style that reminds one of his more famous brother in that his knees are not too near the ground. He is, incidentally, one of the very few good putters I ever saw who, after his addresses to the ball, broods motionless over it till one doubts whether he will ever hit it. Handsome is as handsome does, however, and he hits the ball at last freely and truly. In addition to these technical qualities he has shown all through the week an ability to get himself dauntlessly out of trouble, and he seems always to have a little something up his sleeve. This is, perhaps, the most important attribute of a champion, and Bentley certainly deserves his honors.

LACKING IN COLOR

I hope it is not a jaundiced or hypercritical view that the first round was just a little dull. The play, if not excitingly good, was not bad, it lacked fire and color and dash. Incidentally, the fact that the players, though steady drivers, are not, judged by modern standards, long, made one appreciate the exacting nature of some of the two-shot holes which became in effect two and a pitch. At any rate, whether or not it is unjust to the players, one did long for a crowded hour of Crawley or Stowe. The start was interesting enough. With both players on the first green in the regulation 3 Bentley holed from 12ft. or 15ft. for a 4 and took the lead. He won the second, but here he was lucky, as, for his second shot, the ball steered its way miraculously down a path between two bunkers on the right of the green, whereas Sutton's kicked rather unfortunately into the left-hand bunker, and this was one of the things that count two on a decision. Bentley missed a chance of being three up at the third, Sutton in turn let his man off at the fourth, and so we settled down to a jog trot.

To be sure Bentley got a really good 4 at the sixth when he played a fine bold brassey shot over the hill tops and then holed a curly putt, but a rather lamentable half in 6 at the eight brought the game down to a pedestrian level, and another half in 5 at the ninth did nothing to help. Bentley, three up at the turn, took three putts from close to the hole and lost it, and Sutton, cheered by his first win, holed two nice putts to halve the 11th and win the 13th respectively. That was down to one, and Sutton apparently had the long 14th in the hollow of his hand. He seemed to hit the ball perfectly well in playing his run up, but it pitched on a soft spot and stopped very short. This mishap he followed by weak putting and let Bentley get a hard and ill-deserved half. It was obviously a mistake, for it must have been valuable to him to get the match square, but how bad a mistake it was we were now to see. Bentley, who has always got a spurt in him, won the 15th in 4, Sutton missing a short putt, and then holed a really long one of nine or ten yards to win the 16th likewise in 4. He added still another at the 17th with a 3 which was nearly a 2, and ought to have been five up at the last, where he dragged a 4ft. putt right across the hole. Still, four up was a lead to encourage a serene and confident lunch.

The scores were:—

BENTLEY
Out: 4, 4, 5, 4, 4, 4, 3, 6, 5
Home: 5, 4, 5, 4, 6, 4, 4, 3, 5
SUTTON
Out: 5, 5, 5, 4, 4, 5, 3, 6, 5
Home: 4, 4, 5, 3, 6, 5, 5, 4, 5

A CROWD OF ONLOOKERS

The second round had a crowd to watch it, and they were no doubt delighted that the gallant sticking power of Sutton, combined with a little faltering by Bentley, prolonged the match when it was to all intents and purposes over and it would have been well if the agony could have ceased. If Bentley got a good or even a steady start the match was his, and he started bravely with a perfect 4 to be five up. Sutton got the next, but again Bentley gained a hole at the fourth and the fifth was halved, and by this time every hole halved was for Bentley a hole gained. Sutton played the sixth splendidly and got his 4, but at the next three holes he made mistakes of various degrees of turpitude and lost all three to be seven down at the turn. Bentley ought to have been eight up at the 10th, when Sutton entirely missed his second, but he insisted on hitting his enemy's ball not once but twice on the green, and this hole was halved in 5. The 11th was halved. Dormy seven.

Sutton never gave up trying for an instant, and his perseverance was rewarded, for he won the next two holes with courageous putts and so carried the match past the 13th green, which is the ideal stopping place close to the clubhouse. Off the spectators had to troop down the long 14th, farther and farther from home with every step, but if it is a long hole it is also a good one to halve in 5. That Bentley did, and if he had doubtless been feeling a strong desire to kick himself he did not show it, but finished calmly and quietly as he had played throughout.

The scores were:—

BENTLEY
Out: 4. 5, 5, 3, 4, 5, 3, 5, 4.
Home: 5, 4, 5, 4, 5.
SUTTON
Out: 5, 4, 5, 4, 4, 4, 4, 7, 5.
Home: 5, 4, 4, 3, 5.

A CLOSE PLAY IN VARSITY LEAGUE

Leftfielder Kato of Meiji thrown out attempting to steal second in the first inning against Keio Sunday. Keio won 5 to 2.

KEIO DEFEATS MEIJI NINE, 5-2; TEIDAI TOPS HOSEI BY 5 TO 4

Two timely hits by Miyasaki and Kakehi aided Keio to score four runs in the lucky seventh and beat Meiji, 5 to 2, Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Thus did Keio avenge its 4 to 3 defeat on Saturday afternoon. By virtue of this defeat, Meiji out to win its fifth straight title, was virtually thrown out of the race with three defeats and two ties.

Tokyo Imperial University (Teidai) shoved Hosei deeper into the cellar of the standings of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league by winning 5 to 4 in the day's curtain-raiser. Their scheduled game for Saturday having been postponed because of rain, the two teams were to meet at 2:30 p.m. today in their second clash.

The bespectacled righthander, Takagi, was considerably responsible for Keio's victory with his brilliant pitching. He yielded but four hits and walked only three men.

Righthander Fujimoto engaged in a pitching duel with Takagi in the first five innings. An error by himself of Miyasaki's bunt in front of the plate and a bad throw subsequently by Shortstop Oki to third in an attempt to nab Miyasaki allowed Keio a run in the sixth.

Little backstop Inouye started the ball rolling for Keio in the seventh with a Texas Leaguer over first. He went to second on Takagi's sacrifice. Mizuno struck out. Fujimoto messed up Nezu's grounder. Miyasaki singled to left to bring in Inouye. Nezu stole third with Odate at bat. The latter finally walked to fill the bases. Kakehi came through with a timely hit to center to score Nezu and Miyasaki. Shortstop Oki muffed Iijima's fly and Odate also tallied. The scoring stopped when Uno lined out to Oki.

A five-run rally in the fourth inning won for Teidai against Hosei. Tobita started with a hit to right. Mizutake followed with a single to left. Yamamoto lifted a Texas Leaguer over second and Tobita scored. Morishita replaced Southpaw Akaneya on the mound. Ota walked to fill the bases. Tamaki doubled to left to clear up the bags. Hibino popped out but Pitcher Yutani singled to right to bring in Tamaki for the fifth run.

Left fielder Kato's triple to left center with two men on off Pitcher Shiraki in the eighth turned what seemed certain defeat for Meiji into victory on Saturday. Keio had been leading 3 to 0 up to the eighth.

FUTABAYAMA ONLY WRESTLER UNDEFEATED

Grand Champion Futabayama virtually clinched the championship of the current 15-day Summer sumo tournament on Sunday, the 11th day, by defeating the strong Tamanoumi with ease for his 11th straight victory. He alone is undefeated in the "makunouchi" or top ranking circle. All others have been defeated at least twice and even if Futabayama should lose twice in the next four days, and that seems hardly probable, he would still be awarded the championship because of seniority in rank.

Tamanoumi had defeated Futabayama in the January tournament but he never had a chance on Sunday. Although he succeeded in getting a good hold hold, Futabayama promptly shoved him out of the ring. On Saturday, Futabayama avenged his defeat in January by Kashimanada. The only other wrestler now who vanquished him in January is Ryogoku but the latter has been demoted and the two will not meet during the current tourney.

AKINOUMI BEATEN

Akinoumi, who stopped Futabayama's winning streak over three years last January but lost to him on Friday after a torrid bout, suffered another setback on Saturday, outsmarted by the veteran Tatekabuto. Akinoumi, however, defeat-Tsurugamine on Sunday.

The most thrilling bout on Sunday was that between Champion Mayedayama and Haguroyama, the latter only a rank below the former. These two are evenly matched. Mayedayama finally won by crushing Haguroyama outside the ring.

Grand Champion Minanogawa suffered his third straight defeat when Tamanoumi outpushed him and threw him out of the ring on Saturday.

The results of the principal bouts on Sunday follow:

Banshinzan defeated Mutsunishiki.
Fujinosato defeated Wakanami.
Sagamigawa defeated Ayanishiki.
Matsunosato defeated Terukuni.
Tomoegata won by forfeit from Yamatoiwa.

CUNNINGHAM EXPECTED TO RACE BRITISH CHAMP

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 24—Don't sell Glenn Cunnigham short in his duel with Sydeny Wooderson.

The modest Kansan has a habit of winning those races he sets his heart on capturing. And there's no reason to believe he won't go after Wooderson in the Princeton mile June 17.

They never have met. Wooderson holds the world (outdoor) mile record of 4:06.4. Cunningham had chopped it to 4:06.7. Cunningham sped a mile in 4:04.4. indoors—the fastest ever recorded for a human—but only outdoor mark are recognized as world records.

FOUR-MINUTE MILE

Track experts hope the duel will wipe out the Englishman's 4:06.4; possibly answer the query Glenn's own speed first raised: "Can anyone run a four-minute mile?"

Gayle Talbot, Associated Press sports writer who saw Wooderson grow from an unknown to world record holder, picks the Englishman.

"The frail looking Londoner," he wrote, is "capable of beating . . . Cunningham any time he meets him in a special race."

The reticent Kansan appeared unimpressed today. He said, "Sure, Wooderson may win"; even listed reasons why he, Cunningham, did not expect to be at his peak June 17. Chief of them was:

WORK INTERFERES

"You've got to train to a fine edge for a match race and I can't. My work (extension agent for Kansas University) keeps me traveling too much. You can't train in an automobile."

Take heed, Mr. Wooderson. When Glenn tells why he won't win, you may be certain he'll run one of his best races.

Talbot credited the Briton with as much stamina as Cunningham; with a greater burst of speed at the finish.

So how will Cunningham race Wooderson? Will he try to run him into the ground in the first three quarters? Or will he discount Talbot's estimate and try to win with his famous "kick" in the final furlong?

ALL DEPENDS

"I don't know," said Glenn. "It will depend largely upon how I feel. If I'm right, I'll run my own race. If he can beat that he will win."

Cunningham, racing outdoors the first time this season, defeated Chuck Fenske, the former Wisconsin ace, in the disappointing time of 4:29.2 at the Kansas Relays here Saturday.

But don't take that as a hint the Kansan's slowing up. With a 12-mile wind blowing, Cunningham let Fenske set the pace until the final 100 yards. Then he sprinted to victory.

Cunningham ran the final quarter in 58 seconds. There, Mr. Wooderson, is the tipoff. Glenn still can run—when he needs to.

ENTRY CONFIRMED

PRINCETON, N.J., April 24—Official confirmation of Stanley Wooderson's acceptance to run in the sixth annual Princeton invitation track meet has been received from E. J. Holt, Honorary Secretary of the British Amateur Athletic Board, it was announced here yesterday.

A. Kenneth Fairman, Princeton University Graduate Manager of Athletics, said also that three other outstanding milers had been invited to run against Wooderson. They are Glenn Cunningham, Charles Fenske, Wisconsin; and Louis Zamperini, of the University of Southern California.

Wooderson will sail from Southampton, England, on June 7 and arrive in New York June 12.

Henkel Is Defeated By Polish Ace In 5 Sets

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, May 26—In the lone second round singles match played today at Brussels, the Belgian player A. La Croix swept through Ghaus Mohammed of India in four sets, 6-1, 6-3, 5-7, 6-0.

At Warsaw meanwhile, the match between Henner Henkel of Germany and Tloczynski of Poland, which was halted yesterday after the completion of three sets, was finished, the Polish ace winning in five sets.

When the match was called yesterday, Tloczynski was leading 6-4, 6-8, 6-4. Resuming play, Henkel took the next set at 3-6 to square the game count, but lost the fifth set and match. The scores were 6-4, 8-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Yoshioka Beaten First Time in 10 Years; Team to Germany Picked

Ryutoku Yoshioka, hitherto known as the fastest sprinter in the Far East barring none, was defeated in the 100-meter dash for the first time in 10 years Saturday at the Meiji shrine stadum in the trials for the track and field team to be sent to Germany this Summer. He placed fourth.

Winner was Masao Yazawa of the Japan Broadcasting Corporation in 10.6 seconds. Kin of Chosen and Kaneda of Keio placed second and third.

Members of the team to go to Germany were selected as follows:

Masao Yazawa (Japan Broadcasting Company), sprinter.

Iwao Mayeda (Kwansai Gakuin graduate), pole vault.

Hiroshi Tanaka (Waseda), pole vault and high jump.

Sanichi Okamoto (Fushun), high jump.

Kin Gen-Gon(Keijo), hop step and jump.

Kamakichi Oshima, manager.

It Happened on Mohawk Road

A local missionary was walking along Mohawk Road near the race course and, noticing a little boy of the lower class, went up to him, patted him on the back and said:

My son, you are a smart little fellow and you have a bright future before you. Why don't you go to one of the camps for children? Everyone has an equal chance—you have a chance, too."

"Mister," the boy replied to the Chinese-speaking missionary, "I'll sell you my chance for 20 cents."

California Oarsmen Easily Beat U. C. L. A.

LONG BEACH, Calif., April 21—California's greatest crew in six years sounded another cry, "On to Poughkeepsie!" today as the Golden Bears from Berkeley rowed to a victory over the University of California at Los Angeles by seven lengths over a 2,000-meter course.

Tuning up for the race at Poughkeepsie, the California shell, victor over Washington last Saturday, moved into a quarter-length lead in the first 500 meters in Long Beach Marine Stadium and increased the margin to a length and a half at the 1,000-meter mark. The Berkeley crew was three lengths in front at 1,500 meters.

The Uclan boat caught a partial "crab" 250 wards from the finish and the California beat dwindled from 31 to 32 as it crossed the finish line in 6 minutes 18.5 seconds. The Uclans' time was 6 minutes 44.3 seconds.

Coach Ky Ebright used the same crew which defeated the Huskies.

100,000 SEE F.A. CUP FINAL AT WEMBLEY

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Times, London

LONDON, May 1—Portsmouth beat Wolverhamptotn Wanderers in the final of the F.A. Cup at Wembley on Saturday by four goals to one in the presence of the King and Queen and about 100,000 spectators.

A score of four goals is unusual in the Cup final, but Portsmouth were well worth every one of them. Wolverhampton started off with the rush that was expected by those who had prophesied their victory and forced a corner in the first minute of the game. Portsmouth, however, refused to fight on the defensive, and before many minutes had passed the strength of their half-back line began to make itself felt, and that strength was decisive. The quick, hard, terrier-like tackling of Guthrie, Rowe, and Wharton threw the Wolverhampton attack completely off its balance, and only very occasionally did the Wolverhampton line bring off those smooth, rhythmic movements which have earned the team renown as well as goals this season. All through the game Portsmouth played the better balanced and more methodical game. Their making was close and intelligent, and behind that splendidly sure and aggressive half-back line were a goalkeeper who never looked like making a shadow of a mistake and two backs who covered one another with perfect understanding. Barlow at inside-left was one of the most accomplished players on the field, and it was his astute passes which again and again set the Portsmouth line going, while Worrall's speed, footwork, and general football craft were a constant menace to the left wing of the Wolverhampton defense.

NEVER MASTERS

Of Wolverhampton it must simply be written that inspiration eluded them and that they were never really the masters of themselves or their nerves, to say nothing of Portsmouth. Cullis, although he strove valiantly in the second half to rally the side for a forlorn hope, was strangely uncertain of himself in the earlier stages of the game, and this uncertainty affected the whole scheme of the defense. The defenders individually did some good things every now and again, but the defense, as a whole, lacked the cohesion of that of Portsmouth. It was often drawn out of position and the Portsmouth players were generally given too much room in which to maneuver. The Wolverhampton half-back line was too hard pressed to give its usual help to the forwards, and, when it did get the ball forward, it found a line at sixes and sevens with itself. Burton and Maguire were nothing like so effective as Worrall and Parker and the inside forwards showed a disquieting tendency to bunch. A team plays as well as the other side allows it to do, and the simple truth is that on Saturday Portsmouth hardly allowed Wolverhampton to play at all. Wolverhampton, it is true, contributed to their own undoing, but it must have been desperately hard to play against a team as confident as Portsmouth were.

It was a day straight out of Winter with a cold, showery north-easterly wind, but Cup-final crowds do not let details like the weather upset them, and the community singing went with all the familiar Wembley swing. The turf was, of course, spotlessly green, and for some time before the kick-off it was pleasantly decorated by the bands of the Royal Marines, the Irish Guards, and the Welsh Guards. The King received a great welcome when he went out to the two ranks of players, and punctually at 3 o'clock the game began.

THE PLAY

Guthrie won the toss, but the wind was inclined to swirl and was of no great use to anyone. Wolverhampton, as has been stated, forced a corner in the first minute, and were generally aggressive, but Portsmouth were the first team really to settle down, and once the first few minutes were over there was little trace of nerves in the game they played. They produced sound, solid footaball, altogether too sound and solid for a young Wolverhampton side which plainly felt the greatness of the occasion. Once Cullis misjudged a pass back, Scott came out of goal but never got to the ball, and the general panic that momentarily affected the Wolverhampton defense was symptomatic of much of their football. Barlow once worked his way over to the left and got in a shot Scott did well to catch, but at the other end the Portsmouth defense blundered for once in its life and Dorsett found himself through. He tried a low cross-shot but did not really hit the ball and Walker was able to save although he had to concede a corner in doing so. Portsmouth opened the score after half an hour's play. The ball was kicked down-field to Anderson, and Anderson in his turn pushed it forward to Barlow. Cullis could not intercept the pass, and Barlow, who was unmarked, steadied himself and then drove the ball deliberately high into the net. There was a moment when Wolverhampton showed a flash of their greatness and a glorious movement ended with Burton driving in a low shot which Walker saved cleanly, but there was no sort of doubt as to which was the better side, and, just before the interval, Anderson scored a second goal for Portsmouth. Anderson, after having one shot intercepted, managed to fasten on the ball again, and, although Scott, who seemed to misjudge the whole position, got his fingers to the ball, he could not stop it from journeying to the back of the net. Portsmouth kicked off in the second half, and almost from the kick-off, they scored. Parker and Barlow took the ball cleverly down the field, Barlow shot hard, and Scott, who looked as though he should have saved, made a frantic grab at the ball while he was lying on the ground. It seemed that he might keep it on the right side of the line, but Paker rushed up and quickly settled any doubt there might have been.

To be three goals down in a Cup-final is enough to take the heart out of any side, and Wolverhampton deserve every credit for refusing to let it discourage them. Their football continued to have obvious weaknesses, but, with Cullis coming up to encourage them, they fought back with spirit and after seven minutes they scored. A close passing movement ended with Dorsett in possession of the ball and he scored with a fine cross-shot which gave Walker no chance. Had Portsmouth faltered it is possible that Wolverhampton would have found their real fire and that the game would have had a remarkable ending, but all through the match Portsmouth had played the kind of game that does not falter at the hint of a crisis. The half-back line remained magnificent in its ruthlessness, and Wolverhampton were never allowed to feel that their goal would have the slightest influence on the destiny of the game. Indeed Portsmouth added to their lead with a goal which was, perhaps, the best of the match. Barlow sent the ball out to Worrall. Worrall ran strongly down the touch-line and sent across a center which Parker met with his head, and the ball went past Scott as though he had driven it with his foot. Cullis, moving more and more up the field, kept Wolverhampton hard at it, but the battle was lost and won, and, judging by Cup-tie standards, a remarkably good and enjoyable battle it was, even although there was seldom any doubt as to which captain would receive the Cup from the King.

The teams were:—

PORTSMOUTH—Walker, goal; Morgan and Rochford, backs; Guthrie (captain), Rowe and Wharton, half-backs; Worrall, McAlinden, Anderson, Barlow, and Parker, forwards.

WOLVERHAMPTON WANDERERS—Scott, goal; Morris and Taylor, backs; Galley, Cullis (captain), and Gardiner, half-backs; Burton, McIntosh, Westcott, Dorsett, and Maguire, forwards.

Referee—T. Thompson (Northumberland).

DAY'S MOST THRILLING MATCH

Haguroyama (right) forcing Tamanoumi out of the ring after a nip and tuck battle Monday afternoon at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku.

KASAGIYAMA IS NO MATCH FOR GRAND CHAMP FUTABAYAMA

Kasagiyama, erstwhile Waseda University student and considered one of the most scientific wrestlers, tried his best but he was no match for Grand Champion Futabayama Monday afternoon at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku. As a consequence, the latter won his twelfth straight victory in the tourney which will come to a close on Thursday.

Today, Futabayama will take on Champion Mayedayama and is a big favorite to win. Wednesday, he should have no trouble defeating Champion Kagamiiwa, who already has been beaten eight times, and on Thursday he will meet Grand Champion Minanogawa in the climaxing bout of the tourney and is favored to win. Thus, all the indications are that he will go through the season undefeated to embark on another course of undefeated championships.

MAYEDAYAMA BEATEN

Up and coming Kashimanada, who is getting to look more like the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki as he picks up weight, scored an upset Monday by getting the jump on Champion Mayedayama and virtually catapulting him outside of the ring for a scintillating victory.

The most thrilling match of the day was that between Haguroyama, younger stable-mate of Futabayama, and Tamanoumi, ace pupil of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki. These two had engaged in a humdinger of a bout in January. So evenly matched were they that the bout finally had to be called a draw, which is most uncommon in sumo. This was almost duplicated on Monday. Each tried to throw the other but the other checked the attack. They were near exhaustion and they were given a minute's rest, or "mizuiri" in sumo parlance. When they resumed battle, Haguroyama, ever the aggressor, finally forced Tamanoumi out of the ring.

Grand Champion Minanogawa showed himself well worth a grand champion by checking Akinoumi's powerful drive and to shove him out of the ring by sheer strength of his immense arms.

DEWAMINATO WINS

Dewaminato outsmarted Kagamiiwa by beating him to a body throw.

The results of the principal bouts follow:

Takanobori defeated Banshinzan.
Tomoegata defeated Sakuranishiki.
Sagamigawa defeated Wakanami.

Miss Sumiko Kamo, 17, Wins Kanto Women's Singles Tennis Title

Seventeen year-old Sumiko Kamo, a student of the Aoyama Jogakuin, is the new Kanto women's single tennis champion.

Miss Kamo won her first title in a tournament by defeating Mrs. Keiko Tomonaga of the Denyen Club in the finals of the annual Kanto championships Monday at the Denyen courts. The score was 6-4, 3-6 and 6-4. Mrs. Tomonaga was 1938 champion.

It was a case of all Keio University in the men's doubles semi-finals on Monday. The upshot of the competition of the four Keio teams was that Kagitomi and Tsuruta will meet Kusumoto and R. Yamagata for the title at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Kagitomi and Tsuruta defeated Fujikura and Yamakawa, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 and 7-5 while Kusumoto and R. Yamagata eliminated T. Yamagata and Kumamaru, 6-2, 6-3 and 7-5.

Fumiteru Nakano of Hosei University, a Davis Cupper and seeded No. 1, was to meet Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio University at 2 p.m. today for the men's singles championship.

FENSKE BEATS BORICAN IN 1,000-YD. RACE

N.Y. Times

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 29—Johnny Borican, spindle-legged Negro from New York, traveled 1,000 miles to test his famed legs in a special 1,000-yard race winding up the Drake relay carnival today and failed by three precious yards to triumph. Charles Fenske, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, outgamed and outfinished Borican in a thriller before a crowd of 13,000.

Fenske, rated as the chief rival to Glenn Cunningham as the nation's greatest miler, conquered the Negro in a stretch duel, covering the distance in 2:12.2. Borican, spurting into the lead from the inside lane, maintained his advantage until near the finish of the second turn over the 440-yard cinder oval, with Fenske always a stride behind him. Then the red-shirted former Badger poured on the heat and inch by inch began chopping down Borican's lead.

FENSKE PULLS AWAY

They ran shoulder to shoulder into the stretch turn and there Fenske began to pull gradually away. Driving his spikes into the cinders he settled the race, fifty yards from the finish. There was no doubt of his triumph then as Borican was tiring rapidly. Calvin Bell, of Rice, and Raymond Gahan, of Oklahoma, the other starters, never threatened the leaders. Fenske, who won the 1,000-yard championship here a year ago, beating Cunningham's time for the distance, was defending that honor. He failed however, by one and a half seconds to equal the time he hung up in the 1938 carnival.

Ohio State climaxed the day with a smashing triumph in the one-mile university relay, establishing a record of 3:14.1 to blot out the old mark of 3:15.4 made by the University of Iowa a year ago. The Buckeyes barely nosed out Louisiana State in a nerve tingling finish. Church, running as anchor man for the Southerners, in turn nosed out Iowa for second place. Church caught his Iowa rival in the last stride and fell over the finish line, face downward in the cinders, with the other straggling runners leaping over him.

THREE OTHER RECORDS BROKEN

The wind-up today saw three other carnival records ripped from the books, bringing the two days' total to seven. The Oklahoma Aggies started it by winning the four-miler relay in 17:29.6 to shade Missouri's mark of a year ago by five seconds.

A game quartet from George Pepperdine College, Los Angeles, smashed the next record by winning the two-mile college relay in 7:43.4, and the college first division one-mile mark fell when the Southwest State Teachers College four of San Marcos, Texas, sprinted the route in 3:17.5

Lilburn Williams, ponderous Negro from Xavier, of New Orleans, captured the shotput with a toss of 51 feet 3 inches. Bob Diefenthaler, of Illinois, took the high jump with a leap 6 feet 5⅝ inches, only three-eighths of an inch away from the seventeen-year-old record hung up by Harold Osborne, also of Illinois. Honors in the javelin throw went to Robert Waldram, of Missouri, who hurled the spear 202.04 feet.

Gregory Rice Notre Dame's middle distance runner, was the hardest worker of the carnival. He ran to a two-mile record yesterday. Today he handled the third half-mile in Notre Dame's two-mile relay victory and furnished anchor man Hester with the margin needed for victory. Rice also ran the anchor mile in 4:12.5 in the four-mile relay in which the Oklahoma Aggies set their record.

The summaries:

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Wolcott, Rice; second, Dismore, Tarkio; third, Gutting, Purdue; fourth, Wright, Oklahoma A. and M.; fifth, Smith, Wisconsin. Time, 0:14.4.

One-mile university relay—Won by Ohio State (Sulzman, Cooperrider, Howells, Lewis); Louisiana State, second; Iowa, third; Oklahoma A. & M., fourth; Rice, fifth. Time, 3:15.1 (new Drake record; old record 3:15.4 set by Iowa in 1938).

Pole vault—Padway, Wisconsin; Bryan, Texas; Stolburg, Marquette; Cassels, Chicago, tied for first at 13 feet 8 inches; Sargent, Iowa State; Dean, Notre Dame; Elvens, Drake; Davidson, Chicago; Thistlethwaite, Northwestern; Wonacott, Louisiana State, tied for fifth at 13 feet 2 inches.

High jump—Won by Diefenthaler, Illinois; 6 feet 5⅝ inches; Burke, Marquette; Williamson, Xavier of New Orleans, and Washington, Western Michigan Teachers, tied for second at 6 feet 3⅝ inches.

INFIELD ROLLER COSTS WARNEKE HALL OF FAME

N.Y. Herald Tribune

CHICAGO, April 29—Lanky Lon Warneke, St. Louis Cardinals' ace pitcher, missed out on no-hit baseball fame today by one scratch single as he whitewashed the Chicago Cubs, 2 to 0, in a masterful exhibition.

Stanley Hack, Cub third baseman, collected the only hit as the Arkansas hurler shut out the Cubs for the second time this season. It was the Chicago team's third straight loss.

Hack and Billy Herman, second baseman, were the only Cubs to reach first base, but only twenty-eight men faced Warneke, as Herman was thrown out attempting to steal after being hit by a pitched ball.

Only eighteen Cubs had faced Warneke in the first six innings when Hack came to bat at the start of the seventh. He hit a weak roller between the pitcher and first baseman, but the ball was traveling a little too fast to be fielded by Warneke. First baseman Johnny Mize fielded the ball, but Hack slid into first before Warneke could receive the throw.

Even then Warneke dropped the throw from Mize but Hack obviously had beaten the throw and his roller was scored a base hit.

The lapse failed to ruffle the Cardinal pitcher, who continued to mow down the opposing batters. The defeat was Bill Lee's second in as many days after winning his first two starts.

Mize opened the seventh with a single to left and Terry Moore followed with a double to the same territory. Mickey Owen lofted a sacrifice fly to Leiber, scoring Mize with the first run.

In the eighth the Cards got their second run on Enos Slaughter's single and Joe Marty's boot of Medwick's fly to right field.

German Track Team Not Coming In Fall

The Japan Track and Field Federation's plans for a German-Japan meet here in the Fall will not materialize.

The Federation received a telegram Monday from Germany that the invitation for dispatch of a team to Japan next Autumn could not be accepted for various reasons, but that a team could be sent next year after the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki.

YATES POPULAR AMONG BRITISH GOLF CIRCLES

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

The Christian Science Monitor

LONDON—Now, as a matter of course—or, rather, as a matter of a great many courses—we are moving forward into another British championship season of international golf. And a highly diverting one it promises to be. Commencing with the British Amateur Open at Hoylake, near Liverpool, on May 22 and following days. In connection with this event it is welcome news here that we may expect to see in action again the cheerful Young American who won the corresponding tournament at Troon (Scotland) last year—Charlie Yates.

Winning a championship of this kind is hard enough, but retaining one is harder, and Yates, if he manages to succeed a Hoylake, will become only the second overseas golfer credited with two consecutive victories in the British Amateur open. The first was Lawrie's victor in 1934 and 1935.

OPEN ON JULY 2

On the professional side of the game, here, international interest is delayed until rather later in the year. Until the "Open" comes along, July 2. This summer the chief tournament is to be decided on the most famous golf course in the world—the "classic" seaside links at the Scottish university town of St. Andrews, home of the Royal and Ancient Club.

The British "Open" is by far the oldest of championship golf competitions, and the prize originally was a challenge belt, given in 1860 by the Prestwick Golf Club. This trophy, it was decided, should become the personal property of the first man who could win it three times in succession. Well, Tom Morris, junior, celebrated St. Andrews character, did this—in 1868, 1869 and 1870— and in 1871 the competition did not take place. The following year, however, it was reinstituted, only this time, instead of a belt being awarded, a cup was put up by St. Andrews, Prestwick and Musselburgh, jointly, with the proviso that it should remain a challenge prize and never be won outright.

CHAMPIONSHIP COURSES

For a good many years the championship took place at one of the three places mentioned. Gradually the rota of courses for it was enlarged, and the latest addition was made only the other day when the Royal and Ancient Club announced its intention to stage the British Open next year at Birkdale, Southport. This brings the present-day list of British championship courses up to twelve. They are St. Andrews, Preswick, Hoylake, Royal St. George's, Birkdale, Muirfield, Deal, Westward Ho!, Troon, Lytham and St. Anne's, Carnoustie and Prince's, Sandwich.

The longest of all these is Carnoustie, which measures 7,210 yards, with Hoylake second (7,078). Birkdale, 6,815 yards, ranks only fifth for length, but it provides a most exacting test of play, a formidable feature being some big sand hills which have to be carried with a drive. This course was selected for the English native championship of 1939, starting April 24. The standard scratch score is 76, and the record round 70, by Arthur Padgham. The amateur "Open" next year, by the way, has been allotted to Muirfield, East Lothian, which has not had it since 1932.

TEIDAI MAKES IT 2 IN ROW OVER HOSEI

Tokyo Imperial University's baseball team defeated Hosei, 3 to 2, in eleven innings Monday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium to make it two straight victories in their series. It was the first time in 12 years that a Teidai team has done that to any opponent, and it marked the first time in years that a Teidai team has finished a season of the Tokyo Six University league without having to share the consolation honors of cellar champions. That seat goes this time to Hosei with eight defeats in as many games. Hosei will meet Rikkyo Saturday and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium to end its season but even if it should win both games, it would still be in last place.

The league standings follow:

	G	W	L	T	Points
Keio	8	6	2	0	6.0
Meiji	8	4	2	2	5.0
Waseda	6	4	1	1	4.5
Teidai	10	3	4	3	4.5
Rikkyo	8	3	3	2	4.0
Hosei	8	0	8	0	0.0

Righthander Keikichi Yutani established a record in the annals of the circuit by pitching all full ten games for Teidai. He was in brilliant form Monday and checked Hosei to five scattered hits, although it was his wild pitch in the ninth that enabled Hosei to deadlock the count at 2-all and force the game into extra innings.

Hosei got a man as far as third in the first half of the eleventh inning but Centerfielder Tagawa popped to first to retire the side.

Ota, Teidai leftfielder, worked Sato, who had replaced Morishita on the mound for Hosei at the outset of the ninth, for a walk in the last half of the eleventh. He was caught off first by Sato but he managed to reach second on the second baseman's error. Tajima fanned. But Sato lost his control and walked Hibino, Yutani and Kitano in a row to force in Teidai's winning run.

Kitano's timely hit to center with the bases filled brought in Teidai's two runs in the second.

Feller Strikes Out 13 as Indians Beat Tigers, 7 to 1

DETROIT, April 29—Allowing eight scattered hits and striking out thirteen batsmen, Bob Feller registered his third straight pitching victory of the season today as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 1.

The Indians scored all of their runs and nine of their thirteen hits off Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe in the first four innings. Rowe shut out the tribe at Cleveland last Sunday for his first major league victory since 1937, when he suffered an arm ailment.

Ken Keltner's triple with the bases full gave the Indians three runs in the opening innings.

COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR
By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Enko Vaccari

THE LONDON TIMES
LITERARY SUPPLEMENT

. . . this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.

A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.

Grammar: 15 x 22.1 cm, Pages 538, ¥12.00 and Postage
(with two large maps, one of Japan, and one of Tokyo)
Supplement: Pages 280, ¥5.00 and Postage

漢字カード

AN EASY METHOD TO LEARN CHINESE-JAPANESE CHARACTERS
By Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Vaccari

This new and unique publication is indispensable to students wishing to learn Chinese-Japanese characters methodically and quickly.

Every character, printed in large size in handwriting style on one side of a card, is given, in printed style, in combination with other characters, which combinations reproduce the essential Japanese compound words that are necessary to know in order to understand Japanese newspapers and books.

The compound words are given a progressive number, and on the other side of the cards the numbers are repeated with the pronunciation in Roman letters and the English translation of the compound words under consideration.

The cards are contained in a specially designed box.

MAIN FEATURES

1. The first publication showing how Chinese-Japanese characters are written with the brush (fude).
2. Containing 7000 compound words used in modern Japanese.
3. All characters have been given in the order of the progression of the number of their strokes, which is indicated on the upper edge of the partitions that divide the cards in the box.

Size of the cards 4 x 2¾ inches
Size of the box 9 x 6 x 4½ inches
NET WEIGHT 6½ lbs.

A NECKHOLD THAT FAILED

Champion Kagamiiwa attempted a neckhold but the strong Ryogoku, unperturbed, carried him out of the ring for victory in one of the sumo bouts Tuesday afternoon at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku.

FUTABAYAMA BEATS MAYEDAYAMA BUT ONLY AFTER A TORRID BOUT

Depending on the angle from which they saw the bout, many fans were of the opinion that Champion Mayedayama had beaten Grand Champion Futabayama in their match Tuesday afternoon on the 13th day of the 15-day Summer sumo tournament at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku. The referee, however, had ruled that Futabayama had won. Grand Champion Minanogawa, acting as a second then for Mayedayama, protested. The five judges deliberated and it was finally declared a no-match. In the new bout, though Mayedayama put up another grand fight, Futabayama finally shoved him out of the ring for victory.

Futabayama's course for an undefeated season seems virtually clear now. Today, he was to meet Champion Kagamiiwa and should have no trouble winning. Thursday, in the tourney's concluding bout, he will meet Minanogawa and is a hot favorite to win. He has already won the championship, which he relinquished to Dewaminato in January after a reign of three years.

A MORAL VICTORY

At any rate, it was a moral victory for Mayedayama. They stood up to do battle quicker than the average time consumed. Mayedayama thrust his right arm first and then his left through Futabayama's defense and started pushing with all his might. Futabayama checked it and swinging Mayedayama around in turn began forcing Mayedayama to the edge of the ring. When it seemed as if he would succeed in shoving Mayedayama out, the latter exerting all his strength in his arms, swung Futabayama's great body around and they both fell out of the ring, but Futabayama on the outside. The referee ruled victory in favor of Futabayama. The protest by Minanogawa then followed and the ruling by the judges that the two wrestlers should start anew.

In the new bout, Mayedayama again attained a good hold. But this time, Futabayama too succeeded in grasping Mayedayama's girdle. Mayedayama attempted to lift Futabayama but the latter checked it. They then stood motionless in the middle of the ring, each watching the other closely. The judges then allowed them a minute's breathing spell. After they had resumed their holds, they continued to be cautious. Seeing that the judges might call it a no-bout, Futabayama took the offensive and started a drive that Mayedayama could not check. In the end, Futabayama was too powerful for Mayedayama.

ANOTHER DISPUTE

The referee's decision was also disputed in the bout between Minanogawa and Nayoroiwa, younger stable-mate of Futabayama, immediately preceding the Futabayama-Mayedayama match. It was Nayoroiwa that executed the throw at the edge of the ring but the referee ruled Minanogawa had won. And it was Futabayama, acting as a second for Nayoroiwa, that protested. The judges finally ruled in favor of a new bout. This time, there was no question about it. Nayoroiwa had the jump on Minanogawa and promptly pushed him out of the ring.

The results of the principal bouts follow:

Tomoegata defeated Hatasegawa.
Aobayama defeated Sagamigawa.
Saganohana defeated Fujinosato.
Matsuriosato defeated Kuganishiki.
Minenobori defeated Dewanohana.
Ohshio defeated Jintozan.
Wakashima defeated Banshinzan.
Ayawaka defeated Takanobori.
Yamatonishiki defeated Shachinosato.
Ayanobori defeated Terukuni.
Banjaku defeated Akinoumi.
Kasagiyama defeated Ohnami.
Komanosato defeated Fujigadake.
Itsutsushima defeated Tatekabuto.
Kaneminato defeated Hishuzan.
Kashimanada defeated Tsurugamine.
Tamanoumi defeated Dewaminato.
Haguroyama defeated Ryuozan.
Ryogoku defeated Kagamiiwa.
Nayoroiwa defeated Minanogawa.
Futabayama defeated Mayedayama.

HARVARD WINS TRIANGULAR TRACK MEET

N.Y. Times

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 29—Harvard's track team easily defeated Holy Cross and Northeastern University in a triangular meet in the Stadium today. Harvard's score was 120, to 38 for the Crusaders and only 15 for Northeastern.

The Crimson freshmen also won their meet with 72½ points. Holy Cross tallied 56 and the Northeastern yearlings 36½.

DEAN'S MARK ECLIPSED

In the varsity meet, George Downing, football tackle, broke the Harvard 16-pound shot-put record with a throw of 49 feet. The old record of 48 feet 10¼ inches was made in 1934 by Johnny Dean, former football captain.

Downing also captured the discus throw and was one of three double winners in the varsity meet. In both events he triumphed decisively.

Donald Donahue of Harvard took both the 120-yard high hurdles and the 220 low. The order of finish in each was exactly the same, Harvard men sweeping all four places. Behind Donahue came Roger Schafer, Mason Fernald and William Laverack.

STANTON DOUBLE WINNER

James E. Stanton, Holy Cross middle distance ace, was the other double winner. He annexed the 880-yard run in the fast time of 1 minute 56.8 seconds and also was first in the three-quarter-mile race.

There were two events besides the hurdles in which the Crimson swept all four places. They were the discus throw and pole vault, and in the hammer throw and shotput Harvard gained the first three places.

LEG INJURY KEEPS DIMAGGIO OUT TEN DAYS

By RUD RENNIE

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, April 30—Misfortune came to the Yankees in the Stadium yesterday. They lost a ball game to the Washington Senators, and Joe DiMaggio, their star, was hurt and had to be helped off the field in the third inning. The muscles were torn from the bone of his right leg between the ankle and the knee.

Playing for the first time in four days, the champions were a little rusty and went down, 3 to 1. They made as many hits as the Senators—nine—but Ken Chase, a lefthander, was effective in the pinches and left twelve Yankees stranded on the bases.

So the Senators have the distinction of being the only team to hold a decision over the champions. They beat them once in Washington and again yesterday. And they won against the great Gomez.

YIELDS THREE IN FIRST

Gomez was belted for three runs in the first inning. He had not pitched since April 21, when he beat the Senators, 6 to 3, in Washington. It took him an inning to get warmed to his work.

In the opening frame Case and Gelbert singled. Estalella fanned. But Wright walloped a double into left field, knocking in two runs. Gomez slipped a third strike over on Myer and should have had the side out on a ball hit by Travis. Gordon, however, let a grounder get past him and Wright scored. Bluege also singled. And Rick Ferrell, the eighth man, came up before the Yankees got three out.

The Yankees got one of those runs back in the second. DiMaggio opened the inning with a single to center. Gehrig walked. Dickey popped up. But Gallagher same through with a hit, scoring DiMaggio. Gordon hit a long fly which looked like a home run until Estalella rammed the left field fence and caught it. Gomez ended this inning by striking out.

DIMAGGIO INJURED

Then on the first play in the third inning DiMaggio was injured. Estalella cracked a line drive into center field. DiMaggio started after the ball. He slipped and his spikes caught, throwing him onto his back. While he rolled to and fro, Estalella took three bases.

As soon as the play ended, Dr. Robert Emmet Walsh, the club's and players hurried to DiMaggio's aid. It was five minutes before he was hoisted to his feet. His right ankle hurt. Dr. Walsh thought he might have a fracture of the fibula and ordered him taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

An X-ray examination showed no break, but badly torn muscles, which will, according to Dr. Walsh, keep DiMaggio out for at least ten days.

DiMaggio blames a new set of spikes for the accident, saying that if they had been worn down, he would have slid and would not have got caught in the turf.

This is the fourth year in succession that something has kept DiMaggia from playing in the early days of the season.

KELLER MAKES DEBUT

When play was resumed, Charley Keller made his debut as an outfielder. He went to left field, Powell moving over to center.

With a man on third and none out, it seemed certain that the Senators would score, but they didn't. Gordon made a fast play with Wright's grounder to nail Estalella at the plate. And after Myer bunted safely and Travis was hit by a pitched ball and the bases were filled with only one out, Rolfe started a double play, ending an inning fraught with danger.

The champions had the misfortune of having Gomez at bat with two out and the bases filled in the fourth. Chase fanned Gomez for the second time. In fact, he fanned the side—Keller, Gallagher and Gomez—in this inning.

The Yankees had two on and two out in the fifth with Gehrig up, but Lou hoisted a fly to the center fielder. Chase was going strong. He fanned Rolfe in this frame for a total of six in the first five innings.

The Yankees continued to support Gomez like a favored child. Crosetti started a double play to help him out of the fourth and Dickey hopped on a grounder to end the fifth after Estalella had reached second on a single and Powell's error.

GOMEZ SINGLES IN SIXTH

Gomez came through with a single to keep the sixth alive, but again the Yankees were left with two on when Crosetti popped to center. And in this inning Chase added Gordon to his list of strike-out victims.

The hopes of the 11,473 Yankee rooters rose when Rolfe opened the seventh with a double, but the rally died when Gelbert made a hard stop of Powell's grounder and Chase used Keller's bouncer to trap Rolfe between second and third.

Buddy Rosar got into his first game as a pinch hitter for Gomez in the eighth, but did nothing more than force Dickey, who had walked, and end the inning.

Murphy retired the Senators in one-two-three order in the ninth.

The Yankees staged a little flurry in their last turn at bat. Wright fell down and was almost beaned by Crosetti's fly which went for two bases. Rolfe fouled out and Powell was thrown out by Chase. So it was up to Keller. He also grounded out. So the Yankees lost their first game in the Stadium and their second of the season.

British Judo Expert To Come for Training

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, May 22—Prevoor Pryce Leggett, 24-year-old graduate of the London University and one of the outstanding members of the European Ju-Jitsu Association, has accepted an invitation extended by the International Students' Association of Tokyo to go to Japan to perfect his judo technique, it was revealed today.

Mr. Leggett, who already has the ability of a fourth-ranker, will seek to improve his technique by training for approximately nine months at the Kodokan, famous Judo school in Tokyo.

Since judo will be included in the "Fitness Campaign" from next year, it is expected that Mr. Leggett will become a judo instructor upon his return here from Tokyo.

OREGON LOOKS FOR SUCCESSFUL FOOTBALL YEAR

Christian Science Monitor

SEATTLE—A thirtieth day hath September—all the rest they can't remember!

Such is the pilght of G. A. (Tex) Oliver and Alonzo (Lon) Stiner, the men who guide the destiny of Oregon's entries in the Coast Conference football race.

It seems the date Sept. 30 falls on Saturday, and is listed in the engagement books of these two gentlemen as the opening of the 1939 football season. Opening games are usually played against some small school that can furnish just enough competition to give the big school confidence and experience, but this is not possible in the full round-robin schedule of the eight-team Pacific Coast Conference.

OPEN SCHEDULES

Which long and windy dissertation brings us to what should have been said in 19 words—September 30: University of Oregon vs. Southern California at Los Angeles; Oregon State College vs. Stanford at Palo Alto.

The circumstance of opening the season against the Rose Bowl champions on a Los Angeles summer afternoon is fully recognized by the mentor who so successfully introduced the "Oliver Twist" in his first coaching season at Oregon. Thus Tex Oliver is holding turnouts only on days when the weather is favorable, and is attempting to squeeze the most from the new 30-day Spring practice, limited by Conference ruling.

RECORD TURNOUT

A record spring turnout of 66 men, including 18 lettermen, answered Oliver's first call on March 28. Strong points of the 1939 Web-foots appear to be fast and clever backfield men and a good first team. Gerald (Jay) Graybeal is the Oregon hope for a back that will lead them to a long-awaited championship. Graybeal is a triple-threat, two-year letterman with speed aplenty, and knows how to use it.

Also an outstanding man is Frank Emmons, two-year letterman fullback. Emmons weighs 215 pounds, but recently sprinted 50 yards in 5.7 seconds in full football uniform. Other backfield strength includes halfbacks Ralph Anderson, John Berry, Leonard Isberg, Donald Mabee, Douglas Caven, and Bob Smith; quarterbacks Dennis Donovan and Roy Dyer, a sophomore who has shown excellent blocking ability; and pile-driving Marshall Stenstrom at fullback.

VETERAN LINE

An all-veteran line of James Cadenasso, center; Ernest Robertson and Cecil Walden, guards; Ellroy Jensen and Merle Peters, tackles; and Vic Reginato and Robert Blenkinsop, ends; has been the No. 1 forward wall in practice.

Oregon won three games and lost four in Conference competition last year, and should be better in 1939. But lack of reserve strength should keep the Webfoots out of the Rose Bowl.

At Oregon State only 10 lettermen were counted among an opening turnout of 75 gridders, also a record number for Spring practice. The Kohler brothers, Morrie and Vic, and Jim Kisselburgh, return to lead the backfield men, and Leon Sterling Bob Pena, Leonard Younce, and John Tsoutsouvas are oustanding linemen.

DOUBT DEFENSE

It is doubtful, however, if Coach Siner can develop the defensive strength that made possible the splendid showing of 1938. The Beavers finished behind U. S. C. and California who tied for first, and lost by only one touchdown in their games with both leaders.

Coach Stiner is trying to give all of his numerous turnout an opportunity to show their ability. The short training period and the suddenness with which the 1939 season opens, bids no good for the Orangemen. Oregon State will have a hard time gaining the first division again this year.

* * *

Sideline Banter: In selling their young pitching star, Fred Hutchinson, the Seattle Rainiers did not lose favor with the home-town baseball fans. More than 13,000 Seattlelites filled the local ball park April 18 for the largest opening-day attendance in the Coast league this year . . . The predicted downfall of Washington rowing supremacy in the Coast regatta is now a thing of the past and Coach Al Ulbrickson is starting anew in building his Poughkeepsie crews. Many weaknesses were evident as the Golden Bear varsity swept to a seven-length victory, and at least three of the Husky first boat are due for a demotion . . . Northwest intercollegiate trackmen have been turning in some good practice results before the season opens Idaho's Phil Leibowitz ran a two-mile race on a damp track in 9m. 21s., and Oregon's Bill Brown tossed the javelin 230 feet one afternoon at Eugene.

The Place for It

A number of years ago Chief Justice Matthews, while presiding over the Supreme Court at Washington, took the several Justices of the Court for a run down the Chesapeake Bay. A stiff wind sprang up and Justice Gray was getting decidedly the worst of it.

Chief Justice Matthews touched him on the shoulder and said in a tone of deepest sympathy, "Is there anything I can do for you, Gray?"

"No, thank you," returned the Justice, "unless Your Honor can overrule this motion."

TSURUTA BEATS NAKANO TO WIN KANTO NET TITLE

Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio University, doubles partner of Jiro Yamagishi who recently joined the Navy and thus was the chief cause for Japan's withdrawal from the Davis Cup competition this year, won the singles title of the Kanto championships Tuesday afternoon at the Denyen courts. He did so by downing Fumiteru Nakano of Hosei University, Davis Cupper who had been seeded No. 1, but only after a torrid struggle that required a total of 58 games over three hours.

Over-cautiousness after he had taken the first two sets, 7-5 and 6-4 was the primary cause for Nakano's defeat. He lost the last three sets, 5-7, 4-6 and 6-8.

Nakano, instead of resorting to a hard smashing attack that had eliminated his opponents up to the finals, turned to a slicing game. In this, it must be admitted that he was considerably successful to take the first two sets. With this comfortable lead, it was expected that he would switch to his aggressive game, using his good forehand drive, but he continued with his slicing tactics. The consequence was that he began dropping games and Tsuruta had won the next two sets to put it on a 2-all basis.

Tsuruta was behind 5-3 in the third set but he rushed to the net, somewhat used to the prosaic game of Nakano, and ran it up to 5-all. Then he played with an abandon, resorting to dropshots and took the next two games and the set, 7-5.

Nakano's failure to resort to an aggressive game lost him the fourth and fifth sets, in which he had plenty of opportunity to win. The score of the fourth set, for instance, stood at 4-all, and he led at 5-4 in the fifth.

Tsuruta's courage, though behind by two sets at the outset, was an outstanding feature of the match.

LISTLESS BOUTS DISAPPOINT SUMO FANS

It would not be at all surprising if the directors of the Japan Sumo Association should decide to return to the 13-day tournament schedule for the next sumo season in January. Their decision for a two-day extension in the current tourney primarily to accommodate many disappointed fans in the past, as it was explained by the Association, has not been what one would call a success. Wednesday's bouts, on the 14th day, were said by the experts to have been the most uninteresting of the Summer season which ends this afternoon at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku. The wrestlers lacked enthusiasm, it was said. And then again, the first sell-out was registered only on the fourth day, in contrast to the daily sell-outs of the past 13-day affairs.

Grand Champion Futabayama defeated Champion Kagamiiwa with ease for his fourteenth straight victory, by shoving him out of the ring almost immediately after they had stood up to do battle. In the climaxing bout of the tourney today, Futabayama was a heavy favorite to down Grand Champion Minanogawa. And he would be off to a fine start for another long string of victories. It was Akinoumi who shattered his last string at 69 victories over a space of three years.

Even if Futabayama should lose today, he would still be ahead of the nearest competitor for the championship by three victories.

Grand Champion Minanogawa tasted his fifth defeat in the tourney when the strong Haguroyama, younger stable-mate of Futabayama, pumped his strong legs and forced him out of the ring.

TAMANOUMI BEATEN

The day's best bout was that between Champion Mayedayama and Tamanoumi, ace pupil of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki. It was a battle royal until Mayedayama finally lifted Tamanoumi into the air and carried him outside the ring.

The results of the principal bouts follow:

Sagamigawa defeated Mutsunishiki.
Matsunosato defeated Kaneminato.
Katsuragawa defeated Jintozan.
Komatsuyama defeated Dewanohana.
Wakashima defeated Shachinosato.
Ryogoku defeated Banshinzan.

Hishuzan defeated Saganohana.
Onami defeated Dewaminato.
Nayoroiwa defeated Yamatonishiki.
Mayedayama defeated Tamanoumi.
Futabayama defeated Kagamiiwa.
Haguroyama defeated Minanogawa.

AUSTRALIA HAS A GOOD CHANCE, SAYS BROMWICH

Christian Science Monitor

MELBOURNE, Australia — John Bromwich, Australian tennis champion, who was ranked No. 2 among the world's amateurs for 1938, believes that Australia possesses as good a chance as any other nation of winning the Davis Cup this year. He believes the Australian team should not have any great difficulty in getting through early rounds in the North American Zone.

The first match will be against Mexico, at Mexico City, on June 30. Bromwich played against Estoban Reyes in 1937, and retains vivid impressions of the Mexican champion's fast and sure footwork.

If the Australians are successful in Mexico, their next match will be against the Philippines, an unknown quantity. This match, Bromwich hopes, will be played in Washington.

Assuming that Australia and Japan fight out the final of the North American Zone, Bromwich feels that such opposition will be dangerous only if Yamagishi plays, and that it should result in an easy win for Australia if he does not. Last year, at Montreal, Yamagishi beat Bromwich, but lost to Adrian Quist.

Bromwich regards Nakano, Japan's No. 2 as steady without being formidable, and is of the opinion that Yamagishi and Nakano do not make a convincing doubles pair.

The Australian champion expects France to win the European Zone; he has a high regard for France's young pair, Destremeau and Petra, but would reconsider this prediction if there were any chance of Von Cramm playing for Germany.

He does not regard Great Britain's chances as very bright, even if Austin plays, since they lack a strong doubles pair. So, if Bromwich is correct, Australia will play France for the right to challenge the United States.

BROMWICH WINS

PERTH, Australia, April 25—John Bromwich beat Vivian McGrath, 6—3, 7—5, 6—3, in the final round of the city of Perth tennis championships yesterday.

It was Bromwich's last tournament before his departure with the Australian Davis Cup team to compete in the North American zone competition in the United States. The Australians will meet Mexico in the first round.

MORE THAN ARITHMETIC NEEDED IN BUILDING MAJOR LEAGUE NINE

By ROBERT F. KELLEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, April 16—This week marks the start of another season of baseball—that curious mixture of sport and big business that is the American national game. From the glittering, flag-bedecked concrete and steel grandstands of the sixteen major league cities, on down through the smaller stands of other cities, towns and hamlets, will come the cheers of multitudes as the traditional ceremonies of opening day are concluded and the umpire yells, for the first time: "Play ball."

The year 1939 is the hundredth anniversary of baseball and there will be extra-special events later, in many places, to commemorate the fact; but this added fillip is not needed to inspire fans, players or baseball managements. From the moment the pitcher winds up to toss the first ball across the plate until that time, months later, when the best of the nines meet in the World Series and the minor league championships there will be constant suspense. The question in all minds will be: "Can our team be a winner?"

This question was asked through the Winter in the Hot Stove League—that legion of baseball followers who can talk of nothing else in season or out. And now for almost two months it has been asked, with increasing anxiety, as reports have told of the Spring practice of the teams, mostly down South. From the training camps the big-league teams have worked their way slowly northward, playing exhibition games in town after town, and the nearer they have approached their own cities the greater has become the wish to see them in action against opponents of their own class.

So a circus-day excitement—complete with peanuts, pop bottles and hot dogs—grips baseball's own at the start of the season.

BURNING WITH CURIOSITY

The fan will be primed to learn at first hand whether the manager of his favorite team has strengthened the line-up since last season. He has followed the sports pages avidly as they told of this new recruit or that, tried out in the South and found to be "another Babe Ruth," "another Carl Hubbell," "another Charlie Gehringer." He knows the age, weight and previous condition of servitude of the new player, and now he is burning with curiosity to see him.

It is a rare opening day that does not see one of these new men, a tight feeling in his throat, walk from the dugout to the plate in the midst of applause that will turn to boos or groans if he strikes out.

He may endear himself before the afternoon is over, or fail dismally. But in either case his presence on the team is no accident. It is highly probable that the young man will have been for several years on the trail that leads to the batter's box at the Yankee Stadium, say or the Polo Grounds.

Time was, years ago, when a flower of the diamond could flash full-blown and with almost no warning into the big-league picture. But such things happen less frequently now. The construction of a big-league baseball team is today as nearly on a machine basis as it is possible to put anything whose chief stock in trade is a human being. The recruit who reaches the major league will have been caught at an exceedingly early age and carefully nurtured like a hothouse plant for years, ripened for the big show.

His first contact with professional baseball, very likely, will have been an interview with a scout. Scouts are usually retired ball players who spend their lives searching the country over for promising material. In the old days they looked for the more or less finished player, and were guided often by chance.

Chance still plays some part, but the scout system today is better organized. Moreover, the scout looks today for the sign of greatness in its beginning.

Various things have contributed to this change. Formerly, with nearly every boy in the land playing baseball, there was abundant material. Now, with golf, tennis and other sports competing, there are far fewer players.

Competition for good new men who will hold the fans' patronage is tremendous. It no longer is safe to leave prospects wandering about without strings attached. Somebody else will get them. The necessity of taking them young and giving them training has given birth to the chain system.

The major-league club is at the end of the chain. The prospect, according to his ability and age, is sent to one of the lesser clubs owned by the major one. As he improves he is advanced a bit to a club in a faster league. Eventually, if he really is top grade, he moves along to the major league.

A major-league club may have any number of minor-league clubs in its chain, depending upon its financial resources. In addition it may have "working agreements" whereby certain independent minor-league players, or two, may promise first choice of what they have to offer in the way of big-league prospects.

Since the big-league club has options on the services of all players in its chain, as well as of those under working agreements, it might be said to have signed up all of those players. The men themselves are bound; so strict is the baseball business code that they cannot try to break away to a team of their own choosing without sacrificing all of their future chances.

How thoroughly organized this system is can be gathered from the recent estimate of Larry McPhail of the Brooklyn Dodgers that of the 4,000 minor league players in action throughout the country about 2,500 are under option.

With such organization the scouts have a better chance than formerly of finding good material. It is almost impossible for a likely player to appear without being discovered by some one connected with one of the chains, who will tip off the major-league "ivory-hunters."

A good deal of attention is paid by scouts to schools and colleges, for there is an outside chance that they will discover "another Bob Feller." Feller, the great pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, was discovered in an Iowa high school; he continued to carry his books on road trips with the team, for his father insisted he must not fail to graduate.

RECRUITS IMPORTANT

The recruit, of course, will be only a small part of any baseball club as it starts its season. But he will be an extremely important part, for constant replacement is needed to keep a major-league team at anything approaching top form.

The manager who builds a team sucessfully will one day see it blaze into greatness; yet as a great team its average life will be only four years. So the manager begins major changes before the crack-up occurs.

The less skillful manager will discover suddenly that the great team has lost its greatness, that another has stepped over it to the top. The more skilled will be on guard against that. As an expert he will notice one day that his shortstop is missing by inches balls to his right that he used to gather in. That means a slowing up. While the player still gets the cheers of the less observant fans the manager is beginning to look for a replacement.

Then, at the end of the season, he must have a good idea of what was most wrong with his team. Did it need more hitting power, and to get that should he sacrifice perfect fielding if necessary? Was pitching at fault? Did the weakness lie in the "lifeline of a ball club"—catcher, pitcher, second basemen, shortstop and centerfield? Will a new player or a veteran obtainable through a trade help most?

Many of these decisions have to be made in Spring training camp after the manager has had a fresh look at his veterans and an opportunity to size up the new material sent to him for a tryout.

Spring training lasts about six weeks. At the beginning it is mainly limbering and bodybuilding exercises, designed to take the Winter stiffness out of muscles. This includes calisthenics and running. Then, for a week or so, the camp will be like a country town sandlot, with games of catch, one-old cat and, finally, intrasquad games of six or seven innings. Eventually the training season games with other clubs start, followed by the exhibitions on the way home.

During the regular season, except for possible morning practice ordered if the team is in a slump, the players are mainly left to keep themselves fit.

For the 154 games of the regular season the major-league salary of $6,000 to $7,000—enough to attract many college men who hope that a year or two of this may give them enough of a nest egg to set them up in business later.

The really top flight players, if they are with a prosperous club, may make $15,000 to $35,000 a year. Babe Ruth, the biggest single gate attraction baseball has ever had, once drew a salary reputed to be close to $80,000.

The player buys, from his own pocket, his gloves and his shoes. Everything else needed on the diamond is provided for him, and while he is on the road his travelling expenses are paid and he gets a fixed sum each day for food.

The publicity he gets helps to swell his earnings. His name and fame are no detriment to his selling engaging in the law while he is playing baseball. There will be products he can endorse for a consideration. Perhaps there will be stage appearance or a movie. Radio offers another source, and there are the inevitable owners—Joe DiMaggio and his fish house in San Francisco, for example.

If the player himself would seem to be a business man, this is in keeping with the nature of organized baseball. It is an enterprise figuring in gigantic sums.

Even the ball itself is a major item. Those round, leather-covered things, which the man in the bleachers feels he can honestly keep for himself if a fly is knocked into his lap, cost the clubs $15 a dozen. Most clubs use between 500 and 600 dozen balls a year; one year the Cubs used 748 dozen.

4 SETS OF UNIFORM

Each club has four sets of uniforms, two each for home and on the road, with about twenty-five in each set. These cost about $30 apiece.

Then there are huge outlays to the railroads. Counting the Spring training trips and the swings around the circuit in the regular season, major teams average 100,000 miles, and there are from thirty to fifty individuals in each party.

Most clubs have about $300,000 invested in players. They must supply groundkeepers at the parks, police, ushers, ticket sellers, ticket takers and ticket printing—no small items. Each club must pay a percentage of the upkeep of the league office; one year the National League office cost $260,000 to maintain.

The real estate and plant investment may reach $3,500,000, which is the replacement estimate on the Cubs' plant in Chicago. There are some considerably less than this. Most clubs have about $500,000 invested in their franchise.

Finally there will probably be an overhead operating loss on the chain system of $50,000 or so. A successful year in a minor-league club will cut this down considerably, but most minors have a hard time of it nowadays.

Altogether, a team like the Cubs will have, perhaps, more than $6,000,000 invested. Guessing at $4,000,000 as an average for the sixteen major-league clubs and at about $100,000,000 for the rest of baseball, one may estimate with reasonable safety that $164,000,000 is invested in this sport.

Yet, with all of this, baseball is a paying concern in most of its big centers. To meet expenses there are, first of all, the gate collections for the seventy-seven home games. In a "crucial series"—one in which the team's ranking in the league may change—a park the size of the Yankee Stadium may be jammed daily. That means the better part of 200,000 customers at an average of a dollar apiece in four days alone. Then there are the road trips. A team gets a percentage, usually 25 per cent, of the gate money of games played away from home.

In some cities, rental of the parks for prize fights, football games and special events helps very materially. There are also the food and drink concessions, worth thousands of dollars. When it is realized that the plans for a season's eating in the ball parks envision frankfurters by the ton and soft drinks by the thousands of gallons, the monetary value of the concessions can be understood. Some clubs, notably in New York, sell these concessions; others operate them.

Philippine Davis Cuppers Win Tilts At Koshien

Davis Cup players from the Philippines, Anpon and Sanchez, won their singles exhibition matches Wednesday afternoon at Koshien, near Osaka.

Anpon took the measure of Kodera, 6-3, 3-6 and 6-0, while Sanchez defeated Kuwabara, 2-6, 6-4 and 6-1. Both Kodera and Kuwabara are members of the Koshien Tennis Club.

Horikoshi and Ubara of the Koshien Club defeated the Filipinos, 6-1 and 6-0, in the doubles.

The Philippine Davis Cuppers were scheduled to play this afternoon at the Denyen courts in Tokyo. Yasuo Tsuruta and Fumiteru Nakano, winner and runner-up respectively Tuesday of the singles of the Kanto championships, were to oppose the visitors in the singles. Tsuruta and Kagitomi were to play the doubles.

The Philippine stars are en route to the United States to play in the American zone of the Davis Cup competition.

RIGGS DEFEATS SABIN IN FINAL AT HOT SPRINGS

By FRED HAWTHORNE

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 29—Robert L. Riggs, formerly of Hollywood, Calif., and now of Chicago, won his first leg on the famous challenge trophy at the Hot Springs Golf and Tennis Club this afternoon. In the final-round match of the annual invitation men's singles, Riggs turned back the challenge of Wayne R. Sabin, of Portland, Ore., 6—3, 9—7, 8—6.

In the final-round match of the women's doubles Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, of Beverly Farms, Mass., and Miss Eliza Coxe, of Asheville, N. C., defeated Miss Florence Leboutillier and Miss Margot Lee, of Washington, 8—6, 3—6, 9—7. In the final set Miss Lee and Miss Leboutillier were twice within a single point of winning the match.

Walter L. Pate, captain of the Davis Cup team, was an interested onlooker as Riggs and Sabin went through their struggle. Riggs had previously beaten Sabin in five sets at Chattanooga and at Asheville last week. Today he accomplished the same goal in three sets, so that on clay surfaces, at least, he appears to have pretty definitely established his superiority over his rival.

After winning the opening set Riggs trailed at 1—4 in both the second and third sets, but each time he pulled himself out of the danger zone by some of the most dazzling play seen on American courts since the national singles at Forest Hills last September. Sabin was within two points of winning the final set and also was within easy reaching distance of the second, only to be turned back, either by his own errors or by some supershot from Riggs's racquet.

Both men were hitting at a fast clip today and both made sensational recoveries of shots that seemed impossible to return. Each brought the trapshot into play with conspicuous success and employed slashing cross-court volleys that wrought the gallery up to big tension.

Germany Beats Poland In Davis Cup Play

Domei Tsushin

WARSAW, May 23—By winning the unfinished singles match which was halted yesterday because of darkness, Germany today eked out a 3-2 victory over Poland and advanced into the third round of the European zone of the Davis Cup competitions.

Picking up the match in the third game of the third set, where play was called yesterday, Henner Henkel, veteran German ace, defeated Baworowski, of Poland, scoring a straight-set victory, 6-4, 6-2 and 6-4.

HAGEN SPEAKS ON GOLF, OLD AND MODERN

NEW YORK, April 26—Though he's celebrating this Summer the twenty-fifth anniversary of his first national open golf triumph, Walter Hagen still gets the light of battle in his eyes at suggestion there is a new breed of "supper-golfer" trodding the fairways these days.

Specifically, the Haig thinks he and the Bobby Jones of a decade ago could have trimmed the current crop of hotshots, with their stroke-saving sand wedges, their "40-mile" golf balls and their neatly manicured courses that never give a bad lie.

"Do I think Bobby and I could have held our own in a series of matches with Ralph Guldahl and Sammy Snead?" gasped Walter. "Why. I'll tell you what. If Bobby would be willing to take off a year from business right now and get himself in shape for a match with those fellows, I would do it, too—no fooling."

STILL SHOOTING SOUNDLY

Walter sounded exactly like he meant it, and he probably did. He's still shooting sound golf, despite handicaps, and never a golfer lived had the gall and confidence of the old master.

"Sure, they're shooting a little better average scores than Bobby and I did in our prime," he conceded. "But that doesn't mean anything. This sand wedge they're using now is enough to account for the difference by itself, not to mention that the modern ball rolls 30 or 40 yards further.

"Why, when I think of the ability Jones had in those days and the confidence I had, I don't see how any of these kids could have beaten us. We had to have more courage than they need nowadays to win, and I'll tell you why.

SAND WEDGE HELP

"With this sand wedge in their bags the kids don't have to be scared of traps. After knocking their drives a country mile they can shoot right at the pin with their seconds every time. So they get lots of short putts and lots of birdies. They know if they do hit a trap they still can scrape the ball out with their wedge and probably get a par, anyhow. Anybody can bang the ball with confidence now.

BETTER PUTTERS

"It took nerve when Bobby and I shot at the pin when there were traps only a few yards in front of it. We knew if we fell short we had lost two or three strokes, maybe a tournament. When we played safe and shot at the back of the green we usually had much longer putts. We had to be good putters. I'm positive Bobby and I could have outputted any two you name of the present top crowd.

"I don't know whether Bobby and I drove quite as well as Guldahl and Snead do these days. Certainly not as far, but most of that is due to the new ball. I can get out there now and drive this rabbit pill as far as I was hitting them 25 years ago. That can't be me, so it must be the ball."

NUMEROUS TITLES

In passing, and not necessarily to clinch his argument, Walter mentioned that he had won the British open four times, the U. S. open twice and the P. G. A. match play title five times. He wouldn't even guess at how many championships Bobby, his potential partner against the upstarts, had salted away in his time. "Thousands, anyhow," he said.

"Let's give these boys a little more time to see what they can do about winning championships," he suggested. "Bob and I want a real run for our money when we challenge 'em to that match."

ON ANOTHER UNDEFEATED STRING

Holding the giant championship trophy with a big grin is Grand Champion Futabayama, surrounded by his ardent admirers Thursday afternoon after he had beaten Grand Champion Minanogawa for his 15th straight victory.

FUTABAYAMA WINS CHAMPIONSHIP OF SUMO TOURNEY FOR 6TH TIME

Attacking with both hands, Grand Champion Futabayama promptly shoved Grand Champion Minanogawa out of the ring Thursday afternoon in the climaxing bout of the 15-day Summer tournament of the professional long-haired sumo men at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku to win the championship with an undefeated record. Thus did Futabayama, who had established an all-time record in sumo annals with 69 consecutive victories over three years up to the fourth day of the tournament last January, set up another record. The tourney ending Thursday was the first to be held over a 15-day period. It was Futabayama's sixth championship, five having been consecutive until Dewaminato replaced him in the January season.

Grand Champion Minanogawa, biggest of them all, was determined to win, out to redeem himself for his five defeats. But he never had as much a chance of grabbing Futabayama. No sooner had the two stood up than Futabayama attacked with both hands. Minanogawa retaliated but Futabayama had more power in his pushing and the giant body of Minanogawa was forced out in no time.

HAGUROYAMA WINS

Haguroyama, younger stable-mate of Futabayama, put himself in line for promotion to "ohzeki", or champion, rank below grand champion, by defeating Kasagiyama, erstwhile Waseda University student, for his eleventh victory.

Nayoroiwa, another younger stable-mate of Futabayama, had tough luck. He too was headed for promotion to "ohzeki" but he lost to Dewaminato for his fifth defeat in the tourney. Dewaminato, the more experienced, was a bit too smart for him. As they rushed at each other, Dewaminato hooked his right leg onto Nayoroiwa's left and resorted to a throw, putting all the pressure he could toward crushing Nayoroiwa's back. Nayoroiwa attempted desperately to break the leg hold but Dewaminato would not let it go and down went Nayoroiwa. The latter lost when he could not thrust his left arm through Dewaminato's defense for a grip on the girdle.

Champion Kagamiiwa was no match for the younger Champion Mayedayama. It was Kagamiiwa's 11th defeat out of 15 bouts. Having had a poor season also in the January tournament, he announced his retirement Thursday night. He is 38.

Also competing for the last time Thursday was Takanobori, who once rose as high as "sekiwake" or third rank below grand champion. With a giant physique, he was at one time looked as a future grand champion, even possibly as one of the greatest of grand champions, but he suffered an injury to his arm two years ago from which he has never recovered. Thursday, he lost to Komanosato.

The results of the principal bouts follow:

Matsuragata defeated Banshinzan.
Komatsuyama defeated Fujinosato.
Sagamigawa defeated Katsuragawa.
Taikyuzan defeated Tsurugamine.
Tatekabuto defeated Dewanohana.
Jintozan defeated Shachinosato.
Wakashima defeated Fujigadake.
Ayawaka defeated Tomoegata.
Terukuni defeated Ryogoku.
Matsunosato defeated Banjaku.
Ohshio defeated Yamatonishiki.
Ayanobori defeated Saganohana.
Akinoumi defeated Asahikawa.
Komanosato defeated Takanobori.
Kaneminato defeated Ryuozan.
Aobayama defeated Hishuzan.
Ohnami defeated Kashimanada.
Tamanoumi defeated Itsutsushima.
Dewaminato defeated Nayoroiwa.
Haguroyama defeated Kasagiyama.
Mayedayama defeated Kagamiiwa.
Futabayama defeated Minanogawa.

BUDGE GIVEN GOLDEN LAUREL OF N.Y. FAIR

By ALLISON DANZIG

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 2—The World's Fair did honor to the world's foremost tennis player yesterday, when J. Donald Budge of Oakland, Calif., received the Golden Laurel for the outstanding contribution in the world of sport in 1938.

The presentation was made by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, acting in behalf of Grover A. Whalen, as the climatic event on the dedicatory program at the World's Fair Court of Sports, arranged by Director Christy Walsh.

Babe Ruth, Jimmy Crowley, Herb Kopf, Benny Friedman and representatives of the Giants, Yankees, Dodgers and colleges of the East and South were among those who participated in the ceremonies. Also in attendance were Big Bill Edwards, Julian Curtiss, Edgar Garbisch, Dan Ferris, George Jacobus and Charles Taussig.

The award was made following the raising of the college standards on the twenty-two flagpoles encircling the Court of Sports. The presentation was held up in the expectation that Mr. Whalen, engaged at the dedication of the League of Nations Building, would put in an appearance. But a strong wind came up suddenly, bringing the threat of rain from dark clouds, and Director Welsh and Captain Rickenbacker, successor of the late Colonel Jacob Ruppert as chairman of the Sports Committee for the Fair, decided that it would be imprudent to risk any further delay.

TAKES DAY OFF FROM TOUR

Budge took the day off from his tour with Fred Perry to receive this additional testimonial to his pre-eminence in the field of sport. In 1937 he won the Sullivan Trophy as the outstanding amateur athlete of the country, and that year and in 1938 also he was voted the No. 1 athlete, amateur or professional, in nation-wide press polls.

Captain Rickenbacker congratulated the red-headed Californian for his selection by his fellow-sportsmen as the athlete who had made the biggest contribution in 1938. Budge led all others by many votes. No official tabulation was announced, but it is understood that he received 181 ballots and that his closest rivals among the thirty who received mention were Johnny Vander Meer, Davey O'Brien, Glenn Cunningham, Henry Armstrong, Joe Louis, Joe McCarthy, Jimmy Foxx and Sam Snead.

Budge made a short speech of acceptance, expressing his feeling of honor and gratitude in being chosen for such a prize. After posing with Ruth and Captain Rickenbacker for news photographers and movie cameramen, he hastened back to New York and then left for Newark to fly to Buffalo, where he played Perry last night. Budge said that after they had fulfilled their remaining engagements, ending in White Plains May 8, he would sail with Ellsworth Vines and Lester Stoefen for England. There they will pick up William Tilden and go on a world tour that will not end until February.

400 WITNESS CEREMONIES

A crowd of approximately 400 attended the ceremonies on the stretch of greensward alongside the Academy of Sport Building, which will be the repository of many famous trophies when it is completed. Coaching schools will be held there, starting Saturday. Captain Rickenbacker was introduced by Walsh as the master of ceremonies and in turn introduced the speakers, Ruth, Crowley and Bunp Hadley of the New York Yankees.

The general theme of the speeches was the contribution of sport to the development and upbuilding of character and the virtues that make for good citizenship, as contrasted to the regimentation of youth for militaristic purposes. Hadley was called on to speak for the flag raisers in the absence of Ensign A. B. Yeates of the Navy.

Among those who represented their colleges in the flag-raising were Cadet Captain H. Riggs Sullivan of the United States Military Academy, Mike Hearn of Fordham, Howard Brill of N.Y.U., Jack Wright of Columbia, Jerry Fall of Manhattan, Pincus Sober of C. C. N. Y., Douglas Cochran of Princeton, Paul Gillespie of Yale, Francis H. Appleton of Harvard, J. Speed Elliott of Virginia, Dennis O'Brien of Brown, W. C. Holden of North Carolina, Thomas McCutchen of South Carolina, Walter J. Cowan Jr. of Pennsylvania, Frederick McKenzie of Georgia, Thomas Ryan of Delaware and L. D. Oberlin of Maryland.

Blue Peter, 7-2 Odds, Captures English Derby

Domei Tsushin

EPSOM DOWNS, May 24—As thousands of rabid racing fans including members of the British Royal House looked on, Blue Peter, favorite and quoted at seven to two odds, romped home four lengths ahead of Fox Club, rank outsider, to capture the English Derby.

Third place was taken by Heliopolis, another outsider quoted at 100 to 9. She was three lengths behind Fox Club. Twenty-seven horses participated in England's premier racing classic.

PHILIPPINE DAVIS CUPPERS LOSE MATCHES

Although beaten, Felicisimo Ampon and Amando Sanchez, Philippine Davis Cuppers enroute to America, made an impressive showing in their exhibition matches Thursday afternoon at the Denyen courts here.

Fumiteru Nakano, member of last year's Davis Cup team for Japan and who would be competing this year as well but for Jiro Yamagishi's enlistment in the Navy, defeated Sanchez, 6-3 and 9-7.

Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio University, who early this week defeated Nakano in the finals for the Kanto singles championship, took the measure of Ampon, 6-4 and 6-4.

Tsuruta and Kagitomi took the first set in the doubles, 6-1. Ampon and Sanchez were leading 4 to 2 games when the match was called because of the sudden downpour.

The Filipinos gave a good exhibition of tennis despite suffering from lack of practise.

Tsuruta and Kagitomi won the doubles title for men in the Kanto championships Thursday morning by triumphing over Kusumoto and Yamagata, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5 and 6-1, at the Denyen courts. Both teams belong to Keio University.

FINLAND PICKS WRESTLERS FOR 1940 GAMES

The Finnish Wrestling Federation has already nominated its Olympic candidates, three for each class. The list is as follows:

GRECO-ROMAN

Bantamweight—K. Kiisseli, V. Perttunen and A. Halonen. Perttunen was the Finnish representative at Berlin in 1936 and was European Champion in 1937 and 1938.

Featherweight—E. Hjelt, K. Krankkala and Y. Salonen.

Lightweight—L. Koskela, A. Soini and A. Panttila. Koskela won this weight at the Berlin Olympic Games and has been European Champion three times. Soini, however, wrested the championship of Finland from him in 1939.

Welterweight—E. Virtanen, J. Kinnunen and T. Lempinen. Virtanen, who is a brother of the famous long-distance runner, Lauri Virtanen, was third in the 1936 events.

Middleweight—A. Pikkusaari, A. Hautalammi and A. Vanhanen.

Light Heavyweight—M. Mansikka, I. Kallio and E. Harma.

Heavyweight—Hj. Nystrom, Y. Turja and U. Vento. Nystrom won a silver medal in the 1928 Games and also represented his country at Berlin.

FREESTYLE

Bantamweight—A. Jaskari, M. Laine and A. Halonen. Jaskari took a bronze medal at Los Angeles in 1932.

Featherweight—K. Pihlajamaki, E. Hjelt and A. Ranta. This will be Pihlajamaki's fifth Olympic Games. In 1924 he was gold medallist in the Baritamweight, and in 1928 silver medallist in the Featherweight class. At Los Angeles in 1932 he was unplaced, but at Berlin in 1936 he again won a gold medal. He has held 10 European championships and is now 37 years of age.

Lightweight—U. Hirvilammi, P. Pihlapamaki and A. Ranta.

Welterweight—J. Pietila, A. Pihlajamaki and A. Maki. Pietila was a member of the 1936 Finnish team.

Middleweight—M. Lahti, J. Jussero and N. Juvonen.

Light Heavyweight—K. Luukko, P. Mellavuo and M. Mansikka. Luukko was third in the Middleweight at Los Angeles.

Heavyweight—V. Perakorpi, Hj. Nystrom and P. Mellavuo. Nystrom was bronze medallist at Berlin, where he competed in both Greco-Roman and Free Style.

The Finnish coach is the former champion wrestler A. Reini, who won the silver medal in the Featherweight at Berlin in 1936 and has also been champion of Europe at this weight. The Freestyle competitors will be coached by A. Jokinen, another former champion, who has been a professional wrestler in America.

Between 1906 and 1936 Finnish athletes won in all 21 gold medals at this class of sport and intend to make every effort, now that the events will be held at home, to add to the number.

WOODRUFF IS BRILLIANT STAR IN ANNUAL PENN RELAYS

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, April 29—The space-eating stride of Ol' John Woodruff devoured stretches of Franklin Field cinders at a prodigious rate before 30,000 awed spectators today, and Pittsburgh made Penn Relay history.

With the Olympic 800-meter champion ripping off a sizzling 220-yard leg, the Panthers won the 880-yard sprint championship and smashed the carnival record. Then, just as the sun broke through a barrier of clouds at the very end of the program, Ol' John nonchalantly strode through an 0:47.4 quarter to give Pitt the classic mile crown in the magnificent time of 3:14.8.

This was the forty-fifth Penn Relay extravaganza and in almost half of century here no college team ever has run a mile as fast as the Pittsburghers did today. Furthermore, they not only established new marks in both of their triumphs today but they shattered all precedent by winning four of the eight major championships in the two-day meet, a position of dominance never attained before in this ancient show.

THREE-SCHOOLBOY RECORDS

Yet for all of their brilliance the Panthers could not quite steal all the spotlight although they came close to it—because the record harvest was a bumper crop. Seven marks fell today and one was equaled—two being credited to Pitt, three to schoolboys, two to colleges in minor races and one to an individual.

Still, the one indelible picture that the spectators took away with them was of the lean 6-foot 4-inch Negro with the nine-and-a-half-foot stride gliding over the black cinders with such grace that he scarcely seemed to be trying.

Woodruff really gave the fans a thrill on his anchor leg of the mile relay. He was touched off fifteen yards ahead of Warren Breidenbach of Michigan, which is akin to donating a dollar to the Federal Treasury. In spite of that the Wolverine climbed up Ol' John's back in the far straightaway and for a moment it looked like a race.

The Mid-Westerner cut the fifteen yards to five. Then the selfstyled Ol' John stopped fooling. Like a cat with a mouse he let Breidenbach stay there until the homestretch was reached before putting on the pressure. There was no stress and no strain, just a terrific speeding up.

N.Y.U. TEAM IS THIRD

The Wolverine was anchored to the track as Woodruff regained his full fifteen-yard lead at the wire. Michigan, naturally enough, was second in 3:16.4 and N.Y.U., chiefly through a fine anchor leg by Jim Herbert, third, with Princeton, Cornell and Fordham well behind.

Pitt's 3:14.8 erased from the books the 3:15.4 that Penn's wonder four of Horace Steel, Jake Edwards, Jimmy Healey and Bill Carr posted seven years ago. And the man who was almost equally responsible with Woodruff for the damage was Frank Ohl, the Panther workhorse.

Ohl ran on all four of the Pitt winning quartets. Woodruff was on three, as were Al Ferrara and Larry Tregoning. Art Thomas was on two and Clyde Graf on one. The order for the mile today was Ohl, 0:49; Ferrara, 0:49; Graf 0:49.4, and Woodruff, 0:47.4.

It was Ohl as the lead-off man who broke up the race. He got away on top of the field of eight as N.Y.U. and Fordham, two chief contenders, were buffeted in the scramble. He gave Ferrara a 12-yard advantage over Michigan and there it styed until Ol' John received fifteen. That was at least fifteen yards more than he needed.

CORNELL CRACKS RECORD

The Pitt miracle workers started their operations in the morning when the 880-yard preliminaries and final were held. The first heat saw the Cornellians serve warning on the Panthers that they were dangerous by shattering the carnival record of 1:26.6 with a 1:26.5 performance.

The Pitt boys breezed through a 1:27.1 heat and then really fired away in the big test, Ohl, Ferrara, Tregoning and Woodruff rode out in front all the way.

Ol' John, a half-miler who does about everything except collect tickets at the gate, ripped off a dazzling 220-yard leg. He started two yards ahead of his pursuers and finished four yards in front as the Panthers were clocked in 1:25.9 for a new meet record. Some day some one is going to make the giant Negro hustle, but no one has done it on cinders so far.

Cornell was second and New York University third, with Villanova bringing up the rear. John Nevius of the Ithacans came whirling up from third place to wrest runner-up honors away from Harold Bogrow of New York.

The Rideout twins, one hale and hearty and the other limping as the result of a spike wound yesterday that required three stitches, broke the four-mile relay race into neat little pieces to win in 17:25.0, the second fastest time in the history of the meet. It had been feared for a while that North Texas State would be forced to default but Wayne staggered through a 4:16.2 mile leg to settle the issue early.

MANHATTAN IS SECOND

He handled the second leg, took off twenty-five yards behind and passed the stick forty yards in front. By the time Blaine stepped up to the line the only doubt left was the margin of victory. Twin No. 2 unreeled a 4:13.5 effort to make it 120 yards over Manhattan with the Jaspers a similar margin over fading Michigan.

The first and third legs were run by Harvey Bryant and Jack Sahling, each of whom did 4:28.6.

When Wayne broke up the test, Sahling held fast to most of his advantage to simplify things for Blaine, who didn't need too much help anyway.

The Manhattan quartet of Joe Moclair, Bob Conkling, Bob Hoolahan and Andy Neidnig stayed up all the way and did well in handing highly regarded Michigan so bad a beating. Moclair had the fastest leg with 4:25.

Up to this point in the proceedings every major championship had been won by either Pitt or North Texas. That monopoly finally was broken in the two-mile title test, although a contributing factor that deserves to be mentioned is that neither Pitt nor North Texas competed, the Panthers holding out for the mile so that there would be no chance of a slip.

Thanks to a magnificent homestretch sprint by Curtis Giddings, New York University took the two miles in the excelient time of 7:45, second fastest in the annals of the carnival. Driving desperately with all he had in the final fifty yards, Giddings beat back the bid of Mel Trutt of Indiana to triumph by the scant margin of two feet.

Emil von Elling's youngsters won because they had marvelous balance. Myron Bresnick did 1:57.1, Dave Urbach 1:57.2, Jim Herbert 1:56 and Giddings 1:54.7. Rarely does one find a team with such even performances.

Because of them, the New York team was in the lead at every touch, although the last one was cut so fine that Trutt beat Giddings to the pole in the first few yards. Then it was a brisk battle all the way, with Tom Jester of Michigan right up with them until the final brush. He faded although he held fast to third place. Yale was fourth. Fordham, one of the favorities, merely used the race for a workout when Joe Fay failed to get up among the contenders on the first leg.

Just as every one expected, Virginia took the 480-yard shuttle hurdles relay for the second straight year because it had the best timber-topper in the meet in Frank Fuller. The Dixie combination trailed both Penn and Cornell right to the final touch.

The two Ivy League teams broke away from the barrier first, but Bill McCawley of the Quakers stumbled over the third stick and Fuller streaked to an easy victory over Eric Schwartz of Cornell by five yards. The time was 1:01.5; good but not gaudy.

SETON HALL CUBS WIN

The freshman mile relay race was broken into two sections and the places allotted on a time basis. Seton Hall's combination of Larry Wolczuk, Chet Macieski, Jack Graham and Charlie Lipski took the first heat from Georgetown and Penn State in 3:24.2. The second went to N.Y.U., with Fordham and Georgetown following. The final order became Seton Hall, N.Y.U. and Fordham.

Feature of the individual events was the fleet 100 yards by Mozel Ellerbee of Tuskegee, the national collegiate champion, who streaked over the cinders to a smashing three-yard victory over Kenny Clapp of Brown in the gorgeous time of 0:09.6 to equal the carnival record.

Best of the field event performances was a hammer throw by John McLaughry, Brown football captain and son of the Bruin gridiron coach. The big fullback tossed the weight 169 feet 53-16 inches.

Nick Vukmanic of Penn State repeated in the javelin throw with 207 feet 3¼ inches, while Anson Perina of Princeton dethroned Bill Watson of Michigan in the broad jump at 24 feet 9¼ inches.

Dick Ganslen of Columbia took the vault at 13 feet 6 inches and Ted Leonas of Notre Dame the high jump at 6 feet 4 inches.

Sea Otters

Ahead of some 100 sea otters—a species once nearly extinct—valued at $150,000, recently appeared off California and is being guarded day and night by a patrol. Sea otters, dark brown animals about four feet long, were numerous in the 18th century but were slaughtered in such numbers for their valuable pelts that no large herd had been seen since 1831; no single otter had been reported off the west coast of the United States since 1917. Scientists believe that the newly discovered herd is descended from a few survivors of the mass slaughters of 1786 and 1831, and has been hiding all these years in the unfrequented coastal waters south of Monterey.

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

DETROIT, May 2—Lou Gehrig's matchless record of uninterrupted play in American League championship games, stretched over fifteen years and through 2,130 straight contests, came to an end today.

The mighty iron man, who at his peak had hit forty-nine home runs in a single season five years ago, took himself out of action before the Yanks marched on Briggs Stadium for their first game against the Tiger this year.

With the consent of Manager Joe McCarthy, Gehrig removed himself because he, better than anybody else, perhaps, recognized his competitive decline and was frankly aware of the fact he was doing the Yankees no good defensively or on the attack. He last played Sunday in New York against the Senators.

When Gehrig will start another game is undetermined. He will not be used as a pinch-hitter.

The present plan is to keep him on the bench. Relaxing and shaking off the mental hazards he admittedly has encountered this season, he may swing into action in the hot weather, which should have a beneficial effect upon his tired muscles.

DAHLGREN GETS CHANCE

Meanwhile Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgren, until today baseball's greatest figure of frustration, will continue at first base. Manager McCarthy said he had no present intention of transferring Tommy Henrich, the youthful outfielder whom he tried at first base at the Florida training camp. Dahlgren had been awaiting the summons for three years.

It was coincidental that Gehrig's string was broken almost in the presence of the man he succeeded as Yankee first baseman. At that time Wally Pipp, now a business man of Grand Rapids, Mich., was benched by the later Miller Huggins to make room for the strapping youth fresh from the Hartford Eastern League club to which the Yankees had farmed him for two seasons, following his departure from Columbia University. Pipp was in the lobby of the Book Cadillac Hotel at noon when the withdrawal of Gehrig was effected.

"I don't feel equal to getting back in there," Pipp said on June 2, 1925, the day Lou replaced him at first. Lou had started his phenomenal streak the day before as a pinch-hitter for Peewee Wanninger, then the Yankee shortstop.

This latest momentous development in baseball was not unexpected. There had been signs for the past two years that Gehrig was slowing up. Even when a sick man, however, he gamely struck to his chores, not particularly in pursuit of his all-time record of consecutive play, although that was a big consideration, but out of a driving desire to help the Yankees, always his first consideration.

TREATED FOR AILMENT

What Lou had thought was lumbago last year when he suffered pains in the back that more than once forced his early withdrawal from games he had started was diagnosed for which Gehrig underwent treatment all last Winter, after rejecting a recommendation that he submit to an operation.

The signs of his approaching fade-out were unmistakable this Spring at St. Petersburg, Fla., yet the announcement from Manager McCarthy was something of a shock. It came at the end of a conference Gehrig arranged immediately after McCarthy's arrival by plane from his native Buffalo.

"Lou just told me he felt it would be best for the club if he took himself out of the line-up," McCarthy said following their private talk. "I asked him if he really felt that way. He told me he was serious. He feels blue. He is dejected.

"I told him it would be as he wished. Like everybody else I'm sorry to see it happen. I told him not to worry. Maybe the warm weather will bring him around.

"He's been a great ball player. Fellows like him come along once in a hundred years. I told him that. More than that, he's been a vital part of the Yankee club since he started with it. He's always been a perfect gentleman, a credit to baseball.

"We'll miss him. You can't escape that fact. But I think he's doing the proper thing."

LOU EXPLAINS DECISION

Gehrig, visibly affected, explained his decision quite frankly.

"I decided last Sunday night on this move," said Lou. "I haven't been a bit of good to the team since the season started. It would not be fair to the boys, to Joe or to the baseball public for me to try going on. In fact, it would not be fair to myself, and I'm the last consideration.

"It's tough to see your mates on base, have a chance to win a ball game, and not be able to do anything about it. McCarthy has been swell about it all the time. He'd let me go until the cows came home, he is that considerate of my feelings, but I knew in Sunday's game that I should get out of there.

"I went up there four times with men on base. Once there were two there. A hit would have won the ball game for the Yankees, but I missed, leaving five stranded as the Yankees lost. Maybe a rest will do me some good. Maybe it won't. Who know? Who can tell? I'm just hoping."

Gehrig's withdrawal from today's game does not necessarily mean the end of his playing career, although that seems not far distant. When that day comes Gehrig can sit back and enjoy the fortune he has accumulated as a ball player. He is estimated to have saved $200,000 from his earnings, which touched a high in 1938, when he collected $39,000 as Yankee salary.

When Gehrig performed his duties as Yankee captain today, appearing at the plate to give the batting order, announcement was made through the amplifiers of his voluntary withdrawal and it was suggested he get "a big hand." A deafening cheer resounded as Lou walked to the dugout, doffed his cap and disappeared in a corner of the bench.

Open expressions of regret came from the Yankees and the Tigers. Lefty Vernon Gomez expressed the Yankees' feelings when he said:

"It's tough to see this thing happen, even though you know it must come to us all. Lou's a great guy and he's always been a great baseball figure. I hope he'll be back in there."

Hank Greenberg, who might have been playing first for the Yanks instead of the Tigers but for Gehrig, said: "Lou's doing the right thing. He's got to use his head now instead of his legs. Maybe that Yankee dynasty is beginning to crumble."

SCOTT FORMER RECORD HOLDER

Everett Scott, the shortstop who held the record of 1,307 consecutive games until Gehrig broke it, ended his streak on May 6, 1925, while he was a member of the Yankees. However, Scott began his string, once considered unapproachable, with the Red Sox.

By a strange coincidence, Scott gave way to Wanninger, the player for whom Gehrig batted to start his great record.

With only one run batted in this year and a batting average of .143 representing four singles in twenty-eight times at bat, Lou has fallen far below his record achievements of previous seasons, during five of which he led the league in runs driven home.

Some of his more important records follow:

Most consecutive games—2,130.

Most consecutive years, 100 games or more—14.

Most years, 150 games or more—12.

Most years, 100 runs or more—13.

Most consecutive years, 100 runs or more—13.

Most home runs with bases full—23.

Most years, 300 or more total bases—13.

Most years, 100 runs or more driven in—13.

Most games by first baseman in one season—157.

Most home runs in one game—4 (modern record).

Most runs batted in, one season—184 (American League).

British Lead French, 2-1 in Davis Cup

Domei Tsushin

WIMBLEDON, May 26—Britain today gained a commanding lead over France in the third round of the European zone of the Davis Cup competitions when its strong doubles combination of Hare and Wilde defeated Petra and Pellizza, of France, in a hard-fought match here.

The British pair broke through to take the first two sets, lost two and then came back strongly to win the deciding set, winning by scores of 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 4-6 and 6-3.

Britain now leads France 2-1, having won a singles match yesterday, and needs but another win to take the series.

Playing at Rome, the Italian team divided its singles matches with Yugoslavia as the Italo-Yugoslavian third-round matches got under way.

Canapele, of Italy, trounced D. Mitic, of Yugoslavia, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5, while Ferenc Puncec, veteran Yugoslavian star, downed De Stefani, of Italy, also by straight set scores, 6-4, 6-1 and 7-5.

JAPAN WON'T COMPETE IN WINTER GAMES

Japan will not compete in the 5th Olympic Winter Games next year at St. Moritz, Switzerland.

This became formally known Friday night after a meeting of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation.

Soichiro Kita, president of the Japan Skating Federation, pointing out the difficulties of sending a full team to San Moritz under the present circumstances, such as the stringent foreign exchange control regulations, suggested that the Athletic Federation decide immediately on non-participation in the Winter Games.

It is expected that formal announcement to this effect will be made shortly after the International Olympic Committee will have convened next month at London.

Decision whether or not to compete in the Winter Games was necessary because the time for dispatching of the team, if Japan is to compete, has been nearing.

It is believed that the decision on the Winter Games will affect that concerning the 12th Olympic Games next year at Helsinki and the final conclusion may be the same as non-participation. If this takes place, it will mean the first time since 1912 when the 5th Olympic Games were held at Stockholm that Japan will be without a delegation.

The Japan Swimming Federation has been pushing an active program in development of a strong team for competition at Helsinki to defend championship honors first won at Los Angeles in 1932 and retained at Berlin in 1936. The latest information is that the Federation is determined on sending a team to Helsinki.

Dr. Hiroshi Shimomura, president of the Amateur Athletic Federation, said Friday night there was no immediate necessity to make a decision on the matter of competing in the 12th Olympic Games. Because of the importance attached to the Games, the Federation is anxious to participate, he said.

It is interesting to note that Germany and Italy have also announced non-participation in the Winter Games at St. Moritz.

As a substitute to the 12th Olympic Games, in the event Japan does not participate, the Athletic Federation is considering the matter of inviting teams from the United States, in addition to athletes from Germany and Italy. The matter has already been broached to America through Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee, while he was here recently on his way to London to attend the I.O.C. meeting there.

YANKEES ROUT TIGERS, 22-2

N.Y. Times

DETROIT, May 2—Playing for the first time in fifteen years without the services of Lou Gehrig, the Yankees went on a hitting spree today at Briggs Stadium as they launched their first Western invasion against the Tigers.

Making memorable the first game in which Babe Dahlgren has started at first base since he joined the club in 1937, the Yanks pummeled five of Del Baker's flingers, struck seventeen blows of all sizes and varying distances and smothered the Tigers under a 22-to-2 drubbing.

On the impetus of this terrific cannonading the Yanks regained undisputed possession of first place. The Red Sox, who were idle today, dropped to third. They had been No. 1 position.

TIGERS HELD IN CHECK

Charley (Red) Ruffing coasted to victory as he returned to duty for the first time since he injured his powerful right arm last Tuesday against the Athletics. For six innings Red had a one-hit performance. Then he eased off and the Tigers, to the accompaniment of sarcastic cheers from 11,379 chilled fans, were permitted the luxury of three doubles and as many singles, to boost their hit aggregate to seven.

In the seventeen blows the Yanks struck at the expense of Vernon Kennedy, Harry Eisenstat, Jephat Lynn, Fred Hutchinson and George Gill, in that order, were four rousing home runs and five others for extra bases. All told, the Yanks hit for thirty-five bases. Traffic on the basepaths were further congested by twelve passes the Tiger hurlers gave up.

In three innings the McCarthymen batted around. In one inning, the big seventh when they scored nine runs before chasing the $50,000 Hutchinson in his debut, thirteen club-swingers went to the plate.

HOMER NO. 2 BY SELKIRK

Dahlgren hit a homer and a double, drove in two runs and scored with another. George Selkirk hit his second homer and a double, driving in two runs. Charley Keller hit a homer and a triple to drive in six runs and scored with three others. Tommy Henrich hit homer with two on. Red Robert Rolfe struck two doubles in the seventh when he batted twice and chased in three runs. Everybody but Henrich hit two blows. Everybody but Frankie Crosetti drove in one or more runs.

Kennedy lasted less than one inning. Eisenstat disappeared after the third, by which time the Yanks had eight runs. Lynn was shelled to cover in the sixth and Hutchinson followed in the seventh, when Keller's homer was the big poke in a nine-run blast. Gill simply had to finish and staggered home without yielding a run.

DAHLGREN FIELDS WELL

Dahlgren contributed two fielding gems. His best effort was a foul catch on Greenberg in right.

The home-run harvest brought the Yankee total to ten.

Until the ninth inning the Yanks were near a record for minimum assists, having only two, the first coming after thirteen putouts.

25,594 ATTEND STRATTON BENEFIT IN WHICH WHITE SOX TOP CUBS, 4-1

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, May 1—Monty Stratton collected upward of $25,000 and Dizzy Dean lost a ball game today. The White Sox, for whom Stratton pitched last year, knocked Dean out of the box and won an exhibition intracity game from the Cubs, 4 to 1.

All receipts from 25,594 spectators went to Stratton, whose gameness and courage after he had lost his leg in a hunting accident last November inspired the benefit game.

The Sox belted Dean and his $185,000 arm out of the box after four innings. It was Dean's first game since the start of the major league season.

DIZZY NO MYSTERY

Dizzy, tossing only his famous "nothing" ball, was no mystery to the American Leaguers. After giving only one hit in the first two innings he lost control of the situation in the third and was touched for four hits and three runs. John Whitehead went the route for the Sox, scattering ten hits and pitching shut-out ball for the first six innings.

Vice-President Harry Grabiner of the White Sox said Stratton would realize "between $25,000 and $30,000," but added the definite amount would not be known for two or three days.

Everybody paid, including reporters, umpires and players. Stratton also received the "take" from all concessions—parking lots, scorecards, hot dogs, etc.

STRATTON TAKES MOUND

Before the game the 6 foot 4 Texan, now a White Sox coach with a wooden leg, posed for the newsreel cameramen and photographers with Cub Manager Gabby Hartnett. Then he received a motor car from a former team-mate, Tony Piet.

Next came the dramatic and pathetic touch. He took the mound, from which he had gained fifteen victories for the Sox last season. In a halting style he tossed several balls over the plate. Then he walked off the mound, across the infield and into the dugout, a truly forlorn figure.

The Sox broke the ice in the third. Joe Kuhel was safe on Dick Bartell's wild throw to first, taking second on the error. Kuhel went to third on Gerald Walker's fly to Joe Marty. Then followed singles by Rosenthal and Mike Kreevich to produce three runs.

In the next inning Kuhel doubled to center and scored on Walker's single to left. Walter Higbe took over the Cub mound chores in the fourth frame and pitched shutout ball the rest of the way.

The Cubs' run came in the seventh on singles by Bob Garbark, Phil Cavarretta and Higbe.

Horiguchi Fights Gen Over 12 Rounds Monday

Boxing fans of Tokyo will have a rare treat next Monday night when Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, king of the featherweights of Japan, takes on Umio Gen, hard hitting Korean battler, over 12 rounds at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku.

Gen returned recently from a successful campaign on the Pacific coast of the United States, and the tricks he learned while there are expected to help him considerably in his return fight Horiguchi.

The two pugilists battled two years ago at the Korakuen stadium when Horiguchi took a close decision.

The first preliminary is slated to start at 6:30 p.m.

6 OLD-TIME STARS IN HALL OF FAME

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, May 2—To baseball's Hall of Fame today were added six more names—those of players whose brilliant careers contributed an early and romantic chapter to the 100-year-old story of the national game.

Plaques will be placed in the hall at Cooperstown, N.Y., honoring Albert G. Spalding, Charles Radbounre, Adrian Constantine (Cap) Anson, William Arthur Cummings, William (Buck) Ewing and Charles A. Comiskey.

Star performers of the era prior to 1900, they were selected by Kenesaw M. Landis, Commissioner of Baseball, and the two league presidents, William Harridge of the American and Ford Frick of the National League, who worked with baseball writers of the nation in memorializing the game's great.

Radbourne, known as "Old Hoss," was with Providence, R.I., of the National League through the season 1835 and pitched four years for the Boston Nationals. He wound up his career with Cincinnati in 1890. Altogether, he pitched in 517 games, winning 310 and losing 191. In 1884 he won sixty games for Providence.

Anson managed the Chicago Nationals twenty-one years. A first baseman, he his better than .300 for twenty seasons, leading the league in hitting in 1879, 1881, 1887 and 1888. In twenty-two seasons in the National League he averaged .339 at the plate.

Cummings was famed as inventor of the curve ball, first using the pitch when with the Brooklyn Stars in 1867.

Ewing, a great catcher, starred with New York's Giants, batting better than .300 nine years. A fine all-around star, he later managed Cincinnati. The "Old Roman," Charles A. Comiskey, revolutionized the style of playing first base. Until his entrance into the game, first-sackers played with one foot on the bag. He moved away from the base and made pitchers cover the sack. He bought the St. Paul Club of the Western League and moved it to Chicago in 1900.

Spalding, a Rockford, Ill., native, starred as a pitcher for Boston and Chicago, winning forty-seven games and losing only thirteen for Chicago in 1876. He retired from the game in 1891 to devote his time to the sporting goods business bearing his name.

WASEDA, MEIJI NINES TIE, 0-0 IN 12 INNINGS

Waseda and Meiji fought to a scoreless tie that was called off at the end of the twelfth inning because of darkness Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium, as the consequence of which the semi-annual baseball classic of the country, or the Waseda-Keio series on Saturday and Sunday next, will decide the championship of the Spring season of the Tokyo Six University league. Rikkyo routed Hosei, 8 to 0, in the curtain-raiser, for the latter's tenth defeat for its worst record in the circuit.

The standings follow:

	G	W	L	T	Pct.
Keio	8	6	2	0	.750
Waseda	8	5	1	2	.750
Rikkyo	10	5	3	2	.600
Meiji	10	4	3	3	.550

Hosei	10	0	10	0	.000

KONDO YIELDS 2 HITS

Waseda sent the veteran southpaw, Kondo, to the mound in its strategy to down Meiji and be in a more advantageous position than Keio in their series for the title. He came through with flying colors, yielding but two hits in the entire 12 innings, but his team-mates failed to hit in the pinches and he missed victory.

Southpaw Shimizu, who had failed on Saturday, started once again for Meiji but he showed signs of wildness and though he yielded nary a run, he was relieved by Righthander Fujimoto at the outset of the sixth. The latter was slow in getting settled down and Waseda threatened to win the ball game in that same frame. Kakijima singled to left. Miyoshi bunted in front of the plate and backstop Matsui pegged to first but Kakijima beat it out and all hands were safe. First Baseman Matsui bunted safely down the third baseline to load the bases without a man away. Had the Waseda bench foreseen the game to be a nip and tuck affair, it certainly would have resorted to a squeeze play. But it was confident of hitting Fujimoto. The latter, however, bore down and struck out Captain Miyoshi, who looked at the third strike go over with the bat on his shoulder. Next man up was Third Baseman Miniamimura, leading hitter in the league, but Minamimura with the count 3 nothing, looked at two fat strikes and then whiffed the ozone on the third strike. Kimura, whose three-bagger won for Waseda on Saturday, forced Miyoshi at third to retire hte side.

MEIJI FAILS

As it happened Meiji's best chance to win in the game came in the seventh inning. Third Baseman Ase, first up, doubled through third. Fujimoto, a good hitter, was in a position to win his own game, but he fanned. Second Baseman Kameda grounded out weakly to short and Kamibayashi, pinchhitting for Shortstop Oki, popped out to short.

Rikkyo clinched victory against Hosei by scoring five runs in the second inning. Pitcher Yoshimura did the rest by yielding but four hits through the rest of the game.

WINS 7TH ANNUAL JAPAN DERBY

Right: Kumohata, with jockey Shotaro Abe, 26, up, and owner, Yusaku Kato, winner of the 7th annual Japan Derby Sunday at the Fuchu racetrack in a major surprise. Of 21,570 bets, only 174 were for Kumohata to win and 575 to place. The consequence was that Kumohata not only won the ¥10,000 prize for first place, but an additional ¥13,680 for the owner. Top shows the start of 20 thoroughbreds, and lower the finish, Kumohata out in front by a length over Richmond.

Sweden Takes Doubles From Reich Team In Davis Cup Play

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, May 28—While Sweden closed Germany's 2-0 lead by winning the doubles today, Belgium and Italy scored victories over Norway and Yugoslavia, respectively, in the third round of the European zone of the Davis Cup competitions.

Playing at Berlin, Karl Schroeder and Rohlson, of Sweden, upset the veteran German combination of Henner Henkel and G. von Metaxa, by scores of 6-2, 1-6, 6-3 and 6-3.

At Brussels, Belgium virtually clinched its series with Norway, when its smooth-functioning doubles pair of P. Geeland and Deborman swept Anderson and Haanes, of Norway, in four sets, 6-0, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2, to give Belgium a 3-0 lead.

Italy gained a 2-1 lead over Yugoslavia, when Giorgio de Stefani, Italian ace, playing at Rome, defeated D. Mitic, of Yugoslavia, 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, and 6-3. The singles match between Ferenc Puncec, veteran Yugoslav star, and Canepele, of Italy, was called, due to darkness, in the third set, when Puncec was leading 13-11, 6-1, 5-4. The game will be continued tomorrow.

GERMANY LEADS

Domei Tsushin

BERLIN, May 27—Roderick Menzel, of Germany, defeated Hultman, of Sweden, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1, in the third round of the Davis Cup tennis competition here today.

Another German victory was scored when, in the second match, Henner Henkel overcame Schroeder in five sets, 5-7, 3-6, 6-2, 8-6 and 6-3.

BELGIANS WIN

Domei Tsushin

BRUSSELS, May 27—In the third round of the Davis Cup competition, Andre La Croix, of Belgium, today beat Hannes, of Norway, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2, and Nayaert, of Belgium, defeated Rinde, of Norway, also in straight sets, 6-1, 6-0 and 6-0.

American Out To Raise $100,000 For Olympic Games

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 28—Thirty-five State Chairmen and 17 Vice-Chairmen were named yesterday by Frank G. McCormick, Athletic Director at the University of Minnesota and Chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Finance Committee, as the coordinators for the nation-wide drive among colleges and universities to raise $100,000 for the 1940 U.S. Olympic team.

Chairmen and their assistants in each State will participate in the drive during the next 12 months by staging benefit athletic events, Olympic tryouts and by other means. Chairmen for 12 other States will be appointed within the next two weeks.

Clarence P. Houston of Tufts College, Medford, Mass., was appointed Chairman for the First District, which embraces several States.

State Chairmen appointed included: H. G. Crops, University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Josh Cody, University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.; William D. Funkhouse, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky.; T. P. Heard, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, La.; B. O. Van Hook, Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss.; R. S. Fetzer, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C.; A. P. McLeod, Furman University, Greenville, S. C.; Gordon M. Clark, University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.; Norton Pritchett, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va.; Fred Thompsen, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, Ark.; and W. J. Bingham, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

MISS WILSON SPEED CYCLING STAR IN ENGLAND

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON—The most notable features of the 1939 British speed-cycling season so far are the very agreeable ones of Marguerite Wilson, now a professional on the record-breaking team of a famous bike-manufacturing firm. She is a Bournemouth lass renowned for unprecedented push and go. She pushes the pedals, and the records go. Both occurrences causing such great admiration in the world of wheelers that the fair Marguerite is voted to be the finest feminine cyclist ever seen.

Like a certain much-publicized highwayman of bygone years, Dick Turpin, Miss Wilson, much publicized highwaywoman, has done a celebrated ride from London to York. Dick's apocryphal performance on the faithful mare "Black Bess," is supposed to have been accomplished in 16 hours. But Marguerite's trip, which is not the least apocryphal, beat that handsomely. She covered the distance between the two cities, 196 miles, in 10h. 3m., thereby knocking 52 whole minutes off the feminine record set up by herself last year.

OVER 230 MILES IN 12 HOURS

When she arrived at York, you might have expected Miss Wilson to call it a day. And a very successful day, too. But she did nothing of the sort. Instead, she took time out for a breather—just a couple of minutes—and went pedalling off again in quest of the women's record for 12 hours riding. This she found without the slightest difficulty, and, when the time-keeper, B. W. Best called halt, she had travelled 231¼ miles at an average speed of close on 20 m. p. m.

The more you think about Miss Wilson's pedalling feat—it doesn't matter which way you spell that last word—the more astounding her achievement seems to be. Especially when you realize that she has been cycling seriously for only five years. Most men would feel mighty proud of themselves, if they could do such a thing. And, as a point of interest, I would mention that her London-York time comes within 22 minutes of what the men's record for the journey was 13 years ago. Incidentally, it beats the women's tandem record by 40 minutes.

ATTACKED RECORD

The machine that Marguerite rides has high derailleur gears—79 inches, 84 inches, and 90 inches—and some of the people who study such matters closely formed the opinion that she would be less effective on an out-and-home ride than in a straightaway expedition. The lady therefore set out to disabuse them of this notion. To which end she attacked the women's record for a ride from London to Brighton and back, a little matter of 104 miles. This stood to the credit of Jessie Springall, former honorary secretary of the Women's Road Record Association, who went down to the sea and back in 5h. 36m. 45s. one day during 1935.

Miss Wilson hit this figure for a loop. In spite of the fact that she had thick mist to contend with in places and took three wrong turnings in the dark hours of the very early morning. Her time was 5h. 23m. 14s.

Weather conditions did precious little to assist our heroine on her ride to York. For the wind, instead of arriving from the southeast, as she would have liked it to do, blew persistently from the west. Except when she wanted it so to do, going northeast from Selby. Then it dropped completely. Fortunately, however, the wind was of no great velocity. A fact which prompted her to make the trip on this particular day, although she had ridden 80 miles, quite fast, the day before. Her schedule was to reach York in 10½ hours and to add ten miles to her own record of 215 miles for 12 hours riding. That schedulo, as we have seen, was very comfortably within her amazing powers.

CROSS-COUNTRY MAY BE HELD AT HELSINKI

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON—From Laurence N. Richardson, honorary secretary of the English Cross-Country Union, I learn that a serious attempt is to be made to obtain the re-inclusion of cross country running, popular Winter sport here, in the program of the Olympic Games. Preferably as a section all on its own, about mid-way between the Winter Olympics and the main festival in the Summer.

The initiative in this matter has been taken by the International Cross-Country Union Board, the members of which—namely delegates from England, France, Belgium, Scotland, Wales, Eire and Northern Ireland—are now seeking to obtain support from other countries for a detailed and formal proposal that will be put before the International Amateur Athletic Federation in time for the body to approve, or disapprove, the organization of a cross-country race as part of the 1944 Olympic schedule.

LIPS SEALED

Now, the man behind all this is our friend, Laurie Richardson, who, paradoxically enough, sat with lips sealed through the April meeting of the International Cross-Country Union Board at Cardiff on the occasion when the plan he has so strenuously advocated for two years past was adopted by six votes to none, with England abstaining. You see, Richardson is one of England's delegates to the Board and, as the English Union is not in favor of cross-country running in the Olympic Games, he was pledged not to take part in the Board's discussion. Which placed him in a very tantalizing situation. However, he had the satisfaction of seeing his pet plan win through. And he has the additional satisfaction of knowing that the development comes as very agreeable news to English harriers. Especially those of northern England, whose administrators are 100 per cent in favor of Olympic recognition for cross-country running.

These Northerners—Richardson himself is one—have tried very hard to persuade the English Union to support the proposal to restore Cross-Country to the Olympics, and how near they came to success, you may judge from the fact that the Union's decision to oppose the project at Cardiff (taken at a meeting last January) was made on the strength of a one vote majority.

As England is the home of cross-country running, and cross-country running was the basis on which England built her great reputation for distance running on track and road, it may seem odd that any counselors in this country should oppose the elevation of the sport to the international level of those accorded "Olympic" status. And the explanation lies in the various answers that can be given to the question, What is cross-country running?

CROSS-COUNTRY VIEWS

In the South of England, the view is taken that a cross-country run, to merit that description, must take place on what you might term a "natural" course. That is to say, the harriers must be tested by such difficulties, peculiar to the sport, as ploughed fields, ditches, meadow-lanes, cart tracks, stiles, gates, hills, dales, and all the rest of the characteristics found on a typical slab of English landscape. In the north, and in various countries abroad, the tendency, however, is to avoid such things and to conduct cross-country races on what appear, to Southern eyes, to be glorified steeplechase—fast, flat for the most part, "easy" and monotonous.

U.S.C. WINS I.C.4-A MEET AT NEW YORK

Domei Tsushi

NEW YORK, May 27—Under perfect weather conditions, the track and field aggregation of the University of Southern California piled up the highest points in the meet's history today to win the Intercollegiate A.A.A.A. Championship at the Triborough Stadium here for the second consecutive year and the ninth time since 1925.

Team scores were University of Southern California, 71½; Pittsburgh University, 26; University of California, 16¾; Michigan University, 15; Columbia University, 14½, and Cornell University, 13.

Three new meet records were established. The one mile race was won by Louis Zamperini, of the U.S. C., in 4 minutes 11.2 seconds. The 220 yd. low hurdle went to Earl Vickery, also of the U. S. C., with a time of 22.8 seconds. John Woodruff, of Pittsburgh, finished the 880-yard sprint in one minute 51.2 seconds.

Woodruff also won the 440-yard race, which was the most thrilling event of the day. He fought his way between two Westerners in the last 30 yards and managed to win by pushing his chest into the tape.

Summary of the events held today follow:

100 yards: Herbert Weast, Columbia, 9.8 seconds; William Anderson, U.S.C.; Kenneth Clapp, Brown.

220 yards: Kenneth Clapp, 21.1 seconds; Frank Ohl, Pittsburgh; Payton Jordan, U. S. C.

440 yards: John Woodruff, Pittsburgh, 47 seconds; Howard Upton, U. S. C.; Erwin Miller, U. S. C.

880 yards: Woodruff, one minute 51.2 seconds (new meet record); William Greist, Pennsylvania State; Joseph Zeitler, Manhattan University.

One mile: Louis Zamperini, U.S.C., four minutes 11.2 seconds (new meet record); Curtis Giddings, New York University; Donald Smith, Maine University.

Two mile: Albert Boulander, Pittsburgh, nine minutes 23 seconds; Bradley Rendell, Alfred University; Edward Vanauken, Michigan State.

120-yard high hurdle: James Shumphrey, U.S.C., 14.4 seconds; Jay Shields, Yale; Rudolph Yovonovitz, Michigan State.

220-yard low hurdle: Earl Vickery, U.S.C., 22.8 seconds (new meet record); James Pender, Cornell; Warren Wittens, Pennsylvania.

Hammer throw: Robert Bennett, Maine, 178 feet 11⅛ inches; John McLaughry, Brown; William McKeever, Cornell.

Pole-vault: Tie between Loring Day, U.S.C., and Richard Ganslen, Columbia, at 14 feet; and third, Irving Howe, U.S.C.

Javelin throw: Robert Peoples, 223 feet 1¼ inches; Nick Vukmanici, Pennsylvania State; Reed Truscl, U.S.C.

Discus throw: Phil Gasper, U.S.C., 158 feet 3½ inches; Arthur Wrotnowski, U.S.C.; Donald Herring, Princeton.

One-mile relay: U.S.C. team, 3:19.6 minutes; California, Cornell.

U.S.S. QUALIFIES 15

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, May 28—Leading a formidable field of the Nation's foremost track and field teams, the University of Southern California today qualified 15 men in the 14 preliminary events of the 1939 Intercollegiate A.A.A.A. Championships which was opened at the Triborough Stadium here.

The meet was featured by spectacular performances by two U.S.C. stars Bob Peoples and Earl Vickery, who broke meet records for the javelin and the 220-yard low hurdle events, respectively. Peoples tossed the javelin 225 feet 11.4 inches, and Vickery skimmed over the low hurdles in 23.1 seconds to set new marks.

In today's preliminaries, New York University followed U.S.C. by placing 10 men for tomorrow's finals, while the University of Pittsburgh, 1937 winner of the championships, was third with nine. Yale placed seven and California and Cornell qualified six men each.

Miss Yamanouchi Sets New High Jump Mark

Miss Riye Yamanouchi of the Chukyo Higher Girls School set a new national mark in the women's running high jump by clearing the bar at 1.60 meters in the 7th annual West Japan women's track and field championships at Kyoto Sunday.

Miss Yamanouchi shattered her own record of 1.56 meters which she established at Hiroshima last year.

HORIGUCHI DECISIONED BY GEN OVER 12 ROUNDS BEFORE 25,000

Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, Japan's best known fighter, elected to box instead of resorting to his rushing tactics from the outset of the fight and Umio Gen, Korean battler who returned recently from the Pacific coast of the United States, outboxed him to a decision over 12 rounds before 25,000 fans at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku Monday night. It was Horiguchi's first defeat to a local pugilist since his debut seven years ago and his first setback in two years, the latter at the hands of Joe Eagle, Filipino, in January, 1937.

To Gen, it was sweet revenge over his defeat at the Korakuen grounds in the open two years ago, after which he lost no time in going to America to gain experience and fighting technique, which no doubt he did as he demonstrated Monday night.

Those fans that jammed every standing space in the Kokugikan bowl Monday night got more than their money's worth in the Horiguchi versus Gen scrap alone. All the other bouts on the card, sponsored by the Fuji and Teikoku Boxing clubs were mediocre.

GEN GIVES ALL

If the winner were to be decided on the condition of the fighters after the twelfth round, the decision would have gone to Horiguchi. For he certainly was stronger but Gen, whose face was swollen and was weary, had given all he had and had landed by far the more blows. And this must be to his credit as the bout was scheduled for 12 rounds and not any longer. For what is the use of surplus stamina after the final gong has been sounded.

As the fight progressed, it grew more and more certain that a knockout was Horiguchi's only hope for victory. As a matter of fact, he won but the third, eleventh and twelfth rounds. Another fighter than Horiguchi and he would have been knocked out early in the bout by Gen's lefts and rights to the head and body.

Gen was a pound heavier than Horiguchi when they weighed in, 129 and 128 pounds, but Horiguchi seemed an inch taller as they heard the referee's instructions.

GEN LEADS EARLY

Gen started auspiciously by fighting cooly and cuffing Horiguchi with hard lefts and rights to the head and body as the latter bored in. A hard right to the jaw rocked Horiguchi.

The fans roared as Gen continued to score in the second round. But Horiguchi rallied towards the end of the round, jarring Gen with two lefts to the face and it was his round by a shade.

Gen switched his attack to the body as the third round got under way, realizing that he was up against a tough job trying to knock out Horiguchi with blows to the head. Horiguchi continued to jab effectively with his left but it was Gen's round by a wide margin.

Gen came out fighting fiercely with the gong for the fourth. He scored with one-twos to the head and body repeatedly as Horiguchi kept boring in.

It was the same story in the fifth and Horiguchi, sensing himself to be behind, started the sixth with his famous relentless two-fisted windmill attack. He was hard on Gen's heels but the latter countered effectively with blows to the head and body and he took it by points.

The seventh was a big round for Gen who rocked Horiguch with telling lefts and rights to the face. As Horiguchi feinted with his right as if for an uppercut to the jaw but led instead with his left, he was a sucker everytime for Gen's straight right to the jaw.

HORIGUCHI GROGGY

The eighth was another round slightly in Gen's favor and the ninth was his round. They fought toe to toe. Near bell time, Gen had Horiguchi groggy with severe lefts and rights to the jaw. A right to the chin slowed up Horiguchi for a moment but he was back fighting as hard as ever.

Gen went after Horiguchi hard in the tenth, apparently with the intent of finishing his opponent. He connected with hard rights to the jaw and effective left swings to the face, but Horiguchi kept on his feet.

Horiguchi came out fighting mad in the eleventh. Swinging both hands, he rushed Gen. He began scoring with jabs to the face and short punches to the body. Gen slipped in a right to the jaw but the round was Horiguchi's.

They fought toe to toe in the twelfth. Horiguchi was in much the better condition physically and he rushed Gen, swinging with both hands. But Gen fought back, though tired, and maneuvered himself away from the ropes. It was another round for Horiguchi but Gen's fight by a decision. It went to him. Some fans clamored for a draw, on what basis it is difficult to figure.

Toshiro Aoki of the Fuji Club was awarded the decision over Kanji Yamaguchi, unattached, in the six-round semi-final, and it was a raw decision. If anything, the decision should have gone to Yamaguchi on account of his aggressiveness which which made it some sort of a bout. Aoki weighed in at 125 pounds and Yamaguchi at 135.

HENNEBERRY LEAVES FOR FIGHTS IN BRITAIN

SYDNEY, April 29—Fred Henneberry, the former Australian middleweight boxing champion, left by the Narkunda yesterday for a series of matches in England. He was accompanied by his manager, Mr. Stan. Sheldon.

Henneberry said he was looking forward to his trip. He was keen for a match with the British champion, Jock McAvoy. His first match in England would be against the Norwich middleweight, Ginger Sadd. If he won that contest he would be matched with McAvoy. Much would depend upon his showing in Great Britain, for if he did well he would possibly secure matches in the United States of America.

Henneberry said that he had been anxious to meet Ron Richards for the Australian middleweight title. Originally the contest was set down for January 24, then postponed until April 13, owing to an injury to Richards's hand. May 9 was tentatively suggested, but it was not known then whether Richards could make the weight of 11st 6lb. On his return from a Brisbane match Richards's manager had asked for the match to be held on May 9, but this left Henneberry only about 12 days to prepare. Later, May 29 was suggested, but as Richards had been matched with Ossie Stewart for May 11 there was no certainty about the latter match taking place. In the circumstances Henneberry felt it was useless to waste any more time.

Even a few hours before the Narkunda left, friends of Henneberry tired to get into touch with Jack Munro, the manager of Richards, and Henneberry waited until 1.30 p.m. before he finally decided to join the boat.

B. Bear, manager of Olympia Sports Ltd., wished Henneberry every success abroad. He was prepared to allow Henneberry expenses amounting to £100 if he had cancelled his trip at the last minute for a contest with Richards. Mr. Bear is hopeful that a match may yet be arranged, and in that event Henneberry may return immediately to Sydney.

Atilio Sabatino, Red Farmer, and Syd Brown were aboard the Monterey when that boat left for the United States yesterday. Sabatino has been in Sydney for longer than a year, and has met with great success. His manager, W. Newman, expects to match him for the world's middleweight championship held by Solly Kreiger.

Red Farmer was disappointed with his tour of Australia. He lost on a foul to Henneberry, and his bout with Alabama Kid was declared "no fight," though both showed signs of punishment. Lack of opponents was one of the reasons for Farmer's decision to return to the United States.

Belgium and Germany Enter Semi-Finals Of Davis Cup Play

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, May 29—While Yugoslavia tied Italy by virtue of its singles victory today, Belgium and Germany advanced into the semi-finals of the European zone of the Davis Cup competitions by defeating Norway and Sweden, respectively.

Playing at Brussels, the Belgian team administered a convincing 4-1 defeat to Norway by copping both of the remaining singles matches Nayaert, of Belgium, trounced Hannes, of Norway, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3, while his teammate, P. Gaeland, downed the Norwegian player, Rinde, also in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0.

Germany, meanwhile entered the semi-finals by scoring a 3-2 victory over Sweden. Playing at Berlin, Roderick Menzel, former Czechoslovak star now playing for Germany, downed Karl Schroeder, Swedish ace, in four sets, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3 and 6-3 to virtually clinch the series. In the remaining singles match, R. Goepfert, of Germany, abandoned the match to Hultman, of Sweden, after taking the first two sets 6-2 and 6-2.

At Rome, Ference Puncec, veteran Yugoslavian star, defeated Canapele, of Italy, in a play-off match which was halted yesterday because of darkness. Picking up the match at the tenth game of the third set, where the game was called yesterday, Puncec downed Canapele, scoring a straight victory, 13-11, 6-1, 8-6.

Driver Names Five Possible Winners In 500-Mile Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 3—Chet Miller, dapper Detroiter who has come close but never close enough to win an Indianapolis 500-mile race in 10 years of trying, dropped an eye yesterday over the entry list of 49 for this year's Memorial Day test of men and motors and picked five drivers as the ones to beat.

"And I'm leaving myself right square out of it," quoth Chet. "But I hope I won't be left out on race day."

Chet's choices, in the order in which he listed them, are Jimmy Snyder, the Chicago milk man; Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., three-time winner; Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif.; Kelly Petillo of Los Angeles, and Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis.

"Those lads will be setting the early pace," figures the Detroit speed merchant, "and maybe one of them will come through."

In that group Miller has two former race winners besides Meyer. They are Petillo and Shaw. Shaw profited $6,000 worth by Miller's running out of gas last year.

Running in second place, Miller had to stop for gasoline on his next to last and Shaw shot ahead of him to grab the $12,000 second place check. Miller finished third.

Although Miller has yet to get the first checkered flag in an Indianapolis race he has been one of the most consistent money winners, having roared to a share of the cash prizes six times out of 10.

For the second straight year the Detroit veteran will be a member of the Mike Boyle team. He'll drive a four-cylinder, front-drive speedster.

Like most everyone else at the track this Spring, Miller thinks Floyd Roberts' 500-mile record of 117.200 miles-an-hour, set last year, will be bettered.

"The winner and the new Indianapolis speed record holder' is what you'll hear at the finish of the race," he said, "and I hope I'm the fellow they're talking about."

GREENBERG HITS 4TH HOMER OF SEASON

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

DETROIT, May 3—The decimation of the Tigers' pitching ranks by the Yankees continued unabated at Briggs Stadium today before a gathering of 14,138.

Having slapped five of Del Baker's hurlers all over the lot yesterday in one of the wildest Yankee hitting outbursts in years, the McCarthymen came back today and added three more victims as they took their second straight from the Tigers. The count was 10 to 6.

Not much hitting was needed to bag this one. After feasting on base-hits yesterday, the Yanks slowed down to a modest nine blows. But there were as many passes issued by Al Benton, George Coffman and the left-handed Archie McKain. To this was added an exhibition of speed on the bases which saw the Yanks bag four of them, two of the pilfers being coupled in a double steal.

MISSING AT THE CLOSE

The net esult was his second victory of the campaign for Steve Sundra, although the young right-hander wasn't around at the finish. Sundra, none too steady himself through the afternoon, disappeared in the eigth when the Tigers showed symptoms of overcoming a seven-run lead.

Old Jawn Murphy ambled out of the bull pen then to stem the tide, but had a narrow squeak when Detroit loaded the bases with one out in the ninth.

The Yanks rushed off to a three-run lead on the wings of a rousing triple by Bill Dickey. With one out, Red Robert Rolfe and Tommy Henrich walked before Dickey smashed a three-bagger off the center-field wall. Bill rode in on George Selkirk's sacrifice fy. A pass to Babe Dahlgren was converted into another run in the second, for Sundra singled, Benton cut loose a wild pitch and Babe scored as Rolfe went out.

TALLIES ON A GROUNDER

In the second the Tigers got one back when Billy Rogell doubled, advanced to third and scored when Les Fleming, batting for Benton, grounded out. Hank Greenberg's fourth homer of the season, in the wake of a pass to Charley Gehringer, gave the Tigers two more in the third.

Coffman couldn't find the plate in the fourth. He walked Sundra and Frankie Crosetti after Rogell's boot gave Dahlgren a life, and the bases were loaded. Rolfe's single sent in two, and when Pete Fox booted the ball Red got to second. Henrich's single scored Crosetti and chased Coffman. Then, as McKain fanned Dickey, Rolfe and Henrich worked the double steal, Red Scoring easily. A single by Crosetti, his steal, two passes and Selkirk's double gave the Yanks two more in the sixth for insurance.

This lead proved comforting for Sundra until the eighth when, with one out, Rogell struck a second double, Frank Croucher singled him home, Sundra wild pitched and McKain singled. Then Murphy came along to benefit by a double play. In the ninth Gehringers' double and Rudy York's single wrenched a run from Murphy.

The exhibition game played with the Waseda eleven at Keijo last week, the first ever in Chosen, was won by Waseda by 12-2 score.

PLAN ROWING FOR SEATTLE HIGH SCHOOLS

Christian Science Monitor

SEATTLE—A new sport is being planned for the high school boys of Seattle. Eight-oared rowing, the ideal sport for youth, will soon become a regular part of the prepster's athletic program.

The city of Seattle has three fresh-water lakes. Most young boys like to row. For many years the University of Washington has been one of the leading rowing schools in the world with its graduates coaching rowing at many colleges. Somehow, these three factors never became connected to any greater extent than intercollegiate rowing at the University of Washington.

With 58 prep schools in the nation supporting rowing, it is indeed surprising that Washington has none. Two local service clubs, the Seattle Speaker's Club and the Washingtonians, are behind the present move to extend rowing to the high schools.

The one individual who is doing the most work in this progressive move is George Pocock, the nation's leading builder of racing shells. A former famous sculler in England and a rowing authority, Pocock is intensely interested in doing all he can to help the sport and the boys.

Eight-oared rowing is indeed an expensive sport, and that has been the biggest hinderance to its extension to high schools, for the Seattle School Board is not able to defer the necessary funds.

Pocock and the other rowing supporters have worked out a satisfactory plan whereby the schoolboys can row, yet without cost to the School Board. Pocock usually builds two new shells a year for the University of Washington, which puts two of the older, but still quite serviceable shells, out of use. In the past, Washington has given these used eights and other equipment to smaller colleges in an effort to boost college rowing. In the future, Washington's old equipment will be given to the Seattle high schools, and will be ample for their use.

COURSE

A rowing course was the next thing to be planned. Green Lake, a beautiful water spot in the heart of the city with a circumference of three miles, was chosen as an ideal spot for training. A bicycle path goes around the edge of the lake so there would be no need for a coaching launch.

Then they would need coaches—and the University was eager to supply undergraduate Physical Education students to do the main part of the coaching, with supervision by some older Washington-trained oarsman. Varsity Coach Al Ulbrickson will help as much as possible to see that the youngsters get the proper training, for the prep youths of today will be the university athletes of tomorrow.

PLAN BOATHOUSE

The School Board has approved these plans pending the overcoming of one obstacle, erecting a boathouse. A civic group is already planning to raise the $5,000 necessary for the building, and are so confident of doing so that they have had blueprints made.

Rival rowing coaches throughout the nation may be a little dismayed to hear of this latest move, for it has been hard enough defeating Washington crews that have heretofore learned their rowing within four years.

Put these names in your future book of women swimming stars—Esther Williams, Brenda Hesler, and Nancy Merki. They stole the limelight at the Far-Western A. A. U. indoor championships at Seattle.

Miss Williams is the latest "find" of Mrs. Aileen Allen, coach at the Los Angeles Athletic Club and developer of many champions. An exponent of the butterfly stroke, the 17-year old breaststroke swimmer is able to use this strenuous stroke for 75 yards of a 100-yard race, and hopes soon to use it throughout a race. She easily won the breaststroke championship at meet, and seems headed for the national title. Two months ago she unoficially bettered Katherine Rawls' world record for the 100-yard breaststroke.

The other two girls led the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club of Portland to victory in the team event. Miss Helser is only 14 years old, yet defeated the national A. A. U. champion, Virginia Hopkins, in the 100-yard freestyle, and then added the 220-yard championship. Her teammate, Nancy Merki, broke the Pacific Coast 440-yard freestyle record in winning—and Nancy is 12 years old.

Gorgeous

They had just turned the corner from one of the most beautiful of steep valleys.

She exclaimed: "What a beautiful gorge that was!"

"Yes, it wasn't bad," he replied, his mind flashing back, unromantically, to the inn in the hollow, "but I could have done with a bit more pudding."—Montreal Star.

GIANTS TOPPLE REDS, 6 TO 4 AT NEW YORK

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 3—The statistics were awesome. There were nineteen bases on balls, three wild pitches, a balk, twenty-eight men left on base and, most important, a 6-to-4 victory for the Giants yesterday as they toppled the Reds once again in the Polo Grounds refrigerator.

Big Walter Brown pitched one inning, was touched for three hits and still became the winning hurler, which might give you some idea of the twirling horrors perpetrated on 4,652 frozen spectators in a near three-hour ball game. Each team used three moundsmen, with the great Johnny Vander Meer being driven from the box in the fifth and Hal Schumacher retiring by request at the end of the sixth.

The hitting was robust enough, since the minions of Colonel Bill Terry slashed out nine safeties and the Reds ten. But the way the wildmen on the rubber were serving them up swinging at a ball was almost a waste of energy. Walking to first was much simpler.

REDS FALL TO THIRD

The blow that settled a crazy-quilt sort of game was a pinch double by Jimmy Ripple in the seventh. It came after Bob Seeds had singled and was followed by a single by Billy Jurges. That meant two runs and the margin of victory. Cincinnati, incidentally, dropped to third place.

From start to finish the pitchers were in more trouble than a Balkan diplomat. Schumacher had his home-run ball working to perfection. After he gave the first of eight walks to Bill Werber to start the fray he fed one to Lonnie Frey. Junior parked it in the upper stands. Then, before Schumie staggered to the safety of the dugout, he filled the bases and still wriggled through without yielding another run.

But that was only the beginning, folks, only the beginning. Prince Hal resumed his startling labors in the second by grooving another ball to Billy Myers, who responded perfectly by cracking it for a home run.

A VERY GOOD IDEA

While Schumacher was in continual hot water—a good idea considering the state of the weather—Vander Meer was doing some extraordinary work himself. In the fourth Zeke Bonura doubled and Burgess Whitehead singled him home.

An inning later worse things befell him. Harry the Horse Danning tripled, Mel Ott walked, Seeds lashed a safety to center and Frank Demaree doubled to right. When Seeds scored from third on a wild pitch Manager Bill McKechnie had had enough. So had Vander Meer. Jim Weaver came in to finish the frame, but three runs were in.

Brown took over the Giant pitching chores for the seventh and was greeted by singles by Harry Craft, Waly Berger and Pinch Hitter Les Scarsella. That brought in the tying run, but Jumbo was lifted for Pinch Hitter Ripple, who delivered so neatly that Brown became the winning pitcher. The Ripple hit came off Bucky Walters, who was the loser. Cliff Melton finished for the Giants in none too gaudy style.

STILL TO FINISH A GAME

Vander Meer has started three games so far this season and has finished none. Yet neither victory nor defeat has been chalked on his record.

Base ball gentry laugh at the queer doings in Brooklyn, but the Dodgers at least had sense enough to call off their game yesterday with the Pirates. So Managers Pie Traynor and Leo Durocher and a few of the more hardy of their players took a busman's holiday by visiting the Polo Grounds to chortle at the Giants and Reds.

When Bonura doubled in the fourth he was so filled with admiration for his blow that he waited to watch it carom off the fence before he started to run.

In the first game of the series on Tuesday Harry Gumbert filled the bases in the opening inning and saw Ott retire one man at the plate and the next batter hit into a saving double play. Oddly enough, the identical thing occurred yesterday to give Schumacher a reprieve. It had seemed for a while as though he never would retire the side.

Ival Goodman was the chief pedestrian. He walked his first four times at bat. Ott strolled thrice.

日本語會話文典
COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR
By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Enko Vaccari
THE LONDON TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT
. . . .this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.
A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.
Grammar: 15 x 22.1 cm, Pages 538, ¥12.00 and Postage
(with two large maps, one of Japan, and one of Tokyo)
Supplement: Pages 280, ¥5.00 and Postage

漢字カード
AN EASY METHOD TO LEARN CHINESE-JAPANESE CHARACTERS
By Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Vaccari
This new and unique publication is indispensable to students wishing to learn Chinese-Japanese characters methodically and quickly.
Every character, printed in large size in handwriting style on one side of a card, is given, in printed style, in combination with other characters, which combinations reproduce the essential Japanese compound words that are necessary to know in order to understand Japanese newspapers and books.
The compound words are given a progressive number, and on the other side of the cards the numbers are repeated with the pronunciation in Roman letters and the English translation of the compound words under consideration.
The cards are contained in a specially designed box.
MAIN FEATURES
1. The first publication showing how Chinese-Japanese characters are written with the brush (fude).
2. Containing 7000 compound words used in modern Japanese.
3. All characters have been given in the order of the progression of the number of their strokes, which is indicated on the upper edge of the partitions that divide the cards in the box.
Size of the cards 4 x 2¾ inches
Size of the box 9 x 6 x 4½ inches
NET WEIGHT 6½ lbs.
Price of the set ¥12.00 and postage. Postage abroad U.S.$1.25

BUOYANT GEHRIG, LONG STRING ENDED, PUZZLED OVER HIS BATTING DECLINE

DETROIT, May 3—A new Lou Gehrig sat on the Yankee bench at Briggs Stadium today, a man who was different not alone because he was undergoing what is for him a strange experience—the inactivity of the ball player who is passe—but because for him the mental strain is over, the hours of living within one's self, distressed and harassed by gloomy thoughts, are gone.

A weight has been lifted from the brawny frame that once specialized in home runs. Gehrig is mentally freer than he has been for three years. He smiled today in the lobby of the Book-Cadillac for one of the few times that big open face of his has broken into a grin since he started his futile fight against Time's inexorable demands this Spring.

EMOTIONAL OUTBURST PASSES

Yesterday Lou broke down and wept like a child in the Yankee dugout on his first day of idleness after 2,130 consecutive championship games dating back to June, 1925. There were moist eyes among his mates. Throat muscles tightened. Everybody was uneasy and nervous. All wanted to do something to relieve the tension, but none knew exactly how to start, so they left him to himself until the emotional outburst passed. Then everything was all right.

The wise-cracking Lefty Vernon Gomez found the going rough, but tried nevertheless. "Just think, Lou, it took fifteen years to get you out of there. I'm out sometimes in fifteen minutes," he said. Changing tack, he continued: "You'll have to place yourself in my charge now. You must learn what to do on the bench, because you've never been there."

Bill Dickey, the team's spark plug, rooms with Gehrig, and reported today that he found Lou a changed man. There was mental buoyancy and physical ease about the veteran for the first time since gloom overtook Gehrig with the realization he was nearing the end of his rope.

All on the club are puzzled by what they consider an amazingly rapid collapse. None recognizes a gradual decline. Most of all, Gehrig is puzzled.

BAT CHANGE NO HELP

"I just can't understand," he said today. "I am not sick. The stomach complaint which was revealed last year in three separate examinations I underwent has been cleared up by observance of a strict diet. My eye is sharp, yet I was not swinging as of old. I reduced the weight of my bat from thirty-six to thirty-three ounces, thinking a change might work to my advantage, but it didn't. I went back to the thirty-six and it was the same. Maybe a rest will do me good."

Gehrig was around when the glamorous Babe Ruth passed out of the spotlight. The Babe's slowness afoot and the dullness of his batting eye cost the Yanks many a ball game. Gehrig didn't want this to happen and he was tormented with the knowledge that exactly this was happening again with him in the line-up. Not even derisive shouts of the fans—and they were becoming derisive—counted against this cold realization.

Talking the matter over with President Ed Barrow on the phone this morning, Manager Joe McCarthy was overheard to remark:

"It's just as well he made up his mind to get out. I never wanted to hear anybody shout 'Yer big bum' when Lou missed. He's been too grand a fellow, too big a figure in baseball for that."

That about sums up the situation. Whether Gehrig ever again will play is extremely doubtful, although, of course, he will not admit this. But the feeling is general that Lou has played his last ball game; the suspicion is strong that he will be off the club next year.

HANKYU WINS SPRING SEASON OF PRO LEAGUE

The Spring season of the professional baseball league came to a close Tuesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here with Hankyu of Osaka winning its first title in five years of competition. The team finished a full game ahead of the Tokyo Giants by routing Nagoya, 10 to 1, in Tuesday's twinbill. The Senators flanked the last place Dolfins, 3-0 in the day's curtain-raiser. The standings of the teams, who got into action on March 18, follow:

	G	W	L	T	Pct.
Hankyu	32	23	9	0	.719
Giants	32	22	10	0	.688

Eagles	32	13	18	1	.419
Nagoya	32	10	19	3	.345
Dolfins	32	7	25	0	.219

The league's pennant was presented to Captain Minoru Yamashita, representing the Hankyu nine, in ceremonies after the nightcap. To Yasuhiro Kawakami, pitcher of the Giants, was awarded a silver bat for the best batting percentage. He lashed out 40 hits out of 106 times at bat in 30 games for a grand .377 mark, the highest ever recorded in the circuit.

RED SOX TOP TIGERS, 5 TO 4, BEHIND GROVE

DETROIT, May 6—The Boston Red Sox clung to first place in the American League today by nosing out the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4, with the aid of the eight-hit pitching of Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove. The defeat was the fifth straight for the Tigers and dropped them to sixth place.

With Joe Vosmik setting the pace with a homer and two singles, the Boston club laid down a ten-hit barrage. Eight of the blows and four of the five runs were scored off George Gill in the first four and one-third innings. Paul Trout finished and was in trouble only in the sixth when Boston pushed over the winning run on singles by Bobby Doerr and Roger Cramer interspersed by a walk to Grove.

Boston took a two-run lead in the first on singles by Cramer, Vosmik and Jimmy Fox and a boot by Chester Laabs.

Detroit tied it up in the second on doubles by Hank Greenberg and Chester Laabs and a single by Frank Croucher.

Vosmik's homer with Cramer on base scored two more Red Sox runs in the fifth.

Rudy York's circuit blow gave Detroit a run in the sixth.

In the final inning Grove was forced to stifle a Tiger rally. Greenberg walked to open the frame, but York and Laabs popped. Frank (Pinky) Higgins, out all spring with a spike wound, made his first appearance as a pinch hitter and singled, scoring Greenberg, but George Tebbetts, the next Tiger pinch hitter, rolled out.

REDS CAPTURE LEADERSHIP IN NATIONAL

BOSTON, May 6—Laying down a barrage of thirteen hits, Cincinnati's powerful Reds defeated the Boston Bees, 6 to 4, today and took over leadership of the National League flag chase. It was Boston's third straight loss.

The Reds knocked Boston ace, Lou Fette, out of the box after getting eight hits from his offerings. Johnny Lanning and Joe Sullivan fared better, but the rampaging Reds had gained a lead they refused to surrender.

WALTERS CHECKS BOSTON

With a ladies' day crowd of more than 20,000 cheering them on, the Bees jumped on Bucky Walters, an ex-Boston player for eleven hits, but were unable to upset him in the pinches. Walters bore down with men on bases, and eight judiciously-placed strikeouts turned the tide in his favor.

Linus Frey's double with one out started the Reds on the victory path in the first inning, and before the side was retired Cincinnati had pushed over three runs.

REDS MAINTAIN LEAD

The Bees scored in the second and third innings, but Cincinnati remained ahead and counted another tally in the fourth inning.

In the fifth, with Johnny Lanning pitching for Boston, Ernie Lombardi, big Cincinnati catcher, poled out his first homer of the season with a teammate on base. Although Boston scored twice in the sixth inning, the Bees never were able to head off the visitors.

It was Fette's first defeat after three victories. Walters registered his third triumph of the season.

Canadian Quintet To Play 4 Games Here

Of the four games to be played in Tokyo by the Canadian basketball team slated to arrive here in July, the opposition in two will be furnished by the All-Japan squad and the other two by university teams.

The university teams to meet the visitors will be determined by an elimination round to be held on June 16 and 17 at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi. The teams to compete are: Rikkyo, Waseda, Tokyo Imperial, Meiji, Bunrika, Shodai and Keio universities, and another technical school team to be named.

32 RECORDS APPROVED BY N.C.A.A.

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 3—The National Collegiate A. A. committee on swimming records has approved thirty-two of the records established this year, it was disclosed yesterday, when Philip S. Harburger, chairman, released the list of new marks accepted by his committee. Ten were set by varsity swimmers, thirteen by college freshmen and nine by schoolboys.

Outstanding were short course breast-stroke performances of 2:22 for 200 yards by Richard Hough of Princeton, 1:02.1 for 100 yards by James Skinner of Exeter Academy and a 300-yard medley relay time of 2:51.9 made by the Tiger trio of Albert Vande Weghe, Hough and Hendrik Van Oss.

BETTERED UNIVERSAL TIMES

The exploits of Hough and Skinner beat the listed and claimed world's standards of 2:22.5 and 1:02.7 respectively, while the medley mark rates universal rank also, for although no world's record is registered for the event, the time is the fastest ever made. The former American and collegiate record stood at 2:53.6.

College freshmen not only made a near sweep of the tabled mark but they dealt amazing slashes to some of them. Paul Herron of Stanford, for instance, struck down the 20-yard course time for 440 yards free-style from 5:13.7 to 4:45.7, shading the varsity record of 4:46.4, and he ripped the figures for 150 yards back-stroke from 1:57.5 to 1:37.8.

JOHNSON OF YALE SHONE

Howard Johnson of Yale toppled the short course free-style records for 100 yards from 0:55 to 0:52.5 and 220 yards from 2:18.2 to 2:12.5, besides teaming with Edward Pope, Richard Kelly and Everett McLeman to knock down the time for the 400-yard relay from 3:45.9 to 3:44.7, a striking average of a trifle under 0:53.7 per 100 yards.

The list of accepted records follows:

NATIONAL INTERCOLLEGIATE

PENN TAKES DOUBLEHEADER FROM YALE

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 6—Pennsylvania won both ends of today's Eastern Intercollegiate League doubleheader with Yale, winning the seven-inning opener 5 to 1 and the ten-inning second fray, 3 to 2. In Yale's two other major engagements the Blue defeated Penn, 6 to 3, in tennis and swamped Lehigh in lacrosse, 12 to 2. The Yale freshmen blanked Peekskill Academy, 6 to 0, in baseball and the New York Military Academy in lacrosse, 7 to 0.

The extra-inning battle was a pitchers' struggle all the way between Lyn Fawley, who let the Blue down with three scattered hits, and Al Stevens, who was touched for six safeties but fanned eight against one for Penn's winning hurler. The winning run came as the result of a fielder's choice on McDonald, his stolen base, a passed ball and Trexler's squeeze bunt to Stevens, which McDonald beat to the plate. Trexler also knocked in McDonald earlier in the game after the latter had tripled to left center.

In the first game Penn hopped on the offerings of Joe Wood for an early 5-to-0 lead, helped along also by a flock of Yale errors. Yale could garner only five hits off Caputo, three singles accounting for a run in the third frame.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"—by Ripley

Important New Rule In Basketball Adopted

NEW YORK, May 3—An important new basketball rule, designed to discourage teams from committing deliberate fouls to gain possession of the ball, was announced yesterday by the National Rules Committee at the close of its annual two-day session.

The new regulation, effective immediately, provides that after a free throw on a technical foul the ball will be awarded to the offended team, to be put in play from out-of-bounds at mid-court, whether or not the throw is successful.

Heretofore the side which committed the foul was allowed to put the ball in play again from the end of the court, providing the free throw was successful. If the throw was missed, the offenders had a chance to get it on the rebound.

The rule also provides that when a personal foul is called the offended team shall have the option either of trying for the free goal or of waiving the penalty and putting the ball back in play from out-of-bounds at mid-court. If two free throws are awarded, the offended side may try for one and then pass up the second. The rule does not, of course, apply to a double foul.

Another new measure stipulates that if a player trying for a field goal is fouled from behind or roughed he shall be awarded two free throws, whether the field goal is made or not. This is designed further to discourage rough play.

The Committee decided that hereafter any player may ask the referee for time-out, instead of the captain alone, as formerly. Ninety-four feet was set down as the ideal length for a court, with the basket four feet inside the end line.

H. H. Salmon Jr., of New York City was re-elected Chairman of the body, with John W. Bunn of Stanford University, Vice-Chairman.

Political Note

"Borah likes to ride alone," his associates say, not only of his political actions, but of his daily horseback riding.

President Coolidge, upon hearing a similar remark, was puzzled that Borah rode at all. "I always understood," said Coolidge, "that in horseback riding, the rider had to go in the same direction as the horse."

OTT HOMERS WITH 2 ON TO AID GIANTS

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 3—The Giants came out of their five-game losing streak with such explosive force yesterday that they practically blew the hat right off the head of Will McKechnie, the mild-mannered manager of the Cincinnati Reds. With two out, two men on base and two runs behind in the ninth inning at the Polo Grounds, Master Melvin Ott lashed a home run into the upper right-field stands to give the New Yorkers a dramatic 8-7 victory.

The Reds had been about ready to walk out with the ball game when Ott delivered. And the Giants were teetering uncertainly on the brink of the National League cellar, for, if their captain had been retired, they would have dropped into a tie for last place, to their extreme embarrassment.

It may not be sound ethics to hit a man when he is down, but it is good baseball, and the Cincinnatians, leading the invasion of the Western clubs into New York, were belaboring the hapless Clan Stoneham in very annoying fashion.

DOWN, THEN UP AGAIN

They jumped into an early lead, were overhauled, went ahead again and then seemed to be outdistanced as the Terry hitters came to life in the sixth for three runs. That, however, seemed only part of a nefarious plot to tantalize our heroes. Cincinnati came bouncing back in the seventh for three runs and a 6-5 advantage. One extra tally in the first half of the ninth appeared to settle things.

Harry Gumbert had started for the Giants and did not fare so well. His curve repeatedly missed the outside corners. Dick Coffman relieved him in the middle of the Red uprising in the seventh and also pitched indifferently. But Paul Derringer had been no ball of fire for the first six frames and the only good hurling of the afternoon was unfurled by Rookie Gene Thompson—until the fatal ninth.

Then things happened so fast that it was hard for the enthusiastic crowd of 9,078 to follow. Ken O'Dea pinch-hit for Coffman and rolled out. Hope was dying rapidly when Jo-Jo Moore, out of his slump, rammed his third safety to center. Billy Jurges fanned for the second out. But Harry Danning belted his third hit to right and up stepped Master Melvin.

SMASHES THIRD PITCH

The first pitch was a strike. The second was a ball. The third was the pay-off blow. Ott had to fight the crowd all the way from first base to the plate in order to make the homer legal.

Terry revised his line-up for this fray. Ott was returned to third base with Bob Seeds in center and Frank Demaree in right. The change appeared to have a tonic effect since the Giants reacted to the extent of thirteen hits.

It was a wild sort of game. The Reds filled the bases with none out in the first and failed to score. They picked up two in the second on a walk, a hit and a double. Back came the Giants with one tally on a pair of safeties. They tied the count an inning later on a homer by Danning. Two more walks and a single put the Reds on top again.

Five hits gave the New Yorkers three runs in the sixth and five hits gave Cincinnati three runs in the seventh.

Keio Gridders Down Kansai University, 14-6

Keio defeated Kansai University, 14 to 6, in their fifth American football game Wednesday afternoon at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka. It was five in a row for Keio.

Fullback Tamura won for Keio by intercepting a Kansai forward pass and scoring a touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Keio tallied a touchdown and converted in the second quarter to lead, 7-0, at halftime. Kansai rallied in the third by registering a touchdown but failed to convert.

Keio, Waseda Nines To Battle for Title First Time in 10 Years

All roads will lead to the Meiji Shrine stadium Saturday and Sunday for the Keio and Waseda university teams will be clashing for the first time in 10 years for the championship of the Tokyo six University Baseball league. Even without any championship element, this series, the real baseball classic of the country, attracts a capacity crowd with thousands unable to procure tickets each time it is held semi-annually.

Both teams are tied with six points, Keio the result of six victories and two defeats and Waseda, five victories, two draws and one defeat. In the event the series, a two-game affair, should end with a victory each, the third play-off game will be played on Monday.

To date, since the revival of this series in 1925, the two institutions have played 61 games with Waseda having won 32 games as compared with 28 by Keio, one game having ended in a draw.

Both teams are evenly matched and the breaks should decide the winner. In Southpaw Kondo and Righthander Ishiguro, Waseda seems to have the edge in the pitching over Shiraki and Takagi, both righthanders of Keio.

Third Basemen Minamimura of Waseda, leading hitter in the circuit, entered a hospital this week for observation on a suspected case of appendicitis, and if he doesn't play, it will mean a hard blow to his team.

HUNGARIAN GIRL IS COMING STAR IN TENNIS

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON — A sensational little character has come and gone in British lawn tennis. Zsuzsi Kormoczy, of Hungary. And, as she assured everyone before departure, she will be back. Fourteen years old, freckled and with her hair in plaits, Zsuzsi made a great impression on the experts during her short stay here. Some even went so far as to predict great things for her at Wimbledon, though at present she is two years too young to be accepted as an entrant for the championships of the All-England Club there.

WORTHY VICTORIES

It is not contended, of course, that Zsuzsi knows all there is to know about the game that she has been playing with such prodigious enthusiasm since she was a mere girl of nine. But she knew enough to gain some very worthy victories in the Melbury Club's tournament early this season. The peak of her attainment being to reach the final of the women's singles, in which she opposed, and was defeated by, the celebrated lefthanded Wightman Cup star, Kay Stammers, at a score of 6—1, 6—1.

What with the blustering wind, and the occasion, and the dust, and the renown of her opponent, and the rain, and one thing and another, Miss Kormoczy was by no means her usual lawn tennis self in this engagement. "Minnehaha," as the little visitor has been nicknamed here, had plenty of speed about the court—she is a most agile, enterprising and stouthearted young lady—but her weapons were inadequate against a widely experienced player who could hit harder and shift the direction of attack at will.

Zsuzsi, it had been remarked, usually played at her best in tournament matches after losing a set. And, against Kay, she played better when she had done that than she did before. But her best on this occasion was not nearly so good as some of the tennis she produced en route for the final. Probably her best display was against Evelyn M. Dearman, a tall, stately stroke-player with world-wide experience. Zsuzsi in this match was very crafty in the way she varied speed and length of stroke, she was very plucky when she pulled up from being 3-5 down in the second set, and she was very nimble all the while, reaching the widest-hit balls with sufficient poise to make attacking shots off them. The score was 6—4, 7—5.

After such a success, and her subsequent victories over Rosemary Thomas and Jean Saunders, it was probably a salutary experience for Zsuzsi that she should receive a really sound beating in the final. It was calculated, anyway, to help her in discounting some of the newspaper panegyrics that accompanied her rapid rise into the big headlines. She has been hailed in fulsome terms are a certain world-beater. Maybe that is what she is. But she has plenty to learn first.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Of course, a lady of only 14 years has other things to learn besides lawn tennis. Which explains why Miss Kormoczy had to go back from England when she did. She had to return to school, with two months of hard work ahead of her before she could resume serious studies on the tournament lawn tennis court.

While in England, she learned the language with remarkable facility, and, if she picked up tennis tips as rapidly, she is certainly liable to justify some of the exceedingly nice things said about her play. She is not a one-game girl, by any means. She ranks, I understand, among the first half dozen women fencers in Hungary and, like most Hungarians, is a keen and capable swimmer.

JOHNSTOWN WINS KENTUCKY DERBY BY 8 LENGTHS FROM CHALLEDON

By STANLEY WOODWARD

LOUISVILLE, May 6—The Kentucky Derby may have been the thrill of a lifetime to 80,000 fanatics who jammed Churchill Downs racetrack today, but to Johnstown it was just another canter. He picked up his ears when he saw all the people, he skittered a little in the parade to the post as the band played "My Old Kentucky Home," then he turned the sixty-fifth running of the Blue Grass classic into a holocaust, running away from his field and finishing under light restraint eight lengths ahead of Challedon, his nearest competitor.

Theoretically, at least, the Kentucky Derby annually marshals the best three-year-olds in the land, but there was nothing in the field that proved itself fit to line up at the barrier with William Woodward's puissant bay. Getting away fifth, Big John ran down El Chico and took the lead before they went under the wire the first time. Then he settled into a ground-devouring gallop which killed off his fruitless field.

HEATHER BROOM THIRD

Challedon came up in the stretch to beat Heather Broom a length for the place. The latter held third place by a head over Viscounty, winner of Wednesday's Derby Trial. The rest of the field staggered in from six to thirty lengths farther back. Technician, a badly busted second choice; El Chico, last year's two-year-old champioon, T. M. Dorsett and On Location finished in that order. Challenge, Johnstown's stablemate, and Xalapa Clown were scratched early in the afternoon.

Johnstown ran the mile and a quarter in 2:03 2-5, clicking off the quarters as follows: 0:23 2-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:12 4-5, 1:38. He went to the post heavily odds-on, the shortest priced winner since Agile won in 1905. Johnstown rewarded his backers at the rate of $3.20 $3, $2.80. He won for his owner $46,350 of which, it is understood, 10 per cent goes to Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons and 10 per cent to his rider, Jimmy Stout; Challedon won $6,000 for finishing second; Heather Broom $3,000 and Viscounty $1,000.

CLAIM TO GREATNESS

These are the bare facts of a race that never will be forgotten by the thousands who saw it, despite the fact that it lacked all the elements of competition. They are saying in Jefferson County tonight that Big John is the greatest of all the Derby winners. Near retrospect is a fooler, but no Derby horse ever won with more style and conviction, not Gallant Fox, nor Omaha, Woodward's other winners, nor even War Admiral or Exterminator.

It was a race without suspense. After the stentorian shout, "They're off," the crowd hummed and gasped instead of roaring in traditional manner. Big John just ran and the thousands who jammed half a mile of grandstand, overan the infield, swarmed in trees and crowded the barn roofs beyond the backstretch looked on with awe that was half fright and half admiration.

Starting in sixth position, Stout took the big bay sharply inward, passing one horse after another as he made for the rail. Just before they reached the wire the first time around he burst past El Chico in a bound, then took the rail and ran away. Stout had him running easily and never even showed him the whip.

OVATION TO WINNER

Big John came down the stretch with his ears cocked as if questioning the fact that he was in a race. His biggest ovation came when he came back past the stand with the lead pony with Stout standing in the stirrups and smiling from ear to ear.

He stood like a plow-horse in the winner's circle as the traditional blanket of flowers was placed on his shoulders. Old Jim Fitzsimmons, who had been lost in the crowd and never saw the race, was hurried through the mob to hold his bridle. "He's a smart horse and he can run," said Fitz, wiping his eyes. There's a miracle of understatement.

Woodward accepted the trophy from Governor Alfred Benjamin (Happy) Chandler. Then Big John was blanketed and led away to the barns with Tom Driscoll, assistant trainer, walking beside him. Maybe they can beat him in the Preakness and the Belmont, but no one here will believe it.

They certainly won't if he runs as he did today, for it looked as if he could have broken the track record, 2:01 4-5, set by Twenty Grand, if there had been any occasion for doing it.

While Big John was running all by himself, quite a battle for secondary honors was going on in his wake. Challedon, virtually left at the barrier, turned on his speed on the last turn, caught Viscounty at the head of the stretch and hung on. The latter ran in second place over the middle half mile but wobbled in the stretch, and also let Heather Broom catch him. The rest of the field, broken to pieces, came under the wire in a staggering line. Some of the horses won't go to the races for a long time, so dreadful was the toll exacted by Big John.

Only his running and the terrific crowd which came to Churchill Downs made the race memorable. The field of eight horses which went to the barrier was the smallest since 1918, Exterminator's year. The return to the bettors who held tickets on Johnstown, Challedon and Heather Broom were the smallest since 1905, for the latter two were heavily played to place and show. Challedon paid $3.60 and $3.20, Heather Broom $3.00.

Col. Matt J. Winn makes it a habit never to announce the Derby crowd or the returns at the gate. For years he has been counting his crowds at 75,000. If he has been accurate, this one was easily 80,000. Every seat, including 5,000 new ones on the upper turn, was filled and the infield crowded with customers. Bright nature and the fame of Johnstown did it.

BRIGHT SUNSHINE PREVAILS

In spite of the doleful predictions of the local weather prognosticator the Derby crowd woke up after its traditional pre-race bout with the "bubbon" in the brightest of sunshine. There wasn't a cloud in the sky when the customers ate their breakfasts and took their headache pills.

Activity started at the track at dawn. Most of the Derby horses were taken out of the barns for an early canter. The gates were opened at 8 o'clock and customers immediately filled the new 50-cent seats at the lower turn and started straggling into the infield. No one yet has been able to get an accurate count of a Derby crowd, but the new bargain stand, complete with $1 mutuel windows, gave this crowd a greater potentiality than any of its predecessors.

At 10 o'clock there were several thousand people in the infield inclosure and the loud speakers was advising the customers to make their bets early and avoid the late crush at the windows. At this juncture Col. Matt J. Winn, the Derby impressario took a stroll around the grounds and renewed his prophecy that this would be the biggest crowd in sixty-five years of Derby history.

PAINT, FLAGS, SPARROW HAWKS

The colonel must have had vicarious satisfaction from the work of his employes, for the plant had acquired a superlative glisten. Two American flags flew from staffs on either side of the infield mutuel board; and the green and gold burgee of Churchill Downs flew from the cupolas of the grandstand. Tulips bloomed in the infield and clubhouse garden, and the race track's private pair of sparrow hawks wheeled and pirouetted in front of the grandstand as if performing for the crowd.

An hour before noon, when the field for the first race went to the post, the crush in the clubhouse was stifling. The restaurant and bar rooms were chocked to capacity and several hundred were waiting on the chance they would get something to eat before the first race. Colonels and judges were a dime a dozen and the race-track staff was waiting to welcome Governor Alfred Benjamin (Happy) Chandler.

ANYTHING FOR SALE—FOR A PRICE

You could buy almost everything from a gardenia to a periscope if you were willing to pay the prices the boys were asking. Experienced infield customers who had failed to catch more than a glimpse of previous Derbies were creating quite a market for the latter commodity. Jerry-built stools and field glasses were going fast and the customers were beginning to mob the rows of mutuel windows in grandstands, infield and clubhouse. Every window in the park was open, and the man at the loud speaker exhorted the clients every two minutes to make their bets early.

When the first race went to the post almost all of the grandstand seats were full and some of the box-holders were drifting in. A real Derby Day shout went up when Sassy Mate, the favorite, won handily over Sun Dodger, the second choice.

FIELD CUT TO EIGHT

It was announced at this time that Challenge, which was coupled with Johnstown in the betting as the Belair Stud entry, had been withdrawn. This left the Derby field at nine but a little later Mrs. Bessie Franzheim's Xalapa Clown was withdrawn, cutting the starters to eight. This is the smallest field since 1914, when Old Rosebud beat six rivals. There was an eight-horse field in 1918 when Exterminator won.

The withdrawal of Challenge, which transformed Johnstown into an individual wager, didn't affect the odds a bit.

The bettors at this time were busily engaged in beating the Woodward standard bearer into an odds-on favorite and the removal of Challenge did not cause a ripple.

Two and a half hours before the big race all space from which it was possible to catch a glimpse of the finish was occupied. The stands at the bottom of the stretch were solid and people were pressed against the wire fence at the first turn. The racing schedule moved along at half hour intervals and in between four university bands—Kentucky, Indiana, Louisville and Xavier—played and performed intercollegiate typography in the reserved garden space opposite the clubhouse.

A squad of Kentucky students in false whiskers and the gray uniforms of 1865 made a hit performing the Confederate manual of arms while a color bearer flew the Stars and Bars. Meanwhile a couple of three-card monte games started in the infield enclosure. As usual the the black card was hard to spot.

3 OF FIRST 4 FAVORITES WIN

Those who planned to play the Derby favorite had encouragement from the early racing, for favorites won three of the first four races. The only iconoclast was the plater, Hat Check, which paid $14 in the third race. Shadytown and Robert L. followed the lead of the Sassy Mate, the first favorite, winning handily in the second and fourth races.

While the crowd was waiting for the fifth race it was announced that Mrs. Franzheim had scratched Xalapa Clown. This increased the pressure at the overtaxed windows as the customers went to work attempting to get their investments back. It was reported that the Clown had been heavily backed to show.

STEEL HEELS BEATEN

Well played horses won the other two pre-Derby races. Ben Jones sent out his third Woolford Farm winner in Spin On, which made a romp out of the fifth race. Steel Heels, transplanted Derby horse, finished out of the money at six furlongs. Silverette, fourth winning favorite, had no trouble in the sixth race, another six-furlong dash.

As soon as the race was over, the Derby colts were led around the track from the stables to the paddock. El Chico was escorted by a lead pony and four soldiers. Johnstown walked along placidly behind a groom. Technician was the last to enter the paddock, half an hour before post time. He cantered around the track with an exercise boy on his back beside a gray lead pony which carried his racing saddle.

At this point the crush around the mutuel windows was murderous. The battle of the blue grass was ready to begin.

Nihon 'U' Trio Sets New Record in Medley

Nihon University's trio of Hamuro, Sasaki and Taniguchi, negotiated the 300-meter medley relay in 3 minutes 24.6 seconds Thursday afternoon in trials at the Nihon University pool. The mark shattered the record of 3 minutes 24.8 set by the same trio in the Meiji-Rikkyo-Nihon universities triangular meet last year.

Taniguchi swam the backstroke in 1 minute 11.6 seconds, Hamuro the breaststroke in 1 minute 13.4 seconds and Sasaki the freestyle in 59.6 seconds.

This year's Meiji-Rikkyo-Nihon universities triangular meet will be held at the Meiji Shrine pool on Saturday, June 11.

FORDHAM TOPS PRINCETON NINE BY 6-4 COUNT

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 6—A three-run rally in the eighth inning enabled the Fordham baseball team to register a triumph over its ancient enemy, Georgetown, at Fordham Field yesterday. The Maroons, going into its half of the inning trailing by a run, capitalized on the visitors' jittery fielding to push across the trio of markers and emerge with the victory, 6—4.

Gene Bowe, speed-ball pitcher from Floral Park, L. I., carried out the hurling assignment for the Rose Hill athletes, and his performance was creditable indeed. Although he was touched for eight hits, he kept the blows pretty well scattered, and he proved himself the master of the Georgetown batsmen for the greater part of the battle, striking out twelve men.

COFFEY SURPRISES HOYAS

The Hoyas expected to find Hank Borowy, the Rams' pitching ace, on the mound against them, but injuries within his team's ranks caused Jack Coffey, mentor of the Fordham aggregation, to change his plans and start Bowe. Borowy, however, was very much in the battle. He was conscripted to play right field, and, though he did not shine in the outer garden, he turned in a more than passing performance at the plate. Hank kept the Maroon in the running all through the contest, driving in his nine's first two runs with a single in the first inning, and contributing a homer in the fifth to enable the Rams to draw even with their foes at 3—3.

Vinnie Powers did the pitching for Georgetown, and with a little more support might have been a winner. His team-mates fell down execrably behind him, committing a total of seven misplays. Fordham made three errors.

RAMS LOSE LITTLE TIME

Things went very much against Powers when the Rams faced him in the opening inning. With two out and two men on the bases, the Georgetown hurler grooved one to Borowy, who lined past shortstop to drive home both runners. Georgetown got one in the second. With one out, Jim Durkin doubled, Joe McFadden walked, and, after Joe Moran fanned, Stan Blaszek was passed, loading the bases. Powers then rapped a grounder to second, but the ball was misplayed, and Durkin scored. Lou Ghecas grounded out to end the rally. The Hoyas added two in the third to go ahead, 3-2.

After Borowy's homer the visitors got one in the eighth to lead 4—3. Jack Hearn started Fordham's half of the eighth with a single. Mike Hearn drew a pass, then Petrino laid down a neat bunt and was safe when Powers's throw to first was wide, Jack Hearn scoring and Mike Hearn taking third. McGurk grounded to second and Mike beat the throw home. Petrino stole third and McGurk stole second before the former tallied on Blaszek's wild throw to second base.

Keio-Waseda Games Will Start At 1:30 P.M.

The Keio versus Waseda ball games on Saturday and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium, which will decide the winner of the Spring season of the Tokyo Six University league, will start each day at 1:30 p.m.

Representatives of both institutions had a powwow with the Yotsuya Police Station authorities Thursday afternoon and agreed on the following points:

The Outer Garden of the Meiji Shrine will be closed from 11 p.m. of the preceding day to 5 a.m. on the day of the game; gates to the stadium will be opened at 8 a.m.

One hundred infield tickets each on the first and third base lines, or a total of 200, and 10,000 outfield tickets will be put on sale each day.

Holders of season reserved seats, invitational and special tickets will not be allowed to bring children.

Student passes will be limited to those of Keio and Waseda.

None will be admitted without tickets and passes.

Cheering will be confined to the rooting sections of the competing teams.

DUKE TURNS BACK PRINCETON BY 5-3

N.Y. Times

PRINCETON, N. J., May 2—Duke's baseball team, which lost its first game in 26 encounters to Maryland yesterday, defeated Princeton, 5-3, on University Field today, but met unexpected opposition from the Tigers, who outhit their opponents 12-8, and twice had threatening tallies die on third base. Three hundred fans saw the Orange and Black drop its seventh straight game.

Glenn Price, Blue Devil third-sacker, pounded out two hits in four times up, one a homer in the seventh that brought in a runner ahead of him with the deciding score and the other a triple in the fourth, when Eddie Shokes singled to drive him home.

An error and two singles in the third gave Duke its first two counters. A three-bagger by Mark Robbins and a subsequent single gave Old Nassau a tally in the second. The Bengals sent in another on a single and double by Billy Moore in the fourth frame and a third on three singles in the seventh.

Bob Vickery of Duke and Dan Carmichael of Princeton carried their respective pitching assignments the full contest.

YANKEES BEAT FELLER, 10-6 BEFORE 12,000

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

CLEVELAND, May 4—The Yankees met Bobby Feller and the other Indians today for the first time this year at League Park before about 12,000 fans and the experience was gratifying to the world champions.

They won their first overtime game of the campaign, 10 to 6, and snapped the young right-hander's pitching string after three straight victories.

The battle took ten innings, consumed 3 hours 16 minutes and was voted a perfect waste of time by Manager Ossie Vitt of Cleveland and most of the crowd, which lingered in the dusk to shout derision at the weary Cleveland athletes.

Feller had to pitch so hard with the Yankee heat on him that he was troubled with a blister on a finger of his good right hand in the tenth and had to withdraw after walking Jawn Murphy and hurling two balls to Frankie Crosetti. At the time the score was 6-all. When Feller left, the element of competition went with him.

HUMPHRIES AND DRAKE FOLLOW

Johnny Humphries replaced Feller only long enough to complete a pass to Crosetti and fill the bases with another to Red Robert Rolfe. Tommy Drake was summoned and every time he looked around, the bases were full.

Hal Trosky erred on a throw to retire Murphy at the plate and the tie was broken. Bill Dickey walked, forcing in Crosetti. Charley Keller's rap forced Rolfe at the plate, but the bases were still full and George Selkirk's single chased in Tommy Henrich. Then Dickey scored as Joe Gordon was tossed out. The net result was four large runs and the ball game.

Irving (Bump) Hadley started in the box for the Yanks and had the support of George Selkirk's third homer of the year, a blast over the right-field fence with two on in the fourth, to spur him on.

But in the fifth a Cleveland run came in on a couple of fluke hits. The Yanks nicked Feller for another tally in the sixth, but the Indians came back in their half and hammered Hadley for four hits and four runs. The last blow off Hadley was Roy Weatherly's triple, which scored two.

BREUER YIELDS A RUN

This brought Atley Donald on the scene and he held the enemy safe through the seventh. In the eighth, however, Marvin Breuer signalized his debut as a Yankee by giving up a run on a double, a single, a pass and a sacrifice fly, making it necessary for the Yanks to count twice in the ninth to stay in the ball game.

They did exactly this on Henrich's double, Dickey's single, the latter's agility in getting down to second on Keller's long fly, an intentional pass to Selkirk and Gordon's blazing single.

After that Murphy, summoned in the ninth, saw to it that no inroads were made on the Yankee lead.

FELLER WALKS TEN

Feller's pass list looked like his normal strikeout string. The young Iowan walked ten batters. But he refused to claim the blistered finger as an alibi after the game. "I just tired," he said.

JOHNSON OF PHILS DEFEATS CUBS, 6-1

PHILADELPHIA, May 2—Thirty-eight-year-old Sylvester Johnson held the Cubs to four hits today while the Phillies tagged Ray Harrell and Jack Russell for eleven and a 6-to-1 victory.

Merrill May led the Phils' assault with three safeties, while George Scharein drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and a triple.

Manager Leo Hartnett batted in the only Cub run. Gabby singled after Phil Cavarretta had doubled to left center in the fifth.

HENLEY REGATTA HAS UNDERGONE LITTLE CHANGE IN A CENTURY

Domei Tsushin

BERLIN, June 2—The German rowing union announced today that it had cancelled all German entries in the Henley Centenary Regatta scheduled to be staged for four days opening on July 5.

The rowing union announced that it had decided not to participate in the Henley regatta on the ground of prevalent political relations between Britain and Germany. It is believed that the union's decision possibly was prompted by the International Student Federation's refusal two weeks ago not to support the international athletic event scheduled to be held in Vienna in August.

The Times, London

(The Royal Regatta to be held at Henley on July 5, 6, 7, and 8 will mark the centenary of the famous meeting in a scene which has changed little since the "landed gentry and principal townspeople" passed their initiating resolution.)

In an age when many sports are primarily conducted in order to make money for those who stage the spectacle, or hold the prospect of direct or indirect commercial gain for the participants, Henley Royal Regatta is a notable exception.

Rowing remains one of the few sports in the world in which the best amateurs are definitely better than the best professionals. Whatever may have been the case 100 years ago, the Stewards of Henley Regatta today are mostly old oarsmen of distinction, and their aim is simply to provide an opportunity for the best oarsmen in this and other countries to fight out their battles in the fairest possible conditions and the pleasantest surroundings, so as to give them and the spectators the amplest satisfaction. Nobody who has watched a regatta at Henley could fail to realize how splendidly they have succeeded. Year after year crews come from all over the world to compete in the various events, success in which carries a distinction acknowledged in all countries, but nothing else save challenge cups and a medal or cup of comparatively small intrinsic worth. The course may be perfectly laid out, the crews may be the finest in the world, but yet there is still retained the amateur spirit of a more spacious time. Rowing at its best is still a pastime, if a strenuous one. Henley Regatta has been able with all its careful organization to retain something of the feeling of a picnic rather than of an occasion. It has the same pleasant quality that lingers in the village cricket match.

THE FAMILIAR SCENE

In fine weather there are few fairer English scenes than the Henley course. From the grey stone bridge with the square grey church tower at its side the Thames flows wide and straight in a northerly direction for more than a mile and a half. A quarter of a mile away, where there is a slight bend east, on the Buckinghamshire bank is the old Civil War house, Phyllis Court, with its famous wooded gardens, and on the opposite Berkshire bank the Stewards' Enclosure, and boat docks, boat tents, and changing and bath tents stand behind a row of giant poplars overhanging the river. The beech-crowned hills that hem the river in from Henley to Marlow rise sharply but a few hundred yards back from this bank of the river. The finishing post lies a few yards nearer to the bridge than Phyllis Court, and from it converging lines of floating white booms with their piles lead the eye to a heavily wooded island with an imitation Greek temple standing at its upstream point. It is at the bottom of this island that the races start. Behind it can be seen a natural amphitheater of hills beyond Hambleden, with rounded slopes of vivid green cornfields rising here, too, to beechwoods at this summit.

No building has marred the scene, and old engravings show how little this lovely stretch of the river has changed since 1838, when the following passage appeared in the Reading Mercury:

"Henley—Subscription are on foot in the town and neighborhood for the purpose of establishing an Annual Regatta; it is surprising that whilst almost every little town and seaport has succeeded in raising money for a similar purpose it has never been attempted here. As it appears likely to be conducted in a spirited and highly creditable manner we have no doubt Henley with such attractions added to its delightful scenery and beautiful reach of water will shortly stand unrivalled on the banks of the Thames."

On March 26, 1839, "at a meeting of the landed gentry of the neighborhood and the principal townspeople of Henley-on-Thames" the following resolution in connection with the proposed regatta was carried:

"That from the lively interest which has been manifested at the various boat races which have taken place on the Henley reach during the past few years and the great influx of visitors on such occasions, this Meeting is of the opinion that the establishing of an Annual Regatta, under judicious and respectable management, would not only be productive of the most beneficial results to the town of Henley, but from its peculiar attractions would also be a source of amusement and gratification to the neighborhood and the public in general."

A FRIDAY START

As a result of that meeting the first regatta was held on Friday, June 14, 1839. The first race was started at 4 p.m. and the last at 7 p.m. Only two cups were offered for competition, the Grand Challenge Cup for Eights and the Town Cup for Fours. The first event attracted four entries: "Brazen Nose" College, Oxford; Trinity Boat Club, Cambridge; Etonian Club, Oxford; and Wadham College, Oxford. The second event brought three entries —Wave, Dreadnought, and Albion. Trinity Boat Club, Cambridge, won the Grand Challenge Cup and Wave the Town Cup. The optimism of the regatta's sponsors was more fully justified than is usual in such cases, for not only is Henley today "unrivalled" on the banks of the Thames, but successful "Henley" Regattas, with courses of identical length, have long been established so far away as the banks of the River Yarra in Victoria and in North America. Today the Grand Challenge Cup is the most sought-after trophy for eights in the world. The Town Cup for coxed fours was given in trust to the Henley Town Regatta in 1884.

The original course was from the top of Temple Island to the Bridge, a distance of one mile 550 yards. In the early days of the regatta the bridge, according to contemporary accounts, would be packed with carriages and coaches, from which the horses were removed. But this first course was unfair. The crew on the Berks station got considerable advantage from the bend 300 yards from the finish, and in 1886 several rowing men, who had by that time joined the committee of management, succeeded in getting the finish moved down to this bend and the start dropped below the island on the Bucks side. At the same time the course was marked out with piles. It was not until 1899, however, that booms were introduced to prevent spectators' boats from straying on the course and interfering with the racing. These booms have had the additional advantage of assisting the steering of coxswainless boats. The 1886 course, which had two slight bends in it, was not changed until 1923, when the first effort was made to get a perfectly straight course. This course was only a mile and a quarter long, but proved such a success that before 1924 a piece of bank on the Berkshire shore opposite the bottom of Temple Island was removed and the river dredged in order to render possible the present dead straight course of one mile 550 yards.

Three Dominions and 15 foreign countries have in the past sent competitors to Henley, and representatives of two Dominions and nine foreign countries have been successful. The actual number of foreign entries has been 235. Of these 37, or rather more than one in six, have won. The Grand Challenge Cup has been won seven times by crews from other countries, three times by Belgium and one each by Australia, America, Switzerland, and Germany. The Stewards' Cup has been won by Canada and twice by Switzerland. The Goblets have been won by Switzerland, and by Germany in 1903. The Diamond Sculls have been won by foreign competitors on 17 occasions, and since the War it has been the exception for them to stay in this country. The Thames Cup has been won by eight foreign crews. Kent, Tabor, and Browne and Nichols Schools, U. S. A., have between them accounted for five of these successes since 1929. Kent won in 1933 and 1938, and Tabor in 1935 and 1936. The other oversea successes were those of Holland in 1895, France in 1912, and Norway in 1921. The Wyfold Cup has never been won by a foreign crew.

A BELGIAN SURPRISE

Of all oversea competitors the Belgians from the Club Nautique de Grand are probably the best remembered.

They were light men by our standards, but what really misled their English rivals as to their true merits was that they did not follow the rigid routine of English rowing in those days. They occasionally puffed cigarettes. This and the fact that some of them retained their sock suspenders in the boat made it difficult for the English crews to treat them seriously. Notwithstanding, in 1906, rowing with great spirit, they took the Grand Challenge Cup abroad for the first time. In 1907 they won again, showing that their success was no fluke. In 1908 for the Olympic Games a crew composed in part of such veterans of the nineties as Guy Nickalls and C. D. Burnell was formed to re-establish English rowing and ward off the invader. After a magnificent race over a mile-and-a-half course this classic crew proved successful, and it is perhaps not too much to hope that the centenary regatta will evoke another such representative crew. In 1909 the Belgians came back again and once more their "Grand Attaque" proved too good for the best of English crews. No foreign crews have established more permanent ties of friendship with English oarsmen than these, our victors during the first decade of this century, and a Belgian crew would meet a rousing welcome this year.

In 1912 the Sydney Rowing Club sent a beautifully combined crew, which took the Grand Challenge Cup back to Australia. The Australian Army crew, with many of the same men, won the King's Cup in the 1919 Peace Regatta. It is greatly to be hoped that Henley will see this year a crew from the Dominion which has also sent so many fine oarsmen to row in English college and club crews.

In 1914 English rowing suffered a complete eclipse, for the final of the Grand Challenge Cup was fought out between a crew from Harvard and the Boston Union Boat Club.

ZURICH CREWS

Since the War the Grand Challenge Cup has been won by foreign crews twice. After Berlin Rowing Club crews had been beaten by one-third of a length in the semi-final of 1931 and by a quarter of a length in the final of 1933 the German Wiking Rudergesellschaft won in 1937. All these well-drilled and hard-working crews rowed in a somewhat exaggerated and stiff version of the old English style. Canada all but won when they rowed a dead-heat with London in 1929, and though they lost on the re-row, they so exhausted a crew that had broken the record of the course in practice that they lost the final to Leander. Perhaps the outstanding foreign crews of post-War years, however, were the Zurich Rowing Club Four, which won the Stewards' Cup in 1935 and 1936, and their Eight which won the Grand Challenge Cup in 1936. These were very fine crews, powerful, well together, with a fine beginning, and, what is far too rare in modern English crews, a fine finish.

It was in 1921 that the present Emperor of Japan, the Crown Prince, on seeing the Grand Challenge Cup at Magdalen College, Oxford, was so impressed by its story that he announced his intention of getting rowing developed at Tokyo University to a stand that would enable them to send a worthy crew to compete for it. The crew came to Marlow in 1936, rowed 50 to 54 strokes to the minute, and the effect was that of a jiu-jitsu expert on old time wrestlers. They were rigged perfectly in accordance with their stature and won their first race with the greatest ease. But at Henley good big ones were to prove too much for good little ones. In the end Zurich, rowing their hardest from start to finish, left nothing to chance and beat the Japanese by six lengths.

FAMOUS SCULLERS

Of the noted scullers who have won the Diamond Sculls who shall say which was the fastest—Simgaglia, the gigantic Italian of 1914; Hoover, the automaton with the shoulders of a cable chain welder, who won in 1922; Pearce, the present professional champion, winner in 1931; Buhtz, the perfect stylist; Rufli, of the Zurich Club, winner in 1935 and 1936; or Burk, the phenomenal record breaker of 1938, with his entire absence of swing, his piston-like legs, and his boat running straight as an arrow—or whether any of them was the equal of that perfect English sculler F. S. Kelly, whose record of 1905 stood until 1938, or could have rowed down the greatest racing English oarsman of all time, Guy Nickalls, who won in 1888 to 1890, and again in 1893 and 1894?

Whatever notable crews and scullers have delighted Henley in the past it is hoped that this year's centenary regatta will attract the finest that the world can show in 1939. Oversea entries are accepted up to June 1, and from whatever country they come the oarsmen can rely on a hearty welcome. In the comparative informality of Henley they will enjoy the comradeship which is so valuable to the world today and which not all international contests have always provided.

EAT SUKIYAKI TO WIN TODAY

It was a Sukiyaki dinner Friday evening for members of the Keio University baseball team which meets archrivals Waseda at 1:30 p.m. today and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium of the Tokyo Six University league. If a third game is necessary, it will be played on Monday at the same starting hour.

'Nisei' Swimmers Of Hawaii May Swim In Local Championships

Kiyoshi Nakama and Takashi Hirose, Hawaiian-born Japanese star swimmers, may compete in the national championships to be held at the Meiji Shrine pool in August. The decision to undertake negotiations for their visit here was reached by the Japan Swimming Federation Friday.

Reason for the Federation's action is the inability of the German swimmers, who have been invited, to come to Japan this year. Formal information to this effect was received through the German Embassy Friday.

Nakama and Hirose placed first and second this week over Jack Medica, who is well-known in Japan, in a 220-yard freestyle race this week in Honolulu.

Nakama recently returned to Honolulu after a successful invasion of Australia, where he was proclaimed as the greatest American swimmer yet to perform there.

Hirose was a member of the All-American team that toured Europe last year.

NOVA BEATS BAER BY T.K.O. IN 11TH ROUND

Domei Tsushin

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 1—Max Baer's hopes for a ring comeback were shattered tonight when Lou Nova, youthful heavyweight crown contender, scored a technical knockout over the veteran pugilist in the 11th round of their scheduled 15-round bout.

The end came after one minute and 21 seconds of the 11th round. The referee stopped the bout because blood from a nasty cut inside Baer's mouth was choking him.

Baer's much publicized right punished Nova considerably, but the latter held a slight margin in points throughout the ten rounds which were fought. Both fighters were very tired, but young Nova hit Baer almost at will after the 7th round.

Nova, by virtue of his victory tonight, is entitled to a championship bout in September against the winner of the Joe Louis-Tony Galento fight. Louis will fight Galento on June 28.

Tsuruta Defeated By Kodera at Osaka

A major surprise was registered in the men's semi-finals of the 18th annual Daimai tennis championships Friday at the courts at Nakamozu, Osaka when Kodera of the Kobe Commercial School defeated Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio, who recently won the Kanto title, in four sets, 5-7, 8-6, 6-3 and 6-4.

Kagitomi of Keio vanquished Ikujima of Kwansei Gakuin in the other semi-finals match, 6-2, 6-2 and 6-4.

Tsuruta and Kagitomi defeated Kusumoto and Yamagata, also of Keio, 6-4, 6-3 and 6-4, while Horikoshi and Ubara of Koshien took the measure of Ikujima and Yamagata of Kwansei Gakuin, 6-2, 6-2, 4-6 and 9-7 in the semi-finals of the doubles.

Montreal Wins in Tenth On Parks's Homer, 6-5

MONTREAL, May 6—Art Park's tenth-inning home run broke up a close ball game today and gave the Royals a 6-to-5 victory over the Baltimore Orioles and a 2-to-1 edge in the series.

Baltimore got away to a four-run start in the first inning, but Montreal finally caught up in the eighth when Normie Kies's pinch double tied it up.

Parks, first up the tenth, pasted the ball on the top of the right-field scoreboard and gave Sam Nahem, bespectacled rookie right hander, who hurled the last three innings, his first International League decision.

The score by innings:

		R	H	E
Baltimore	400 010 000	5	7	1
Montreal	000 103 010	6	10	1

Batteries—Hughes, Davis (7) and West; Duke, Nahem (8) and Hartje.

CORNELL BEATS PENN, 81-54, IN TRACK MEET

PHILADELPHIA, May 6—Cornell University's trackmen, capturing ten first places and a tie for first in another event, humbled Pennsylvania's varsity, 81 to 54, in a dual meet on Franklin Field today.

The Big Red runners made a clean sweep of all three positions in the quarter-mile, half-mile and two-mile events and placed in every other. John Nevius led the visitors home in the 440 in the excellent time of 48.8 seconds.

James Pender led the individual scoring with first places in the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard low hurdles. George Kroupa, Penn's sophomore, was close at his heels with nine points.

The summaries:

100-yard dash—Won by James Pender, Cornell; George Kroupa, Pennsylvania, second; Reeve Swezey, Cornell, third. Time—0:10.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Hughes Cauffman, Pennsylvania; James Adams, Pennsylvania, second; Laurence Wheeler, Cornell, third. Time—0:14.9.

Mile—Won by John Drehinger, Pennsylvania; Emery Winegerter, Cornell, second; Benjamin Levy, Cornell, third. Time—4:25.

Shot-put—Won by Frederick West, Cornell, 47 feet 5¾ inches; Paul Wexler, Pennsylvania, 45 feet 7¾ inches, second; William Bradway, Pennsylvania, 44 feet 5¾ inches.

Halifax Beats Salford For English Rugby Cup

LONDON, May 6—Halifax won the English Rugby League cup today, defeating Salford, 20 to 3, at Wembley Stadium. Fifty thousand spectators, many of them from Lancashire and Yorkshire, saw the game. In capturing the cup for the fourth time, Halifax won by four goals to a try, leading, 10 to 0, at halftime. Salford won the trophy for the first time last year, defeating Barrow, 7 to 4.

The losers played for most of the second half without Osbaldestin at full back. He was injured in making a tackle and carried from the field. Salford rearranged its team, but was kept on the defensive for the remainder of the game. Smith, Treen, Todd and Bevan scored tries for Halifax all converted by Lockwood. Risman went over for Salford's only score.

Canada May Bid For 1948 Olympics

MONTREAL—Although the idea at present admittedly is only in the "dream" stage, the time may come—if the plans of a soft-spoken French-Canadian bear fruit—when Canada will be the host nation for the Winter and Summer Olympic Games.

For Leon Trepanier, who relinquished an aldermanic post to become head of a commission in charge of Montreal's Tercentennial celebrations in 1942, has visions of the game being held in this metropolis—"possibly in 1948."

The idea of the Dominion staging its first Olympics is not as far fetched as it probably would appear to most Canadians now. For present Tercentennial plans call for a huge stadium, seating 100,000 persons, to be built in Montreal by 1942.

In that stadium, it is intended that athletes of the Empire will gather for the British Empire Games of 1942, which already have been awarded to Montreal. And Trepanier hopes that putting on of the Empire games may lead eventually to a bid by Canada—and possibly acceptance for the famed Olympic contests.

"It would be doubtful that we could obtain the 1944 Olympics because that would be too soon after the British Empire Games," Trepanier said. "However, we would be in a position to make a bid for the 1948 games.

"I think it would be one of the greatest things to happen to Canada, and certainly to Montreal. In other years the best Canada would have been able to offer was to hold the Winter games, for we have the climate and the natural resources for that, but with this new stadium and other sports accommodations which will be erected we would be able to hold the Summer contests."

Trepanier said it was hoped that cost of the project, expected to come to $3,000,000, would be absorbed by the Dominion, provincial and municipal governments. Work was started a year ago on leveling the huge area in the east end of Montreal required for the stadium, tennis courts, a large swimming pool and other ventures and Trepanier said that in a short while the city expected to take over "500 more lots that will be needed."

"We want to run the Empire Games smoothly there just to show that we would be able to handle the Olympics," Trepanier said.

WASEDA TOPS KEIO, 4-3, TO EVEN SERIES; PLAYOFF SLATED TODAY

It was too much expecting the bespectacled Masao Takagi, who checked Waseda to four hits on Saturday, to come through again and Waseda nosed out Keio, 4 to 3, Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium to necessitate a third game today to decide the winner of the Spring season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league.

More than 50,000 fans, who jammed the stadium from early morning, saw one of the most dramatic finishes to a hard fought game. Southpaw Takatsuka, who had relieved Takagi in the third, although pitching a good game kept weakening, and it was his wild pitch after intentionally walking a Waseda player to load the bases to lay the setting for a doubleplay that allowed Centerfielder Asai of Waseda to score the winning run.

MINAMIMURA DOUBLES

Third Baseman Minamimura's double off Takagi to left center brought in two runs in the third for a 3-1 Waseda lead. And when it seemed as if Righthander Ishiguro, who had replaced Southpaw Kondo in the fourth, would maintain that lead to the final putout, Captain Murase at short scooped up a grounder by the Keio captain, Kusumoto, and pegged wild to first in the eighth to allow two runs, aiding Keio to deadlock the count at 3-all.

With the two teams back to where they had started on an even basis, after a doubleplay had retired Keio in the first half of the ninth, Asai put life into the Waseda team by singling sharply through short and third, his first hit in two days. Takatsuka put himself into a tough hole when he walked Miyoshi, who had fanned on the previous occasion, on four straight balls. Matsui, batting from the portside and like Miyoshi weak against lefthanders, bunted perfectly down the third base foul line and sacrificed, advancing Asai to third and Miyoshi to second. With only one away, the Keio players conferred and decided on resorting to the intentional filling of the bases to play either for the plate or a doubleplay, strategy which had succeeded in the eighth to keep Waseda from scoring a run. Murase, accordingly, was walked on four straight pitches. Waseda decided to squeeze in Asai from third for the winning run. On the first pitch, Asai dashed for the plate but Minamimura's attempt to bunt went for a foul. Asai headed for the plate again as Takatsuka started to throw and he did score when Takatsuka uncorked a wild pitch that was much too high for Catcher Inouye to hold.

TOO MUCH CONFERENCES

The game was marred by the time spent by the players of both teams, particularly of Waseda, conferring on the field for instructions and for conferences as to strategy. It is a wonder that the umpires let them get away with it. It was terrible in the eighth and ninth innings. It seems that none of the teams in the league use any signals.

The play by play account follows:

FIRST INNING

Keio: As the siren sounded to start the game promptly at 1:30 p.m., the Waseda cheering section out in the left field bleachers let loose two baskets of pigeons which flew over the wall into an easterly direction. Nezu swung at the second pitch by Kondo and singled sharply to right field. Miyazaki laid a bunt alongside the third base and sacrificed Nezu to second as Minamimura tossed to first. With the count one and one, Odate lifted a Texas Leaguer to left, advancing Nezu to third. Kondo walked Iijima on four straight balls to load the bags. The Waseda bench called for time and a player ran to the mound for a word with Kondo. Uno lined out to left and Nezu scored after the catch. Kondo muffed an easy pop fly by Inouye. Captain Kusumoto, in a position to bring in two runs, grounded weakly to third to force Iijima. One run, two hits, one error.

Waseda: Miyoshi beat out an infield hit to short. Takagi pitched three straight balls at Matsui then a strike. Matsui walked. Captain Murase, feinted to bunt, took a strike then bunted straight at First Baseman Iijima but Miyoshi was fast down for third, and Iijima tossed to Kakijima at first. Miyoshi took third and Matsui went to second. Minamimura flied out to left and Miyoshi scored after the catch, duplicating Keio's stunt in the first half of the inning. Kimura flied out to center, retiring the side. One run, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Keio: Takagi singled to center. Mizuno bunted but the ball dropped in front of the plate and Backstop Ono forced Takagi at second. Nezu was out on a foul fly to Ono. Miyazaki popped out to short. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Waseda: With the count two and three, Kakijima walked. Ono grounded sharply to third and Uno tossed to Miyazaki, who relayed to first in time for a doubleplay. Uno took time out to see the attending physician near the Waseda dugout. He had a finger bandaged. Kondo grounded out to first with the count two and three. No runs, no hits, no errors.

THIRD INNING

Keio: With the count two and three, Odate grounded one too hot for Third Baseman Minamimura to handle for a hit. On an apparent hit and run play, Iijima failed to swing and Odate was thrown out at second, Ono to Murase. Iijima singled to center. Uno ground to third into a doubleplay, Minamimura to Kakijima to Matsui. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Waseda: Asai walked. Miyoshi bunted in front of the plate and Takagi tossed to second to force Asai on a close play. Miyazaki messed up Matsui's grounder to second and all hands were safe. Takagi chucked three straight balls to Murase, then a strike and Murase grounded to short to force Miyoshi at third. The peg was low and almost went wild. Minamimura, Waseda's leading batter, who had had a bad day on Saturday, picked a slow ball and doubled to left center to drive in Matsui and Murase. Takatsuka, a southpaw, relieved Takagi. Kimura rolled a hopper to short and Odate tossed him out at first. Two runs, one hit, one error.

FOURTH INNING

Keio: After taking two strikes, Inouye, engaged in a nip and tuck race with Minamimura for the league's batting championship, doubled over the left fielder's head. Kusumoto singled sharply through third and short, advancing Inouye to third. Kondo was sent to the showers and Ishiguro, a righthander, took over the pitching burdens. Miyoshi made a good running catch of Takatsuka's fly back of third. Mizuno grounded sharply to second and Waseda pulled off a snappy doubleplay, Kakijima to Murase to Matsui. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Waseda: Kusumoto took Kakijima's short fly to right. Miyazaki scooped up Ono's grounder and tossed him out at first. Ishiguro fanned with the bat flying away. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

Keio: Nezu was out on a pop fly to Ishiguro. Miyazaki walked on four straight pitches. Miyazaki was caught stealing second. Odate walked. Iijima grounded weakly to short to force Odate at second. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Waseda: Asai was tossed out, Odate to Iijima. Miyoshi singled down the left field foul line. Matsui popped out to short. Murase fanned with the bat on his shoulder. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

Keio: Uno was tossed out at first on a hopper to second. Inouye popped out to short. Kusumoto rifled a hit through the pitcher's box. Takatsuka grounded to Ishiguro to retire the side. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Waseda: After taking two strikes, Minamimura went to first when Takatsuka's pitch grazed his left arm. Kimura grounded to third into a doubleplay, Uno to Miyazaki to Iijima. Kimura walked. Ono met the first pitch for a clean hit to center, advancing Kimura to second. Ishiguro was out on a foul fly which Takatsuka caught. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING

Keio: Mizuno swung at a low inside ball and grounded out to second. Nezu walked after two and three. As Miyazaki missed swinging on his first strike, Backstop Ono nabbed Nezu off first. Miyazaki flied out to center. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Waseda: Asai flied out to left. Miyoshi fanned, swinging at a low outside ball. Matsui, batting from the portside and weak against a southpaw, fanned with the bat on his shoulder. No runs, no hits, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

Keio: With the count two and three, Odate doubled down the left field foul line, the ball landing a foot inside the line. It was his third hit of the day. Iijima walked on four straight pitches. Uno laid down a perfect bunt alongside the third baseline and sacrificed Odate to third and Iijima to second. With Ishiguro in a tough hole, the Waseda team called for time and had a powwow in midfield. Inouye up with a chance not only to drive in two runs but to put him in front of Minamimura in the league batting race. First pitch was a called strike. Next, another called strike. He fouled the next which was a low outside ball. Murase robbed Inouye of a hit by executing a beautiful catch while on the dead run backward. Kusumoto grounded to short and Murase pegged too low to first, a one bounder, which Matsui let go and both Odate and Iijima tallied to deadlock the count at 3-all. Kusumoto overran the bag at second and was nabbed at third. Two runs, one hit, one error.

Waseda: Nezu was slow in his fielding and Murase's fly to left went for a double. Minamimura popped out to second. Kimura smashed a hit through third and advanced Murase to third. The Keio team conferred in the infield, apparently deciding to walk the next batter intentionally and play for a doubleplay. Kakijima walked on four straight balls. The Waseda bench hesitated whether to send in a pinchhitter, then decided to keep Ono. Ono swung at the first pitch and grounded to Uno, who tossed to the plate to force Murase. Ishiguro, with a chance to win his own game, grounded to Odate at short, who touched second to retire the side. No runs, one hit, no errors.

NINTH INNING

Keio: Takatsuka grounded out to short. Mizuno worked Ishiguro for a walk. With the count two and three, Nezu lined into Kakijima's glove at second and Mizuno was doubled off first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Waseda: Asai singled sharply through third and short. Miyoshi walked on four straight balls. Matsui bunted down the third baseline and sacrificed Asai to third and Miyoshi to second. Another conference by Waseda players. Murase was walked intentionally on four straight pitches, loading the bases. Minamimura up next, without this cap. Asai dashed for the plate as Takatsuka started to deliver. It was a squeeze play but Minamimura bunt rolled outside the third base foul line. Asai dashed for the plate again on the next pitch but Takatsuka threw the ball miles away from the plate and Asai tallied for the winning run, and the ball game. One run, one hit, no errors.

KEIO'S LEAD-OFF MAN CAUGHT

Left Fielder Nezu of Keio walked after one out in the seventh inning but he got off a bit too far from first and Ono, Waseda catcher, nabbed him with a beautiful quick throw to First Baseman Matsui. Umpire Tsubota is calling him out. Nezu has a blank look, having been thrown out when he might have started his team on to a rally. Waseda won 4 to 3.

MINAMIMURA WINS LEAGUE'S BATTING HONORS

Third Baseman Fukashi Minamimura of Waseda won the batting championship of the Spring season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league, whose regular schedule ended Sunday afternoon, but only after a nip and tuck fight with Backstop Shinichiro Inouye of Keio.

Minamimura finished on top with a .371 mark by virtue of an inside ball by Southpaw Takatsuka of Keio which grazed his left arm to send him to first without a time at bat. Otherwise, he would have finished with the same mark as Inouye, whose final figure was a .361. Minamimura was the batting champion in the Spring season of 1938.

The two players started off on Sunday with an even percentage of .375, both the result of 12 hits out of 32 times at bat in nine games. The more than 50,000 fans that jammed the stadium on Sunday sensed the keen rivalry between the two for the sticking honors and were excited each the two came to bat.

Minamimura stole ahead in the third inning when he doubled on his second time at bat. But Inouye, also on his second trip to the plate, hit a double to left in the fourth inning. Inouye popped out to short in the first half of the sixth but Minamimura was hit by a pitched ball, as mentioned in the foregoing, in the last half of the same inning. Despite this, Inouye might have won the batting honors but for a spectacular catch by Shortstop Murase which robbed him off a Texas Leaguer in the eight. Minamimura flied out to second for his last time at bat.

WASEDA BEATS KEIO, 22 TO 17 IN SWIMMING

Scoring heavily in the 1,500-meter and 100-meter freestyle races and winning the 800-meter relay, Waseda defeated Keio by 22 to 17 points Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine pool in their 13th annual dual meet. Thus did the Waseda mermen avenge their defeat of last year, which incidentally was Keio's first victory in the annual competition.

Sunday's meet was the opening of the 1939 swimming season and a large crowd turned out to see some of the nation's best swimmers in action. And they were not disappointed for two new records of the competition were hung up.

TAKAHASHI STARS

Hiroshi Takahashi of Keio gave the swimming world of this country considerable encouragement when he won the 400-meter freestyle in the good time of 4 minutes 48 seconds for a new meet record. This time is especially good in a 50-meter tank.

Eisaku Tanaka of Waseda set the other record when he negotiated the 1,500-meter distance in 19 minutes 31.8 seconds.

Keio missed the absence of Yasuji Miyazaki, 100-meter freestyle champion of the 10th Olympic Games at Los Angeles in 1932. When he might have won were he competing, Shigeo Sugiura of Waseda copped the event in the slow time 61.4 seconds.

The score by events were:

	W.	K.
400-meter freestyle	2	4
200-meter breaststroke	3	3
100-meter freestyle	5	1
100-meter backstroke	2	4
200-meter freestyle	2	4
1,500-meter freestyle	5	1
800-meter relay	3	0
Total	22	17

With Tomio Koyanagi in its lineup, Waseda had no trouble winning the diving competition.

Scoring six goals in the first half, Keio defeated Waseda, 7 goals to 4, in the water polo competition, which incidentally was the league title as well.

The results follow:

400-meter freestyle: won by Hiroshi Takahashi (K); second, Tanaka (W); third, Katayama (K). Time 4 mins. 48 secs. (new meet record).

200-meter breakstroke: won by Toshizo Nagahisa (K); second, Furukawa (W); third, Yamada (W). Time 2 mins. 51.2 secs.

100-meter freestyle: won by Shigeo Sugiura (W); second, Yoshida (W); third, Inouye (K). Time 61.4 secs.

100-meter backstroke: won by Yasuhiko Kojima (K); second, Yoshida (W); third, Yoshinaka (K). Time 1 min. 8.8 secs.

200-meter freestyle: won by Hiroshi Takahashi (K); second, Sugiura (W); third, Shimamoto (K). Time 2 mins. 16.4 secs.

1,500-meter freestyle: won by Eisaku Tanaka (W); second, Uda (W); third, Katayama (K). Time 19 mins. 31.8 secs. (new meet record).

800-meter relay: won by Waseda (Miyamoto, Yoshida, Tanaka, Sugiura). Time 9 mins. 7.8 secs.

REICH BEATS BRITAIN IN DAVIS CUP PLAY

Domei Tsushin

BERLIN, June 4—Germany today virtually clinched its Davis Cup series with Great Britain, when its strong doubles combination of Henner Henkel and George von Metaxa swept Shaffi and Frank Wilde, of England, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2, in the semi-final round of the European zone of the Davis Cup competitions, to give her a 3-0 lead.

Great Britain will meet next the winner of the Belgium-Yugoslavia series in the European zone finals of the Davis Cup competitions.

BELGIUM DEFEATS YUGOSLAVIA IN DOUBLES

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, June 4—Andre La Croix and Deborman, of Belgium, today convincingly trounced the veteran Yugoslavian combination of Ferenc Puncec and D. Mitic in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3, in the semi-final rounds of the European zone of the Davis Cup competitions being held at Belgrade. Having lost the doubles encounter, Yugoslavia lead Belgium by one match, 2-1.

REICH LEADS

Domei Tsushin

BERLIN, June 3—In the third-round opening singles of the Davis Cup match between Germany and Great Britain which took place here today, Roderick Menzel, of Germany, beat Hare, of Britain, 6-0, 6-1 (when the latter retired with a strained back), and Henner Henkel, of Germany, beat R. YUGOSLAVIA WINS

Domei Tsushin

BELGRADE, June 3—In the fourth round of the Davis Cup tournament. Ferenc Puncec, of Yugoslavia, beat Andre La Croix, of Belgium, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5, today and D. Mitic, also of Yugoslavia, defeated Geelhand, of Belgium, 6-1, 6-4 and 6-1.

N.Y.U. COPS TRACK MEET FROM TEMPLE

PHILADELPHIA, May 6—New York University continued its victorious track and field march today by beating Temple at Owl Stadium, 76 to 58. It was the Violet's third straight dual meet victory of the season.

Howard Brill, hefty weightman, put the shot 49 feet 11⅞ inches for a new meet and stadium record. He was also the leading scorer for the New Yorkers with eleven points, taking second places in the hammer throw and discus.

Jimmy Smith, Temple's ace hurdler, established records in both hurdles. His time of 24.8 seconds in the low hurdles lowered the university, stadium and meet times, while his 14.8 performance over the high barriers wiped out the previous meet record.

Howard Jensen, of the Owls, soared 13 feet 9 inches and broke the university pole vault mark of 13 meet 6 inches.

The summaries:

120-yard dash—Won by Jared Fangboner, N. Y. U. Bob Carbonaro, N. Y. U., second; Jim Movitch, Temple, third. Time, 0:11.3.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Jim Smith, Temple; Leonard Einsidler, N. Y. U., second; Bill Davidson, N. Y. U., third. Time, 0:14.8 (meet record).

One-mile run—Won by David Urback, N. Y. U.; Al Smith, Temple, second; Gene Carlsen, N. Y. U., third. Time, 4:44.3.

440-yard run—Won by Jim Herbert, N. Y. U.; Hal Bogrow, N. Y. U., second; Ronato Enrico, Temple, third. Time, 0:51.3.

Two-mile run—Won by Frank Donohue, Temple; Vivian Bailey, Temple, second; Phillip D'Anna, N. Y. U., third. Time, 10:12.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Jim Smith, Temple; Leonard Einsilder, N. Y. U., second; Bill Davidson, N. Y. U., third. Time, 0:24.8 (stadium and meet record).

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"- by Ripley

Naturally!

During the World War, Sir Ian Hamilton was reviewing a detachment of cavalry when an officer passed by mounted on a former bakery horse.

A mischievous soldier, recognizing the animal, shouted "Baker!" The horse stopped stock still, and by no manner of persuasion could be induced to start again.

Things were reaching a rather painful state, when suddenly the officer had an inspiration.

"Not today, thank you," he called out.

At once the horse started forward, and all was well again.

WASEDA BEATS KEIO, 5 TO 4 TO WIN TITLE

Minamimura hesitated whether to dash to the bag, found he was too late for Uno, and then tossed to first but was too late for Shiraki. It was ruled a fielder's choice. All hands were safe, loading the bags, and there is no doubt that this rattled Ishiguro. He walked Mizuno to force in Uno. Then he walked Nezu to allow Kusumoto to score. Miyazaki, when he should have waited out for a walk, took a called strike, then swung and rolled weakly to Ishiguro to retire the side.

This lead for Keio was shortlived as the Waseda players went ahead to rock Shiraki severely in the third. Matsui gained life at first after one when hit by a pitched ball. Murase singled to center. Minamimura smashed a long hit to left center that bounded against the fence and both Matsui and Murase tallied. Minamimura had coasted down to first and held his bag. Apparently to make up for his poor base running, he stole second and then third after Kimura had flied out to short left. Kakijima came through with a double to center and Minamimura put his team into a 3-2 lead. Takagi relieved Shiraki and Ono rolled out to second to retire the side.

Keio tied the count in the sixth on hits by Inouye, Takagi and Mizuno, the last mentioned coming through with a timely bingle to right center with two away.

MURASE DOUBLES

Waseda forged into a run lead in the first half of the seventh. Murase doubled after one away and in a desperate attempt to prevent a run, Takagi intentionally walked the hard hitting Minamimura and Kimura to play either for home or a double killing. And it would have worked too had First Baseman Iijima properly played in close and fielded Kakijima's weak grounder faster. As it was, he came chasing in for a grounder, momentarily fumbled it, and while he tagged Kakijima out, Murase had tallied from third. Ono grounded out to short for the third out.

But Keio never lost fight and tied the score again in its portion of the seventh. Miyazaki walked but was nabbed off first by Backstop Ono. It was tough luck for Keio as Odate promptly doubled through third. Iijima grounded out to short but Uno smashed a triple to center to score Odate. Inouye, over-anxious, grounded out weakly to Ishiguro.

Asai turned out to be the hero for Waseda by coming through with a fluke hit to second after one away in the eighth. On a hit and run play, Miyoshi singled through second and Asai romped all the way to third. Then came the deciding play of the game. Miyoshi dashed for second and Backstop Inouye pegged. Shortstop Odate took the throw and had time to catch Asai at the plate but his throw was too low and Asai scored.

Coach Morita of Keio pulled a boner in the ninth by sending in Nagara to bat for lead-off man Nezu, who had already had a hit and had walked once. What did Nagara not do but swing at the first pitch and pop out weakly to short.

The play by play account follows:

FIRST INNING

Waseda: With the count 2 and nothing, Miyoshi smashed the next pitch right over the plate for a hit to center. Matsui bunted to Shiraki, sacrificing Miyoshi to second. Murase singled sharply to center but Miyoshi was held at third. Minamimura grounded to right and Odate threw to Miyazaki, who relayed to Iijima at first for a double killing that pulled Shiraki out of a tough hole. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Keio: Minamimura was slow in fielding and barely threw Nezu out at first on a grounder to third. Miyazaki grounded sharply to third and Minamimura tossed him out at first. Minamimura threw Odate out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Waseda: Shiraki's first pitch hit Kimura's bat for a fair grounder and Shiraki threw him out at first. Kakijima singled through third and short. Ono fanned swinging at a wide curve. Ishiguro poked a hit over short, advancing Kakijima to second. Asai swung at the second pitch and grounded to Uno at third, who forced Ishiguro at second. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Keio: Iijima walked. Uno bunted to sacrifice but Uno forced Iijima at second. Inouye flied out to center. Kusumoto rapped a single to center, advancing Uno to second. Shiraki grounded to third but Minamimura, who fielded it, hesitated whether to touch third but Uno was too fast for him and then pegged to first. It was scored as a fielder's choice. After three balls, Ishiguro put over two strikes but the next pitch was a ball and Uno scored. Ishiguro pitched three balls, then a strike, and a ball, walking Nezu and forcing in Kusumoto. Miyazaki swung at the second pitch and grounded weakly to Ishiguro for the third out. Two runs, one hit, no errors.

THIRD INNING

Waseda: Miyoshi grounded sharply to Shiraki who tossed him out at first. Matsui went to first, hit by Shiraki. Murase singled sharply to center, sending Matsui to second. Minamimura smashed a fly over the leftfielder's head for a one-bounder against the fence, scoring Matsui. Murase also counted as Centerfielder Mizuno, who had retrieved the ball, held it, watching Minamimura who stayed at first. The latter had failed to go down on what was a sure two bagger. Minamimura stole second. Kimura flied out to left. With Kakijima at bat, Minamimura stole third. With the count 2 and 3, Kakijima doubled to left center to drive in Minamimura. The bespectacled Takagi was sent in to pitch for Shiraki. Ono grounded out to second to retire the side. Three runs, three hits, no errors.

Keio: Odate flied out to Kakijima. Miyoshi was playing deep in left field and caught Iijima's long fly with ease. Uno fled out to Asai in center. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

Waseda: Ishiguro swung at the first pitch and grounded out to short. Asai walked. Asai stole second on the first pitch to Miyoshi, batting from the portside of the plate. Asai was thrown out attempting to steal third. Miyoshi popped out to short. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Keio: Inouye popped out to second. Kusumoto grounded out to short. Takagi reached first on an infield hit to short, to the left of Murase. Mizuno grounded to short and Kakijima touched second to force Takagi. No runs, one hit, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

Waseda: Matsui swung at Takagi's slow ball and smashed it off First Baseman Iijima's glove for a hit to right field. Murase laid down a perfect bunt and sacrificed Matsui to second, Takagi tossing to first for the putout. Minamimura flied out to deep center and Matsui advanced to third after the catch. Kimura grounded weakly to Takagi to retire the side. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Keio: Nezu poked a single to center. Miyazaki bunted down the first baseline and sacrificed Nezu to second, Ishiguro making the throw to first. Odate went after a low pitch and grounded to short. Minamimura made a nice stop of it, and holding Nezu close to his bag, pegged Odate out at first. Ishiguro stopped Iijima's hard hit grounder with his body and tossed him out at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

Waseda: Kakijima singled to left for his third straight hit of the day. Ono bunted down the third base line and Takagi barely threw him out at first, Kakijima going to second. Ishiguro flied out to left, swinging at a high ball. Asai walked. Miyoshi swung at the first pitch and grounded out to second, Miyazaki to Iijima, to retire the side. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Keio: Uno flied out to center. Inouye singled to center. Kusumoto flied out to short on an attempted hit and run play. Takagi singled to center, advancing Inouye to second. With the count 2 and 1, Mizuno lashed a hit to right center, driving in Inouye to deadlock the count at 3-all. Takagi went to second on the play. Nezu grounded to second to force Mizuno at second. One run, three hits, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING

Waseda: Matsui lined out to first. Murase doubled to left center. He went to third on Inouye's passed ball. Minamimura walked. The Keio team conferred and Kimura was intentionally walked to fill the bases. Kakijima swung at the first ball and grounded to first. Iijima picked up the ball and tagged Kakijima but Murase scored from third. Ono grounded out to short. One run, one hit, no errors.

Keio: Miyazaki walked after 2 and 3. On the first pich, Miyazaki was nabbed off first by a quick peg by Backstop Ono. Odate smashed one through third for a double. Iijima grounded out to short but Odate took third. Uno, hitless in the series so far tripled to an empty space in right center and drove in Odate to tie the count at 4-all. Inouye grounded sharply to Ishiguro to retire the side. One run, two hits, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

Waseda: Ishiguro swung at the first pitch and grounded out on a hopper to short. Asai scratched off a hit to second. Miyoshi singled through second as Asai dashed for second and the latter advanced all the way to third. Asai called for time and entered the Waseda dugout for a drink of water. Miyoshi dashed for second and Backstop Inouye pegged to second. Shortstop Odate took the throw and pegged back to the plate as Asai dashed for the plate but his throw was too low and Asai tallied. Miyoshi going all the way to third. Matsui grounded to first and Iijima pegged Miyoshi at the plate. Matsui stole second. Murase walked. Minamimura rolled a hopper to second to retire the side. One run, two hits, one error.

Keio: Kusumoto took a called strike and then grounded out to Minamimura at third. Takagi was out on a hopper to second. Mizuno grounded out to second. No runs, no hits, no errors.

NINTH INNING

Waseda: Kimura fanned swinging. Kakijima grounded out to Takagi. Miyazaki fumbled Ono's grounder and the latter beat the throw to first. Odate tossed Ishiguro out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Keio: Nagara was sent in to bat for Nezu. He swung at the first pitch and popped out to short. Nakata was sent in to bat for Miyazaki. Nakata walked on four straight pitches. Otsuki was sent in to run for Nakata. With two strikes on him and no balls, Odate singled to right, advancing Otsuki to second. Iijima grounded to short and forced Odate at second, Otsuki going to third. Kakijima's relay to first almost got Iijima for a doubleplay. Uno flied out to center after taking a called strike. No runs, one hit, no errors.

IT'S ALL OVER BUT THE SHOUTING

Members of the Waseda team with heads uncovered as its cheering section sings the alma matter after its 5-4 victory over Keio Monday at the Meiji Shrine stadium which won the title of the Spring season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league. What made it possible was the winning run scored by Centerfielder Asai (with white cap on ground) in top photo in the eighth inning on a double steal.

Tokyo City Plans To Make Bid for Olympic Games Again

A decision to make a bid for the organization of the Olympic Games in the not too distant future was reached by the Olympic Organizing Committee of Tokyo Municipality on Monday.

The committeemen moved to push efforts for the completion of plans which had been prepared for the 12th Olympic Games, which were abandoned last year, with the view to staging the Games in the future.

At the same time, it was moved to sponsor inter-city as well as international meets in Tokyo.

Germany to Meet Yugoslavia in Finals Of European Zone

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, June 5—By virtue of their semifinal victories today over Belgium and Great Britain respectively, Yugoslavia and Germany will face each other in the finals of the European zone of the Davis Cup competitions which will be held at Zagreb for four days beginning July 28.

Playing at Zagreb, Yugoslavia eked out a 3-2 victory over Belgium when it managed to cop one of the remaining semifinal singles matches. Andre La Croix, top-ranking Belgian player, defeated D. Mitic of Yugoslavia, in four sets, 6-3, 6-2, 6-8, 6-2. With the score tied 2-2, Ferenc Puncec, Yugoslavian ace, downed P. Geeland, of Belgium, in straight sets, 6-3, 8-6, 6-3, to give Yugoslavia the match and the series.

Having clinched the series yesterday, Germany swept the two remaining semifinal singles matches at Berlin to score a 5-0 victory over Great Britain. Roderick Menzel, former Czech star now playing for Germany, trounced R. A. Shayes, of England, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0, while his teammate, Georg von Metaxa, defeated Frank Wilde, of England, by scores of 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3.

N.Y.U. DEFEATS SYRACUSE BY 5-3

N.Y. Times

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 8—New York University opened its up-State baseball invasion today with a 5-to-3 victory over Syracuse in the first game between the two schools since 1926. The Violets meet Colgate at Hamilton tomorrow.

John Kashata, N. Y. U. hurler, was touched for four hits and three runs in the first two innings, but held the Orange scoreless and allowed only three safeties in the remainder of the game.

The visitors tied the score at 3-all with two runs in the third on hits by Jerry Sasso, Al Campanis and George Campione, sandwiched in among two Syracuse infield errors. In the fourth Mike D'Angelo singled and Kashata walked. The former reached third on Sasso's grounder and scored on a wild pitch. Campanis hit a home run over the center-field fence in the seventh for the final tally.

A Syracuse threat in the ninth was erased by poor base-running. N. Y. U. made a double play, Rosa to Campanis, when Dick Banger attempted to advance after Jack Clohan's fly to center.

HARVARD BEATS DARTMOUTH IN TRACK, 92 TO 43

N.Y. Herald Tribune

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 6—Harvard's track and field forces buried Dartmouth, 92 to 43, on the Stadium oval this afternoon. Scoring three sweeps and twelves firsts, the Crimson predominated in all events except the pole vault, high jump and javelin throw. Individual performances were the keynote of Harvard's last meet before Yale, as at least six men bettered all past performances to give Harvard a triumph on first places in a meet which was supposed to be settled on the second and third brackets.

Heading the list was burly George Downing, who scored a double in the discus throw and shot put, while breaking his own Harvard and the dual meet records in the latter event with a heave of 49 feet 1⅛ inches. Downing had set the former record with a toss of 49 feet in last week's Triangular meet with Holy Cross and Northeastern.

BRAYTON WINS MILE RUN

Following Downing with unusual performances were Roswell Brayton, who blanketed the mile field by forty yards with a four-minute 25 3-5-seond victory; Torbert MacDonald, who came through with his first victory of the year in the 220; Eugene Clark, who turned the two miles in 9 minutes 47 seconds, and Bob Partlow, who captured broad jump laurels by passing 23 feet on his last try. Don Donahue provided the day's other highlight for the Crimson, scoring a double in the high and low hurdles, and equaling dual meet records both times. His clockings, however, were not allowed because of a strong favoring wind.

Harvard's sweeps were scored in the shot put, the mile run and the 120-yard high hurdles. The only mishap of the program occurred in the 440-yard run, in which Jim Lightbody, of Harvard, was disqualified for cutting into the pole too close to Jud Foster, Dartmouth star. Foster was fouled and took a nasty spill, but returned to run a surprise second to Donahue in the low hurdles.

STEWART DARTMOUTH VICTOR

John Stewart took Dartmouth's only first with a javelin throw of 180 feet 4 inches, while Laurence Andrew and Don Blunt shared high jump honors for the Green at 6 feet 1 inch.

Scoring two tries and two conversions in the first half, when the win was in its favor, Harvard's rugby varsity banked the Boston Rugby Club, 10 to 0. Harvard's tennis team was defeated by Princeton, 7 to 2, in the day's other event.

The summaries:

Track

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Don Donahue, Harvard; Mason Fernald, Harvard, second; Roger Schafer, Harvard, third. Time, 014.8 (equals meet record, but was not allowed due to favoring wind).

In Barley and Soldiers, Ashihei Hino gives us his impressions gained while he was attached to the Army Press Corps, during the campaign in May 1938 against the strongly fortified city of Hsuchow. He modestly claims that it is merely a revision of the diary he kept while on duty. But what a diary! His keen powers of observation, his human insight, and his love for his fellow men, are such that we may expect to find this literary product in demand long after the present war in China has lost its martial glamour. The same holds true for Mud and Soldiers, which is a collection of letters which the author wrote to his younger brother while aboard a transport and immediately after landing at Hangchow Bay. This volume, too, proves that Ashihei Hino is first and foremost a typical Japanese soldier, with a keen sense of what constitutes his duty to his Emperor and motherland in time of need.

HUBBELL MAKES DEBUT IN LOSING GAME; CUBS WIN

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

NEW YORK, May 9—A lean left-hander came shuffling out of the Polo Grounds bullpen at the start of the eighth inning yesterday, hitching up his inordinately long trousers with a characteristic gesture. And a gathering of 6,098 spontaneously leaped to its feet in loud-voiced acclaim. The Meal Ticket was back in circulation.

For the first time since the Dodgers, of all teams, knocked him out of the box on Aug. 23 a year ago, Carl Hubbell stepped upon a mound in a National League game. He retired the Cubs on four pitched balls in the eighth and struck out two of the three men to face him in the ninth.

But King Karl firing away in a losing cause. Hal Schumacher had given four runs early in the fray and Big Bill Lee was twirling superbly—until Hub came into action. Then the Giants, reacting as they always do to the presence of the quiet, efficient screwball maestro, slashed five of their nine hits before losing 4 to 2.

TERRYMEN FALL BACK IN RACE

This game contributed a few more coals to the blazing pennant race as the Giants dropped from a tie for fourth to a three-way tie for fifth with the Cubs and Phillies. But things are happening with such bewildering rapidity these days that the league standings have no more permanency than if the were written on the sands.

Colonel Bill Terry gambled on Schumacher in the hope that a victory over the Cubs would act as a tonic on his strong arm pitcher. He further gambled in tossing him in against Lee. Terry lost on both counts. Gabby Hartnett's team pounced on Schumie for four hits and three runs in the third, which proved just enough to settle the fray.

That the famous Schumacher home run ball was served up to Lee with none on in the fourth was just another slap by misfortune. Lee had quite a day for himself. He had a pair of singles in addition to his homer and yielded only two hits in the first six innings. But then he started to crack and just about staggered through.

The appearance of Hubbell on the hill was like giving the New Yorkers a hypodermic needle. After Harry Danning lined to center with one out in the eighth the crowd waited tensely as Mel Ott crouched at the plate. Ottie is Hubbell's room-mate and there was nothing he wouldn't have given for a home run at that time. But the wind caught his towering drive to deep right, and so did Carl Reynolds. It almost looked like a round-tripper.

DOUBLE PLAY CRIPPLES RALLY

More thrills piled up in the ninth. Frank Demaree cracked his third hit of the afternoon but Burgess Whitehead slammed into a double-play, a horrible mistake, as later events were to prove. Johnny McCarthy batted for Hubbell and was the third Giant pinch-hitter to deliver. Joe Moore also hit, but Billy Jurges lined to Dick Bartell to finish the game.

The New Yorkers counted in the second when Demaree's first safety followed a pair of walks. The other Giant run arrived in the seventh when Demaree hit again and was chased in on a shot by Pinch-hitter Ken O'Dea. The trouble with the Giants, it seems, was that they did not have enough ex-Cubs in the line-up.

The Chicagoans tallied in the third as Lee opened with a hit and then, with two out, Augie Galan, Jimmy Gleeson and Reynolds singled. Three runs came in, and that was that.

Phil Cavarretta was called safe stealing second in the second inning but he was out just the same. The Cub outfielder broke his right ankle and had to be carried from the field. He was taken to Polyclinic Hospital.

HARVARD ROUTS YALE TRACKSTERS AT NEW HAVEN

N.Y. Times

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 13—Amassing the largest total of points ever scored in the history of the meet, Harvard's well-balanced track and field forces captured eleven of the fifteen events today to rout Yale in their forty-sixth varsity dual meet. The final count was 91 2-3 to 43 1-3, surpassing the previous high of 91 points, recorded by the Crimson in 1936.

Paced by Jimmy Lightbody Jr., son of the famuos Olympic star; Donald Donahue, sophomore hurdles ace, and George Downing, each of whom captured two first places, Coach Jaakko Mikkola's Cantab charges came through as expected and, after the first four events, at which time Harvard led by 24—12, there remained no doubt as to the outcome.

The athletes had an added incentive today, for upon their performances depended the personnel of the Harvard-Yale team that will go abroad in July to oppose Oxford-Cambridge at White City Stadium in London. Announcement of those who made the team will be forthcoming on Monday.

PARSHALL ELI CUB STAR

While Harvard's record-breaking varsity triumphed easily, the Crimson's freshman team fell before the Eli yearlings by a score 86½ to 48½ in their thirty-second engagement. Ernest Parshall, a triple winner, helped Yale's cause tremendously in the meet between the first-year athletes.

A mild sort of upset marked the opening varsity track event, when Ben Holderness of Yale subjected Roswell Brayton, Harvard's hitherto unbeaten miler, to his first setback of the year in a mile race. Holderness, pacing himself beautifully, came on with a rush around the final turn to win going away by the comfortable margin of fifteen yards in 4:23.2, which, incidentally, is his best time for the distance.

Holderness held himself in reserve all the way, being content to move along in second place until he deemed the time ripe. Charles Oldfather of Harvard was the early leader and was caught in 1:06.4 for the quarter. Shortly after, Brayton forged ahead and remained there until Holderness made his successful bid. With Brayton in the van, the clockings for the half mile and three-quarters were 2:13.4 and 3:20.6, respectively.

When Holderness thundered past Brayton around the last turn the latter went all out in an effort to stay with the Eli representative, but failed and Holderness increased his advantage easily up the long homestretch. Joe Bradley gave Harvard an additional point by saving third place for the Crimson.

The 440-yard test proved a thriller from start to finish, with Lightbody overcoming some stubborn opposition on the part of Frank Curtis of Yale in the excellent time of 0:48.9. At the half-way mark it was Curtis by a yard and for a while it appeared that he would remain on top as Lightbody's first challenge failed to displace him.

CURTIS BEGINS TO FADE

When the field moved into the stretch Curtis was still setting the pace, with Lightbody and Francis King, his team-mate, in the roles of pursuers. At this point Lightbody caught up with Curtis and as the latter began to fade the former assumed the lead. With Lightbody on top and Curtis dropping behind, King suddenly moved up to threaten Lightbody, but could not quite make it and the pair hit the tape with less than two feet separating them, Lightbody, of course, prevailing.

Slightly less than an hour and a half later, Lightbody returned to the track to annex the half-mile in 1:55.4, defeating Alfred Hanlon, another team-mate, by six yards, with Jim Ord of Yale in third position. In this test Lighbody was a definite last at the bell, but soon worked his way up front and breezed home with ease.

Surpassing the meet record of 0:14.7 by one-tenth of a second, Donahue came through with a surprising victory in the 120-yard high hurdles in a blanket finish. The upset victim in this event was Jay Shields, Yale's indoor intercollegiate champion, who wound up in third place behind Dick Osborn, his team-mate, when the officials finished untangling the first three.

STIFF WIND BEHIND HIM

However, the referee of the meet, John T. McGovern, announced immediately that Donahue's record claim could not be considered because of the stiff wind behind him. Oddly enough, Donahue suffered similarly in the Dartmouth meet a week ago when he tied two records, only to be denied recognition because of the wind.

Donahue later eclipsed the meet record for the 220-yard low hurdles. His figures of 0:23.6 lowered the old mark 0:23.8, first established by Josep G. Willis of Harvard back in 1902, and later equaled by Gene Record of Harvard in 1932. Officials stated that Donovan's time would receive recognition.

The two-mile run was an exciting test, which ultimately went to Yale's Al Shapleigh in 9:42.8. At the finish the victor was approximately ten yards in front of Gene Clark of Harvard, but he had to come from behind to catch the Cantab after the latter had overcome a 25-yard deficit, finally gaining the upper hand as they approached the final lap. Clark stayed ahead until the last turn, when he was outsprinted and outlasted by Shapleigh.

NIHON 'U' FAVORED TO WIN SWIM MEET

Nihon University's swimmers are favored to win the Nihon, Meiji and Rikkyo universities 6th annual triangular swimming meet Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine pool to make it two years straight.

Nihon University, with Tetsuo Hamuro, 1935 Olympic 200-meter breaststroke champion, Tomikatsu Amano, who last year shattered Arne Borg's 11-year standing record in the 1,500-meter freestyle, Takashi Sasaki, today's outstanding free-styler, and Taniguchi, up and coming backstroker, is favored to take the 300-meter medley, 800-meter freestyle, 100-meter backstroke and the 100-meter freestyle.

Shigeo Arai, of Rikkyo, may beat Sasaki in the 100-meter and 200-meter freestyle events, and even best the Nihon university candidates in the 400-meter race.

Nihon University is also favored to win the 800-meter relay.

Nihon University has won three titles, the first, second and fifth, while Rikkyo captured the third and fourth meets. Meiji has yet to win. As a matter of fact, so weak is the Meiji team this year, that only Noda and Yamaguchi in the breaststroke are expected to place.

All-Japan Soccer Series Starts Friday

The 5th annual All-Japan soccer championships will be held for three days beginning Friday at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

All three representatives from the Kansai, the Kwansei Gakuin, Osaka Club and Kobe Higher Commercial teams, are expected to arrive on Thursday.

Baillet-Latour Praises Japan's Action In Abandoning Games

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, June 6—Japan's action in deciding to sacrifice the Olympic Games in the cause of national interest was warmly praised by Count Baillet-Latour, president of the International Olympic committee and chairman of the annual I.O.C. congress, which opened here this morning.

The 36th congress was attended by representatives of 29 nations. The Chinese representatives, Want Ching-wei, rushed to London by plane to attend the meeting, but the Japanese delegate was absent. The congress was called to order by Lord Aberdare, member of th British Olympic Committee, and the opening address was deliverd by Earl de la Warr, President of the Board of Education, after which the Olympic Oath was read by the Duke of Gloucester.

After expressing his regret over the absence of a Japanese representative, Count Baillet-Latour said:

"Nevertheless it is gratifying that a great many people have rallied to the Olympic ideal. Last year brought us striking proofs of that. Because of his faith in the Olympic ideal, Count Soyeshima did all in his power to convince his countrymen of the necessity of allowing national advantage to be subordinated to this ideal, and that it was their duty to renounce the organization of the 1940 games, however bitter their disappointment. Agreeing with this sacrifice, Japan made a gesture which should not be forgotten, and thereby proved herself truly Olympic-minded—even more so, when, supported by the entire nation, she asked for the honor of staging the games."

PRINCETON NINE SPLITS TWINBILL WITH DARTMOUTH

N.Y. Times

HANOVER, N. H., May 8—After Dartmouth had beaten Princeton soundly in the first game of a doubleheader today, 15 to 2, the Tigers came back to take advantage of first-inning wildness and down the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League leaders, 6 to 4. Thus the Green retained its half-game margin over idle Harvard.

The Indians pounded Dan Carmichael and Fred Rowe for thirteen hits and stole eight bases in the opener. In the meantime George Sexton, sophomore right-hander, hurled his first league victory. Gus Broberg batted in four runs and Dartmouth took liberties with every lapse on the part of the visitors.

10 INDIANS BAT IN THIRD

The home nine scored three runs in the first and three more in the second in a comedy of hits, errors, stolen bases and walks, and in the third inning Rowe appeared to pitch. In this frame ten Indians went to bat before the side was retired, doubles by Broberg and Swede Linden featuring a six-run onslaught. One tally in the fourth and two more in the fifth completed the Dartmouth scoring.

The second game saw the tables suddenly turned in the first inning when John Lendo and Bill Maxson could not get a Princeton batter out.

Bill Moore greeted Lendo with a single and both John Gefaell and Mark Hill drew walks. When Ben Tate singled across the first run Lendo was through. Then Maxson took up the pitching. He issued three straight passes, forcing across as many runs, and was waved out.

WONSON CALLED TO MOUND

Chief Harold Wonson, who had pitched Dartmouth to victory over Harvard on Saturday, was hurriedly summoned. With the bases still full and none out, he retired the next three men in a masterful exhibition, but the damage had been done.

Trailing, 6—2, in the final inning, the Indians scored twice against Lefty Farber and had the bases full when Linden grounded to first for the last out. Each team made only eight hits, but the six bases on balls given by Dartmouth hurlers decided.

GORDON GETS 2 HOMERS, ROLFE ONE AS YANKEES ROUT WHITE SOX, 15-4

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, May 7—The Yankees found thunder to the right of them, lightning to their left, the White Sox in front of them, mud 'neath their feet and rain pouring down upon them today when they made their first visit of the year to Comiskey Park. There were some 35,000 partisan rooters on hand, too.

Least of all these hazards were the Sox. The world champions, taking everything else in stride, also took some of the wind out of Pilot Jimmy Dykes's sails with a 15-to-4 drubbing for the team that had won ten of its last twelve games. They also took advantage of the occasion to vault back into first place in the Aemrican League.

A cloudburst delayed the start a half hour. Play was interrupted in the third inning when a thin drizzle became heavies. Actually the first four innings were played in a drizzle.

SUN SHINES THROUGH

By the time the sun came out in the last half of the fourth the third Chicago hurler was on the way from the bull-pen, Yankees were bowlegged from running the bases, Sox fielders were exhausted chasing hits and the Yankees had seven runs.

The Yankees started shooting at Johnny Whitehead and finished bombarding the bespectacled Bill Dietrich. In between they clouted Jack Knott. Led by the redoubtable Joseph Lowell Gordon, who exploded two gorgeous home runs in succession after singling, the Yanks walloped nineteen hits to insure for Charlie (Red) Ruffing his fourth victory of the campaign.

The ailing right-hander, as was the case on his first outing in the West, didn't have to try a fast curve. He moved along calmly with a fast ball and a slow curve, yielding nine blows, including a homer by Gee Walker in the fifth with one on.

KELLER CLOUTS BALL HARD

Red Robert Rolfe sneaked through with a homer, adding to the five runs Gordon hammered in. Charlie Keller got a triple and two singles to chase in two and score as many. Babe Dahlgren, Lou Gehrig's successor, struck three straight singles. Ruffing contributed two. George Selkirk got a single and a double and Bill Dickey hit two singles.

Tommy Henrich and Frankie Crosetti each doubled. All this bombarding meant thirty-three bases for the champions.

Whitehead disappeared with one out in the fourth after giving six runs on eight hits. Knott yielded five hits and three runs before surrendering to a pinch hitter in the fifth, one of these blows being Gordon's first homer in the fifth.

Gordon's second homer greeted Dietrich in the sixth, with two aboard, and in the seventh Dietrich gave two more runs. Rolfe's homer came in the ninth.

SHAW WINS $20,000 INDIANAPOLIS AUTO RACE: 1938 WINNER KILLED

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30—Death cast its shadow over the Indianapolis speedway today as Wilbur Shaw raced to victory in the annual 500-mile national car classic. His time was 4 hours 20 minutes 40 seconds.

It was shortly after half the race had been completed that the fatal accident of the day occurred and Floyd Roberts, winner of the $20,000 first prize last year, hurtled to his death.

The stragedy affected three men, for Roberts' crash also involved Bob Swanson and Chet Miller, both of whom escaped with serious injuries. But the rest of the speedsters continued their gruelling contest, which ended with Wilbur Shaw, Jimmy Snyder, Bergere, Ted Horn and Babe Stapp finishing in the order named.

35 STARTERS

There were 35 starters in the race. Seven failed to finish. Two ended up in hospital, Swanson and Miller. Roberts was dead.

The heart-chilling accident of the day occurred a few minutes before the drivers were to pass the 300-mile stage of the race.

Bob Swanson's car suddenly burst into flames, skidded as the driver tried to bring it to a stop, and then overturned. Swanson was lucky and was thrown out of his flame-ridden cockpit. He got up without help, although he was later found to have suffered serious injures, his back bleeding profusely.

Into his car crashed Roberts, just behind. And before the spectators could even realise what was happening before their eyes, Chet Miller's speeding car hurtled into Roberts'. There was a tangle of steel and roaring engines.

Roberts' car turned over several times, spewing out its driver in one of its cartwheel turns, and then leaped over the edge of the track and onto the bordering gold course below.

Roberts was lying still on the track, where hurrying first aid men picked him up and rushed him to hospital.

Miller's car could not avoid Swanson's careening speedster, struck it a side blow and then piled onto Roberts' car. It then overturned, luckily hurling its driver out. Miller sustained serious but not fatal injuries.

IN SPLIT SECONDS

The whole accident occurred in split seconds, shortly after Swanson had stopped to refuel.

When Roberts was entered in the hospital, it was found that he had suffered cerebral concussion. He died soon after. He was 39 years of age, a native of Van Nuys, California.

Two spectators were also injured when tangled wreckage and flames burst over the track. But they were not seriously hurt, and were given medical treatment on the spot.

In the course of the race, the lead changed hands only a few times. The racers were started off by Seth Klein, official starter, and Gene Tunney, former world heavyweight boxing champion, who acted as honorary starter.

Jimmy Snyder, eventually second place winner, speeded into the lead. But Wilbur Shaw passed him at the 75-mile mark, traveling at a speed of about 125 miles per hour.

Snyder regained the lead at the 200-mile mark, but was in turn passed by Louis Meyer, three-time winner of the classic, at the 275-mile stage.

The three-car accident that occurred shortly after cluttered the track for a brief while, but luckily did not entangle any other driver and the leaders were unaffected.

At the 350-mile mark, Meyer was struck by misfortune, skidded and as his tyres gave way under the strain, had to stop to change wheels. Shaw took over his position in the van and stayed ahead all the rest of the way.

MEYER GIVES UP

Meyer did make a second effort to get into the running for the first place, but had to give up and leave the track when he skidded again, and his car turned end-to-front on itself until it stopped at the side.

Three other drivers failed to finish the course. Al Miller and Floyd Davis had to give up when they met with accidents out of which they emerged unhurt. Ralph Hepburn's car caught ablaze and put him out of the race. He suffered no serious injuries, however.

The winner of the $20,000 trophy, Wilbur Shaw, drove an Italian car, a Masserati. His average speed was 115.035 miles per hour. His exact time was 4 hours 20 minutes 47.41 seconds.

There were 50,000 spectators at the track.

Japan Students Body Supports Germany

The Japan Students Track and Field Federation Wednesday sent a lengthy resolution to the German Inter-collegiate body in pledging its support.

Meanwhile, the Japanese student delegates, leaving Friday to participate in the German International Student meet at Vienna, will not compete in the students meet the International Student Federation plans to stage at Amsterdam on the same date as the Vienna meet.

Miyamoto Shoots 70 To Lead In National Open Golf Tourney

Tomekichi Miyamoto, veteran professional of the Ibaragi Golf Club in the Kansai, shot a 70 to lead a field of 68 entrants in the opening 18 holes of the national open golf tournament Wednesday at the Hirono course in Hyogo prefecture.

Miyamoto registered a 36 going out for par and came in on a 34, or 2 under par.

Rin Manfuku of the Tokyo Golf Club went out in 33, or 3 under par, but he faltered after the turn in to register a 39, and tied with Kodani and Chin Seisui of the Ibaragi and Musashino clubs respectively for third place with a 72.

Morioka of the Naruo club was second with a 71. He went out in 35 and came in on 36.

Kubota of the Sagami club turned in the best score for the amateurs with a 74, going out in one under par and coming in on 39.

ENGLAND DRAWS WITH ITALY AT SOCCER, 2-2

MILAN, May 13.—England, playing the first match of their Continental tour, drew with Italy in Milan his afternoon, each side scoring two goals. This was the third time the two countries have met in soccer and, apart from a certain amount of doubt about Italy's second goal, the game was played in a most friendly and sporting atmosphere. A crowd of 60,000 people watched the match.

Rain, which had fallen steadily for hours before the kick-off, cast a distinct gloom over the Italians, as the soft condition of the ground was all in favor of the English style of play. This was particularly noticeable in the first half. The speed and control of the English players during this period worried the Italians, and but for some great defensive work by Olivieri, Foni, Rava, and Andreolo England's lead of one goal at half-time would have been far greater.

ITALIAN ON DEFENSE

The Italians, as was generally expected, centered their efforts on stopping the English attack, and the inside forwards, Serantoni and Meazza, played well behind with the defense. This robbed the Italian forward line of much of its thrust, and was responsible for weak finishing. However, it was a different story in the second half. The Italians then played with great assurance, and seemed to be filled with the same spirit of solidity which had characterized England's play in the first half. Instead of being a team of individuals they combined cleverly, and their passing was much more precise. There was no casing by the Italians after they had scored their equalizing goal, but they made the mistake of dropping back entirely on the defensive after they had taken the lead, and it was this mistaken policy that gave England the chance to save the match. For England, Mercer, Cullis, and Hapgood were outstanding defenders, while Lawton and Matthews the best of the forwards. Biavanti, the right winger, was the cleverest of the Italian forwards, while Olivieri, who was brilliant in the first half, and Andreolo stood out among the defenders.

Meazza, the Italian captain, won the toss, but there was little to be gained by it, and he actually chose to face a slight breeze. England were soon moving well on the wet surface, and although Andreolo, who was playing an attacking game at center-half, came up to test Woodley with a couple of good shots, it was generally England who were having the last word. At the nineteenth minute Foni, under severe pressure, conceded a corner on the right. Matthews took the kick, and Olivieri, who appeared to be unsighted, was beaten by a header from Lawton. England held this lead until the interval, and on several occasions were unlucky not to increase it.

ENGLAND ATTACKS

The second half began with England attacking, but the Italians fought back strongly, and within two minutes they equalized. Biavati, gathering a pass from De Petrini, made ground down the wing, beat Mercer and Hapgood, and gave Woodley no sort of a chance with a hard, rising shot. This success filled the Italians with just the confidence they needed, and 16 minutes later they took the lead. Biavati centered the ball from the right, and Colaussi, closely marked by Male and Hapgood, went for it. The ball ran through to Piola, who hooked it into the net. English players protested that Piola had knocked the ball down with his hand to control it, but the referee, after consulting a linesman, allowed the goal to stand. Italy now dropped back on the defensive and packed their goal, but 13 minutes from the end Hall found an opening for a shot which beat Olivieri, who was apparently unsighted again.

The teams were:—

ITALY—Olivieri, goal; Foni and Rava, backs; De Petrini, Andreolo, and Locatelli, half-backs; Biavati, Serantoni, Piola, Meazza, and Colaussi, forwards.

ENGLAND—Woodley, goal; Male and Hapgood, backs; Willingham, Cullis, and Mercer, half-backs; Matthews, Hall, Lawton, Goulden, and Broome, forwards.

Referee—Dr. Bauwens (Germany).

KEIO NINE LED BOTH IN HITTING AND FIELDING

Keio, runner-up to Waseda in the Spring season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league, led both in hitting and fielding, according to official statistics released today.

Registering 75 hits out of 320 times at bat, Keio finished on top with a .234 percentage. In fielding, Keio committed 15 errors for a .963 mark.

Only two homers were poled in the season and they were made by Backstop Inouye and First Baseman Iijima, both of Keio.

The team batting averages follow:

WRITER THINKS MRS. MOODY GREATER PLAYER

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, May 11—I just watched Mrs. Helen Wills Moody play two sets of smashing, no-quarter tennis against one of the country's top professionals, Walter Senior, and strike me if she isn't a greater player right now than she ever was.

Helen has dominated women's tennis for the better part of two decades. Yet Senior had to pull out all the stops to lick her 6—4, 7—5.

She is playing a hard match like that every day now, no doubt, to defend her Wimbledon title. Helen isn't yet ready to announce she will play at Wimbledon, but you can count on it. She has just ordered a dozen new rackets, and the sort of practicing she's doing isn't for sheer pleasure.

HITTING BALL HARDER

The girl who was "Little Poker Face" when she won her first national championship back in 1923 has grown into a maturely beautiful woman who smacks the ball a little harder each year, yet retains her amazing accuracy.

Possibly she has slowed a trifle in her footwork. In fact, she spoke of "waddling about out there." But her opponents had better not take this too seriously. Helen managed to cover all the court there was against Senior, who hits them hard and to the point. She still has that sense of anticipation that has been the despair of a thousand opponents.

SENIOR PRAISES

"I've been watching her play since we were both a lot younger out on the coast and I never saw her hit that ball better than she did today," Senior panted.

"Alice Marble is the only one who will have a chance against her at Wimbledon," said an instructor. "But Alice will never beat her. They all go to pieces when they face Helen."

Though she still is a long way from being a gusher, Helen is loosening up somewhat with the years. Every now and then there is a trace of a smile as she plays, and several times I heard her actually talking to herself after she had missed a shot. That's not the old Helen, the one who got many a rival's goat by her very immobility of expression and her refusal ever to get flustered.

MISS HEPBURN PLAYS

Katherine Hepburn popped up to play on an adjoining court. Anyone seeing the two girls for the first time would have sworn Helen was the movie actress and Hepburn the tennis tiger. Helen still is mighty careful of her make-up, while Katherine doesn't care how she looks outside of working hours. She is a pretty good tennis player, incidentally, and makes more noise at it than a sidewalk band.

BRITISH FOUR WINS IN U.S.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY

N.Y. Times

WESTBURY, L. I., May 14—Both the weather and the British team had an off day for polo today as the invaders worked out on Bostwick Field, riding for the first time with what is generally considered their starting line-up for the matches against the United States next month.

They turned back a twenty-four-goal American team, 1 to 7, but the polo was spotty and unimpressive. The field was slow and there was a good deal of bouncing by the ball, with the result that hitting on both sides suffered, and when the British hitting turned to misses the finely welded team-play suffered.

Aidan Roark, in action for the first time on Long Island, was at No. 2, Bob Skene stayed at No. 1, Gerald Balding at No. 3 and Eric Tyrrell-Martin at back. Of the four Balding was the most consistent, particularly on his hitting. He was quite impressive with his free hits and moved nicely from attack to defense.

COVERED BY RATHBORNE

Up forward, Skene found himself pretty well covered at times by Cocie Rathborne, who turned in a good game at back for the Bostwick Field side. Roark, accustoming himself to ponies and taking things easily, had bursts of speed and hard hitting, but the team did not go too well at any time.

In front of Rathborne were Seymour Knox at No. 1, Pete and Dunbar Bostwick. Now and again during the game they took control and went out well to the attack. Pete Bostwick was frequently the hardest hitter on the field. From the British standpoint, the work of the ponies was the most encouraging. They had out some of their top string and the four-footed players went well for them.

The visitors had a lead of 2 to 1 at the close of the first period. The second was their best session, and they scored three times while shutting out the others and keeping play pretty well confined to the American side.

SCORE ON FREE HITS

Two of the British goals in the second were on free hits, granted when the others fouled in an effort to shut down on the steady attack. From the second session through the next two, the visitors' play slumped and they began to telescope and lose the long, smoothly balanced team play which had featured their work in their firrst game at Roslyn last week.

Bostwick Field outscored them in the third and held them even in the fourth after the rest period. Then the Britons picked up a little speed Roark began moving faster and tallied twice after Skene, and then Tyrrell-Martin had carried down. In the sixth Balding had an excellent goal and followed with another just before the final bell.

The trial matches will continue through the week, with the Americans playing on Tuesday at Phipps Field in Old Westbury and the British Wednesday at Piping Rock in Locust Valley.

The line-up.

HARVARD NINE TOPS DARTMOUTH BY 8-5 SCORE

N.Y. Times

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 13—Harvard regained first place in the Eastern Intercollegiate League race today by beating Dartmouth, 8 to 5, on Soldiers Field before the largest crowd of the local college season.

Tom Healey piched the full game for the Crimson and allowed only seven hits. He had one bad inning, the sixth, when, with Harvard leading, 5 to 0, he passed three batters, and yielded three blows. This combination, along with two wild throws by Harvard's catcher, Bob Fulton, made it easy for the Hanover visitors to tie the score.

In the sixth inning, however, the Crimson scored three runs for the winning margin, while the first five Cambridge scores were made against the pitching of George Sexton, who allowed nine safeties, including a double by Al Lupein and two triples by Gene Lovett.

The Green's losing pitcher was Bill Maxson, who took up the flinging job after the count was tied.

In the seventh, after an opening hit by Healey, Maxson took Art Johns' bunt and threw the ball into left field. Hoye sacrificed, and when the bases were filled on a pass to Grondahl, Lupein singled for two runs. Then Grondahl came home on a double steal.

Dartmouth reached third base only once except in its big sixth inning. John Lendo finished the game in the box for Hanover and allowed only two hits.

VANDER MEER AIDS REDS BEAT CARDS

N.Y. Times

CINCINNATI, May 13—Johnny Vander Meer pitched up to his last season's form today and won his first victory of the season as the Reds beat the pace-setting Cardinals, 2 to 1.

Vandy, who was shelled from the mound in his four previous starts, struck out nine batters today and showed great control in the pinches. He walked three men.

The only St. Louis run came in the first inning when Stu Martin singled and Pepper Martin sent him home with a triple. Jim Brown, the first man up, had fanned, and Vander Meer settled down to breeze three strikes each past Ducky Medwick and Johnny Mize.

PROMISING CHANCE MISSED

In the third the Cards filled the bases when Brown and Stu Martin walked and Pepper Martin beat out a bunt. Medwick and Mize again went down swinging and Don Gutteridge flied out to retire the side.

After the third not a Cardinal got to first base until the ninth, when Gutteridge was safe. Enos Slaughter doubled and Gutteridge, trying to score from first on the hit, was out at the plate, ending the game.

WEILAND HURLS WELL

Bob Weiland held the Reds to two scratch singles until the sixth inning, when the McKechniemen combined a walk and two hits to take the lead. Linus Frey drew a pass and scored from first on Frank McCormick's single to center field. Harry Craft's safety drove in McCormick.

Weiland was taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh and Bill McGee allowed two hits.

Basketball Omitted From 1944 Olympics

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, June 7—Although the venue of the Winter Sports games are still undecided, the International Olympic Committee today decided to include 14 sports in the 1944 Olympic Games.

Games approved by the Committee were boxing, fencing, football, weightlifting, canoeing, track and field, modern pentathlon, cycling, equestrian sports, wrestling, rowing, shooting, swimming, gliding and gymnastics. Hockey, basketball and handball failed to gain inclusion.

The Committee is expected shortly to announce formally the site of the 1944 Olympic Games after duly considering invitations from various countries.

Publicity Gag Gives O'Doul Good Exercise

SAN FRANCISCO—Walter Mails, publicity man for the San Francisco Coast League baseball club, thought it would be a great stunt to have his catchers attempt to snag some baseballs tossed from the 437-foot Tower of The Sun at the Golden Gate Exposition.

Manager Lefty O'Doul thought it was a fine idea, too, for he planned to toss the balls, not catch them.

It all worked out dandy for everybody but Lefty O'Doul.

He had to climb a narrow ladder inside the tower with a sack of baseballs on his back, stop at the 349-foot level to toss out a bunch, unload the rest at the top, then cautiously make his way down again.

Grocer's Test

"If a child were to come in and say her mother had sent her for a can of maltreated milk, what would you give her?" asked the dairyman of his new assistant.

"Why malted milk, of course."

Fine. Our last man hunted all over the place for a can of whipped cream."—Glasgow Citizen.

EARLY BIRD IN OLYMPIC RING

WORCESTER, Mass.—A long way off seems 1940 but already the bonnet of Miss Dorothy Leonard is in the ring as a candidate for a spot on the U. S. Olympic swimming team. Miss Leonard, who is only 17, recently won the 200-meter freestyle national A. A. U. title in Chicago. She is pictured here after a workout at a pool near her home in Worcester, Mass.

SYRACUSE SHELL BREAKS OAR AND YALE EIGHT WINS RACE

By WILLIAM H. TAYLOR

N.Y. Herald Tribune

DERBY, Conn., May 13—A spectacular mishap that blew one of the Syracuse crew right out of the boat in the midst of a neck-and-neck race handed Yale's varsity eight an easy victory in its race with Syracuse and Massachusetts Institute of Technology on the Housatonic this afternoon.

With the Yale shell a quarter-length in the lead, Syracuse's coxswain cut a flag a shade too close, William Hall, Syracuse's No. 4, tipped the stake with his oar, and the oar, breaking, kicked Hall clear out of the boat and overboard. Yale, naturally, had no further competition, but the remaining seven Syracuse oarsmen recovered their equilibrium in time to nearly catch Tech, which barely saved second place.

Yale made a sweep of the afternoon's rowing, the Blue's freshman and jayvee crews winning as well as the varsity. Syracuse was a close second in both the preliminary events, while, except for the freshman, who put up a real battle, none of Tech's crews gave Yale much competition.

VARSITY RACE CLOSE

Up to the time of the accident, the varsity race was a thriller. The three crews broke away to an even start—some observers credited Syracuse with a shade the better of it—and seesawed for the lead for the first quarter mile, with Tech already beginning to drop back. At the quarter-mile flag Yale led by a foot or two, and at the half by possibly half a deck, swinging a 34-to-the-minute stroke. Tech was now way back and out of it.

In the next quarter mile, Syracuse pulled up and its boat's nose poked out ahead of the Yale shell. Syracuse had the advantage by less than a deck-length as they flashed past the three-quarter-mile flags.

The Yale opened the throttle and, rowing in beautiful rhythm, cut down the lead inch by inch, passed the Syracuse boat's bow, and at the mile flag Yale led by a good deck.

MISHAP OCCURS ON BEND

It was there that the break came. At that point in the bend which makes the Housatonic course exceptionally tough, Syracuse had the advantage of being inside boat and Walter Graver, Syracuse coxswain, must have been watching the Yale boat, seeking to get every bit of advantage out of the turn, and for a moment may have taken his eye off the flags.

He couldn't have been much too close, because none of the other cars on the port side touched the stake. 'But Halls' did, and that was enough. An Army mule could not have done a more spectacular job than that oar did on Hall when it came back and caught him in the midriff. From the observation train it looked as though he went five feet into the air, while the spectators gasped. Old crew men in the cars began to swear that they'd never seen anything like it happen before. Neither, probably, had Hall, nor wants to again. He came up alongside the broken parts of his oar and floated there until a coaching launch picked him up.

SEVEN OARSMEN FINISH

Meanwhile, his mates, having somehow kept their equilibrium and paused in their stroke until they were sure he was coming up and still all in one piece, remembered that they were still in a boat race.

The Tech shell was speeding up, and as it reached them the Syracuse boys picked up their stroke again.

Yale, needless to say, was far away and breezing home without undue effort, but there was still Tech. The Tech boat was out ahead perhaps a half-length of clear water when Syracuse got full headway on again, and from then on it was a real race—seven Syracuse oarsmen against eigth Tech oarsmen, which seemed to be a pretty fair handicap. Syracuse lost no more ground and was actually overhauling the Tech boat at the finish. The 300 persons on the observation train gave the game losers a real cheer as they finished.

Yale rowed the two miles in 10:46, Tech's time was 11:27 and Syracuse's 11:32.

FRESHMAN RACE CLOSE

The freshman race was close all the way and there was never open water between the boats at any stage of the two miles. Yale took a slight lead at the start, with Syracuse second, and at the quarter mile Yale was nearly a boat's length ahead, but Syracuse held them there and was only half a length back at the mile. Syracuse made a bid that nearly pulled it even in the last half mile, but Yale met it and finished a winner by a half a length. Tech's bow deck was abreast of Syracuse's afterdeck at the finish. They were three smooth-rowing and well-matched freshman crews. The times were, Yale, 10:59.2; Syracuse, 11: 01; M. I. T., 11:03.

Yale and Syracuse started evenly in the jayvee race, with Tech never really in the running from the start, and at the quarter-mile Syracuse led by a few feet. Yale, rowing a slower but steadier stroke, was at least even at the half-mile. Syracuse led at the next set of flags and at the end of a mile they were even again. Yale pulled ahead, then Syracuse came up abeam, having the inside at the bend of the river, but dropped back.

Half a mile from the finish Yale, rowing a stroke of 36, held by half a length, and at the finish by just about a length, the boats being bow-to-stern, while Tech was an eighth of a mile astern of them. The times were Yale, 10:44.2; Syracuse, 10:48.2; M. I. T., 11:33.

It was a good day for rowing—smooth water and a light though slightly unfavorable breeze, but a bad day for the spectators, who shivered in the train and on the river banks and wondered whether it was the rowing season or the end of the fooball season, and when it was going to snow. Three of the cars of the eight-car observation train could have held all the passengers, and the spectators who watched from both banks at the finish weren't as numerous as a warmer day would have brought out.

PAN-PACIFIC ATHLETIC MEET PLANNED HERE

From 400 to 500 athletes will be invited from all Pacific nations to participate in the 2,600th anniversary of the founding of the Empire of Japan sometime in the Fall of next year following the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki, if plans of the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation materialize.

This gigantic athletic meet has been tentatively named the Pan-Pacific International Athletic Meet, and will be supported by the Board of Tourist Industry and Bureau of Cultural Works of the Foreign Office as well.

The nations to be invited to this athletic meet will be the United States, Canada, Mexico, South American countries, Australia, New Zealand, Philippine Islands, Siam, Indo-China, Manchoukuo and new regimes of China.

The proposed Pan-Pacific International Athletic Meet will be likely held in Tokyo including all Olympic athletic events besides a transpacific yacht race and Tokyo-Hsinking marathon race.

It is understood that a 50 per cent discount privilege will be extended to all visiting athletes by Japanese vessels and their expenses in Japan will be taken care at this end.

Furthermore, it was revealed at a meeting held Thursday that complete arrangements for the proposed athletic meet be announced sometime in July.

BORICAN LOSES SPECIAL MILE TO PHIL GRAVES

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 13—Rutgers University tallied 49 1-3 points today and won its second straight middle Atlantic states collegiate track and field championship in a meet marred throughout by persistent rain.

The well balanced Rutgers squad scored only three first places but picked up enough points in ten of the fourteen events and outscored their nearest opponents, Franklin and Marshall, by 19 1-3 markers. It was the Scarlet's eleventh title in the twenty-seven years the games have been held.

No records fell in the two-day meet, which was marked by a special mile race in which John Borican, the Negro middle distance runner from the Shore A. C. of Elberon, N. J., failed in his first outdoor mile of the season.

BAUER FINISHES THIRD

Borican spurted on the far turn and overtook Lieut. Richard Bauer, of the Shore A. C., who had started the bell lap with a twenty-five yard advantage. Phil Graves, of the New York Athletic Club, suddenly shot out from behind the pair, rushed past both and coasted in about eight yards ahead of Borican and won in 4:18.8.

Bauer faded and finished third, with James Rafferty, of the N. Y. A. C. fourth; and George De George, also of the N. Y. A. C., last.

The meet officially dedicated Rutgers' wide track in its new stadium overlooking the Raritan River. Of the seventeen colleges entered, all but three broke into the scoring column.

Trailing Rutgers and F. and M. were Haverford with 30 points; Alfred, 29; Lehigh and Washingotn, 13 each; Juniata and Lafayette, 11 each; Dickinson, 6 1-3; Bucknell, 5; Drexel, 2 1-3; Muhlenberg, 2; Delaware, 1, and St. Joseph's, Swarthmore and Ursinus failed to score.

TULLY NETS 13 POINTS

Outstanding among the individual contestants was Washington's one-man team of Basil Tully, who ran up all of his school's 13 points, placing in four events. He won the high jump, was second in the 120-yard high hurdles, third in the 220-yard low hurdles and fifth in the broad jump.

Charles H. Lecrone, of Franklin and Marshall, and Harry H. Derr, of Haverford, were the only double winners. Derr, who qualified in three events yesterday, captured the broad jump and the 220-yard low hurdles and finished third in the 100-yard dash, while Lecrone finished first in the 220 and 440 yard dashes.

Ernest Baxter, Rutgers Negro sprinter, led his teammates with a first in the 100 and a second in the 220, and garnered 9 points.

100-yard dash, final—Won by Baxter, Rutgers; Wingerd, Haverford, second; Derr, Haverford, third; Kephart, F. and M., fourth; Kelly, Alfred, fifth. Time, 0:10.1.

One-mile run, final—Won by Bradley Rendell, Alfred; George H. Howard, F. and M., second; Sidney G. Schwartz, Rutgers, third; Leonard G. Dauenhauer, Alfred, fourth; Franklin P. Morley, Alfred, fifth. Time, 4:30.4.

Shot put—Won by William Tranavitch, Rutgers, 45 feet 2¾ inches; Paul B. Harvey, Rutgers, 44 feet 1½ inches, second; Alex Schibanoff, Franklin and Marshall, 43 feet ½ inch, third; Frank B. Snider, Lehigh, 42 feet 5 inches, fourth; Sanford L. Arkin, Alfred, 41 feet 6¼ inches, fifth.

440-yard dash—Won by Charles H. Lecrone, F. and M.; Donald M. Snider, Juniata, second; John D. Wooters jr., Lehigh, third; Victor C. Finley, F. and M., fourth; George Weber, Juniata, fifth. Time, 0:50.8.

Javelin, finals—Won by Seymour Cohen, F. and M., 179 feet 1 inch; Philip Rubin, Rutgers, 175 feet 8 inches, second; Irvin Garfinkle, Dickinson, 171 feet 4½ inches, third; William Moltz, Muhlenberg, 162 feet 11¾ inches, fourth; Allen Slocum, Lafayette, 162 feet 10¾ inches, fifth.

Freshman medley relay (does not count in standing); 880, 440, 220, mile—Won by Alfred; Lafayette, second; Rutgers, third; St. Joseph's, fourth; Haverford, fifth. Time, 8:07.6.

120-yard high hurdles, final—Won by Seiger, Haverford; Tully, Washington, second; Mullen, Rutgers, third; Wellitoff, Rutgers, fourth; Fisher, Haverford; Lackey, Lafayette, second; Tully, Washington, third; Stiger, Haverford, fourth; Frank Ralston, Lehigh, fifth. Time, 0:24.9.

One-mile invitation run (does not count in team totals)—Won by Phil Graves, N. Y. A. C.; John Borican, Shore A. C., second; Lieut. Richard Bauer, Shore A. C., third; James Rafferty, N. Y. A. C., fourth; George de George, N. Y. A. C., fifth. Time—4:18.8.

Discus—Won by Walter R. Bruyere, Rutgers, 132 feet 3¾ inches; Harvey, Rutgers, 129 feet 8¾ inches, second; Richard Brownell, Alfred, 127 feet 3⅞ inches, third; Frank C. Rabold jr., Lehigh, 125 feet 6⅛ inches, fourth; John Hageman, Rutgers, 125 feet 5⅝ inches, fifth.

Running broad jump—Won by Harry H. Derr, Haverford, 22 feet 2½ inches; John E. Lewis, Haverford, 21 feet 7¼ inches, second; Albert Burdulis, Dickinson, 21 feet 4⅝ inches, third; Thomas P. Hughes, Drexel, 21 feet 3¾ inches, fourth; Tully, Washington, 21 feet 2⅛ inches, fifth.

Running high jump—Won by Tully, Washington, 5 feet 8 inches; Mullen, Rutgers, 5 feet 8 inches, second; Dave Francis, Rutgers, 5 feet 7 inches, third; tie among Carleton C. Douglas, Delaware, and William J. Sheirer, Juniata; and R. Johnston, Lafayette, 5 feet 6 inches, for fourth.

220-yard dash, final—Won by Lecrone, F. and M.; Baxter, Rutgers, second; Kephart, F. and M., third; Marshall Lehigh, fourth; Chalender Lesher, Juniata, fifth. Time—0:22.5.

Two-mile run—Won by Edward C. Roberts, F. and M.; Bradley Rendell, Alfred, second; Eugene R. Burgess, Alfred, third; A. Sparks, Lafayette, third; Theodore D. Shisadeh, Haverford, fifth. Time, 9:58.

Pole vault—Won by Victor Cannestro, Bucknell, 11 feet 2¾ inches; tie among Joseph P. Majeske, Alfred; E. Jesser, Lafayette; Cary G. Evans, Rutgers, for second, 10 feet 9 inches; tie among Milton Silver, Dickinson; Edmund C. Carplick, Drexel, and Charles A. Leone, Rutgers, for fifth, 10 feet 3 inches.

880-yard run, final—Won by Dauenhauer, Alfred; George L. Weber, Juniata, second; Rothermel, F. and M., third; Schwartz, Rutgers, fourth; Franklin P. Morley, Alfred fifth. Time, 2:02.6.

California 'Nisei' Shines In Diving

Yoshio Adachi, American-born Japanese student at the University of California at Los Angeles, has shown such talent that he may be a member of Uncle Sam's diving team at the 12th Olympic Games next Summer at Helsinki, according to a mail story received by Domei from California.

At the U.C.L.A. versus Stanford university meet on May 8 at the Stanford pool, Adachi reached first place. And on May 9 in the U.C.L.A. versus University of California meet at Berkeley, Adachi also emerged a winner.

The possibility is bright for at least three American citizens of Japanese ancestry to be on the American swimming team to Helsinki, the others being Kiyoshi Nakama and Takashi Hirose, of Hawaii, who recently defeated Jack Medica, the 400-meter Olympic champion, in the 220-yard event at Honolulu.

In which event, the swimming competition at Helsinki will be highlighted by the rivalry of swimmers of Japanese blood, both on the American and Japanese teams.

Nambu to Leave Soon For Coaching in Brazil

Chuhei Nambu, former world's record holder in the broad jump, will leave Kobe on June 15 aboard the Buenos Aires Maru for Brazil where he will coach the young Japanese there in field events. He will be there for a month at the invitation of the Japanese community.

FORDHAM NINE WINNER IN CENTENNIAL GAME

N.Y. Times

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y., May 13—General Abner Doubleday, the inventor of baseball, had no reason to turn over in his grave as Fordham and its ace pitcher, Hank Borowy, shut out Boston College, 5—0, in an excellently played game in celebration of the national pastime's one hundredth anniversary before 3,000 spectators on America's first diamond, Doubleday Field, today.

Ceremonies, in which both schools receiver certificates commemorating their participation in the centennial celebration, while the Cooperstown community band blared forth their alma mater songs, preceded the contest. Theodore R. Lettis, president of the centennial committee and a Fordham alumnus, threw out the first ball, with Mayor Rowan D. Spraker of Cooperstown receiving, and then Borowy began throwing it by Boston College batters without let-up for nine innings.

NINETEENTH VARSITY VICTORY

In registering his ninth triumph of the season and the nineteenth of his varsity career against only one setback at the hands of Villanova a week ago, the Bloomfield Express allowed only five hits, three of them infield taps, struck out six and walked four.

Borowy's curve ball and fast one were so effective that the Eagles hit only four balls out of the infield. Behind him Fordham played splendid ball, with Al Groh's exception ninth-inning error the lone misplay. B.C. never threatened after the first.

Sigmund Somy, the sight-handed curveballer who had handed the Rams their first setback in Boston last month, allowed only three hits, but his control was poor. He walked eleven men, three of them ultimately tallying. The three Fordham safeties came with runners on base and were productives of four runs.

TRIPLE FOR MIKE HEARN

Some walked Jackie Hearn to start the game and brother Mike then blasted a fraternal triple over Buckley's head in center field to score him. Mike rede in when Bill Flynn made a good catch of Pat Petrino's line fly to left. In the fourth Borowy reached first on Pilote's error and Bill Krywicki walked. Both runners advanced on John Dillon's neat bunt and scored when Groh lashed a clean single to left.

The last run came over in the fifth when Johnny McGurk walked, advanced to second on a wild pitch and scored on Borowy's single. The Rams had other opportunities through Somy's wildness, but the senior tightened with the aid of two double plays.

Miyamoto and Toda Tied for Lead In Open Golf Play

Tomekichi Miyamoto, the veteran pro, continued his good play Thursday in the second day of the national open golf tournament at the Hirono course in Hyogo prefecture but Toichiro Toda, of the Hirono Club, equalled Miyamoto's performance on Wednesday with a 70, or 2 under par, and tied him with a 143 for the lead.

Toda went out with a 34 and came in with a 36 as compared with a 36 and 37 for Miyamoto.

Chin Sei-sui of the Musashino Club shot a 72 for the second 18 holes and is trailing the leaders behind by one stroke.

Rin Manfuku of the Tokyo Club and Jiro Morioka of the Naruo Club are tied for fourth with a 145. Rin shot a 73 and Morioka a 74 on Thursday. Torakichi Nakamura of the Hodogaya Club is fifth with a 148.

Mizuho Kubota, amateur and former inter-collegiate champion, tied with Kanetaka Kodani of the Ibaragi Club, and Zenkichi Terada of the Osaka Club for seventh place with a 149.

Deadlocked for tenth place are Akira Muraki of the Takarazuka Club, Rokuzo Asami of the Hodogaya Club and Kiyoji Inouye of the Sagami Club with a 150.

Giichi Sato, former amateur champion, tied with Koike of the Kasumigaseki Club and Ueki of the Hirono Club for 13th place with a 151.

RECORDS KNOCKED OVERBOARD IN BRITISH INDOOR TRACK MEET

The Times, London

LONDON, May 15—To the spectator indoor athletics are athletics at close range. What they mean to the athlete is not yet absolutely clear. The championship meeting, which was held at the Empire Pool, Wembley, on Saturday evening, was only the fifth of its kind in this country, and while some of the competitors revelled in the conditions others were ill at ease on the wooden going, and in a few cases even reminded one of the immortal Chaplin taking a sharp turn.

Large as the Empire Pool is—there might have been 11,000 spectators seated in the utmost comfort, but unfortunately the weather outside was much too good for anything like that number—the laps of its track measure only a little over 142 yards, and the tendency becomes to sprint the short straights in order not to lose ground and balance at the severe bends. Yet the fact remained that those runners with the right technique and build flourished and, with them, the standards of the meeting. Record after record was beaten on the wooden track by women as well as men in longish and relay events as well as sprints. In the case of the men very few outdoor champions were engaged, and those who were either lacked training or adaptability to the conditions. But that did not prevent the accomplishment of a number of notable times.

A FINLAY RECORD EQUALLED

For instance, in the 70 yards hurdle championship D. O. Finlay, who has been compelled to take a rest from athletics, had his indoor record time of 8.9sec. equalled by T. L. Lockton twice. There were, in fact, two splendid races between Lockton and F. V. Scopes, who had been the runner-up to Finlay last year. Both in their heat and in the final Scopes seemed to hold a slight—a very slight—advantage up to the run-in, where Lockton each time produced a remarkably strong finish. In the 70 yards sprint—also down the center of the floor laid over the swimming pool—neither the holder, E. L. Fage, nor C. B. Holmes, who did the best time so far of 7.3sec. in 1937, were engaged, but there were two keen rivals in B. Giles, of the R.A.F., and T. A C. Scotcher, of Southgate Harriers. Each did 7.5sec. in the preliminary heats, and Scotcher just beat Giles in the second round in the same short space of time. This promised a rare final, but Scotcher found he had slightly pulled a thigh muscle and wisely took no chances. Even so, A. W. Masters and H. L. Evans helped Giles to keep it a good race, and Masters pressed Giles into winning in 7.5sec. This was a very creditable effort for a young sprinter.

There were a number of outstanding men in the 880 yards—a matter of about six laps—but A. G. K. Brown clearly was not yet fit for a big effort, and neither was A. J. Collyer for two in succession. Brown slipped quietly out of the race after a lap or so, in which he was outpaced at once and unable to take the bends well enough to make up the lost ground. Collyer, who had done a fine time in his heat, also was outpaced in the final both by G. F. Morris, of Thames Valley Harriers, and A. C. Petit, the holder, Petit himself was well beaten once he had been passed, and Morris's time proved a new record—2min. 0.4 sec., or some 3sec. better than J. V. Powell's time in 1937.

There was another surprise in the two miles, in which T. N. Rowe, of Herne Hill Harriers, set up an early lead of some 20 or 25 yards and held on to it in spite of the keen pursuit of D. G. Percival and D. A. Brickwood in the last few laps. At one time Percival gained perceptibly, but the effort was too much for him and Rowe won by fully 20 yards in the end, and, moreover, in the new best time of 9min. 27.2sec., which was over 6sec. faster than that of R. Thorogood last year. Thorogood on this occasion was one of a number of useful runners, including A. V. Reeve, who were completely mastered by Rowe's smart get-away and surprising stamina. In the 10 laps relay race London Paper Mills had four runners well adapted to the track and the art of exchanging batons with very little room to spare. They easily beat Achilles, who were the holders, in heat, and they not only were to much for Metropolitan Police in the final but accomplished a new record time.

The best thing in the wooden field was achieved by H.W. Yielder, of Loughborough College, who won the pole vault at 12ft. Another product of Loughborough was a fair second. F. R. Webster, after all, did not compete and so had no chance to carry on the sequence of victories which he started in 1935 when the A.A.A. first decided to hold an indoor championship meeting. Webster's record of 12ft. 9½in. still holds. The high jump and the weight were disappointing, but three men, including the successful holder, R. A. Powell, of Achilles, did well over 21ft. in the long jump which also was good without being good enough.

OUTSTANDING WOMEN

Miss D. B. Lock, who beat her own record of 8sec. by 1-10sec., twice, in the 60 yards sprint and did much to win the four-lap relay race for her club of Mitcham, was one of the outstanding runners in the events for women. There is nothing athletic about her build or general appearance, but it would take a good man to catch her up over a short distance, especially round the Wembley bends. For sheer ease and composure, however, one preferred Miss E. Forster, of the Civil Service, who won the five-lap race without an unruffled hair—turning a hair as men generally put it—in the record time of 1min. 55sec. 1.4sec. better than her own time last year. Then there was Miss E. Raby, a good second to Miss Lock in the sprint and for a fifth year in succession the winner of the long jump. Both she and Miss Smith surpassed Miss Raby's own previous best in 1938. Miss Raby also gave her club, Middlesex Ladies, every chance to win at least in the race, but the three who followed her were completely confounded by the initial onrush round the first turn.

Miss B. Reid, the holder, improved upon her previous record by about 6in. in the weight. Miss D. Odam won the high jump for a fourth year in succession, but, after clearing 5ft. 1in., failed to equal her best of 5ft. 2½in.

The results were:

High Jump (Women)—D. Odam (Mitcham A.C.) (holder) (5ft. 1in.), 1; J. Arnold (Polytechnic L.A.C.) (5ft.), 2; D. Endreweit (Ilford L.A.C.) (4ft. 11in.), 3.

Pole Vault—H. W. Yielder (Loughborough College A.C.) (12ft.), 1; R. Bentley (Loughborough College A.C. (11ft. 3in.), 2; M. V. Blake (London A.C.) (11ft.), 3.

Putting the Weight (Women)—B. Reid (Micham A.C.) (holder) (36ft. 10½ in.) record, 1; K. Tilley (Mitcham A.C.) (33ft. 7in.), 2; M. Smith Polytechnic L.A.C.) (30ft. 2½ in.), 3.

70 Yards—B. Giles (R.A.F.), 1; A. W. Masters (Metropolitan Police A.C.), 2; H. L. Evans (Milocarian A.C.), 3. Won by a foot. Time, 7.5sec.

60 Meters (Women)—D. B. Lock (Mitcham A.C.) (holder), 1; E. Raby (Middlesex L.A.C.), 2; J. Forder (Essex L.A.C.), 3. Won by a yard. Time, 7.9sec. (record).

70 Yards Hurdles—T. L. Lockton (Achilles Club), 1; F. V. Scopes (Achilles Club), 2; R. A. Powell (Achilles Club), 3. Won by a foot. Time, 8.9sec. (equals record).

880 Yards—G. F. Morris (Thames Valley H.), 1; A. C. Pettit (City of London Police A.C.) (holder), 2; A. J. Collyer (Watford H.), 3. Won by 10 yards. Time, 2min. 0.4sec. (record).

Five-laps Race (Women)—E. Foster (Civil Service W.A.C.), 1; M. Clarke (Birchfield H.), 2; E. Potter (Ilford A.C.), 3. Won easily. Time, 1min. 55sec. (record).

Putting the Weight—H. Merz (Achilles Club) (42ft. ¼ in.), 1; A. F. Bandidt (Milocarian A.C.) (41ft. 9¾ in.), 2; A. L. Milligan (London A.C.) (41ft. 8½in.), 3.

Long Jump—R. A. Powell (Achilles Club) (21ft. 8in.), 1; H. G. Walter (Cambridge H.) (21ft. 7½in.), 2; R. C. E. Kiralfy (London A.C.) (21ft. 5in.), 3.

High Jump—J. L. Newman (Lloyds Bank A.C.) (5ft. 10in.), 1 (after a tie); A. Tansley (Royal Ulster Constabulary A.A.) (5ft. 10in.), 2 (after a tie); H. V. Stubbs (Polytechnic H.) (5ft. 10in.), 3 (after a tie).

Long Jump (Women)—E. Raby (Middlesex L.A.C.) (holder) (18ft.) (record), 1; M. Smith (Hercules A.C.) (17ft. 8in.), 2; V. Schenck (Mitcham A.C.) (17ft. 1in.), 3.

Two Miles—T. N. Rowe (Herne Hill H.), 1; D. G. Percival (London A.C.), 2; D. A. Brickwood (Mitcham A.C.), 3. Won by 30 yards. Time, 9min. 27.2sec. (record).

10 Laps Relay—London Paper Mills S.C. (R. G. R. Chandler, L. G. Parkes, A. E. Leggett, and R. S. Manktelow), 1; Metropolitan Police A.C., 2; Ponders End A.C., 3. Won by 15 yards. Time, 2min. 51.6sec. (record).

Four Laps Relay (Women)—Mitcham A. C. (B. Lock, V. Schenck, K. Tilley, and B. Proctor), 1; Essex L.A.C., 2; Spartan L.A.C., 3. Won by 10 yards. Time, 1min. 12.3sec. In the heats, Mitcham A.C. established a new record of 1min. 12sec.

J.A.A.F. To Approve Appointment of Takaishi As I.O.C. Member

There is every indication that the National Olympic Committee which is represented by the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation will formally approve the appointment by the International Olympic Committee of Shingoro Takaishi, chairman of the board of directors of the Osaka Mainichi Shimbun, as a member of the I.O.C., upon arrival of the official report.

The Federation has expressed satisfaction with the attitude of the I.O.C. in formally approving the appointment of Dr. Matsuzo Nagai, whom it had recommended. The I.O.C. had selected Mr. Takaishi on its own volition.

Mr. Takaishi on Friday reportedly informed the Federation of his willingness to respect the spirit of the Federation and cooperate in every way possible.

Davis Retains British Billiards Professional Title

The Times, London

LONDON, May 15—The professional billiards championship of the United Kingdom was concluded at Thurston's Hall in Leicester Square on Saturday, when J. Davis (the holder) beat T. Newman in the final heat by 3,218 points.

Newman played well in the afternoon, when he scored 1,198 and averaged 171 to Davis's total of 427 (average 53). Continuing an unfinished run Davis reached 230, when he missed a cushion-canno. Newman made 241 before failing at a white loser, and followed this up with a run of 83. Little was done by either player for a time until Davis had a break of 295; this included 32 and 28 close cannons, Davis missing one of these at the end. Later he made a run of 43, but then Newman occupied the rest of the session. In a break of 401, which ended at a long loser, he had a sequence of 47 close cannons and was in play with 403 at the interval, when he was still 3,196 behind.

Play was even in the final session, with both players in good form. Newman took his unfinished break to 576 before failing at a cushion-cannon, while Davis reached 399 after making runs of 75 and 30 cannons. The break ended with the balk-line stroke when Davis missed an all-round cannon. Newman later added 179, 207, and 330, while Davis made further breaks of 352, 106, and 10.

The result was: J. Davis, 21,601; T. Newman, 18,383.

WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP

The final heat of the Women's Professional Championship was concluded at Burroughes Hall, Soho Square, on Saturday, when Miss R. Harrison beat Miss J. Gardner (the holder) by 767 points.

The result was: Miss R. Harrison, 2,559; Miss J. Gardner (holder), 1,792.

TIGERS ACQUIRE BUCK NEWSOM FROM BROWNS

N.Y. Times

ST. LOUIS, May 13—A transaction involving ten players, one of the biggest baseball trades of recent years, was completed tonight between the Tigers and the Browns.

The deal, announced by General Manager Jack Zeller of the Tigers, centered around Louis (Buck) Newsom, big right-handed St. Louis pitcher whom the Bengals have sought for some time. In addition to Newsom, Detroit also gets Outfielder Roy Bell, Infielder Ralph Kress and Pitcher James Walkup.

In exchange, the Tigers gave the following players: Pitchers Vernon Kennedy, Roxie Lawson, George Gill and Bob Harris; Outfielder Chester Laabs and Infielder Mark Christman.

The trade was not unexpected, the Detroit management having openly admitted it was after Newsom when the team went into a tailspin that saw it flop from the top to the bottom of the American League standing. Zeller accompanied the Tigers on their trip to St. Louis and had been conferring with President Donald L. Barnes and General Manager William O. De Witt of the Browns for two days.

BRIGGS MAKES DISCLOSURE

At Detroit Owner Walter O. Briggs of the Tigers disclosed that no cash was involved in the transaction.

Newsom, 31, who has seen service with a number of major league clubs, won twenty games and lost sixteen for St. Louis last season. He defeated the Tigers by 5 to 3 today for his third victory of the current campaign.

Kress and Walkup also are veterans, the former being 32 years old and the latter 28. Kress has been in and out of the majors during the past decade. Bell, who is 30, batted spectacularly with the Browns in 1936 and 1937, but fell to a .262 average last season.

Of the players Detroit is giving up, Lawson is the oldest in point of service with the Tigers, hving joined the club in 1935. His best year was 1937, when he won eighteen games and lost seven. Last season Lawson dropped nine games and won eight. He is 30 years old.

Kennedy, who is also 30, came to the Tigers from the White Sox in the deal that sent Gerald Walker, Mike Tresh and Marvin Owen away at the end of the 1937 season. Kennedy won his first nine games for Detroit last year and then faltered, winding up with a record of 12 victories and 9 losses.

TEXAS LEAGUE PRODUCT

Gill came to Detroit from the Texas League in 1937 and pitched very well. Last season he won 12 games and lost 9.

Laabs, a great hitter in the minors, has had several trials with the Tigers but has never been able to solve major league pitching. He has been on the bench most of the present sason. Last year he alternated between Detroit and Toledo of the American Association, batting .293 for the Mud Hens and .237 for the Tigers.

Christman is another Texas League product, having come to the Tigers a year ago. He was Detroit's third baseman most of last season, batting .248. When Detroit acquired Frank (Pinky) Higgins from the Red Sox during the Winter Christman was relegated to the bench. He is 24 years old.

Harris, a 22-year-old right-hander, was brought up from Toledo late last season. He won thirteen games and lost twelve for the Mud Hens.

"We made this mammoth deal in an effort to strengthen the Browns' pitching staff," Barnes declared.

"We parted with four players and regret losing them, but we feel this is a great step toward making the Browns real contenders.

"Pitchers were our main interest, and we got four—three veterans and one likely prospect."

MOUND STAFF BOLSTERED

On the basis of last year's records, the Browns apparently did strengthen their roster of hurlers.

The four pitchers obtained had a combined mark of forty-five victories and thirty-nine defeats, while the pitchers given up had twenty-one triumphs against twenty-six losses.

Newsom, however, was one of the most colorful players on the Browns' roster. He held three unenviable records—all made in 1934.

Buck pitched a no-hit game that year, ten innings, and lost it. With one out in the tenth he walked a man, a sacrifice moved the runner to second and he scored on an error. The voluble pitcher also led btoh leagues in 1934 with twenty games lost and set a major-league record by issuing 167 bases on balls.

Kajiuye, Former Star Of Keio University Nine Killed On China Front

Domei Tsushin

TSINAN, June 9—Lieutenant Hatsuichi Kajiuye, former captain of Keio University's baseball team, was killed yesterday morning during the offensive on Chuhsien in southern Shantung Province, it was learned here today.

As a unit commander of the Japanese Muda detachment, he attacked the 600 Chinese troops positioned at the hilly zone south of Huishan near the immediate objective. After a severe engagement that continued nearly 11 hours, his unit completely dispersed the enemy who fled, leaving more than 250 bodies.

Lieutenant Kajiuye won fame as a star player in the middle school circles of the country as centerfielder of the Hiroshima Commercial School. Following his entrance into Keio University, he was a member of the team and was one of the most popular in the "Big Six" league. He was graduated in 1933.

At Hiroshima city, he is survived by his wife and a 5-year-old daughter.

CANADA TO SEND TENNIS TEAM TO CUBA

MONTREAL — Council of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association decided here recently Canada would second a Davis Cup team to Cuba this Summer, President R. N. Watt of Montreal announced. Members will be chosen on the results of their play in three tournaments in eastern Canada and through such trials as are considered necessary.

The tournaments: Ontario Championships, Toronto; June 12-17; Canadian Championships, Windsor, Ont., June 19-24; Quebec Championships, Montreal, June 26-July 1. Dates are subject to approval of the clubs.

If any further trials are judged necessary for places on the four-man team, they will be held in Montreal immediately after the Quebec championships.

HAVANA CHOSEN

Under Davis Cup rules, it is the turn of the Cuban Lawn Tennis Association to choose the venue for the match this year and Havana has been chosen. The council was faced with the task of deciding whether it could send a team to Cuba. The meeting decided in favor of sending the team, following a vote of C. L. T. A. councilors across Canada.

Canada will suggest to Cuba their matches be played July 21, 22 and 23. This will give time for trials following the Quebec tourney, for the trip to Havana and some days of practice prior to the actual matches.

Council awarded the Canadian Championships to Windsor, Ont. The matches had been allotted to the British Columbia Association, but it decided not to hold an event. Windsor then applied, with the provisional dates set for June 19-24.

The Eastern Canadian Championships were awarded the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club, Ottawa. Dates will be set later.

It was also announced the Australian Lawn Tennis Association cabled that they wished to play the inter-zone final in Montreal this year. It was decided an effort woud be made to make these arrangements for August.

NOT ALARMED

In a statement Mr. Watt said he was "very definitely of the opinion" that Canada should participate in Davis Cup play each year. He was not alarmed that some years the Association might show a deficit. Over a period of five years the Association would make money.

"I am thoroughly convinced that the best stimulus we can give young players to improve their tennis game is the fact that they may be nominated to play on the Candaian Davis Cup Team. Many of our good Canadian players never will win the Canadian Championship because of players from the United States competing, but our Davis Cup Team must be made up exclusively from our own Canadian players, and, therefore, each year Canadian players will have the honor of representing Canada."

TODA CAPTURES OPEN GOLF TITLE WITH A 287

Toichiro Toda of the Hirono Club shot a 71 and 73 for the final 36 holes of the national open golf championship and emerged winner of the 1939 title Friday at the Hirono Course in Hyogo prefecture with a 287 for the 72 holes.

Tomekichi Miyamoto of the Ibaragi Club, who led on the first day with a 70 and was tied for the lead with Toda with a 143 on Thursday, had a poor day, registering a 76 and 78 and he finished third with a 297.

Chin Sei-sui of the Musashino Club, who was one stroke behind the leaders on Thursday, shot a 73 and 75 Friday and finished second to Toda with a 292.

Mizuho Kubota of the Sagami Club, former inter-collegiate champion, and Harada of the Musashino Club, 1939 inter-collegiate titleholder, made the best score for the amateurs, tied for tenth place with two others with a 306.

With rain the previous night, the condition of the fairways and greens were poor during the morning round of 18 holes. A bright sun however broke through in the afternoon and conditions were ideal during the final 18 holes.

Toda was plenty hot and made the morning round with a 71, or one under par. Miyamoto fell into a slump and registered a 76 to fall five strokes behind of Toda and to be out of the running. The same fate overtook Rin Manfuku of the Tokyo Club who lost his touch at putting. The best he could do was a 75 to be six strokes behind Toda. Chin, howevere, made the morning round in a 73 to be only three-strokes behind the leader and the title turned into a battle between the two. Toda was in even better form in the final round, slicing one stroke off par up to the 16th hole. He was penalized two strokes on a foul in the 17th but he emerged victorious with a five-stroke lead over Chin. The latter's iron play was weak, accounting for his defeat.

Giichi Sato, former amateur champion, finished sixteenth with a 310.

The scores of those finishing with the ten best scores follow:

Toichiro Toda (Hirono)	73-70-71-73—287
Chin Sei-su (Musashino)	72-72-73-75—292
Tomekichi Miyamoto (Ibaragi)	70-73-76-78—297
Rin Manfuku (Tokyo)	72-72-75-79—299
Jiro Morioka (Naruo)	71-74-79-78—302
Torakichi Nakamura (Hodogaya)	72-76-76-79—303
Akira Muraki (Takarazuka)	73-77-78-76—304
Kanetaka Kodani (Ibaragi)	77-72-76-79—304
Rokuzo Asami (Hodogaya)	76-74-75-80—305
Torao Yukida (Ibaragi)	80-74-78-74—306
Mizuho Kubota (Sagami)	74-75-75-82—306
Kenichi Kashiwagi (Hirono)	77-74-79-76—306
Harada (Musashino)	77-76-78-75—306

7 MARKS FALL IN BRITISH SWIM MEET

The Times, London

LONDON, May 15—Seven records were beaten when the third annual joint swimming championships of the Universities' A.U. and the Women's Inter-University Athletic Board were concluded at Armley Baths, Leeds, on Saturday.

London won both the men's and women's team championships, Manchester being runners-up in each case. M. H. Taylor (Sheffield), the English back-stroke champion, lowered his own record for the 100 yards freestyle when he retained the title in 55sec., and he also took first place in the 100 yards back-stroke.

The results were:

NIHON UNIVERSITY WALKS AWAY IN SWIM MEET, BREAKS 4 MARKS

Winning all first places, four of them in new record time, and placing heavily in each event as well, Nihon University ran away in the 6th annual Meiji, Nihon, Rikkyo universities triangular swimming meet Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine Pool. The final score was: Nihon 89, Rikkyo 50, and Meiji 11. It was Nihon University's second consecutive title.

Rikkyo without the presence of Shigeo Arai, foremost freestyle sprinter in the country today, was unable to give Nihon University any sort of a battle. Arai is ineligible to compete until the end of this month owing to complications in a mahjong game last year.

HAMURO SETS RECORD

Tetsuo Hamuro of Nihon University, Olympic 200-meter breaststroke champion won the 200-meter breaststroke in 2 minutes 42.8 seconds for a new meet record. Seishiro Oura of Rikkyo, swimming in the course next to him, was on fairly even terms with him up to the 350-meter distance but he was not the equal of the Olympic champion in the last 25 meters, Hamuro forged ahead with every stroke until he made goal a winner by 5 meters.

The team of Mitsuaki Sagitani, Takeshi Sasaki, Tomikatsu Amano and Tohru Kurihara won the 800-meter relay in 9 minutes 13.8 seconds for a new meet record. Rikkyo finished second, 15 minutes behind. Meiji was third.

With Backstroker Toshihiro Taniguchi, Breaststroker Hamuro and Freestyler Takeshi Sasaki swimming in the order named, Nihon University set a new record for the meet in the 300-meter medley, the first event of the day, in 3 minutes 22.4 seconds.

The other meet record was set up by Toshihiro Taniguchi who won the 100-meter backstroke in 1 minute 10.2 seconds.

SASAKI WINS TWO

One of the best races of the meet was the 200-meter freestyle in which Rikkyo sorely missed the absence of Arai. Sasaki took the lead from the bark of the gun swimming in course No. 8, but Shunpei Uto of Rikkyo, the chap who had lost by a touch to Jack Medica in the 400-meter freestyle at Berlin in 1936, gave him a thrilling race in the last 50 meters that almost beat him. Sasaki was a full two meters in the lead when he made the last turn. Uto started a spurt by which he gained at every stroke but he lost out by a touch. Sasaki's time was 2 minutes 17.6 seconds.

Sasaki also won the 100-meter freestyle with ease leading from the beginning. His time was 60.2 seconds. He was a winner by 3 meters over his team-mate, Sagitani.

Tomikatsu Amano was also a two-event winner for Nihon University, taking the 800 and 400-meter freestyle events easily. His times were 10 minutes 25.8 seconds and 4 minutes 55.6 seconds respectively. In both events, Tohru Kurihara, a team-mate showed himself a comer by placing second in creditable times of 10 minutes 28.4 seconds and 4 minutes 58.6 seconds.

The points were scored as follows: (7, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 for six places and 5, 3 and 1 for relays):

	N.	R.	M.
300-M. Medley	5	3	1
800-M. Freestyle	15	6	1
100-M. Backstroke	12	10	0
200-M. Freestyle	13	8	1
200-M. Breaststroke	10	5	7
400-M. Freestyle	16	6	0
100-M. Freestyle	13	9	0
800-M. Relay	5	3	1
Total	89	50	11

RESULTS

300-M. Medley—Won by Nihon (Taniguchi, Hamuro, Sasaki); second, Rikkyo (Hiraga, Oura, Ota); third Meiji. Time—3 mins. 22.4 secs. (New meet record).

800-M. Freestyle—Won by Tomikatsu Amano (Nihon); second, Kurihara (Nihon); third, Honma (Rikkyo); fourth, Koshido (Nihon); fifth, Iwagiri (Rikkyo); sixth, Kono (Meji). Time—10 mins. 25.8 secs.

Middleweights: Hoshiba (S) decisioned Tokunaga (W).

KEIO CAPTURES ALL-JAPAN SOCCER TITLE

A beautiful goal by Forward Ninomiya from the center of the Waseda 25-yard line a minute before the gun in the second half of the extra period enabled Keio University to win th fifth annual All-Japan soccer championship by 3 goals to 2 Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

The All-Fusei eleven of Keijo won third place in the 3-day series by defeating Tokyo Imperial University, 5 goals to 3, in the day's curtain-raiser. The other competing teams were All-Enki of Keijo, Kwansei Gakuin, Osaka Club and Kobe Higher Commercial who finished in the order named.

Both Keio and Waseda started off by playing too conseravtively that there was no scoring in the first half, although Keio did threaten in the latter part of the half. Forwards Obata and Ninomiya both barely missed goals.

Waseda began to show life in the way of an offensive in the second half and pressed the Keio goal. On the second corner kick after 12 minutes of play, Right Fullback Ishikawa of Waseda punted the ball into the air as the Keio backs attempted to kick it away. Center Forward Takahashi jumped into the air and headed the ball into the net for Waseda's first score. Keio, however, deadlocked the count in 20 minutes when Outside Right Shinozaki dribbled down the field and passed to Ninomiya who tallied. Both teams threatened during the rest of the half but could not score.

Ordinarily the game would have been halted with a draw but it was a championship series and an extra period was ordered. Keio started auspiciously to press the Waseda goal but the latter took the ball away. Ishikawa passed to Nakabayashi, who in turn passed to Watanabe, who outsmarted Goalie Tsuda of Keio to score. But Keio tied the score in 8 minutes when Obata expertly handled a loose ball and booted it into the net.

Keio won the game in the last half of the extra period when Obata and Ninomiya worked the ball into scoring zone and Ninomiya, after dribbling two steps, booted the ball into the net for the winning tally a minute before time was up.

The line-ups were:

Keio: Watanabe, Obata, Ninomiya, Harima and Shinozaki, forwards. Kasahara. Tanaka and Takashima, halfbacks; Kato and Ishikawa, fullbacks; Tsuda, goalie.

Waseda: Nakabayashi, Watanabe, Takahashi, Koromo and Kometani, forwards; Nishimura. Suyeoka and Miyake, halfbacks; Soda and Ishikawa, fullbacks; and Fuwa, goalie.

CORNELL WINS TRACK MEET, BEATING HARVARD BY HALF-POINT

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 20—In the darkness of a motion picture projection room, far removed from the sun-flooded Yale field where all the action had taken place, officials at the fifth annual Heptagonal track and field championships wrestled today with the problem as to who really had won the meet.

Hours after the show was over they agreed to let the eyewitness decision of the judges stand as it was originally made on the disputed second place in the 440-yard relay and hence Cornell turned back favored Harvard by half a point, 46 3-7 to 45 13-14. That was the way the figures had been added up in the press box at the completion of the games and they seemed eminently correct.

But just as telegraph instruments began to click off the news that Cornell had won there came a sudden halt on orders from the center of the field. A question had been raised as to whether Penn and Harvard had finished in that order behind Cornell in the sprint relay.

ASK FOR CLEARER PRINTS

So Referee H. Jamison Swarts of Penn ruled that the Cornell team victory be held up until the officials had seen still photos developed from the motion pictures of the finish. The judges puzzled over them and could not decide. So they asked for clearer prints. These were made after a considerable wait and they too held no key to the mystery. Gene Kroupa of Penn and Don Donahue of Harvard were so close together that no opinion as to whether the Quaker was ahead or was tied could be offered.

This stumped the powers that be for a moment and they finally asked that the motion pictures themselves be displayed. The projection room at the field house was locked, just by way of adding to the complications, and so off they went to the Payne Whitney gymnasium for a private showing. Like the previous move, this contributed nothing but a few more arguments, and the original placing of Cornell, Penn and Harvard in the relay was ruled as final.

If the Cantabs had been given that second place in a revised order of finish it would have lifted them over the Big Red for the team championship, and if they had received as little as a tie the title race itself would have resulted in a tie. But without alteration the lads of Ithaca were the winners.

So here is the final and approved standings: Cornell, 46 3/7; Harvard, 45 13/14; Princeton, 42; Yale, 40 13/14; Penn, 24 3/7; Columbia, 21 3/7, and Dartmouth, 18 6/7.

PENDER CLEARLY WINNER

That one relay race upset the serenity of an excellent set of games which saw eight records toppled in all. Jim Pender of Cornell came charging up the stretch in the relay to nail Kroupa and Donahue right before the wire. He was clearly the winner, but the other two were so close together that the judges could have decided either way without being called unfair. Since the pictures could not prove them wrong, the ruling made on the field was left unchanged.

This meet sizzled and crackled with excitement right from the beginning in the morning when the records began to topple in wholesale fashion. And that same giddy pace continued right through to the end when the judges became motion picture critics and went into a deep study of the art that Hollywood has developed.

The marks that went overboard, more than half of the figures on the list, were made by Bill Shallow of Harvard with 170 feet 1 inch in the hammer throw; Don Herring of Princeton with 156 feet 2¼ inches in the discus; Jay Shields of Yale with 0:14.6 in the high hurdles after first snapping the old standard in a heat; Frank Ryan of Columbia with 51 feet 8½ inches in the shot; Warren Wittens of Penn and Jud Foster of Dartmouth with twin times of 0:23.8 in the low hurdles heats; Cornell with 3:18.6 in the mile relay; Don Blount of Dartmouth with 24 feet 6¾ inches in he broad jump and Dick Ganslen of Columbia with 13 feet 10¾ inches in the pole vault.

Those, however, do not take into consideration a low hurdles effort by Pender of Cornell in a heat that later was surpassed or a broad jump by Anson Perina of Princeton that also was better than the old figures.

The records were merely an indication that the Ivy College athletes, preparing for the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. championships at Randalls Island next week, are rounding into peak form even though they produced no combination that even is going to threaten Southern California for the team title.

They had their own private warfare here today, as the lead whipped around with bewildering rapidity. Harvard led for the first two events, and then it was Yale that showed the way for the next five. At the eighth Cornell, Yale and Princeton were tied with 26 points each. After that it was the Big Red for two more, Princeton for one and Cornell right through to the dispute that surrounded the final standings.

The pupils of the veteran Jack Moakley came down from high above Cayuga's waters to take more championships than any of the others, five. Both Harvard and Princeton had two and a half each; Columbia, two, and Yale, Dartmouth and Penn, one apiece.

The big hero of the day, of course, was Pender, the lone double winner of the day. The husky Cornellian not only captured the 100-yard dash and the low hurdles, but also anchored the 440-yard relay team, catapulting from third place in the last 110 yards to win by two feet from the Harvard-Penn near dead heat for second.

DOES A PERFECT JOB

Pender won the 100 from Bob Jackson of Princeton by a foot in 1:01.1 after taking his heat in 0:09.9. Then he captured the low hurdles in 0:24.5 after a trial in the then record breaking time of 0:23.9. All in all, the Cornell handy man ran six races and finished on top in them all. No one can ask for more than that.

In actual tarck worth, the best job was a 1:54.1 half-mile by Jim Lightbody of Harvard, the son of the old Olympic champion. The Cantab's entry was a surprise move since he originally had been slated to handle only a relay chore. But he took the 880, eased up, and looking around in the homestretch in very simple fashion.

However, he was to pay for this fifteen minutes later when he took over the third leg on the Harvard mile relay team. Tired and far from his best, Lightbody lost ground and touched off Torby MacDonald, the Crimson football captain, in second place instead of first. Then John Nevius of Cornell whirled from third to the lead around the last turn to win by three yards from Harvard and Dartmouth. Ahead of him on the Red team were Alex Walker, Max Breitenbach and Walter Zittel, the last named breaking up the race.

The mile went very easily to John Drebinger Jr. of Penn. This chip of the old block waved to Coach Lawson Robertson as he heard the gun for the last lap as if to ask whether he should sprint right then and there. Robbie signaled him on and young Drebbie made a runaway of it, winning by eight yards in 4:22.4 without going all out.

Shields's high hurdle victory was his first of the season as the indoor I. C. 4-A champion really went all out. He broke his own record of 0:14.9 with 0:14.8 in the heat and then went two-tenths under that in the final.

In something of a meet within a meet, Sterling Brinkley and Sam Black, each of Yale, competed in the high jump for the honor of making the Yale-Harvard team which is to meet Oxford-Cambridge abroad, this Summer. The better man was to get the place. Brinkley tied for third and hence will make the trip.

The champions follow:

100 Yards—James B. Pender, Cornell.
880 Yards—James Lightbody Jr., Harvard.
One Mile—John Drebinger Jr., Penn.
Two Miles—Arthur Gilkes, Princeton.
High Hurdles—Jay Shields, Yale.
Low Hurdles—Pender.
440-Yard Relay—Cornell.
*One-Mile Relay—Cornell.
*Shot Put—Francis Ryan, Columbia.
Discus—Don Herring, Princeton.
Hammer—William Shallow, Harvard.
Javelin—John Borhman, Cornell.
Broad Jump—Donald Blount, Dartmouth.
High Jump—Richard Robinson, Princeton, and Robert Haydock, Harvard, tied.
Pole Vault—Richard Ganslen, Columbia.
Team—Cornell.
* Retained title.

Nagoya Blanks Tigers, 5-0; Senators Beat Giants, 4-1

Behind the effective pitching Righthander Shigesato, who yielded but five hits, Nagoya blanked the Eagles, 5 to 0, in Sunday's doubleheader of the professional league at the Korakuen stadium. His team-mates had a good day at bat and smashed the offerings of two lefthanders, Nakagawa and Mochizuki, for 11 hits.

The Senators turned the tables over the strong Giants by a 4 to 1 score. Righthander Noguchi was in form and checked the Giants to three hits. Stalphin, the Giants best twirler, was nicked for 10 hits.

LAZZERI LOSES BROOKLYN JOB AS CLUB BOWS

By ROBERT B. COOKE

N.Y. Herald Tribune

BOSTON, May 13—Playing beneath an overcast sky, the Brooklyn Dodgers grew numb today, dropping their second game in a row to the annoying Boston Bees, 5 to 3.

Before the game the players of both teams were surprised by the announcement that the Brooklyn management had released Tony Lazzeri, the thirty-five-year-old infielder, who did not accompany the team to Boston because of an attack of tonsillitis. The notice of his unconditional release had been sent to the former Yankee's Brooklyn home.

Danny MacFayden, bespectacled right-hander, throttled the Dodgers until the ninth. Growing tired in the final inning, MacFayden gave way to Fred Frankhouse, who silenced the Brooklyn attack and at the same time inscribed his name on that growing list of ex-Dodgers now playing with the Bees who are making good all over again.

DROP TO FIFTH PLACE

When Brooklyn came here on Friday it had visions of climbing into first place. As a result of the treatment they have received here the Dodgers have tumbled into fifth place.

A look of worry gripped Durocher's countenance after the game. So far in this series his team has hit into seven double plays, an indication that the Dodgers may not be able to fight the good fight when they head Westward tomorrow night.

It took Brooklyn seven innings to grow resentful today, too late to catch the Bees who were in full flight soon after the game began. In the first seven innings, MacFayden, working with his slow, easy motion, allowed only three hits and one run. Meanwhile the Bees were making merry at the expense of Freddy Fitzsimmons and some peculiar play afield by the visitors. The Dodgers made four errors, three being charged against George Stainback.

FRANKHOUSE CALLED

Entering the ninth after this series of mishaps in the field, Brooklyn seemed on the verge of tying the score. Behind, 5 to 2, as the inning started, Lavagetto walked and Stainback flied to Hassett. When Durocher and Gene Moore, a pinch hitter, followed with singles, Stengel ascended from the Boston dugout and summoned Frankhouse.

The relief pitcher walked Koy, filling the bases. But with the winning run on first, Frankheuse persuaded Pete Coscarart to hit into a game-ending double play, Garms to Warstler to Fletcher. It was a happy moment for the Bees.

The Bees had built their five-run total off Fitzsimmons bit by bit. In the third Cooney doubled and scored on Hassett's single. In the next inning Lopez tripled Fletcher home. Two singles and a double by Miller gave Boston two in the fifth. Two singles and a wild pitch in the sixth completed the Bees' offensive.

Between these outbursts the Dodgers had been able to make one run in the fifth on a walk, Fitzsimmons's single and Koy's sacrifice fly. In the eigth they almost got back in the game when MacFayden, growing wild, walked two men and Koy singled in between. The rally had its growth stunted when Rosen drove a sacrifice fly to Simmons and Camilli and Phelps were retired by the Boston infield, leaving the Dodgers still three runs behind. Then came the Brooklyn run in the ninth.

The release of Lazzeri brought the Dodger roster down to twenty-four players, one under the National League limit. The announcement came as something of a surprise since Tony had been up among the club's leading hitters and had also been responsible for three home runs.

According to John McDonald, the Brooklyn traveling secretary, Leo Durocher, not Larry McPhail, had ordered the release. Lazzeri had been scheduled to receive $12,500 for his labors this year. The Dodgers are now left with only two reserve infielders, Johnnie Hudson and Lyn Lary.

BOB FELLER'S MOTHER HIT BY BALL WHILE SEEING HIM STOP WHITE SOX

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, May 14—Pitching steadily although his mother was hit by a batted ball, Bob Feller, young Cleveland star, held the White Sox to six hits today while Ben Chapman's bat helped him to a 9-to-4 victory. Chapman drove two homers and a triple in his first three times up to bat in seven runs.

The victory, which gave the Indians the series, two games to one, was Feller's sixth against one defeat. He fanned six batters and walked seven. Three of the hits off him came in the third inning, when Marv Owen, Chicago third baseman, found one of his pitches and the ball flew back into the boxes alongside the first-base line and struck the pitchers' mother, Mrs. William Feller, in the face.

Chapman's one-man slugfest started with his first-inning triple off Lefty Lee. It scored Rollie Hemsley and Julius Solters. Hemsley had forced Roy Weatherly after his opening single and Solters had hit for one base.

LEE AND WHITEHEAD VICTIMS

The next time up, in the third, Chapman drove a homer into the right field stands at Lee's expense after Hemsley singled and Solters doubled. Then, in the fifth, with John Whitehead pitching, Chapman sent the ball into the left field stand after Hal Trosky singled.

The Indians totaled thirteen hits, one of which was a homer by Ken Keltner. The attendance was 28,000.

Mrs. Feller, who came from her home in Van Meter, Iowa, to see Bob pitch on Mother's Day, was struck just over the right eye, the ball inflicting a deep cut. The wound was treated under the stands by Max Weisman, trainer of the Cleveland club. Then Mrs. Feller was taken to Mercy Hospital for further examination.

Her husband said six stitches were taken to close the wound. There was no fracture.

DAUGHTER ALONG WITH FELLERS

"I was sitting with my wife and daughter, Marguerite, in a box between the Cleveland dugout and the batting screen, when the accident happened, Mr. Feller said.

"Mrs. Feller apparently saw the ball coming and threw back her head, but the ball struck her a glancing blow in the eye. She was wearing glasses and, of course, the shattered glass cut her pretty badly. But the doctors tell me her eyeball was not cut, and we are thankful for that."

The Fellers came here this morning with several hundred other Iowa residents for the game, and Burlington, Iowa, fans presented a portable radio to the young hurler.

YANKEES TAKE 10TH STRAIGHT BY LATE RALLY

By RUD RENNIE

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK May 21—Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, shook his head and swore softly but earnestly. "It's murder," he said. "Here we get two well-pitched ball games and we lose both of 'em."

And so it was. The Yankees came from behind and again beat the Sox in the Stadium yesterday, 5 to 2, making four runs in their last two turns at bat.

The Yankee winning steak is now ten straight. Joe McCarthy, the manager, cannot recall having won more than ten in a row since he took charge of the team in 1931. The 1926 team, under Miller Huggins, won sixteen in a row. McCarthy wouldn't comment on the possibility of equaling that mark, "We're just going along," he said, "from day to day."

BLAST WAY TO VICTORY

But the champions are going along with the force of a hurricane, sweeping everything before them and breaking pitchers' hearts en route.

Thornton Lee, an efficient left-hander, was their latest victim. He had victory in his grasp for six innings. In that span he faced only twenty-one men, three over par, and was leading, 2 to 1.

A base on balls to Joe Gallagher got Lee in trouble in the third. He was almost out of the inning. He had two away when Frank Crosetti singled sharply into left field, sending Gallagher home from second. This single was the first Yankee hit in the game. It tied the score.

Ollie Bejma, the Sox second baseman and lead-off man, had walloped the first ball Oral Hildebrand delivered into the left-field stands for a home run.

Lee not only did a crafty job of pitching, he opened the fifth with a single over Crosetti's head and scored after a sacrifice on a single by Gee Walker.

It is known that you can bunt on Lee and get away with it. The Yankees tried bunting. They tried swinging from their heels. Still they couldn't get going against Lee until the game was in the closing stages.

ROLFE BEATS OUT ROLLER

Rolfe beat out a hit to the first baseman in the sixth, but was forced. And that was the second hit made off Lee in six fast innings.

Hildebrand wasn't quite so effective, but the Sox got only those two runs off him. Even so, he was trailing by one run when Red Ruffing, Friday's winning pitcher, came to his aid as a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Lee got the first two men out in this fatal inning. Keller was the next hitter and the young rookie had not caused him any trouble. Now, however, Keller hit a ball which took a high bounce to the second baseman. Keller beat it out.

Then, with two strikes on Gallagher (one of them a long hard foul into the left field balcony which came near being a homer) Lee threw one into the dirt and hit Gallagher on the leg.

As Gallagher threw away his bat and trotted to first the 18,371 spectators let out a roar. Then Lee walked Dahlgren, filling the bases.

RUFFING DRIVES IN TWO

McCarthy selected Ruffing to bat for Hildebrand and Big Red slashed a single past the second basemen, knocking in two runs.

So, all of a sudden, Lee's game slipped out of his grasp. These two runs, making the score, 3 to 2, would have been enough, because Johnny Murphy held the Sox hitless and scoreless in their last two innings. But the Yankees made victory conclusive with two scores in the eighth.

The champions finally got around to bunting safely. Rolfe laid one down the first-base line. Henrich poked one to the right of the mound where Kuhel fielded it wide to second base. With two on and none out, Dickey smashed a single to right field, scoring Rolfe. With this blow, Lee was not only beaten, he was through. Dykes brought in John Rigney. Gordon hit for two bases, scoring Henrich.

Waseda Wins Kanto Volleyball Crown

Waseda University won the Kanto volleyball championship Monday afternoon at the Hamamatsucho courts by defeating the Bunrika University team in the finals in two straight sets, 21-17 and 21-15. Incidentally, it won the right to represent the Kanto district in the forthcoming All-Japan championships.

The line-ups were:

Waseda: Kinoshita, H. Arima and Boku, front; J. Arima, Tsuboi and Saiki, center; Katano, Nishijima, Arai, and Ikeda, back.

Bunrika: Inouye, Toda, Fujimoto, front; Gomori, Otani and Yamanaka, center; Omura, Miyoshi and Mai, back.

THIRD MAJOR LEAGUE IN U.S. HELD LIKELY

NEW YORK—Ford Frick, youthful President of the National League, foresees a lot of things, including a third major league on the Pacific Coast within 50 years, but he doesn't think any of us will see a change in the present line-up of big league cities.

He had been asked if there was anything to a rumor going the rounds that the baseball magnates were toying with the idea of reducing St. Louis and Philadelphia to one-team towns. It's a rumor that crops up every year about this time, springing, no doubt, from common knowledge that the four club owners in the two cities are starving and that everybody concerned would welcome such a change.

"It's a great idea," Frick admitted, "but nothing is being done about it because nothing can be done—absolutely nothing. It's just one of those things. Maybe I'd better explain the situation.

"Take, for instance, St. Louis. There's no doubt it doesn't need both a National and an American League club. President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals makes no secret that he would like to move his team to Detroit, which is a great city and a swell baseball town. It surely would support another club.

"But what does Breadon run into there? Only the fact that Walter Briggs of the Tigers owns the Detroit franchise and has exclusive territorial rights. No other team can move in without his permission.

"All right, suppose Briggs says he'll make a deal and let the Cardinals move into Detroit if Brooklyn will move over and make room for an American League team. It's doubtful Briggs would make such a proposition, and even more doubtful the Brooklyn owners would agree to it. But if they did, then you would have four of the 16 big league teams concentrated right here in New York. Maybe the Giants and the Yankees wouldn't like that.

"So, you see, the whole proposition is so involved that it doesn't seem worth the effort. The one thing we really have in baseball is ironclad territorial rights. Even a Class "C" team could block any change we tried to make if it thought we were infringing on its territory.

"There's been a lot of talk about moving a big league team into Jersey City. It couldn't be done unless every club in the International League gave its consent, and you can guess how much chance there is of that happening. Newark would be the first to block such a move, which would put the Bears in direct competition with big league ball.

"The same goes for any other city we might select—Baltimore, Minneapolis, all of them. There's only one chance I can see for there to be a new big league city. One of these days we might have eight of them out West.

"The way that whole country is growing there might 50 years from now be a third major league composed of the biggest coast cities, and taking in cities as far East as Houston and Kansas City. Their long hops, of course, would be made by airplane. For the reasons I've already given. Los Angeles and San Francisco can never hope to be taken into the present big leagues."

Just returned from a lengthy tour of the country, Frick says the best baseball town in the country right now is Cincinnati.

BIG TEN TRACK TITLE CAPTURED BY MICHIGAN

N.Y. Herald Tribune

ANN ARBOR, May 20—Michigan's Wolverines, the "Yankees" of Western Conference track, powerd their way to a third straight outdoor championship today as Big Bill Watson closed his collegiate career with his third straight three-event slam.

In winning its seventeenth outdoor title, Michigan scored 64 ¾ points, a performance second only to the 74 points scored by Illinois in 1924. Wisconsin was second with 45 5-12 points and Indiana third with 28 2-3 points in a program which saw new meet records in the discus, mile realy and pole vault.

9,000 SPECTATORS LOOK ON

To the crowd of 9,000 spectators, routed briefly by a short but heavy rainstorm which swept the field after the first event, Watson was the big gun to watch in Michigan's powerhouse array of talent. In both his sophomore and junior years the Negro won the broad jump, shot put and discus. He won those titles in this meet, with his discus toss of 160 feet 10⅝ inches, made in yesterday's trials, cracking the twenty-three-year-old record of 155 feet 2 inches made by Arlic Mucks, of Wisconsin.

Another meet record was contributed by Michigan, which captured seven first places. The Wolverine mile relay team of Jack Leutritz, Douglas Hayes, Phil Balyeat and Warren Breidenbach raced to the relay championship in 3 minutes 14.7 seconds, a half second under the former mark set by Michigan in 1935.

The third new mark was contributed by Robert Cassels, of Chicago, who pole vaulted 14 feet 2¾ inches.

Charles Hoyt, who goes to Yale next year as track coach, saw his Michigan team score in every event except the javelin to win its sixth outdoor title for him in a nine-year period. In addition to Watson's winning performances in the discus, broad jump and shotput and the Michigan relay team victory, these Wolverines came home first: Elmer Gedeon who repeated as 120-yard high hurdles champion; Warren Breidenbach, who won the 440-yard run, and Ralph Schwarzkopf, two-mile-run winner.

The 100-yard dash crown went to Northwestern's Myron Piker, with Chicago's defending champion John Davenport, finishing fifth.

HOWELLS LOSES 440 TITLE

Harley Howells, of Ohio State, lost his 440-yard dash title to Breidenbach while Walter Mehl, of Wisconsin, the 1938 two-mile champion, took a hundred-yard beating from Schwarzkopf, Mehl barely lasting for second place.

The summaries:

One-mile run—Won by Walter Mehl, Wisconsin; second, Melvin Trutt, Indiana; third, Edward Barrett, Michigan; fourth, Edgar Hedges, Indiana; fifth Karl Wisner, Michigan. Time, 4:14.3.

440-yard dash—Won by Warren Breidenbach, Michigan; second, Jack Sulzman, Ohio State; third, Philip Balyeat, Michigan; fourth, Jack Leutritz, Michigan; fifth, Harley Howells, Ohio State. Time, 0.47.6.

100-yard dash—Won by Myron Piker, Northwestern; second, Robert Lewis, Ohio State; third, Alan Smith, Michigan; fourth, Frank Kaufman, Wisconsin; fifth, John Davenport, Chicago. Time, 0:09.9.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Elmer Gedeon, Michigan; second, Edward Smith, Wisconsin; third, Stephen Cutting, Purdue; fourth, Eugene Hathaway, Northwestern; fifth, Stanley Kelley, Michigan. Time, 0:14.4.

Shot put—Won by William Watson, Michigan, 52 feet 6⅝ inches; second, Archie Harris, Indiana, 48 feet 10¼ inches; third, Robert Hook, Michigan, 48 feet 9¼ inches; fourth, Forrest Weber, Purdue, 47 feet 7⅝ inches; fifth, John Sikich, Illinois, 46 feet 6⅜ inches.

880-yard run—Won by Edward Buxton, Wisconsin; second, Lester Eisenhart, Ohio State; third, Robert Petrie, Wisconsin; fourth, Arthur Bodeau, Purdue; fifth, Thomas Jester, Michigan. Time, 1:53.9.

Javelin—Won by Roger Poorman, Indiana, 193 feet 3¼ inches; second, Kenneth Carlsen, Wisconsin, 188 feet 1 inch; third, Jerry Slefert, Wisconsin, 184 feet 4¾ inches; fourth, Howard Ell, Ohio State, 183 feet 8¼ inches fifth, Durwood Cooperrider, Ohio State, 180 feet 2½ inches.

Two-mile run—Won by Ralph Schwarzkopf, Michigan; Walter Mehl, Wisconsin, second; James Whittaker, Ohio State, third; William Farin, Wisconsin, fourth; Irven Liljegren, Minnesota, fifth. Time, 9:35.3.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Roy Cochran, Indiana; Stephen Gutting, Purdue, second; Clinton Lostetter, Minnesota, Stanley Kelley, Michigan, fourth; James Allen, Indiana, fifth. Time, 0:23.4

One-mile relay—Won by Michigan (Jack Leutritz, Douglas Hayes, Philip Balyeat and Warren Breidenbach); Ohio State, second; Iowa, third; Purdue, fourth; Indiana, fifth. Time, 3:14.7 (new Western Conference record; old record, 3:15.2 set by Michigan in 1935).

Broad jump—Won by William Watson, Michigan, 25 feet 5½ inches; Riley Best, Wisconsin, 24 feet 3¾ inches, second; Wells Hodgson, Minnesota, 24 feet 1½ inches, third; Carl Culver, Michigan, 23 feet 11½ inches, fourth; Fred Culver, Michigan, 22 feet 10¾ inches, fifth.

High jump—Won by Robert Diefenthaler, Illinois, 6 feet 6 inches; Alfred Harrer, Wisconsin, 6 feet 3 inches, second; John Butler, Minnesota, 6 feet 1 inch, third; Robert Burnett and Edward Mikulas, Indiana, tied for fourth and fifth places; Wesley Allen, Donald Canhan and Robert King, Michigan; Riley Best and Donald Timmerman, Wisconsin; James R. Smith, Northwestern, and James Wilson, Iowa, 5 feet 8 inches.

Pole vault—Won by Robert Cassels, Chicago, 14 feet 2¾ inches; Milton Padway, Wisconsin, 13 feet 10 inches, second; Edward Davidson, Chicago, 12 feet 10 inches, third; Edwin Thistlethwaite, Northwestern; Dale Roberts, Iowa; David Cushing, Michigan, and Robert Gardner, Wisconsin, 12 feet 6 inches, tied for fourth and fifth. (New Western Conference record; old record, 13 feet 10⅜ inches, made by Vernon McDermott, Illinois in 1930).

Nakama and Hirose Invited to Swim Here

The Japan Swimming Federation Monday wired invitations to Kiyoshi Nakama and Takashi Hirose, star American born Japanese swimmers of Hawaii, to compete in the national championships at the Meiji Shrine pool next August.

The decision to invite Nakama and Hirose was reached because the Federation has been informed that the German swimmers, invited to compete here, will be unable to come to Japan this year.

Both Nakama and Hirose have a good chance to make the American team to the Olympic Games at Helsinki next year.

Nakama returned recently to Honolulu after making a virtual sweep of the championships in Australia. He traveled alone. He competes in the freestyle events from 220 yards up to a mile.

Hirose was a member of the All-American team that toured Europe last year, having been picked from his stellar showing in the sprints at the American national championships.

LOCKE DEFEATS PADGHAM, 2 & 1

The Times, London

LONDON, May 22—A. D. Locke, the South African champion, and A. H. Padgham, Open Champion in 1936, played a 36 holes match yesterday on Padgham's home course at Sundridge Park, near Bromley. Locke won by two holes up and one to play.

Locke did the first 18 holes in 68 (34 each half), while Padgham was round in 71 (35 and 36). The extraordinary consistency of the driving of both players was a feature of the match. There was seldom more than two or three yards difference in the lengths of the tee-shots at the long holes and most of them reached to about 300 yards. Locke holed four long putts up to 10 yards on the second, eighth, 11th, and 16th greens, his figures for those holes being 3, 3, 2, 3—a stroke better than par at each hole. Padgham played some beautiful second shots, although on a few occasions they were of no use. For instance, at the eighth (415 yards) Padgham's long approach finished 4ft. from the pin, but Locke holed from eight yards and halved that hole in 3. Again, at the 13th, Padgham's second shot was only two yards from the hole, but he did not allow enough borrow and his putt ran round the lip of the hole, Locke holing for a half. Locke was two up at the 16th, but was bunkered at the next hole and then missed a putt of two yards and lost the hole. He won the 18th, almost holing out with a shot from a bunker near to the green, the ball stopping only 6in. from the hole.

Padgham, on the second round, took the lead for the first time at the 14th, but lost the next three holes, which Locke did in 3, 4, 4, to win the match by two and one.

They began the second round after an interval of scarcely half an hour. Padgham, playing the first two holes, magnificently in 3 and 4 respectively, squared the match, but then began to cut his long shots, losing the next two holes. Padgham, however, won the eighth and ninth holes and squared the match, holding from 10 yards for a 3 at the eighth after a drive of nearly 350 yards. Padgham was out in 35 to Locke's 37. Locke was front again at the 10th, Padgham playing three shots from the back of the green, but the South African, after being hole high with a long iron shot to the 13th, took six and lost the hole. Padgham played a magnificent iron shot to within 2ft. of the hole at the 14th, and with an "eagle" 3 took the lead. Then, however, he lost the next three holes. He played a wild tee shot to the 15th, was short all the way to the 16th, and pulled his spoon shot to the 17th. Locke played the holes perfectly.

PANDAS BEATEN IN POLO TILTS AT LONDON

The Times, London

LONDON, May 22—Polo was practically at a standstill in London last week, but fortunately the Wimbledon ground had recovered sufficiently to enable Hurlingham to play off two ties in the Wimbledon Cup on Saturday. In the first of these, which was the first of the semi-final ties, Edmundsbury "A" team played the Pandas on an even handicap and beat them by eight goals to five; in the second match, a first-round tie, the Swallow, conceding three goals, beat the Red Jackets by 10 goals to seven.

The conditions did not lend themselves to good polo, for on a ground which cut up rather badly the ball was inclined to bump awkwardly, and for low handicap teams the hitting was remarkably good. Edmundsbury, who are perhaps the best mounted side in the competition, also held a definite advantage over the Pandas in the matter of team work, an advantage which enabled them to build up a lead of three goals in the first period. The Duke of Gloucester then scored two goals, the second of which was perhaps the best of the match, and so well did the Pandas recover that halfway through the game they had actually established a short lead. A strained shoulder, the result of a fall, the lost Edmundsbury the services of Captain R. O. Critchley, but in J. B. Trail they had something rather more than an adequate substitute, and, well as Captain Critchley had played in the earlier chukkas, withdrawal did not affect the efficiency of his side in any way.

DANGEROUS GAPS

N. Dugdale is a player who does not spare himself, but as a back he was inclined to pay just a little too much attention to the attacking side of the game, a fault which every now and again created dangerous gaps in his side's defense. Colonel Lord Barnby did his best to cover up these gaps, and, to begin with at any rate, one gained the impression that if Lord Barnby and Mr. Dugdale had changed places the Pandas defense might well have been a little more sure of itself. As it was, D. B. Wormald soon broke clear of the field, and a clean hit gave Edmundsbury the lead. A cross-pass by Captain Critchley opened the way for Captain A. H. Barclay to score a second goal, and before long Captain Barclay took the ball through on his own to put Edmundsbury further ahead. A free-hit at an open goal gave the Duke of Gloucester the chance to get one of those goals back, and then, with a beautiful shot taken from a wide angle, he brought the Pandas to within striking distance.

Another good goal by Lord Barnby made the scores level, and A. David, picking up a nice pass from Lord Barnby, gave the Pandas the lead. Mr. Trail who had now taken Captain Critchley's place, soon evened up the game again, and after a long run during which he controlled the ball beautifully, Mr. Traill restored Edmundsbury's lead.

That was the end of the Pandas recovery. In the final period Mr. David scored a goal with a grand backhander, but before that two goals by Captain Barclay had made the game quite safe for Edmundsbury, and in the last minute a firm hit by Captain Barclay made the score 8-5.

The teams were:—

Pandas—A. David (2), No. 1; the Duke of Gloucester (1), No. 2; Colonel Lord Barnby (2), No. 3; N. Dugdale (3), back.

Edmundsbury "A."—D. B. Wormald (1), No. 1; Captain A. H. Barclay (3), No. 2; Captain R. C. Critchley (4), No. 3; and B. H. Black (0), back. J. B. Frail (3) took the place of Captain Critchley at the end of the third period.

SWALLOWS WIN

The second game was really a match between experience and youth, and with the conditions as difficult as they were the experienced Swallows side naturally came out on top. Major Philip Magor and Major J. M. Graham have played polo on every kind of ground, and the fact that this one was bumpy was no real handicap to them. In fact, with a nice sense of position they merely waited for their opponents make mistakes, which they quickly turned to their own advantage. Still, when grounds become firmer and the ball runs smoothly the Red Jackets on handicap will give a very good account of themselves.

At the end of the first period a hard hit by Major Magor gave the Swallows an early goal, and from a hit up by Major Graham, Major J. H. Hirsch scored the second goal. Major Graham then went through on his own to wipe out the Red Jackets' handicap, and a nicely placed pass from Major Magor enabled Major J. H. Hirsch to give his side the lead. Having now found the pace of the ground the Red Jackets began to fight back, and very cleverly did W. H. Gerard Leigh ride Major Magor off to give G. H. Lowther, who with more experience will become a very good player, a clear run through. A long ride by J. F. Astley-Rushton, which certainly belied his handicap, enabled him to restore the Swallows' lead, a lead which he soon increased with a good backhander. Then came a second recovery by the Red Jackets, and the award of a goal under penalty No. 1 was no more than they deserved. A minute later the Red Jackets, as the result of a good goal scored by Gerard Leigh, drew level again, but with goals scored by Mr. Astley-Rushton and Major Graham the Swallows forged ahead. In the final chukka Major Magor outrode the defense, and from a hit up by Major Magor, Major Graham added a tenth goal. Now came signs of a further recovery by the Red Jackets, and Mr. Lowther got back one of the goals.

The teams were:

Swallows—J. F. Astley-Rushton (0), No. 1; Major J. H. Hirsch (1), No. 2; Major Philip Magor (3), No. 3; and Major J. M. Graham (4), back.

Red Jackets—W. H. Gerard Leigh (1), No. 1; G. H. Lowther (1), No. 2; J. D. Summers (1), No. (1), No. 3; and Lord Lewes (1), back.

Budge Defeats Nusslein in Pro Matches at London

The Times, London

LONDON, May 22—J. D. Budge and H. Nusslein, of Germany, met for the first time in the professional tournament at Wembley on Saturday night, and Budge just managed to win by 13—11, 2—6, 6—4. Budge, who remained unbeaten, won the first prize, but earlier in the evening W. T. Tilden was in great form in beating H. E. Vines by 6—3, 10—8, and it was Vines who finished last.

There was a large gathering at the Empire Stadium to watch some magnificent play, and those who had maintained that Nusslein could beat Budge were not very far wrong. Budge carried the big guns by service and volley and power of drive, but Nusslein's control of the ball and the delicacy of his touch were almost uncanny, and he showed how little an American serve worries him by winning Budge's service five times in a tremendous first set. Budge's great speed of stroke was just too much for him in the end, though Budge discovered that he was anything but safe at 4—2 in the third set, for Nusslein caught up, and it was then anyone's match.

Cornell Nine Ties Harvard for Top Place

PRINCETON, N. J., May 22—Cornell gained a tie with Harvard for first place in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League yesterday by defeating Princeton on University Field, 5 to 4.

The Ithacans staged a four-run rally in the seventh inning to come from behind and take the contest originally scheduled as the night-cap of a Saturday double-header before it was cut short by rain. Cornell was the "home" team even though playing at Princeton.

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 22—Calling on their sprinting ability to carry them through the last bilstering hour, the Canadian brothers, William and Doug Peden, pedaled their way to victory in the six-day bicycle race that came to an end in Madison Square Garden at 11 o'clock last night.

The rugged William, better known to race followers as Torchy, and his younger brother dominated the proceedings in the final 60 minutes to amass enough points to score their first team victory in New York.

The Pedens were tied in the matter of laps ridden by two other combinations, the German-American partnership of Gustav Kiilian and Bobby Thomas, and the all-American duo of Jimmy Walthour and Al Crossley, but the many points that the Canadians made through the sprints gave them the triumph. They amassed a total of 1,498 points, as against 1,163 for Kilian and Thomas. The third-place team, Walthour and Crossley, wound up with 928.

Nine thousand were present for the final night.

ITALIAN TEAM FOURTH

Of the twelve teams that started the race last Monday night, only eight finished. In fourth place, one lap behind the leaders and with 463 points, came Alvaro Georgetti and Cesare Moretti, the popular Italians, who earned that spot by 101 points over Gerard Debaets and Freddie Ottevaere of Belgium.

Jerry Rodman and Eddie Testa were sixth, two laps behind the pacemakers, while Jules Audy and Cecil Yates, three plays from the top riders with 588 points, were seventh. Tino Reboli and Angelo De Bacco brought up the rear, tied with Audy and Yates in the matter of laps, but showing only 232 points for their week's work.

The enthusiastic fans followed the action down to the very last minute. Going into the closing hour, the Pedens had a small point lead over Kilian and Thomas and Walthour and Crossley, but their ability to hold this advantage over such excellent sprinters was doubted by most of the onlookers. However, the Canadian brothers dispelled these doubts by their powerful pedaling toward the close, and between them they won eleven of the twenty-eight sprints that made up the last hour.

And these sprints were valuable, indeed, for first place was worth a total of 72 points, as against the mere 6 that went to the winners of the ordinary sprints through the week.

DISMOUNTS FROM HIS BIKE

Exciting as the finish was, it did not rest well with a number of spectators who were disturbed by an official ruling that affected the team of Georgetti and Moretti. During the height of the wild riding session, Referee Pat Mulvey assessed the Italians the loss of a lap because Georgetti had dismounted from his bike for no apparent reason.

The announcement of this penalty was greeted with a thunderous salvo of boos and jeers, and these outbursts of disapproval lasted until well after the end of the grind.

The accolade usually bestowed on the winners was, as a consequence, withheld from the Pedens, who, as they circled the track with bouquets of flowers in their right hands, had to endure the unpleasant sensation of being greeted by a continuous round of gibes, brought on them by no fault of their own.

When the penalty was called against Georgetti and Moretti they were tied in laps with the leaders, since they accounted for the only circuit pilfered in the final hour. But, as things turned out, they would have finished fourth anyway, for their point total was comparatively small.

Only when the Italians rode around the track, to the accompaniment of their national anthem, did the boos turn to cheers. And then the crowd, in a belated gesture of approval of the Pedens's accomplishment, coupled their names to the Italians in shouting approbation.

The Pedens have been riding as a team for four years and have lasted the fruit of victory four times in the past. They won races at Toronto, Montreal, San Francisco and Buffalo, but the event just concluded marked their first success in this city. As for Torchy individually, the grind signalized the thirty-third time in his career that he had won premier honors.

The results of the final sprints:

1—W. Peden Walthour, Yates, Kilian.
2—Thomas, Ottevaere, W. Peden, Walthour.
3—D. Peden, Crossley, Yates, O'Brien.

Stalphin Wins Own Game Against Nankai, Driving In Run In 9th

Pitcher Stalphin of the Giants won his own ball game by poking a hit to center to bring in the winning run in the last half of the ninth against Nankai in Tuesday's doubleheader of the professional circuit at the Korakuen stadium. The final count was 5 to 4.

The Dolfins staged a surprise in the other game by routing Hankyu, champions of the Spring season, by a 5 to 1 score. Pitcher Nakayama was in brilliant form and checked the Hankyu batsmen to three measely hits.

Over at the Koshien stadium in the Kansai, the Tigers swamped the Lions 6 to 1 while the Senators took the measure of Nagoya, 10 to 8.

FARR DEFEATS LARRY GAINS IN 5TH ROUND

The Times, London

LONDON, May 18—Tommy Farr forced Larry Gains, the Canadian negro, to retire at the end of five rounds at Cardiff last night. Farr was 12 years the younger man, and assisted by his own fighting experience and great strength gave Gains no respite. The latter needed all his strength to stand up, and at best it was a matter of time how long he managed to do so.

The ring stood under a canopy and a battery of arc lamps in the center of the Cardiff City Footbal Club's playing field. There were perhaps 2,000 people in the seats immediately surrounding the ring. Farther away on the covered stands and banks another 30,000 spectators took up their places. Much depended upon the weather, which was bitterly cold for May and so windy and overcast that the worst seemed likely to happen at any moment. Happily the rain held off. Gains arrived well swathed and wearing a cap. Farr did not keep him waiting long, however, and one shivered at the fitness and hardihood which enabled the former to shed a homely looking dressing-gown and use it merely as a wrap while the gloves were being put on.

Farr also wasted no time in going in to fight. He needed to win decisively and he obviously realized the fact. It would never do to fail where Jack Petersen five years previously and Len Harvey a few months ago had succeeded. Gains, as usual, boxed coolly, with both eyes, open, but the most he did in the first round was to prevent Farr from landing too many body blows, stabbing lefts, and right swings to the head.

In the second round Farr opened with a left swing to the face, and he continued to force the fight for all he was worth. Nor did he forget to lead with the left. At close quarters there was only one man in it. Whatever else happened it was certain that the infighting Farr had developed in America must wear down a man so much the veteran as Gains. Farr's left found Gains's face repeatedly in the third round, and nothing the latter could do in defense kept Farr out when he really meant to get to close quarters. A less clever boxer than Gains would have been in serious trouble long before Farr delivered a rain of blows which revealed the true inwardness of the situation. Still, Gains reached the fourth round more or less safely, and it was remarked—by way of interesting and important comparison—that although Gains was boxing even better than he did against Harvey, he came under heavier fire and himself landed fewer blows.

This round was nearly all infighting, with Farr, head down and heavy shouldered, hammering away at the body whenever he found a way through the crafty pair of arms in front of him. After this Farr opened out a little and drove Gains round the ring with left leads and the occasional right with which he clearly wanted to win the fight without too much delay. Gains more than ever was compelled to fall back on defense, whereas Farr not only was unmarked but keener and quicker than ever. Gains wearily shook his head when he sat down for the interval between the fifth and sixth rounds. He had had enough, and it was of little interest now to the spectators that an injured hand was given as the reason for his retirement. Gains can still box as well as most champions, but physically he is no longer a match for men like Tommy Farr. The latter, it was generally agreed, had scored over Harvey in the manner of winning—his attack was so deadly and powerful. But one questioned whether Jack Petersen, who was a close spectator, considered that his brilliant victory over Gains when the latter was five years less the veteran had been eclipsed.

100TH BIRTHDAY OF BASEBALL FETED IN U.S.

Domei Tsushin

COOPERSTOWN, New York, June 12—Baseball's 100th birthday party was observed today in this up-State village where Abner Doubleday, 20-year-old West Point cadet conceived the game a century ago.

A crowd of 4,000 thronged the main street to witness the dedication of the National Baseball Museum and the Hall of Fame. Postmaster-General James Farley, Baseball's High Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis and the presidents of the Major Leagues as well as other baseball notables were present.

Charles Doyle, president of the baseball writer's associations presided over the ceremonies and introduced 11 living members of baseball's Hall of Fame. Connie Mack, Babe Ruth and Cy Young each made short speeches.

Babe was given a tremendous ovation when he said, "I hope some day that you young fellows will know how it feels to get into the Hall of Fame. I am particularly happy of this celebration because just 25 years ago yesterday I pitched my first major league game for the Red Sox."

After the ceremonies, a seven-inning game was played between two teams composed of major league players, one captained by Hans Wagner, coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the other headed by Eddie Collins, manager of the Boston Red Sox.

The Wagner team, though outhit by the Collins' squad, emerged victorious four to two. The Wagner men got six bingles and made two miscues while the Collins team got seven hits and played errorless ball.

Among those who played were Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, John Vander Meer, of the Cincinnati Reds; Lefty Grove and Muddy Ruel.

The fans gave Babe Ruth a big hand as he waddled to the plate in the Wagner team's half of the fifth inning and popped out to Arndt Jorgens. Before popping out, Babe took a wicked swipe at one ball but missed it by a yard. He fouled another.

GROVE STILL GOOD

By RUMILL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, May 21—A steady rain fell on Fenway Park. The Detroit-Red Sox game had just been postponed and the boys were filling out of the clubhouse for various destinations. Ted Williams, Bobby Doer and Woody Rich were off to the movies, a western thriller preferred. Jimmy Foxx, Doc Cramer and Jos Vosmik started for their hotels, there to "sit around" and await continuation of the series. The Fenway grandstand was cold and barren.

Up in the office sat Lefty Grove, his size 12 shoes against a warm radiator, staring out across the darkened diamond. "Just my 'luck' to have it rain when I'm in a hittin' streak," said the great left-hander, without moving a muscle.

LESSONS FOR FOXX

"Listen to who's talking," laughed Tom Daly, who was pacing up and down the floor like a restless animal in a circus cage. "I suppose we'll never hear the last of that home run you hit against Detroit Sunday."

"Well, it wasn't a 'fluke,'" Lefty bellowed, jumping to his feet as if to challenge anyone who doubted it. "That ball was hit. Plenty of guys haven't hit over that fence—guys who are supposed to be hitters. Where's that Foxx. He wants me to give him some lessons."

Grove went to another part of the office, probably to get in the way of anyone who was trying to do an honest day's work.

Tom Daly left the press room, where Lefty had been broadcasting, and joined Hughie Duffy and Neil Mahoney in Billy Delaney's private dining room in the rear of the grandstand. Mahoney is the Newton boy, once of Northeastern University, who on June 1 will take over Duffy's old job scouting New England for the Red Sox.

QUITE AN APPETITE

"Come in boys," greeted Hughie, ordering two more roast beef dinners.

"Quite an appetite for a little fellow," said Daly, pointing at Hughie's plate.

"A young fellow like myself has got to eat plenty to keep up with you old-timers," grinned Duffy, who was playing ball back in 1887.

Daly settled in a chair and went to work on a slice of roast beef. "Tell Neil about that plane ride we took from St. Louis to Chicago on that last western trip, Hughie," said Tom. "Isn't that the last word in travel?"

"Yes, sir," admitted Hughie. "I didn't like the idea of flying when I first read the bulletin in the clubhouse at St. Louis but after we got started I was for it, 100 per cent. It was just as comfortable as it is right here in this room. We had a big steak dinner and it was great. You could walk around just as if we were on a train."

FAVORS AIR TRAVEL

"You look out the window," said Daly, "and you have the feeling that you're suspended in the air. The ground underneath is stationary. Nothing but flat land all the way. I think we could take several of our hops by air—between here and New York Washington and Philadelphia."

"I've never been up," put in Mahoney. "But from what I hear it's the only way to travel."

Daly finished his dinner and started back toward the office. Jim Tabor was just leaving the clubhouse. "That fellow is sure hitting the ball," Tom said. "Right now he's hitting harder than anybody on this ball club. Why, most of his hardest balls have been caught. Remember that great catch Mel Almada made on him the other day? Well, he caught hold of one to right field in St. Louis that was tagged harder than that, but Rupert Thompson caught it without moving. It almost knocked him down."

SOLD OUT FOR MAY 30

At the entrance to the main office several men were standing in line, waiting to buy tickets. A majority were turned away because they wanted reserved seats for the May 30 double-header with the Yankees. Tickets for this twin bill are at a premium. Even those "on the inside" cannot buy them. The fans wore disappointed looks as they went down the stairs, out onto the street.

In the room where tickets are distributed sat Grove, tossing paper clips at anybody who walked past his corner. Western Union boy or newspaperman—it made no difference to Lefty. They all felt the sting of clips. Rain continued to fall over Fenway,, suggestive of gloom to all connected with baseball. "No Game Today"—an unpopular sign with every fan. But the sun was shining for Lefty. Hadn't he won three games in this comeback campaign, and hit a home run?

Students Will Meet All Comers In Track Meet At Shiba Park

BRITISH FOUR TOPS U.S. TEAM BY 9-7 SCORE

By ROBERT F. KELLEY

N.Y. Times

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., May 21—Great Britain's polo team, trying a new riding order, encountered the strongest opposition it has yet faced on Long Island and won, 9 to 7, at the Sands Point Club today.

With Gerald Balding and Aidan Roark exchanging places, Balding going to No. 2 and Roark to No. 3, the Britons had Bob Skene again at No. 1 and Eric Tyrrell-Martin at back. Opposed to them was the twenty-eight-goal Anglo-American combination of Ebby Gerry, John Lakin, Hexy Hughes and Billy Post.

It was a game typical of those which the Britain have been playing in all their practice on Long Island. For quite a while it appeared as if they would lose. They refused to gallop hard or string out at the pace at which most American teams play even in practice, and they once found themselves trailing by 6 to 4.

FIFTH PERIOD TURNING POINT

The most impressive part of their exhibition came when they started after the opposition and, with a fifth period in which they scored three times and shut out the others, settled the issue.

Balding and Skene went well together up forward, but Roark did not play the kind of polo of which he is capable at the No. 3 post. He was missing too after for the team to play as a unit, and on several occasions promising British runs were upset when Roark missed and left the way for one of the opposition to come to the attack.

It was also apparent that some of the British ponies are still short of top condition. One or two of the Indian ponies, particularly the chestnut mare Figurita, belonging to the Maharajah of Kashmir, could not keep Balding up with the game on occasion. These are the ponies which Balding has played successfully in India, and he is confident they will be in shape for the matches.

HUGHES UPSETS OPPONENTS

For the opposition, Gerry was frequently fast and accurate at No. 1 and made the best goal of the day when he rode almost the length of the field and cut in a beautiful shot. Post was always a sound player and well mounted and seemed able to ride out in front a good part of the time. In the middle periods the energetic Hughes frequently piled up British plays.

Skene was fast in the opening period and was away for two goals, which offset one by Gerry. Lakin got away for two goals in the second, however, and the British trailed until Skene scored at the bell.

In the third the sides spit even and at the beginning of the fourth Long Island went out to a two-goal lead when a No. 1 penalty was awarded and Gerry came in close for a shot, making the count 6 to 4.

Skene got away to a goal before the close of the fourth, and in the fifth the British attacked steadily, with Balding moving up to score three times. They broke even again in the final session, but the issue had been decided by then.

The line-up:

Grt. Britain (9)	Long Island (7)
1—R. Skene	1—E. T. Gerry
2—G. Balding	2—J. Lakin
3—A. Roark	3—H. Hughes
Bk.—Tyrrell-Martin	Back—W. Post 2d

Score by Periods

Great Britain	2	1	1	1	3	1	—9
Long Island	1	2	1	2	0	1	—7

Goals—Great Britain—Skene 5, Balding 3, Roark 1. Long Island: Gerry 2, Hughes 2, Post 2, No. 1 penalty.

Referee—Thomas Brady. Time of period—7½ minutes.

KONGO BEATS OTSU EASILY OVER 10 ROUNDS

Iwao Kongo, ace protege of Kintaro Usuda, scored a one-sided decision over Shoichi Otsu, recognized bantamweight boxing champion of Japan, Tuesday night over 10 rounds at the Hibiya Public Hall before a packed audience. The two had battled to a draw in the same ring on February 24.

Kongo, not resorting to his usual blind rushing at the outset of the bout, fought coolly and scored with effective left and right swings to the jaw and body as he bored in carefully. Otsu attempted to connect with counter punches as he retreated but Kongo crossed him up by beating him to the punch with one-twos.

As the rounds continued, Otsu weakened from the effect of Kongo's hooks to the body which packed plenty of kick. Kongo virtually clinched victory in the fourth round. He continued to score heavily in the fifth, sixth and seventh rounds.

Kongo was favored to win but not in the one-sided fashion that he did.

Kongo weighed in at 110 pounds and Otsu at 115 pounds.

Goro Kiguchi of the Shinko Boxing Club, up and coming featherweight, took a decision from Takeo Kinoshita of the Nippon Boxing Club in the six-round semi-final. The two are featherweights.

Shintaro Yamada, promising featherweight of the Usuda Boxing Club, won impressively from Isao Kawajima of the Tokyo Boxing Club.

SCOTLAND TIES WITH U.S. STARS IN SOCCER, 1-1

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

An angle kick to the corner of the net ten minutes from the end of the game gave the American Soccer League All-Stars a highly satisfactory and totally unexpected 1-1 tie with an All-Scotland eleven in an international soccer match before 25,072 spectators at the Polo Grounds yesterday.

Two youngsters who had played on the Olympic team of 1936 combined to produce the tally. George Conn flicked a pass to George Nemchik, who rifled a shot past the diving Scot goalie, John Dawson. Oddly enough, this was the only real threat that the Americans made in the entire period as the nimble-footed lads from across the Atlantic dominated the play.

Scotland gave Stanley Chesney, the giant United States goalie, a terrific workout in this session. It kept bombarding him for the entire 45 minutes, but not one shot escaped him. The Scotsmen had made their score in the more evenly played first half, although even there they had the edge on the Americans.

A BEAUTIFUL SHOT

The drive that whisked past Chesney was beautifully executed and practically unstoppable. Tom McKenzie centered the ball on a free kick after 27 minutes had passed and Archie Garrett leaped high in the air to head it into the net.

It did not seem then or at any point afterward that this fray would result in anything but a victory for the visitors. The Scotsmen handled the ball magnificently and passed with an accuracy that appeared instinctive. Their footwork was superb and there could be no doubt as to which was the better team.

Chesney made thirteen saves in the furious second period to only one for Dawson, which is indication enough of the direction in which this battle was swinging. Furthermore, the Scot attack was so furious that wide shots and high shots removed the necessity for actual saves.

DISPLAYS FINE COURAGE

The United States group, recruited from all the teams in the American Soccer League, did not have the polish or the teamwork to match the lads from abroad. All it had was an indomitable courage and persistency, never once cracking in the face of overwhelming odds.

The two Scot backs, Ben Ellis and Jim Carabine, along with Bill Lyon, the center halfback, bore the brunt of the defensive labors, checking the American drives long before they reached scoring territory. Up ahead the fleet offensive men kept the ball moving. Sandy McNab, Jim Caskie, Malcolm MacDonald and Garrett gave Chesney more work than he has had in a long time.

The teams will have a return match at the Polo Grounds on June 18. That, perhaps, was the reason why agreement had been made in advance that there would be no overtime in the event of a deadlock.

The line-up:

Pos.	Scotland (1)	United States (1)
G.	Dawson	Chesney
R.B.	Carabine	Stoll
L.B.	Ellis	Harker
R.H.	McKenzie	McGuire

C.	Garrett	Patenaude
I.L.	MacDonald	Ruddy

BASEBALL PLAYED IN AMERICA FOR 100 YEARS AS OF JUNE 12

The Observer

Baseball has been palyed in the United States for just 100 years. To celebrate the centenary a Baseball Hall of Fame was dedicated on June 12 at Cooperstown, in New York State, the birthplace of what has now long been America's national summer sport. Abner Doubleday is credited with its invenion, and on a June day in 1839 the first game according to his formula was played on the outskirts of the village.

Of course, games with characteristics similar to those of baseball had been played long before 1839. The old English pastime of rounders, for example, which was certainly played in America in colonial times and after. It seems likely that Abner derived inspiration from a favorite game of Yankee schoolboys in those days—One Old Cat, with three players, each batting in turn and scoring a point by running to the single base and back before being put out. As Two, Three, or Four Old Cat the game was adapted for four, six, or eight players.

However that may be, certain it is that in 1839 a young cadet from West Point, the military academy, was on leave visiting his home folks, and he instructed the lads of his native Cooperstown in a new game, played with bat and ball and embodying running from one point to another around a square. The first "diamond" was marked out on a cow pasture, and a fund is being raised to maintain a Doubleday Field on the site.

Of Abner, who eventually rose to the rank of General, there is nothing further of interest to record. In and around New York the game caught on. Clubs were formed and the number of those interested in the game continually grew. By 1845 the Knickerbocker, Gotham, Eagle, Excelsior, and other teams were playing with one another according to an established code of rules.

RIVALRY WAXED INTENSE

Baseball spread to other cities, and famous clubs like the Red Stockings of Cincinnati and the Forest City of Cleveland came into existence. Rivalry between the foremost teams waxed more intense, with continually growing crowds of local supporters. Semi-professionalism crept in, made headway, and eventually the players of the most prominent clubs became wholly professionalized.

Of course, the game was, and is, played extensively by amateur, but professional baseball evolved into public entertainment on a big scale. In 1876 the National League of eight leading clubs was formed. So great was the public demand for first-class games that in 1882 the American Association was set up, at first in rivalry, then constrained to work in harmony, these two bodies controlling professional baseball for many years.

By that time it had attained the status of the national Summer spot. Did not John H. Heydler, preeminent authority on the game, recite those verses, the bestknown ballad of the game, "Casey at the Bat," in the White House one midnight for the edification of President Cleveland? Heydler, who had been a newspaper sports editor, was then an umpire, and later president of the National League for many years.

There have been various changes in the organization of leagues. Now the National League and the American League dominate the sport from the spectacular point of view, each with eight crack teams playing in different cities during the season, from April to October, some 150 games drawing huge gates. The winners in each compete for the championship in matches known as the World Series, held since 1884.

The National and the American League both have clubs in New York, Chicago, Boston, St. Louis, and Philadelphia; the National another in Brooklyn, New York, and in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh; while the American has others in Cleveland, Detroit, and Washington. There are, therefore, ten major-league cities. A host of minor leagues cover the country, and from star players in these the major leagues recruit their ranks.

FIRED WITH HOPE

There is keen competition for outstanding new men who will hold the patronage of the baseball fans. Scouts are on the look-out, playing special attention to schools and colleges, fired with the hope of finding another Bob Feller, renowned pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, who was discovered at an Iowa high school and used to take his textbooks with him on his trips with the team, because his father insisted he must continue his studies and pass his examination.

A likely player is carefully watched, if he shapes well moving up to a club of higher standing in the chain which each major League, according to its financial resources, has attached to it, giving an option on the services of the players. The strict baseball code is so enforced that a player, once he has signed on, cannot break away from the system without sacrificing all his chances of getting to the top and drawing big money. So thoroughly organized is the system that out of some 4,000 minor League players in the country about 2,500 are under option.

Before the opening of the season the teams spend six to eight weeks getting into trim at training quarters in Florida or California, and this alone costs the sixteen clubs half a million dollars. The expenditure on, and the money invested in, baseball reaches a colossal total. Upkeep of the grounds and pay of big staffs of various kinds of attendants, costs of equipment with, to take a single item, most clubs using between 500 and 600 dozen balls a year at 15 dollars a dozen, printing bills, huge outlays on transport since major League teams average 100,000 miles travel in a year, with thirty to fifty persons in each party, and a host of incidental expenses contribute to the gigantic aggregate.

BIG PAY FOR PLAYERS

Then there is the cost of operating the chain system of minor Leagues, and also the quota paid to the League office, which may call for 250,000 dollars from its eight clubs. On top of all this come the players' salaries. For the 150 odd games of the regular season a major League player averages 6,500 dollars, but a star of the first magnitude with a prosperous club may make up to 35,000 dollars. He has to buy only his shoes and gloves, everything else being provided. Babe Ruth, the greatest individual "draw" for big gates in baseball history, began life in a New York orphanage, and at thirty was the highest paid athlete in the world, receiving a salary with bonuses from the New York Yankees of close on 100,000 dollars a year, larger than that of the President of the United States.

Big money goes into, and comes out of, baseball. The replacement value of the real estate and plant owned by the Chicago Cubs is officially assessed at 3½ million dollars. Probably the total investment of his club is double that amount. The aggregate capital of all major and minor Leagues must approach 200 millions.

Yet, as a whole, baseball about pays its way, income pouring in from the huge takings at major League games, especially if a leading team's ranking is in jeopardy and the ground is crammed during a four-day series, down to smaller gates at lesser matches, helped by very valuable catering concessions and, in some places, the lease of the ground for football, prize fights, athletic and other, events. It is a most extraordinary blend of big business and sport. H. P. H.

Nakama and Hirose Unable to Swim Here

Kiyoshi Nakama and Takashi Hirose, star swimmers of Hawaii, will not compete in the national championship to be held in the Meiji Shrine pool in August. Inability to accept the invitation tendered by the Japan Swimming Federation because of their entrance in the American national championships was learned in a special dispatch to the Asahi on Wednesday.

The Federation, whose invitation to Germany has proved abortive, has decided not to negotiate for any more foreign swimmers to come here because it will be too late for the season.

At a meeting at the Koraku Restaurant at Akasaka Wednesday night, directors of the Federation and captains of the leading university teams decided to send a team to the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki next year at any cost and sacrifice.

DARTMOUTH ROUTS PENN, 17-4

N.Y. Times

HANOVER, N. H., May 20—Dartmouth's baseball team, still in the thick of the Eastern Intercollegiate League race, rolled up the largest score on an opponent in several years by pounding four Pennsylvania pitchers for a 17-4 victory today.

Harold (Chief) Wonson, the league's leading pitcher of 1938, coasted to an easy victory. Dartmouth held an 8-2 lead at the end of the third inning. Tony Caputo, Penn's starting pitcher, did not last two frames. He got by the first, but in the second yielded three hits and two walks, finally forcing across the fourth run of the inning, with the bases full. He was replaced by Jim Fawley.

Fawley fared even worse. He filled the bases when Linden hit safely, Hein walked and Wonson was struck with a pitched ball. Then George Hanna whaled the ball to deep right center for a home run and four more crossed the plate.

YALE DEFEATS CORNELL EIGHT BY NINE FEET

By STANLEY WOODWARD

N.Y. Herald Tribune

PRINCETON, N. J., May 20—The Yale and Cornell crews bore down on the finish line prow and prow this afternoon and Yale won the best boat race of the season with its closing sprint, beating Ithaca by nine feet in the annual Carnegie Cup regatta and setting a record of 8:54.6 for Lake Carnegie's mile-and-three-quarters course. Princeton, never a factor after the first half-mile, finished four lengths astern.

Yale won when it appeared that Cornell, recent conqueror of Navy, had the race in hand. The Ithacans pulled up inch by inch after having been left astern by both Yale and Princeton at the start. A quarter of a mile from the finish Cornell actually was ahead. But Yale, which had been rowing more strokes to the minute all the way up the course, still had more power to turn loose.

The coxswain waved a red flag in the New Haven stern-sheets and the oarsmen dug in for all they were worth. They went quickly up to forty strokes a minute. Cornell tried to match the sprint and just failed to do it.

BIG RED WINS TWO RACES

Cornell had some solace through victories in the junior varsity and freshmen races. The Ithaca junior varsity won in 9:05. Yale, finishing in 9:17.6, was three and a half lengths astern, and Princeton, finishing in 9:25.6, was two lengths further in the ruck. Cornell's freshman crew won by approximately the same margin in 9:07.8. Princeton beat Yale for second, rowing 9:20.8 to Yale's 9:22. Yale's third varsity walloped the corresponding crews of Pennsylvania and Princeton, finishing in 9:03, second fastest time of the day.

The preliminary races were rowed in a driving rain, the tail-end of a thunderstorm which increased the flow of water over the dam at the head of shallow Lake Carnegie and no doubt had something to do with the speed generated by Yale and Cornell in the varsity event, for Cornell, as well as Yale, broke the course record.

Cornell rowed the course in 8:55.2, or three-fifths of a second slower than Yale. The old record, set by the Cornell crew of 1936, was 9:01.6.

UNBEATEN IN SPRINTS

With its victory Yale completed its sprint race season without defeat and now has nothing ahead but the annual four-mile struggle with Harvard at New London. The New Haven varsity assured itself of a tie at least for the sprinting championship. Whether it will be alone on the pinnacle will be determined next week when unbeaten Harvard tackles Cornell on Lake Cayuga.

Those who stood at the finish line today, whatever their collegiate connections, were able to summon considerable enthusiasm for this Yale crew. It had condition, it had life and it was willing to punish itself to the last degree to win.

It won this after most of the cognoscenti had concluded that it had shot its bolt. It is very seldom that a crew that has been overhauled can summon the stuff to come on again and win.

Yale went out from the start with thirty-nine strokes in the first minute of rowing. It left Cornell at the post, but Princeton, matching the high beat, hung on for a time.

After a quarter-mile of rowing Yale led Princeton by a deck, with Cornell a length further astern. At this point Yale was rowing thirty-six to the minute and Cornell thirty-one. Princeton was a notch or two under Yale.

CORNELL OVERHAULS TIGERS

At the half-mile Yale had built its lead to half a length over Princeton, and Cornell, unhurried in its stroking, still was a length back. Ithaca hauled down Princeton in the next quarter mile and commenced to gain on Yale. With a mile to go the Cornell bow widely overlapped the Yale stern and Princeton was falling back.

Cornell kept gaining and Princeton kept falling back from there to the last quarter-mile. The Ithaca boatload was gradually putting up the beat and all things seemed to be possible to it. Every one was on the point of concluding that Yale was cooked. It had rowed many more strokes and apparently put out more energy over the course.

But Yale wouldn't let the logical result come to pass. The red flag waved in the Yale stern and the men of New Haven reached for new stroking heights. It was so close at the finish that the rival coaches, Ed Leader, of Yale, and Harrison Sanford, of Cornell, who were sitting together in a trailing launch, didn't know who should congratulate whom.

Before these amenities were carried out they had to consult the finish judges.

RED JAYVEES ROW EASILY

Cornell's junior varsity rowed exactly the same sort of a race as its varsity though with more satisfactory results. It started at a leisurely beat and built up the stroke as it progressed, finishing with an imposing spurt. Yale and Princeton followed this Ithaca eight after the first quarter-mile.

The Cornell freshmen never were in trouble and the Yale third crew, running in the midst of a driving rain, was in the same position.

The rain stopped just as the junior varsity crews came to the line and the crowd, which had been driven to cover under trees and in automobiles, came out on the banks and gave the regatta a reasonably populous setting. A few canoes and sailboats massed around the finish and a few Princeton undergraduates rode bicycles on the towpath alongside of the competing crews.

'Big 6' Fall Season Will Open On Sept. 9

The Fall season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league will open with a doubleheader on Saturday, September 9, and will continue for eight weeks up to October 29, it was decided by the league directors at a meeting at its headquarters at the Marunouchi Building Wednesday night.

The league voted a donation of ¥3,000 toward expenses of the track and field team that left for Germany this week.

Unless the proposed Japan, China and Manchoukuo athletic meet at Hsinking on September 1, 2 and 3 is held during the middle of August, the league will be unable to send a representative team to participate, it was decided.

6 RECORDS FALL AS U.S.C. WINS TRACK ON COAST

N.Y. Herald Tribune

SEATTLE, May 20—The University of Southern California won its fourth consecutive Pacific Coast Conference track and field title today in a meet in which six conference records were bettered and two others equaled.

Records were bettered in the 100-yard dash, the mile, 220-yard low hurdles, the two-mile run, shotput and the javelin throw.

The Trojans scored 67 points. Stanford was second with 45 and California third with 38.

The other point winners:

Washington State, 30; Oregon, 15½; University of California at Los Angeles, 13; Montana, 7; Oregon State, 5; Washington, 2½; Idaho 2.

The summaries:

Mile run—Won by Zamperini, U. S. C.; Girard, Stanford, second; Cole, California, third; Liebowitz, Idaho, fourth; Moore, Stanford, fifth. Time, 4:16.3. (New P. C. C. record, former mark 4:17.9 made by Burrows, of Stanford, in 1938).

DEAN YIELDS ONLY 3 HITS IN FIRST START

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, May 21—Dizzy Dean, making his first league start of the season, thrilled 21,684 spectators today with a three-hit performance that gave the Cubs, 4-to-0 victory over the Bees.

Most of the spectators had stood in the ticket line in the rain, which held up the start of the game, for more than a half hour. Dean received a thunderous ovation.

There was no question about Dean's readiness to take his place among the Chicago starting pitchers. His performance was reminiscent of so many he turned in during his heyday with the Cardinals.

STRONG AT END OF GAME

Boston made one scratch hit in the first inning and two more blows in the seventh. Only one Bee got as far as third base and only four reached first, one as a result of an error by Steve Mesner in the sixth inning. Dean didn't walk a batter. From the first through the fifth he retired thirteen in succession.

When the game was over Dizzy declared his arm was as strong as at the start.

Jim Turner started for the Bees and held the Cubs in check until the sixth, when they drove him from the box with a three-run, three-hit attack. Stanley Hack walked to open the assault. Bill Herman sacrificed and Augie Galan, Hank Leiber and Joe Marty followed with doubles.

HASSETT RUNS PAST THIRD

John Lanning took over and put an end to the uprising, but remained to see the Cubs count their fourth run in the seventh. Dean started this drive with a single. Hack sacrificed and was safe when Lanning fumbled the ball. Herman then sacrificed and the bases were filled when Galan drew a pass. Lanning made a wild pitch and Dean crossed the plate.

The Bees' best effort came in the seventh when, with one out, Buddy Hassett singled to center and moved to second on Al Simmons's infield out. Mesner made a great stop of Ralph Hodgin's grounder back of second, but could not recover the ball in time to throw out the runner. Hassett, however, overran third and was thrown out, Herman to Hack. Dean then retired the Bees in order in the eighth and ninth innings.

Dean had previously appeared on the mount twice since the season began. Six days ago he turned in a masterful relief job, letting down Brooklyn with three hits and no runs in five innings while striking out five batters. On May 1 he started the Monty Stratton benefit game against the White Sox but was batted out of the box.

4 HOMERS AID YANKS TO 12TH WIN IN ROW

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 24—Under the explosive force of four home runs, the Yankee record of unbroken victories was swelled to twelve yesterday at the Stadium as the champions put the quietus on Johnny Allen in his fourth attempt to bag his first victory of the campaign and bowled over the Indians to sweep the two-game series. The count was 7 to 3.

Tommy Henrich, Bill Dickey, Red Robert Rolfe and Joseph Lowell Gordon hit for the circuit, chasing Allen to the showers with five runs in the sixth inning after a nine-hit bombardment that tickled about 10,000 chilled observers, half of them children attending as guests of the club.

The longest, loudest, most productive and only contentious blow in this deafening roar of round-trippers which saw the Yanks touch their season's par for homers in a single game was the one struck by Gordon. It sealed the fate of the Indians and influenced the withdrawal of Allen when Joe Gallagher nicked him for a single.

HOME RUN STARTS INNING

It came in the sixth with two aboard, the final run-thrust in an inning, the first half of which had ended with the score tied at 2-all. Rolfe opened with a blast into the lower right field stand, the third of the game to find a resting place there. Henrich walked. Dickey walked. Charley Keller singled Henrich home. Then Gordon struck his blow.

The ball, traveling high and fast, came to rest in the lower left field stand. Umpire Harry Geisel, working at third, unhesitatingly called it fair, signaling with a wide-sweeping motion of his right arm for Gordon to keep going.

However, Lou Kolls, officiating at the plate, appeared to be calling it foul. Gordon stood at the plate while Dickey and Keller, on third and second, respectively, after a wild pitch, started the trot for home.

In the confusion Manager Ossie Vitt headed a protesting horde out of the Indians' dugout. Gordon was arguing with Kolls at the plate. Coach Art Fletcher was arguing with Geisel at third. Everybody seemed to be arguing without knowing what he was arguing about.

Finally, Geisel made it perfectly clear he had called the drive fair, and the procession around the bases proceeded, calmly and quietly, except for some more arguing by Allen and Vitt, who turned their attention to Geisel. It was all very confusing and not a little hilarious.

DONALD'S THIRD VICTORY

So the decision stood and likewise the third triumph for young Atley Donald, a serious, hard-working right-hander, who needed just the kind of hitting the Yanks gave him to get by with this one.

The youth from Chadrant, La., was belted rather solidly by an eleven-hit onslaught that was not larger and more painful only because that Yankee picket line was fleet and sure-footed. Five of the Tribe's hits were for extra bases, four of them ringing doubles. Frankie Pytlak set the pace with a triple, double and single, while Ken Keltner hit a double and two singles.

Henrich's third homer with two out in the first and Dickey's fourth immediately following gave Donald a two-run edge.

In the third Pytlak's double and Bruce Campbell's single gave the enemy one and in the sixth doubles by Campbell and Keltner squared the count, before the Yanks trained their heavy guns on Allen in their half.

Julius Solters's double and Pytlak's triple fashioned the third Indian run in the seventh.

FIFTH HOMER OF GORDON

Gordon's homer was his fifth of the campaign, brought him even with Twinkletoes Selkirk for team leadership and boosted the Yankee total to twenty-nine. It likewise brought about the expulsion of Roy Weatherly, who was chased from the Cleveland bench for his running fire of chatter with Kolls over the incident.

Gallagher gained the questionable distinction of being the first Yankee of the year to be ejected. He was expelled in the eighth for complaining about a third strike.

Keller was weary chasing line drives to left, coming up with three sparkling catches in the first five innings. He erred in the fourth, juggling Keltner's single. Incidentally, he has hit safely in eight straight games.

Sumo Men to Give Exhibitions in Manchoukuo

The professional long-haired wrestlers, who perform semi-annually at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku, will leave Kobe on July 1 for exhibition tours in Manchoukuo, accompanied by Admiral Isami Takeshita, retired, newly elected president of the Japan Sumo Association.

The wrestlers will leave Kobe after competing for 15 days at the Koshien stadium. Their schedule in Manchoukuo follows: July 8 to 13, tourney at Dairen; July 15 to 19, tourney at Mukden; July 21 to 25, tourney at Hsinking.

Tokyo Giants Blank Hankyu by 5 to 0

The Tokyo Giants' white Russian pitcher, Stalphin, yielded but two hits and they blanked the Hankyu nine, 5 to 0, in Thursday's double-header of the professional ball league at the Korakuen stadium.

In the curtain-raiser, the lowly Dolfins stirred themselves from their sleep and bumped off the Eagles, 4 to 1.

Over in the Kansai, the Lions took the measure of the Nagoya combine, 10 to 6, while the Tigers ate up the Senators, 3 to 1, at the Koshinen stadium.

Princeton Wins Golf Title Over Dartmouth, 7 to 2

N.Y. Herald Tribune

STAMFORD, Conn., May 20—Princeton won the Eastern intercollegiate golf title today, defeating Dartmouth, 7 to 2, in the final at the Woodbury Club. In the best-ball matches played during the morning round, Princeton won all of the three matches and took five of the individual matches played in the afternoon.

The summaries:

Morning round—F. Clark and H. Munger, Princeton, defeated R. Jacobson and M. Cotton, Dartmouth, 2 and 1; R. Riddle and P. Page, Princeton, defeated W. Flohr and W. Clark, Dartmouth, 3 and 2, L. Maxwell and J. Selby, Princeton, defeated E. Smith and D. H. Harris, Dartmouth, 2 up.

Afternoon round—E. Clark, Princeton, defeated R. Jacobson, Dartmouth, 3 and 2; M. Cotton, Dartmouth, defeated H. Munger, Princeton 1 up (20 holes); R. Riddle, Princeton, defeated W. Flohr, Dartmouth, 3 and 2; P. Page, Princeton, defeated W. Clark, Dartmouth, 2 up; E. Smith, Dartmouth, defeated L. Maxwell, Princeton, 3 and 2; and J. Selby, Princeton, defeated D. Harris, Dartmouth, 5 and 4.

COCHRANE LAUDS MOST UNSUNG POST IN BASEBALL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, May 25—Mickey Cochrane, in his recent book, "Baseball, the Fan's Game," brings up an interesting point—a point long recognized by the boys in the dugout and press box, rarely appreciated by the average fan. Says Iron Mike:

"Strategically, the bull pen is the most overlooked and under-estimated position. Its importance cannot be overemphasized. There a young ball player can pick up a lot of knowledge about the game of baseball; and the more a man plays major-league baseball, the more he must learn about it.

BULL-PEN MANAGER

"Up in the big top, battling for position with contending teams in a championship race, the bull-pen catcher, manager, tactician, or whatever you want to call him, is a very important link in the chain that makes up the composite—champion! Having the right pitcher ready at the right time is one of the big tricks of baseball. Alert managers would always be ready with the best pitcher if they could anticipate a collapse, but they cannot.

"The bull-pen catcher three or four hundred feet from the action, must keep his eyes and mind on the pitcher as much as the catcher in the game. He must be a tactician, a teacher and a mind reader, all at the same time. That fellow out there in charge of the bull pen is a sort of unsung hero of the championship club. Aside from the sudden rally that blows a ball game higher than a kite, he must be using his knowledge of the pitcher working, the wishes of his manager, the progress of the game, and, incidentally, keep those young fellows sent out to his care interested in the ball game rather than in the plans for the evening.

"Knowing when to call on the firemen to squelch a rally is one of the fine arts of managing a ball club. And having a man to call to put the fire out is a big help, and can make any manager look good."

COCHRANE KNEW VALUE

Cochrane probably appreciated the value of the bull-pen catcher as much as any of the so-called modern pilots. Perhaps more. Mike was a playing manager during a greater part of his Detroit career, and being behind the plate almost every day, he was not in a position to direct operations in the bull pen. The average fan can hardly realize what it means to a big league manager, whose club is struggling to protect a slender lead, when a relief pitcher walks into the game and gets the ball over the plate with something on it. From his spot behind the plate, Mike was in the best possible spot to approve the talents of a relief artist who was ready.

The Red Sox have their unsung hero. Aside from his other coaching duties and occasional appearances behind the bat, it is Moe Berg's job to see that Manager Joe Cronin has a rescue hurler, properly warmed up, whenever he—from his regular shortstop berth—waves a tiring pitcher to the showers.

BERG ASSISTS CRONIN

Cronin's position is similar to that of Cochrane. He is one of the few remaining active pilots and must leave the bull pen experting in the hands of an assistant. His man is Berg, and Joe couldn't find a better one. They talk and write about Moe's wide-spread knowledge of current events and foreign languages but they rarely mention the subject he has mastered completely — baseball. Now that his days behind the plate are numbered, the fans wonder why Boston keeps Moe on the payroll. For a detailed description of the Professor's duties with the Red Sox, see Joe Cronin. The list, no doubt, would amaze you.

There is no way of measuring Berg's value to the ball culb. He doesn't pitch one-hitters or break up extra-inning battles with home runs. Last season he appeared in only 10 championship games—and incidentally hit .333. But for his work with the young fellows; in pre-game clubhouse meetings; in the bull pen, and as a good-will ambassador to baseball in general, professor Moe Berg is probably one of the most underestimated gentlmen in sport.

With the Yankees, Johnny Schulte, the former catcher, is the man who does the bull pen experting for Joe McCarthy. Johnny Bassler is the man at Cleveland, Charley Berry at Shibe Park and Muddy Ruel with the White Sox—the unsung heros of money-winning ball clubs.

Track Federation Plans To Send Team to Helsinki

Like the Japan Swimming Federation, the Japan Track and Field Federation is determined to send a delegation to the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki next year.

This was the decision reached by the Federation at a general meeting of its directors Thursday night at its headquarters at the Marunouchi Building.

The Federation moved to start the ball rolling for negotiations to dispatch even a skeleton team, if forced to, to Helsinki.

It was moved to accept the invitation from Siam to send a track and field coach there next Winter.

The Federation also decided to make inquiries about the international marathon, under ancient rules, to be staged next Fall in Greece.

A Dimaggio to Be Sold

LOS ANGELES, May 23—Another DiMaggio will be terrorizing major league pitchers next year and throwing runners out at the plate from the outfield, according to Frank (Lefty) O'Doul.

"Dominic DiMaggio is for sale, and if he doesn't bring a pretty fancy piece of change then I didn't lead the National League in batting for two years," said Lefty, manager of the San Francisco Seals, today.

Joe Devine, the Yankee scout, is here to look at Joe's youngest brother, who has been hitting at a .396 average this season. Dominic is 21 years old and a right-hand batter and thrower.

YALE MAKES 22 HITS TO TOP COLUMBIA, 18-11

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 21—From a Columbia viewpoint it should never have stopped raining yesterday. A heavy downpour during the second inning of the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League engagement between the Lions and Yale brought about a forty-minute halt, and although the elements relented the Elis did not and Columbia lost this "battle of the cellar," 18 to 11, a new league high in scoring for the season.

A trio of Columbia throwers, Hector Dowd, George Smith Jr. and Al Bongiorno, turned out to be Yale "cousins," and after a while it wasn't funny, if was hilarious. Twenty-two hits for thirty-five total bases, including two homers within the park, a triple and five doubles might give an inkling of what went on at Baker Field.

By way of making a respectable showing, the Lions turned the entire affair into a statistician's nightmare by making ten runs in the last two innings. However, by that time, it was definitely too late to alter the situation.

STEVENS WORKS EIGHT INNINGS

While Lefty Al Stevens held the Lions to seven hits in eight innings before retiring in favor of Moe Jubitz, another southpaw, who walked the first four men to face him in the ninth, Yale counted in every stanza except the ninth, although the Elis had a runner on third with one out in that stanza. That did not matter, either.

Leading the well-rounded Yale attack was Harry Holt, who connected for five hits, including a homer and double, while batting in five runs. Al Alter, Eddie Collins Jr., Joe Wood Jr. and General Besse got three hits apiece for the victors, who had conquered Columbia at New Haven the day before, 8 to 7. Frank Murphy, who batted in six runs, was Columbia's star with three safeties.

When the Elis got to Dowd for a brace of runs in the first they caused little worry, but when they counted three times each in the following three frames all the worrying in the world would have done the Lions no good.

And instead of getting better things got worse. Yale just never stopped punishing, although missing the all-time league record of twenty-seven runs made by Columbia in 1933.

Combining the work of both teams, the long struggle produced a total of thirty hits. There were eighteen passes, eleven strikeouts, ten errors—seven by Columbia—six stolen bases and twenty-four men left on the base paths.

BLUE PETER WINS THE DERBY BY 4 LENGTHS FROM FOX CLUB

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Times, London

LONDON, May 25—Peccavi And at the same time I make no apology. I had thought at the end of last season that Lord Rosebery's colt, Blue Peter, by Fairway out of Fancy Free, would win this year's Derby, but the more that I examined his pedigree the more convinced I became that he would not stay the distance of the race. Blue Peter won over a mile at Epsom at the Spring Meeting and then he won the Two Thousand Guineas of a mile at Newmarket, battling on to win by less than a length from his stable companion Admiral's Walk. I was still of the opinion that he would not stay the mile and a half over which yesterday's Derby was run.

I was quite wrong, for Lord Rosebery's colt Blue Peter, ridden by E. Smith and trained perfectly by J. Jarvis at Newmarket, won the Derby at Epsom yesterday by no fewer than four lengths from Fox Cub, with Heliopolis beaten for second place by another three lengths. Casanova was beaten for third place by no more than a head. Buxton was fifth, Admiral's Walk sixth, and Hypnotist seventh. As to who was last is not a matter for record here. The winner started at 7 to 2, favorite, the second started at 100 to 6, and the third at 100 to 9. There can be no doubt that the winner won on his merits and that he is, moreover, a very good three-year-old. I cannot see anything in yesterday's field that will rob him of success in the last of the three classics, the St. Leger, and he should, if he keeps fit and sound—and he never seems to be sick or sorry—win the Triple Crown, a thing which in these days is all too seldom done. Every one will join in congratulating his owner, Lord Rosebery, his trainer, J. Jarvis, and his rider, E. Smith, on winning their first Derby. Unless bad luck dogs their footsteps it will certainly not be their last.

GLORIOUS WEATHER

The conditions for this great race could not have been more perfect. No more glorious Summer day could be imagined. The ground was firm, but not too hard; indeed, it was good going. Visibility was fair and it was not too difficult to follow the colors all round the course of a mile and a half. There was a very large attendance of visitors, but it has to be admitted that I have seen a greater crowd out on the Downs. The principal rings, on the other hand, were almost overcrowded. Friends from France were numerous, while more than one visitor was an American.

The paddock at Epsom is rather too far from the stands for the average visitor to worry about, and, further, it costs an extra sum of money to gain admission. At the same time there were a lot of people there, watching the horses walking round the parade rings. As a field they did not make so much appeal to me as some of the fields of the past 20 years. On the other hand, it has to be admitted that a better trained lot could not have been seen. The parade followed, and then it was that the opponents of the Fairways got out their glasses and wished to see if the sons of that great horse would be behaving as he did in the Derby of his year when he lost the race soon after he has left the paddock for the parade. They looked hard and continuously, but they could find little fault with Blue Peter, who was sweating where the reins touched his neck and, at the end of the parade, over his loins. Fairfax was quite calm and collected. Fairstone was also not troubled by the crowds. I have to admit that Blue Peter could not have looked better, and that he was on looks a much better colt than on that day on which he had won the Two Thousand Guineas. Jarvis, a member of a professional training family whose ancestors and brothers have been training great winners for a century and more, had brought the colt to his very best on the most important day of his life as a racehorse. I doubt, writing early, whether even Jarvis could have thought that he would win as he did.

After the parade the field wandered back to the paddock, and then down into and out of the valley that comes before the famous starting gate. Of all that there is nothing that needs to be written. Soon after the field had reached the starting gate they were lined up. It seemed that Captain Allison, and I have never heard of a greater starter, would have the field of 27 runners off at the first time of asking, but Fox Cub was not turned the right way, and the field had to break up and reform once more. When they had done so the tapes went up and the field went away to one of Captain Allison's best starts, and that means that no owner, trainer, or rider in the race could have had any complaint.

HELIOPOLIS IN FRONT

Soon after the start Heliopolis was seen to be in front, followed by the doubtful stayer Rogerstone Castle, carrying the colors of M. Boussac. Dhoti, Major Brackey, Fairfax, and the badly drawn Wheatland, drawn almost on the stands' side railings, were the best placed of the other probable starters. Still, apart from Bellman and Fairchance, who began slowly, the other members of the field were well enough away to have every chance of winning if they were good enough.

And so the field sped up the hill towards the top of it and out of sight on the descent that leads to the corner and the straight when the issue would soon be decided. At the top of the hill Larchfield was pushed into the lead and was leading from Heliopolis, with Rogerstone Castle and Blue Peter now close up to them. Fairfax was still there with every chance if he were good enough, while Blue Peter was very nearly fourth and going very well.

As the field came down the hill all eyes were focussed on the leaders. The straight had hardly been reached before Larchfield was beaten and Heliopolis seemed to meet with interference and was knocked out of his stride. The places of the leaders were taken at once with ease and elegance by Blue Peter, and that really is the end of the race, for although there was a moment halfway down the straight when it seemed that Fox Cub might come and take the lead from Blue Peter that colt and his rider never relaxed.

From then to the end it was Blue Peter all the way. Blue Peter won to as much cheering as I have ever heard. He was, it is true, favorite for the race, but it should also be remembered that he is owned and has been bred by a man who has done a great deal for racing. No man that I know has studied the whole question more closely or more practically or has worked harder to see that it is properly conducted. Blue Peter further, is trained by a man who was once a most fashionable apprentice, but then put on too much weight and became a trainer, as his father and grandfather and great-grandfather had been before him. The rider of the winner was a man who from his earliest childhood been riding ponies and then horses, and against whom there has never been even a breath of suspicion. He has shown himself, ever since he was made by Major Sneyd into a fine rider, that he must in time become a worthy successor of Gordon Richards, to whom physically he bears a very close resemblance.

Of the other placings I have already dealt and no more needs to be written now. Further comments seem to be almost unwanted. I never saw the well-drawn Triguero in the race with any sort of a chance and yet on the form book he should have been somewhere near to the winner. Fairstone ran only fairly well and never threatened danger. Rogerstone Castle showed once more that he is best at a mile and does not stay any farther than that. Heliopolis ran well all the way, and if he had not had that bump coming down the hill leading into the straight he might have been second, but he would not have beaten the winner. Buxton stayed on well and more than one good long distance handicap can be won with him but he is not a classic colt, and the sooner that is realized the more successful he will become. Cansanova ran on well and should win good races, as should Admiral's Walk. King Legend will be a much better colt by the Autumn, while Larchfield, who showed fine speed, will certainly be placed to win races.

And so ends the story of the Derby for 1939, which was much less sensational than that for the race just 100 years before, for snow fell that afternoon and, further, the passing over of the stakes was delayed by law suits and other things for many months. It is to be hoped that such will not be the case with Lord Rosebery's winner. So far as I can trace it is the first case of a father and son winning this great race. Lord Rosebery's father won the Derby on three occasions, and every one will hope that the present Lord Rosebery will beat in the near future his father's record.

THE OTHER EVENTS

Of the remainder of the afternoon's racing I have little to record. It was strangely unimportant for so great a meeting and was begun, as are meetings at Plumpton and elsewhere but not at Ascot or Goodwood, with a selling plate. This was called the Mynne Selling Plate, and was won by the favorite, Miss Vesington, by Vesington Star, and, like all that sire's stock, able to gallop very fast early in their careers. Red Waggon, who was running on at the end of the race, was second, beaten by only half a length, while Narcissus, who had been with the winner early in the race, was beaten for second place by only another half of a length. Red Waggon should be winning a race of this kind in the near future.

Halcyon Gift, trained by Miss Wilmot, was a clever winner of the Carew Handicap of a mile. The winner, who had run very well in the Lincolnshire Handicap, was always well paced, and was in front early in the straight, after which he had little difficulty in holding off L'Aigoual, who in the end was passed by the fast-finishing Ramtapa, who when the race was nearly over took it suddenly into his head to gallop, and was beaten by only a length and a half by the winner. L'Aigoul was third, beaten for second place by three-quarters of a length. Man Star was fourth, and to the general surprise after the race the rider of that horse objected to the second. The objection, after a full inquiry, was overruled.

The race for the Derby was followed by the Caterham Stakes of five furlongs. En Route had run so well when beaten by only Tant Mieux at Newmarket that it was only natural that Mr. Rank's good-looking colt by Sir Cosmo out of Austin, and so home bred, should be made an odds-on favorite. En Route duly won by a length and a half, but after the race more than one visitor wondered whether he had won easily or not. I formed the opinion that he is a very lazy cole, as are many other good horses, and that it was not until he had been asked for that final effort that he cared whether he won by a head or more. He will go on winning. Plebiscite was second and Skid third, but the winner will always beat them whenever they may meet.

Gaelic, who had been well backed in her previous race but had run most indifferently, was a very easy winner of the Stewards' High-Weight Handicap, for which she started at long odds. She was always leading and won easily from Miss Linley, with Spot the Winner third. The form seems altogether wrong, but such is too often the case this season. The third in this race is owned by Sir A. Bailey, whose Fairstone failed him in the Derby. He had some recompense, if there can be any recompense when one has lost the Derby, when Caerloptic, probably one of the trial horses for Fairstone, won the last race of the afternoon, the Epsom Handicap. Early in the straight it seemed that Hot Bun II would win, but he was challenged and beaten a furlong from the finish by Careloptic who was beaten in a memorable race at Assect when a two-year-old by that horrible animal Ramtapa.

STYLES OF PLAY DIFFERENT IN TWO LEAGUES

By RUMILL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, May 25—Here are a few of Mickey Cochrane's interesting observations in his new book, "Baseball—The Fan's Game":

"In the American League you must play for the big inning. If one run is going to beat you, you might as well concede the game before you leave the clubhouse. Therefore, the American League's defense is to stop the big inning. In our league, often as late as the eighth inning, the strategy would be to give the opposition the tying run to cut off a rally, which might bring on a big inning.

"Over in the National League they have developed a play that seems to have gained popularity. The dangers of it would be brought home quickly in the American League if you made a practice of it.

PLAY TO THIRD BASE

"That is the play in which the infield, with men on first and second, plays to force a man at third base and try for the double play at second. To be successful, the pitcher must be an exceptionally good fielder. He covers the left side of the infield. The right side of the infield is covered by the first baseman as the pitch is made. The third baseman remains back on his base, ready to take the throw from the pitcher or the first baseman, whichever fields the bunt.

"That play may work for the managers in the National League, but in the American, where a team of sluggerg is always ready to annihilate your pitcher, the percentage is always to play for the sure out. Play the bunt for certain outs first, and play for the double play whenever you can.

RUTH MOST DANGEROUS

"In the big inning, too, is the consideration of the intentional pass. Most often, in the American League, you'll never, in any circumstances, find a manager ordering the tying or winning run put on base—either to get a double play or move around a power hitter to get at a weaker batter. And never with men on first and third, move a batter to first base on an intentional pass. The best you can get out of it is right before you—a double play.

"...In my later day, Bill Dickey was the toughest man in the league to down when the jam was on, but in the early days of the Yankee-Athletic rivalry, Babe Ruth was the most murderous man in the league with a bat in his hands. Ruth might hit anything into the seats. You couldn't even fire a fast ball by him if he had it measured....Babe's weakness, if any, was never exactly obvious. He'd blast a pitch over the wall in one turn at bat, and the very next time up he'd whiff gloriously and colorfully on the identical ball. We always tried to keep the ball close to his hands and mix up change of speeds.

"Recall Connie Mack's advice about hitters and good ones. The good ones are going to get so many hits any way, so get the little fellows out and hope for the best against the sluggers.

"...The best advice a youngster was ever given in regard to hitting—the same by Tyrus Raymond Cobb:

"'Get out in front of every pitch,' he advised. 'Always swing looking for a fast ball. It you are set for speed there will be time to hit a curve, and lots of time to set yourself for a change of pace or slow ball.'

TRIED TO STOP GEHRIG

"...We had a fellow one time who thought he knew how to stop Gehrig. Lou was on a rampage at Shibe Park, belting homers at every turn of the wheel. Lou had had three and was going to bat in the seventh inning, a chance to set a lifetime record of four homers in one game.

"This fellow told Connie that the way to stop Gehrig was to offer him a curve, then a waste ball, a change of pace, then waste another, a fast ball, waste another, and then make him dig a hook off the outside corner. Mack smiled benignly and offered to follow the scheme. I forget which one it was, but somewhere along the way the plan went aground. Lou smashed one of the offerings over the rightfield wall for his fourth home run of the game!"

By the way: Whatever became of Lou Gehrig?

KYLE DEFEATS DUNCAN, 2 AND 1 TO WIN BRITISH AMATEUR GOLF

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Times, London

LONDON, May 29—"What a good final!" "What a good final!" If I heard that said once, I heard it 50 times in the crowd at Hoylake on Saturday, and what better compliment could Kyle and Duncan desire? In truth it was a delightful exhibition of match play between two amateur golfers in the best sense of words, and it was a pity that both could not win. A. T. Kyle (Sand Moor) did win after a terrific struggle by 2 and 1, and I do not think that an impartial observer could have any real doubt that he was the right man to win, but A. A. Duncan (Southerndown) upheld and added to his reputation as one of the bravest of all fighters and a very good player into the bargain. In last Autumn's international matches the four leading Welsh players did better than all their opponents from the other three countries. Duncan's performance provides further evidence that those Welshmen's fine golf was no accident.

Let no one say after this day that British amateurs cannot putt. The way in which these two holed putts of quite odious length time after time and one after the other was most reviving to the spirits, and not only did the ball go in but it was to watch as it was exciting. It was much more like the real Hoylake when the play started. The local wise men would only admit the lighter breeze, but in fact there blew a fairly strong wind out of the west which made golf both difficult and interesting, far more interesting than the enervating midsummer golf that we had watched for five days.

GOOD PROGRESS

The first round was almost, but not quite, "marking time," since Duncan had only a short lead at the end of it, but it was far too good not to write about, and how delightful it was to watch. On a long, slow course in a stiff breeze, with a big crowd, these two got round in two hours and 26 minutes. They were perfect alike in demeanor and in pace. This was, as somebody said, a "gentlemen's final," with no pottering and posing and stomchy tomfoolery. It was a true joy to look at, and ought to be a moral lesson to many people. Moreover, the play was admirable. The score fiends may be disappointed because no man can say what were the scores. At the Briars Kyle put two balls out of bounds and gave up there and then. However, I have no doubt that somebody will later quote mendaciously for this insatiable appetite for figures. I will not.

Kyle got away with a lead, holing a long putt for a 3 at the second, where 4 might have sufficed, and letting Duncan beat himself at the third by hooking his second out of bounds. Quick as lightning Duncan came back at him, holed a nice putt to win the Lip in 3, and a chip from off the green at the Telegraph for 3 likewise. Kyle, as I said before, gave up the Briars and then Duncan, having won three holes running, played, as I hold, the best shot of the morning, a low controlled tee shot to the Dowie ruled on the pin and ending seven yards past it. I thought he surely would be two up, but Kyle thought otherwise, and he was right. He got just inside his enemy and holed his putt for 2. Kyle led at the turn by one, Duncan taking 6 to the ninth, and he looked likely to be two up at the 10th, but Duncan saved himself with a pitch and a putt from the hollow. Kyle was two up at the 11th when Duncan, who does not wholly enjoy a lefthand wind, cut out his tee shot. From that point Duncan's golf was really splendid. The second to the Hilbre, played from a shorter and to my mind far better tee, was gorgeous, but Kyle saved himself. Duncan won the Rushes in 3 and the Field in 4 to square. At the Dun Kyle was bunkered and Duncan won in a slightly journalistic 4. It might have been a 5, but at any rate it was all he wanted, and that is the point. The Royal was scratchily and scrappily halved in 5, and at the Home hole Kyle bunkered himself and Duncan won in 4 to be two up. Those who droop and yearn for scores may be told that he came home in 36, magnificent golf.

THE SECOND ROUND

Duncan had finished in such leonine manner that it was surprising to see him start again so very like a lamb. He put two shots out of bounds at the first hole and one at the third, and that was all square. However, like a ruined but courageous millionaire he set to work to repair his fortunes. Kyle got his nose in front with a 3 at the seventh, Duncan came back at him two fine shots to square with a 4 at the eighth. At the ninth the wind on his back, which seems to beat him, even though it had now lulled to a gentle zephyr, made him go into a bunker and commit almost innumerable mistakes afterward. He gave up the hole and at once returned bravely to the assault with a grand pitch and a putt at the 100th for a 4. Kyle was on the edge of the green in 2, putted much too far and missed coming back.

All square and so to a hole that might well have been the turning point of any match ever played. I thought it would be the turning point in real earnest when Duncan with a grand tee shot gave himself a shortish putt for a 2 at the Alps, but he just missed it and Kyle scrambled gallantly out with a hard-won 3. Again Duncan had the last word, a putt of 10 or 12ft. to win the 12th, and he just failed. He had missed a chance, but undauntedly he laid a fine tee shot within a few yards of the hole at the Rushes, and this is a hole which has repeatedly defeated Kyle. It did not defeat him this time, for he laid his ball within 3in. of the hole to win in 2 against 3. It was a great moment to get the lead, but for once Kyle hurled away a chance and playing the Field in a bad 6 was pulled back to square again. What was worse he was well short of the Lake green in 2 and Duncan reached it with two good shots. Up came Kyle with a lovely run up to within 6 or 7ft. and holed his putt. Duncan, unmoved, got his half in 4.

That was the end of the heroic period and now we were doomed to an anticlimax. I suppose flesh and blood could bear no more. After good drives to the Dun both played weak seconds and thirds and in the end Duncan missed a short putt, took 6 and lost the hole. Then at the Royal he drove into rough to the right and cut his second far out of bounds. With the stroke and distance rule which Hoylake has now adopted, more is the pity, that meant the end of all things unless Kyle went amiably mad. He did nothing of the sort and won hole and match at his ease amid an enthusiasm that was well deserved. If only all golfers were like these two and all finals like this one what a happy world it would be!

Nakama Shatters Weissmuller's Record

Johnny Weissmuller's 11-year standing record for Hawaii in the 400-meter freestyle event was shattered by Kiyoshi Nakama, star Hawaiian-born Japanese swimmer, Thursday night in the Hawaiian A.A.U. championships in Honolulu at the 100-meter Waikiki natatorium when he won the event in 4 minutes 51.1 seconds.

Nakama and Takashi Hirose, another star second generation swimmer, were invited recently by the Japan Swimming Federation to compete in the national championships at the Meiji Shrine pool in August but they could not accept because of participation in the American national championships.

Finnish Runner Sets New 5,000-Meter Record

Domei Tsushin

HELSINKI, June 16—Clipping 8.2 seconds off recognized mark held by the famous Finnish Olympic champion, Lauri Lehtinen, Taisto Maeki, fleet Finnish distance star, today established a new world's record for the 5,000 meter running event when he negotiated the course in the amazing time of 14 minutes 8.8 seconds.

Lehtinen set the mark of 14 minutes 17 seconds in 1932.

VANDER MEER BEATS DODGERS BY 3-2 SCORE

By ROSCOE McGOWEN

N.Y. Times

CINCINNATI, May 23—Despite the mid-Summer heat in this town the Dodgers suffered another severe chill today and left for Pittsburgh tonight, shaking under the weight of a five-game losing streak.

Bill McKechnie's pennant-conscious boys, led by Frank McCormick and Johnny Vander Meer, beat the mournful MacPhail athletes, 3-2, to sweep the series and extend their victory streak to eight games.

McCormick made Van Lingle Mungo the victim of his seventh homer of the year, which came in the fourth frame and put the Reds ahead to stay, although not by much, 2-1. Vandy also pitched a home-run ball to Tuck Stainback in the third for the first run of the game. Although staggering a bit in the ninth, he contrived to hold off the Dodgers.

HURLER STARTS OWN RALLY

Johnny himself drove in the Reds' first run in the third to tie the score. Lee Gamble opened with a single and reached second on a passed ball, while Billy Myers was at bat. After Myers struck out, Vandy hit a pop fly into left that Manager Durocher couldn't reach. Gamble scored, mostly because of Ernie Koy's wild throw home, and the Red pitcher reached third on the error.

McCormick untied the knot with his blast over the left-field wall in the fourth and the Reds got their important third tally in the seventh when Mungo's control deserted him. Gamble singled with one out and Myers forced him. Here Van let loose a wild pitch and then walked both Vandy and Bill Werber. Myers was forced home when Van hit Lonnie Frey in the ribs with a pitch.

MUNGO STRIKES OUT

Vandy walked Koy and Pete Coscarart to start the fourth inning and Ray Hayworth advanced both with a neat sacrifice. But Mungo looked at a third strike and McCormick made a grand catch of Werber's long and hurried throw on Stainback's grounder.

Johnny Hudson batted for Mungo in the ninth and singled to right. When Johnny walked Stainback the 5,236 paying patrons began to be alarmed. Durocher sacrificed and only a great catch by Frey of Vandy's low and wide throw kept him out of serious trouble.

Hudson scored and Stainback carried the tying run to third as Werber was throwing out Cookie Lavagetto. The tension for the home folks was increased as Vandy issued his seventh and eighth passes to Dolf Camilli and Fred Sington, but the famous young southpaw balanced his books by making Koy his eighth strike-out victim.

WASEDA, RIKKYO TO PLAY FIVE FROM CANADA

Waseda and Rikkyo universities won the right to represent the Kanto collegiate teams in the games against the Canadian quintet arriving soon by taking the Tokyo Imperial and Meiji combinations Saturday in the final games of the elimination series.

The Canadian team is scheduled to arrive at Yokohama on July 4.

Waseda's brilliant attack in the first half was the factor that set Tokyo Imperial back. With Forward Yokoyama, Center Kurokawa and Guard Munekata shooting beautiful field goals, Waseda was off to an early 10-1 lead and finished the half with a 15 to 6 advantage.

But it was different Tokyo Imperial team that took the floor in the second half. It put up a stiff defense and cut off the Waseda passing attack that had been so effective in the first half. Forward Miyazaki led the rally by shooting two field goals in succession and in 12 minutes, Teidai was behind only by three points, 15 to 12. At this juncture, Yokoyama and Munekata just about clinched victory for Waseda by bringing two field goals. Teidai also suffered heavily when Otsuki, who had been playing a bangup game at guard, was thrown out of the game on four fouls.

Teidai rallied toward the close of the second half and once again cut Waseda's lead down to 25 to 22, but here again, its rally was checked by a flurry of fouls.

Rikkyo proved to powerful for Meiji, leading 23 to 9 at the end of the first half.

A.A.A. DEFEATS OXFORD, 73 TO 53

The Times, London

LONDON, May 26—The annual match between an Amateur Athletic Association team and Oxford University A.C. was held in ideal conditions at Oxford yesterday, when the A.A.A. won by 73 points to 53. Unfortunately Oxford were not at full strength because of examinations, and neither A. Pennington nor F. V. Scopes was able to take part.

H. Sivertsen, the Norwegian Olympic athlete, who won the weight and discus events for Oxford, established new O.U.A.C. records in each, accomplishing 46ft. 7½in. with the weight and 155ft. 4¾in. with the discus. C. B. Holmes, the Empire Games sprint champion, making his first appearance in the South this season, won both the 100 yards and 220 yards for the A.A.A., returning 10.2sec. and 22.6sec. respectively. Another competitor to win two events was T. L. Lockton, of Oxford, the indoor hurdles champion, who was successful in both the high and low hurdles events, winning the 120 yards race in 15.4sec. and the 220 yards contest in 26.8sec.

The results were:

100 Yards—C. B. Holmes (Bolton United H., A.A.A.), 1; P. J. Wells (Magdalen, Oxford), 2; H. C. Wickerson (Highgate H., A.A.A.), 3. Won by 4ft.; 2ft. Time, 10.2sec.

Half-Mile—G. E. F. Wethered (Christ Church, Oxford), 1; A. J. Collyer (Watford H., A.A.A.), 2; A. D. G. White (Thames Valley H., A.A.A.), 3. Won by inches; 15 yards. Time, 1min. 57sec.

Mile—J. W. L. Alford (Cardiff Roath H., A.A.A.), 1; E. J. N. Hengle (Metropolitan Police, A.A.A.), 2; D. N. Whatley (Hertford), 3. Won by 6 yards; 7 yards. Time, 4min. 32.8sec.

120 Yards Hurdles—T. L. Lockton (Hertford, Oxford), 1; E. J. C. Higgins (London A.C., A.A.A.), 2; O. G. W. White (Milocarian A.C., A.A.A.), 3. Won by 4ft.; 2ft. Time, 15.4sec.

Long Jump—W. E. N. Breach (Reading A.C., A.A.A.), 23ft. 1½in., 1; J. F. Lockwood (Brasenose, Oxford), 22ft. 11½in., 2; A. A. Gold (London A.C., A.A.A.), 21ft. 9½in., 3.

Discus—H. Sivertsen (Wadham, Oxford), 155ft. 4¾in. (O.U.A.C. record), 1; D. L. Griggs (Metropolitan Police, A.A.A.), 133ft. 8½in., 2; K. S. Duncan (Achilles Club, A.A.A.), 123ft. 1¾in., 3.

220 Yards—C. B. Holmes (Bolton United H., A.A.A.), 1; P. J. Wells (Gagdalen, Oxford), 2; J. F. Lockwood (Brasenose, Oxford), 3. Won by 1½ yards; foot. Time, 22.6sec.

Quarter Mile—J. O. Moreton (Trinity, Oxford), 1; H. E. Pack (Belgrave H., A.A.A.), 2; E. A. Russell (Woodford Green A.C., A.A.A.), 3. Won by half a yard; same. Time, 50.8sec.

Three Miles—M. Bingham (Finchley H., A.A.A.) and P. B. Hennessey (R.A.F., A.A.A.), equal 1; F. D. Shirreff (Oriel, Oxford), 3. Dead-heat; 100 yards. Time, 15min. 17.4sec.

220 Yards Hurdles—T. L. Lockton (Hertford, Oxford), 1; A. W. Selwyn (Brasenose, Oxford), 2; R. Dunstan (University of London A.C., A.A.A.), 3. Won by a foot; 6 yards. Time, 25.8sec.

High Jump—J. L. Newman (Lloyds Bank A.C., A.A.A.), 6ft., 1; A. W. Selwyn (Brasenose, Oxford), 5ft. 10in., 2; A. A. Gold (London A.C., A.A.A.), 5ft. 8in., 3.

Weight—T. Sivertsen (Wadham, Oxford), 46ft. 2½in. (O.U.A.C., record), 1; A. F. Bandidt (Milocarian A.C., A.A.A.), 42ft. 7½in., 2; H. Merz (Trinity, Oxford), 41ft. 8½in., 3.

Javelin—J. A. M. McKillop (Milocarian A.C., A.A.A.), 185ft. 11in., 1; E. R. Turner (Birkenhead Police, A.A.A.), 174ft. 8½in., 2; H. Merz (Trinity, Oxford), 172ft. 9¼in., 3.

Pole Vault—R. Bentley (Loughborough College A.C., A.A.A.), 11ft. 2in., A. M. Robinson (Pembroke, Oxford), 11ft., 2; M. V. Blake (Milocarian A.C., A.A.A.), 10ft. 6in., 3.

Miss Yamauchi Breaks Hop, Step, Jump Record

Miss Riye Yamauchi of the Chukyo Higher Girls School set a new national record in the hop, step and jump for women Sunday at Nagoya when she won the event with 11.48 meters in the 6th annual track and field meet sponsored jointly by the Aiichi prefecture and Nagoya athletic associations.

The previous mark was held by Miss Sumiko Watanabe at 11.42 meters, established six years ago.

GIANTS GET 2 HOMERS BUT PIRATES WIN

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, May 23—Colonel Bill Terry's revamped Giants made a noble effort today to continue the excellent work upon which they had embarked the previous afternoon.

Ken O'Dea, only recently installed in the line-up, exploded his second homer of the year, and a little later Master Melvin Ott touched off his seventh circuit blow of the campaign.

But a number of unforeseen developments caused the entire enterprise to crash under a 13-to-4 score which Pie Traynor's Pirates showered down upon the Giants to win the rubber match of the three-game series.

For one thing, Cliff Melton, tall and collapsible, demonstrated once again he cannot go the route. He was blasted off the mound inside of five rounds. He went down for three runs in the fourth and departed after allowing two in the fifth.

THE MERRY-GO-ROUND

Then, though the score was only 5 to 4 against him, Terry apparently quit cold on his entire cast by permitting Walter Brown to take an unmerciful slamming in the eighth inning. In that frame the Buccos dashed around the bases as though on a merry-go-round for eight runs.

Just what came over the old colonel at this moment is difficult to fathom, although the suspicion is that with the third of three successive passes which forced in the first two runs, the Giant skipper passed into a coma and never saw what followed.

In all, the Corsairs raked the big relief hurler for six hits in this harrowing round which, with four passes and a hit batsman, went into the making of the eight runs.

The thing might have gone on indefinitely. But when the fourth pass came with the bases full and two out, the Pirates, running in grand confusion around the bases, dashed right into the third out.

SCORE ON TWO SINGLES

Until this horrible mess was stirred up, the game was a pretty tense struggle, with the Giants off to a one-run lead in the first when Burgess Whitehead and Billy Jurges stung Truett Sewel for singles.

O'Dea's homer in the second made Melton two-up on Sewell, but in the fourth the Buccos cracked down on the lean left-hander for three runs, on a pass and singles by Bill Brubaker, Lee Handley, Ray Berres and Sewell.

In the fifth, after Johnny Rizzo had singled and Brubaker had drawn a pass, Gus Suhr scored both with a double and Clydell Castleman replaced Melton. Slick did a first-class job until asked to vacate for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

In the sixth the Giants had pulled themselves back into the ball game on Jurges's double and Ott's wallop into the upper right stand.

In the whirling eighth, among other things, Sewell stung the luckless Brown for two singles. It was Sewell's fourth victory of the year and his second over the Giants.

FENSKE BEATS CUNNINGHAM, WOODERSON

Domei Tsushin

PRINCETON, New Jersey, June 17—Charles Fenske, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, today won the annual Princeton invitation mile race with a time of four minutes 11 seconds.

Glenn Cunningham finished second about five yards behind Fenske.

Sydney Wooderson, of England, finished fifth with a time of four minutes 13 seconds.

Wooderson led all the way until the final turn in the four-lap race when Blaine Rideout, of North Texas State Teachers College, shouldered past him and suddenly threw him off his stride.

A strong wind which hit the runners in their face was responsible for the slow time.

LOS ANGELES, June 17—The University of Southern California team today won its fifth consecutive championship in the National Collegiate Athletic Association meet here, piling up a total of 86 points.

Stanford was second with 44¾ points; Michigan University was third with 31 points; Washington State was fourth with 24 points; Wisconsin was fifth with 22 points, and Rice was sixth with 20 points.

NEWSOM BEATS RED SOX BY 7-2

N.Y. Times

BOSTON, May 23—The Tigers regained their batting eyes today and triumphed over the Red Sox, 7 to 2. Bucky Newsom, recently acquired from the Browns, went the route for Detroit.

The Tigers belted Rookie Woody Rich and Emerson Dickman, another right-hander, for a total of eleven timely hits. Two of them, Hank Greenberg's eighth homer of the season and his mighty blast to left field for two bases, accounted for three runs, enough to decide the issue.

Newsom, who defeated the Red Sox in St. Louis before being traded to the Tigers, also gave eleven hits, but Boston was unable to bunch them. Jimmy Foxx, suffering another sinus attack, remained on the sidelines.

Terrymen Take Tony Lazzeri to Play Third Base

NEW YORK, May 15—Tony Lazzeri, veteran infielder given his unconditional release Saturday by the Brooklyn Dodgers, has accepted terms to play third base for the New York Giants.

Lazzeri plans to join the Giants in St. Louis or Chicago. The Terrymen left for their first western trip after yesterday's game with the Phillies. The Giants will be the third National League team with which Lazzeri, for 12 years second baseman of the New York Yankees, has played.

The veteran, now 34, was released by the Yanks at the end of the 1937 season and was signed as player and coach for the Chicago Cubs by P. K. Wrigley. He was released by the Cubs last Winter, after having appeared in only 54 games, and then signed by the Dodgers as a utility player.

He had appeared in 14 games and was hitting .263 when Brooklyn let him go.

Golden Bears Win Poughkeepsie Classic

Domei Tsushin

POUGHKEEPSIE, New York, 17—The University of California eight captured the classic four-mile varsity race in the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson River today, smashing the varsity course record and negotiating the distance in 18 minutes and 12 3/5 seconds.

The University of Washington crew was second, finishing half a length behind the winners.

The Navy, defending champions, was third.

KHO WINS SINGLES TITLE AT SURREY

The Times, London

LONDON, May 29—A warm afternoon and the prospect of some interesting finals drew a good attendance to Surbiton on Saturday; but the lawn tennis, at any rate in the singles finals, was scarcely up to the standard of former Surrey Championships.

It provided, however, for the first time in their long history, a Chinese champion. This was Kho Sin Kie, the hard court champion, who showed that he could play almost as well on grass courts as he does on hard, and really beat M. D. Deloford very easily. Deloford was quite off his game (or perhaps was not allowed to play it), and the Chinese, lithe and impassive as always, gave him little chance. Indeed, except for two games at the end of the second set, when he carried carelessness to excess, Kho hardly put a foot wrong.

His quickness of brain and eye enabled him to put the ball yards wide of Deloford almost when he wanted to do so; and though at the beginning of the second set Deloford tried a volleying attack, for a short time successfully, he was soon driven away from the net and reduced almost to impotence. Also he served 10 double faults in nine games, and against an opponent of Kho's caliber this is dangerously approximate to suicide. Deloford certainly did serve three aces to save three match points, but the end was always in sight, and, if anything, the score of 6—2, 6—4 rather flatters the loser.

MISS LUMB'S EXUBERANCE

Miss R. M. Hardwick beat Miss M. Lumb in two 6—4 sets, and that without producing her best game. After a short time she discovered that she only had to keep the ball in play for Miss Lumb, over-impetuous, to best herself. Miss Lumb, of course, made some glorious winners, as she always does: but those fierce punches into the backhand corner and well-executed drop-shots could not atone for the entire lack of ball control which characterized most of her game. She wanted a court at least two yards longer to satisfy her exuberance. It was only the luckiest of net-cords that prevented her being beaten sooner; but Miss Hardwick recovered from the shock and finished the match in style with a crashing service down the center line, which Miss Lumb could not even frame to take. Miss Lumb had played in the final last year—against Mrs. Moody.

Miss Saunders and Miss Scott were in great form when beating Mrs. M. R. King and Miss E. H. Harvey in the women's doubles final; but Mrs. King won the mixed with D. C. Coombe. Kho is not so much at home in doubles as he is in singles, and he and D. W. Bulter went down to H. G. N. Lee (who is playing as well as ever) and P. V. V. Sherwood in a very brisk doubles final.

The results were:

Singles (Surrey Championship)—Kho Sin Kie beat M. D. Deloford (6—2, 6—4).

Women's Singles (Surrey Championship)—Miss R. M. Hardwick beat Miss M. E. Lumb (6—4, 6—4).

Doubles—H. G. N. Lee and P. V. V. Sherwood beat D. W. Butler and Kho Sin Kie (8—6, 7—5).

Women's Doubles—Miss J. Saunders and Miss V. E. Scott beat Mrs. M. R. King and Miss E. H. Harvey (6—0, 6—4).

Mixed Doubles—D. C. Coombe and Mrs. M. R. King beat R. K. Tinkler and Miss M. E. Lumb (6—2, 0—6, 6—4).

NIHON 'U' WINS SWIM AT KOSHIEN

Winning every first place in the six events, Nihon University's swimmers walked away from Rikkyo, Meiji and Kansai universities in their four-university meet Sunday afternoon at the Koshien pool near Osaka under the auspices of the Osaka Mainichi Shimbun. The points were: Nihon 58, Rikkyo 40, Meiji 15 and Kansai University 6.

Weather conditions were ideal with the temperature at 88.8 degrees Fahrenheit and that of the water at 74.3 degrees.

Tetsuo Hamura, of Nihon University, the Olympic 200-meter breaststroke champion, won the same event in the fastest time for the year in 2 minutes 41 seconds.

The results were:

400-meter freestyle: won by Tohru Kurihara (Nihon); second, Honma (Rikkyo); third, Baba (Nihon); fourth, Udo (Rikkyo); fifth, Kono (Meiji); sixth, Adachi (Meiji). Time—4 mins. 57 secs.

200-meter breaststroke: won by Tetsuo Hamuro (Nihon); second, Oura (Rikkyo); third, Noda (Meiji); fourth, Yamaguchi (Meiji); fifth, Hayashida (Nihon); sixth, Kinno (Kwansai). Time—2 mins. 41.4 secs.

100-meter freestyle: won by Takeshi Sasaki (Nihon); second, Osaki (Rikkyo); third, Honda (Rikkyo); fourth, Hirano (Nihon); fifth, Yoshida (Kansai); sixth, Toyoshima (Meiji). Time—60.2 secs.

1,500-meter freestyle: won by Tomikatsu Amano (Nihon); second, Honma (Rikkyo); third, Koshido (Nihon); fourth, Iwakiri (Rikkyo); fifth, Kono (Meiji); sixth, Adachi (Meiji). Time—19 mins. 42.8 secs.

100-meter backstroke: won by Toshiro Taniguchi (Nihon); second, Kono (Nihon); third, Hiraga (Rikkyo); fourth, Sakamoto (Rikkyo); fifth, Takada (Kansai); sixth, Nagatani (Kansai). Time—1 min. 9.8 secs.

800-meter relay: won by Nihon (Sagitani, Amano, Kurihara, Baba); second Rikkyo, third, Meiji. Time—9 mins. 18.2 secs.

The points were split as follows:

Dodger Player Fined $400 and Suspended

CINCINNATI, May 23—Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers today slapped a $400 fine and an indefinite suspension on Cletus Elwood (Boots) Poffenberger, right-hand pitcher bought from Detroit on April 9.

"I fined him," Leo explained in the dugout just before the game with the Reds, "two hundred for being out until 3 o'clock this morning. Then, when he failed to report for today's game, I fined him another two hundred and suspended him indefinitely, without pay, for insubordination.

"As far as I'm concerned Poffenberger is off my club," Durocher went on. "I'll talk with Mr. MacPhail (President Larry MacPhail) and any further action will depend on him."

Durocher revealed at the same time that he had fined his bad-boy pitcher $200 for another escapade on the night of May 12, when the club left for Boston. The Baron boarded the train nearly three hours after the midnight curfew then.

"Every other man on the club is giving all he's got," said Durocher. "Boots has been treated better by the Brooklyn organization than by anybody else and given a chance to make more money than he ever made before."

The pudgy pitcher's decision not to get into uniform was a mystery to everybody, probably including Poffenberger. Queried in the hotel lobby after all other players had gone to the ball park, the Baron only replied:

"I guess I'm just stubborn, but I'm not goin' out. Goin' to take a day off."

The Baron's pitching value to date has been negligible. He started one game against the Cubs on May 4 and failed to get anybody out, Mungo replacing him with the bases filled. His other efforts were two relief appearances for a total of six innings, in which he allowed seven hits and three runs.

HAWAII HAS BEST SWIMMING TALENT NOW IN UNITED STATES

Honolulu Star Bulletin

HONOLULU, May 30—That Hawaii at present has the best swimming talent in America was proven last night at Punahou tank when the last of two Duke P. Kahanamoku indoor swimming meets was held.

Kiyoshi Nakama of Maui twice defeated Jack Medica of New York in featured events. Friday night he triumphed over the Olympic star in the 500 yard event and last night he finished first in the 220, Medica's favorite race, in 2 minutes 11 seconds, a new Hawaiian record.

Takashi Hirose of Maui was right on the heels of Nakama and must have made about 2 minutes 13 seconds. Both of these Maui boys will make strong bids for next year's Olympics.

Little Miss Fujiko Katsutani, also of Maui, equaled the world's record in the 220 yard breaststroke in 3 minutes 15.2 seconds. This qualifies the youngester as the leading contender for that event on the American Olympic team.

Maui's sensational Kiyoshi Nakama continued with his record breaking tank splurge last night to decisively defeat Jack Medica in the featured 220 yard freestyle race at the Duke Kahanamoku indoor swimming meet.

The 18-year-old Maui high school boy stroked his way to victory at Punahou tank in the impressive time of 2 minutes and 11 seconds flat.

This is the fastest time ever recorded in a Hawaiian pool and betters the former island mark of 2 minutes and 13.2 seconds made back in 1935 by J. Macionis.

Takashi Hirose, Nakama's teammate, reported in second in the furlong, about 2½ yards back of Kiyoshi.

Jack Medica placed third. The visiting mainland swimmer finished eight yards back of first place Nakama.

Kiyoshi's winning time of 2 minutes and 11 seconds last night stunned the 1,500 crowd, and with reason.

In previous competition both Nakama and Hirose have made the furlong distance consistently around 2 minutes and 16 seconds.

The Valley Islander's winning furlong time was accordingly a cause of considerable jubilation among local tank citizenry who currently see in Nakama Hawaii's next national titlist.

HIROSE TAKES LEAD

But to come back to the 220 yard race. At the end of the 100 yard mark Hirose led his teammate by a yard and a half with Medica trailing at third.

Nakama, however, started to open up from the 150 yard mark to lead by a yard at the 20 yard line.

Nakama sprinted in the last 20 wards to reach the finishing line two and a half yards ahead of his rapidly tiring teammate with Jack Medica trailing the leader eight yards behind, Pete Powlison was fourth.

At no time did Medica seriously threaten the leadership of the Maui duo.

Noteworthy too was the performance of youthful Fujiko Katsutani in the 220 yard women's open breaststroke race.

BETTERS AMERICAN MARK

Coach Soichi Sakamoto's protege worked the distance in the record breaking time of 3 minutes and 15.2 seconds. This mark is faster than the existing American standard of 3 minutes and 15.5 seconds.

Only a month and half ago, Miss Katsutani won the Hawaiian AAU indoor furlong title with a 3 minute and 20.9 second time.

Never threatened at any stage of the contest, Fujiko won the 220 by 10 yards from teammate Y. Higashida. Lulu Kea, breaststroke champion of last year, followed at third about 17 yards back of the winner.

Fujiko's winning time last night would seem to assure her a berth on the invading island team to the nationals this year.

BARNEY PUNG DEFEATED

J. Balmores, Maui's promising medley swimmer, pulled a major upset win over Barney Pung in the 300 ward individual medley swim. Balmores won the event in 2 minutes and 38.7 seconds.

Barney Pung was a close second. Pung, incidently, won the recent Hawaiian AAU indoor title in this race with a time of 3 minutes and 38.3 seconds.

Maui's Toyoko Takeyama pulled another upset verdict to defeat her teammate Mitsuko Higuchi in the 100 yard women's backstroke race. Mitsuko won this event in the last Hawaiian AAU indoor meet.

Miss Takeyama's time was 1 minute and 16.9 seconds. Midge Garnsey Beck did not compete.

CASTOR VICTOR

Benny Castor, Maui's breaststroke race, displayed his versatility last night to take a decisive win in the 150 yard individual medley novice race. Castor worked the distance in the good time of 1 minutes and 41.9 seconds.

Up and coming Yvonne Hussey, Hui Makani's sprint hope, came through with another win to take the 100 yard freestyle women's race over a close field. Miss Hussey was timed in 1 minutes and 9 seconds.

Repeating his victory of the April indoor meet Bill Neunzig, Maui's star backstroker, easily won the 150 yard race in 1 minute and 41.3 seconds.

Barney Pung who was expected to give Neunzig competition in this event did not compete. Pete Powlinson placed second. Balmores placed third while Jack Medica trailed at fourth position.

Team point honors of the two-day Kahanamoku meet went to Shoichi Sakamoto's Maui squad. Maui's women tank combo scored 51 points with Citywide placing second with 18. Hui Makani was third with 10. University and Palama followed with 5 apiece.

In the men's division Maui scored 66, Hui Makani 32, Citywide 29, Nuuanu Y 19, and University of Hawaii 12.

NAKAMA WINS

HONOLULU, May 27—Score another win for Kiyoshi Nakama. Maui's middle distance swimming ace splashed his way to decisive victory over Jack Medica, visiting mainland star, in the featured 500 yard freestyle race at the Duke Kahanamoku indoor meet last night, with a fast time of 5 minutes 27.5 seconds.

A near capacity crowd, estimated at more than 2,000 flocked to Punahou tank to marvel at the local champion's convincing victory over the 1936 Olympic 400 meter champion.

Never headed from the starting lap, Nakama won the 500 yard race by 29 yards from Medica. The Maui high school swimmer maintained a powerful even stroke all the way, to pull away gradually from his mainland rival with each succeeding lap.

It is interesting to note the phenomenal progress made by the Maui star since 1937. Nakama won the 500 yard affair in '37 with a 6 minutes 3 seconds time. Last year the 18-year-old high school swimmer won this event in 5 minutes and 46 seconds. In winning over Medica last night Nakama slashed another 18.5 seconds from his mark of last year.

Nakamura Shoots 68 For Hodogaya Record

Torakichi Nakamura, pro at the Hodogaya Golf Club, set a new course record for the Hodogaya links by registering a 68 Monday during the fourth professional golfers monthly competition over 36 holes.

Nakamura went out with a 37 and came in with a 31 for a 68, or four under par during the morning round. In the afternoon, he shot a 69 to win the tourney with a 137.

Genjiro Suzuki of the Hodogaya Club was second with a 141, shooting a 69 in the morning round and a 72 in the afternoon.

PRINCETON NINE HALTS PENN, 4 TO 3

N.Y. Times

PRINCETON, N. J., May 27—Princeton defeated the University of Pennsylvania, 4—3, behind the six-hit pitching of Dawson Farber today and thereby took an undisputed hold on fourth place in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League. A run forced home in the seventh when Frank Reagan walked Brud Harper, Tiger captain, with the bases loaded provided the margin of victory.

The Orange and Black let in a third Quaker tally in the eighth on two errors, but retired the side with the tying run on third. Then the Pennsylvanians went out in order in the ninth.

QUAKERS USE TWO HURLERS

Sparky Hill, Tiger left fielder, led an eight-hit attack on Tony Caputo and Reagan, who entered the game in the seventh. He poled a triple, a double and a single in four journeys to the plate, driving in two runs and coming home himself with the final counter in the seventh.

The Tigers gained a one-run advantage in the first when Hill batted in Jack Gefaell, on first by virtue of a Penn error, with a three-bagger to left. The Red and Blue then went out in front in the second. Dick Trexler singled and was driven home by Reagan's triple to center, Reagan tallying when Chuck Morris sliced a safety to right.

Thereafter Farber restricted the Philadelphia nine to three singles in as many innings, while his teammates were scoring two runs in the fifth and the final tally in the seventh.

PLUMER GETS SINGLE

Dick, Plumer stated the fifth with a single to center, then went to third as Billy Moore hit safely. Moore dashed to second on the play, and as the Penn second baseman missed the throw Plumer came home. An infield out and Hill's single brought in Moore and gave the Tigers a 3-2 lead.

Hill doubled in the seventh, went to third on a play at first and came home after two successive free tickets to Bengal batsmen. The Tigers lost an opportunity to raise the score in the eighth when three successive outs followed Moore's triple to center.

4 HOMERS AID YANKEES TO WIN DOUBLEHEADER

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 28—For a few fleeting moments as yesterday afternoon began to wane at the Stadium, the hapless Athletics threatened to upset the dope and win a game from the Yankees, right before the gaze of 30,358 excited fans.

The Mackmen had dropped the first game of the season's first twin bill by the lop-sided score of 8 to 2, which had been more or less expected. But in the nightcap they had routed Monte Pearson under a six-run offensive in four innings as they advanced to a five-run lead. Then things began to happen.

Joe DiMaggio was summoned from the Yankee sick bay to keep a rally going and responded in approved style, with a double. Home runs fell among expectant fans in the lower right-field stand with discouraging frequency or encouraging simplicity, depending on the point of view.

Philadelphia pitchers staggered as the Yankee clubbers worked their big guns. Robert E. Joyce was routed and A. Lovill (Chubby) Dean, a southpaw, went to pieces. The Yankees bagged five runs in one big inning to triumph, 11 to 9, for their seventh straight over the Mackmeth in an unbroken string. They thus held their five-and-one-half-game edge on the second-place Red Sox.

It was an exciting afternoon. Just about everything that could happen did happen, to the advantage of the McCarthymen.

The Yankees struck four circuit blows in the two games, three of them in the nightcap when Twinkletoes Selkirk exploded two. Tommy Henrich hit the other round-tripper in the nightcap, his second on successive days. In the opener it was Charley Keller, who exploded the homer.

Fifteen hits the Yankees struck in a modest exhibition of power on a day when not much power was needed because opposing hurlers were so wild. For the two games the Yankees netted fourteen passes and a hit batsman—Will Dickey, as usual. The passes were evenly spread over the two contests, seven a game.

PEARSON'S RECORD INTACT

Dividends from all this fell to Lefty Vernon Gomez and Steve Sundra, with a measure of relief for Pearson. Monte's unblemished record of four victories and no defeats was preserved because the Yanks came on to win the nightcap behind Sundra and old reliable Jawn Murphy.

Gomez reached the .500 mark with his first victory since April 21, his second of the campagin, and his path was made easy because Roy Parmelee's wildness and that of Bill Beckman, before the latter settled down, forced in four of six runs in the first inning of the opener. Keller's homer followed another pass to insure the triumph.

In the nightcap four hits, including Earle Brucker's homer with two on, and Bob Johnson's double, with a hit batsman, gave the Mackmen five runs to start and the Yankee outlook an indigo tinge.

But Selkirk's first homer in the second pried a run loose from Joyce and when DiMaggio appeared in the role of pinch-hitter for Pearson in the fourth to strike a double with the bases loaded, the Yankee deficit was not so great, despite the fact the Mackmen had nicked Pearson for another run in the first half of the inning on two singles and a pass.

WARM GREETING FOR SUNDRA

Three straight singles that meant two more Philadelphia runs was the greeting to Sundra in the fifth, but the Yanks came back in their half with three when Henrich hit his homer and Selkirk connected for his second in the wake of Keller's single.

This brought Dean on the scene starting the sixth and he went to pieces in the seventh when five passes forced in two runs and Dean's hurried recall. Nelson Potter was greeted by Crosetti's sacrifice fly for another run, Red Rolfe singled in a fourth and Potter's error let in the fifth before Rolfe was nipped at the plate.

UNSTEADY EARLY IN GAME

Unaccustomed as he is to material assistance from his clubbing mates, Gomez staggered perilously getting off the mark in the opener, under the impost of a six-run lead. But he leveled off after the third inning and had only one bad frame thereafter, the fifth.

The wildness of Roy Parmelee, old Giant of Tarzan fame, thrust five of these six runs on the champions, almost without benefit of batting as eleven men came to the plate in the first inning, and when Parmelee gave way to Bill Beckman, the wildness from the box continued.

The trouble started with one out when Rolfe beat out a bunt. After Henrich's demise, Dickey was hit and Keller, Selkirk and Gordon walked in a dizzying procession. When Beckman took up the burden after a ball to Dahlgren, he walked Babe and Gomez, so that four runs were forced in. Then Crosetti, up for the second time, banged in two more with a single.

MORE THAN ENOUGH RUNS

In the second Dickey drew a pass just before Keller parked his second homer of the campaign in the lower left-field stand. That was all. No more passes were issued after the second. The Yanks did no more hitting until the eighth, when they nicked Beckman for two singles, but they had more than enough runs.

Gomez gave up a run in the second on a pass, Beckman's single and a sacrifice fly. In the third he yielded another when Crosetti's error opened the round, Etten walked and Hayes banged a double on a bounce into the left-field bleachers. Gomez then proceeded to hurl 2-hit ball through the closing six rounds.

Hirose Tops Canadian Champ in 100-m. Swim

Takashi Hirose, who along with Kiyoshi Nakama is a candidate from Hawaii for the American Olympic swimming team to Helsinki next year, defeated Bob Pirie, the Canadian champion, by a touch in the 100-meter freestyle event of the Hawaiian A.A.U. championships at the Waikiki 100-meter pool in Honolulu on Saturday night, according to a special dispatch to the Asahi Shimbun. His time was 59.7 seconds.

The two swimmers were swimming neck and neck up to the 75-meter mark. A strong spurt at the finish won for Hirose by a hair-breadth margin.

Hirose was a member of the All-American swimming team that toured Europe last year.

ARMSTRONG WINS BOUT AT LONDON

The Times, London

LONDON, May 26—An almost invincible combination of speed and stamina enabled Henry Armstrong, of America, to beat Ernie Roderick, the British welter-weight champion, on points over 15 rounds at Harringay last night. The perfect knock-out punch alone would have stopped him, and Roderick was just too hard-pressed all the time to accomplish that feat of arms and fists and timing.

Armstrong belongs to a long line of negro champions, most of whom have been a credit to their race and profession. His record spoke for itself. Roderick possessed no such claims to world fame, but many people regarded him as the best welter in Great Britain since Kid Lewis, and his physical advantages were considerable. The weighing-in scales revealed that whereas he was within 1¼ lb. of 10½ st., Armstrong still was a powerful light-weight of 9 st. 9 lb.

RODERICK COOL

Roderick entered the ring looking the part of a cool, determined fighter, and he remained so for all his battle weariness. Armstrong, with his curly hair shining with grease, danced and shadow-boxed his way to his corner and, stripped for action, made it understandable why he was able to make a laughing stock of the scales. When the fight opened Roderick at once showed his worth by jabbing his man repeatedly with the left as he came in. What was more, he was not afraid to let go a telling right upper-cut as well. The negro did not relax for a moment, and he in turn landed some threatening hooks to the body, but on points Roderick had won the round with a lot to spare.

Roderick's quick and well-balanced hooking with both hands, if possible, scored still more points at the start of the second round, but he still could not keep his man out, and, at close quarters, the machine-gun fire of the negro's fists produced, as in more serious fighting, an almost overpowering effect. Nonetheless, each time that Armstrong tried to follow up a really heavy swing by another, Roderick remembered to hit back hard, and these severe counters saved the situation. Roderick's right even looked promising.

The extraordinary pace and persistence of Armstrong in the face of punishment again showed signs of beating down Roderick's guard, but again he got in a heavy hook or two at the critical moments, and another not unhopeful round went by—more full of action than anything see in England for many a long day. It was worth noting that if Roderick had not possessed a splendid right in support of his left he must have been on the floor already. Armstrong's contempt for caution every now and then left him very open. Roderick let his hooks and upper-cuts go with a zest, which well earned the cheers that greeted them. Once or twice early in the fourth round Armstrong even was glad to charge into a clinch, and, more hopeful still from the British point of view, Roderick began to score more frequently at close quarters.

Roderick set the crowd roaring again by shooting out a whole series of magnificent short jabs as Armstrong dashed in at once in the fifth meeting. Roderick was standing up to the ferocious assaults with great calm and determination. He was driven from pillar to post, and occasionally extended to the very utmost of his capacity as a boxer, but it was something that Armstrong's punching became for a while rather wilder and more inaccurate.

Roderick was forced by the speed of the fighting to take a breather in Round Six, and one rather shuddered for his eventual chances when his cover-up did not always foil Armstrong's hooks and swings to the head. In the next round, indeed, there arrived some tremendous moments when the American's non-stop methods looked to be on the very point of achieving their design, but, to the crowd's relief, Roderick suddenly fought back so well that even Armstrong was surprised and a trifle staggered. He became so wild that he did not hear the bell and went on fighting. Both men now showed sings of the punishment handed out, but it was still Roderick who was hard pressed and forced to make every possible use of the ring. The right hand upon which he had rested so many of his best hopes was getting home occasionally, but it pulled up Armstrong only for a second or so at a time. Roderick had to call on the best of straight lefts and hurtful upper-cuts with the right to stave off disaster. Armstrong showed no signs of cracking.

EYE CLOSES

They reached the tenth—did there still remain any chance that Roderick's big advantage in weight would tell in the closing stage? He started the round with a brilliant speed of boxing—and his left jabs went home repeatedly to Armstrong's jaw and mouth. They stopped his assaults, but only for a brief spell. If tired, as he may have been, Armstrong quickly shook off the fatigue. His gasps when spending over punch after punch must have been gasps of fighting fury and determination rather than want of breath. With his left eye closing, he just redoubled his efforts when Roderick opened up a fresh possibility by landing two left hooks to the body, one, perhaps, a trifle low. Roderick himself weathered the fresh storm well and even had the better of the final exchanges. Roderick continued to make the body his target—wise enough tactics if he could keep them up and not only beat off the attacks but at last weaken the negro in his way. At close quarters Armstrong's hard head was a weapon which told against Roderick's chance, and after one furious rally a timely upper-cut brought the latter some sorely needed relief.

Still standing up coolly and bravely, Roderick made a great start in the 13th round, using his hooks and upper-cuts with some effect. At least he drove Armstrong to fresh prodigies of speed and desperation. With two rounds to go Armstrong so excelled himself in attack that even Roderick was on the verge of collapse. The latter, in fact, took a terrific hammering and entered the last round with no hope of doing more than last the 15 rounds—of itself a great achievement against such a phenomenon. Armstrong proceeded as if he still hoped to beat his opponent down by sheer aggression, rapidity, and variety of punch. Roderick, now displaying all the signs of punishment, replied by a courageous recovery which at least foiled this effort. In the end it was a fight for the winner as well as the loser to remember with profound respect for his opponent.

ALL-STAR TEAM TO PLAY CANADA IS SELECTED

The roster of 14 players to represent Japan in the Tokyo games against the Canadian basketball team scheduled to arrive at Yokohama on July 4 aboard the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Hikawa Maru was announced Monday by the Basketball Association.

Most of the players selected were picked among the outstanding performers last year and have had experience at the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin and also on invitational tours to the Philippines.

Because the average height of the Canadian team is said to be 6 feet 1 inch, the Association laid stress on this point in their selection. Kebishi Kanokogi, graduate of Tokyo Imperial University, for instance, selected for center, is 6ft. 4 inches tall. The average height is 5 feet 9 inches, which is large for the Japanese. The team packs plenty of speed and could be considered the best team available in Japan. Beginning Sunday, the team will make its headquarters at the Aoyama Seinenkaikan and practice daily until the game with the Canadians.

The team selected follows:

Coaches

Keishu Makiyama (Waseda graduate) and Masayasu Mayeda (Rikkyo graduate).

Manager

Yoshinori Sudo (Shodai).

Forwards

Kenshichi Yokoyama (Waseda) 5 ft. 7 in.
Moriyoshi Takiguchi (Kyoto Imperial) 5 ft. 8 in.
Hisakazu Mitsuda (Kyoto Imperial) 5 ft. 5 in.
Soichi Kasahara (Rikkyo) 5 ft. 9 in.
Go Ju-kichi (Fusei) 5 ft. 6 in.
Ko-zen Ri (Fusei) 5 ft. 9 in.
Boku Ei-dai (Enki) 5 ft. 6 in.

Center

Kebishi Kanokogi (Tokyo Imperial graduate) 6 ft. 4 in.
Ren In-gen (Kyoto Imperial), 6 ft. 5 in.

Guards

Akira Matsui (Kyoto Imperial graduate), 5 ft. 8 in.
Uichi Munekata (Waseda) 5 ft. 7 in.
Cho Ri-chin (Rikkyo) 5 ft. 9 in.
Kin Sei-ko (Rikkyo) 5 ft. 8 in.
Kin Tei-shin (Enki graduate) 5 ft. 8 in.

The schedule of the games in Tokyo follows:

July 7: Canada versus Waseda at Meiji Shrine grounds, 5 p.m.
July 8: Canada versus Rikkyo at Meiji Shrine grounds, 6 p.m.
July 10: Canada versus Japan at Meiji Shrine grounds, 6 p.m.
July 11: Canada versus Japan at Meiji Shrine grounds, 6 p.m.

In case of rain, the games will be played at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi Kanda.

U.S.C. TAKES TRACK HONORS WITH RECORD SCORE OF 71.5 PTS.

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 28—Just by way of giving a distinctive flavor to the operation, the University of Southern California did a most thorough job in winning the track and field championship of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. yesterday, the Trojans setting an all-time scoring record by compiling the astounding total of 71½ points.

Never before in the sixty-three-year history of this organization had any team dominated the show as the powerhouse from the Coast did before the awed gaze of 7,500 spectators in sun-flooded Triborough Stadium on Randall's Island.

As promised, Southern California was simply terrific. It won six championships outright and shared in two others. It set three of the four meet records that were made, accounted for one of the two tied marks and made off with about everything except the gate receipts.

The only features to escape the superteam from the Coast went to the superman from Pitt, John Youie Woodruff. He took the quarter and half mile races to become the first three-time winner of these events since 1884 and, in the bargain, he equaled the 440-yard figures for the third straight year with 47 seconds flat and clipped the 880-yard standard with 1:51.2.

VICKERY CUTS HURDLES MARK

But it really took an extraordinary individual like Woodruff to steal even a low rumble of the U. S. C. thunder. Louis Zamperini drove the mile record down to 4:11.2; Earl Vickery trimmed the low hurdles mark to an amazing 0:22.8, two-tenths away from the incomparable Jesse Owens's world figures; Jim Humphrey equaled a high hurdles clocking that has not been clipped in nineteen years, and Bob Peoples set a javelin standard of 223 feet 1¼ inches in his Friday trials which held through to the end.

Those were the chief trail-blazers for the lads from California, but they had additional champions. Phil Gaspar won the discus, Bud Day tied with Dick Ganslen of Columbia in the pole vault, and both Clarke Mallery and John Wilson tied with Walter Arrington of Michigan State in the high jump.

Even that was not all. A team of Zamperini, Art Reading, Howard Upton and Erwin Miller gave an unusual added touch to a beautifully run and exciting meet by winning the one-mile relay finale, doing it the hard way after falling on the third leg.

This spill was an extra bit of pyrotechnics as the Pitt, N. Y. U. and Southern California men, coming up for the final touch-off, went down together in a wild tangle of arms and legs. The Violet and Panthers were out of it, but the Trojans still won in the excellent time of 3:19.6.

NO MISTAKES BY TROJANS

It was as if U. S. C. could not make a mistake. The final point score would seem to indicate this. Southern California had almost as many markers as the next four teams. Here is the way the leaders ranked:

Southern California, 71½; Pittsburgh, 26; California, 16¾; Michigan State, 15; Columbia, 14½; Cornell, 13; Brown, 12; Yale, 11¾; N. Y. U., 11, and Princeton, Penn State and Maine, 10 each.

Only in Woodruff did the effete East have any one who could withstand one against twenty. So proficient were these Californians that only three men who made the trip failed to have a share in the point-scoring.

It was Ol' John who led the champions of a year ago. Returning to the title roster with him were Anson Perina of Princeton in the broad jump and Day, who shared the vault title a year ago and did it again.

Joe Moclair of Manhattan was fourth in the two miles, Wilbur Greer of Michigan State eliminated in a 100-yard semi-final, Howard Brill of N. Y. U. fourth in the shot and Nick Vukmanic of Penn State second in the javelin throw.

The meet as a whole was a grand show, enjoyed to the full by the relatively scant crowd. It was jammed with thrills and uniformly excellent performances, with Woodruff again providing the big moment of the afternoon.

The 440-yard final provided one of the most nerve-tingling finishes in the history of this or any other track meet, a dramatic episode that held the crowd spellbound. Woodruff was forced to the limit at last but did not have the speed he had a year ago.

Long John has been running half-miles and miles all during the dual meet season and his sharpness suffered thereby. He had to go all out to win and cut it so fine that the first four to cross the line were under a three-foot blanket.

So the elongated Negro could do no better than equal the intercollegiate record for the third successive season with 47 seconds flat. Poor John! He certainly did scare his admirers and for once he actually looked to be working.

Sixty yards from the taut worsted the Pitt wonder was third—if one can conceive of such a thing.

Erwin Miller of Southern California, on the pole, had taken the lead down the long backstretch with Ol' John staying wide of him on his shoulder. Then at the head of the final straightaway Woodruff came even with the Trojan and failed to pass him. Meanwhile Don Watts of California came whirling up to draw even with the other two as the three of them charged down the cinder-path like a team of horses.

JOHN GOES AHEAD

Sixty yards from the wire Watts had an infinitesimal advantage over Miller with Long John third, popeyed and straining, patently in distress. It seemed impossible for him to win, but Woodruff showed that his 6-foot 4-inch frame houses a tremendous heart. Every one gave up on Woodruff except Woodruff himself.

Somehow or other he reached down and found a last spark. He needed it. For Howard Upton of Southern California, out of the picture entirely, came darting up from nowhere on the outside to pass the other two and just missed nailing Long John right at the wire, two feet from an astounding upset. Miller and Watts were inches away for the next two places and Wesley Wallace of Fordham a very distant fifth.

After that effort the half-mile was just a breeze for the Pitt powerhouse. He ran Curtis Giddings of N. Y. U. by fifteen yards in 1:51.2 for a new intercollegiate record. The Violet ace, however, was disqualified for cutting in too sharply on Bil Greist of Penn State and went unplaced.

The mile run saw Zamperini take command at 1,000 yards and then really pour it on. He beat Giddings by thirty yards as the N. Y. U. man did 4:15.6 himself. Even the fifth performer, Cecil Cole of California, was under 4:20.

PICTURES DECIDE RACE

The really close finish was in the 100-yard dash. Herb Weast of Columbia originally was picked as second behind Ken Clapp of Brown, with Mickey Anderson of U. S. C. third. Weast, after the judges had studier motion pictures of the finish, was placed first, with Anderson second and Clapp third. The time was 0:09.8. Clapp took the 220 in 21.2 seconds.

Vickery won the low hurdles from Jim Pender of Cornell by seven yards and Humphrey took the high hurdles from Jay Shields of Yale by four feet. The two miles went to Al Boulanger to Pitt, who came from fourth to first in the last lap. The time was 9:23.

The mile relay was a high spot of its own. At the end of the first lap the order was Pitt, U.S.C., N.Y.U., Cornell, California and Manhattan. Then it was U.S.C., Pitt., N.Y.U., Cornell, Manhattan and California.

Just before the three-quarters Upton of U.S.C., the third man, fell. He hit Harold Bogrow of N.Y.U., who hit Clyde Graf of Pitt. It was like toy soldiers toppling over. Then out of the scramble arose Southern California to win from California by a foot as the entire race was turned topsy-turvy because of the mishap. Woodruff, touched off a bad fourth, stayed fourth.

The first of the day's champions to be crowned was a familiar figure who, oddly enough, had never won an outdoor intercollegiate title, although he has triumphed on boards as well as taken national laurels galore. He was Frank Ryan of Columbia, coming through magnificently on his second throw in the shot-put with a heave of 52 feet 1⅝ inches, the third best in the history of the meet.

BRILL PLACES FOURTH

Ryan passed Friday's leader, Bob Fischer of Southern California, who stayed right where he was with 51 feet 2¾ inches for second place. Since Don McNeil, Trojan football captain, took fifth, the lads from U. S. C. started off with a solid block of 5 points. The defending champion, Howard Brill of N.Y.U., was fourth, with Herb Michaels of California third.

Without exception, the Friday leaders stayed out in front in the other field events. Perina of Princeton did not do any better, and his 24 feet 5¾ inches was enough for the retention of his broad jump crown. Phil Gaspar of Southern California remained ahead in the discus, but improved his best heave of the day before with a toss of 158 feet 3½ inches.

Peoples of U. S. C. went no further in the javelin than his intercollegiate record of 223 3feet 1¼ inches posted on Friday, but defender Vukmanic of Penn State popped to second while submitting to the first defeat of his college career.

SURPRISE IN HAMMER THROW

The hammer throw provided the biggest surprise of the hardware events. Bob Bennett of Maine, who had led the favored John McLaughry of Brown the first day, let go with the best toss of his life and the best college effort of the year—178 feet 11⅛ inches. The Brown football captain also had his best of the year, 117 feet 4¾ inches, but it was not good enough.

The pole vault saw cocky Dick Ganslen of Columbia tie Loring Day of Southern California, co-holder a year ago, at 14 feet. There was also a triple tie in the high jump at 6 feet 4 inches among Clarke Mallery and John Wilson of U.S.C. and Walter Arrington of Michigan State.

Connie Mack to Lead All-American Stars

Breaking the practice of selecting the managers of the previous season's pennant winners, the veteran Connie Mack, boss of the Athletics, will manage the All-American league team in the annual game against the National league stars to be played at the Yankee Stadium in New York on July 11, according to special dispatch to the Yomiuri Shimbun.

The decision is reported to have been reached by Judge Kenesaw Landis, Czar of baseball, and Presidents Harridge and Frick of the American and National leagues respectively.

Gabby Hartnett, manager of the Cubs, 1938 champions, will direct the Nationals

SOUTH AFRICAN BACK IN ENGLAND FOR GOLF HONORS

The Observer

LONDON, May, 28—Having traveled 40,000 miles since leaving England last August, A. D. Locke, the young South African golfer, is back again in quest of further triumphs. There is the chance of securing one this week when he meets R. A. Whitcombe, the Open champion, in a challenge match for £1,000. Played over 72 holes, the match takes place on Wednesday and Thursday next, at Coombe Hill, Kingston, Surrey.

If anything, Locke is the favorite, a South African syndicate of sportsmen having backed him to win a substantial sum. On the other hand, Whitcombe's many supporters are confident that experience will be the counting factor in a match of this kind. However, in making calculations on this basis it should not be forgotten that in the famous 4-ball challenge match at Walton Heath, last year, Locke not only carried Brews, but held Cotton and Whitcombe at bay until the 71st hole.

A GENIUS

The inference to be drawn from these facts is not that experience gained a triumph, but that the honors went to Locke. Whitcombe may have many years of experience on his side, but Locke has a flair and a genius for the game no less pronounced than that exhibited by Jones. I do not include Cotton in this category, because he is a "made" rather than a gifted golfer. One of the interesting aspects of this week's match is the clash of two players of wholly different types, one representing buoyant youth, and the other ripe middle age.

Between them there is a difference of twenty years, Locke being twenty-one and Whitcombe forty-one. Both are reigning champions, but in the matter of style and method there is nothing whatever in common. With a full swing kept under perfect control, and a free body turn, Locke is the stylist. Using the interlocking grip—left thumb round the shaft, and the little finger of the right hand entwined with the first finger of the left—and a three-quarter swing, Whitcombe punches the ball rather than sweeps it away.

It is essentially a workmanlike style, one that has won him the Blue Riband of golf, and brought innumerable successes. On a long, seaside course swept by a strong wind I would have no hesitation in selecting Whitcombe, whose massive, powerful frame is the better able to withstand the buffetings. But at Coombe Hill, well sheltered and not too long, where finesse is of more importance than hard slogging, the advantage would seem to be with Locke. It is significant that most of his triumphs have been gained on inland courses, and in ideal weather conditions.

During his eight months' absence from England, Locke has covered Australia, New Zealand, and S. Africa, and besides capturing two Open championships en route, many new records have been created. His primary objects in returning to this country are, first, to compete in the Open championship, for which he has been made favorite at the cramped odds of 7 to 1 against, and, secondly, to challenge Cotton to a match for £1,000.

Unless Locke wins the Open there is no chance of a meeting with Cotton, who declines to take part in any such match until the challenger has proved his status by winning a major title. Cotton takes up the attitude—a reasonable one in the circumstances—that in engaging in such a match at the present time he has everything to lose and nothing to gain. He refers, of course, to the reputation aspect, and not the money side. In effect, he says, "There will be time enough to accept such a challenge when Locke has won the Open, or, perhaps, the American Open championship; until then I am not interested in the match."

AUDACIOUS ATTITUDE

It is not quite clear what Cotton's attitude will be in the event of Locke winning the Open, at St. Andrews, in July. Willing or not, Cotton may then be forced into accepting the challenge, for he knows as well as anyone what the reaction of the public would be to a refusal. In some quarters Locke's attitude is regarded as audacious, but there is no denying the fact that he ranks high among the world's great golfers, and because of his many wonderful achievements there is justification for his challenge. In more respects than one a meeting between the two players would resolve itself into a historic match, comparable to that between the late Harry Vardon and W. Park, forty years ago, when over 10,000 excited spectators overran the North Berwick links.

Locke's performances are of such a remarkable character that, in the event of the challenge being accepted, it would occasion no surprise to see him beat Cotton. A player who can accomplish four consecutive rounds each in the sixties, as Locke did in the Transvaal Open must not only possess the highest skill but be blessed with the ideal temperament. The playing of seventy-two holes medal demands the deepest concentration, for one major slip may wreck the work of four days. Lock's record low score of 265 in the Transvaal Open was made up as follows: 66, 69, 66, 64. By six strokes he lowered Lawson Little's record of 271 in the Canadian Open, the figures which were: 67, 66, 69, 69.

Keio Tennis Players Off for Tour In D.E.I.

Kokichi Kagitomi and Ryuzo Yamagata, tennis players of Keio University, left Kobe Tuesday afternoon aboard the Nagoya Maru for the Netherlands Dutch East Indies and the Malayan States to appear in exhibitions at the invitation of Japanese residents there.

After appearances at Menad, Makassar and Surabaya, they will compete in the All-Malayan championships starting at Singapore on August 3, after which they are scheduled to board the Suwa Maru for home.

Kagitomi and Yamagata are sixth and 13th ranking players respectively among the students.

Kawakami Aids Giants to Down Lions by 3 to 2

Tetsuji Kawakami, leading hitter of the Spring season of the professional baseball league, won the ball game for the Giants against the Lions by a 3 to 2 score Tuesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium.

It was his slashing hit to right that brought in the Giants' two runs in the opening inning. Then in the last half of the tenth, with the count 3 and 0 against him, he crossed up Pitcher Kikuya, who wanted to walk him to load the bags and lay the ground for an easier defense, by swinging at a waste ball for a fly to left that brought in Chiba for the winning run.

Nankai hit the ball hard to down the Eagles, 4 to 2, in the other game.

REDS CAPTURE 12TH STRAIGHT, BEATING CARDS

N.Y. Times

ST. LOUIS, May 27—The rampaging Reds showed their heels to the Cardinals again today, winning 3 to 2, before a cloudburst broke up the game after eight innings.

Play could not be resumed after a thirty-minute delay and Cincinnati racked up its twelfth successive victory and increased its lead in the exciting National League race to two games over St. Louis.

It was a tense struggle and a homer to the pavilion roof by Lonnie Frey in the seventh inning turned out to be the deciding run. It was his fourth of the season and Cincinnati's thirty-third in thirty-three games.

CARDS GET RUN IN FIRST

Lee Grissom, Ray Davis and Lloyd Moore held the Cardinals to four hits, two of them doubles by Jimmy Brown and Pepper Martin which accounted for the opening St. Louis run in the first inning.

Tying the score in the fifth on a walk and a pair of singles, Cincinnati moved ahead in the sixth when young Morton Cooper, 1938 strike-out king of the Texas League, made a wild pitch, Harry Craft scoring from third base.

The Cards' second run came in the eighth when Brown hit the right-field foul line pole for a triple to score Lynn King, who had batted for Cooper.

TEN REDS STRIKE OUT

Clyde Shoun hurled the last two innings for the Cards, and although he and Cooper gave ten hits, they struck out the same number of batters.

A ladies' day crowd of 15,657, including 6,022 paying spectators, saw the contest.

The Cardinals now face the difficult task of taking both remaining games of the series, a double-header tomorrow, in order to regain first place.

CORNELL BEATS DARTMOUTH BY 5-3 SCORE

N.Y. Times

ITHACA N. Y., May 27—Behind the four-hit pitching of Jim Young and Wat Sickles, Cornell defeated Dartmouth, 5-3, in their Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League game before 3,000 Spring-day sepctators on Hoy Field today.

The victory clinched for Cornell at least a tie for the league championship. The Ithacans now lead the stndings with nine victories against two defeats. Harvard is second with seven triumphs and three losses, and Dartmouth is in third place with seven games won and four lost.

It was Cornell's ninth straight decision and Young's third straight. Young left the game after yielding two hits and two runs in four innings. Sickles fanning six, pitched the rest of the way.

WONSON IN BATTED HARD

Dartmouth's pitcher, Chief Wonson, ran into trouble at the start. George Polzer tripled in the first to score Brown. In the second Mike Ruddy hit a home run. Charlie Bowen doubled in the third and scored on Polzer's single.

Walt Scholl got a single to start the fourth and Wonson gave way to John Lendo. After a passed ball and wild pitch Ruddy scored Schott with a single. John Gannett, a pinch hitter, was struck by a pitch and Brown walked to fill the bases. Ruddy counted as Dartmouth trapped Brown off first.

Dartmouth's first run resulted from smart base running, including a doube steal by Gus Broberg and Jack Orr which sent Broberg across the plate. In the fourth inning Joe Urban walked and counted on Linden's double.

YOUNG LEAVES IN LEAD

Young left the game with a 5-2 lead. Sickles blanked Dartmouth the next three innings, then gave two hits in the eighth, Orr doubling to left and scoring on Urban's single to left.

Dartmouth put a man on third in the ninth but Sickles fanned the last three batsmen.

JOHNSTOWN WINS MILE RACE AT BELMONT IN RECORD TIME

By BRYAN FIELD

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 28—Equaling Man o' War's Withers Stakes record of 1:35 4-5, Johnstown yesterday took the sixty-fourth running of the historic mile race at Belmont Park by ten lengths while 20,000 persons peered up the stretch for the nearest of the others. The Kentucky Derby winner triumphed under restraint, "galloping," as the racing expression has it, which means not at all extended and going well within himself.

"Why, he's chewing bits in two fighting for his head," was the way one of Johnstown's handlers had talked of the William Woodward colt in the paddock earlier in the week, concerning his workouts in preparation for the Withers. That is one of the turf's exaggerations, of course, but it is cold, official fact that Johnstown put in an eighth of a mile yesterday in 0:10 4-5, the fastest furlong ever caught by Timer John Miller in a race.

Mr. Miller said: "He ran the first furlong in 0:12, sort of getting into his stride. Then he went the second furlong in 0:10 4-5. Leaving aside the first furlong and taking together the second, third and fourth, we find Johnstown doing three furlongs in 0:33 2-5, faster than I ever caught any other horse at any part of a race."

JOHNSTOWN EASED AT END

To the racegoers Johnstown was just skipping along. His effortless way of going was again in evidence, and at no time did Jockey Jimmy Stout appear to urge him. Indeed, through the stretch Stout took Johnstown up, despite which the Greentree Stable's Hash, second to the wire, was beaten ten lengths.

A head back of Hash was W. E. Boeing's Porter's Mite. The Wheatley Stable's Gilded Knight, Johnstown's running mate, was fourth and Birch Rod fifth and last. The entry went to the post at 1 to 8.

Crossing $19,250, the Withers added $15,750 to Johnstown's earnings, which now total $87,625 for 1939. He is the largest money winner among the 3-year-olds. Counting his juvenile earnings, Johnstown has $119,045 to his credit.

Many of racing's best-known persons saw Johnstown's first metropolitan appearance since the Wood Memorial. Mrs. Payne Whitney attended for the first time this season, and Mr. Woodward, of course, was on hand. There was no concealing the fact that he expected Johnstown to do well, but it is doubtful if even Mr. Woodward expected his colt to do so well.

From an even break the son of Jamestown went to the front in a bound, even though as fleet a horse as Porter's Mite got away flying. For the first eighth, while Johnstown was settling into stride, Gilded Knight was head and head with Porter's Mite. After that Gilded Knight dropped back steadily.

FAST PACE CONTINUES

In the meantime Johnstown continued on his way and was leading Porter's Mite by pherhaps two and a half lengths when the far turn was reached.

Porter's Mite was able to stay close when Johnstown put in that sensational eighth in 0:10 4-5, but as the leader continued to blaze away Porter's Mite found the going too fast. Porter's Mite is a nice colt, but he was up against a champion whose like doubtless will not be seen soon again, at least so far as speed on a fast track is concerned.

At the head of the stretch it was all over. Stout, completing a double he had started with Brazada in the third race, was busy looking back.

Hash was gaining on Porter's Mite and the battle merely was for the peace money of $2,000. Hash got it by outfinishing the Pacific Coast horse, who had won two sensational races at Belmont last Fall. The third money was $1,000, with $500 to fourth.

Mr. Miller's official fractional times follow: 0:12, 0:22 4-5, 0:45 2-5, 1:10 1-5, 1:23, 1:35 4-5. This marked the third 1:35 4-5 clocking in the Withers. Snob II made the same time in 1922, two years after Man o'War.

There was a surprise in the secondary feature, the sixty-third Juvenile Stakes, when Alvin Untermyer's Cockerel prevailed at 5 to 1. He scored by a neck, going away, in 0:57 4-5 for the five furlongs down the chute. The prize to the winner was $4,775 out of a total of $5,650.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Now What was in the lead nearing the wire, but was nipped by the late rush of Cockerel, who received a good ride from Eddie Arcaro. Gannet, 6-to-5 favorite, was third. Maetran and Wise Bee completed the field as named.

MCKINNEY RIDES WINNER

Rigan McKinney, who has survived an extraordinary succession of racing accidents with no apparent impairment of his riding capabilities, was back in the saddle after his most recent spill and came home with the winner in Thomas Hitchcock's Eran de Perse. McKinney was all agrin when he brought the Craig an Eran gelding into the unsaddling enclosure. He had considerable reason for this elation, as the race had been a reasonably tight one, with McKinney's canniness balancing the scale as much as the power he can put into a finish.

Held at 13 to 5, Eran de Perse scored by a length, with Mrs. Payne Whitney's Sumatra right alongside and a half length before E. B. Schley's Dolly's Love. The others were up the stretch.

Mr. Hitchcock has not won many jumping races this season, but this colorbearer ran as if he would win many more. At the end of the two miles his time was 3:42 1-5.

Doll's Love and Farndale were an entry and favored at 6 to 5. For a turn of the field they ran one, two and seemed to have things well in hand. With something more than a half mile to go, Willie Collins turned loose with Sumatra, but McKinney was waiting for that move with Eran de Perse. The two went along together for 100 yards, both leaving Dolly's Love.

At the last turn it was clear that Eran de Perse had Sumatra in hand pretty well, but Dolly's Love came on once more. Whether McKinney was prepared for this development is hard to say, but he coped with it. Bringing all his skill into play, he used Sumatra against Dolly's Love, and in the meantime went about the business of winning with Eran de Perse.

KNICKERBOCKER IS SCRATCHED

Early racegoers found that Knickerbocker and War Dog had been scratched from the Withers, making Johnstown's opposition lighter than ever. Considerable interest had been shown in the Joseph E. Widener colt because of his surprising victory in the Metropolitan Handicap a week before at 40 to 1, so his admirers were glad to learn that no injury had been suffered.

Trainer Pete Coyne withdrew his charge to point him for the Belmont Stakes with more emphasis than ever. Coyne evidently feels that training moves will prove more desirable than would a mile spin back of the flashing Johnstown.

Post time was delayed in order that all might reach their seats on time. The parking places were filled early and by race time there were lines of cars at the gates waiting to get past the ticket sellers.

Camp Verde, owned by T. P. Morgan and trained by C. W. Parish, was a 4-to-5 choice in the curtain raiser. He is a Hygro gelding from Campion and made short work of his opposition. Taking the lead at the break, Camp Verde seemed to open more distance the farther he went; at the end he was far in front, with Straw Hat and Weigh Anchor batting it out for the place.

Straw Hat looked like the runner-up halfway through the race, but he nearly lost the place as a result of the late charge of Weigh Anchor. The latter closed so fast that it looked like two heads on the post for the second award. The camera decided for Straw Hat, with Weigh Anchor getting the show. The time was 0:58 3/5.

Canadian Cage Team Sails from Vancouver

The Canadian basketball team, invited to Japan for a series of goodwill games, sailed from Vancouver Wednesday aboard the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Hikawa Maru, according to a special dispatch to the Tokyo Nichi Nichi.

Of the delegation of 12 strong, several are reported proficient in tennis and golf and they will most likely show their wares in these sports while here.

Kawakami Hits Hard To Help Giants to Win

Smashing out three triples and one double out of five hits in six trips to the plate, Tetsuji Kawakami, first baseman and pitcher of the Giants, increased his lead in the batting race in the professional league to .475 Wednesday afternoon at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka. The Giants bombarded three Nankai pitchers mercilessly for 18 hits and won by a 14 to 6 score to forge into the league's lead.

The Lions clinched victory from the Eagles by hitting Ted Furukawa for three runs in the first inning in the other game at the Koshien stadium. The final score was 6 to 2.

Behind the scintillating pitching of the veteran, Bozo Wakabayashi, who yielded but five hits, the Tigers blanked the Senators 6 to 0 at the Korakuen stadium in Tokyo. Leftfielder Tomimatsu poled a homer off Noguchi in the second inning with two aboard.

Pitcher Nishizawa of Nagoya allowed only four hits to stop the Dolfins, 6 to 1, in the other game.

BRITAIN BEATS FRANCE IN GOLF FOR WOMEN

The Times, London

LONDON June 3—Great Britain beat France by six games to two, with one halved, in the ninth women's international match between the two countries at Bramshot yesterday. Great Britain won the morning foursomes by two games to one, and were successful in the singles by four games to one with one halved. Great Britain's unbeaten record in the match was thus maintained. Every match since the contest was instituted in 1931 has been won by Great Britain with the exception of that played at Chantilly in 1934, which was halved.

FRANCE LEADS

The first blow in the foursomes was struck by France when Mlle. Lally Vagliano, the French champion, holed a two-yard putt for a 3 on the opening green to give her side a win. Great Britain (Miss Anderson and Miss Corlett) took three putts but squared at the second. Then, after Miss Anderson had holed from two yards to save the third, Great Britain led at the fourth. Great Britain became two up when France were bunkered at the fifth and Miss Anderson, who was putting beautiffully, saved the short sixth with a two-yard putt after bunkering her tee shot. Another hole went against France at the seventh, where Miss Anderson, who was trying a new putting stance, holed from 20 yards, Great Britain, however, were inheather at the eighth, to lose part of their lead, but were still two up at the ninth, which they reached in 39. France were in the rough at the 11th, to be three down again, and the difference became four when France took three putts at the 13th, after being bunkered. A half left Great Britain dormy four, and then, bunkered again, France lost the 15th to be beaten by 5 and 3.

The third match finished soon afterwards with Mme. J. A. Barton and Mme. R. Paul beating Mrs. Wylie and Miss Winn by six and four to square matters. Great Britain won the opening hole, where France were in the wood, but Miss Winn, who was not at her best, missed a 2ft. putt on the second green and that started a landslide. The pitching and putting of the French players was very good and with six holes played they were three up. The lead soon became five holes, and France dormy five, won the 14th, where Mme. Barton holed from just off the green for a win, which settled the match. Great Britain, however, won the other game, which was the closest of the three, Mrs. J. B. Walker and Miss Molly Gourlay beating Mme. A. Strauss and Mlle. C. de Rothschild by three and two. Miss Gourlay was inclined to be erratic with some of her long shots, but Mrs. Walker played some good chips and recoveries. After losing four of the first six holes France fought well and won the seventh and eighth to turn only two down. They won back another when Miss Gourlay hooked 40 yards off the line at the 11th, and were still only one down with four to play. Then, however, they took three putts at the 15th and, after driving into the rough, were bunkered near the green at the 16th, to lose both holes and, with them, the match.

THE SINGLES

Miss Anderson, in contrast to her display in the morning, was very weak on the greens in the afternoon. After the first five holes had been halved in par figures, Mme. Lacoste won two of the next three holes, but Miss Anderson hit an enormous drive at the ninth and sent a high pitch 2ft. from the pin to win back a hole. Mme. Lacoste, out in 39 to 40, turned one up and then won the next three holes in 3, 5, 3, to be four up. Miss Anderson got a hole back with a perfect 4 at the long 13th, but was beaten on the 16th green.

Miss Corlett made several mistakes and was five down after seven holes against Mlle. Vagliano and four down at the turn, which Mlle. Vagliano reached in a brilliant 36. Encouraged by a win at the ninth, Miss Corlett won the next three holes to be only one down, but she was two down when bunkered at the 13th. Two halves followed, and Miss Corlett was two down with three to play. Her opponent then went down the bank behind the 16th green to lose that hole and Miss Corlett, amid cheers from the big gallery, squared the match at the short 17th by holing a putt of 10 yards for 2, and the game was still all even on the home green. Mrs J. B. Walker, the Irish golfer, had the biggest victory beating Mme. A. Strauss by seven and five. She was four up at the turn and won three of the next four holes in par figures.

Miss P. Barton held an advantage of only one hole after seven had been played, but won the eighth and ninth to turn three up against Mme. J. Gaveau. Miss Barton was dormy at the 14th and a win at the 15th gave her the match by five and three.

Inter-City Ball Series To Open Here July 30

The 13th annual All-Japan inter-city baseball championships under the auspices of the Osaka Mainichi and the Tokyo Nichi Nichi will be held for one week, beginning July 30, at the Korakuen stadium in Tokyo, according to announcement this morning.

Four teams will compete in an elimination series on July 1, 2 and 3 to meet the Fujikura Electric Company, last year's representative for Tokyo, for the honor to represent Tokyo in the series this year.

CORNELL'S CREW SNAPS HARVARD STRING AT TEN

By EVERETT B. MORRIS

N.Y. Herald Tribune

ITHACA, N. Y., May 27—Harvard's long string of varsity rowing victories, which had stretched to ten in the span of a bit more than two seasons, came to an end late this afternoon in a four-boat race rowed in a wild, blinding rain squall that swept Lake Cayuga into a white fury just before sundown.

From this storm and strife, Cornell emerged with its most cherished triumph in years, its third in four starts this spring. A bit more than a length astern of the heavyweather Ithacans came Harvard and a surprisingly strong Syracuse crew so close together that the judges called their finish a dead heat.

Penn, which had been in the thick of the fight for three-quarters of the two-mile battle of the crews with the elements, was last about as far in the wake of the deadlocked shells as they were trailing the powerful Ithacans.

Not in years has an intercollegiate rowing race been held under such foul conditions. But as Julian W. Curtiss, the veteran referee of the regatta, said, "They brought it upon themselves."

GOOD WEATHER WASTED

For more than three-quarters of an hour after the junior varsity race, which beat a mild easterly wind squall to the finish, the officials waited at the starting line for the varsity eights to appear. The water had smoothed out, conditions were better than they had been at any time in the afternoon, but another storm of ominous proportions was building up behind the ridge to the westwad.

Finally the crews appeared and so did the rain and wind clouds. By the time the coxswains had turned their shells and paddled up to the line for a drifting start close to the Ithaca shore, the rain had begun to fall. Curtiss, a rowing veteran of sixty seasons, gave the word and within a dozen strokes Harvard and Syracuse had jumped Penn and Cornell.

At the first quarter Harvard, rowing thirty-three to the minute, was leading Syracuse by a deck and Penn and Cornell by half a length. Then the squall broke in its full fury. Harvard, in the outermost lane, got the full impact of it first and slowed down as though it were dragging a string of lobster pots.

The force of the westerly wind heeled the shells to port and in an instant blotted them from the view of the press launch, which was paralelling their course less than fifty yards to windward of Harvard. How the coxswains could see to hold a straight course and how the laboring oarsmen could get their breath in the smother of rain and spume can only be conjectured.

When the first rush of the squall subsided, the whole picture had changed. With three-quarters of a mile to go you could see the Cornell shell, in the lane next to Harvard, about a deck length ahead of Syracuse, rowing in the relatively sheltered water nearest the shore. Penn was half a length off the pace and a quarter of a length upon Harvard which obviously was heavily waterlogged.

It was still raining cats and dogs, but the wind had dropped from a half gale to more reasonable velocity. There was no catching Cornell. This big, powerful crew had been waiting for just such an opportunity to show its ability.

In a desperate attempt to salvage their rapidly slipping cause, the Harvard oarsmen kicked their stroke up to thirty-six. They rowed the last half mile at that clip, coming up from last place to pass Penn and overhaul Syracuse, which went up to thirty-eight in the last quarter in a vain attempt to catch Cornell and stave off the courageous Harvard drive.

At the finish Commodore John Furman's Cornellians had a bit more than a length to spare over their pursuers. The flag on the official's yacht dipped twice for the next two boats and again for Penn, but when the timers consulted they were unable to separate Harvard from Syracuse, so they called it a dead heat for second place.

Cornell's time was announced as 11:22.5, Harvard's and Syracuse's as 11:28.5 and Penn's as 11:35.9. These were nearly a minute slower than the clockings for the junior varsity crews which were chased down the two-mile course by a squall that had nothing in it but threats and a bit of wind.

BOBBY FELLER HAS IMPROVED HIS CONTROL

By RUMILL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, May 30—When they rolled into Boston today for the start of an abbreviated series with the Red Sox, the Cleveland Indians were clinging desperately to the upper half of the American League. Their hold was none too secure. At a time when the critics expected Oscar Vitt would be challenging the Yankee pace, he was in danger of sliding out of sight among the rank and file of the second division.

A ONE-MAN STAFF

Everything considered, it is fortunate for Vitt, the manager, that a milk-fed youngster named Bob Feller is on the pay roll. Without the strikeout king from Van Meter, Iowa, the Tribe would be fighting to escape the cellar. No doubt about it. The boy with the greatest speed in baseball today is Vitt's one-man hurling staff—insurance against a losing streak.

As the Indnians came East for the first time May 15, their record was 11 games won and 10 lost. And of the 11 triumphs, Feller had accounted for six, no less. In those first six wins, the Van Meter youth allowed just 36 base hits in 47 1/3 innings. He had complete nine-inning efforts over the Tigers and White Sox twice, and the Athletics once. Number six came in a relief stretch with Washington.

HAS LOCATED PLATE

To those who have watched Feller's development in the American League, the most encouraging side of this early spurt is the consistent manner in which he is locating the plate. In winning his initial start against the Tigers, the speed ace walked only two batters. In taking the White Sox for No. 2 he walked just three. When he appeared against the Bengals the second time he gave two walks. Only once has he had a bad afternoon, and that in competition with the Yankees, who are enough to upset the best hurler in the world. Ten Yanks took free tickets to first base in nine innings.

Although Feller's control has improved enough to make him a steady winner in the American League—and control was all he needed—he has lost none of his flare for strikeouts. In the first six games he won, Bob fanned 48 batters, as compared with only 18 passes. The opposition no longer can wait for the youngster to walk himself into holes. If they wait, they find themselves out in left field. Once a wild rookie, inexperienced and unable to pace himself, Bob has now acquired poise and has overcome the habit of losing his own game. He has grown up. Those who know the trials and tribulations of a big league ball player marvel at the boy's ability to win as often as he did two and three years ago.

WON 17 LAST YEAR

Feller was a winner last season, but he was not what you would call an outstanding pitcher. He bagged 17 games for the Tribe, while dropping 11, but in 39 contests he walked 208 hitters and finished the campaign with an earned run average of 4.08. He paced the league in giving free tickets, although this department was balanced somewhat by 240 strikout, another leadership. In those games the youngster was behind the batter about 90 per cent of the time. He probably threw twice as many balls as the average hurler.

If Feller's early-season record is a sample of what to expect throughout the 1939 race, he should go over the 25 level without difficulty. He may threaten the 30-victory mark. Although better equipped to locate the strike zone, he bay is still wild enough to keep the batter loose. In night games he is next to unbeatable.

JOHNSON'S RECORD

If Bobby can escape injury, he has a chance to smash a few of the all-time strikeout standards established by Walter Johnson, Cy Young, Christy Mathewson, Rube Waddell, Grover Alexander and Lefty Grove. Johnson fanned 3,497 rival batsmen in 802 American League games during his lengthy and colorful career with Washington. Young retired 2,836 on third strikes. Mathewson, with 2,499, is the head man among hurlers who spent their entire careers in the National League.

Until the beginning of the '39 season, Feller had struck out 466 men in 79 contests, which is a good beginning for a farm boy not long out of grammar school. On Oct. 2 of last year he fanned 18 Tigers, a modern record for nine inning. On other occasions he has fanned 17, 16 and 15. It's a story as old as the game itself—you can't hit what you can't see

CUBS, WITH DEAN, STOP PIRATES, 6-2

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, May 28—Dizzy Dean won his second game of the season today when he limited the Pirates to eight hits while the Cubs punched out a 6-to-2 victory.

Until the Pirates scored two runs in the fifth, Diz had pitched eighteen scoreless innings in one relief job and two starts.

Even then the Pirates should not have scored. Bill Swift, who finished the game for Pittsburgh after Joe Bowman had been knocked out in the third, got on base in the fifth when his pop fly fell among Gabby Hartnett, Dean and Glen Russell for a hit. Swift's fly would have been the second out and P. Waner's fly the third.

With two men on, then, Arky Vaughan, Pirate shortstop, tripled to score the only two runs Dean has allowed in twenty-three innings this season. Diz walked only one man and was in command of the situation at all times.

The victory broke up a Cub losing streak of three games and hoisted them back into third pace ahead of the Pirates.

The Cubs made nine hits. Manager Hartnett drove in three of the six runs with a double and a single, while Dean got a double and single of his own.

In the third inning players of both sides had to break up an argument between Dean and Vaughan which followed the former's double. Pittsburgh players claimed Johnny Rizzo caught the ball. Umpire Moran, however, ruled that Rizzo had trapped it.

AMERICA DEFEATS ENGLAND AT MEADOWBROOK, 11 TO 7

The Times, London

MEADOWBROOK, June 4—America beat England in the first match at Meadowbrook by 11 goals to seven after a fine, fast game, of which we had a fair proportion of the play. Up to half-time it was anybody's game, but gradually the Americans pulled out, and our ponies, who had to come out for second chukkas, were beaten for pace.

Bad weather conditions preceded the playing of the match. After a perfect day yesterday rain set in early this morning and looked like stopping play. The question from the English point of view was whether a postponement would benefit us. On one side there was the knowledge that Mr. Cecil Smith would not be able to play owing to the aftereffect of concussion. The new line-up, Mr. Phipps, Mr. Hitchcock, Mr. Iglehart, and Mr. Winston Guest seemed less formidable than Mr. Phipps, Mr. Smith, Mr. Hitchcock, and Mr. Guest. Mr. Smith is the outstanding American player of today. On the other hand, several of the best English ponies arelamed.

On the whole the decision to play was regarded as more favorable to England. The weather prophets at the Military Air Station were most accurate in spite of the depressing outlook, and a decision at 12.30 to play proved to be wise. The drainage of the light sandy soil was quick and the ground seemed to be in excellent condition. Mr. Hitchcock, a co-survivor of the first series in 1886, with Mr. Foxhall Keene, was present to see his son lead the defending Americans.

The start was as bad as we could have had. From the throw-in Mr. Hitchcock picked up the ball and gave a long pass up and the Americans had the initiative. Mr. Tyrrell-Martin shortly afterwards made a weak hit which was met by Mr. Iglehart on the far-famed Housemaid, and he scored with a long shot from a difficult angle. Next Mr. Guest took advantage of another weak shot by Mr. Tyrrell-Martin and backhanded another goal. Mr. Iglehart crossed just after, but Mr. Balding's penalty 4 jacked direction. The chukka ended with England going well and Mr. Balding doing lots of work on Brocade. The English ponies needed a chance to gallop, which they did not get. It might have been worse.

A GOOD START

England had made a good start with real pace, but the weak penalty hitting of Mr. Balding lost two chances. Mr. Skene and Mr. Roark were going well together until Mr. Phipps went full tilt into Mr. Roark and rolled horse and rider over. Mr. Roark looked hurt but had only bruised a shoulder; Sea Foam probably suffered equal damage to her shoulder. Mr. Balding then missed from penalty 2, a terrible lapse. Mr. Guest fouled again just afterwards, but the hit was stopped. Then Mr. Iglehart just got up to save on the line. Frankly, I thought it was through again. America crossed, and at last Mr. Balding scored from the ensuing penalty 4. England were going well and having their full share of the game. Mr. Iglehart Rubisela played like a little bay demon. Umpiring so far admirable.

Mr. Hitchcock, with a brilliant shot under Black Prince's neck, enabled America to lead 3—1. Mr. Skene, who was now going grandly on Free Lance, took Mr. Balding's 60-yard shot for a cross by Mr. Hitchcock, and made it 2—3. From the throw-in Mr. Roark put up a long pass to Mr. Skene, who, making the best of his pony's pace, made the scores equal. Mr. Balding, who was playing a great game, crossed twice. Mr. Hitchcock made a 40-yard hit to lead 4—3, and just afterwards Mr. Guest, on his handy, big Confite, backhanded in Mr. Hitchcock's penalty 4. The hit broke his stick. Just on the bell Mr. Roark, who seemed to have been gingered up by his fall, was very unlucky to miss narrowly.

The fourth chukka was mostly England's. Mr. Iglehart, with his amazing eye, met a hard hit from Tyrrell-Martin and sent the ball up to Mr. Hitchcock, who made it inevitably 6—3. Then Mr. Skene on Roy Court began to play like a man possessed and had cruellest luck in going just wide with an enormous shot. Mr. Guest then crossed badly and Mr. Balding made it 4—6 from penalty 2. Tyrrel-Martin was playing magnificently on Cop. Again Mr. Guest crossed and Mr. Balding missed lamentably a 40-yards penalty. Just before the end Mr. Skene and Roy Court between them made it 5—6. America fouled eight times and only one was converted.

NOT SO ILL

So far, not so ill. Soon after the start on the Fifth chukka some brilliant play by Mr. Guest, riding Mr. Smith's favorite Cacique, came up like a whirlwind and gave Mr. Phipps the chance to make it 7—5. Mr. Tyrrell-Martin's Red Cameo can run fast in a straight line but was often at fault leading to many dangerous situations. This was very hard galloping chukka. There was no further score.

The Americans in the Sixth chukka began to pull out and Mr. Hitchcock on the champion pony Estilista was generally in charge of the game. From the bell Mr. Hitchcock was in and made it 8—5 and then nearly in again just afterwards, but the pace of Ebony enabled Mr. Skene to make a brilliant save. Mr. Balding then crossed again, but the 60 yards' hit was unsuccessful. From the ensuing scrimmage, however, Mr. Iglehart made a chance for Mr. Phipps to score again. Mr. Roarks's mount Blue Socks tired and was often beaten for pace. This was a great chukka for Mr. Hitchcock.

Things were getting serious. Just after the start of the seventh chukka another cross by an American—I think Mr. Iglehart—resulted in another penalty 4. Mr. Balding's first real lofted drive was met in mid-air by Mr. Guest, as by a miracle, at the expense of a safety. That was not so well hit, and a fine long hit by Mr. Guest sent away Mr. Hitchcock, who put up a long pass to Mr. Phipps on Brown Fern, whom Mr. Tyrrell-Martin even on Brown Sherry could not overtake. Just on the bell another penalty against Mr. Hitchcock was weakly taken and nothing came of it. This was the one flaw in Mr. Balding's play, which was that of a real captain showing almost uncanny anticipation.

England, already short of ponies, suffered from lack of pace in the last chukka. Their play was valiant none the less. A cross by Mr. Phipps, who was penalized, and Mr. Balding scored from 40 yards. Mr. Skene, after an indifferent seventh chukka, was again playing a great game. Tatters, brought out a second time, was, however, several times outpaced. After Mr. Skene had had bad luck in hitting a pony near the American goal. Mr. Roark, on Naranja, back-handed a fine shot to make the score 7—10. Just after Mr. Tyrrell-Martin narrowly missed with a fine shot. The English ponies were at a disadvantage, and just before the bell Mr. Hitchcock sent off Mr. Phipps on that fiendishly fast Fuss Budget, and he made no mistake. If our penalties had been taken better it might have been a different story. Nevertheless, it was a fine game of polo and there is yet hope.

The team were:—

GREAT BRITAIN—R. Skene (8), No.1; A. Roark (7), No. 2; G. Balding (8), No. 3; and E. H. Tyrrell-Martin (8), back.

UNITED STATES—M. Phipps(10), No. 1; T. Hitchcock (10), No. 2; S. Iglehart (10), No. 3; and W. Guest (7), back.

Umpires—Mr. Earl Hopping and Mr. William Post.

Referee—Colonel Lockett.

Baseball Omitted From Hsinking Games

There will be no baseball in the Japan, Manchoukuo, China athletic games to be held at Hsinking in the Fall because of the inability of the Tokyo Six University league to send a team.

Because the Meiji Shrine games will start on October 29, the indications are that the Fall season of the Tokyo Six University league will commence a week earlier than originally scheduled, or on September 2.

SELKIRK HITS 2 HOMERS AS YANKEES WIN

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 29—The Yankees needed some runs in their farewell appearance at the Stadium yesterday against the hapless Athletics, and they went right out and got they through their favorite medium—home runs.

Twinkletoes George Selkirk hit two on successive trips to the plate, making four circuit blows for him in the last two contests. The old spark plug, Will Dickey, also drove one after twelve futile trips to the plate in five games.

The rest of Marse Joe McCarthy's boys entered into the spirit of the occasion, to the chagrin of three Philadelphia hurlers and of the venerable Cornelius McGillicuddy. The upshot of it all was a Yankee victory by 9 to 5 that swept the four-game series, stretched the current victory string to five straight, made it eight in a row this season over the Mackmen and thrilled 14,670 perspiring fans.

CHAMPIONS GET TWELVE HITS

A round dozen hits the Yankees struck in a pleasing exhibition of clubbing force. Under protection of this fire, the right-handed Atley Donald glided safely to his fourth victory in a campaign that, as yet, sees his record unblemished.

Donald needed the explosive force of the Yankees siege guns. He got himself 3 down in the second, when Bill Nagel slammed a homer into the left-field stand after which a pass, three successive singles and Selkirk's error gave the enemy two more runs.

The Athletics tallied another in the fourth on a single, a pass and a double, before the Bronx clubbers really hit their stride. After the fifth, however, there was nothing to it.

Dickey's towering homer came with two out in the third to fashion the first Yankee run. Came the fourth and, in a merry parade around the bases, Selkirk walked, Joe Gordon and Babe Dahlgren singled to fill the bases, and Donald rammed a single to right, driving in two, before Lynn Nelson was able to get a man out.

ROLFE CLOUTS TWO-BAGGER

Franklin Crosetti sacrificed and Red Robert Rolfe bounded a double off the left-field concrete to score two. Then Tommy Henrich chased Rolfe in with a single that also chased Nelson.

Robert E. Joyce got the side out on a double play, but in the fifth Selkirk nudged his eighth homer of the campaign into the lower right-field stand with two out. After the Mackmen had pried Donald loose from another run in the seventh on two singles and a sacrifice fly, Selkirk came right back in the Yankee half to pole his ninth homer into the right-field stand in the wake of a pass to Dickey.

This blow induced Joyce's extraction for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, and Nelson Potter was sent in to finish in the Yankee half. By that time the champions were tired and were hustling for the train that was to take them gayly off to Boston for three meetings with the second-place Red Sox, whom they lead by five and one-half games.

Lou Gehrig Refires From Major Leagues

Lou Gehrig, who on May 2 put a halt to his amazing consecutive playing record of 2,134 games over 15 years with the New York Yankees, tendered his resignation to President Edward Barrow on June 21, according to a Domei dispatch.

Gehrig's retirement from baseball caused a sensation. He is 37 having joined the Yankee in 1925 upon his graduation from Columbia University.

On his own request, Gehrig absented himself from the Yankees' line-up on May 2 in the game against the Detroit Tigers because of a slump. Since then, he had been on the bench, hoping to round into form, but an examination at the Mayo Clinic recently revealed that he was suffering from infantile paralysis, which caused him to quit.

For years, he and the famous Babe Ruth comprised the home run hitting pair for the Yankees. He lashed out a total of 449 homers during his career, 23 of them when the bases were loaded.

IRISH CHAMPS WIN, 10 TO 8 AT NEW YORK

By JOSEPH M. SHEEHAN

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK May 29—Reversing the result of their previous meeting here, Galway's All-Ireland champions vanquished Kerry, 10 to 8, in the resumption of their transplanted Gaelic football rivalry before a crowd of 12,000 at the Polo Grounds yesterday. The game was as torrid as the weather, with Galway coming from behind in the last fifteen minutes to win.

It was the unerring toe of a Kerryman, of all peole, that enabled Galway to avenge its setback of two weeks ago and, incidentally, capture the James Reeves Trophy, put up for the triangular round-robin competition among the two Irish teams and the New York selected squad, which Kerry will face tomorrow at the Yankee Stadium in the finale of the tour.

DASHING ALL-AROUND PLAY

For none other than John Flavin, Kerry born and Kerry bred, but a Galway standard-bearer by virtue of his attendance at that country's university, directly spelled the downfall of the team from his county with five free kicks for points and indirectly aided his adopted cause by some dashing all-around play.

The chunky, dark-haired Flavin, a tireless little power house, made two of his points in the first half, which ended with Kerry in front, 6—5, and in the second period supplied the markers which tied the count at 6—6 and again at 7—7 and which finally put Galway into a lead, at 8—7, which it never relinquished.

Unlike their game of a fortnight ago, when both teams were obviously suffering the effects of their voyage across, this battle was waged at a terrific tempo from start to finish. The kicking, passing and tackling were brilliant to behold throughout and the lively closing minutes were further enlivened by several minor outbreaks of fisticuffing on the field.

KERRY MAKES FAST START

Kerry, starting fast, drew away into a 5-0 lead on points by Charlie O'Sullivan and Martin Kelly and Kelly's goal, made on his bat-in of a kick from the right by Pat Brosnan. Galway tied the count on two frees by Flavin and Brandon Nestor's goal, on which the Galway forward bowled over Goalie Sheehy.

A free by Kelly gave Kerry its one-point half-time edge. Then, Flavin went to work. After he had put Galway in the lead for the first time Charlie Connelly and Jack Dunne added points by way of settling the issue for once and for all.

In the preliminary hurling game, Tipperary defeated Offaly, 19 to 13. The victors made five goals and four points, while the losers registered four goals and one point. Tipperary, off to a fast start, led at the half, 11—6, and kept on top throughout the well-played contest, which was marked by heavy casualties on both sides.

The Gaelic football line-up:

33,538 SEE CARDS SPLIT WITH REDS

ST. LOUIS, May 28—The Cardinals snapped Cincinnati's string of twelve straight victories by winning the first game of today's doubleheader, 6 to 5, but yielded, 8 to 4, in the nightcap before the biggest St. Louis crowd in two years.

The 33,538 spectators were thrilled by the opener, but had little to cheer about in the second game, in which Paul Derringer, ex-Cardinal right-hander, pitched shut-out ball for seven innings behind an 8-0 lead.

The Reds victory, their third in four games of the series, enabled them to hold their lead in the National League pennant chase.

In the first game, Curt Davis posted his sixth straight victory and his seventh of the season by gaining the edge on Johnny (Double No-Hit) Vander Meer, who was beaten for the second time this year. Johnny struck out seven men, all in the first four innings, but he dealt out nine passes.

After a seesaw struggle which was tied up by Frank McCormick's home run in the fifth, the Cards finally won in the sixth on a double by Jimmy Brown and a single by Pepper Martin.

Derringer allowed ten hits, but matched Vander Meer in strikeouts, and did not yield the last five blows until the Reds had all of their eight runs.

Lonnie Frey, a St. Louis boy, celebrated "Frey day" by slamming out a home run with one on in the second inning of the nightcap.

Miss Fischer Sets U.S. Swim Record

N.Y. Times.

NEW YORK, May 29—Miss Lorraine Fischer, New York University captain and metropolitan senior champion, made a new American long-course record for the 50-yard breast-stroke when she won that event in the fine clocking of 0:35.7 at the opening outdoor A. A. U. swimming meet conducted in the pool of the Ostend Beach Club, Far Rockaway, yesterday.

The 50-yard test was keenly waged, Miss Fischer beating Miss Harriet Taylor by a margin of five feet. Both represented the Women's Swimming Association. Miss Fischer's time bettered the old standard of 0:36.5, established on May 14, 1937, by Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson.

There were four events on the program, all for women. In the 100-yard back-stroke Miss Jeanne Laupheimer of the St. George Dragons, national outdoor ruler, touched home five yards ahead of Miss Lillian McArdle, unattached. The time was 1:16.

An upset occurred in the invitation high board fancy dive, in which Miss Anne Ross of the St. George Dragons scored a total of 67.90 points to defeat her cluubmate, Miss Helen McHale, New York State indoor and outdoor and metropolitan indoor titleholder. In the most thrilling race of the card Miss Mildred O'Donnell of the W.S.A. conquered the metropolitan champion, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, also of the W.S.A., by a touch in the century free style. The time was 1:06.8.

THE SUMMARIES

100-Yard Back-Stroke—Won by Miss Jeanne Laupheimer, St. George Dragons; Miss Lillian McArdle, unattached, second; Miss Jean West, St. George Dragons, third. Time—1:16.

50-Yard Breast-Stroke—Won by Miss Lorraine Fischer, W. S. A.; Miss Harriet Taylor, W. S. A., second; Miss Adri Van Leewen, Park Central A.A., third. Time—0:35.7. (New American long course record; old mark, 0:36.5, made by Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson, May 14, 1937).

Invitation High Board Fancy Dive—Won by Miss Anne Ross, St. George Dragons (67.90); Miss Helen McHale, St. George Dragons (59.30), second.

100-Yard Free Style—Won by Miss Mildred O'Donnell, W. S. A.; Miss Elizabeth Ryan, W. S. A., second; Miss Sue Hernstorf, Shelton Dolphins, third. Time—1:06.8.

U.S. Victory in Olympics Predicted by Robertson

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, May 28—The United States should win the track and field championship at the 1940 Olympics at Helsingfors, predicted Lawson Robertson, veteran University of Pennsylvania and American Olympic track coach, at the School of Sports of the World's Fair yesterday. He declared that "Germany and Finland will probably provide the United States with the most opposition in the quadrennial games."

Robertson was one of three prominent coaches to take over the teaching duties at the Court of Sport. More than 500 lads listened attentively and watched as Dean Cromwell, head mentor of the invading University of Southern California track team, and Harry Hillman of Dartmouth, as well as Robertson, discussed all phases of the sport and gave demonstrations.

Hillman lectured on hurdling, Cromwell delivered a general talk on track and field, and the subject of sprinting was treated by Robertson.

BRITISH UNHAPPY OVER SETBACK SUFFERED BY DAVIS CUP TEAM

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Times, London

BERLIN, June 4—Another British Davis Cup team went down before Germany on the inexorable center-court of the Rot-Weiss Club in Berlin today, and what a miserable tumbling of hopes we have had. I always was a fight against heavy odds, but with C. E. Hare injured—and he was the mainspring of the side—it was never a fight at all, and, at the suspended moment of history, how the many British visitors must have wished that the place and manner of the defeat could have been different. The end came abruptly this afternoon with the doubles, in which L. Shaffi had to take Hare's place; Germany won both singles yesterday and so, without losing a set, take their place in the European final for a fifth year running.

"There is only one sword, you know," said Tweedledum, "but you can have the umbrella," and that was the position of the German team when Hare, on the eve of the match, was crippled by a strained back muscle. At first sight it seemed unwise that he should have come out at all against R. Menzel in the opening single, since he could hardly move about and had to retire after two pitiful sets. So much comment has been made on the fact that a substitute was not played that it may be as well to state the position clearly. Had this course been followed Hare would have been out of the contest for good and all, and the British captain had medical opinion for supposing that the trouble might quickly yield to treatment. He was assured, indeed, that an injection before the match would kill the pain for an hour, and though it was very evident that it did not, the situation, wretchedly unlucky, had to be accepted, since there was always the chance that Hare would have recovered by today.

R. A. Shays, without any physical disability, could make hardly a better showing against H. Henkel, who won by 6-2, 6-3, 6-1, and, as figures must be given, Henkel and G. von Metaxa beat F. H. D. Wilde and Shaffi by 6-4, 6-2, 6-2. "I saw Perry and Austin play here and they were first claass," said a German visitor on leaving the ground, and, remembering the British team's handicap of having to play on a slow hard court so soon after their victory over France at Wimbledon that innocent remark says a good deal. For the rest, a tribute is due to a German audience for the dignified manner in which they accepted these sorry events. They must have been a bitter disappointment to people who seemed to wish for nothing more than some good lawn tennis—and, of course, a victory for the Greater Reich. The stands were packed both days in a beautiful sunny setting and, so far as this most international of games goes, no team could have wished for a friendlier or more sympathetic reception. The German team, I hear, are coming to Wimbledon for some practice on grass, in case, as seems likely, they carry the challenge for the Davis Cup across the Atlantic.

AN UNHAPPY MATCH

Little remains to be recorded of the Hare-Menzel match with which the contest opened yesterday—and it had promised at least a brave adventure in this green corner of Grunewald. Down in a hollow with the packed stands rising naturally on three sides was the Rot-Weiss center-court, a menace in itself for any British team with memories of what has happened there. As on similar occasions during the last 10 years the sun blazed down, a slight breeze whispered in the wood, and the tribune of honor glittered with uniforms. There was so much hidden significance about it all that suddenly this became more than a game of lawn tennis; it seemed imperative that, win or lose, the British team should put up a fight. The players came in to a perfunctory burst of applause, and it was at once apparent to anyone who knows him that things were far from well with Hare. He hit two forehand winners off Menzel's service as a gesture of what might have been, but he was not running, and though he made what strokes he could standing still he could neither get round properly on the backhand nor swing into his serve. As for the volleys, the ringing challenge by which Hare lives, he made only one during the whole match—and it was neither whole nor a match. This, indeed, was a sickening blow for the British cause and not much fun for the Germans. Surely this exhibition of helplessness must have looked grotesque and altogether unnecessary to anyone unaware of the circumstances, and judging from the gasps of astonishment around me a good many people were. The games slipped away mercilessly, with Hare serving double faults and winning hardly an ace in any of them. Menzel, a towering, ominous figure, who looked as crestfallen as Hare—a giant denied his prey—had nothing to do, though sometimes he had to scuttle for a corner and we saw what might have happened. The languorous voice of the umpire droned on; Hare, in pain and always a gallant trier when he could reach the ball, actually won a game after losing nine, but Menzel, his topped drives raking the line, went out with the second set in another love game, and then came the announcement that Hare, who had done his best in distressing circumstances, had retired.

Already our brave hopes were dashed, the British team heading for calamity. The wish was then so strong that Shayes might beat Henkel and so at least keep the tie alive that he may have appeared to play worse than he actually did as Henkel, a little like Menzel before him, began to reel off game after game in the first set. Shayes was the player we know so well, full of adventurous volleys and drives, but so many more loose ones for no good reason. More than that, he insisted in playing his approach shots to the backhand corner when it was very evident that Henkel's forehand is still a far less reliable stroke. The court, let alone Henkel, was against Shayes, who likes plenty of pace and a fast surface for the simple reason that he does little more than block the ball back, for all the elegance of his flourish. The truth was that Henkel, cleverly mixing his pace, was in another class, though he himself began to fall into loose habits as the match turned into a massacre. His service alone, with a first ball as fast as his second was slow, gave Shayes a pretty problem; his return of service on the forehand is still his greatest weakness.

DOUBLE FAULTS

It can have been far from easy to come out to this match, and there were moments when he was playing on level terms. With Henkel at 5-0 in the first set, for instance, he saved three set balls in a row and served out the game. There was another set ball saved and a game won with a grand little drop volley, but there was a double fault in the next game, and that really was a double fault in the next game, and that really was too much. These double faults began to be nerve-wracking—three of them in a love game when Shayes first served in the second set. By now Henkel knew all about the angles of his adversary's cross volleys, and on his court was on to them in a flash, so that he was often passing Shayes by half the court's width. There were drop shots off the service, too, that reminded one of the final he played in Paris against Austin, and it was Henkel, with so much more control and sagacity in making openings, who won most of the rallies there were. Shayes missed whatever chance he had when he served at 40-15 for three-all in this second set and lost, and again there was a double fault. One has noticed before how freely he squanders game points, as though his concentration had snapped. Losing his service from 40-love when he opened the third set was as good as the end. Shayes had done what he could, but the truth of it was that Henkel was far too good.

So far it has been a doleful narrative, and the last episode, apart from tomorrow's formalities, was enacted today. The news that Hare was unable to take his place at doubles was really tantamount to giving Germany the match, for Henkel and Metaxa are at least a pair, and Wimbledon finalists to boot. Yet the interest taken here in the engagement has been so great the stands again were crowded and there was the faint chance that Wilde and Shaffi might go mad. Very soon it was only too clear that, strive as they might, they were playing as two individuals fighting a lost cause. At first it was a tonic indeed to see them winning their service to love to keep in the lead in the first set. Wilde, too, was trapping Metaxa with his little half volleys up the alley, and Shaffi, running for everything, could kill his smashes with the best of them. But Shaffi, constantly at a loss about taking a lob return of service, lost his serve in the seventh game, and right through the three sets there was to be no breaking the German service. Henkel kept the ball slow and awkward, Metaxa, playing Hare's part with the unexpected angles of a left-hander, served aces, and the longer it went on the clearer it became that the British players were no pair. Sometimes we had rousing interceptions from Wilde when Shaffi got in his first serve. Wilde hardly did so at all, and, apparently discouraged with it all, lost his service twice in both the second and third sets. Henkel, with his eye for the openings and murderous volleys, was the German force; Shaffi, who is not a doubles player and has a lot of trouble with his backhand returns, kept on trying to the end; but a miracle was really too much to look for. He and Wilde were being moved out of position with almost amusing ease, and we could only hope that some of their predicaments were not looked upon as normal Anglo-Saxon attitudes, as the White King called them. What a week-end!

Kawakami Leads Hitting in Pro Loop

Tetsuji Kawakami, pitcher and infielder of the Tokyo Giants, is leading the parade for the best hitter in the professional baseball league.

In Friday's game at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka, Kawakami lashed out three hits out of four trips to the plate as the Giants beat the Eagles 5 to 1. By this, he increased his hits to 22 out of 44 times at bat in 11 games for a .500 mark.

The averages of the other leaders follow:

GIANTS BEAT PHILLIES BY 7-5 COUNT

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, May 29—Reluctantly, the Giants departed from Shibe Park today with a three-game winning streak and fond memories of Philadelphia pitchers. Completing the sweep of the series with a 7-to-5 decision, the Terrymen would have enjoyed lingering a while longer, but they recalled an important date at home with the Dodgers tomorrow and in fairness to the rest of the league moved on to the Polo Grounds.

Taking the finale wasn't altogether an easy task and there was a certain amount of tenseness, but all's well that ends well, and Manuel Salvo, who relieved Slick Castleman after four innings, hung up his second victory of the campaign as Lefty Al Hollingsworth suffered his sixth successive setback. Jennings Poindexter, another southpaw, appeared in the sixth and did fine work thereafter, but it was all in vain.

BONURA BATS IN FINAL RUN

A pair of three-run innings, starring Harry Danning and Zeke Bonura, turned the trick for the Giants. The first outburst came in the third and the next in the sixth, at a point when the team were deadlocked at 3—all. After the Phillies had made it close, Bonura doubled home Danning, who had walked in the ninth just to make sure.

The Phillies broke into the scoring column in the second. Morrie Arnovich walked and reached second on Johnny Watwood's grounder to Bonura, who bobbled a double-play ball but recovered in time to retire Watwood. Del Young then lined a single to right center and Arnovich crossed the plate.

This advantage, however, lasted only until the Giants came to bat in the third. Aided slightly by some inept fielding, the Terrymen then counted three times.

Castleman started things moving with a single to center. Young booted Bob Seeds's double-play ball and both were safe.

ARNOVICH DRIVES SINGLE

Even then Hollingsworth might have escaped, as Bill Jurges bounced to Emmett Mueller, who also fumbled, and instead of a twin killing had to be content with a force play at second. Then Danning drove home the tying run with a hit to center, Jurges going to third and the batter to second on the throw-in. Mel Ott's sacrifice fly scored Jurges and Bonura's bingle to left pushed Danning over the plate.

After working his way out of trouble in the second and third, Castleman yielded another run in the fourth. Singles by Arnovich and Watwood and a sacrifice fly by Young did the damage. Seeds took Spud Davis's liner to left with his back against the wall to end the threat.

Therry, however, took no further risk and when the Phillies came to bat in the fifth Salvo was on the mound. The newcomer allowed the home team to tie it up, but it was not all his fault. With one out, Herschel Martin got an infield hit and went to second when Jurges's throw hit Burgess Whitehead's shoulder. Mueller fanned, but Gibby Brack's single brought about a deadlock, though the run was unearned.

Short-lived was the tie, for the Terrymen pounced on Hollingsworth for four hits and three runs in the sixth as singles by Tony Lazzeri, Whitehead and Seeds and a double by Danning routed the southpaw. Poindexter fanned Ott to retire the side.

A terrific smash off Lazzeri's shins by Merrill May, following a pass to Martin and Arnovich's infield hit, gave the Phillies two runs in the seventh as May pulled up at second. But Salvo kept the tying run on second, retiring Watwood on any easy roller to Whitehead.

Kongo Favored to Beat Ishida Monday Night

Takehiko Ishida, up and coming bantamweight of the Shinko Boxing Club who will shortly enter the naval service, will take on Iwao Kongo, king of the flyweights, in an eight round bout on Monday night at Hibiya Park outdoor auditorium.

It will be a return bout and a chance for Ishida to score revenge. He can do it if he cleverly counterpunches the always boring in Kongo. But the latter only recently registered a one-sided victory over Shoichi Otsu, the recognized bantamweight champion, and is favored to win.

CZECH NET STAR BEATEN IN DEBUT IN U.S.

By ALLISON DANZIG

N.Y. Times

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., May 28—Ladislav Hecht's first venture on American turf ended unsuccessfully today as the former Czechoslovak Davis Cup player was eliminated in the second round of the invitation tournanment at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club.

Martin Buxby of Miami, a youth who has never attained a place in the top ten but has humbled more than one rival in that category, defeated the newcomer from overseas, 6—1, 7—5. The change from the hard courts of the Englewood Field Club to turf undoubtedly had a disturbing effect on Hecht's game, and the extremely warm weather apparently was not to his liking. But Hecht was beaten by a better player this afternoon, at least by a player who was better for the day. Buxby had all of Hecht's virtuosity from the backhand and a definite superiority in accuracy from the forehand.

The Miami youth gave away almost nothing on inexcusable errors. He played with his head to capitalize every opening and his resort to drop shots was uniformly successful. It was one of Buxby's best performances, an exhibition of sustained control and discriminating choice of shots. The pressure was too much for Hecht.

GAINS QUARTER-FINALS

Buxby's victory placed him in the quarter-finals, where he is bracketed with Frank Shields, the stalwart New Yorker who caused a sensation in the Forest Hills stadium last year by hammering out the first two sets against John Bromwich of Australia. They will meet tomorrow morning at 11:30.

Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., the top favorite, John Hope Doeg, national champion in 1930, and Frank Bowden advanced to the semi-final round. Tomorrow afternoon Sabin will play Doeg at 2:30 and later in the afternoon Bowden will meet the winner of the Shields-Buxby match.

Sabin, victor over Hecht in the Englewood final, played through three rounds to catch up with the field. The dark-haired youth from the Far West, made short work of the opposition, dropping only four games all day. In the quarter-finals he faced J. Norman Anderson, who was full of fight after his victory of Saturday over J. Gilbert Hall, and he attacked so mercilessly that the young Dartmouth graduate lost all control and yielded at 6—1, 6—1.

SUTTER IS ELIMINATED

Doeg, who is back in the tennis picture this season after an absence of seven years, put out Clifford Sutter, another former high-ranking player rarely seen of late on the courts. It was a closely fought match in which Doeg's powerful, sharp-breaking service gave him the upper hand to win at 6—3, 5—7, 7—5. In the final set Doeg led 5—1, at 5—2 and 30—0. Then he wavered and Sutter scored in brilliant return of service and passing shots. It was not until Sutter had taken 15 points in a row, to reach 5—all and 40—0, that the Californian recovered.

Gilbert Hunt of Washington, D. C., ninth in the ranking, was to have met Doeg in the quarter-finals, but defaulted owing to the fact that he has to take examinations tomorrow for a master's degree. Bowden, after a two-and-a-half-hour battle with Chauncey Depew Steele Jr., in which the last two games required a total of 58 points, eliminated Edward De Gray to gain the semi-finals.

In an exhibition match Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, who sails on Tuesday for France, played with Shields. They lost the first set to Miss Katharine Winthrop of Boston and Hall, 8—6, and won the second and last set 6—3.

REDS DEFEAT CUBS, 6 TO 3 FOR 14TH WIN

N.Y. Times

CINCINNATI, May 29—Lee Grissom held the Cubs to five hits today as the Reds, with a five-run splurge in the eighth, won, 6 to 3, for their fourteenth victory in fifteen starts.

Gabby Hartnett, Chicago manager, said the latter half of the game was played under protest against an umpire's decision.

Cincinnati got to General Bill Lee, Earl Whitehill and Jack Russell for ten blows. The first four rounds found Lee and Grissom in a tight duel, Frenchy Bordagaray's third-inning single and Bill Herman's triple in the next frame being the first hits for the respective sides.

HARTNETT HITS HOMER

Hartnett drove a ball against the side of a passing truck, some 400 feet from the plate, for a home run in the fifth. Then, in the last half of the inning, he engaged in futile harangue against a decision of Umpire George Magerkurth that held Ernie Lombardi safe at second on a double. The Cub pilot then decided to play the remainder of the game under protest.

Bordagaray opened the Reds' eighth inning with a single. On Bill Myers's sacrifice, the throw to second was too late and both runners were safe. Bordagaray was forced at third when Lee purposely dropped Grissom's pop bunt. Bill Werber singled to center, scoring Myers. Grissom came home when Linus Frey's long drive hit the screen.

Whitehill then replaced Lee. Ival Goodman forced Werber at the plate but Frey came home on a wild pitch. On Dick Bartell's low throw, Goodman scored and McCormick was safe at first. After Lombardi singled, Jack Russell came to the mound. Harry Craft singled, scoring McCormick.

Hartnett announced after the game the acquisition from Philadelphia of Pitcher Claude Passeau in a straight trade for Outfielder Joe Marty and Pitchers Walter Higbe and Ray Harrell.

Passeau finished the 1935 season with the Pirates and had been with the Phillies since 1936. Last year he won eleven and lost eighteen games for an earned run average of 4.52.

Hartnett had conducted long negotiations with the Philadelphia club in an effort to bolster the Cub pitching staff, further weakened by Clay Bryant's sore arm.

MARTY IN BATTING SLUMP

Marty was a batting sensation in the 1938 World Series and in Spring training, but slumped after the opening day and has only ten hits this season. His current batting average is .132, compared with .243 last year.

Higbe, up from Birmingham last year, and Harrell, obtained from the Cardinals during the Winter, were of little help to the Cubs, although Higbe won two games and lost one for them this season.

By trading Marty, the Cubs became temporarily short of able-bodied outfielders, but Passeau gives them four pitchers classified as regular starters. Bill Lee, Dizzy Dean and Larry French are the others.

KYLE CONSIDERED WORTHY WINNER OF BRITISH AMATEUR GOLF PLAY

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Observer

LONDON June 4—"Did the best man win the Amateur Championship?" is a question that has been repeatedly asked since Alexander Kyle's victory at Hoylake, a week ago. The simple answer is that he beat James Bruen, the Irish youth, the strongest favorite for the title since the spacious days of R. T. Jones. Moreover, on the same day Kyle went on to defeat W. Holt, the last of the Americans, and on form the best of them, not even excepting Yates, the deposed champion. Kyle thus reaped a just reward for what, undoubtedly, was the outstanding achievement of the championship.

All along I maintained that the player who could beat Bruen would win the title; and so it turned out. Kyle is a worthy champion, but I am not at all convinced that he would repeat his success over Bruen if they met again. While not attempting to belittle Kyle's triumph, I cannot possibly imagine any player saving himself repeatedly by brilliant, if not magical, recoveries, as he did in the match against the Irish boy. Though extremely fortunate to hole so many putts just when necessary Kyle's pluck and tenacity in the vital moments of the match could not be questioned.

In a long experience of matches played in all manner of circumstances and conditions, I have never wintessed a more superb display of determination and cool courage. Out of the rough, sometimes nearly knee deep, came the ball, and down went the putt, a tantalising, if not a heart-breaking experience for any opponent. In some respects it reminded me of Walter Hagen's last round of Open Championship on the same course, fifteen years ago, which he won by a stroke from E. R. Whitcombe.

IN IT WENT

In the last nine holes particularly, Hagen was scarcely ever on the course, and yet with the aid of his mashie-niblick, now in my possession, and putter he somehow got the figures. As in the case of Kyle, he had a putt of from six to seven feet on the last green to win, and in it went.

As revealed in the championships, Kyle has no peer when it comes to the short game, and it is an interesting feature of his technique in this department that he uses almost exclusively the broad-soled, sand-wedge club in preference to the sharp-edged series of niblicks. The former slides over the turf, while the latter cuts into it. Whatever there may be in the claim that the flange-soled club gives better result, it is certain that no one is more skilful in the execution of chip shots and short pitches than Kyle.

The same can also be said of his putting, though Bruen, Duncan, and the two Americans, Chapman and Holt, putted equally as well. To go through the week of a championship without taking three putts more than about half a dozen times is a remarkable feat, one that entitles Kyle to take his place among the great putters of the game.

The new champion's putting style is a little uncommon in that he stands very wide, grips low down on the shaft, and takes the club straight back on a rising plane. The latter is the most unusual feature, and is opposed to the method employed by all the acknowledged masters, which is the keeping of the clubhead as close to the turf as possible throughout the swing. Putting as successfully as he does, it would be madness on the part of Kyle to change his style because it does not conform to accepted principles.

In any case, what on earth does it matter how one putts, so long as the ball goes in. Many distinguished professionals would gladly give their ears to putt half as well as the amateur champion. Kyle's method of holding the club well down the shaft is not confined solely to the putter; the grip is more or less the same with every club. A better balance, better control of swing, and a quicker snap of the wrists at impact are often claimed for this form of grip.

"Why not have shorter clubs, as in the case of the Whitcombes?" is the obvious retort. But in Kyle's case the "balance" of the club would be destroyed if the shaft were shortened. Properly balanced clubs, with the correct degree of "whip" in the shaft are essential to the equipment of any first-class player. Anyhow, Kyle has developed a technique all his own, which has been good enough to win him the championship. What more does any golfer desire?

A WEEK-END PLAYER

As an amateur, Kyle fulfils the strictest interpretation that the term implies. Working 5½ days a week at his job as a textile designer in a Leeds woolen mill, he is purely a week-end golfer. As others are more fortunate in the matter of opportunities for taking part in competitive golf, all the more credit is due to Kyle in his triumph.

That it was not altogether a surprise was shown by his sterling performance both in last year's Walker Cup trials and the match itself. Going to St. Andrews practically unknown, he went away, having helped Great Britain to beat America for the first time, with a reputation as a golfer, in the first flight of amateurs. Kfle is certain of his place in the British team, which next year goes to the United States to defend the Cup.

Bruen is another certainty for the team. Though naturally disappointed at being frustrated in his attempt to win the title at the first time of asking, he need have no apprehensions, for there is plenty of time ahead in which to achieve his ambition. I am of the opinion that he lost the championship at the first hole in his match against Kyle. In cutting the corner too fine, Bruen went out of bounds, and for the first time against any opponent he was one down. From that moment his game was entirely different from what it had always been; he was on the defensive instead of attacking.

Such a judge of the game as Cotton, who saw all the match regarded Bruen's defeat as purely accidental; indeed that the better player lost. Cotton even goes so far as to say that it is not possible to measure the limits of Bruen's future in the game; he has only to go to St. Andrews and "keep his head," to win the Open Championship. This is a big thing to say, particularly with Cotton himself and all the other professional giants in the field.

"Keeping his head" does not imply that Bruen is likely to be seized with panic; rather does it mean that he should play his own game and ignore completely what other people are doing. There can be no sounder advice, but, as everybody knows who has played in a championship, and with a chance of winning, it is the most difficult thing in the world to follow. There is this to be said for Bruen that, for a youth of nineteen, he is the coolest customer I have ever met on the links, not excepting the maestro Jones.—M. W.

Arizaka Leads In Figure Skating

Takasuke Arizaka of Meiji University virtually clinched the title for men the first All-Kanto figure skating meet Sunday at the Sanoo rink by emerging with an impressive lead in the school figures. He scored 611.3 points as contrasted with 492.7 points by Tatsuo Kobayashi, also of Meiji, for second place.

Miss Tomiyo Sato of Bunka Gakuin placed highest among four women competitors with 425.2 points.

The free skating competition was to be held today at 7 p.m. at the same rink.

MISS JACOBS WINS IN ENGLAND

The Times, London

LONDON, June 2—Miss H. Jacobs won her first tournament in the Midlands yesteray by beating Mrs. R. Ellis in the final of the women's singles in the Priory tournament at Birmingham by 6-3, 6-3. This was the third time this season that Mrs. Ellis has been beaten in the final match. She was very careless all through yesterday, for she had any number of chances of winning points and games from well-made openings. Miss Jacobs did most of the running in the first set, and her retrieving was excellent. She was particularly strong on the backhand. Mrs. Ellis made two bad mistakes at 3-all in the first set, giving Miss Jacobs the important seventh game, and led 2-0 in the second set, but after 2-all it was virtually over.

Kho Sin Kie, by beating C. Tanasescu, of Rumania, won the singles for the third consecutive year, and thus made the challenge bowl his own property. As usual, he began slowly, whereas Tanasescu jumped into his game straightaway. Tanasescu led 5-1 in the first set and took the next game after Kho had been 40-love. Kho led 4-1 in the second set, but Tanasescu, showing great agility and volleying well, got to 5-4. He was within two points of the match, but Kho went off like a rocket and won this set and the next. Then Kho, partnered by R. J. Ritchie, strained his back in the final of the doubles and had to retire to the New Zealanders, D. C. Coombe and C. E. Malfory.

RESULTS

SINGLES—Final Round—Kho Sin Kie beat C. Tanasescu (1—6, 7—5, 6—2).

WOMEN'S SINGLES—Final Round—Miss H. H. Jacobs beat Mrs. R. Ellis (6—3, 6—3).

DOUBLES — Final Round — D. C. Coombe and C. E. Malfroy beat Kho Sin Kie and R. J. Ritchie (6—0, 1—0, retired).

WOMEN'S DOUBLES—Final Round—Mrs. R. Ellis and Miss H. H. Jacobs beat Mrs. D. F. Cartwright and Mrs. D. L. Little (6—4, 6—2).

MIXED DOUBLES—Final Round—C. Tanasescu and Mrs. R. Ellis w.o., Kho Sin Kie and Mrs. D. F. Cartwright scratched.

PICARD WINS N.Y. OPEN GOLF TITLE

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON

N.Y. Times

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 29—The metropolitan open golf championship, which had been going on since last Thursday, what with a triple tie at the end of the regulation seventy-two holes, then a double tie in the first eighteen-hole play-off, was concluded today with Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., winner over Paul Runyan, Metropolis Club pro, by two strokes.

In the second play-off today over Runyan's home course, Picard gained his second leg on the famous thirty-two-year-old trophy when he shot the 6,800-yard course in 69 strokes as against a par 71 by the P.G.A. champion. His other triumph in the tournament came in 1935 at the Lakeville Club on Long Island.

Picard's game was perfection until near the end, when he bogied two holes. He had a 67 in sight until he missed the No. 16 green with his tee shot and took a 4. He three-putted the No. 18 green for a 5.

PREVIOUS BIRDIES THERE

It was a birdie 3 at the eighteenth on Saturday that got him into the triple tie with Runyan and Victor Ghezzi, the Deal professional, and it was another birdie that enabled him to tie Runyan in yesterday's play-off, in which each scored a 70.

However, the Pennsylvania pro was merely coasting in yesterday after Runyan's feeble 5 on the No. 17 hole, where he failed to reach the green on his approach shot, then stabbed a chip shot half way to the hole. Picard, with a tremendous drive that was a full fifty yards ahead of Runyan's tee shot, had a four-yard putt for a 3, which he missed and still had a three-stroke margin coming up to the last hole

It did not take long for one to realize what Runyan was up against in this concluding chapter of the thirty-second championship, for after he pulled his initial drive behind a tree and almost three-putting the first green from ten feet, Picard's golf was superb his driving being far and straight, his irons beautifully placed and his putting as good as could be expected.

LONG PUTT GOES DOWN

He had a two-stroke lead in the first two holes, raised it to three when he won the sixth hole with a twenty-five foot putt downhill, and from the side, and after twice dropping back to two, jumped it to a four-stroke advantage after playing the fourteenth.

Then he lost a stroke when Runyan holed a twenty-five-footer for a birdie 4, and when the Metropolis pro dropped another with an off-line shot to the short sixteenth, the possibility of another tie loomed. But the issue was decided on the No. 17 when Runyan took a 5 and Picard narrowly missed getting a birdie 3.

Up to the sixteenth, the only bogey Picard had in the round was on the seventh hole, where he pushed his drive to the side of a hill and sent his second shot into a bunker. Although he then came within four yards or so of the cup, he took two putts for a 5, which left him two strokes in front.

He regained the stroke on the next hole, however, when he jammed in a twenty-foot put for a birdie 3, but Runyan came right back by holing a ten-footer for a deuce on the ninth.

The next hole was one of the most spectacular in the match. Both hooked badly off the tee. Picard, who was away for one of the few times he had to play the odd, spanked a gorgeous iron that almost hit the flag-stick, the ball stopping five yards past the cup. Runyan was almost behind two towering trees and it seemed impossible for him to get anywhere near home with his second.

LOW SHOT AVOIDS BRANCHES

He made a great shot, however, a low-flying wood that sent his ball under the low-hanging branches and onto the front of the green, from where he almost holed out. Pars there left them exactly as they had been going to the third hole, with Picard two strokes to the good.

Two great belts with his woods, followed by a chip within less than a yard, yielded Picard a birdie 4 on the long eleventh, which had been a hard hole for him up to today, and put him three strokes in front. He got his par 4 on the fourteenth, while Runyan took a 5.

Another great shot in the match was Picard's second to the first green, for he was almost behind a tree and had to hook an iron around it in order to reach the green. The shot was perfectly executed, the ball stopping ten feet from the hole.

So magnificent was Picard's iron play that he was putting for birdies on each of the next five holes, although he got only two of them—on the second with a fifteen-footer downhill and on the sixth with his sensational twenty-five-footer.

Averill Is Sold To Detroit Tigers

Earl Averill, hard hitting outfielder of the Cleveland Indians, who visited Japan with the All-American team managed by Connie Mack and Babe Ruth four years ago, has been sold to the Detroit Tigers, according to a special dispatch to the Yomiuri.

Averill smashed several homers into the bleachers at the Meiji Shrine stadium while here. He bats from the left side of the plate.

Pitcher Eisenstat of the Tigers went to the Indians in the deal.

YANKEES ROUT RED SOX, 6-1 BEFORE 17,000

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

BOSTON, May 29—Varying the scene of their operations but not their method of performing them, the Yankees swooped down on Fenway Park today and promptly bowled over the rich Red Sox, 6 to 1, before the astonished gaze of a gathering of 17,000.

Just to keep the statistics straight, this was the sixth in a row for the Bronx Bombers and their eighteenth victory in their last nineteen starts. The New Yorkers now lead second-place Boston by six and a half games.

FIRST BOSTON INVASION

Bump Hadley handled the pitching chores in the Bombers' first game in this Athens of America this season. Bostonians took a look at the new Yankees and immediately decided that they were slightly more poisonous than the old Yankees.

For Hadley this was his fourth straight triumph. He allowed only three hits in seven inningss, but in the late stages of his tenure Bump had extreme difficulty in locating the plate

So Marse Joe McCarthy let him finish the seventh and summoned Johnny Murphy to complete the job, something Johnny did with considerable celerity and dispatch. The Yanks had only a five-run lead and there was no need to take chances.

In his last two innings Bump handed out five of the eight walks he issued and twice wriggled clear with the bases full and no run scored on him The only Boston run arrived in the second when the ebullient Ted Williams cracked a double to right and tallied on what was officially called an error by Babe Dahlgren.

TABOR SAFE ON ERROR

With two out in this frame Jim Tabor grounded to Frankie Crosetti, who hurried his throw and pulled Dahlgren off the bag. The Babe made a nice stop and an even nicer attempt to tag the Bostonian on the baseline, but the ball was knocked from his glove. He got the error and Williams got the run.

That marker merely tied things up, since in the Yankee half Joe Gordon had sent his sixth home run of the season screaming over the left field wall in the teeth of a gale. It was in the fifth, however, that the Yankees really went to work on Jim Bagby, the first of three Sox pitchers. Crosetti singled and Bill Dickey tripled off the right field fence, missing a homer by less than six inches.

After that Charlie Keller walked and the two Yanks on the bases perpetrated a double steal that poor fielding aided. George Selkirk also walked and Gordon's single made it three runs for the inning.

Two more came in the seventh when Tommy Henrich singled for the second of his three hits and Dickey strolled to first. An error and an infield out brought them the rest of the way around.

LOCKE DEFEATS WHITCOMBE IN GOLF PLAY

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Times, London

LONDON, June 2—A. D. Locke beat R. A. Whitcombe by six and five yesterday in their 72-hole match at Coombe Hill. For this young man, still only 21 though a seasoned warrior, to come here from South Africa, beard our Open champion, and beat him roundly is beyond all doubt a fine achivement. Locke observes all possible congratulations, the more so as he had not been at all well just before the match. It should be said, too, that there is no longer any cause for complaint, as there was last year, as to his slowness. He now plays the game as pleasantly and quickly as anyone could wish to see. It was a good win, but it was in no sense a great match. I do not know exactly what was lacking, but something emphatically was, and the crowd, not a very big one, though almost pathetically anxious to crow and cheer, could not whip themselves into enthusiam. Indeed, some of the spectators appeared more interested in the antics of the television wagons and cameras and other mysterious appurtenances, to say nothing of the agitated commentators, than they were in the play. There was something still born about this match, and that is all about it.

It was cold and windy when the morning round started and the wind still blew at the end though the sun had come through. It did not blow hard enough, however, to account for a number of really loose shots, and it must be set down in cold print that the play was not up to the expected standard. It is a mistake to pay too much attention to scores, but they do give a certain indication, and the fact that on this not very long course Locke gained three holes with a round of 74 is eloquent. In fact, Whitcombe, after getting a lead, threw away his chances with some really crooked tee shots and other mistakes. He was one up at the turn he lost no fewer than seven and that ought not to have happened. Locke began with some rather weak chipping which lost him a hole or two, but he took his chances when they were handed him prodigally on the way home.

OUT OF BOUNDS

Locke started the round two up, and one of those two disappeared when he went out of bounds at the second. Whitcombe missed a short putt to square at the fifth, and after some moderately good golf by both parties he did square at the eighth, where Locke was far too strong from the edge of the green. At the ninth Whitcombe chipped well from the near side of the green, Locke badly from the far side. Whitcombe holed his putt for 3 and took the lead. Now was his moment and he made sadly poor use of it. He cut his drive at the 10th, rather temerariously took a wooden club for his second, and hit a tree: all square. He bunkered his second at the 11th; one down. The 12th was halved, and Locke nearly holed a lovely run up to be two up at the next. Then he hooked out of bounds, leaving Whitcombe to win at his ease, but again he did not take advantage, and hit as big a slice as I ever saw at the 15th, actually on the far side of the belt of trees. He hooked into trouble at the 16th, and not only did Locke win both holes with well-played 4's, but he rubbed it in with a 2 at the 17th. Finally Whitcombe toook three putts at the 18th, and a calamitous nine holes ended with Locke five up. The scores were:

LOCKE
Out: 4, 6, 4, 5, 5, 3, 4, 5, 4.
Home: 4, 4, 3, 3, 6, 4, 4, 2, 4.

WHITCOMBE
Out: 4, 4, 4, 5, 5, 3, 4, 4, 3.
Home: 5, 5, 3, 4, 4, 5, 5, 4, 5.

Whitcombe must leap at his man from the word "go" and keep attacking him if he were to have any real chance, but in fact it was Locke who drew first blood, getting a 3 with a fine run up at the first. Another nail, and a great big one this, in the coffin. Whitcombe, after a bad drive, saved the second by holing from six or seven yards, and holed another long one, 10 yards this time, to win the third in a 3. He won the fourth as well, but there he stopped, for the fifth was halved and the short sixth has been Whitcombe's black beast among holes all the time. Never once has he been on the green; this time he went far over it, and Locke won in 3 to be five up again.

Locke was lucky to keep this lead at the eigth, where he was almost in the rhododendrons behind the green, but his ball lay in a passage between two clumps, and with a lovely downhill approach he got within 5ft. and holed his putt for a half. He did much the same thing at the ninth, and this time he won the hole. Six up with nine to play; it was all over bar the shouting. Whitcombe hooked at the 10th and lost it, the 11th was halved, Locke going far over the green, as he had done twice before as if in the exuberance of victory, but recovering with a deft chip He did it once too often and lost the 12th, but laid yet another of his run-up shots dead at the 13th and the match ended with a half in 3 and a rather spurious blaze of glory. Locke's score in the afternoon was three under 4's for 13 holes, very good golf indeed.

TILDEN IS HIT IN LONDON BY PERSONALITY

By AL LANEY

N.Y. Herald Tribune

LONDON, June 3—The professional tennis players seem to have found a happy hunting ground at last. They have just staged two tournaments in London within three weeks, one at the Olympia and the other at the Empire Pool, Wembley, and 25,000 turned out at $11 top and $2 bottom prices. And no British player competed in either. With Fred Perry there, they probably would have done better.

These were no exhibition matches. The boys were playing for cash, winner take half the pot, second, third and fourth compensated accordingly. The Wembley tournament, which was the beginning of a world tour for Budge, Vines, Tilden and Stoefen, was a remarkable affair in every way. It drew 16,000 in three nights to see four players, all foreigners, and left a handsome profit for the promoter after $5,000 in prize money had been distributed among Budge, Nusslein, Vines and Tilden. Budge, undefeated, won $2,500 first money; Nusslein, the only man to take a set from Budge, got second money, and Vines and Tilden split the rest

The three nights of play, in which each man met the three others, produced the best tennis it is possible to see at present, and the final between Budge and Nusslein was one of the finest tennis matches this observer has seen in more than twenty years of observing. The series firmly established Budge as the greatest player of the day, perhaps the greatest there ever has been.

EIGHT FINE MATCHES

Every one of the eight singles matches was a fine one and it was obvious to all who beheld that any one of these men, with the possible exception of Tilden, would win with ease in a field including all the best amateurs now competing.

And do not be too sure about Tilden either. The old guy was teriffic. He won only two sets in three matches, but he was the star of the show and his two sets were both against Vines and won the match. He may not have been, at his peak, the greatest player of them all. Some of those who saw Budge here were inclined to doubt it. But there can be no doubt about Tilden being the greatest star of all time and you can take any sport you like.

There always has been a good deal of the ham in Large William but you cannot get away from the fact that personality, like it or not, has lifted him onto a plane where he has plenty of room to move about. The place is practically untenated but for himself. Budge and Vines and Nusslein all are famous men but all rolled together they haven't got what the old guy has got. And they showed that they knew it. All they can do is beat him. They cannot ever be his equal.

Before Budge was born Tilden was a great player. He admits to forty-seven and maybe he is fifty. But anyhow the fire is still there and the cunning and the superlative showmanship that enables him to miss a smash with such an air that you are left with the impression that it has nothing to do with the passage of time and everything to do with the fact that the overhead lights simply must have unsighted him.

A PERSONALITY APART

You never hear of any one moking that excuse when Cochet, for instance, is caught that way. That simple fact shows clearly the degree of difference in the way in which these two great stars, who fought dozen of battle in their amateur days, impose their personolities upon the spectator.

Naturally Tilden is not the player, from the standpoint of execution, that he was, but like Pavlowa he remains the great artist long after the legs began to creak. Many can remember when Tilden used to hold five balls in his left hand, bang over four aces to win a game and then throw the fifth contemptuously over the net to his opponent. The time has long passed when he could do that, but the manner of doing it remains.

He came out to play Budge, the greatest player of the day, for the first time with the air of a master about to give a lesson to a promising pupil. He strode majestically into court and made you feel, in spite of yourself, a bit sorry for Budge. He scarcely could win any games at all, but through the match it was Tilden you were watching and not Budge. When it was over he strode off the court as though he were the victor.

The crowd thought Old William was great stuff, and he was, too. Actually, he didn't have a chance to beat anybody, but on the last night there he was out there giving away twenty years to Vines and beating him, outhitting the hardest hitter in the game. Yes, outhitting Vines. There, for an all too brief a spell, was the Tilden of fifteen years ago. He returned Vines's hardest serves with the old flat drive that was cracking once more like the explosion of a rifle at impact and he ran about like an eager schoolboy.

He couldn't have kept it up long. At any moment the ancient dogs might have crumbled under him. But he won two sets, 6—3, 10—8, and when he came safely past match point with as hard a forehand drive to the corner as any player ever made, they nearly tore the house down. They shouted and stamped on the floor and told him there was no one like him and never had been. They were right about that, too, and it was sweet music to the old gentleman's ears.

Tilden has made more money out of tennis in his time than any of these upstart business-man professionals, but they say he is broke now, willing to play anywhere for anything from fifty bucks up. So they're taking him along on this world tour they're starting. They should be glad he's going along because they're lucky to have him. Even if he never wins a match from any of them he will carry his weight as well as the next one. Maybe better. The old guy is not through yet by a long shot.

JOHNSTOWN WINS BELMONT STAKES BY 5 LENGTHS AS 20,000 LOOK ON

By MURRAY TYNAN

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, June 4—A great three-year-old added another lustrous jewel to his crown on a perfect afternoon at Belmont Park yesterday when William Woodward's Johnstown won the seventy-first running of the classic Belmont Stakes with the same ease and precision that marked his glorious triumph in the Kentucky Derby, the Withers and other races this season. Sprinting into the lead before he and his five rivals had run a sixteenth of a mile, Big John led from start to finish and at the end of his journey of one mile and one-half was five lengths ahead of A. C. Bostwick's Belay, which came up at the end to defeat Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Gilded Knight for second money.

This running of America's only counterpart of the English Derby, a gallop that was planned with the idea of bringing out the slightest flaw in a thoroughbred, offered little in the way of competition to the son of Jamestown that the turf is now prepared to crown as king and ruler of his division. Yet it was a stirring spectacle every foot of the way.

20,000 SEE CONTEST

A crowd of 20,000 racegoers watched Johnstown crack J. E. Widener's Knickerbocker before they reached the first sixteenth pole, then go under double wraps in complete oblivion of the horses that were struggling and gasping to follow his swift flight.

If you saw Johnstown win the Wood Memorial, if you followed him to the Derby, and then caught him in the Withers last weekend you have a pretty good idea of how he won this race. The track was lightning fast, which suited him perfectly, and he won exactly as he scored his other triumphs. There never was a moment of doubt or those who know the action of a horse, although there were some who might have had the idea that Gilded Knight were coming up for a challenge as they swung around the last turn. The Knight was dying there after giving up all he had in the first ten furlongs.

As to the facts of the race Johnstown ran the distance in 2:29 3-5, one full second behind the track record set by War Admiral when he won the Belmont in 1937 with half a foot clipped off when he stumbled at the start. The colt added $37,020 to his earnings, bringing his total for the season to $124,645 and his grand total to $156,845. He ran as follows: 0:23 3-5; 0:48 1-5; 1:12 2-5; 1:37 1-5 for the mile and 2:02 3-5 for the ten furlongs. His time all the way around was as fast as it had to be, and the colt was never out of a snug hold.

'COULD HAVE GONE FASTER'

"We could have gone much faster," Jimmy Stout, Johnstown's jockey, said after the race, "but there didn't seem to be any sense to that. He was the same old Johnstown, and there isn't a horse around that will beat him on a fast track, and maybe a muddy one either. And I'm not forgetting his defeat in the Preakness. He is a great colt."

His coat glistening in the bright sunlight of an afternoon that was letter perfect for racing, Johnstown came back to the scales seemingly quite satisfied with himself and was led to the winners' circle by Woodward, chairman of The Jockey Club and the proud owner and breeder of the splendid horse. The presentation was made by Mrs. August Belmont, who was escorted to the circle by Herbert Bayard Swope and Henry W. Bull. The Stakes is run in memory of the first August Belmont, and was first run in 1867.

With Gilded Knight as his running-mate, Johnstown was held at 1 to 8, one of the shortest prices in the long history of the Belmont, and for his opposition he had his own mate. Knickerbocker, Belay, John Hay Whitney's Heather Broom and Greentree Stable's Hash. Knickerbocker took the first run at the champion, but he lasted only about a hundred yards and then dropped back and was a badly beaten last.

GILDED KNIGHT TIRES

Gilded Knight and Hash were the closest in pursuit after the field had run a half mile, but they were a good five lengths behind the flying leader and never were destined to get closer. At the end of the backstretch and moving around the turn it seemed almost certain that Gilded Knight would be second, but he tired suddenly and Belay closed fast and gamely to beat him. Sonny Workman, who rode Belay, said that the colt raced with great courage. He was as good as 7 to 1 to place.

While Johnstown is not a picture horse or even good looking when judged on beauty alone, he was a stream-lined terror in this race and, from the viewpoint of a practical horseman, the most rugged in the field, also the best mover. He was striding just as freely and with almost the same length at the finish as at the start. Johnstown ran not only like a great three-year-old, but lik a cup horse that could win at two miles or more. And only two months ago at Jamaica Johnstown opened the season by winning the Paumonok at six furlongs.

SKIN DEEP TRIUMPHS

Alfred Vanderbilt's Skin Deep, bay son of Balko from Superficial by Supremus, won the National Stallion Stakes that was run just before the Belmont. Fighting fiercely all through the last furlong with John Hay Whitney's Woof Woof, the colt flying the Vanderbilt silks held out gamely and was the winner by a head. He returned 7 to 1 and added $10,389 to his winnings this season.

No one paid much heed to Skin Deep before the Stakes, most of the play being for Millsdale Stable's Sustainer, the favorite, Woof Woof and T. B. Martin's White Hunter, a hot paddock tip. And so when Skin Deep broke alertly for Sonny Workman and came down the straightaway with Sustainer the crowd naturally looked for the former to stop and the latter to come on and take it all. When the crack came it was Sustainer that fell back and Skin Deep that went on.

Although this was only a sprint of five furlongs, Skin Deep ran a fine race in that he first broke the heart of Sustainer and then held Woof Woof when the latter challenged in the last furlong. Moving up to the last eighth pole it looked as though Woof Woof, son of the lost mare Minima and a half-brother to Porter's Mite, would go off by himself but Skin Deep had far more left than any one suspected. He held on with the courage of a bulldog and fought off every attempt of the Whitney colt to get to the front. They were so tightly locked coming down to the finish that it seemed as though the lead alternated as each horse dropped his head to stride out.

SUSTAINER FINISHES LAST

Greentree Stable's Piquet was third and Sustainer was last in the field of five after trying to go along with Skin Deep in the early stages of the sprint. It was not an exceptionally noteworthy field for such a high-class race as the Stallion Stakes, but with so many of the two-year-olds coughing the association may have been lucky enough to muster a turnout of five. Skin Deep ran the five furlongs in 0:57 2-5, fair time in view of the track record of 0:56 held by Distraction. The Vanderbilt colt carried 122 pounds and gave rise to the impression that he will be heard from in stakes at Saratoga.

Just after the running of the Belmont, John B. Campbell announced his weights for the Queens County Handicap to be run at Aqueduct on Thursday, and showed the high esteem in which he now holds Johnstown. He assigned War Admiral top weight of 130, with 118 for Johnstown, but by the scale of weights this means that Johnstown actually will be conceding one pound to War Admiral. Thus Johnstown is rated four pounds over the scale and the Admiral three over. The Admiral, however, will not be a starter, as he is being unwound preparatory to being sent to the stud.

IS JOHNSTOWN GREAT?

Before the Belmont was run this reporter went to ten representative turfmen and horsemen and asked if they considered Johnstown to be a great horse. William Woodward said that the colt had already proved himself great at six furlongs and then a mile, but that the Belmont would prove his staying powers. The others said that they preferred to wait before according the badge of greatness, something the turf guards jealously. Not one man thought that the turf was too conservative in its judgment of good race horses, and Herbert Bayard Swope said that, in his opinion, it was all for the best that racing refrained from calling a horse great until he had proved it beyond a shadow of doubt.

Arizaka Wins Kanto Men's Figure Skating

Takasuke Arizaka of Meiji University came through as was expected to win the men's title in the first annual Kanto open figure skating championships Monday night at the Sanno rink by leading in the free skating competition as well. He scored 480.91 points in the free skating, which together with his 611.50 points in the school figures, game him 1,092.41 points, with place number 5.

Tatsuo Kobayashi of Meiji was second with 910.48 points and Kataaki Takayama of Keio University third with 831.68 points.

Miss Tomiyo Sato of the Banka Gakuin won the women's title with 783.25 points.

Kongo and Ishida Fight to Draw

Iwao Kongo, presently the nation's leading flyweight, made the mistake of attempting to box Takehiko Ishida, clever boxer of the Shinko Boxing Club, instead of resorting to his usual relentless rushing, and the best he could do was to get a draw in their eight round fight Monday night at the Hibiya Park open air auditorium.

Ishida outboxed Kongo at the start but he gradually weakened as the rounds progressed which was vice versa with Kongo's case. He became stronger and the final gong found him with a decided advantage over Ishida.

Kongo weighed in at 112 pounds and Ishida at 109 pounds.

LAZZERI WINS FOR GIANTS WITH HOMER

By EVERETT B. MORRIS

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, June 4—The Giants beat the Cardinals, 6 to 5, at the Polo Grounds yesterday and for the second day in a row demonstrated the efficacy of timely hitting and superb relief pitching as game-winning factors.

A four-run outburst in the seventh inning, capped by Tony Lazzeri's homer into the left-field balcony with one aboard, and a sterling piece of rescue flinging by Walter Brown did the trick (Lazzeri was recently released by the Giants-Editor.).

Brown, who used to work with Lazzeri on the left bank of the Harlem until the tricky baseball tides deposited his huge bulk under Coogan's Bluff, quelled the Red Birds after they had shattered a 2-to-2 tie with a three-run assault on Harry Gumbert in the first half of the same frame.

BROWN FANS FIVE

The tremendous right-hander put out the fire by fanning Stu Martin with two on and two out and he struck out four of the seven men who faced him in the succeeding two innings. The Cardinals made all of their seven hits off Gumbert. They got nothing but a base on balls off Brown.

For the second time in as many days, the losing St. Louis pitcher was Curt Davis. He came onto the scene after Bill Jurges had tripled and Harry Danning had singled to drive Lon Warneke off the hill in that turbulent seventh and Clyde Shoun had served only two balls to Mel Ott. The Giant captain whacked the second one to right field for a single and Shoun disappeared to make way for Davis.

Davis, who now has pitched in sixteen of the Cardinals' thirty-nine games, was blasted into the clubhouse in the first inning on Friday. He ran into more trouble yesterday.

HOMER DRIVES IN OTT

First Zeke Bonura drove a long fly to center that scored Danning from third. Then, after striking out Demaree and getting Lazzeri to a two and two count, Davis came in with a pitch which Tony whaled into the upper left-field balcony, scoring Ott ahead of him.

That was the blow that wrecked Davis and gave the Giants a 2-to-1 margin over the Cardinals in this series. The defeat left the Red Birds still three games behind the leagueleading Reds, who lost to the Bees in Boston, and only two ahead of the third-place Cubs.

Ducky Medwick's single to left after one-base blows by Stu and Pepper Martin, gave the Cardinals a two-run jump on the Giants in the first inning. Bill Terry's men hacked away at Warneke without effect until the fifth, when Jurges singled and Danning socked a slow ball into the left-field stands for his fifth home run of the season and his second in two days.

CARDINALS BREAK TIE

The deadlock existed until the seventh. Medwick started this inning by walking and Mize moved him to third with a hit to center. Bonura tagged Enos Slaughter on the first-base line and then Don Gutteridge slapped a grounder which Lazzeri played with his left knee. The ball caromed over to Gumbert who made a vain attempt to head off Gutteridge at first while Medwick scored. Don Padgett batted for Mickey Owen and slashed a hit past Burgess Whitehead to score Mize.

Gumbert got Warneke on a pop to Jurges, but little Jimmy Brown smacked a hit off Gumbert's glove. At this juncture Terry waved Gumbert to the locker room, and Brown trundled himself into the crisis. He checked the Cardinals by sending Stu Martin down swinging, and thereafter the only Red Bird who got on base was Pepper Martin, who got a walk in the eighth, stole second and injured his left wrist sliding headlong into third when Jurges let Danning's throw away.

Three of the Giants made three hits apiece. Danning had two singles besides his homer, Jurges hit a triple and two singles and Frank Demaree whacked two singles and a double. Bonura, the club's leading hitter, is in a slump. He has not hit in thirteen official times at bat in the last four games.

Lazzeri's homer was his fourth this season and his first since joining the Giants after his release by Brooklyn.

KICKING CONTEST BETWEEN STANFORD AND MELBOURNE CLUB GAINS FAVOR

Christian Science Monitor

SAN FRANCISCO—Started on a "shoestring"—or rather a football lacing—three years ago, the annual International Team-Kicking-and-Passing Contest between Stanford University and the Carlton Club of Melbourne, Australia has developed into a competition surpassing all expectations.

So successful has this competition been that those who first scoffed at the idea that teams on the opposite side of the world could even work up a sweat, let alone any interest, over unseen long-distance events, have bent every effort toward keeping it going.

SIMILAR TO OLYMPIC CLUB

Stanford University and Carlton Club (similar to the Olympic Club here, comprised of amateur athletes graduated from colleges) have held this dual kicking, and passing tournament for three years with interest increasing each year.

In the first place the idea was propounded here by H. Archie Richardson, American correspondent for the Melbourne "Sporting Globe." As he tells it Mr. Richardson's original idea was to promote better feeling between American and Australian athletes.

"I arranged these contests purely to bring the athletes of America and Australia closer together," he says.

Next year—the fourth season of the competition—will find six American teams and an All-Australian combination seeing who can place kick, drop kick, punt and pass both the Amercian footbaal (14½ oz.) and the Australian Rules football (17¾ oz.) farther. While the awards go to individuals, it is the team aggregate that counts in the final tabulation.

Each team is comprised of three men competing in each event although they aren't necessarily the same men. Each man kicks or passes the American ball three times and the Australian Rules ball three times. Best distance with each pigskin is recorded. Thus far the Americans have been leading, particularly due to their passing, for there's no passing, as we know it, in the Australian or British game of football.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM

Schools out on this coast are taking to the long-distance sport with much enthusiasm. Next year Stanford, University of Southern California, University of California, St. Mary's Santa Clara, and University of California at Los Angeles will compete against the All-Auzzie squad. Mr. Richardson, points out, however, that so much interest has been worked up over the Stanford-Carlton annual contest that it will continue as a dual meet each year.

Football Coach "Tiny" Thornhill at Stanford as well as Graduate Manager Al Masters, and University officialdom even up as high as President Wilbur, have taken to the Inter-Pacific competition idea thoroughly. It is the hope of Mr. Richardson who has brought this idea along, that other American colleges and Universities will show some interest, "for they'll all be welcome to participate. It might even be worked out, as time goes on, so that this could be an all-America versus all-British Empire Kicking and Passing Contest, with primary eliminations in the Empire and the United States."

FRIENDSHIP BASIS

Mr. Richardson's idea rather strikes this column's cord of international sportsmanship with more than a usual "ping." International friendship has a vital part to play in the whole world-peace picture, and certainly international sports contests are not least of the ways to lay a good "sporting" foundation of world relationship.

Best part of this kicking and passing contest idea—and something that is irrefutable as far as the college cash registers go—is that very little financial outlay is necessary outside of postage to Australia. Each team competes to select its own representatives, and they kick or fling the ball for all they're worth. Then the records are mailed to Australia, and vice versa. It can be done during Spring or Fall football practice.

And the records already created are something to kick and heave at. For instance, the all-Australian-American records already set are:

Punt, held by Bill Paulman, Stanford: 69 yards 8 inches with the American ball; and with the Australian rules ball, 69 yards by Harry Vallence, Carlton.

Drop kick with American ball, 67 yards, Jack Wrout of Carlton; drop kick with Australian rules ball, 72 yards, also Wrout.

Place kick with American ball, Bill Paulman of Stanford 75yds. 2ft. 1in. With Australian rules ball, Bill Paulman, 79yds. 1ft. 11in. The ball is teed up and kicked at the seam joint so that it soars end over end instead of with a reverse spin as is common in the United States.

Pass with American Ball, Tony Calvelli, Stanford (played center at Stanford last two years) 75yds. 1ft. 5in. This is particularly interesting since his throw was in competition with one by the phenomenal Negro football passing star at UCLA, who entered the contest in 1937 with a throw of 64yds. 1ft. 6in. Second in this passing contest, as it may affect the 1939 football season was a Stanford frosh, Mel Ellet, with 73yds.

Pass record with the larger and harder-to-hold Australian rules ball, is held by Paulman of Stanford, with a toss of 67ft. 3in.

ALL-TIME MARKS

However, the all-time Australian kicking records with their own balls are still something at which we Americans can kick even with our own ball. Punt distance is 74 yards held by L. Kew Ming of Echuca, Victoria, made in 1931. Place kick record is 86yds. 1ft. made by Dave McNamera (a left footer) of St. Kilda, Melbourne, made in 1913.

This international contest idea appears to be one with much more "on the ball" than its long range. Let's have more of it, Mr. Richardson.

FINLAND SENDS BOXERS TO U.S.

HELSINKI—The American ring has always been an irresistible magnet to European boxers, and Finns too have gradually begun to feel its pull. Gunnar Barlund was the first Finnish fighter of note to yield to the lure of American dollars. For a time he met with outstanding success, climbing last year as high as second place, just after the champion Joe Louis, in the ranking of heavyweights by the authoritative Ring magazine. Since he met setbacks last Fall at the fists of Lou Nova and Roscoe Toles he has dropped out of championship consideration, and is now remodeling the faces of tenth-raters in Minneapolis, the "Stockholm" of America, where for obvious reasons he is advertised as a Swede.

WON ALL BUT ONE

Sten Suvio, welterweight champion of the Berlin Olympic Games, went to America a few months after Barlund's debut in New York and won all of his bouts there except his farewell appearance at which he was outpointed. Suvio has stayed on this side of the ocean for the time being and has been a consistent winner on his barnstorming trips over the continent.

Now a couple of more Finns will cross the Atlantic to try their luck in the promised land of pugilism. The manager of Barlund has sent Bruno Ahlberg, Finnish middleweight champion, a steamship ticket and instructed him to report at Minneapolis at once, there to share dame Fate again with his old buddy, the "Gunner". Ahlberg was the sensation in his division at the Los Angeles Olympics, but failed to win the gold medal because of a freak decision against him. After flooring his opponent time after time, and having him out on his feet at the final bell, Ahlberg was declared the loser on points (to the noisy disapproval of the crowd). While training at Los Angeles, he was obliged to spar with professionals, because no amateur in reach could stay on his feet a single round with him. Experts who saw him in action there declared that in his form at the time he stood an even chance with the best professional welterweights in the game.

TO BREAK CHICAGO

For the international boxing show at Chicago, where the Golden Gloves winners will meet Europe's best amateurs, Olli Lehtinen of Finland will again be the flyweight representative on the European team. He made such a favorable impression on the American public last year, particularly by virtue of his clean manner and his unusual boxing skill, that the Chicago Tribune, sponsor of the matches, requested that Lehtinen be retained for this year's team.

Wisconsin's Star Pitcher May Sign with Giants

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK June 3—Although Eddie Brannick, club secretary, refused to confirm, it was reported from Madison, Wis., yesterday that Robert W. Henrichs, University of Wisconsin pitching ace, will sign with the New York Giants as soon as his college baseball career is over.

Henrichs, six feet three inches tall and weighing 200 pounds, has won nine games and lost two this season. He struck out 111 batsmen. He also is a hitter of parts, having batted .400 during the season. He is a senior in the Wisconsin College of Liberal Arts.

PENN PITCHER ALMOST HURLS A NO-HITTER

N.Y. Herald Tribune

PHILADELPHIA, June 3—Tony Caputo, lanky sophomore from Montclair, N. J., pitched Penn to a 2-to-0 victory over Columbia in an Eastern Intercollegiate League baseball game on Franklin Field today, holding the New Yorkers to one scratch single.

Hector Down and Berndt Lindgren also were in good form, the Red and Blue getting only seven hits, but it was their misfortune to be hooked up with Caputo when he was hurling the best game of his college career.

The only hit off Caputo was an infield smash by Francis Murphy in the sixth inning. With two men out, Murphy drove the ball over second base. Chuck Diven, Penn captain made a beautiful stop but could not throw him out at first.

Columbia's best chance to score came in the seventh. With two men down Diven dropped Stoltz's fly and the batter reached second. Desmond worked Caputo for one of his three walks but Tony got out of the hole when Johnson forced Desmond.

Herb Ogden, slugging Penn first baseman, smacked a home run to deep center field in the fourth inning.

Penn added its second run in the eighth when Lindgren, who relieved Dowd at the start of the inning walked Diven and the Red and Blue captain went to second on Bob Fortune's sacrifice. Lindgren then let loose with a wild pitch which eluded his catcher, Jack Desmond, and Diven crossed the plate standing up.

It was Penn's fourth league victory in eleven starts. The defeat dropped the Lions deeper in the cellar.

Mack Will Lead American Stars

Christian Science Monitor

NEW YORK, June 2—Connie Mack, the Athletics' dean of major league managers, and Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, pilot of the Chicago Cubs lee than a year yesterday, were named managers of the American less than a year yesterday, were will meet in the annual All-Star Game at the Yankee Stadium, July 11.

The announcement of Mack's selection by President Will Harridge of the American League came as a surprise and a tribute to his long service in baseball. In the last few years the managers of the All-Star teams have been the pilots of the league champions. If Harridge had followed custom, Joe McCarthy of the Yankees would have been in charge.

TRIBUTE TO MACK

"McCarthy himself made the suggestion that Connie be named manager," said Harridge, who met with Commissioner Landis, President Ford Frick of the National League and President Ed Barrow of the Yankees to draw up plans. "Joe thought it would be a good idea and fine tribute to Connie since this is baseball's centennial year."

Frick followed the usual practice in the selection of Hartnett, who guided the Cubs to the 1938 pennant after taking over the reins late last season.

Managing an All-Star team will be nothing new to Mack. He was selected by popular vote to head the American Leaguers in the first game at Comiskey Park, Chicago, in 1933. The American League won 4 to 2. John McGraw managed the National League team.

NEW PLAYER LIMIT

The only other change from other years was the increase of the player limit from 23 to 25 in accord with the leagues' new rule this year. The managers again will select the players, the only restriction being that each club must be represented by at least one player. The pitching assignments will be limited to three innings except in event the game is tied at the end of the ninth. In such case, the manager will be permitted to leave the last hurler in as long as he desires.

Member of the squads will be announced July 1.

The game will start at 12:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time. In event of postponement it will be played at 10 a. m. the following morning.

Education Ministry May Slash 'Big Six' League to 1-Game Plan

Games of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league, the most popular circuit in the country, may be reduced to a one-game affair between the teams, beginning with the Fall season, under command of the Education Ministry, it was learned Tuesday.

The recent play-off tilt between Keio and Waseda on a Monday for the championship was the turning point for officials of the Education Ministry to frown on games during the week days, in this time of national emergency.

Two games have been played between the teams, or a total of 10 games for each team. In former years, it used to be a two out of three series.

The Education Ministry has also turned down an application for permit by the Waseda and Meiji teams to go on exhibition tours to Manchoukuo this Summer on the ground that it will serve no purpose.

HARVARD HOMER IN 12TH BEATS HOLY CROSS, 8-7

N.Y. Herald Tribune

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 3—Bob Fulton's homer to left center settled a twelve-inning see-saw battle today as Harvard avenged an earlier set-back by beating Holy Cross, 8 to 7. Relieving Harold Curtiss on the mound in the last three innings, Tom Healey was given credit for the victory.

Harvard took a two-run lead in the second inning on a hit, a double steal and an error but Holy Cross scored three in the third to take command. The Crusaders added another run in the fourth and each team scored once in the sixth.

In the ninth Holy Cross scored another run to take a three-run lead but Harvard tied it up. Bob Gannett driving in two runs with a triple and scoring himself a moment later. Each team scored once in the eleventh, Harvard on a home run by Grondahl, and the winning hit in the twelfth came with one out.

Holy Cross had gained a 7-to-5 decision two weeks ago.

LOUIS, 6 TO 1 FAVORITE OVER TONY GALENTO

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, June 27—The heavyweight world championship bout between Joe Louis and the challenger, "Two-ton" Tony Galento, will be fought Wednesday night at the Yankee Stadium. Betting is 6 to 1 in favor of Louis.

This will be the sixth time Galento will seek the title from the Brown Bomber.

SECOND GIVEN LICENSE

By CASWELL ADAMS

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, June 4—Whoops, sorry! The New York State Athletic Commission yesterday remembered that big fights attract big tax receipts into the state coffers and without hesitation gave Joe Jacobs a second's license, thus keeping the heavyweight championship fight, June 28, between Joe Louis and Tony Galento, at the Yankee Stadium, and preventing its plotted shift to Philadelphia. Joseph had been on the Phelan blacklist for months but now is a qualified and licensed second and his application for a manager's card will be acted upon soon.

Jacobs appeared at the commission chambers yesterday morning, leading his rotund charge, Galento, and Tony signed official papers for the fight. Louis didn't bother to come in from Pompton Lakes and Julian Black, one of the champion's managers, did the pen scratching for the Bomber. Bill (Over My Dead Body) Brown, who had shouted in the past that Baer would never fight here again, that Galento would never be licensed and that Joe Jacobs would never get a license, was quiet during the signing.

There was a platoon of photographers at the signing, and Joe Jacobs didn't miss a pose. Resplendent with the usual big cigar, he shifted with the lenses and kept yelling with Galento that the real reason Louis didn't come in for the ceremonies was that he was afraid of Tony. Joe and Galento motored back to Asbury Park where Antonio is flailing the salt air in training.

Once the penmanship was out of the way, Mike Jacobs hastened to his Hippodrome hideaway and announced that the Galento tickets will go on sale tomorrow, and that for the mere bagatelle of $27.50 a copy one may have a ringside pew. There also will be gayly daubed pasteboard on sale at $16.50, $11.50 $5.75 and $3.50. Michael also said that his desk is piled high with orders for the slaughter.

Meanwhile Jimmy Johnston was loud concerning the plan to put Lou Nova in with Louis in September, to wit: "You guys are comparing this kid with Tunney and Jim Corbett. Well, my eyes must have been on the blink when I saw Corbett and Tunney. I'll see an oculist Monday. He's closed for the day now. Why, neither Baer nor Nova could lick one side of Roscoe Toles, much less my Robert Pastor. It would be a crime punishable by something dire to even think of putting Nova in with Louis. Louis is a pretty fair puncher, you may remember."

3 Teams Are Tied For Lead in Pro Loop

The usually lowly Dolfins won their ninth game in 12 starts for the Summer season of the professional baseball circuit Tuesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here and are tied with the Giants and the Hankyus for the topnotch post with a .750 mark. Their victims were their rivals from Nagoya by a 3 to 2 score.

Shortstop Sei of the Dofins homered into the right field bleachers, in the fifth off burly Righthander Shigesato to give his team a 2 to 1 lead. Third Baseman Yamamoto scored what proved to be the winning run later in the same frame on a wild peg by the catcher.

Third Baseman Haga smashed one into the left field bleachers for Nagoya in the seventh.

Behind the effective pitching of Fukushi, who yielded but three hits, the Lions nosed out the Senators, 2 to 1, in the other game.

The Man Who Lived in Three Centuries

Eben Lancaster was born on October 16, 1799, and because his birth was so close to the end of the century, he was privileged to live in three centuries, the 18th 19th and 20th centuries. He died at Bowdoinham, Maine, on November 13, 1901, aged 102 years and 27 days.

YALE DEFEATS PRINCETON, 3-2, ON WOOD'S HIT

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 3—Yale changed places with Princeton in the Eastern Intercollegiate League baseball race today by defeating the Tigers, 3 to 2, in the 174th meeting of the two rivals since 1868. The victory put the Elis in fourth place and was accomplished in the final inning when Joe Wood jr., son of the Yale coach, singled into right field and scored Harry Holt from second, unknotting a tie that had existed from the fourth inning.

Dawson Farber and Moe Jubitz, southpaws, had engaged in a pitchers' battle in which the teams had been limited to six hits apiece. In the ninth, however, after Hazen had flied out to Mark Hill, Holt, Besse and Wood singled.

For the first time this season Jubitz failed to strike out a batsman, while Dawson fanned seven. Both were stingy with passes, Jubitz issuing but two and Dawson one, and that not until one was out in the eighth inning. It was valueless, however, for Hazen hit into a double play Jubitz got out of holes with a double killers in the second and ninth innings.

Harper, of the Tigers, and Capt. Eddie Collins, of the Blue, turned in sensational catches in the outfield, while Jerry Besse, despite three miscues, pulled Yale out of tight pinches with fine infield work.

Yale opened the scoring with a first-inning run on Alter's single, an overthrow by Pearson and Hazen's sharp single to center. Princeton took the lead, 2 to 1, in the third on a pass to Jones and hits by Moore, Hill and Farber. Yale came back in its half of the fourth and tied the score. Collins beat out a bunt and went all the way to third when Plumer threw into right field. There after Jubitz gave up but one hit, that to Harper in the eighth.

TY COBB, BEAU GESTE OF BASEBALL, PICKS HIS DREAM TEAM OF THE AGES

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS

Collier's

In the late Spring of 1839 the Great Western steamed into New York harbor just fifteen days from Bristol, England, and all America opened incredulous eyes and dropped incredulous jaws. It was the greatest thing that ever happened, jubilant New Yorkers shouted. It was a modern miracle, and bearded sages said that the ultimate in speed finally had been attained. This day would never be forgotten.

That very month, in a pastoral setting at a place called Cooperstown, New York, a twenty-year-old West Point cadet named Abner Doubleday traced the pattern of the world's first baseball diamond. No one was either incredulous or startled over this exploit. No one, in fact, knew or cared about it.

There are those who claim that Doubleday did not invent baseball, and they are undoubtedly right if you count games such as "one o' cat" which involved the use of ball and bat and were played during Colonial days. English yeomen were using bat and ball to play "rounders," which is older, even, then cricket, during the Battle of Hastings back in 1066. There were many games akin to the baseball that Abner Doubleday presented to his quite uninterested fellow citizens back in 1839, but the game that is played today is undoubtedly a direct descendant and heir of his game.

HALL OF FAME

Twelve of the thousands who have played have been chosen as worthy to enter the Baseball Hall of Fame. These are the twelve whom the baseball writers of the land have selected as the greatest of all: Ty Cobb, Honus Wagner, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson, Babe Ruth, Napoleon Lajoie, Tristam Speaker, Denton Young, George Sisler, Eddie Collins, Willie Keeler, Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Who was the greatest of these? Nine out of ten baseball men will answer promptly enough: Ty Cobb. There was nothing he couldn't do. Look at the records and you'll know that there was only one Ty Cobb. Sure, there was only one Babe Ruth and there was only one Matty and there was no one else like Wee Willie Keeler either—but Cobb was the greatest all-round ballplayer who ever lived and the greatest witness to support that positive statement is the mute, cold, calculating record book. Look:

Cobb played major-league baseball for twenty-four years and hit better than .300 for twenty-one consecutive years (from 1906 through 1928). Three times he hit more than .400 and that was in the days when the pitchers could throw emery balls and spitballs and other freaks.

He led his league twelve times in hitting. He stole 892 bases during his lifetime and one year he stole ninety-six. He invented the fall-away slide and he would score from second on any kind of infield hit. Once during a world series (1909) he stole home.

He was the Beau Geste of baseball—ruthless, colorful, asking no quarter and giving none. He'd fight at the drop of a bat and he was a bad loser. Good losers are very common now in baseball. Players lose with a smile and a shrug of their shoulders; they get paid whether they win or lose. Cobb wasn't like that; he had to win. It is no wonder that in the balloting for places in the Hall of Fame the name of Ty Cobb led all the rest.

Look back over the hundred years of baseball. Let's pick a dream team of the ages, the greatest team that ever could be assembled. Let's make believe that we're managing the team and we can have our pick of all players, living or dead. But better yet, let's get the master of them all to pick this team.

We'll find Ty Cobb out in Menlo Park in California in a beautiful home secluded and guarded by tall trees. Ty is middle-aged now, but he doesn't look it. He's well off, too, and he's a substantial citizen of his community. He plays golf every day—literally every day—and he's a good golf player.

Around Menlo they say that Ty doesn't care about baseball any more.

He doesn't like baseball? Get him started and he'll talk baseball all day. I know. I got him started. Let him pick our dream team for us. Not just nine men, we want a complete team that could play through a season.

NAMES MACK

Ty says, "Let's start with the manager. I'll pick the greatest manager who ever lived and I won't hear any dispute about it. Who?" Cobb exploded, "Connie Mack, of course. There was never anyone like him. He's smart and kind and he knows how to handle men and he can do wonders with poor material.

"Now let's pick a pitching staff. We'll pick the greatest pitching staff that was ever assembled. We want four right-handers and two left-handers. We start with Matty of course. Matty and Alexander and Walter Johnson and Ed Walsh. They're our right-handers. All great pitchers.

"That big Walter Johnson, I'll never forget the day we first faced him. It was his first major-league start. He was a rookie and we gave him a ride. We always waited out rookies. We knew they'd crack sooner or later and get wild. So we waited for this big kid to get wild. So we waited four or five innings and he hadn't thrown a dozen balls. We tried to hit him and we couldn't. Then we decided to bunt. He hadn't learned all there was to be learned about handling bunts as yet so we finally beat him 2 to 1 by bunting."

Cobb leaned back and chuckled: "With Eddie Plank and Carl Hubbell as our two left-handers, how could any team ever hit us? We want two catchers and I'll take Mickey Cochrane and Roger Bresnahan. Usually catchers are slow and cumbersome, but not these two. Did you ever know that Bresnahan used to lead off? Both he and Mike were fast and smart and great handlers of pitchers and real hitters.

"Now," Cobb enthused, "let's talk about first base. I'll take George Sisler for my team. He was only slightly below Hal Chase as a fielder and Chase was the greatest in that department. He did everything else better. Back in 1922 he broke a record of mine, when he made 257 safe hits in one season. That year he batted .420 and was voted the most valuable player in the league. George was a fine alert ballplayer all the time.

"At second base," Cobb laughed, "I suppose you think I'll pick Napoleon Lajoie? He was a fine player, but I'll take Eddie Collins. Eddie was a great mechanical ballplayer who never made a mistake, but that isn't measuring the worth of his true greatness. In addition to being a superb hitter, fielder and base runner, Eddie Collins was the greatest team player who ever lived. With him in there a team was always two runs better on the offense and 30 per cent stronger on the defense. Eddie made his whole infield look good.

"We won't even discuss shortstop," Ty said. "When you mention shortstop you immediately think of the Dutchman. There was only one Honus Wagner. I don't think anyone will quarrel with that selection.

WEAVER AT THIRD

"Now at third base I'm putting Buck Weaver. Weaver was close to the fastest man I ever saw on a ball field. He could hit to all fields and he could run bases with anybody. His throw was like a rifle bullet. Yes, he finished baseball under unfortunate circumstances but that is neither here nor there. We're talking about ballplayers. I'm talking about what I think are the best ball-players who ever lived. Buck Weaver was one of them. And he had just reached his peak when disaster came.

"The outfield," Cobb said, "is easy. How can we pick anyone but Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker and Babe Ruth? In many ways I think that Jackson was the best better I ever saw. He didn't play by rules, he played instinctively. He always knew what to do even though he didn't know why it was the right thing to do. Hit? How he could hit! Now outfield knew how to play him. I honestly think he'd bat .450 today.

"Speaker, of course, belongs without question. In 1916 he beat me out for the batting championship by hitting a murderous .386. That year he hit better than .400 against Walter Johnson.

Cobb drew a deep breath. "Babe Ruth? Who else? The fact that the Babe was always apt to break up a ball game with a home run is only half the story. Think of the psychological effect of having the Babe on your team. The pitcher is afraid to walk the man who bats ahead of him for fear the Babe will drive him home. That means that pitcher has to work hard and worry about that man. Then by the time he's through pitching to the Babe he's gone through a tough few minutes and he's apt to relax when the next man comes up. When Babe batted he helped the man in front and the man behind.

BASEBALL COULD BE BETTER

"Well," Cobb finished, "there's our team. Why, we'd win 150 games a season, even with the ridiculous ball they use today. Ridiculous? Sure it's ridiculous. Baseball has become a different game today than it was twenty years ago. I don't get much of a kick watching a 10 to 7 ball game. Base stealing? It's obsolete now. We never figured that we were in a scoring position until we reached second base. Once we got there a single would drive us home. But today, if a man is on first he's in scoring position. The next man up is apt to hit a home run.

"Outfielders? Today outfielders are only caddies out there to retrieve long drives. Almost all balls hit to the outfield go so far they must be relayed in.

"Oh, baseball is still the best game there is but it could be better. The players are just as good and they're smarter, too. If they put the old ball back the players could adjust themselves easily enough. They could learn to steal bases and to work for one run. They could learn what we used to call inside baseball. But they don't have to.

"If I were managing a team now I'd say to the batter, 'Go up and belt one'. What good is a one-or two-run lead? Some ordinarily weak hitter is apt to catch a corner of that jack rabbit and bounce it over the wall.

"Baseball has been good to me," he said thoughtfully. "Funny thing, you know I never intended to be a ballplayer. I wanted to be a surgeon. I went up that first year hoping to make enough money to put me through medical school. I held out my second year and in those days owners were pretty strict about holdouts. I said to myself: 'I'll let this decide it. If the owner gives in, it means that I'm cut out to be a ballplayer from now on. If he doesn't it means that I'm cut out to be a surgeon and I'll quit baseball and go to medical school.' Well, he gave in and I was a ballplayer.

"Funny thing about baseball, though. I played until I was forty-two and then I was glad to be through with it all. For twenty-four years I'd led a restricted life. I hadn't seen much of my family. I had to take good care of myself. I had to be fighting every minute. For twenty-four years I couldn't relax. And then I found that although I'd been a success in my job I hadn't built anything for the future that I could pass on to my boy.

"I had saved my money, and friends of mine in Detroit had advised me how to invest it well, but that was all I had. So I discovered golf. Sure, I still love baseball, but after all I was never born to be a spectator."

"Let's go into town," I suggested "and take a look at the Seals. I hear that young Dominick Di Maggio is almost as good as Joe."

He hesitated and then picked up the golf clubs. Cobb smiled. "Let's play a round of golf instead. I told you I wasn't born to be a spectator."

MEIJI WINS KANTO STUDENTS WRESTLING TITLE

Meiji University made it two years straight in the Kanto Four University Wrestling league Wednesday night at the Hibiya Park outdoor auditorium by defeating Waseda, 7 matches to 2, in the final.

Meiji made a clean sweep in the bouts from the lightweight division up. Kurihara scored an upset when he defeated Ota of Waseda by a decision in the bantamweight division They were on even terms in the standing wrestling but Kurihara pulled ahead in the ground wrestling.

The results were:

Horiguchi to Fight Kikuchi at Nishinomiya

Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, Japan's best known pugilist who recently lost a 12-round decision to Umio Gen for his first defeat to a Japanese fighter, will take on Goro Kikuchi over 10 rounds at the Nishinomiya stadium, near Osaka, on Saturday night, July 1. The two have met on several occasions but Kikuchi has yet to win.

There will be six six-rounders and one four-round preliminary on the card sponsored by the Kansai and Fuji Boxing Clubs.

Cincinnati's Reds Draw 244,862 In 21 Contests

N.Y. Times

CINCINNATI, May 31—It's pay day every day when Cincinnati's Reds are in town.

The front office, with understandable pride, let it be known today that the baseball team which may win its first National League pennant in twenty years had drawn 244,862 paying customers in the first twenty-one games at home—an average of 11,660, or over 4,600 more per game than for the same twenty-one-game period of 1938, when home attendance was 147,665.

Last year Manager Bill McKechnie was promised a ¥5,000 bonus if he would draw 450,000 fans into Crosley Field. He got his bonus, all right, because the season's total home attendance was well over 700,000, due in part to the Reds' late surge into fourth place.

Of course the Reds played their 1938 Memorial Day doubleheader on the road, but even knocking off the 40,619 who saw yesterday's morning and afternoon whitewash by the Cubs, the club still is something like 57,000 up on the figure of a year ago.

Those big figures mean money, not only to the Cincinnati Baseball Club, Inc., but to everybody concerned.

The opposition gets 25 cents out of each ticket. So the other seven teams in the National League have taken away $61,215.50. Then the government gets 10 per cent of the gross, a handsome sum in itself.

Nor is that all. The Reds draw crowds everywhere. One three-game series at Philadelphia attracted some 20,000 fans. That left ticket-takers there tired but happy, to say the least.

Last Sunday in St. Louis 33,538, the biggest crowd since the heyday of the Gashouse Gang, watched the Reds and the Cards split a doubleheader to decide the league lead.

With fifty-six home games left, the outlook is bright. Seven night games lie ahead, and if they don't average 25,000 apiece you can eat General Manager Warren Giles's hat.

Some people are saying the total will be a million for the year.

Matsuyama Leads Hayashi, 100 to 72 In 3-Cushion Billiards

Kinrey Matsuyama, national three-cushion billiard champion and one of the best known players of the world, led Haruo Hayashi, fourth ranking in Japan, by 100 to 72 Wednesday after the first day's play in a 200-game challenge match for the title at the Shimizu Building hall in Kayabacho, Tokyo. The match was to be continued today.

In the first 50-point game Wednesday, Matsuyama was off to a fine start, registering 23 points in 17 innings for an impressive 25-10 lead, but he began to lose his touch, and with Hayashi staging a rally, they were tied 36-all in the 50th inning. Matsuyama, however, regained his form, and ran through the game with points on his 60th cue, the score being 50 to 38 in his favor.

After the intermission, Hayashi put up a fight but Matsuyama gradually pulled away as the innings progressed, staging good runs of 6 and 5 on his 108th and 109th cues. The day's play came to a halt in Matsuyama's 115th inning.

The day's high run was the 6 made by Matsuyama on his 108th cue.

DODGERS BEAT GIANTS, 7-4 BY LATE RALLY

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK June 1—Resuming their battle for fifth place, the Giants and Dodgers staged another thriller at the Polo Grounds yesterday, with the Brooklyn outfit capturing the odd game of the series by a 7-4 count and thereby making more secure, for the moment at least, its position at the top of the second division.

A three-run blast in the eighth inning broke a deadlock which had existed since the third stanza and won for Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin a victory he richly deserved. Even the most ardent Giant rooter would concede that Hamlin had outpitched Hal Schumacher and Cliff Melton as he gamely stuck to his task and set the Terrymen back with six safeties, half of which came in the third.

SCHUMACHER GOES OUT

The Dodgers, paced by Gene Moore, Lippy Leo Durocher and Cookie Lavagetto, chased Schumacher in the eighth after reaching him for eleven of the twelve hits credited to them. Prince Hal was charged with his fourth setback as Hamlin's victory string went up to five for the campaign.

It proved to be quite a ball game after the Giants, having fallen behind, 4—0, suddenly went to town in the third and tied the score. Schumancher's single, after one out, launched the uprising. Joe Moore then walked, but Giant hopes faded when Billy Jurges flied to center for the second out.

Harry Danning was next and his contribution was a line single to right. Gene Moore made the mistake of taking his eyes from the bounding ball and in a jiffy all three runners were over the plate as the pellet skipped through Moore's legs. The next mistake was Hamlin's. He tossed a home-run ball to Mel Ott and the latter rifled it high into the upper right-field tier for his eighth circuit clout of the season.

FOUR SCORELESS INNINGS

All of that brought joy to the Giant bench and new life to Schumacher. For the next four innings he and Hamlin were the masters, but in the eighth the Dodgers fell on Schumacher's offerings, counted three times and that was that.

Dolph Camilli singled with one down and Babe Phelps slammed a hit off Burgess Whitehead's shins, placing runners on first and second. Durocher forced Van Lingle Mungo, running for Phelps, at second, but Johnny Hudson's single to left drove Camilli home.

At this point Durocher ordered Al Todd to pinch hit for Tuck Stainback and the big backstop obliged with a solid smack to center that was good for two bases. Durocher and Hudson came all the way in and Schumacher went out, Melton checking the rally.

Singles by Lavagetto and Moore, an intentional pass to Phelps and Durocher's single, together with an error by Danning on a cleverly executed delayed steal by Durocher, sent Brooklyn off to a three-run lead in the first. Moore's triple and Camilli's sacrifice fly made it 4—0 in the third.

YANKEES POLE OUT 13 HOME RUNS IN TWINBILL TO SMASH RECORD

Domei Tsushin

PHILADELPHIA, June 28—Poling out 13 home runs to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics in a doubleheader, the World Champion New York Yankees today set a new home run record for both the major leagues.

Hitting honors went to Joe Di Maggio, Ellsworth "Babe" Dahlgreen and Joe Gordon who knocked out three homers each.

The Yankees knocked out eight home runs in the first game to win 23-2, and won the night-cap 10-0.

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

DETROIT, June 4—On and on rumbles the Yankee steamroller. Today Marse Joe McCarthy wheeled his Yankee machine out on the green of Briggs Stadium, where 44,100 assembled to see what the Tigers could do about the matter.

Some 2 hours and 20 minutes later it developed that the Tigers had not been able to do anything at all beyond taking a headlong plunge to defeat before the irresistible onslaughts of the world champions, who bagged this opener of the three-game series, 8 to 4.

To be sure, there were some slight annoyances. Charlie (Red) Ruffing had a finger bumped by a line drive in the fifth inning, which led to his withdrawal from the game after the first Tiger up in the eighth had singled.

YANK'S POISE UNSHAKEN

But even such matters are taken right in stride by these amazing Yanks. For with this eighth-inning hit, Ruffing simply walked off the mound and Fordham Johnny Murphy, who only twenty-four hours previously had made a heroic rescue in Cleveland, walked in.

The rest was mere detail as Murphy wiped out five batters in a row to sweep through the eighth and ninth and snuff out whatever ideas the Tigers might have had of making a struggle of it.

That gave Ruffing his eighth victory of the year against a single defeat and extended the Yank's current winning streak to five in a row. It also marked their twenty-five games played, and while Marse Joe keeps insisting that his ball club is really not running away with the American League pennant, the difficulty with this is that not one of the seven other pilots in the loop seems inclined to believe a word he says.

TRYOUT IS HOOKED EARLY

Paul (Dizzy) Trout, the young righthander who drew considerable attention a while back by snapping a Yankee winning streak that had reached a total of twelve games, was asked by Manager Del Baker to see if he could do something of the sort again today. But this time the Yanks did a little snapping of their own and snapped Master Trout right out of the game inside of four innings.

After that came Archie McKain and Luther Thomas to absorb such punishment as was deemed necessary to keep the Tigers well in their place.

Red Rolfe, with two singles and a double; Babe Dahlgren and Ruffing, each with two singles, did most of the damage, which was pretty evenly sperad out from the second to fifth innings.

Tuning up on a lone tally in the second on a pass, a single by Joe Gordon and Dahlgren's sacrifice fly, the Yanks just rumbled along to score twice in each of the next three innings.

CROSETTI HIT BY PITCHER

Trout, in fact, really stuck his neck out in the second when he hit Frankie Crosetti with a pitched ball and walked Tommy Henrich after Rolfe had singled. That filled the bases and two tallies followed on a bad throw to the plate by Trout and a grounder by Charlie Keller that resulted in two Yanks being wiped off the base paths, but not the one streaking for home.

Singles by Dahlgren and Ruffing and Rolfe's double finished Trout in the fourth, and in the fifth came another pair of tallies when Barney McCosky dropped a fly in center. Singles by Dahlgren, Ruffing and Rolfe followed this misplay.

During this time Ruffing was blanking the Tigers on two, hits. But after stopping McCosky's line drive in the fifth his control went off line. Two passes and Roy Bell's single gave the Tigers their first two tallies in the sixth, and in the seventh Charlie Gehringer drove in two more with a triple.

Work to Start in July On Yokohama Yacht Harbor

Special to The Japan Times

YOKOHAMA, June 30—Construction of the projected yacht harbor here costing ¥155,000 will be started from the latter part of July 1939 for completion 2 years hence.

This harbor will be financed by the Yokohama city and the government, the city financing the buildings on land and the government the piers and what is erected in the water.

The location of this boat house will be at Shin-Yamashitacho.

The entire club grounds will occupy an area of 4,788 tsubo and the water space will be 17,370 tsubo.

This yacht harbor will be one of the largest and finest in the world and is being supported by both the foreign and the Japanese sports enthusiasts.

REDS KNOCK OUT CARL HUBBELL TO WIN, 4-1

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

At 3 o'clock yesterday the old screwball maestro, Carl Hubbell, ambled out of the Giants' dugout amid the cheers of 17,097 fans, a gallant, inspiring figure, seeking his second victory of the National League campaign in his fifth start, a scuffle with the league-leading Cincinnati Reds.

At 3:10 by the gilded clock that hangs high in center field, the southpaw ace was shuffling in the direction of the clubhouse, a dejected figure, the cheers of the crowd still ringing in his ears, but this time manifestly in a sympathetic gesture to a fading hero, as the lean Oklahoman trod a familiar, weary path after having been speedily and savagely routed.

For the Reds, leaping aboard the offerings of the pitcher who once baffled them all, scored one run and had two men on the bases before Hub could get a man out in the first. Another run came in at the expense of Hub after Bill Lohrman had replaced him.

HUBBELL'S FOURTH DEFEAT

These tallies laid the foundation for a 4-to-1 triumph by Bill McKechnie's pennant inspired crew, increased their lead to three and a half games since the Cardinals were idle because of rain in Boston, and visited upon the soft-spoken Hubbell his fourth defeat against a lone victory.

Hub simply didn't have it and after he disappeared the Giants didn't have what it takes, either, although they ganged up on the husky Paul Derringer with better than average consistency. The Terrymen stroked the Reds' righthander for eleven blows, two more than the enemy collected off Hubbell and Lohrman.

But the Giants lacked punch when it could have done the most good. They went down in order in only two innings, the second and fifth, but they banked into four doubleplays, all launched by Bill Myers. And when the Giants weren't dying in couples, they were leaving stranded base-runners until the total amounted to eight at the finish.

There was no wasted motion, no delay in the crushing of Hubbel or the humiliation of the Giants.

WERBER DRAWS PASS

Hub walked Bill Werber to start. Lonnie Frey singled him to third and Ival Goodman, who struck three blows in the Reds' cause, singled Werber home and Frey to third. That was the end of Hubbell and when Lohrman came on the scene Frey raced home as Frank McCormick forced Goodman.

In the second, with one out, Lohrman walked Myers, who promptly stole second and trotted home ahead of Werber when the ex-Yankee parked a pitch in the upper left-field stand for his first home run of the year. The Reds went on to get six more hits off Lohrman, but Bill faced further danger only in the ninth when two singles and a hit batsman crowded the bases with two out. Then Goodman died on a grounder to Zeke Bonura.

It was the same Bonura's double, the only extra-base blow for the Giants, that saved them from a shut-out. It came in the sixth inning when the Giants launched what looked like a real rally on Jo-Jo Moore's single and another by Billy Jurges. But Danning crashed into a double play before Ott drew a pass and when Bonura doubled over third the blow meant only one run. Then Frank Demaree went down on strikes.

FENSKE BREAKS U.S. MARK FOR 1,000-YD. RUN

N.Y. Times

MILWAUKEE, June 2—Scoring in thirteen events, Marquette University won the team title in the fourteenth Central Collegiate track and field meet tonight as Charles (Chuck) Fenske, former Wisconsin ace, bettered the existing American record for the 1,000-yard run before 6,000 cheering spectators.

Marquette piled up 45 1-3 points to capture its third team championship, but it was Fenske's brilliant performance in an exhibition effort that provided the big thrill of a program which also saw two new meet records established.

Paced by two Wisconsin freshmen, Fenske reeled off the 1,000 yards in 2 minutes 9.3 seconds. The accepted American mark of 2 minutes 9.7 seconds was made in 1937 by Elroy Robinson at Fresno, Calif.

Second to Marquette in the hot team-title fight was Indiana, with 36 points. Notre Dame, the 1938 team victor, scored 35½, with Wisconsin picking up 35 and Michigan State 23. Behind those leaders other schools in the large field were well strung out.

Both new meet records came in field events. Bill Faymonville of Notre Dame tossed the discus 162 feet 9½ inches in the trials to surpass the old meet mark of 156 feet 11⅝ inches set by Hugh Wolf of Texas in 1938. Milton Padway, Wisconsin star, pole-vaulted 13 feet 11⅞ inches as compared with the old meet mark of 13 feet 9⅛ inches, set by William Hawthorne of Michigan Normal to Albert Haller of Wisconsin in 1937.

The summaries:

Hatsushima to Atami Swim Race On July 30

The Japan Swimming Federation has announced that it will stage the second annual long distance swimming race from the island of Hatsushima off the Izu Peninsula to Atami, covering a course of 10 kilometers, on July 30.

Each team will be made up of four swimmers with a coach who will be aboard the boat for the officials but will be allowed to direct his team. Places will be decided according to the finish of each member.

A team from the Yokosuka Naval Station won the event last year.

Rahkonen Retains U.S. Title in Walk

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK June 5—John Rahkonen of the Finnish-American A.C., a 42-year-old tailor from Brooklyn, retained the national A.A.U. 15,000-meter walking championship at the twenty-sixth annual track and field games of the Ninety-second Street Y.M.H.A. at Macombs Dam Park in the Bronx yesterday. Rahkonen led Arthur Hall of St. Anselm's by 150 yards and was clocked in 1 hour 19 minutes 38.2 seconds.

Another highlight was the sterling performance by Herbert Thompson, running unattached, in the 100-yard dash handicap. Starting from scratch, the Negro star achieved 0:09.6 in his semifinal and then went on to take the final in 0:09.7. His semi-final was the fastest century in this city this season.

Other winners inclued Sanford Goldberg, in a special half-mile event; Jamse Rafferty, former Fordam captain, in the two-mile handicap, and George Frohan in the 1,000-yard handicap run. Jim Herbert of the New York University A.A., starting from scratch, failed to qualify in the latter event.

Thirteen clubs scored in the competition for the point trophy, with the New York Pioneer Club taking the top award with 8 markers. The Seton Hall A.A. also had 8 points, but was placed second because Pioneer's total was compiled from higher places.

FELLER, GROVE SPLIT HONORS

N.Y. Times

CLEVELAND, June 4—Bob Feller and Lefty Grove each won ball games today as the Indians captured the first of a double-header from the Red Sox, 10 to 2, and then surrendered, 7 to 1, in the nightcap.

Feller gave up six hits in the opener for his ninth victory of the year while his team-mates were rapping Jim Bagby and Jake Wade for fifteen safe blows.

Grove allowed seven hits, dueling on even terms with Willis Hudlin until the seventh frame of the second game, when the Cleveland Iron Man was removed for a pinch hiter. Then the Sox got to Tom Drake and Johnny Humphries for five hits, counting four runs off the latter in the ninth.

Every Indian except Feller and Shortstop Oscar Grimes collected a hit in the first game, Outfielder Jeff Heath getting three in five trips to the plate, including a home run. About 25,000 fans were in the stands.

BAER'S DREAM OF ANOTHER CHANCE AT TITLE SHATTERED BY NOVA

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK June 2—Max Baer's dream of another chance at the world heavyweight title he once held was shattered at the Yankee Staidum last night when Lou Nova, 24-year-old husky from Alameda, California, scored a knockout victory over the once-famed Livermore Larruper in the eleventh round of what was to have been a fifteen-round battle.

Referee Frank Fullam halted the bout after 1 minute 12 seconds of the eleventh round, at a time when Nova was well on the way to reducing to mincemeat the handsome figure that Baer had been when he entered the ring.

The former champion, the left side of his face battered out of shape after ten rounds of the most excruciating fighting he ever had undergone, was bleeding so profusely from a severe laceration of the lower lip that he could scarcely breathe.

Baer was a thoroughly beaten man at the time. Referee Fullam had stepped between the combatants earlier in the round as if to stop the battle because Baer had been suffering under the handicap for the preceding three rounds. But Baer waved the arbiter aside at the first threat of intervention. He wanted to fight.

NOVA LEAPS IN AGAIN

Signalled to resume fighting, Nova leaped in again, as he had done from the very first bell, even when Baer was battering with the power that is left in the mighty right arm that once claimed a victim almost every time it struck. The youth from Alameda was hammering the 30-year-old veteran in a reckless, furious onslaught when Fullam leaped resolutely between the pair as they locked on the ropes, Baer backed into the hempen strands in his own corner.

Nova was waved aside. A roar came from husky throats in a gathering of 16,738 who sat in on one of the most furious heavyweight battles seen in a local ring in years and paid $82,364 for the privilege.

Baer protested feebly. But Fullam clasped the ex-champion's arms, his gaze withheld Nova's fire, and the bout was over. Baer was beaten in the greatest fight he has provided for New York fans.

"I had to do it," said Fullam. "Baer was in no condition to continue. I let him go as far as I thought advisable. I wanted to give him every chance. But he was swallowing so much blood he couldn't breathe. He was gasping for air when I stepped between them. He could no longer defend himself."

WINNER CHEERED TO THE ECHO

There was no complaint because of Fullam's action. Even Baer, after that first impulsive feeble protest, bowed to the intervention. The crowd, judging by the deafening roar of acclaim which swept over the sparsely tenanted arena, was heartily in accord. Nova was cheered to the echo in a wild demonstration for a triumph that was in the final analysis another illustration of the adage that youth will be served.

In a struggle that was a throwback to primitive days, so furiously and viciously was it fought, youth was the deciding factor. Nova had it on his side and justified the confidence of those who had made him the favorite at odds of 4 to 5. He is 24 years old and has been boxing for only slightly more than three years. He is fired with ambition and he has the grim determination of youth.

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

Max Baer entered the ring at the Yankee Stadium last night with an advantage of 8½ pounds over his opponent, Lou Nova. Baer weighed 210½ and Nova 202. Frank Fullam was the referee and Bill Healey and Joe Lynch were the judges.

The round-by-round description of the bout follows:

FIRST ROUND

Baer drove a right to the heart. Nova pounded the body with both hands. Nova was short with a right for the head. Nova drove both hands to the body. Baer hit Nova, breaking from a clinch with a backhand punch, and was warned by the referee.

They traded punches to the body, and Baer drove Nova to the ropes with a sharp left hook to the midsection. Nova crashed a fast left to the head. Nova speared a left into Baer's face.

SECOND ROUND

Baer was wide with along left to the head. Nova gained close quarters and steadily drove both hands to the body. He shot both hands to the head. Nova hooked a hard left to the chin. Baer clubbed a right to the head and staggered Nova.

The latter held, then sent back a left and right to the body. They traded light lefts to the face. Baer drove a right high to the chin. Nova shot a right to the heart.

THIRD ROUND

Baer hooked a left to the head and Nova returned several lefts and rights to the body. Baer crashed a right to the face. Nova dug three lefts to the midsection. Baer landed a light right to the forehead. Baer shot a right to the heart and curled his left around Nova's head. Nova chopped a short hard right to the face, then drove both hands to the body. He sent a straight left to the face.

FOURTH ROUND

Nova tapped a right to the face and Baer returned a left hook to the head. Nova jabbed a left to the face and shot a right to the body that caused Baer to grimace. Baer drove a hard right to the heart. Nova ripped both hands to the head.

Nova crashed a right to the head and shot several straight lefts to the face. They traded punches toe to toe, with Nova landing the heavier and cleaner blows, to the head. Baer drove a hard right to the head and shook his foe. Baer hooked a left to the face and followed with a right to the jaw.

FIFTH ROUND

Nova ripped a right to the jaw. Baer landed a light left and a right to the head. Baer hooked a left to the body but Nova shot bock a heavy two-handed barrage to the midsection. Nova landed a right to the body and the punch landed out of bounds.

They exchanged crashing rights to the jaw. Baer sent a long right to the face. Nova shot back a right to the face. Baer hooked a left to the head. Baer drove a short right to the face and shook Nova. The round officially was Baer's because of a low blow.

SIXTH ROUND

Baer landed a right on the head. Baer crashed a right to the jaw. Nova shot a long right to the chin. Baer landed a right to the jaw and missed a hard left for the head. Nova tapped two lefts to the face.

Nova drove a right to the jaw and then sent a series of left jabs to the head. Baer shot three hard rights to the jaw. Baer hooked a left to the jaw and sent Nova to the ropes. Nova recovered quickly and sent a left and right to the head.

SEVENTH ROUND

Baer shot a right to the head and followed with two more to the same place. Nova was groggy but fought back gamely, landing a hard left to the head. Baer was short with a right to the head. Nova shot a right to the head.

Baer sent both hands to the body. Baer hooked a left to the head, but missed a right for the face. Baer landed a right to the jaw, but stepped into a right to the chin that made his knees buckle. Nova sent a stream of lefts and rights to the jaw just at the bell. Baer landed a left hook to the jaw that made Nova reel. The punch was delivered just after the bell, officially costing Baer the round.

EIGHTH ROUND

Baer shot two rights to the face. Nova lashed a left to the head and followed with a right smash to the jaw. Nova dug a left into the midsection. They traded rights to the fact. Nova shot two fast rights to the face.

Nova crashed a left into the body. Nova ripped a right uppercut to the chin. Nova struck his foe almost at will with lefts to the body and head.

NINTH ROUND

They exchanged left hooks to the head. Nova drove a short right to the face. Baer crashed a left hook to the head, but was wild with two follow-up rights to the head. Nova closed in and sprayed Baer's face with a variety of rights and lefts.

Baer hooked a left to the jaw. Nova backed Baer to the ropes and hit the ex-champion practically as he pleased with either hand. Nova slipped on the wet footing in Baer's corner, but grabbed a rope and kept his feet. They traded punches wildly near the close of the session, with Baer landing more effectively.

TENTH ROUND

Nova grazed the jaw with a long right. Baer tapped a light left to the face. Baer sent several light lefts to the face and then crossed a hard right to the jaw. Baer hooked a left to the face and landed a right to the head. Baer jabbed several lefts to the face.

Nova crashed a left to the body. Nova sent Baer's head back with a series of straight lefts and then ripped a short right uppercut to the chin. Nova delivered a right to jaw just before the bell.

ELEVENTH ROUND

Baer sent a left to the body and a right into Baer's face before crashing a sharp right to chin.

The left jabs that Nova had been sending into Baer's face affected the latter considerably. He was badly cut about the face as well as inside his mouth and the flow of blood almost prevented his breathing. Referee Fullam detected his plight and stepped in to halt the proceedings in 1 minute, 21 seconds of the round.

Chin and Rin Beat Konoye, Harada, 7 and 6

Fumitaka Konoye, son of former Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye and captain of the Princeton University golf team, paired with Moriji Harada, 1939 amateur champion, against Chin Sei-sui and Rin Manfuku, well-known pros of the Musashino and Tokyo Clubs respectively in a 36-hole 4-ball match Friday at the Fujigaya course at the Musashino Country Club. But the amateurs were no match for the pros, being beaten 7 and 6.

The match attracted considerable interest, there being a gallery of some 60 spectators. Harada was away off form and Konoye had a poor day with his usually long and accurate drives.

Chin was in brilliant form and carried the burden even of his partner, whose putting was woefully poor. He registered five birdies in the morning round and garnered three more in the afternoon before the match ended on the 12th hole.

WEST INDIES TEAM BEATS MIDDLESEX

The Times, London

LONDON, June 7—The West Indies team won their match at Lord's yesterday so easily that the sharp edge which lopped off the collective head of Middlesex was perhaps not quite appreciated. If ever a team did obligingly place their necks, one after the other, on the exact center of the block it was Middlesex; that always with the exception of the Rev. E. T. Killick, who explained, what all the others know, that on a fast wicket it is best to play forward. No one else seemed to agree with him, and so at 10 minutes past 1 the West Indies had won by an innings and 228 runs.

For the West Indies it was a triumph, a proof that they are in fact a very good side, a team who can claim to beat the best Country side that we can offer—Yorkshire always excepted. It has been suggested that they lack the fast bowlers who understand the true value of the new ball, such men as Robinson of a few years ago of Yorkshire, but for my part they seem to bowl fast enough with every hope of a snick from even the best of England's batsmen to have that one important wicket down before the clock has ticked 15 minutes. For, indeed, Martindale and Williams are fast. Their batting does not rely upon the great Headley, their bowling at any time wisely used is threatening, and their fielding, with Barrow behind the stumps, is truly first rate. So what team can you choose to beat them in a three-day match?

LITTLE HOPE

Middlesex had little hope yesterday morning with nine wickets already down for 127 runs, and one of those that of Compton. The hammer came down with such a bang as to send the object right to the top to ring the bell when Edrich, the last hope of Middlesex, was out leg-before-wicket as soon as the spectators had settled themselves in their seats. Constantine had a fairly long spell from the Nursery end, and one wondered whether he would not with his variation of pace have been even more perplexing from the other end, bowling into a wind which was fairly fresh from the north-east. He bowled Hulme, who can help his side nobly enough but who on this occasion was utterly deceived by the pace of the ball. There is no man now who can so completely bamboozle a batsman as Constantine can.

Killick played so well that he demanded a change in the bowling, and Sims, with a gesture which hoped that if the ball was struck before it turned and beat his blade, drove Cameron away to the off. At least we were to be permitted to see an attacking stroke, and many more followed when Killick put his left leg out to hit the ball past where an extra-cover might have been standing. Clarke had a turn of his leg-breaks, but Killick played out to them, and things were going on well enough until Sims drove a ball to mid-off. Cameron has not far to bend, and he took the catch easily. The 200 went up with the help of two balls which eluded the wicket-keeper and went for four byes; the first was an amazing ball form Sealey, who sent the ball down so short that even if Barrow had been standing on stilts he could not have got it as it passed over his head.

SUPERB CUTTING

Ingram, with his own idea of the line on which the ball was coming to him, hopped away to the leg side to stop it, and he made several neat deflections to leg, while Killick was playing his innings out. He could play this bowling—in fact, he can play most bowling on such a wicket. His cutting was superb, and when he drove the ball to the off side, having chosen the exact spot, there was no need for any fieldsman to attempt to put his hand to it. They had added 60 runs when Killick played a ball to mid-on for a run, just so short that Ingram had his wicket thrown down. Smith was bowled first ball; the bowler took an unkind liberty in pitching it just of the length which precludes the freedom of a blind swipe, and since it was straight Smith was bowled. Killick found some help in Gray, but this was the end of the game.

Twenty five thousand persons from throughout the country will compete in the Meiji Shrine games to be held in Tokyo between October 29 and November 3.

The yachting and swimming races, however, will be held in September. The dates for the Winter sports have not yet been decided.

The events will include:

Swimming, yachting, soccer, volleyball, tennis, field hockey, table tennis, Japanese fencing, judo, national defense games, group calisthenics, track and field, baseball, cycling, rugby, basketball, sumo, rowing, archery, target shooting, and horsemanship.

OUTSIDE TEAMS TO ROW IN HENLEY REGATTA

The Observer

LONDON, June 4—The foreign and colonial entries for Henley Royal Regatta which were announced yesterday morning show that there is to be competition from outside the United Kingdom for all of the open events except the Silver Goblets and Nickalls Cup. The other two trophies on the card, the Ladies' Challenge Plate and the Visitors' Challenge Cup, are confined to "home" school and college crews.

The full list of foreign entries is as follows:

Grand Challeng Cup.—*Argonaut Rowing Club, Canada; Harvard University, U.S.A.; Sydney Rowing Club, Australia.

Thames Challenge Cup.—*Browne and Nichols, U.S.A.; Fana Roklub, Norway; Kent School, U.S.A.; *Tabor Academy, U.S.A.

Stewards' Challenge Cup.—*Montevideo Rowing Club, Uruguay; Zurich Rowing Cub, Switzerland.

Wyfold Challenge Cup.—Kent School, U.S.A.; *Montevideo Rowing Club, Uruguay; Tigre Boat Club, Argentine.

Centenary Double Sculls.—*Montevideo Rowing Club, Uruguay; Societe Royale Nautique Anversoise, Belgium; Societa Cannottieri Nettuna di Trieste, Italy.

Diamond Challenge Sculls.—J. W. Burk, Penn Athletic Club, U.S.A.; R. W. Bates, Cambridge Boat Club, U.S.A.; N. D. Moffatt, Argonaut Rowing Club, Canada; H. J. Turner, Sydney Rowing Club, Australia.

*Subject to confirmation.

The entries show that nine foreign or colonial countries will be represented at the Centenaries will be represented at the Centenary Regatta which is to be held on July 5, 6, 7 and 8. It is one of the largest foreign entries ever received, and if the German entries had matured would undoubtedly have been a "record."

However, English crews and scullers have certainly a hard task before them if they are to retain any of the trophies against such strong competition. Both Harvard University and Sydney Rowing Club are past winners of the Grand Challenge Cup, the Americans having won in 1914 and the Australians in 1912. The Canadians have always been popular visitors to Henley, where they first competed in 1885. They last appeared in 1929, when they were narrowly beaten by London Rowing Club after a dead-heat.

TRIP FROM AMERICA

Tabor Academy are making another trip from America in an attempt to win the Thames Cup for the third time, and they are to be accompanied by the other American schools, Kent and Browne and Nichols, who are both former winners, Kent in 1933 and last year, and Browne and Nichols in 1929. The Fana Club from Norway have not been to Henley before, but Christiania Roklub won the trophy in 1921.

As they gave such a perfect exhibition of four-oared rowing when they won the Stewards' Cup in 1936, the return of the Zurich Rowing Club from Switzerland will please all rowing enthusiasts. The Montevideo Club will be newcomers to Henley, as also will be the Tigree Boat Club from Argentine, who are to compete for the Wyfold Cup. Kent School will also be making their debut in this event, which has never yet left the United Kingdom.

The Centenary Double Sculling race, which is being put on for the first time, has attracted entries from Belgium, Italy, and Uruguay, and so should provide interesting racing, whilst there are four entries for the Diamond Sculls, including the holder, J. W. Burk, of Penn Athletic Club. Bates has competed for the last three years, but has yet to win a heat, whilst Moffatt entered last year but withdrew. H. J. Turner is the Australian champion, and may be capable of extending the best of scullers.

Entries from British crews and scullers close on June 23, but everything points to a most successful "Henley."

GOMEZ FALTERS BUT DEFEATS INDIANS, 8-3

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

CLEVELAND, June 1—Lefty Gomez, who is one ball player who likes to see his performances spiced with thrills and dramatic moments, was not getting either today when he decided to take matters in his own hands.

Leading the Indians, 8 to 1, in the ninth inning, the Yank's singular pitcher suddenly had a feeling of great compassion for Ossie Vitt's harried Tribe. He permitted them to take all sorts of liberties with his delivery, allowed them to score two runs, the second of which he forced in with a pass, and finally filled the bases with two out.

Obviously, a homer at this point would have made the score 8—7, which doubtless would have aroused the 3,500 onlookers, if not the Indians themselves. But Lefty, a personable young man of many moods, changed tactics again and firmly clamped down on Bruce Campbell, whose mightiest effort resulted in nothing more than a harmless fly to dead center, and the conflict was over, with the score 8 to 3.

NO FUN MEETING YANKS

Even the Indians breathed a great sigh of relief, for the Tribe somehow seems to find no relish whatever in toying around with those Yanks, who with this victory appear to be fairly well launched on another triumphant swing around the battered Western half of the American League.

In fact, it took a long time today for the Indians to venture so much as wiggling a few ears. Down two runs in the first ining, Cleveland could muster nothing more than one base hit off Gomez in the first seven frames. Their three runs and remaining six hits all fell in the last two rounds. But by that time the Yanks, who scored four runs in the eighth, already had the conflict tucked safely away.

This gave Gomez his third victory of the season against two defeats, in addition to a great feeling of personal satisfaction. For Lefty also helped himself to two blows, the first of which paved the way for two Yankee tallies in the fifth, while the second banged in the last two of the four to drop into Marse Joe McCarthy's basket in the eighth.

CROSETTI STARTS ATTACK

Al Milnar, Cleveland left-hander, took the brunt of the beating before giving way to a pinch hitter in the eighth. In fact, he started giving ground as early as the first, when Frankie Crosetti's single, Red Rolfe's double, an infield out and Bill Dicky's sacrifice fly had him two down to Gomez.

In the fifth Gomez singled to left. This jarred the opposition so badly that Jim Webb, Indian shortstop, gummed up an easy double-play ball on Crosetti's grounder, and two more runs followed on Rolfe's single and an infield out.

Rolfe's third hit of the day, a deft bunt down the first-base line, started the Yankee surge in the eighth. Dickey and Charlie Keller singled, Joe Gordon doubled and two runs were in, with runners on second and third. This called for an intentional pass to Babe Dahlgren to fill the bases, but a moment later Gomez came through with a single to center and the Yanks had four for the round.

All-Star Cagers To Play on Sunday

The All-Japan basketball team to take on the Canadians, scheduled to arrive at Yokohama on July 4, will play two games by way of turning up their teamwork Sunday night at the Meiji Shrine Outer Gardens outdoor court.

In the first game at 7 p.m., the all-stars will take on Waseda University and at 8:30 p.m. will meet the Rikkyo University quintet.

Both Waseda and Rikkyo will also take on the Canadians.

Henkel and Puncec Enter Quarter-Finals Of Wimbledon Play

Domei Tsushin

WIMBLEDON, June 30—Henner Henkel, Germany's No. 1 Davis Cup star, and Ferenc Puncec, Yugoslav Ace, were among the eight players who advanced to the quarter-final round of the Wimbledon Championships, annual tennis classic, being played here.

In his fourth round match, Henkel played brilliantly to win over the French veteran, Jacques Brugnon in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0. In another fourth round contest, Puncec also won in straight sets over the Argentine No. 1 player, Russel, 6-3, 8-6, 6-1.

Others of the upper bracket who advanced to the quarter-finals were Smith, of the United States, who defeated the Hungarian ace Gabory 6-0, 6-4, 6-3, and the Indian player Gaus Mohammed, who whipped Szigeti of Hungary after five sets, 6-4, 6-4, 1-6, 2-6, 6-3.

ALL-STAR FIVE BEATS WASEDA AND RIKKYO

The three basketball teams that will take on the Canadian squad, arriving at Yokohama on Tuesday, in Tokyo matched their strengths in two games Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine outdoor court.

The All-Japan combination proved too good for both Waseda and Rikkyo universities. In the first game starting at 2 p.m., the all-stars bumped off Waseda, 46 to 29, although at the short end of a 14-12 score at halftime. In the second, they took the measure of the Rikkyo team, national inter-collegiate champions, by 32 to 20. Here again, they were behind 8-12 at halftime.

Yokoyama of Waseda, Kasahara, Cho and Kin Sei of Rikkyo, members of the All-Japan team played for their respective schools in the two games.

The All-Japan squad, however, showed that it was yet far from perfecting its teamwork. It will meet the Canadians on July 10 and 11 at the same court.

The Canadians will make their Tokyo debut on Friday, at 7:30 p.m., at the Meiji Shrine court against Waseda.

LEANDER CLUB PREPARES FOR HENLEY REGATTA

The Times, London

LONDON, June 12—Leander have had to make some changes in their crew for Henley, and they have had to wait for the end of term at the Universities before they can get down to serious work. Even now it does not seem quite certain what the crew will be, but when they go out at Henley next Wednesday the probable order of rowing will be something like this:—A. G. Leishman (bow), H. Parker, M. V. Buxton, H. A. W. Forbes, J. C. Cherry, J. Turnbull, C. B. Sanford, A. B. Hodgson (stroke). Three College boats at Cambridge—Trinity Hall, Clare, and Third Trinity—have had to surrender some of their best men to the needs of Leander.

But this is no ordinary year, and even if College boats are weakened, it is important that Leander shall be strong. Whether three weeks will be enough for this eight to get really together only time will show. On paper they look extremely strong, and it is certain that P. Haig-Thomas, who is to coach them, turn them into a good crew.

It is to be hoped that the luck of the draw will not bring Leander and London together in the first round, because it looks at the moment as if we shall have to rely very largely on these two to beat the oversea competition. London have now had a week at Molesey and in the calm conditions have improved a lot. Colonel G. L. Thomson, who has coached them for three weeks, has done wonders with them and he will hand over a most efficient machine to G. O. Nickalls, who will do the coaching for the next fortnight.

London are still making experiments with their Stewards' four, but the ultimate crew will probably be U. N. Carpmael (bow), T. B. Langton, P. H. Jackson, R. Parker (stroke). This will be an extremely heavy four with an average weight of nearly 14 st. Carpmael and Parker will also represent London in the Silver Goblets.

Thames are hoping to do their work for the next fortnight at Kingston and they are sure to benefit by a change from the Tideway. They have now fixed their crews, the lastest arrangement being that E. C. Kirkpatrick and J. T. O'Mara will be paired in the Goblets. Quintin were quite impressive when they won the Senior Eights at Chiswick last week. Except that E. W. Morris, the captain, has come in at No.3 in place of J. Lindley, they have rowed in unchanged order for weeks and are really well together. In addition to their eight Quintin have a Wyfold four rowing as follows: N. Miroy (bow), R. Bettle, T. G. Richardson, L. Shrieve ((stroke).

To celebrate the record of C. W. Kent, who has acted as secretary of Molesey Regatta for more than 40 years, a sepical committee has arranged for a new trophy named after him to be competed for at the regatta. This trophy, which will be awarded to the club which wins the most events at the regatta, is a model in silver of the famous Wren temple in Garrick's Garden, which can be seen from the course. A small replica of the trophy will be presented to Mr. Kent as a memento of his great service.

Futabayama Wins Tourney At Koshien

Grand Champion Futabayama won the 15-day sumo tournament ending Sunday at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka, with 13 victories and two defeats. One setback was charged against him when he forfeited a bout, having been unable to make an appearance because of business pressure. He lost the other to Itsutsushima, stalwart of the Dewanoumi camp.

The wrestlers will leave shortly for a barnstorming tour in Manchoukuo, after which a group will give exhibitions in North China to console the soldiers on the front.

GIANT PANDAS TOP ADSDEAN FOUR, 10 TO 4

The Times, London

LONDON, June 12—Ranelagh had their biggest crowd of the season on Saturday when the Giant Pandas met Adsdean in the final round of the Open Cup, and, although the Giant Pandas won rather easily by 10 goals of 4, the spectators were treated to an exhibition of polo which at times reached great heights.

The Giant Pandas, with an advantage of 2½ goals on handicap, were naturally expected to win, especially as every member of the side has recently been playing well up to and, in some cases, above his individual handicap, but the margin of their victory, which in no way exaggerated their superiority, certainly came as a distinct surprise. Moreover, Adsdean's somewhat crushing defeat was due not so much to their own weaknesses but rather to the brilliance of the Giant Pandas. On their present form, indeed, the Giant Pandas, who, with their younger brothers, the Pandas, have already had a very successful season, should have little difficulty in crowning their present achievements by winning the Champion Cup at Hurlingham in a fortnight's time.

BRILLIANT COVERING

J. P. Robinson, who on the program was listed to play No. 2, actually spent most of the game in the No. 1 position, and if Adsdean hoped that this positional change would increase the thrust in the final phases of their attack, and by doing so keep H. P. Guinness reasonably quiet, they were doomed to disappointment. Far from being subdued, Guinness, who was always brilliantly covered by the Hon. J. Hamilton-Russell, kept the attack of the Giant Pandas moving at a speed which forced and kept the entire Adsdean side on the defensive. Furthermore, Adsdean's main strength this season has been in the middle of their game where Captain H. G. Morrison and Robinson have established an understanding which has been a source of worry to many a defense, and it was a pity that this combination, in which Captain Lord Louis Mountbatten has always fitted extremely well, was not allowed to stand. Still, there cannot be any doubt that Adsdean, under any circumstances, would have been beaten, and perhaps they felt that this experiment would at least give them some little hope of success.

The combination between N. Dugdale and the Hon. W. K. Rous—a combination which was certainly one of the features, if not the outstanding feature of the game—soon had Adsdean's defense in trouble. Gathering a back-handed clearance from Guinness. Dugdate went forward with a beautiful control of the ball and pushed a pass through for Rous to score the first of five goals for his side. Guinness increased the lead with a magnificent shot taken from quite 70 yards out, and from a hit-up by Hamilton-Russell Rous drove the ball hard through. Guinness's back-handed hitting was one of the outstanding features of the game, and from the near-side of his pony he sent in a shot which, although Hamilton-Russell did supply the finishing touch, looked a goal all the way.

There came a partial recovery by Adsdean, for whom Lord Louis Mountbatten in quick succession scored two penalty goals from 40-yard hits; and in these days, when penalty hits at open goals seem to present strange difficulties to the hitter, it is worthy of note that from the three penalty hits awarded during the course of the game three goals were scored. A bad defensive mistake by Adsdean, which left Lord Louis Mountbatten uncovered, brought this recovery to an abrupt end, and Rous went through on his own to hit fifth goal. A cross by Robinson gave Guinness the chance to drive the ball through an open goal, and after a grand shot by Captain Morrison had given Adsdean some little relief a fine piece of combined play ended in Hamilton-Russell breaking clear of the defense.

A beautiful back-handed pass by Dugdate found Guinness nicely placed, and that was another goal for the Giant Pandas. Again Captain Morrison, always on the lookout for the slightest chance, met a center from Robinson successfully, but in the final chukka two goals by Rous, the first of which he scored with one of the best shots of the match, completed the rout of Adsdran.

The teams were:

ADSDEAN—The Hon. M. R. Samuel, No. 1; J. P. Robinson, No. 2; Captain H. G. Morrison, No. 3; and Captain Lord Louis Mountbatten, RN., back.

GIANT PANDAS—N. Dugdale, No. 1; W. K. Rous, No. 2; J. Hamilton-Russell, No. 3; and H. P. Guinness, back.

BOXING RULES MAY BE CHANGED IN BRITAIN

The Times, London

LONDON June, 9—Some important proposals affecting the rules and the general control of professional boxing will be discussed at the annual general meeting of the British Boxing Board of Control at Cardiff today.

Perhaps the most revolutionary and controversial proposal will be that in future boxing shall be conducted under rules to be known as British Boxing Board of Control rules. Those would displace the long-established and widely accepted National Sporting Club rules. The stewards of the Board will place this proposed alteration before the meeting. One also can foresee a good deal of lively discussion of other matters. The stewards, for example, will ask delegates to sanction another change, which would enable a boxer who has fallen through the ropes 10 seconds to regain his feet unaided outside the ring and be permitted to climb back again immediately afterward. As the suggestion now stands there would seem to be a certain amount of ambiguity as to when the count beigns and the exact length of time will be allowed to expire between the time when the boxer disappears through the ropes and is back again in the ring set for fighting. Certainly the new rule will require careful drafting. As the rules now stand a boxer who has fallen out of the ring and failed to get back again inside 10 seconds is adjudged to have been knocked out. This happened twice last season, when Ben Ford and Jack Doyle were the unfortunates. Admittedly it is not always unfortunate to be knocked out of the ring—much depends upon who remains inside.

THE QUESTION

Then, there will be the delicate, and occasionally indelicate, matter of "takings." Everybody is acutely interested in these, even the boxers. At present the Board is able to levy 5 per cent on all tournaments at which the gross receipts are £2,500 or more. Now they propose that the "takings" shall include "television, broadcast, film, and still picture photography." In other words, if a promoter is paid for television and broadcasting rights, his receipts from that source must be included in the "gross takings" for the fight upon which the Board draws its levy. This sounds extremely full of controversy. The Board's accounts for the year ended December 31, 1938, showed an excess of expenditure over income of £2,748. Receipts from the tournament tax amounted to £2,141, as compared with £5,087 in the previous year. In the Benevolent Fund there was an excess of expenditure over income of £296. These may or may not be significant figures.

Then, as one already has ventured to remark, there are the boxers, and especially the lesser known boxers. The National Boxing Association, who have undertaken the interests of the fighting men, have issued a statement in which they "call the attention of delegates at Cardiff to its request that the Board should enforce minimum purse rates for preliminary boxers." The N.B.A. also "urges the Cardiff meeting to devote at least part of its time to the plight of the Cinderellas of boxing, who do most of the fighting, and to insist upon fair purses for them"—a piece of irony which conceivably may not be entirely wasted.

Argentine Golfers Beaten in England

The Times, London

LONDON, June 6—The team of Argentine professional golfers were beaten yesterday when, on the Lady Dorothy Wood Municipal course of the Leeds Corporation, at Templenewsam, a British team won by five matches to three with one halved.

The result of the singles, of which each side won three, suggests that the Argentine players may do well in the play for the remainder of the week, then they compete in the professional tournament. M. Pose, M. Churio, and J. Jurado were their winners yesterday.

Nagoya Wins National Table Tennis Title

Nagoya won the All-Japan inter-city table tennis title at the two-day championships ending Sunday at Keijo, according to Domei.

Nagoya entered the finals by defeating Kobe City, 3 to 0, while Osaka did so vanquishing Tokyo, 3 to 2, in a major upset.

Nagoya bested Osaka, 3 to 0, in the finals. Okuma and Ito of Nagoya defeated Kurahashi and Morita, 3 to 2 each, in the singles. Kawakami and Okuma took the measure of Morita and Fujimura, 3 to 2, in the doubles.

LIFFEN WINS SPRINTS IN LONDON MEET

The Times, London

LODON June 12—A number of the counties held their championship meeting on Saturday, and—it may have been the hot weather and, in some cases, the loose tracks—the standards on the whole were low.

Surrey, who were the county champions, took their meeting to Walton-on-Thames, a very pleasant spot in the conditions, but still hot. The ground itself, with its cinder track and covered grandstand, has recently been constructed by the local council, and this was made the occasion or its formal opening. A largely local crowd of some 2,000 people, men, women, and children, watched the athletics. In addition to the county championship events, which included a tug-of-war in which the Buckman family (and one or two others) from Cranleigh again wore down the opposition, there were several relay races for juniors. Here one noted the excellent handing on of the baton by the runners of Guildford Grammar School, who won both the junior championship and a race for boys under 16. The outstanding features of the day, however, were the strong running of A. T. Liffen in each of the sprints, two splendid discus throws by D. L. Grigg, whose 141ft. 5½in. was a best performance for Surrey and no more than 17in. behind the English native record, A. W. Kinally's 11ft, in the Pole Vault—another Surrey record—and the rather unusual double event achieved by R. C. E. Kiralfy, who first retained his Long Jump title at 22ft. 7in. and later won the 440 Yards Hurdles in 59.3sec. Kiralfy narrowly missed winning three events at the meeting, for he was only ¾in. behind L. T. Stone in the Hop, Step, and Jump.

TWO IMPORTANT ABSENTEES

It was, of course, the absence of T. L. Lockton which contributed toward the hurdles victory of Kiralfy in such moderate time. It also removed any prospect of a close finish in the 120 Yards Hurdles, for no one but Lockton could have challenged F. V. Scopes, of Oxford. Scopes, one observed, had a plastered thigh, but his hurdling was good to see and, later on, with any luck and on sounder going, he should accomplish something much better than an easy victory in 16 seconds.

Then there was the absence of A. G. Balwin from the Half-Mile. Baldwin was there, properly dressed and equipped, not many yards away from the start, but he was engaged in discussing his county qualifications with some officials and the discussion evidently went against him. One gathered afterwards that he really was Middlesex, not Surrey. How such situations arise always is a mystery, but the fact remained that this withdrawal of Baldwin paved the way to a creditable victory by K. T. Roberts, of Mitcham. In a heat he beat G. F. Morris, of Thames Valley Harriers, in 2min. 3.8sec. In the final Morris set the pace and led all the way very nearly up to the tape. G. A. Beck, of London University, was close behind, but made no impression until the last few strides. Then it became really exciting. Morris was cracking. Beck was gaining a little at last, but running himself out completely in the process. All this was happening inside a comparatively few yards. It was then that Roberts raced up—struggled up perhaps would be a better expression—into line. He showed first in front of Beck, and then in the very last stride he beat Morris. The winning time of 2min. 0.3sec. was not to be despised in the conditions, even if it was some 3.7sec. more than T. Hampson's Surrey record.

A. T. Liffen did well to win the Hundred Yards in 10.1sec. by a yard from T. R. Jover, of Herne Hill, with R. R. Kirk a very close third. Liffen's strong stride similarly served him well on the rather loose going in the 220 Yards, which he won by two yards from D. E. Redsull, an Old Rutlishian, in 23.3sec., a time only just inside the county standard. In the final of the 440 Yards J. S. H. Williams overhauled and outstayed H. G. Trodd, who had set a pace beyond his own capabilities—at any rate in the conditions.

EASY RUN FOR PELL

The Mile produced a somewhat hollow triumph for the holder, D. B. Pell, who won by 50 yards in the poor time for such a runner of 4min. 29.1sec. T. M. Rowe, of Herne Hill, won the Three Miles with 10 seconds to spare, but his time was only 5sec. inside the county standard and nearly three-quarters of a minute outside P. Hennessey's county record. In the Two Miles Walk there were four Belgrave Harriers and one member of the Surrey Walking Club. The four, however, were reduced to two, for D. E. Brown did not start and H. G. Churcher, another outstanding man, was pulled out of the race almost at once. This left it to the brothers Coleman and M. J. Fisher. The more stylish of the Colemans won in more than a minute slower time than Brown's Surrey record—but again the heat and a loose track were ample excuses.

In a further reference to the Field Events it should be mentioned that in the Pole Vault M. V. Blake, the holder, who now was second to Kinally, at least equalled his own previous best at 10ft. 9in. In the Weight Grigg was well beaten by Captain Kealy, the Milocarian, but his two Discus throws of over 141ft. were almost the best efforts of the meeting.

REES CAPTURES PRO GOLFERS' PLAY IN LONDON

The Times, London

LONDON, June 12—D. Rees (Hindhead) won the Yorkshire Evening News professional gold tournament at Temple Newsam on Saturday afternoon by holing a long putt for a 3 from the back of the green at the 37th hole, after being twice four down to J. Hargreaves, of Walmley. It was a great achievement and a wonderful example of courage and endurance, for he was never square till the 36th hole, nor did Hargreaves ever show a sign of cracking. Hargreaves, although naturally a disappointed man, has not only added to his reputation but has undoubtedly arrived. He is a sound golfer and more will be heard of him, especially if, as he will, he adds a little to his length from the tees.

It proved a fine fighting final at the finish and worthy in every way of the golf that had preceded it and the glorious weather that did not break until after the last putt had been holed. The interest in the morning round, played in ideal conditions of cool wind and under a grey sky, came toward the end, although the earlier stages were in no way dull. Hargreaves won the first hole in a 4 and then came a remarkable sequence of nine halved holes that would take far too long either to describe or read. It is enough to give the figures, which were:

Hargreaves.—Out.—4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4, 4=35.

Rees.—Out.—5, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4, 4=36.

HALVED IN 4

The long 10th hole was halved in 5 and then with Hargreaves playing the 11th and 12th excellently and winning them in 4's to 5's and Rees appearing to feel the strain of his match with Pose it looked as if the game had taken a definite turn in Hargreave's fvaor. When, after the next two holes had been halved in 4 and 4 respectively, Hargreaves holed a 20ft. putt for a 2 at the short 15th to become four up and followed this with a good drive, whereas Rees pulled his tee shot into a bunker, there were many murmurs of "the match is as good as over." But not a bit of it. From that bunker Rees made a magnificent recovery to within six yards of the pin, and Hargreaves was so taken by surprise that he was short all the way and lost the hole to a 4 after putting Ree's ball nearer to it.

Rees, with this blessed relief to hearten him, won the 17th in 4, where Hargreaves lifted his head playing his approach, pulled it, and then was short with his chip. That was back to two and one had visions of Ress finishing only one down. However, it was not to be: Rees's second to the 18th sidled over the bank of the right of the green, his chip was too strong, and Hargreaves, having laid a pitch and run by the hole from short of the green, got in a shrewd blow and went into luncheon with a very valuable lead of three holes. Hargreaves was 71 for the round, Rees three strokes more.

AFTER LUNCH

The wind was fresher when the second round started with a gallery that had certainly increased in volume. Hargreaves immediately added to his lead, and with the next hole halved in 4, which meant four down with 16 to play, things looked rather black for Rees, especially against an opponent as brave a fighter as himself. To the short hole, however, Rees showed his metal, for after Hargreaves had put his tee shot within a yard Rees laid his within 18in. and won it in 2. He also won the next in 4 to 5, laying a difficult little chip from beyond the green stone dead, and that was back to two. The next four holes changed hands, leaving the position the same, but to the 27th Rees pulled his second and Hargreaves encouraged his supporters by becoming three up. The 28th was halved, and then Rees got in two telling blows, winning the 29th in a good 4—he lipped the hole for a 3—and the 30th, where Hargreaves let him off by taking three putts. The 31st and 32nd holes were well halved in 3 and 4 apiece, and then it was Hargreaves's turn again, for at the short hole into the wood he ran down a long putt for a 2 after Rees had laid a chip dead from the bank at the back of the green that to all appearances left his ball dead in the line of Hargreaves's.

Looking back at the match I think the 34th hole supplied the real turning point, for Hargreaves pulled his tee shot into a bunker and then pulled weakly, allowing Rees to win in 6 and be only one down. Both played indifferent approaches to the 35th, which was halved in 5, and then at the 36th Rees, after Hargreaves had been bunkered, holed a brave putt of 5ft. to draw level at last. And having got on terms he promptly administered the coup de grace, for, after Hargreaves had recovered so well from the bunker biting into the left of the green as to have a putt for a 4, Rees ran down his slippery "steel" and all was over.

SIAMESE WINS MOTOR RACING IN ENGLAND

The Times, London

LONDON, June 12—B. Bira, the Siamese driver, scored his fourth consecutive victory this season when he won the Nuffield Trophy Race at Donington Park on Saturday. On this occassion he drove Prince Chula's 1938-type E.R.A. into first place at an average speed of 75.87 m.p.h. for the 200 miles, finishing 1min. 29sec. in front of R. Mays (E.R.A.), who had followed him at a short distance throughout the race. P. N. Whitehead, on another E.R.A., finished third, over a lap behind Bira.

The interest promised by the list of entries was, unfortunately, dissipated by a series of misfortunes. Chief of these was the scratching of H. W. Cook's new E.R.A. The car had behaved splendidly in practice during the week, but on Friday the starting spindle, which also carries the oil pump drive, was strained by he portable electric starter. This caused the oil pump drive to seize and shear, and it is so happened that Dobson was then going over a part of the course where it is impossible to spare a glance for the instrument dials. In that brief period the lack of lubrication damaged the bearings. It was decided to fit a new engine, and this was done by the mechanics who worked all night. Dobson took the car out for a gentle spin on Saturday morning, but the pistons were too tight for speed, and Mr. Cook was forced to withdraw the car. Meanwhile R. E. Tongue had met with equally bad luck when his Maserati lost a tooth in its reduction gear and he had to scratch from the race. Finally, R. Parnell's new racer, the Challenger, could not be completed in time.

MORE MISHAPS

This streak of ill fortune persisted in the race itself. At the start P. Maclure (Riley) went off at a great speed and was leading Bira and Mays by a clear margin for five laps. Then the constant-mesh mechanism of his gearbox failed at Coppice Corner, and one of the best drivers in the race was out of the running. In the meantime A. P. R. Rolt, who was expected by many to repeat his victory in the Empire Trophy race on this circuit last April, had come to a halt at his pit after one lap with a misfiring engine. Thereafter his E.R.A. made several visits to the pits for plugs and other adjustments, finally retiring with a damaged chassis and apparently incurable plug trouble.

Maclure's withdrawal had let Bira into the lead, which he did not relinquish for the rest of the race. For a long time he was tailed by Mays at an interval which gradually increased; 13 seconds after 10 laps, 12 seconds after 40 laps, and 26 seconds after 50 laps. Mays was driving quietly and steadily, being content to let Bira set the pace and thereby save his own car for a possible spurt at the end. As the race went on, however, his brakes appeared to weaken, and his chance of winning evaporated entirely when it was realized that he would have to stop to refuel and that Bira could complete the distance non-stop. The pit-stop was one of the most frenzied ever seen, fuel being splashed about in all directions and drenching the cameras of Press photographers who were recording the scene. The time taken to fill up with water and replenish the petrol tank was 29 seconds. Then came the culminating blow. Mechanics pushed the car to start it, and, as the engine fired, a cloud of blue smoke told its tale. One plug at least was promptly oiled, and Mays was forced to finish the race at reduced speed, for another stop might have cost him his certain second place. In any case, he could not have caught Bira.

Whitehead was a good thrid, driving well throughout the race and having one refuelling stop of a minute. R. E. Ansell, who handed over his E.R.A. half way through the race to B. N. Shaw-Taylor, was lucky to get fourth place, for R. Hanson was in this position until a damaged gearbox put him out five laps from the end. Shaw-Taylor, incidentally, showed exceptionally good form, his cornering having a confident quality about it that is the mark of a naturally good driver.

B. Bira, entrant H.R.H. Prince Chula of Siam (E.R.A. 1488), 64 laps in 2hr. 38min. 10sec., speed 75.87 m.p.h., 1; R. Mays (E.R.A. 1488), 64 laps in 2hr. 39 min. 48sec., speed 75.09 m.p.h., 2; P. N. Whitehead (E.R.A. 1488), 63 laps in 2 hr. 39min. 14sec., speed 74.18 m.p.h., 3; R. E. Ansell and B. N. Shaw-Taylor (E.R.A. 1488), 62 laps in 2hr. 38min. 54sec., speed 72.98 m.p.h., 4; C. J. P. Dodson, entrant J. Dibos (Maserati 1494), 59 laps in 2hr. 38min. 45sec., 5; C. Pollock (E.R.A. 1488), 59 laps in 2hr. 38min. 58sec., 6; P. Aitken (E.R.A. 1488), 59 laps in 2hr. 41min. 32sec., 7; H. L. Hadley, entrant Lord Austin (Austin 744), 58 laps in 2hr. 38min. 46 sec., 8; F. R. Gerard (Riley 1486), 58 laps in 2hr. 38min. 54sec., 9.

CANADIAN SWIMMER DEFEATED BY HAWAIIAN-BORN JAPANESE

The Nippu Jiji

HONOLULU, June 19—Hawaiian natators made it a clean sweep over Bob Pirie, the Canadian champion, in the AAU outdoor swimming championships when Takashi Hirose, kingpin of the territorial sprinters, won the 100-meter freestyle Saturday night at the Natatorium.

A crowd of 1,000 attended the final-night events.

Pirie's defeat was the third in four starts. He dropped the 400 and 800 to Kiyoshi Nakama, Hirose's teammate, and gained a tie with Nakama in the 200. In the latter event, he was credited with a new record but in the event this record is recognized, Nakama will be the official record holder as the AAU rules specify that the record must remain with the "home" association.

In Saturday's feature events, the contestants were Hirose, Nakama and Keichi Kakuda. From the start it was a two-man race with Hirose and Pirie engaging in a bitter neck-to-neck battle all the way. Hirose won by a matter of inches, his time being 59.7, much faster than Peter Fick's 1:00.2 which was good enough for first place at the Nationals last year.

The Hawaiian record is 58 flat, held by Johnny Weissmuller. The American record is 57.8, and this, too, is held by "Tarzan" Weissmuller.

HAWAIIAN RECORDS GO

Two Hawaiian records were broken during the meet. The record-breakers were:

Benny Castor (Maui) in the 200 breaststroke men's Hawaiian championship, 2:56.2. Former record of 3:03 made by Adolph Desha.

Maui's team (Jose Balmores, Benny Castor, Takashi Hirose) in the 300 medley relay men's Hawaiian championship, 3:32.6. Former record of 3:36.1 made by Hui Makani. (Winning National time last year, 3:32.2.)

In other standout events, Barney Pung won the 200 backstroke from Pete Powlison, Yoshie Higashida of Maui lowered Lulu Kea's time in the 200 breaststroke by 8.2 seconds, Yvonne Hussey beat Mitsuko Higuchi by a shade in the 100 freestyle and Art Rutherford defended his diving title.

NAKAMA WINS

By WALLACE HIRAI

HONOLULU, June 17—Kiyoshi Nakama, Hawaii's leading candidate for a berth on Uncle Sam's Olympic team next year, again stood out in the spotlight as the second-night events of the Hawaiian AAU outdoor swimming championships were held at the Natatorium last night before over 2,000 fans.

After winning the 400-meter free-style on Thursday, Nakama added the 800, then in the 200 he tired Bob Pirie, the Canadian champion, in record-breaking time.

The former record of 2:13.6 was held by one of the greatest aquatic heroes—Johnny "Tarzan" Weismuller. Pirie's and Nakama's time for the 200 was 2:13.3, and this makes it the second time that the Japanese lad has broken Weissmuller's record.

In winning the 400 from Pirie on Thursday, Nakama did it in 4:51.1, Weissmuller's former Hawaiian mark being 4:52 flat.

Incidentally, Weissmuller's 2:13.6 was also an American long-course record so that Nakama becomes the new American record holder as well.

Following the race, an official of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the meet's sponsors, announced that inasmuch as Pirie is a visitor, Nakama will be credited with the new record. This is one of the rules of the AAU, that the record should remain with the "home" association.

In the featured 200 only three paddlers took off with the starter's gun, Takashi Hirose of Maui being the only other contestant.

Pirie started out at a fast clip and at one point held a five-yard advantage over his rivals. At the turn, however, Nakama was almost even, and Hirose was a yard behind. All the way home Pirie and Nakama raced neck-and-neck with Hirose trailing by a mere yard and never more.

FANS APPLAUD VERDICT

The officials and the fans could not pick out a winner as the two leaders touched the Waikiki end of the tank simultaneously. The draw verdict was announced after considerable discussion by the officials, met the hearty approval of the spectators.

The 800, the other featured event, was more one-sided in that Nakama won it as he pleased, leading Pirie home by 13 strokes, and Pirie in turn finished ahead of Nuuanu Y's James Tanaka by 24 strokes. Bunmei Nakama, Kiyoshi's younger brother, was fourth. Jerome Tarutani of Nuuanu Y withdrew at end of the sixth lap.

A log of the 800 follows:

First lap—Tanaka first, 1:10.5.
Second lap—Nakama first, 2:28.
Third lap—Nakama, no time announced.
Fourth lap—Nakama, 5:06.
5th lap—Nakama, 6:25.5.
Sixth lap—Nakama, 7:45.
Seventh lap—Nakama, 9:08.

The victor was flagged home in 10:20.7, much faster than title holder Maurice Fursho's 11:47 made in '35 but slower than Buster Crabbe's Hawaiian record of 10:15.2.

The meet opened with Takeshi Kitagawa of Maui winning the 200 breaststroke, men's junior championship in 2:56.1. The winning time at the National meet last year was 3:02.9.

MITSUKO APPROACHES RECORD

Mitsuko Hibuchi, Maui's most versatile girl swimmer, copped the 300 individual medley over her teammate, Fujiko Katsutani, in 4:50.4. The Hawaiian record of 4:49.4, made in 1929, is held by Eleanor Holm. The winning time at the National last year was 5:03.

In the 100 backstroke men's championship, Barney Pung led the field, leading home Pete Powlison by two yards in 1:11.6. The Hawaiian record is 1:10.9 while the American record, held by Adolph Kiefer, is 1:05.6.

Toyoko Takeyama edged out Mitsuko Higuchi in the 200 backstroke in 3:08.9. This is a new event, the 220 Hawaiian record being 3:03.2 and held by Eleanor Holm.

Barney Pung barely nosed out Jose Balmores in the 300 individual medley in 4:08.9. He received the Pung memorial trophy put up by friends of the late Charlie Pung, his elder brother.

PIRIE BEATEN

HONOLULU, June 16—Two years ago an unknown youngster, standing a mere 5 feet 2 and weighing 120 pounds, soared into aquatic prominence by defeating Ralph Gilman, 1936 American Olympic team member, in the 400-meter freestyle at the War Memorial Natatorium.

Last night over the same distance and in the same pool, that same youngster scored another smashing victory, this time vanquishing Canada's great champion, Robert "Boy" Pirie.

To try to keep the lad's name a secret would be impossible simply because he's known the world over. Kiyoshi Nakama is the name—Maui's little "giant killer" who is the talk of the swimming world today.

In leading Pirie home last night, Nakama won by three yards and in the fast time of 4:51.1 to shatter the existing Hawaiian record of 4:52 flat. The old record was held by none other than the all-time freestyle champion, "Tarzan" Johnny Weissmuller, who created it back in 1927.

SHOWS FAST IMPROVEMENT

Previously, Nakama's best time in the Hawaiian outdoor championships over this distance was 5:03.9. The difference between this and the winning time last night gives you a fair idea as to just how much the pint-sized Valley Islander has improved in the last two years.

The crowd of 1,000 that attended last night's Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored meet, was singular in the opinion that Kiyoshi would have lowered the record by even a bigger margin had Pirie set a faster pace through the first three laps during which time the Japanese lad exerted himself just so that he kept abreast of his rival. He clung on tenaciously to Pirie's heels, then 35 meters to the finish he cut loose and tagged the Waikiki end of the tank fully 10 feet ahead of his rival.

Other records went by the boards last night.

In the 100-meter freestyle women's junior championship, Fujiko Katsutani of Maui clicked in a 1:18.6 time which bettered the former record of 1.24.4, made by Miss Kane last year.

Then in the 100 freestyle men junior, Pete Powlison of Citywide registered 1:01.1, knocking of the 1:02.3 made by Clarence "Buster" Crabbe back in 1930.

In the 1,500 meters freestyle, James Tanaka of Nuuanu Y lowered the previous record made by a local swimmer. His time of 20:51.2 lowered the 21:53.6 set by Maurice Furusho (Hui Makani) in 1934. The Hawaiian record, however, is 19:42.6, held by Ralph Flanagan who made it in 1935 in a meet featuring Bob Kiphuth's collegiate all-stars.

TANAKA THRILLS

Nakama and Pirie, who were to clash in the 1,500 meters, withdrew from this event to concentrate on the 400. The fans were not disappointed, however, because the two boys put on an exciting dog-fight in the shorter number and James Tanaka thrilled the spectators with his stellar showing in the gruelling distance event.

In the featured 400 the final event on the initial program of the three-night meet, six contestants hit the water. Pirie moved into the lead quickly and at the turn held a one-yard advantage over Nakama who in turn led Jose Balmores, his teammate.

From the second lap the race became a two-way affair with Pirie and Nakama gradually pulling away from the field. After trailing the first two and a half laps, Nakama finally caught up with Pirie. They hit the final turn almost simultaneously, then through the first half of the final lap they raced neck-and-neck. By this time the spectators were going wild.

Nakama backers cheered lustily when their favorite pulled away with a mighty spurt 35 meters from the finish. With about 10 meters left, realizing that the race was lost, Pirie gave up. He eased up going in.

When these two champions clashed last night, they just launched a friendly rivalry that promises to last for a long while. It may even go as far as Helsingfors, Finland, where the Olympics will be held next year.

In the other big event, the 1,500, Tanaka jumped into the lead early and held it throughout, with neither Bunmei Nakama nor Jerome Tarutani, the only other contestants, challenging him. Tanaka beat Nakama by 75 yards and Nakama in turn was 75 yards ahead of Tarutani when he finished.

Tanaka's lap times follow:

Distance	Log	Lap times
100-m	1:14	1:14
200-m	2:30	1:16
300-m	3.54	1:24
400-m	5:11	1:17
500-m	6:42	1:31
600-m	8:06	1:24
700-m	9:31	1:25
800-m	10:57	1:26
900-m	12:23	1:26
1,000-m	13:48	1:25
1,100-m	15:14	1:26
1,200-m	16:40	1:26
1,300-m	18:07	1:27
1,400-m	19:33	1:26
1,500-m	20:51.2	1:18.2
Total		20:51.2

(Note: Time for first 100 was not announced. It's an approximate time).

Side features of the meet were the musical entertainment of the Firemen's Hawaiian band, the comic diving of Art Ruthford and Carl Simonson, and the minute's silence that the crowd observed in reverance to Coach Soichi Sakamoto's brother who was drowned earlier this week on Maui.

National Swimming Program for Children Scheduled on Aug. 6

In its campaign to make every Japanese a swimmer, the Japan Swimming Federation will stage its second national children's swimming day on Sunday, August 6.

With the Meiji Shrine pool as the center of the activities, children throughout the nation will plunge into the water simultaneously at 10 a.m. with directions by a radio broadcast.

After various races, the affair will close at 11 a.m.

CANADIAN FIVE ARRIVES FOR GAMES HERE

Canada's championship basketball team for 1938 and 1939 composed of twelve members, all ranging in the neighborhood of six feet in height, and led by Manager P. A. Winckler arrived at Yokohama early this morning on board the N.Y.K. liner Hikawa Maru from Vancouver to play a series of games with Japanese teams at the invitation of the Japan Basketball Association.

The Canadian quintet has been ballyhooed by the vernacular press here as the world's second best team, ranking next to the American national champions. Hence, the forthcoming games with the All-Japan team have been described in the nature of tilts to decide the runner-up to the Americans.

PRAISES JAPANESE

"Even in Canada, the Japanese have won a wonderful reputation as dead shots at the basket," said Manager Winckler, "and though we believe that our chances of winning are very good, it is impossible to make any comments until we see for ourselves just how good the boys here are.

"Most of the players on our team are college men but at present we are all office workers who have obtained leave of absence from our respective firms to come to Japan. While we are chiefly interested in basketball, we hope that through the medium of sports we shall be able to create a better understanding between the peoples of our two countries.

"We feel that we in Canada have not been getting the whole story to the China Affair, so during our short stay here, we hope that we shall be able to gather accurate information to take back with us."

Disembarking from the boat, the Canadian team proceeded immediately to Tokyo where they paid their respects to His Majesty the Emperor at the Imperial Palace Plaza. They then visited the Yasukuni Shrine and registered at the Marunouchi Hotel which will be their headquarters while in Tokyo.

PLAY FRIDAY

Their first game will be played at 7 p.m. Friday night at the Meiji Shrine outdoor wrestling amphitheater against Waseda University.

The members of the team are J. M. Bardsley, J. A. Beaton, F. D. Bolton, J. W. Gordon, M. A. Parsons, E. B. Ritchie, G. H. Ross, C. R. Siborne, A. Watson, P. A. Winckler, A. W. Willoughby and R. J. Wright.

The remaining schedule in Tokyo follows:

Saturday, July 8—Canada versus Rikkyo University.

Monday, July 10—Canada versus All-Japan.

Tuesday, July 11—Canada versus All-Japan.

Postal Insurance Nine May Represent Tokyo In Inter-City Series

The Postal Insurance baseball team Monday won the right to meet the Fujikura Electric Company nine, last year's winner, in a three-game series to decide the representative squad for Tokyo in the annual national inter-city championship series, sponsored by the Tokyo Nichi Nichi, by defeating the Meidensha team, 3 to 1 at the Korakuen stadium.

Pitcher Nototani had a good day and checked the losers to three hits.

The summaries:

GIANTS WIN FIVE STRAIGHT, BEATING PIRATES

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK June 12—Heights believed unattainable for them were scaled by the Giants at the Polo Grounds yesterday as they bagged a doubleheader with the floundering Pirates, swept clean a three-games series and raised their winning streak to five straight—a new high for the Terrymen this year.

All this happened before an admiring crowd of 34,749 sweltering fans who saw the Stoneham clan conclude its home stand with a record of nine victories and six reverses.

By striking often against a quartet of Pie Traynor's hurlers the Giants won this twin bill. They moved Joe Bowman, an old Giant, out of the box under a five-hit, five-run bruising in two innings to take the opener, 7 to 3, despite a heroic bit of relief hurling by Jim Tobin.

In the nightcap the Terrymen leaped swiftly on Bill Swift, shelling him to cover with a four-hit barrage that included Mel Ott's tenth homer of the year and meant four runs before a man was retired in the first inning.

ERRORS TIE SCORE

And after Manuel Salvo faltered and Cliff Melton saw the enemy pull even on a couple of errors in the sixth, Alex Kampouris, a replace for Burgess Whitehead, poled his first homer of the campaign in the eighth inning to give the Giants the spoils, 5 to 4.

The net result of all this was a decided improvement in the National League standing, so far as it affected the Giants. They jumped from sixth to fifth place, half a game back of the Cubs.

Harry Gumbert notched his seventh triumph with an eight-hit performance in the opener because in the eleven hits the Giants collected off Bowman and Tobin were five extra base blows, all of them concentrated in the first two innings. Billy Jurges's first homer of the year drove out Bowman with two out in the second, when the Giants scored five times.

A double by Jurges was wasted in the first inning. But in the second Zeke Bonura doubled and, with two out, Whitehead tripled, Gumbert singled, Jo-Jo Moore doubled and Jurges slapped a ball into the lower left-field stand to score behind Moore.

BRUBAKER HITS FOR CIRCUIT

After that nothing that the Pirates did mattered, not even the fifth homer struck this season by Bill Brubaker, who connected as a belated gesture in the ninth with two gone.

The nightcap was a nightmare for Traynor and his Pirates. They got off to a one-run lead on Arky Vaughn's triple and Lloyd Waner's single off Salvo.

But Moore greeted Swift with a single, Jurges singled, Danning singled, scoring Moore, and Ott banged his tenth homer clear over the rightfield roof against the wind, boosting the Giant total to four runs.

Bob Klinger came on to turn back the Terrymen scoreless until the eighth inning. In the meantime the bold Buccaneers routed Salvo with a three-hit assault for two runs in the third, and in the sixth scored another run to tie on erros by Melton and Frank Demaree.

Kampouris's eighth-inning homer led to drastic measures by Manager Traynor in the ninth, when he sent in Fern Bell, Tobin and Johnny Rizzo as pinch hitters and Jack Juelich as a pinch runner as the enemy filled the bases with two out. However, Melton was hurriedly removed and Dick Coffman came in. Lee Handley hit a grounder which forced Brubaker at third.

DODGERS SPLIT WITH REDS IN TWINBILL

By ROSCOE McGOWEN

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK June 12—The Dodgers, the Reds and a season's record crowd of 35,938 for Ebbets Field upset everything save the Trylon and the Perisphere as the league leaders and the thirdplacers split a double-header in two overtime struggles yesterday.

Doubles by Bill Werber, Ival Goodman and Frank McCormick gave the Reds two runs in the tenth inning and the victory in the opener, 3—1. These blows also handed Bucky Walters his eighth triumph and Hugh Casey his second setback.

McCormick's eleventh homer in the second frame and Johnny (Mr. Chips) Hudson's two-bagger in the ninth, which scored Ernie Koy, had brought about the deadlock. An ill-advised attempt by Pete Coscarart to score from third on a short fly to Harry Craft by Lippy Leo Durocher probably prevented the Dodgers from winning the first game in nine innings.

LUCK IS WITH BROOKLYN

But Lady Luck was riding with the Durochers in the nightcap, from which they emerged in front in the eleventh frame by a 9—8 count. Hudson was in the middle, and literally, of the winning play.

Johnny scored, believe it or not, on the failure of his manager to lay down a squeeze bunt on the third strike. Leo had tried and failed on the second strike delivered by Johnny Vander Meer, and then, with a determination that was equaled only by its seeming foolhardiness, tried again on a high pitch.

Durocher missed the ball completely and Johnny seemed to be hopelessly trapped. Big Cyrano Lombardi chased Hudson back to third, then threw the ball to Werber. Bill started the reverse pursuit and then heaved the ball so wildly that Hudson dodged across the plate while Lombardi was trying to recover the errant sphere.

The vast crowd, which had been in alternate states of joy and despair, went wild. Thousands stormed out on the field and more snowstorms of torn paper, which earlier had been sent out as tokens of Flatbush displeasure toward their heroes, came down in joyful clouds.

WYATT WINNING HURLER

The winning pitcher was Whitlow Wyatt, whose last previous appearance on the mound was against the same Reds in Cincinnati on May 21. On that date Whit had to be carried off the field in the second inning with a badly injured left leg. Yesterday he couldn't run but he could pitch pretty well, as he demonstrated in the tenth and eleventh.

What was the winning run at the moment was scored off Whit in the eleventh on Frenchy Bordagaray's Texas League single, his theft of second and Billy Myers's single to center. But the run should not have scored, because Bordy was picked off first by a wide margin and only Blimp Phelps's bad throw to Dolf Camilli gave Frenchy a life.

However, Camilli opened the Dodger half of the eleventh with a slicing two-bagger to left and promptly rode home with the tying run on Koy's line single to center. Ernie was out trying to stretch the blow, but Hudson drew a pass and Phelps, who had tied the score in the ninth with a three-run double, lined another two-bagger to left center that sent Johnny to third. Ray Hayworth, batting for Gene Moore, walked and this set the stage for D'Artagnan Durocher's most extraordinary move.

LIFTED FOR PINCH HITTER

Freddy Fitzsimmons started the nightcap and left for a pinch hitter in the eighth with the Reds leading, 5—4. Only one of the five Red runs was earned. Ira Hutchinson pitched the next frame and yielded two more tainted tallies on Craft's double, Cookie Lavagetto's three-base wild throw of Bordagaray's bunt and a passed ball for Phelps.

Three of the Reds' runs off Fitz were banged in by McCormick's double in the third, all being put on base by Hudson's fumble of Werber's grounder after two were out.

Koy, Hudson and Al Todd combined a single, double and sacrifice fly for two in the second off Lee Grissom, and Camilli's eleventh homer, following a pass to Fred Sington, tied the score in the third. Bordagaray's triple and Myers's sacrifice fly untied it in the fourth.

Sington, Koy and Hudson filled the bases against Whitey Moore in the ninth on Myers's error and two singles and Phelps's terrific two-bagger hit the base of the wall in left center to clear the bases and tie the score.

The Fire Fountain

Fire and water flowing simultaneously from the same fountain, have been a familiar paradox in Colfax, Louisiana, for more than 40 years. The fountain came into existence in 1899 through an attempt to drill a water well. A mixture of salt water and gas bubbled forth instead of the hoped-for drinking water. The gas was ignited to prevent it from endangering the town.

IN FIRST WORKOUT FOR GAMES HERE

Members of the visiting Canadian basketball team pose after their first workout Tuesday night at the Meiji Shrine Outer Gardens court.

CANADIAN CAGERS HAVE WORKOUT; ARE PRAISED BY LOCAL EXPERT

Warm praise for the Canadian basketball team, which arrived Tuesday morning, was expressed by Ri So Haku, director of the Japan Basketball Association and one of the best known experts in this sport in the country, Tuesday night after he had seen the squad go through its first workout at the outdoor court of the Meiji Shrine Outer Gardens.

The Canadians, averaging six feet in height, are shifty on their feet and handle the ball exceptionally well, Ri said. The speed with which each player gets the ball away is going to cause the Japanese teams plenty of trouble defending their goals, he said.

Despite the long ocean trip, the Canadians showed plenty of pep in their workout and appeared to be in first class condition. Although the basketball season in Canada closed in March, the team has been practising three times a week in preparation for the jaunt to Japan, and went through an hour's limbering up each day while aboard steamer enroute here.

According to Captain Joe Ross, who plays center, the team is composed in the main of graduates of British Columbia University in Vancouver. It won the All-Canadian championships in 1937 and 1938. Prior to sailing from Vancouver, the team met the Washington University squad, one of the strongest in American inter-collegiate circles, and lost by close scores, attesting to its caliber.

An All-Japan team met virtually the same Washington University team last February at Manila and lost all games but only after a duel all the way through. All of which would mean that the visiting Canadian team and the All-Japan squad are evenly matched.

Captain Ross said Tuesday night that his team will be playing in an outdoor court for the first time, and this is cause for some misgiving. He said also that the climate at present in Tokyo is a bit too hot for his team-mates.

Questioned by reporters as to the team's style of defense, Captain Ross said it may use the zone defense at times but will mostly employ the man to man system.

Members of the Canadian team and their positions follow:

Forwards: Art Willoughby, Jimmy Bardsley, Dick Wright, Al Beaton, and Sonny Watson.

Center: Joe Ross and Milton Parsons.

Guards: Emmett Ritchie, Jack Gordon, and George Silborne.

Peter Winckler is manager and Fred Bolton is trainer.

The Canadians will make their debut in Tokyo on Friday night against Waseda University at the Meiji Shrine Outer Gardens court.

Only Tennis Players Will Be Invited Here

Plan of the Board of Tourist Industry to invite 20 athletes of various sports from the United States this year has fizzled out.

The Board, which had voluntarily informed the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation of its intentions and requested cooperation for realization of the plan, on Monday notified the Federation that it had changed its plans and now intends to invite only tennis players to these shores.

INDIANS BEAT ATHLETICS, 4-3 AND 3-2

CLEVELAND, June 11—The Indians advanced to third place in the American League today by taking both ends of a double-header from the Athletics, 4 to 3 and 3 to 2.

Both contests were decided by Outfielder Jeff Heath, who singled in the ninth inning of the first game to drive in the winning run and whose home run in the sixth frame of the nightcap gave the Indians their third and decisive score.

The Tribe's "iron man," Willis Hudlin, scored his sixth victory of the year in the opener, scattering ten hits while his team-mates were getting to Henry Pippen for eleven. Lovil (Chubby) Dean, who replaced Pippen in the ninth, yielded two.

Cleveland got to George Caster for eight safe blows in the finale as the southpaw, Al Milnar, held the visitors to seven.

MISS JACOBS IS DEFEATED AT WIMBLEDON

Domei Tsushin

WIMBLEDON, July 4—Miss Alice Marble, Mrs. Sarah Palfry Fabyan, both of the United States; Mrs. Svend Sperling, of Denmark, and Miss Katherine Stammers, of England, today gained the semi-final round of the Wimbledon Championships by victories over their respective opponents today.

Miss Helen Jacobs, who reached the finals of last year's tournament only to be beaten by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, was today eliminated by Miss Stammers. The California star lacked the zip she displayed last year and succumbed in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2.

Miss Marble's victory was over the strong Polish contender, Miss J. Jedzrejowska, whom she defeated 6-1, 6-4, Mrs. Fabyan defeated the French star, Madame Rene Mathieu, 6-4, 6-3. The other semi-finalist, Mrs. Svend Sperling, whipped Miss Mary Hardwick, of England, 6-4, 6-0.

In the men's doubles, meanwhile, John S. Olliff and R. V. Shayes, of England, defeated the American couple of Donald MacNeill and Eugene Smith in five hard-fought sets, 6-8, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4. The victory for the Englishmen was notable in view of the fact that MacNeill and Smith earlier won over the seeded players, Georg von Metaxa and Henner Henkel.

AUSTIN LOSES

Domei Tsushin

WIMBLEDON, July 3—Ranked seventh in the national standings, but little known in international tennis circles, Elwood T. Cooke, powerful American racquetwielder, today catapulted himself into the limelight by decisively whipping the veteran Henry "Bunny" Austin of England in straight sets and moving into the select circle of semi-finalists at Wimbledon.

The defeat of Austin at the hands of a comparatively "unknown" American, however, was not totally unexpected as the English champion has not participated in many competitions this year. He declined to accept a position on the English Davis Cup squad because of the pressure of business.

AMAZING PROGRESS

Cooke, on the other hand, has made amazing progress during the past year. In the latter part of March, at Bermuda, Cooke lost, but only after a grim five-set match, to Robert Riggs in the finals of the Bermuda Championships. In the semi-final round, Cooke decisvely defeated Wayne Sabin.

In today's match, Austin proved no match for the powerful, stocky American who scored at will with his spectacular baseline drives and unerring overhead smashes. Austin, veteran of many a Wimbledon Championships, could garner only four games. He dropped one set at love. The scores were, 6-3, 6-0, 6-1, Cooke winning.

Other quarter-final singles matches today saw Henner Henkel of Germany, Bobby Riggs of the United States, and Ferenc Puncec of Yugoslavia sweep into the semi-final round.

Henkel, Germany's outstanding star, had little difficulty in overcoming the Yugoslav Davis Cup player F. Kukuljevic in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

RIGGS WINS

Bobby Riggs, whom many tennis experts expect will win the Wimbledon crown which was held last year by the peerless Donald J. Budge, swept through the Indian champion, Caus Mohammed, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. Riggs had the Indian player at his mercy and scored repeatedly with beautiful passing shots and tantalizing volleys.

In the other match, Ferenc Puncec, Yugoslavia's first ranking player triumphed easily over the American player Eugene Smith in straight sets, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2.

The Wimbledon Championships, which annually draws the greatest amateur players in the world, this year did not see the sparkling play of John Bromwich and Adrian Quist, members of the Australian Davis Cup team. The Australian team, which faces the United States in the American Zone finals of the Davis Cup series, is devoting its entire time to practice.

Auctioneer, 45, Swims 288 Miles in U.S. For New World's Mark

Domei Tsushin

GLENDIVE, Montana, July 3—Clarence Giles, 45-year old auctioneer today completed a 288-mile world's record-breaking swim down the Yellowstone River from Billings, Yellowstone County, Montana, to Glendive, Dawson County, Montana.

Starting his dangerous swim last Friday at 12:30 in the afternoon, Giles stayed in the water for 77 and a half hours. When the intrepid swimmer was hauled out of the water, he was badly bruised and had a black eye due to frequent contacts with rocks and other obstacles.

The former record was 281 miles. The mark was established in 1933 by Pedra Candiotti who swam down the Parana River, which flows through Paraguay and Brazil.

PERSISTENCY WON PITCHER JOB WITH YANKS

By RUD RENNIE

N.Y. Herald Tribune

ST. LOUIS, June 10—Five years ago Atley Donald had to remind the Yankees that they promised to give him a chance to show what he could do. Today he is one of the undefeated pitchers in the American League, up at the top with six victories.

There is not another player on the team who was not thoroughly scouted, signed and tried before receiving a precious Yankee uniform. Donald had to talk his way into the clubhouse at St. Petersburg, Fla., in 1934, and then talk some more to get permission to work out.

Johnny Nee, one of the Yankee round-up men who haunt the colleges and the sandlots in search of likely looking talent to be raised on the farms for the benefit of the Big Team, had taken a few squints at Donald in 1933, when he was pitching for Louisiana Tech. Donald's coach had advised Nee that he had a promising young right-hander on the squad. Nee looked, but was not deeply impressed by what he saw.

CONVERSATION COOLS SCOUT

Donald was a well built broad-shouldered kid, but he didn't have anything that a lot of other pitchers didn't have as far as Nee could see. Furthermore, a talk with Donald cooled Nee off almost entirely. Donald wasn't interested in playing professional baseball.

But Donald changed his mind before the year was out. He had his coach write a letter to Ed Barrow, then general manager of the Yankees. But nothing happened.

Donald, however, was not discouraged. He gathered his duds and piled into a bus in Chandrant, La., and rode to St. Petersburg in the Winter of 1934. He knew the Yankees would be along some time late in February. He would wait for them. While waiting, he worked in a grocery store, and contacted Nee, who lives in St. Petersburg.

Nee remembered him and told him to come around when the team arrived. Then the scout forgot all about it. Donald was just another youngster who had not impressed him.

AWARDED WHEELING CONTRACT

So when the team arrived for Spring training and Donald presented himself at the clubhouse, no one had ever heard of him, no one was expecting him, and Joe McCarthy wasn't especially interested. But knowing from experience that the quickest and easiest way to get rid of strangers who want to try out for the team is to give them a uniform and let them try, McCarthy gave Donald permission to join in the practice.

The writers took casual note of Donald's presence. They even got his name wrong, referring to him when they had to as "Donald Atley." He created no stir in the Yankee camp. But he wasn't called in and told to stay away. He stuck. And he showed enough to warrant a contract with the Wheeling club.

That was the beginning. From then on, Donald went through the mill, Wheeling, Norfolk, Binghamton and Newark.

After he pitched for Newark in 1937, the Yankees brought him up. Next Spring when he again came to St. Petersburg, his reception was different. There was no question about letting him into the clubhouse or giving him a uniform. He was one of the mob.

The Yankees brought Donald North with them last year. He started a few games. Then, when it came time to cut the squad to bring the team within the player limit, Donald was sent back to Newark on option. He had been down with influenza in the Winter. He wasn't strong. But he managed to win sixteen while losing only seven for Newark, and he fanned 138 men and walked only eighty-three.

So he was recalled and taken South again this year. Again he was one of the flock of rookies trying hard to win himself a place on the team. This time, he made it.

He made his season's bow as a relief pitcher in that ten-inning game in Cleveland on May 3 which was eventually won by Murphy.

FIRST VICTORY MAY 9

His first victory was gained in relief against the White Sox in Chicago on May 9. Then, on May 18, he made his first start against the St. Louis Browns, and won, yielding only six hits.
